Poipu suffered extensive wind and water damage during Hurricane Iwa, which smashed into the islands on Nov. 23, 1982. Federal and state officials estimated Iwa caused more than $150 million damage on Kauai. and about $50 million on Oahu, which includes Honolulu. Kauai is northwest of Oahu.

Political cruise to host conference for women

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI - The company that operates riverboats which ply the mighty Mississippi steers into new currents next year when it sponsors a cruise featuring some of the nation's most prominent women politicians.

The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. is sponsoring a caucus of women executives and politicans Feb. 14-17 aboard its Mississippi Queen riverboat. The guest list includes U.S. Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole, the wife of Republican Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, and Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan.

Former vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro also will join the guest list.

Patrick Fahey, executive vice president, said the conference

"reflects the new direction of the company, which is much more promotion-oriented."

Delta Queen has undergone two years of major change following a change of ownership. Earlier this year, the company moved its headquarters to New Orleans from Cin-

Fahey said it was a challenge arranging the political cruise. But everything "sort of dovetailed together" once the Democratic and Republican national committees decided to cooperate, Fahey said.

"Once we got Ferraro, it didn't take them long to get Dole and Kassebaum," said Lynn Cutler, vice chairperson of the Democratic National Committee. "I think it's the first time something like this has been done for women in business. I'm really excited about working with businesswomen."

Spotlight

(Monday through Thursday)

"Agnes of God" — Wareham; 4:50, 7 and 9:15 p.m. "Silver Bullet" — Campus; 5, 7 and 9 p.m.

"Jagged Edge" - Varsity; 4:50, 7 and 9:10 p.m. "After Hours" - Westloop; 4:45, 7 and 9:15 p.m. "Commando" - Westloop; 5:10, 7:10 and 9:10 p.m. "Suburbia" - Little Theatre; 7:30 p.m. Wednesday

ART EXHIBITS

Ceramics by Jeaneane Johnson - Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours

Botanical Prints - Union Art Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Watercolors by Rick Forsyth and James Jones -Strecker Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily

SPECIAL EVENTS

"Nooner" - Union Catskeller; noon to 1 p.m.

Spotlight is a semiweekly calendar of entertainment events in the Manhattan area. Entries should be mailed to the Collegian in care of the Arts and Entertainment editor, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Professors win $202,000 grant

Videos to show physics laws

By JANE KRIEGER Collegian Reporter

and 3:30 and 7:30 Thursday

For students having problems understanding physics concepts, two K-State professors and an associate dean at the University of Toronto are developing videodiscs of the concepts using elite athletes in the illustrations.

John Eck, former professor of physics; Larry Noble, professor of physical education, dance and leisure studies; and Dean Zollman, professor of physics, received a National Science Foundation grant of more than $202,000 in August. The professors will use the grant to develop videodiscs of elite athletes in action to teach physics principles to high school students.

"We will be trying to teach ideas like forces, Newton's law, velocity and acceleration," Zollman said.

The professors will use athletes at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., for filming, Zollman said.

"In some cases we will be using athletes from K-State if they are available," he said.

Elite athletes will be used because they are consistent. They demonstrate relevant mechanics to a greater extent than mediocre or poor athletes and make motion look effortless, Noble said.

Videodiscs will be used instead of videotapes because videotapes wear through when stopped or played in slow motion, Zollman said. With a

Comedian

Robert

Friday, November 1.

"A funny evening of singing, clowning, and improvising.

Order tickets early!

(913) 532-6428

Tickets and information:

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

MasterCard/Visa accepted.

Klein

8:00 p.m.

videodisc, viewers have random access to material on the disc because they can stop or play a sequence in slow motion. Computer generated graphic overlays will plot the motion of the athlete. For example, a dotted line could trace the path of a high jumper to illustrate a parabola.

The project was designed through cooperative effort of three faculty members who were involved with slightly different aspects of the same idea, Zollman said.

Eck was the driving force for the grant and originated the idea of using athletes to demonstrate physics problems. He has since left the University to become the associate dean of the graduate school at the University of Toronto. He wanted to develop improved teaching material for high schools and brought Noble into the project.

Eck and Noble fused their ideas about teaching physics with sports and combined them with Zollman's videodisc work.

Zollman said they compiled a list of uses for the videodisc programs to present to the grant committee.

For example, to illustrate

Newton's second law dealing with gravity, they could make a videodisc showing how a sprinter starts a race, an archer uses a bow or a weight lifter lifts weights. To demonstate momentum, they could show a basketball player switching directions in the air or how different balls rebound from surfaces.

Zollman and Noble will consult video experts to check the feasibility in terms of filming. Noble is a sports biomechanist, an expert in filming and analyzing motion, and will do the Zollman said he expects to complete the project in two years. The project will be completed when the videodisc is filmed, edited, tested in high schools and revised based on the information from the testing.

"We will keep it going during the year and really push hard during the summer," Zollman said.

The videodiscs will be edited by Zollman, then videotapes will be sent to high schools with lesson plans. The high school teachers will send back their comments and the videodisc will be sent to a committee of video experts for review

Conference focuses on farm bill

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. Representatives of agriculture departments from 49 states convene here today for their 97th annual conference, but their eyes will be turned toward Washington, where the Senate is debating the 1985 farm bill.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary John R. Block is to address the members of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, or NASDA, on Monday night.

Throughout the three-day conference, delegates will debate resolutions on policy for the nation's beleagured farmers that were passed earlier this year during regional meetings.

On Wednesday, the agriculture officials will vote on those resolutions and, said NASDA President Larry Werries of Illinois, send a message to Congress on farm bill issues such as subsidies, market loans, the credit system and dairy price supports.

"It's sometimes difficult for the group to settle on a singular course of actions as far as the farm bill because of the diverse nature of the group," Werries said last Friday after arriving in this resort.

He said that he heard much discussion of market loans, a concept first suggested by the National Corn Growers Association, when he attended regional NASDA meetings in the West, Northwest, Midwest and

"The market loan would be a recourse loan to the farmer extended at harvest time," with the farmer guaranteed that he will not have to make the entire loan payment if his crops do not draw enough money at market, Werries said.

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

Any Single Liquor Call or Premium Drink Only $1.50

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE adda to the delication

> Memberships available 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT Featuring Bottles of

Mae's Favorite Beers From Across the Seas $1.25

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR HEELS WHILE YOU WAIT

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4 Open 'til 8 Thursdays Drive-Up Convenience 401 Humboldt 776-1193 great for treats—a bag of 10 for only a $4.00 value! They're good all year long at any Vista, for FREE Vista Creme Cones.

And to make the season really special. Vista has Halloween Meals for kids. A special box....with a surprise inside. A real treat for a tavorite youngster

Halloween Meals

Offer good while supplies last.

through October 31, 1985 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd

JUMP FOR JOY

TINTED EXTENDED WEAR soft contact lenses are now available along with:

- ★Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color
- of your eyes) ★Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for
- astigmatism) ★Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- *Regular type (for near- and far-sightedness) ★Toric (for Astigmatism)

★Oxygen Permeable (rigid) Replacement Lenses

& Solutions in Stock PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH

> Practice of Optometry A Professional Association

776-9461 Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt Manhattan, KS

ISLAM IN AMERICA

A Public Lecture by:

Steve A. Johnson

(Ph.D. in philosophy)

Editor of Islamic Horizons International and Director of Islamic Teaching Center in Plainfield, Indiana.

Date: Tuesday, October 29, 1985

Time: 7 p.m.

Place: Forum Hall, K-State Union. Sponsored by Muslim Community Association.

4 ways to pick up a date while entering the General Foods International Coffees Sweepstakes.

1. Go to the Bookstore this week.

2. Sample Sugar Free Suisse Mocha...and spill a drop on your prospective date's sneakers.

3. Borrow their lucky pen to fill out the "Week In Switzerland" entry form below.

4. Pick up your free poster ... and ask their advice on where to hang it!

Health department relocates

By JONIE R. TRUED Collegian Reporter

After occupying six different locations during the past five years, the Manhattan-Riley County Health Department has found a permanent Mayor Suzanne Lindamood, Bill Townsend, president of the Riley County Board of Health and other members of the board participated in ribbon-cutting ceremonies Sunday at the department's new home, 2030 Tecumseh Road.

The ceremonies also commemorated the 100th anniversary of Public Health Service in Kansas.

'We are very pleased to have a nice facility that meets our needs and the needs of the public we serve," said Chuck Murphy, director of the health department.

The health department has been looking for a permanent home since June 1982, Murphy said, after a Dec. 1, 1980, fire displaced the department from its old location on Poyntz

After the fire the department occupied several temporary locations. It was housed in the basement of the Riley County Courthouse, the Wareham Hotel annex and an unoccupied wing in the hotel and the basement of Raoul's Escondido, 215 Seth Childs Road. The department moved into its new facility in July, 1985, Murphy said.

The constant moving, he said, caused "considerable frustration to clients" because the health department was hard to find and sometimes in substandard locations, which also resulted in a reduction of

However, it is seeing increases in almost all programs now, Murphy

Murphy said the project was funded with city, county, state and federal funds. The city and county each contributed $160,000, with an additional $90,000 coming from grants, state funds and fees, he said.

The health department operates services in both clinical and environmental areas. Clinical services include home health nurse visits, hypertension screening, family planning, the Kansas Crippled Children's Program, the Women, Infants and Children program, vaccinations and the Lively Project, a health and wellness screening program for persons 60 and older.

Environmental services include day care licensing and restaurant inspections.

Kim Bascom, R.N., said, "The health department serves everyone. We don't refuse anyone."

Presentation of mall designs to begin in public meetings

By The Collegian Staff

Two long-awaited activities regarding construction of the Manhattan Regional Shopping Mall are to become reality tonight and Tuesday.

In two separate public meetings, the Manhattan Community Development Department will make the first public presentation of the architectural and streetscape designs for the mall.

The first meeting, scheduled for 7 tonight at the Community House, 4th and Humboldt streets, will present the overall design for the Manhattan Regional Shopping

Areas to be presented include an overview of the mall, the sculpture and plaza design, parking lot and streetscape concepts.

Among those presenting designs will be representatives of Forest City Rental Properties of Cleveland, one of the mall development companies, and RTKL Associates, architects for the $24 million project.

Also scheduled for presentation are design drawings for an environmental sculpture, which will be placed in the Public Plaza, to be located at the intersection of Third Street and Poyntz Avenue. The designs are to be presented by Athena Tacha, who has been commissioned for the sculpture.

The second meeting, for 7 Tuesday at the Community House, is to focus on a review of the streetscape area and design con-

Although the Manhattan City Commission has agreed the developers will have the final say in design, the public meetings are designed to allow public input and reaction to the plans presented.

In other local governmental meetings, the Intergovernmental Meeting of city, county, school district and University representatives will be held at noon today at the University Ramada Inn's Executive Room.

The meeting's discussion is to focus on the streetscape timetable and plans toward dedication of the Courthouse Plaza at Fifth Street and Poyntz Avenue.

Sondheim medley delights audience

By LAURIE FAIRBURN Chief Copy Editor

For those with a cursory involvement in musical theater, the name Sondheim doesn't have instant recognition. Not the way a mentioning of Hammerstein causes one to hum a tune from "Oklahoma!"

Keview

But, after an evening with "Side By Side By Sondheim," performed by a five-member ensemble of the Missouri Repertory Theatre, his impact on the advancement of musical theater is brought to light. Friday in McCain Auditorium, an audience was whisked through nearly 30 years of brilliant lyrics and toe-tapping music, cleverly entwined with tidbits about the life of Stephen Sondheim.

Of course the audience could not have experienced such delight but for the infectious performance of the cast.

Although the audience seemed resistant to the first few numbers, they were cajoled and then truly charmed by the effervescence of cast members Valerie Fagan, Larry Hansen, Sandee Johnson, Curtis Shaw and Tricia Witham. Pianist Mark Houston, not content to sit back and let them have all the fun, entertained the audience with stories about Sondheim's life struggles and suc-

Sondheim's work doesn't require costume changes or heavy

HEE'S Alterations

All types of alterations

*free pregnancy tests

*gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Do your part

for the Royal Purple

Oct. 29: Off-Campus

yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if the Collegian for photo schedules.

you're in organized housing, follow

TODAY: Alpha Gamma Delta & Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

*outpatient abortion services

*alternatives counseling

Coats

Jeans

associates

1125 Laramie Plaza

Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30

776-7959

props in this revue. A Sondheim tune is a story in itself and none suffered by being removed from its original production. The cast provided transition with a simple stance, a subtle glance, yet one couldn't miss a change in mood or character. A G-string ladden with tiny lightbulbs helped to grind the point home during "You Gotta Get a Gimmick" from "Gypsy" and similar props provided a whimsical tone that seemed as bashful and daring as they did outrageous. The audience was treated to 28 tunes exemplifying Sondheim's genius in lyric and song. Melodies instantly recognizable from "West Side Story," "Gypsy" and "Follies," were combined with those lesser-known, but just as wonderful.

The ensemble carried the audience through a scale of emotions as wide as the vocal range of its members. From sentiment and sympathy in "A Boy Like That" from "West Side Story," to jubilation in "Comedy Tonight," the players awakened every sensation and brought it to the surface. Once the audience caught the Sondheim fever, they collectively showed growing appreciation with applause, reminiscent sighs and murmurs of contentment. The electricity generated between the cast and the audience charged the air to the deepest corners of the auditorium. A four-time Tony Award winner, Sondheim was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in drama for his latest musical, "A Sunday in the Park with George," in 1984

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Thieves, car stereos become 'hot' issue "The dollar value is what is con-By TONI OGLESBY Collegian Reporter

Car stereos are "hot" items this year, a KSU Police Department investigator said. Car stereos are the main item being taken from cars this year and the number of these thefts has increas-"The number of thefts is up but not way up," said Richard W. Herrman, an investigator for the campus police.

This fall 12 stereos and seven or eight smaller items such as back packs have been stolen, Herrman siderably higher. The stereos that are being taken are really highdollar stereos," he said.

The cost of the stereo and equipment is not the only financial loss to the car owners. The vehicle is often damaged by burglars breaking into the car by either breaking a window or using a clothes hanger. There is also damage to the dash from the stereo being removed.

"They (the burglars) are just tearing them out," Herrman said.

There are several precautions students can take to assist the campus police in reducing car burglaries.

"Of course make sure your vehicle is locked and don't leave any valuables in plain view," Herrman

These precautions, though, don't always help to decrease stereo

What's important is to have the serial number and the brand, make and model of this equipment recorded and kept in a secure place, Herrman said. Then, if the item is taken, the number and description can be entered into a computer which is connected with the National Crime Information Center in Washington,

"The problem is very few people have a record of the serial number.' Herrman said. "Although this doesn't necessarily help prevent burglaries, it increases the chances of getting the items back."

Take Advantage of Joyce's sale on perms

Warm & Gentle $38 Selective Action $35 Apple Pectin $32

Get a FREE 30 minute tanning session with a perm

All perms include cut and style

404 Humboldt 539-TAME

317 Houston 539-8601

Must present this ad Offer good thru Oct. 31

THE TIME IS COMING FOR K-STATE BASKETBALL TICKETS AVAILABLE NOV. 3

........ Are You Interested in Economics? Organizational Meeting for Econ Club

Monday, Oct. 28, 4 p.m. Waters Hall 329

All Majors are Welcome!

......

Come Try Our Tanning Beds!

Mon.-Fri. 9-9 Sat. 9-6 Sun. Noon-9

- * $4 for 30 min. session
- ★ $30 for 10 sessions
- ★ Special designed cooling system
- ★ Fingertip stereo control

1214C Moro

776-7874

WILD DJ • PROFESSIONAL PHOTOGRAPHER FIRST 300 PEOPLE after 6 p.m. RECEIVE A FREE BUD LIGHT FRIGHT NIGHT MUG CONTESTS, PRIZES, CRAZY SPECIALS

LIVE APPEARANCE BY the GREAT PUMPKIN YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO A HALLOWEEN PARTY UNTIL YOU'VE BEEN TO BROTHER'S GET YOUR COSTUME & JOIN US AT BRO'S 1120 MORO NO COVER CHARGE WITH COSTUME 539-9064

Tudio 32 Four experienced hair stylists to serve you

Tina & Arleen Marcia & Ted "formally Alicia & Co." "formerly Hair Experts"

Call for appointment or just walk in. Candlewood Shopping Center 776-8830 3266 Kimball Ave. (Across from CICO park) Mon.-Sat.

Lowell Davis, America's favorite folk artist, is headed your way in his newest addition to "FoxFire Farm" . . . the "Leapin' Lizzard."

So why not drop by and have a gander at our display of Lowell's FoxFire Farm figurines and collectibles depicting the farm life he lives and loves. Lowell loves to ramble on and spin yarns about his fully restored 1930s style FoxFire Farm where he lives with his beloved family and his favorite animals.

Get all the behind-the-scenes stories about Lowell's work, the antics of his farm animals, and have your purchase signed by Lowell himself.

> Call to reserve yours Thursday, Oct. 31 4-6 p.m.

Register Thurs. for a free signed, dated Christmas ornament

5th & Poyntz 776-9067 Layaway plan available

'Cats knock off Mizzou for first win, 20-17

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo. - A winner at

After a season full of frustration and adversity, K-State can finally claim its first victory of 1985, a 20-17 comeback win over the University of Missouri at Faurot Field Satur-

"I told them (the players) it was going to happen," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said. "I thought we had more heart than they did and I thought we'd fight.

"What has happened to Missouri all year is that they haven't been able to hold a lead."

The Tigers, now 0-7, couldn't hold a lead on this Saturday afternoon either.

"We have to be able to finish them off," Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer said. "If you don't do that, you let them off the hook and they have a chance to come back and beat you.

"The only way that they (K-State) could have beaten us was the way that they did today. We beat ourselves. If we play them 30 times, we would win 29."

After Missouri running back Darrell Wallace, the game's leading rusher with 224 yards on 42 carries, scored a three-yard touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter to put K-State down 17-6, it appeared that Missouri would be able to cruise to their first victory of the

But this K-State team wasn't finished playing football for the afternoon. The Wildcats had a victory to steal from the Tigers.

"If we could hold our poise, no matter what the score was, I thought we could move the ball on them," Moon said. "And by the grace of God, a little good luck and some great concentration by Gerald Alphin, we got it (the win).

It was three pass receptions by Alphin, the K-State split end who led all receivers with eight receptions for 154 yards, that won the game for the Wildcats.

With 6:16 remaining in the game, Alphin made the first of his three crucial fourth-quarter receptions.

On first-and-10 on the Missouri 41-yard line, Alphin fought off a Tiger defensive back to catch a ball underthrown by K-State quarterback John Welch inside the 10-yard line and subsequently run it in for the touchdown. The touchdown brought the Wildcats into striking range, trailing 17-12.

"He was supposed to hit me in stride and I would beat the guy deep, but it didn't turn out like that," Alphin said of Welch's touchdown pass. "The ball was a little behind me and I just adjusted."

Alphin then was on the receiving end of a two-point conversion pass from Welch to pull the Wildcats to within 17-14.

After the Wildcat defense was able to stop the Missouri offense in three plays, K-State and Alphin were ready to go to work again with 4:44 left to play and the ball on their own 30.

However, the Tiger defense and three Wildcat penalties seemed to have K-State stopped at the Wildcat 42 with fourth-and-19 to go for a first down. Near 1:30 remained.

It was time for Alphin to make his biggest catch of the afternoon.

As Welch threw the ball up the middle of the field to the Tiger 10-yard line, Alphin first tipped the ball, then Missouri defensive back Erik McMillan tipped the ball and finally Alphin tipped the ball again and pulled in the pass to set up the go-ahead touchdown.

"I really didn't get too much time to think about it (how to catch the pass)," Alphin said. "I saw the ball (and) it was like total concentra-

K-State interim Head Coach Lee Moon gets carried off the field after the Wildcats defeated Missouri, 20-17, Saturday in Columbia. LEFT: Tight end Gerald Alphin catches a pass from quarterback John Welch on a crucial fourth-down play in the final minutes of the fourth quarter. The play set up the Wildcats' gamewinning touchdown as Welch hit wide receiver Todd Elder on a 10-vard pass to give K-State its first victory of the season.

Alphin's miraculous catch, however, wasn't part of a play called in the huddle, but rather an audible called at the line of scrimmage by Welch.

"It was about the only choice I had," said Welch, who had 271 yards passing in completing 19 of 28 passes. "We were in a situation where we had to have something joyed and tearful Moon said. "We big. It was an all or nothing play." After the completion of the next play, a 10-yard touchdown pass from Welch to flanker Todd Elder, K-State finally had itself a victory and a renewed sense of optimism to go along with it. 'We did the things we had to do to be a good football team," an overmade the plays we had to. This is great for the kids' confidence."

Missouri began the game's scoring in the first quarter, completing a 16-play, 85-yard drive which culminated in a three-yard touchdown by Wallace to put the Tigers up 7-0 after a successful extra-point attempt.

K-State drove 61 yards, but was forced to settle for a 27-yard field goal by Mark Porter with 6:41 left in the second quarter. At that point, the Wildcats trailed 7-3.

The Tigers struck on the next series, driving 54 yards for a 43-yard field goal by Tom Whelihan to move ahead 10-3.

K-State's Porter answered in kind, hitting from 29 yards on the next series to close the half and pull the Wildcats to within 10-6.

Two third quarter Missouri fumbles inside the K-State five-yard line probably cost the Tigers the victory.

Missouri outgained K-State 118 yards to one in the third quarter, but wasn't able to put a touchdown on the board.

Pizzolato rallies to win marathon

By The Associated Press

tion."

NEW YORK - Orlando Pizzolato of Italy wore down ailing Ahmed Saleh of Djibouti with a withering second-half surge Sunday and won the New York City Marathon for the second consecutive year.

Norway's Grete Waitz continued her domination among the women, placing first for the fourth straight time and the seventh time in the past eight years.

Neither first-place finisher, however, came close to approaching the world best or even breaking the course record because of the heat that plagued the record field of 18,168 starters. For the second year in a row, the temperature was in the 70s. But in contrast to 1984, the humidity was

Thus, the times for the winners favored Saleh, who had led from the were below last year's - Pizzolato race's midway point until just over finishing in 2 hours, 11 minutes, 34 seconds, Waitz in 2:28:33.

Last year, the 27-year-old Pizzolato was clocked in 2:14:53, the slowest winning time since 1975, the last year the 26-mile, 385-yard event was run in Central Park before it was moved into the city's five boroughs. The 32-year-old Waitz was timed in 2:29:30, her slowest since her first

New York City victory in 1978. Also because of the heat and humidity last year, Pizzolato struggled over the final five miles, stopping eight times because of stomach and leg cramps, and Waitz experienced extreme intestinal difficulties, a problem she has when running in warm conditions. This time, Pizzolato finished very strongly, rallying from 20th place at the 14-mile mark to overcome the two miles remained.

"My strategy was to start slow not very fast," said Pizzolato, who last April had finished sixth in the World Cup Marathon at Hiroshima, Japan, in a race won by Saleh. In that event, Pizzolato also was in 57th place at the 13.1-mile stage.

But he made up 51 places over the final 13.1 miles and finished in a personal best of 2:10:23. Saleh, an army captain in his small East African nation, took the lead Sunday at the halfway mark, slipping past a tiring Geoff Smith of Britain, the 1983 New York City runnerup and the 1984 and 1985 Boston Marathon winner.

He held it for the next 11 miles, but he said that he started experiencing severe leg cramps at about 19 miles. Pizzolato finally reeled him in five miles later.

"I told my players I've never been prouder of them," McCartney said after the Buffaloes took a 17-7 defeat at the hands of fifth-ranked Nebraska at Lincoln in a battle of

By The Associated Press

and-coming teams had some wind taken out of their sails Saturday in the Big Eight, although Colorado

Coach Bill McCartney said he thought his team had scored a moral victory.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Two up-the conference co-leaders. "I believe this is a step forward even though we didn't win. I normally never say that." In Lawrence, Kan., the Kansas Jayhawks hung with No. 12 Oklahoma State behind great defensive play before succumbing, Colorado falls short in upset bid

"It's a tough loss," said Jayhawks Coach Mike Gottfried. "We're getting better all the time. But this was a good team we played."

Tom Rathman broke open a close game with an 84-yard touchdown run late in the third quarter that lifted Nebraska, 6-1 overall and 3-0 in the league, into a 14-7 lead. "They had the edge of, 'Hey, we've stopped you guys so far,' said Huskers quarterback Travis Turner. "And to go 84 yards in one shot, it takes a little juice out of them. They weren't as effective on quarterback Rick Wheeler on its second offensive series with a knee injury. Reserve quarterback Craig Keenan scored the Buffs' only touchdown on a 2-yard run in the first quarter.

Colorado, 5-2 and 2-1, lost the Kansas 2.

"I thought we could run against them," Keenan said. "We just messed a few things up in the first half and that was my fault. I thought if we could clear those things up in the second half, we could have moved the ball."

Oklahoma State safety Mark Moore intercepted Jayhawks quarterback Mike Norseth to set up the winning drive for the Cowboys, 5-1 and 1-1. Thurman Thomas ran 1 yard for the winning score with 1:05 left two plays after he took a screen pass 30 yards to offense or defense the rest of the

Baseball squad suffers first loss of fall season

By DOUG SCHEIBE Staff Writer

It didn't happen until the last weekend of the season, but the K-State baseball team finally lost a game. They lost a 6-0 decision to Neb., on Saturday, but came back to blank Creighton in the second game of their doubleheader, 4-0.

Creighton had seven hits in the first game while K-State's usually potent offense was held to just five hits without scoring a run.

"They had good pitching," Head Coach Gary Vaught said. "Good pitching will take care of good hitting. The Cardinals are finding that out right now." The second game was a complete reversal of the first. K-State's pitching held Creighton to no runs on five hits, while the 'Cats used seven hits to score four runs. "The balls just didn't fall in the first game, and they did in the second. There was only one error in the two games. They were good games," Vaught said.

Sunday, K-State beat Northeastern Oklahoma Junior College 9-5, 7-0, 6-4. The first two games went seven innings and the third went only four.

Jeff Turtle had a home run and Creighton University of Omaha, three RBIs in the first game, and Gary Pridey and Brent Gibson each added two RBIs in the first game.

The second game was highlighted by K-State pitching. The 'Cats struck out 11 Northeastern Oklahoma batters while surrendering only two hits. The offense for K-State was led by Dan Skala and Pat Stivers who had two RBIs each.

"As far as pitching goes, we're right where we want to be," Pitching Coach Mark Smith said. "We've got 11 guys who all can go out and get the job done. As far as comparing us to last year, there's no comparison."

K-State won the shortened third game with six runs on only three hits. They scored two runs on wild pit-

Gamma Phi's, 'The Team' take cross country crowns

By MIKE McQUEEN Collegian Reporter

The four-division intramural cross-country competition was held Sunday afternoon at Warner Park.

The women's division was first, with 23 runners finishing the race. Gamma Phi Beta placed first in the team competition with a total of 23 points.

On the Gamma Phi team were Ann Gladbach, placing first with a time of 13:09.52; Sherry Mooney, second in 13:52.14; Bethany Jones, seventh in 15:15.88; and Jenny Clark, 13th in

Delta Delta Delta placed second with 48 team points, followed by Sigma Sigma Sigma with 58 total

Kathy Pierce, Kappa Kappa Gamma, placed third in women's individual competition with a time of

The independent division, with 18 finishers, followed the women's competition, with "The Team" placing first with a 35 point total. The Team's members were Craig Tuttle, placing sixth with a time of 11:14.41; Brent Hill, seventh in 11:21.40; Mike Heier, ninth in 11:58.48; Tim Parsons, 13th in 12:31.27; and Scott Johnson, 15th

In independent team competition, Red Tie Club grabbed second with 36 team points and Smith House placed third with 42 points. In the independent division, the individual results were Brian Zwahlen, taking first with a time of 10:11.45; David Greer, second with 10:22.05; and Daryl Reichard, third with 10:53.65. The residence hall division was next with Marlatt 1 earning 42 points and winning the competition. The Marlatt 1 team was composed of: Brian Stutheit placing fourth in 11:52.26; Eric Adee, eighth in 12:04.58; John Jensen, 10th in 12:52.64; and Lloyd Edwards, 20th in

There were 30 finishers in the residence hall division.

Moore 5 placed second with 45 team points followed by Marlatt 3 with 77 points.

Mike Dornbush placed first in the division with an individual time of 10:40.38

"The course was in pretty good condition as far as cross-country courses are concerned," said Dornbusch, junior in computer science.

"After running in the Heartland 10K yesterday (Saturday), my legs are still tight.

Individually in the residence hall division, David Matthews placed second in 11:42.82 and Sergio Carranza finished third in 11:50.37.

The final and largest division was the fraternity division. The event had 72 finishers.

The Sigma Chi team won the competition with 27 team points. The team included: Mike Rinella taking fourth at 10:58.80; John Saul, sixth in 11:02.46: Bill Klemz, seventh in 11:03.36; and Paul Hornbach, 10th in 11:11.02.

The Theta Xi team placed second with 36 total points and Sigma Alpha Epsilon took third with 68 team

The individual top three winners in the division were: Steve Groth placing first in 10:29.77; Brian Tummons, second in 10:43.42; and Brad Ogden, third in 10:47.69.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

K-State pitcher Brad Harvick warms up between the sixth and seventh inning of Sunday's second game against Northeastern Oklahoma University. Harvick pitched a shut-out as the Wildcats swept the three-game series 9-5, 7-0 and 6-4 and ended the fall season with a 17-1 record.

Spikers win Oral Roberts Invitational

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

After a tough loss to the University of Oklahoma on Thursday opened their journey south on a sour note, the K-State volleyball team bounced back and won the Oral Roberts Invitational held Friday and Saturday.

The Wildcats opened their swing through Oklahoma by facing the Sooners in a Big Eight match and for the second time in the conference season the Sooners were victorious, 15-11, 10-15, 15-8 and 15-13.

The K-State offense was lead by the hitting duo of Donna Lee and Mary Kinsey. Lee was successful on 19 kills in 46 attempts and suffered only one error. Her attacking percentage was 39 percent.

Kinsey attempted 40 attacks, converted on 14 kills and had only four errors. She had an attacking percentage of 40 percent. Kinsey, along with senior co-captain Renee Whitney and Helen Bundy, lead the Wildcats defensively, registering six digs each in the match.

"We didn't make adjustments defensively in the first two games," Head Coach Scott Nelson said. "In the third game we started to make the adjustments and were more competitive in the match. We are going to have to be more sharp in future Big Eight matches."

Following their unsuccessful stop in Norman, the Wildcats traveled to luisa to compete in the Oral Roberts Invitational.

The Wildcats fought back from their tough loss to Oklahoma to hand the host Oral Roberts Titans a defeat in the tournament's final match. But the Wildcats had to scrape to get

The tournament was set up in pool play form. There were eight teams competing, with four teams in a pool. Pool play is set up in round robin form and the top three teams in each pool advance to the tournament ac-

K-State opened pool play against the host Titans. This was the second meeting between the two teams. K-State won the first confrontation in a five-game match held in Manhat-

This was not to be true in Tulsa, as Oral Roberts defeated the Wildcats, 15-8, 2-15 and 15-11.

The Wildcats bounced back after the loss to the Titans to defeat the defeated Northeast Louisiana 15-10 and 15-7 and West Texas State 15-4 and 15-4.

Heading into tournament action Saturday, the Wildcats were seeded sixth and were granted a bye into the semi-finals. The first foe was Texas

Lutheran. The match was closely fought and K-State lost the first game, but came back to win the next two for the match. The scores were 13-15, 15-11 and 15-13. This win put the Wildcats into the finals and a second chance at Oral Roberts.

K-State had no problem with the Titans as they won in two games, 15-7 and 15-4.

"We were in complete control in the Saturday matches," Nelson said. "Our subs really made a valuable contribution during the weekend. Kelly Herrold and Mary Mignano came in in the backcourt and that resulted in positive points for us."

The weekend trip moved th Wildcats' record to 16-9 overall and 2-4 in the Big Eight. Nelson was pleased with the weekend effort and is seeing good things happening with his squad.

"We are getting sharper overall. We're getting back on track where we were a couple of weeks ago. We feel good right now. We're winning and we are in line to make some good things happen," he said.

Impressionist artwork stolen by gunmen at Paris museum

By The Associated Press

PARIS - At least five men brandishing revolvers invaded a museum Sunday, forced guards and visitors to lie on the floor and in five minutes stripped the walls of nine paintings, including a priceless Monet that inspired the name for the impressionist movement.

Curator Yves Brayer of the Marmottan museum called it "the theft of the century."

Four other impressionist paintings by Claude Monet and two by Pierre August Renoir were among the stolen works that Brayer valued at a total of 100 million francs, about $12.5 million.

He said Monet's "Impression Soleil Levant," or "Impression Sunrise," "has no price" because of its historic value.

The men entered the museum during visiting hours shortly after 10 a.m., forced guards and visitors to the floor, pulled the nine paintings from walls in several rooms of the museum and fled, said Brayer in a telephone interview.

"It's a formidable loss," said a shaken Brayer, who is also a painter. "(It's) as if someone had stolen the 'It's a formidable loss. ...(It's) as if someone had stolen the "Mona Lisa." ...It's the theft of the century.'

-Curator Yves Braver of the Marmottan museum

"Mona Lisa." ... It's the theft of the century."

The Marmottan Museum, located on a quiet street in Paris' elegant 16th district, houses an important collection of impressionist paintings, 87 of them Monets.

Witnesses said the thieves put the paintings in the trunk of a grey car double-parked outside and drove

The French police said at least five men were involved.

Brayer, a member of the Academie des Beaux Arts which oversees the museum, said he arrived immediately after the theft.

Braver said witnesses told him the men entered the museum with pistols drawn. One pointed his weapon to the temple of the chief guard and ordered him, other guards and some visitors to lie on the floor. Two or three of the men then went immediately to the Monet room in the basement, while at least one other went to other rooms.

"They broke windows for two small paintings of lesser value," Brayer said, referring to two portraits of Monet by Renoir and Naruse.

"Everyone was on the floor, like in a bank," Brayer said. "This is the first time anyone has stolen paintings with weapons. ... One guard was trembling like a crazy man when I

There were reports that the museum alarm system was not hooked up at the time of the theft so police were not notified until after the bandits had fled.

One museum guardian, Estelle Tissier, said the alarm system was unplugged each morning at 8:15 a.m.

Monet's "Impression Soleil Levant," a painting of the port at Le Havre done in 1872, inspired the name for the late 19th century French school of painting which attempted to capture transitory images and mood, mostly in nature and often using light and reflection.

Prevention means application

Speaker cites rape theories

By BRENDA KITCHEN Collegian Reporter

Whistles and mace aren't enough to prevent the continuation of rape, a professor said during Friday's Focus on Women.

"We are whistling while we shirk from dealing with the actual, more difficult conditions that foster rape," said Margery Neely, professor of administration and foundations of education.

"As the old adages say, 'We may be whistling to keep from being afraid or from want of thought, but we do not see more clearly for doing so.' We must engage in action," Neely said.

She said protective methods are admirable beause they do not restrict the potential victim's freedom. But, whistles and mace do not deal with the causes of rape.

Neely cited and critiqued three theories about why men rape women. She examined possible applications of the theories.

The first theory discussed is that men rape because of faulty socialization, abuse within their families or conditioning which en-

PUMPKIN GRAMS—A sack of candy with a special

MYSTIC SOOTHSAYER trained in divination, and ap plied guidance, taking requests for personal horo scopes. Have success in every aspect of your life.

through self-knowledge and your potential destiny chart. For details, write to The Secretary, P.O. Box

courages acting out behavior. She said faulty socialization could occur because of the lack of a proper childhood environment. Interactions with others during childhood should develop a conscience, foster intimacy with others, teach limits and delayed gratification, she said.

"Humans do have choices. Not bad parents, not bad training, nor abuse universally predict the priming of a rapist," Neely said.

But, she said, if this is an acceptable explanatory mode for some people about why men rape, they must apply it to form rape prevention programs. Neely said preventive strategies could be incorporated into parent training, school curriculums, guidance and individual counseling. An example of this type of strategy is withdrawing love from children in order to shape their understanding that their actions have had a bad effect on someone else. The second theory states that society's worship of economic and political power fosters acts of intimidation. This theory on why men rape focuses on the inequality of the sexes within society. It ex-

FOR SALE-AUTO

FOR SALE-MISC

1976 VOLVO, very dependable. New tires, great shape, $2,400 or best offer, 539-4373. (44-47)

tery. 1-494-2388, St. George. (44-50)

1975 VOLKSWAGEN Rabbit. Call 537-3192. (44-46)

1967 VW Bug-newly rebuilt engine. Good tires, bat-

VAN, 1974 Ford E200, 34ton, 302 V8, extraordinary running condition, extras, $850. Kurt, 537-7724. (45-46)

LATE 1984 Chevy 1-ton dual, 454-automatic

IS IT true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S.

government? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142, ext. 3286-A. (45)

FOUNTAIN FALLS Tropical Fish - One week guarantee on all fresh-water and marine fish. Monday through Saturday, 10:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-8:00 p.m. Sunday 12 noon to 5:00 p.m.

Clip and Save

New Special

1/4 Pound

Hamburger

The Ritz

This coupon expires 11/2/85

SOLID NON-TARNISH copper (Zimbabwean)-

Bracelets, plagues, souvenir trays, oil paintings-

Victoria Falls etc. Call 776-5453 or stop by F-22 Jar-dine. (44-45)

VINTAGE FUR pieces, including two short jackets and a stole. Great for Halloween costumes, theater productions and other "dress-up" occasions, 1 456-9364, Wamego (45-47) condition with case, $425; Kramer 400ST with Floyd Rose, $175. Kurt. 537-7724 (45-46)

ELECTRIC GUITARS: Gibson Flying-U, excellent

FOR SALE: New age encyclopedias, full set in excel lent condition. Asking $125. Call 539-4800. (45-47)

SMITH-CORONA portable Electra C-J Correcting

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

1975 CHICKASHA-14 x 65. front bedroom, two

1979 MOBILE home—three bedroom, central air, priced below appraisal. Available now. 776-3702.

bath, nice home. Only $6,900 or $150 monthly with 10% down payment Countryside Homes, 539-typewriter, like new, $120. Phone 1-765-3695 (45-46)

Wiemer, 913-668-2352 or 913-668-2214. (45-4)

Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 35,000 miles. Joel plains rape as a theoretical form of social control. In critique of this theory, Neely said it is easier to blame external forces than internal choices.

Applying democratic values when teaching the young about heterosexual relationships is a way this theory could be applied to aid in rape prevention, she said. Respect for the basic worth, equality and dignity for each individual is an example of a democratic value applicable to heterosexual relationships, she

The third theory deals with physiological reasons for rape. Evolution dictating survival of the fittest, genetic imbalances and biological male aggressiveness are among the physiological reasons cited for rape. Some rapists say, "The devil hormone made me do it." Neely said. She disagrees with the rapists' excuse.

She said changing societal norms and using family educational efforts to redefine appropriate sexual behavior can be used to battle the causes of rape.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555. Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry. ANNOUNCEMENTS and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (71f)

p.m., today thru November 8th. Walk-ins w If you have any questions, call 539-5229. (43-47) SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52)

ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m.-5:30

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

Garfield

© 1985 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

By Charles Schulz

eanuts

40 Drunkard

the lily

42 Persevere family

48 Ballpark

suddenly

49 Break

50 Airport

51 Incite

1 Vex

DOWN

2 Future

fish

3 Had a snack

abbr.

41 Plant of

4 Dozed

5 Prejudice

6 Korean

7 Wind-

8 Stay a-

9 Pagan god soldier flowers

breast of

10 "A Chorus

loch?

Ivan

19 Macaws

20 Knave of clubs

11 Monster's 29 Narrow

13 Peter or 31 Egyptian

21 Nanking

nanny

23 Child, in of bread

Glasgow

the "trail of tears'

Geraint

26 Wife of

27 Secure

gash

god 33 Maintenance

34 Daughter

25 Indian on

22 Kind

message to be delivered to a friend, roommate or 01 crush on Halloween day. Stop by the Union Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products,

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve-lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

2015, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-49)

BELLY DANCING—Celebrate a birthday, promotion, wedding, and other special events! 776-4043. (41-

GOT A crush? Send them a Pumpkin-Gram. On sale in the Union Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday for 50¢. (45) WE'RE SELLING your dream. Learn to fly. For more information call Capital Air Service, 539-7623. (45-WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and

Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today hen your winter break counts ... count on Sur chase! (45-56)

FOR RENT-MISC

STORAGE UNITS from $15 monthly. Amherst Self Storage in west Manhattan. 776-3804. (13tf)

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM basement apartment at 809 N. 11th, $290, bills paid. Call 539-8401. (1tf)

Like a FREE VCR, Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

Call for details 776-3804

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, 1837 College Hts. Available mid-October, 776-9124 (31-49) FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two bedroom, large kitchen, dishwasher, close to campus. Call 539-4959 after 5:30 p.m. (42-46)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TCHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58) TWO BEDROOM, washer and dryer, clean, $275. Call

537-3666 or 532-5881. (44-46)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1981 HONDA CM400-Must sell, runs well, 9,000 niles. Call 539-5871. (45-49)

FOUND BAG OF girls' swimming gear found near Kedzie Hall

Wednesday morning with name "Suzanne" on name tag. Call Connie, 532-6308 days, or 537-7224 evenings to identify and claim. (43-45) GRACE WINTERMAN-We have your KSU I.D. in

Kedzie 103. (45-47)

THE FOLLOWING items can be identified and claimed in Farrell Library, Circulation Department:
Magnifying glass with "Rexanne Clark" name sticker, Snoopy zip-bag with calculator, digital quartz watch, two PE textbooks (one for Concepts. one for Therapeutic Rec); two speech workbooks, one Classroom Reading Instruction; one amplified Bible, one Serial Gd. to Sub-Sahara Africa. (45-

HELP WANTED

CHILD CARE/Boston area. We have many families looking for loving child care workers. One year commitment, excellent salary, benefits, round trip transportation. Allene Fisch, Childcare Placeme Service, 149 Buckminster Rd., Brookline, MA 02146. 617-566-6294. (32-45)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, lov-ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

KANSAS STATE University is seeking an individual part-time to assist in coordination of the Kansas Folklife Festival. An expanded job description is available at the KSU Conference Office (Division of Continuing Education), 1623 Anderson Ave., Man-hattan, Ks. 66502. Phone 913-532-5575. Applications due by November 8, 1985. (42-45)

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking knowledgeable office manager with strong horticulture background. Benefits include:
Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities.
All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397.

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking experienced, motivated, Landscape Designer/salesman. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397. (45-49)

nar Leaders - Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1986 Specific duties in clude: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a General Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, or Mathematics class: c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session, and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students, c) desire to perform in the role of a helping person di are sensitive to the needs of others, and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class, EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit) during Spring 1986 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1986 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assis-tance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an nitial interview. (45-49)

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT Learning Skills Sem

START YOUR career now Earn money and work on Fortune 500 Companies marketing progams on campus. Part-time (flexible) hours each week. We give references Call 1-800-243-6679 (45-47) EARN MONEY on all magazines sold on campus

Need people to post information. Good profit. Write, BPC, 8218 Hardy, Overland Park, KS 66204

LOST

REWARD-FOR red book-pack containing two note books. Missing from front of Union Bookstore 3:00 p.m., October 22, 1985. Call 537-9786. (44-45) GREEN WINDBREAKER jacket of personal value

Monday, 2:30 p.m. Cardwell 102 Call 537-0919 (44) 15

NOTICES

OVER 1,000 costumes-Men's, ladies and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539 5200 (30tf)

ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m. 5:30 p.m., today thru November 8th. Walk-ins welcome If you have any questions, call 539-5229. (43-47)

TUBE STEAKS! All you can eat! We'll dress your dog with chill and cheese sauce. You finish it off with cold toppings at the salad bar. Tuesday, October 29 in the K-State Union Stateroom, 4:30-6:30 p.m. (45

PERSONAL 16

HEY BEAR. Happy Birthday kid. Are you ready for a cool-man-dude-stud week? You're my girl and Love You! Who am 17 (45)

DOUG, SURPRISE! ILY M (45)

LORNA—HAPPY 19th Birthday, Roomie! Hope your day is as special as you are. —Mary (45)

ROOMMATE WANTED FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two bedroom apart ment on west side of Manhattan, one-half bills Prefer grad student. Call 537-0783 after 6:00 p.m. Janice. (42-45) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted-Two bedroom, one and one-half bath, exceptionally nice, westside location, $162.50 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-2050 after 6.00 p.m. (43-47)

THREE GIRLS looking for fourth to share a special four bedroom, two bath duplex. Low utilities, washer and dryer, large yard, walk to campus. Avail able now and spring session. Call 776-3069. (43-47)

FEMALE UPPERCLASSMAN or graduate wanted to share new apartment spring 1986. Own bedroom, two blocks from campus, $155 month, one-third utilities. 537-8512 (44-49)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Close to campus and Ag gieville, own room, $95/month, one-sixth utilities 539-0435. (44-48) FEMALE-NONSMOKING to share duplex. Own room, washer, dryer, dishwasher and microwave $133 plus one-third utilities. Call 539-9293. (44-48) 18

SERVICES

13

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S.

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equip ment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (411) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166, (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5.00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. [41-

TYPING-FAST and accurate Pat 537-8103 (42-46) VW BUG Restoration-Come out for a consultation See how good your Bug can look. J & L Bug Ser vice. 7 miles east 1-494-2388. (42-47)

SAVE—WORD Processing—papers, letters, resumes, etc. Call Kristi at 532-6026 or 776-4900. (45)

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

WANTED TO BUY

NEED UP to ten tickets for KSU-NU game. Call 776-3273 with name, phone number and price. Will pay

rossword

1 OPEC member 5 Bikini top 8 Oven 12 Revolution 14 Comedienne figure? Adams 15 Memento

ACROSS

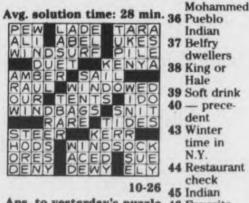

16 Eternities 17 Dance step 18 Shade trees 20 Journal 23 Brian -(Irish king) 24 Among 25 Party goodies 28 Small rug 29 Starts in fright

30 Seize roughly 32 Certain 34 Small flute truckers 35 Bobbin 36 Abode of the dead 37 " - the

Oct. 28

KUND CSYA LCDGUAF LUFGUNJAS

ND JNYA: N ZBBS DUFBA FHZ. Yesterday's Cryptoquip — A SHORT STORE OWNER MIGHT DARE WHINE, "MY OVERHEAD IS VERY HIGH."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals H

Royals

Continued from Page 1

to forget that."

Tudor said the injury was "a foolish mistake. It's my business. I'm not going to talk about it.'

Joaquin Andujar, the fourth of five pitchers for St. Louis in the sixth, argued that a called ball on a 2-2 pitch to Royals' catcher Jim Sundberg should have been called a strike. Herzog came out to voice his opinion on Andujar's behalf and was ejected by home plate umpire Don Denkinger, an American League um-

"On 2-2, that pitch was right down the middle," Andujar said after the game.

On the next pitch to Sundberg, which Denkinger called ball four, Andujar argued again and was tossed from the game.

With the ejections, it marked the first time since 1935 that a team has had more than one participant thrown out of a World Series game. And Herzog became the first manager to be ejected since Billy Martin of the New York Yankees in the 1976 Series.

Said Denkinger of the ejections, "Andujar came off the mound screaming that the pitch was a strike. I told him one more and he's gone. Whitey (Herzog) came out and started yelling. He was using vulgarity. He was gone.

"We got settled down, started again, one pitch, Andujar starts again. He's gone.

Lost in the Royals offense barrage and the wild 6th inning was Kansas City pitcher Bret Saberhagen, who allowed just five hits and no walks and picked up the second win of the series. For his effort, Saberhagen was chosen the World Series' Most building wiring replacement is expected to be completed by April 1987.

Existing payments to Southwestern Bell and to AT&T are being used to fund a certificate of participation which is similar to a bond. The University will also borrow money to finance installations.

Over a period of time the lines, instruments and switches will be University property, Miller said.

Monday thru Thursday

Friday thru Sunday

Open Daily

Continued from Page 1

Phones

Valuable Player.

"I am standing on cloud nine and mentally exhausted," said Saberhagen, whose wife gave birth to their first child - a son - on Saturday. "It's just been a storybook year, coming back so many Call the Royals "Milestone Makers.

With Kansas City's four-game-tothree decision, it marked the first time in World Series history that a team has come back to win the Series after losing the first two games at

And it was the second time in postseason play in 1985 that Kansas City had battled back from a 3-1 deficit to win in seven games.

In game seven, Kansas City batters had 14 hits off of seven St. Louis pitchers. George Brett was 4-5 with two runs scored, Lonnie Smith scored twice and had two RBIs and Balboni went 2-4, scored two runs and had two RBIs.

During post-game celebration. President Ronald Reagan telephoned his congratulations to the Royals.

"The proof is in the pudding, and it must be pretty sweet-tasting for you tonight," Reagan told Saberhagen.

The 11-0 victory was the largest margin in any game this year for the Royals. They are the fourth team in World Series history to recover from a 3-1 deficit. That feat becomes more impressive considering the Royals turned the same trick against the Toronto Bluejays in the best-of-seven American League Playoffs.

For the Cardinals, it was a fade into offensive oblivion. After leading the National League with a .264 team average during the season, the Cardinals hit just .185 in the Series - the lowest ever for a seven-game Series and scored a total of 13 runs.

Editor's note: Some of the information for this story was gathered by The Associated Press.

During the transition period the money which would normally be paid to the telephone company for new phones or movement of phones will be pledged against the certificate of

Despite probable cost concerns, the University will receive some direct benefits from having its own will provide the medium for communications on campus and will facilitate data processing as well as video transmission," Miller said.

Any Movie-99¢

537-1115

"This is very timely for K-State. It telecommunications system.

participation.

Home

Cinema

Largest Tape Selection and Best Prices in Manhattan

TAPE RENTAL

Everyday Low Price . . . . . . . . . . . . . $2.75 per tape

Magnavox VCR (incl. 1 free tape)......$6.70

We also have low weekly & monthly rates

Preferred Card Holders . . . $2.00 per tape

- PREFERRED CARD HOLDERS-

This Week's Special

Rent 1 tape at $2.00 and get the 2nd tape from the Children/Family or Classic Selection for just-99¢

Village Plaza Shopping Center

10 a.m.-9 p.m. In the New South Addition

Consumption rises 3 percent

Dairy items milking market

By SHELLY DICKEN Collegian Reporter

Americans are eating more cheese and drinking more milk than they did in 1978, said Ivan Strickler, chairman of the National Dairy Promotions and Research Board.

"We have seen an increased consumption per capita of 3 percent since the inception of the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board," said Strickler, chairman of the dairy board, during a portion of the annual Dairy Day activities Friday at the Dairy Teaching and Research Center.

Strickler, a K-State graduate from Iola, said the board was created in 1978 to promote the dairy industry and sponsor the development of new dairy products. The 36 dairy farmers who make up the board's membership are responsible for the administration of $200 million raised by dairy farmers nationwide. Every dairy farmer in the United States assists the work of the board by contributing 15 cents per 100 pounds of milk they sell.

According to data compiled by the board, "cheese and fluid milk consumption have increased, but butter has not increased as much as we expected," Strickler said.

The board has recently agreed on a $12.4 million promotion program on butter to try to match the increased consumption figures of cheese and milk.

"We are going to document that there are not more calories in a slab of butter than there are in a slab of oleo. Both have about 35 calories," Strickler said.

Strickler was a featured speaker along with Robert Youngquist, from the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Missouri.

Youngquist talked about the mechanics of a preventive herd health program and the medical and economic benefits to be gained from such a program.

The Dairy Day speakers' comments as well as the displays at the teaching and research center were aimed primarily at dairy producers, said Dick Dunham, extension dairy specialist.

Keith and Jan Thomas, dairy breeders from Narka, have found attending the annual Dairy Day beneficial.

'We have come to Dairy Day several times before. We come here to look for information we can use at home," Keith Thomas said.

Continued from Page 1

been accused of torturing and killing suspected rebels and pillaging rural communities suspected of harboring

The moves came more than a week after President Reagan sent Sen.

Paul Laxalt to convey to Marcos concern over the rapid growth of the communist New People's Army rebel force. There was nothing in the palace release to indicate Marcos' action was the result of Laxalt's

HALLOWEEN BALLOONS

Orange and Black

Rubber or Mylar

For Your

Halloween Party

Balloon

Manila

insurgents.

Africa

Continued from Page 1

cent, with 11,000 new officers to be put into uniform. More than 770 people have been killed since the riots began on Sept. 3, The American businessmen said in their ad that the group "strongly supports' the South African businessmen in their call for abolition of statutory race discrimination "wherever it exists," government negotiations with black leaders about power-sharing, granting South African citizenship to all South Africans and "restoring and entrenching the rule of law.

"We pledge to play an active role in peacefully achieving their goals," the Americans said in their ad.

No details of what specific actions the American companies intended were published.

American corporations have come under pressure from stockholders and state and municipal governments in the United States to withdraw from South Africa. Many U.S. corporations argue they are a force for change by remaining in the country. A group of South African businessmen ignored government protests in September to travel to Zambia for talks with exiled blacknationalist guerrillas of the African National Congress, which seeks to overthrow the government.

The United States is one of South Africa's leading trading partners. With some 300 or so U.S. firms operating in South Africa, U.S. investment in the country is estimated at $3 billion. Some say it is much higher if one counts U.S. loans and investments in corporations that conduct their own business in South Africa.

Continued from Page 1

tied to ropes using brooms to spread the stuff," Heinen said.

"Last year the whole thing took ap-it'll take maybe 2 to 21/2 hours," said Mills, the only member of last year's pledge class to return to the ters at a time when they might be at their dirtiest.

honorary. This year the supplies for the whitewash mixture were donated by the Kansas Lumber Homestore, 111 S. Seth Childs Road. University Facilities also donated the use of a water truck and an operator to help the engineering students with their

Boutique 539-0106

Only a Chiropractor can tell if Chiropractic Can Help! Find out for yourself Call Now Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractor

537-8305 1500 Poyntz Avenue

Rock with

1120 MORO

SHOULD SOMEONE YOU CARE FOR KNOW ABOUT MEADOWLARK HILLS RETIREMENT COMMUNITY?

"The Best Place for Your Best Years"

An Interdenominational Retirement Community of cottages, apartment living and skilled nursing care.

LET US TELL YOU MORE Call Marjie Uelk

537-4610

CPR Saturday

November 9, 1985 KSU Rec Complex

Welcome Everyone

Choice of 21/2 Hour Sessions

- Pre-Registration Required -Oct. 28-Nov. 1, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

KSU Union Concourse

American Red Cross

Sponsored By:

Lafene Health Center American Red Cross KSU Rec Complex Phi Upsilon Omicron

Because of the grade of the hill, ropes were tied around the washspreaders' waists to keep them from falling. The other ends of the 100-footlong ropes were tied to the bumpers of trucks and jeeps at the top of the proximately four hours and we had 35 people working on it. We've got about 50 people out here this year; whitewashing.

"It (whitewash) dries in about half an hour. It's really thick Portland white cement, but it dries pretty quick," said Daniel Mills, senior in mechanical engineering and cochairman of the event.

The cleaning of the letters traditionally takes place in the fall following the K-State-University of Kansas football match up. Occasionally, the letters have been subjected to vandalism before the game by zealous KU fans, Heinen said. The service project is designed to clean the let-

Usually, the material for the project is paid for by the engineering undertaking.

Monday Surprise Special Restaurant & Lee Greamery BBQ Chicken Melt $3.49 delivered on a sesame seed bun. Yum! Yum! Choice (Includes medium drink) of waffle Fries or Soup of the Day 12th & Laramie

1304 Westloop

(10% off with KSU I D.) 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 Moro

539-8888 or 537-0886

PIZZERIA 776-0004 Buy any one topping pizza, get one of equal value for FREE

Mondays. PIZZERIA FREE DELIVERY

Every Monday

ON ANY PIZZA

Usettos

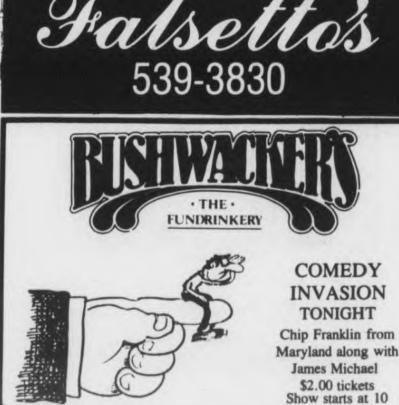

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR

AROUND THE WORLD

BEER CLUB?

0 64 8595 1

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 46

Executive receives vote of confidence after special audit

By WAYNE PRICE Managing Editor

The KSU Foundation executive committee ordered a special investigation into the financial relationship between that organization and its executive vice president, the Collegian was told Monday.

The investigation stemmed from what Foundation officials called "unwarranted rumors" concerning Arthur Loub, executive vice president of the Foundation.

In a statement released Monday by Foundation officials, Bruce W. Buehler, Foundation president, said the audit's purpose was, "To clear the air, because of unwarranted rumors...'

The executive committee received the results of that audit at its meeting on Thursday and voted Loub "a full vote of confidence" according to that meeting's minutes.

Buehler's statement said, "The special examination revealed that there were no instances of improprieties found involving Mr. Loub's use or management of Foundation funds."

The audit apparently stemmed from a shoplifting incident involving Loub at a local discount store. According to Riley County Police Department records, Loub was arrested on Aug. 10 and charged with petty theft of a 61-cent pair of shoelaces from Alco Discount Store, 3007 Anderson Ave. Loub, however, was not convicted of the charge and according to Michelle Winston, a Manhattan probation officer, he is currently on a diversion program.

Loub, in an interview Monday, called the incident at Alco an accident - saying he was picking up some other items and put the shoelaces in a shirt pocket. Upon leaving the store, he said he forgot about the shoelaces.

"It was an inadvertant error on my part - which could happen to anybody," Loub said. "It was just plain forgetfulness on my part - an afterthought."

Loub said he supported the audit and was "pleased with the unanimous vote of confidence."

On Sept. 30, the Collegian, after having seen Loub's arrest summons, contacted Jack Goldstein, chairman of the Foundation's executive committee and owner of Manhattan Pipe and Steel Supply Co. At that time, Goldstein denied any knowledge of the shoplifting incident saying "there were some scoreless rumors about our executive vice president. If anybody engages in conversation about the rumors, it would be both slanderous and libelous."

Goldstein also denied the ordering of a special audit.

"There is an annual audit of the books taking place right now (Sept. 30). It must have started a month or two ago but there were no special audits. There's no funds missing and there's no reason to believe they're

"Had there been any basis (for a special audit), we would have gone further," Goldstein said.

But according to minutes of the Sept. 24 executive committee meeting, the committee unanimously moved that Goldstein "appoint a committee to counsel Arthur F. Loub concerning perceived problems and...That there be instituted an audit to resolve any questions concerning Arthur F. Loub's relationship with the Foundation."

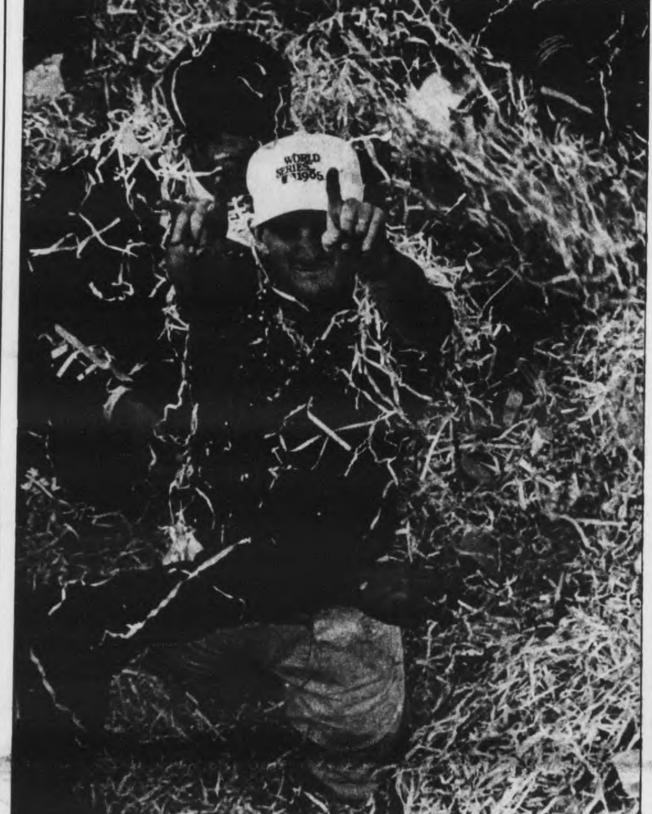

The member of the special committee included Goldstein, President Duane Acker, John Graham and Terry Ray.

The audit, which was performed by the independent certified public accounting firm of Varney, Mills, Rogers, Burnett and Associates, "concentrated on those financial transactions...during the fiscal year from July 1, 1984, through June 30, 1985," Buehler's statement said. Acker said on Friday he was in favor of the audit.

"...I supported that audit," Acker said. "I felt it was exceedingly im-

See AUDIT, Page 5

ABOVE: Kansas City Royals pitcher Bret Saberhagen signals "No. 1" during Monday's ticker tape parade for the Royals in Kansas City, Mo.

KC fans

downtown streets, hung out of :"indows or perched in treetops to greet the world champion Kansas City Royals Monday as the city threw a two-hour ticker tape parade that littered the town with a snowstorm of The downtown area remained jammed with traffic following the parade and accompanying rally as a steady procession of cars decorated with streamers, balloons and bows sounded their horns in celebration of the city's first World Series victory ever.

Players, team officials and others rode the two-mile route along Grand Avenue to Liberty Memorial, beaming and waving as

See ROYALS, Page 5

LEFT: Spectators hose down a burning 1957 Ford Thunderbird that carried Royals center fielder Willie Wilson during the parade.

Kansas, Nebraska may share facilities

Vet-med college nears agreement

By TIM STRODA Collegian Reporter

K-State and University of Nebraska officials are negotiating a new cooperative agreement for joint efforts in veterinary medicine education. The agreement would allow more students to use the facility at K-State as well as several smaller facilities in Nebraska, said John Noordsy, associate dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Because the state of Nebraska doesn't have a veterinary medicine teaching facility, the veterinary medicine college admits approximately 15 Nebraska students each year.

"The tentative cooperative agreement would guarantee 30 seats for Nebraska students in each class starting with the entering class of 1987," Noordsy said.

President Duane Acker recommended to the Board of Regents Oct. 18 it give tentative approval to an agreement with Nebraska. The proposal would run for an indefinite period, with reviews at least once every four years.

The committee endorsed the proposal and the regents gave tentative approval to provide space for the 30 Nebraska students at a cost of $10,500 per student. Regents will vote on the formal agreement at their

"Hopefully, the agreement will be finalized soon, but we aren't certain when it will be signed," Noordsy said.

November meeting.

If both schools agree to terminate the agreement each Nebraska student enrolled in the program would be permitted to complete their veterinary classes.

"The cooperative agreement won't change the number of Kansas students ad-

See VET, Page 5

Water table prompts coliseum site testing

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Reporter

Soil samples have been taken from the site of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum to see if construction costs can be lowered by building elsewhere, a geology consultant said Monday.

Barnett and Stewart, Inc., a Topeka consulting geology firm, took soil samples Oct. 21 east and south of the KSU Stadium. The University presently plans to construct the coliseum south of the stadium.

Vince Cool, director of planning for University Facilities, said planners are seeking ways of cutting costs for the overall project.

When construction bids were opened Aug. 20, the lowest bid was more than $3.4 million above the $14.5 million estimate made by the University.

The high water table at the proposed site may make construction of a less expensive coliseum more difficult, Cool said. The samples are being taken to see if the water level is substantially different at other sites.

The water table at the proposed site is a result of erosion by the Kansas River more than a million years ago. The erosion was filled in with silica sands and silt, which retains water, Cool said.

The original plans called for arena seating with entrances and a concourse in the middle of the seats. One method of cutting costs could be to move the location of the entrances and concourse to the top of the seating arrangement and lower the "bowl" deeper into the ground. The high water table at the present site makes this difficult, Cool

One solution to water table problems is "dewatering," a process of drilling wells and pumping out enough water to lower the water table to a desired level. Layne-Western, a Kansas City, Mo., geological engineering consulting firm, has been contacted by the University about the possibility of dewatering the area, Cool said.

Layne-Western and Barnett and Stewart will together determine the feasibility of a dewatering scheme, Cool said. Further geological studies will be conducted first, then a dewatering scheme will be proposed by the two firms. Cool expects to have a proposal within a few weeks.

Warren Corman, director of facilities for the Board of Regents, said he doubted the results of the preliminary soil samples taken Oct. 21 would indicate the site of the coliseum should be changed.

He said original site surveys taken before bids were received indicated existing water table problems, but no other site surveys were needed at that time. It was not until bids were received and found to be substantially more than estimated costs that alternate sites were considered, Corman said.

The site location was not to blame for original cost overruns.

Joe Barnett, vice president of Barnett and

See COLISEUM, Page 5

Students examine question of minority enrollment lag

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

Recent problems in minority student retention and recruitment at K-State have caused three student leaders to take a deeper look at the situation. Dwayne Smith, junior in journalism and mass communications and student director for minority affairs, said many of the minority students' academic problems stem from failure to take advantage of services

"There are programs to help students that aren't being taken advantage of," Smith said. "There's an apathy among students." Veryl Switzer, vice president for minority affairs, agreed that students need to take ad-available to them.

vantage of services. "Students must take advantage of support services early in their career in college in order to benefit from them," he said.

High levels of anxiety, problems in selfimage and a sense of insecurity help add to the minority student's academic problems, Switzer said.

According to the Office of Minority Affairs records, 30.1 percent of undergraduate minority students were on academic probation for the 1985 spring semester as compared to 31.5 percent for the 1984 spring semester.

Dismissal rates were up slightly from the 1984 figure of 10.5 percent to last spring's figure of 12.1 percent.

Smith said he thinks there are several reasons for academic problems for minority students, but personal motivation is a primary factor. Reductions in funding for minority groups also adds to the problem, Switzer said.

'People ask why there is a need for a service," he said. "Many of these services are not just for minority students - they're for everyone. How many white students take the time to walk into a Black Student Union meeting? You need to be aware of the world around you.'

Smith also said the administration needs to make a bigger effort to recruit minority students by getting away from its traditional rural format.

"It's time for K-State to go to the major metro areas," he said. "I have yet to have someone come to my office and talk to me about minority recruitment. K-State has a lot of things to offer. I'd be glad to go out and accentuate some of the positives.

Switzer said there has been a slight increase in minority enrollment over last year's figures, but the number still remains below 1,000.

"I don't know what to attribute this to," he said. "There's been an increase in new students and in returning students.

Derrick Holt, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and president of Black Student Union, agreed that students need to be more aware of the services offered them.

Holt said minority students' problems are partly society's fault

"There are a lot of people walking around on campus thinking everything's OK," Holt said. "A lot of people aren't aware of what's going on.

Holt said the admissions office does make some attempt to recruit minority students, but that the number of minority students at K-State is low when compared to the total number of students.

Anthony Slaughter, junior in mathematics and campus chairman of the newly-formed Associated Students of Kansas Minority Caucus, said his group plans to address minority problems by presenting them to the Kansas Legislature.

'We're going to address issues concerning minority students such as the attrition rate, which includes the dropout rate. psychological problems, cultural problems

See MINORITY, Page 5

Inside

A meeting was held Monday night to discuss further plans for the Manhattan Regional Shopping Mall. See Page 12.

Weather

Cloudy today, high in mid-60s. Cloudy tonight with a 30 percent chance for rain, low in lower 40s. Mostly sunny Wednesday, high in mid-60s

Sports

The K-State Soccer Club defeated the University of Missouri-Kansas City in a match in Kansas City. See Page 10.

INTERNATIONAL

Peres win support of Knesset

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Shimon Peres urged the political right not to oppose his peace efforts, and easily won a vote of confidence Monday night for a plan that allows an international forum to be involved in negotiations.

The vote came after seven hours of debate in the Knesset, and was 68-10 for the Peres plan, with 10 abstentions. The prime minister presented his peace proposals in a speech last week to the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

France refuses to face art extortion

PARIS - Culture Minister Jack Lang said Monday that France would not yield to any extortion demand to recover nine impressionist paintings worth $12.5 million that were stolen by gunmen from a Paris museum.

Police combed the Marmottan Museum and took testimony from guards and visitors who were forced to lie on the floor Sunday while at least five "connoisseur" thieves stole nine works of art, including Claude Monet's priceless "Impression Soleil Levant.

The Academie des Beaux Arts, which oversees the Marmottan Museum, said none of the nine paintings, including five Monets and two Renoirs, was insured. No paintings in French museums are insured until they are loaned out to other museums, the Academie said.

334 die during state of emergency

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - South Africa completed its first 100 days under a state of emergency Monday, with the death rate from rioting more than double that of earlier months.

A total of 334 people have been killed in the 100 days of the emergency, a rate of 3.34 per day, according to the South African Institute of Race Relations. That compares with 509 people who died in the preceeding 323 days of unrest - a rate of 1.54 per day - between Sept. 1, 1984, and the beginning of the emergency decree, the institute's records show.

Jennifer Shindler, a researcher at the institute, said Monday the figures were based on press clippings and police reports. She also said that 845 people have been killed in South Africa's racial violence since mid-1984, well above the figure of 761 disclosed early this month by President P.W. Botha.

Hussein, Arafat discuss future

AMMAN, Jordan - King Hussein and PLO chairman Yasser Arafat met Monday to reassess their relationship and the future of their faltering joint bid to make peace with Israel.

Arafat and eight other top officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization went to the royal palace for meetings with Hussein, who told reporters last week that he was reconsidering his relations with the PLO after a new cycle of violence and diplomatic setbacks.

The king also had said it was up to the Palestinian people to decide whether the PLO should continue to represent them.

PEOPLE

Di chortles at sight of Charles' hat

MELBOURNE, Australia - The sight of an ill-fitting helmet atop Prince Charles' head brought fits of giggles from Princess Diana on Monday, the royal couple's first full day on an official visit to Australia.

Charles donned the unflattering plastic safety helmet during a visit to a new multimillion-dollar aluminum smelter.

Diana's was a perfect fit, but the one handed to Charles was too small and perched high on his head. Every time she looked at her husband, Diana burst into laughter.

That prompted Charles to turn to smelter workers and ask: "Does your wife laugh at you when you put a hat on""

Princess curses photographer

NEW YORK - Princess Stephanie of Monaco let loose with a string of curses when her picture was taken repeatedly at the Palladium disco, a Manhattan hot spot, a photographer says.

Photographer Felice Quinto said Stephanie and her brother, Prince Albert, arrived at the club at about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, and he took a picture of her smiling cordially.

Later, Quinto said, he snapped her picture and the princess snapped back with a string of four-letter words.

When he tried to shoot a picture of the prince and princess together on the dance floor, Quinto said Stephanie turned on him "and started threatening me with her fists."

NATIONAL

Reagan meets hostage's families

WASHINGTON - Relatives of some of the six U.S. hostages held in Lebanon said Monday a half-hour meeting with President Reagan bolstered their confidence that steps are being taken to obtain their loved ones' release, but no breakthroughs appear likely soon.

"It was a very fruitful meeting, and we hope that the administration will continue to pursue their initiatives, and we intend to continue to pursue private initiatives," said Peggy Say, sister of Terry A. Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated

Say, whose brother was kidnapped on March 16, said the group was given information "that we cannot pass on."

"There are initiatives being pursued," she said. "We appreciated the fact that they've confided in us."

Pentagon reverses AIDS view

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon, in a significant reversal, said Monday it had not ruled out the dismissal of servicemen who acknowledge drug use or homosexual activity in the course of screening for exposure to AIDS.

Such individuals can, in fact, incriminate themselves during medical interviews by physicians, a top legal official said late Mon-

Individuals who inform doctors during medical screening that they have been abusing drugs or engaging in homosexual activity can be discharged even if they don't show evidence of the disease, but they must be given an honorable discharge, added Bob Gilliat, the Pentagon's assistant general counsel for manpower and health affairs.

'There is no absolute privilege there (of confidentiality) and the information can be passed along (for discharge proceedings)," said Gilliat. "It would be a non-stigmatizing discharge, but it can happen. The earlier explanation (of the new screening policy) was wrong.

Soviet sailor attempts defection

WASHINGTON - A Soviet sailor who twice jumped from his ship into the Mississippi River in apparent attempts to defect has been moved to a Coast Guard cutter where he is being interviewed by U.S. officials, a State Department spokesman said Monday.

The Soviet seaman, Miroslav Medvid, was taken by a Coast Guard launch to the cutter Salvia, where a State Department official who speaks Russian and other U.S. representatives began interviewing him shortly before 6 p.m., State Department spokesman Peter Martinez said.

"Soviet representatives also are on the ship," he said. "They had agreed earlier in the day to this procedure.'

Besides the State Department official, the U.S. representatives interviewing the sailor "to determine his intentions" include an official of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a U.S. physician and an interpreter, Martinez said.

REGIONAL

Lawrence man killed by train

LAWRENCE - Authorities said Monday a 19-year-old University of Kansas student was playing a thrill-seeking game of dodge when he was struck and killed by a Union Pacific freight train over the

Brian E. Lucas, of Lawrence, was pronounced dead at the scene of the 1:15 a.m. accident Sunday, which occurred on a Leavenworth County railroad bridge over Mud Creek, about three miles east of Kansas Highway Patrol Trooper Ray Bailiff said Lucas was one of about a dozen people, ranging in age from 18 to 22, who were playing a game called "training" when the accident occurred.

'It's a very deadly game. Nobody gets hit by a train and survives," Bailiff said, adding that Lucas was thrown 100 feet through the air.

Baliff said participants in the game hide behind the girders and the supports on trestles "and as the train approaches, they run or walk in front of the train" to see who can get closest without getting hit.

Welfare agency saves $2.7 million

TOPEKA - The state's welfare agency announced Monday its Job Club program, designed to assist welfare recipients in finding work, has saved Kansas taxpayers $2.7 million since it was established in September, 1983.

Robert C. Harder, secretary of Social and Rehabilitation Services, reported his agency racked up the savings in the form of elimination of payments to people who found work and through the disqualification of welfare recipients who refused to participate in the job-search

K-STATE BASKETBALL

THE TIME IS COMING FOR

TICKETS AVAILABLE NOV. 4

GLAMOUR WORLD NEW HOURS COUPON Daily 9 30 6 00 p m COUPON Sat 9 00 1 00 p.m OFF GENERIC BRAND, REDKEN, NEXXUS, SEBASTIAN, PAUL MITCHELL and LA MAUR Products 1104 Waters Around corner from Wendy's 537 3233

Thanks to the following who made the 1st Annual Ag Fall Follies a success: Ag Council Domino's

Alpha Gamma Rho Godfather's Bakery Science Club Travelute's

Don Fate Susan Clary Western Wear

Valentino's Kim Beuthe Corey Avery Rockin' K

> All others who contributed their time and service

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER 532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

539-7621

Campus Bulletin

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY meets at 5:30 p.m.

BUSINESS COUNCIL PUBLICITY meets at

CASTLE CRUSADE meets to discuss the col-iseum at 7:30 p.m. in Seaton 201.

SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING ENGINEERS meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 152. RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Justin Hoffman Lounge.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP meet at 9 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi house.

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION meets at

PRE-NURSING STUDENTS meet from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in Eisenhower 14.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet for yearbook pictures at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has schedued the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Nancy Hubbard Reynolds at 3:30 p.m. in Waters 210. The dissertation topic is "An Analysis of Older Volunteers in a Rural Community."

FRENCH CLUB meets for a film at 7 p.m. at

FRENCH TABLE meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

Worker error causes outage

By The Collegian Staff

A maintenance worker's error cut power to a large portion of the University for about two minutes Monday afternoon.

Jack Watson, physical plant supervisor, said "it was a mistake he didn't realize he was making. He just shut the wrong switch off" while performing general maintenance duties.

Watson said he was unable to determine the exact number of buildings affected.

Buildings not affected, Watson said, included the Natatorium, Ackert Hall, Veterinary Medicine Complex, Throckmorton Hall, King Hall, McCain Auditorium, Nichols Hall, Durland Hall, the Wind Erosion Laboratory and part of Farrell Library.

Fantastic All the Works Burger

open daily till midnight

12th & Laramie 537-3999

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Ballard's in Aggieville

Largest Racquet Selection in the State

1218 Moro

539-2441

IMPORTANT NOTICE

ACCORDING TO THE KANSAS STATUTES AND REGULATIONS ALL STUDENTS ATTENDING KANSAS SCHOOLS ARE REQUIRED TO MEET IMMUNIZATIONS REQUIREMENTS.

are required to report year of: Last Tetanus Injection

(last within 8-10 years) 2. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-Ray (within last 10 monhts)

Students Born in 1956 or Before Students Born in 1957 or After are required to report year you had the disease or year of immunization

> 1. Tetanus (3 required) (last within 8-10 years)

2. Rubella*

3. Measles* 4. Mumps*

5. MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubells in

6. Polio (3 required) - oral or injection

7. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-Ray. (within last 10 months)

*Reported month and year is required

Be sure that your immunizations are up to date by stopping by Lafene Health Center by end of the Fall Semester. REMEMBER - THIS IS REQUIRED OF ALL STUDENTS

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

Agriculture college offers international education program

By BECKY WILEY Features Editor

Last summer, there was a 50-50 chance the wheat we saw in Kansas fields was developed at K-State.

Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture, said the agriculture experiment station has been a leader of development of varieties of wheat for Kansas and the high plains

"In 1985, 50 percent of the acreage in Kansas planted with wheat was planted with wheat developed at K-State," Woods said.

He said the College of Agriculture is one of the leading agriculture colleges in the nation.

'We don't have an official agency to rank such things," Woods said, "but the perception of people around the country is that K-State is a leader as a land grant university.'

K-State has the only grain science department in the world and it's recognized nationally and internationally for programs in international agriculture, Woods said.

The international grains program educates people from many other countries on ways to handle grains said. This complements the exporting of grains from this country.

The Department of Plant Pathology is one of the leading departments in biotechnology research, Woods said. Department Head Fred Schwenk said eight department staff members are studying molecular genetics. This is the largest group of its type in a plant pathology department in the United

These genticists are trying to develop ways to change the genetic makeup of plants by nonconventional and make the best use of them, he means, Schwenk said. He also said the Wheat Genetics Research Center has a collection of wild relatives of wheat used as breeding material for developing new varieties with increased disease resistance, insect resistance and drought tolerance.

> The Department of Animal Sciences and Industry is also making a positive contribution to the agriculture college. Woods said more of the faculty in this department has been recognized with national awards in recent years than any other animal science department in

Don Good, head of the animal sciences and industry department, said the faculty has been recognized by national organizations such as the American Society of Animal Science and the Mid-west Section American Society of Animal Science. In 1984, Curtis Kastner, professor of animal sciences and industry, won the Teaching Fellows Award from the National Agriculture College Teachers Association.

Woods said students graduating in agriculture are in high demand by agri-business and industry employers.

"Our approach is to have quality and effective programs in the training of people in agriculture to research and to seek solutions for agriculture and the extending of current technology to clientele in the field and the classroom," Woods

Editor's Note: This story is the first of an eight-part series highlighting each of the University's colleges and some of the outstanding programs associated with that college. Wednesday, the Col-lege of Architecture and Design will be highlighted.

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

YOU

Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

comprehensive *free pregnancy tests associates outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Hansen Nutrition Center

- Across from Village Plaze . WEIDER BODY-BUILDING PRODUCTS
- ALL MAJOR BRANDS
- OF NATURAL FOODS
- . DRIED FRUIT NUTS & SEEDS
- . NATURAL DIET AIDS
- BOOKS ON NUTRITION
- 537-4571

3112 Anderson HOURS: Mon. Sat. 9:30 a.m. 6 p.m.

TACO TUESDAY

TACOS

99¢ each 3 for $2.50 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. 5-9 p.m. AND

MARGARITAS

Strawberry or Lime 99¢ all day and night!

1115 MORO • 776-0030

Business

715 N. 12th St.

539-1413

SPECIAL SALE

Introducing the new Silver Reed EX-30

Daisy wheel correction typewriter 10-12-15 pitch

Regular $29900 Now thru Oct. 30

Your first 18 months at EDS can make the past 4 years pay off.

Find out how at the EDS Open House — October 31st

Your college education is the first step toward finding the career you want. Now Electronic Data Systems (EDS) Corporation can help put you years ahead of your contemporaries by offering the comprehensive training you need to excel. As a world leader in information processing, EDS offers the most advanced developmental programs available. You can find out more about these programs and the opportunities at EDS by attending our Career Open House to be held on your campus on Thursday, October 31, Systems Engineering Development (SED) Program. Prepares you to be a Computer Programmer, Programmer Analyst and Systems Analyst with emphasis on customer relations.

Engineering Systems Development (ESD) Program. Involves you in software development for robotics, CAE/CAD/CAM/ CIM, machine vision, manufacturing control systems, expert systems and simulation Accounting and Financial Development (AFD) Program. Prepares you for diverse positions in corporate accounting and finance in an information processing environment.

Systems Programmer Development (SPD) Program. Provides training in fundamental programming languages with the opportunity to design, implement and support EDS information processing applications.

Preferred majors include Business, Engineering, Computer Science, Physical Science and Mathematics. However, we will consider any other major with a strong interest in information processing and a technical aptitude.

Don't miss out on our Open House. Let EDS show you how your first 18 months on the job can make your college years pay off.

Plan now to attend the EDS Open House:

Thursday, October 31 6:00 to 9:00 P.M. Presentations at 6:30 and 7:30 P.M. K-State Union Sunflower and Flint Hills Rooms

Bring your mind to EDS.

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

Electronic Data Systems Corporation

Kansas State

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6566; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address challegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506

Student input necessary

Bramlage Coliseum: Has poor planning ruined K-State's chance for a first-rate facility, or are ill-attended in the past, and often alarmists making a big issue of a those factions present have come few minor problems?

The make-up of the Presidential Search Committee: Is the committee a fair representation rally behind a cause one feels of all concerned parties?

The impact declining enrollment may have on tuition rates and University programs: What should the University be doing to ensure quality educational programs continue despite fewer tuition dollars?

These three issues are of paramount importance to all students and faculty of this University. At noon Thursday in the Union Courtyard individuals will be provided dent input firsthand. an opportunity to express opinions and pose questions on these issues to Regent John G. Montgomery.

A speech by Montgomery, part of the Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee's "Let's Talk About It" series, will precede the question-and-answer Mongomery's presentation session.

Whether students are for, against or indifferent about these issues, they should seize this opportunity to become more in-

The status of the proposed Fred formed. Presentations, debates and open meetings concerning these timely subjects have been with solely negative or critical

> So many times it is easier to strongly opposed to than it is to advocate something that is positive. There seems to be less urgency to praise a job well done than there is to destroy something that has been illconceived.

"Kansas State: Direction '85" will provide a forum for all views to be presented directly to a member of the Board of Regents a group which hears little stu-

What will be most important Thursday is not who rallies loudest and largest behind their cause. The impact of the session will hinge on how many diverse opinions are intelligently expressed and based on fact.

Everyone should attend Thursday, and bring their facts, questions, a ready ear - and at least one friend.

Laurie Fairburn, for the editorial board

Editorial

Endless enemies: true lessons of Grenada

As Collegian columnist Mike Riley says, there are important lessons to learn from the Grenada invasion. I think we find them in the history of events beginning with the coup that brought the revolutionary Bishop government to power.

On March 13, 1979, Maurice Bishop overthrew a corrupt despot who had ruled Grenada with an army known on the island as the "Green Beasts." The new government appealed directly to the United States for assistance only three weeks later and was Bishop then accepted aid from Cuba. He invested in health care, education, roads and housing. With the help of donated Cuban labor and loans from the British and Canadian governments, Grenada began construction of a commercial airport and hotel complex in order to enhance its tourist trade.

Such independent initiatives were enough to guarantee him the unwavering hostility of the most powerful nation on earth. Jimmy Carter's State Department began by instructing travel agencies to warn tourists that Grenada was unsafe. Months later, Ronald Reagan launched a full-scale campaign of economic warfare against the impoverished nation, attempting to isolate Grenada from all international lending agencies.

As threatening White House rhetoric escalated, 1981 U.S. military exercises in the Caribbean featured a loudly publicized practice invasion of "an eastern Caribbean island" with the stated objective of establishing a pro-U.S. government.

As a result, the Bishop regime came to believe that the United States might invade unless an armed Grenadian populace could make such a move too costly. So Grenada began to stockpile small arms received from the Soviet block in order to enlarge the island's army and create a civilian militia.

JOHN EXDELL Guest Columnist

Bishop did not live to appreciate the futility of his efforts. In October 1983, he was overthrown and then murdered by a group of Grenadian army officers motivated by personal animosities and ideological differences. Because of Bishop's popularity, the newly formed military council had to disarm the island's civilian militia and place the angry and frightened populace under collective house arrest.

Did the Reagan administration then act "decisively," as Riley puts it, to rescue Grenada from the grasp of Cuba? Hardly. Before the invasion, Cuban leader Fidel Castro publicly denounced the coup and murder of Bishop, who was in fact his close friend. Indeed, a disgusted Castro sent reproachful diplomatic messages to the Grenadian military council refusing help in defending the island and stating that the 600 Cuban construction workers and 40 or so military advisers would fight only to defend themselves if they were directly attacked during an American landing.

This means that the United States could have deposed the murderous military council without an invasion. Diplomatic isolation from its western creditors, the freezing of assets or an embargo on oil shipments and spare parts would have sufficed to topple a tiny island regime, hated by its own people and denounced as an outlaw government by its principal ally.

Simply, the purpose of the invasion was not to free the Grenadian people from the killers of Bishop or from the clutches of Castro. The goal of the attack was, first of all, to reacquaint the U.S. public with the thrill of military victory, to ease us beyond the "Vietnam Syndrome," to prepare us emotionally to again use force against those who would attempt an egalitarian social revolution in the third world - in particular, Nicaragua.

Second, the invasion was useful in reaffirming the lie that Cuba is our natural enemy. The non-military approach would have meant cooperation with the Castro government. Killing armed Cubans (even construction workers will do) had the advantage of reinforcing the indispensible Cold War image of Cuba as our evil adversary.

What then is the lesson of Grenada? Once again, an oblivious U.S. public let its rulers create enemies and was then asked to take pride in the resulting violence as a victory over a terrible foe.

Perhaps one day we will see through this charade. In the meantime, we may have to endure a new ceremonial Hate Week every October on the anniversary of the invasion, while the true history of Grenada gets tossed down the national Memory Hole.

Editor's note: John Exdell is an associate professor of # American officials cruise

reasonable explanation.

Last week, congressional investigators and the General Accounting Office announced that State Department and U.S. Information Agency employees ran up tabs totaling $556,232 of taxpayers' money on luxury cruise ships such as the Queen Elizabeth 2 in a recent three-year period.

A better example of waste by the federal government would be hard to find.

If commercial airlines had been used instead of the cruise ships to transport government employees from the United government to States assignments overseas, the cost would have been $160,047, a savings of almost $400,000.

To make matters worse, the employees' time spent aboard ship was not vacation time, but actual duty time. This cost taxpayers an average of $200 a day in lost productivity.

The worst example cited by the GAO found a family of four on a 26-day journey, flying from Los Angeles to Colombia and taking a voyage along the east coast of South America to Uruguay for $21,956. If the transportation had been aboard a commercial airline, the cost would have been $18,396 less.

The word "junket" comes to

Some things are simply beyond mind rather quickly.

But why did all of this neglect for taxpayers have to take place to begin with? The entire situation shows neglect for taxpayers.

While the government should take most of the blame for this fiasco, the people who took advantage of the lack of regulation are at fault as well. It seems apparent that these people knew exactly what they were doing taking advantage of taxpayers and the government.

It seems a shame that these people, who knew they were ripping off the American people, cannot be punished.

On the more positive side, at least the rules for this type of travel have been changed.

The State Department has issued new travel rules that permit ocean travel only for medical reasons or when an employee agrees to use vacation time and pay the difference between a cruise ship and economy airfare.

In this era of massive government budget deficits, $500,000 of waste may not seem like much. However, taxpayers should not be willing to accept incidents like this as insignificant.

If they do, similar abuses are bound to occur again and again. Tom Perrin,

for the editorial board

Underclassmen should take interst in coliseum issue

While students debate the merits of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, the underclassmen don't seem to be as involved as they should be. When the money has all been spent and a building erected, it is we, the underclassmen, who will still be here. What will a new coliseum do for us, our spirit or our education? Unless we play on the K-State basketball team, probably not much.

Many of the K-State fans seem to have fallen under the fallacy that by building a new coliseum, they will have a great basketball team. Instead, we should be putting the money into renovating the existing facility, Ahearn Field House. The money saved could go toward building up the present athletic program and the academic program as well. A great program, led by a great staff, which also provides a great education, which graduates a high percentage of athletes with good GPAs, will attract top-notch athletes.

The program will attract the spectators, and then, when the crowds are bursting the seams of Ahearn's walls, it will be time to consider a new coliseum, one which will easily be financed by the gate receipts.

From the beginning of my freshman year, my professors have instructed that projects are always begun with preliminary studies to analyze what is needed before any designing begins. Isn't it strange that our own institution neglected the first six proper planning steps (master plan study, market study, financial/feasibility study, site study an traffic study) and started the coliseum project with the seventh planning step, funding, instead? Should we doubt the teaching of our architectural college or the intelligence of those pushing for the new coliseum?

We all want K-State to be a leading contender in the Big Eight, but a new coliseum, at a cost of $14 million, will not help that happen. I urge all freshmen and sophomores to carefully consider what the expenditure for a new building will do for them and then make their feelings known.

Let's work for bigger and better programs. When we have them, we will not have to work so hard for funds. We will also not be faced with a huge, new coliseum, half-filled at best. Top athletes will not come to K-State for the playing field. Instead they will come for the program. Hopefully, K-State officials will follow the architectural school's directives assess the needs first. We don't need a new coliseum!

Randy Brown sophomore in architecture

Speaker educates

We would like to compliment the Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee for sponsoring Katherine Brady's lecture on child abuse, incest and rape prevention.

The size of the audience and the amount of discussion her comments generated indicate this program met the needs and sparked the interest of many K-Staters and community members

Thanks so much.

Caroline Peine, director of Center for Student Development

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations.

National Association for Foreign Student Affairs conference at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City. It was a very rewarding experience to meet with foreign student advisers and other international students from other universities around the United States to talk and listen to problems international students face and are still facing in American institutions.

Coming to the United States to go to school is by itself an experience. As international students we face a lot of changes when we come to America, from speaking another language to experiencing a cultural shock things which are very hard to explain with International students all over the United States attending universities face similar problems we face on our campus, mainly lack of interactions with Americans. I urge you to get involved with activities international students try to do on this campus to bring to you their own culture to see and enjoy.

Generalizing about international students is wrong. Not all international students are the same even if they come from the same country. Ignore any bad experience you have had with anybody from another country and concentrate on the positivity of having international students at this University.

It seems so easy to see the wrong and forget the good. International students are very valuable resources of information on this campus. Get involved and widen your horizon. America is international so be international

> Kayed Khalil senior in electrical engineering and vice president of International Coordinating Council

Committee considers use of $700,000

By JILL HUMMELS Staff Writer

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee met Monday to begin discussion of how the $700,000 gained through refinancing would be allocated.

The 10-member committee indicated how proposals for the funds, to be used for "large, nonrecurring special projects and/or programs," would be considered on the following criteria:

The money would not be used for funding existing programs or groups that currently receive student activity fee funds.

The projects or programs should be a long-lasting and recognizable contribution to Special projects or programs should be broad and Universitywide based, and serve the best interest of the students.

Continued from Page 1

40,000 pounds of shredded paper

drifted from downtown office

Falling confetti also caused problems. Royals manager Dick

Howser, All-Star third baseman

George Brett and centerfielder

Willie Wilson were sidelined for a time when confetti falling on their cars apparently caught fire from the heat of the engines. No injuries were Fans along the route, still celebrating Sunday's 11-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in Game

7, skipped school or were given an extended lunch hour to take part in the hoopla. They hoisted themselves on bus stop shelters, bill boards, light poles and others' shoulders to catch a

"Who wants to work when you can be here?" said Duff James, a Kansas City native. "This is the greatest day in history for Kansas City. I own my own business, so I can do whatever I want. And today, I want to be a little

Nearly every fan wore blue, while some sprayed their hair or painted glimpse of the new champs.

Royals

buildings.

reported.

Board sets 5 criteria to rate requests

- Money would not be used for projects or programs that are the responsibility of the state of Kan-

The projects or programs should be self-supporting after the first year and not have the potential to become a future financial burden to students. The committee previously divided the approximately 30 proposals among the members to facilitate the review process. Members were to review the proposals assigned to them and report whether they were disqualified by the criteria. It was decided at the meeting that no binding action concerning disqualification would be taken until all proposals had been reviewed by the entire committee. About 20 applications were discussed during their faces the royal color. Many

Fifteen arches of blue and white fans tied blue ribbons in their hair.

into armbands or headbands.

baseball's best team.

1-3 deficits in both the American League playoffs and the World Series, the record of the Royals would suggest they were not

They finished the season with a one-game advantage over the California Angels in the AL West.

But their record of 91-71 was only the sixth best in baseball behind the Cards (101-61), Toronto Blue Jays

(99-62), New York Mets (98-64), New York Yankees (97-64) and Los

The mood was different in St.

Louis, where the Cardinals returned home unceremoniously as airport festivities and a ticker tape parade were called off. A few die-hard fans who showed up at the airport anyway found a stand set up on a designated parking lot vacant and the gate lock-

Angeles Dodgers (95-67).

the meeting. Each proposal was tagged with a "tentative yes," "tentative no" or "tentative maybe."

Committee member Jeff Vander Laan, senior in electrical and computer engineering and student senator, asked if applications which were eliminated could be resubmitted for funding consideration. All members agreed recourse should be available to those who offered proposals.

Committee chairman Mark Jones, senior in management and senate chairman, said those who submitted proposals which were eliminated would have the opportunity to file an appeal with a student senator. He said the applicants would be given one week to file an appeal between the time their proposals were cut and the time when senate would make final appropriations with the funds

Jones said he would send letters of acknowledgment to those who suggested proposals for the money's use.

Committee members from senate are Jones; Vander Laan; Chris Steineger, senior in political science; Bruce Ney, senior in agriculture journalism; Tona Turner, junior in journalism and mass communication; and Dan Fischer, sophomore in pre-law.

At-large members are Dan Schierling, senior in marketing; Mark Fischer, senior in general business administration; and Nancy McDonald, senior in accounting. Vice President for Educational and Student Services Pat Bosco is a non-voting member of the commit-

The committee will meet next Monday

Minority

Continued from Page 1

and financial problems," Slaughter said.

He said the caucus plans to focus on four areas - leadership development, community development, public education and higher educa-

Slaughter said part of the academic problem for minority students lies with poor advising. "Advisers are telling students to only take certain classes because they are minority student," he said. The lack of minority faculty members on campus also contribute's to a minority student's problem, Slaughter said. Switzer, too, cited minority faculty and staff shortages as part of the pro-

Audit

Continued from Page 1

portant because of the management responsibility Mr. Loub has and because of the fiduciary responsibility the board has.'

Acker said he notified Board of Regent Lawrence Jones of the incident "as soon as I had documentation of the facts." Jones, Acker said, thanked him for notifying him of the incident, "recognizing that it would be a Foundation matter.'

Loub was also asked to meet with all of the academic deans and central administrators for what Foundation officials called "perceived problems" among Loub, the Foundation and several University depart-

Buehler's reply to this issue was, There has been a further investigation of his personal relationship with members of the University admnistration which was also concluded satisfactorily.'

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

Stewart, said the final decision to move the coliseum or leave it as designed would be up to Bill Livingston of Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, the architectural firm presently redesigning the 13,000-seat structure.

"The lack of faculty and minority staff plays a role in how students see themselves in an academic environ-

Slaughter said he feels many of the minority students' problems could be solved if the administration worked

Switzer said his office is preparing to conduct a survey to determine perceived problems of minority students in higher education at predominantly-white institutions.

more closely with minority groups.

ment," he said.

Officials with Gossen Livingston were not available for comment on the geological studies and Barnett refused to speculate as to where the optimal coliseum site would be.

Cool said the entire campus area has poor subsoil conditions.

"It's been said that if the state wanted to select the sites for K-State and KU with the worst possible subsoil, they'd pick the current ones,"

McCain*

Comedian

Robert Klein

Friday, November 1, 8:00 p.m.

"A funny evening of singing, clowning, and improvising."

Order tickets early! Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

Continued from Page 1

helium-filled balloons were draped across the parade route, while blue and white crepe paper streamers mitted to the College of Veterinary fluttered from storefront windows, Medicine," Noordsy said. "The colbuilding ornaments, fire hydrants lege will still admit approximately and even fans who had turned them 100 students each year and the percentage of Kansans admitted won't change dramatically." But, despite rallying from 0-2 and

In return, University veterinary students will rotate through the Veterinary Science Department at Lincoln, Neb., to conduct research and work at the Meat Animal Research Center in Clay Center, Neb. The meat reseach center contains 25,000 animals and for use in genetic, reproduction and nutrition experiments.

Common disease problems, methods of livestock production and a similar tax base make cooperative agreements that combine the two states' veterinary instruction resources advantageous, Noordsy

"We hope the cooperative agreement will enhance food animal research in both states, open opportunities for continuing education and increase numbers of graduate students in veterinary medicine," he

At the regents' meeting Oct. 18, Acker told the board that the agreement should not be interpreted as an attempt to establish a regional veterinary medicine school.

Establishment of a regional veterinary school would permit the Nebraska regents more authority in the selection of faculty and the creation of curriculum.

'Hopefully, somewhere down the line, a regional school will be possible, but not right now," he said.

The agreement will not alter the tax obligations for Kansans.

T-Shirt Tuesday is Back! GEL YOUR Free Kite's T-Shirt with every 6 Pitchers bought on Tuesday.

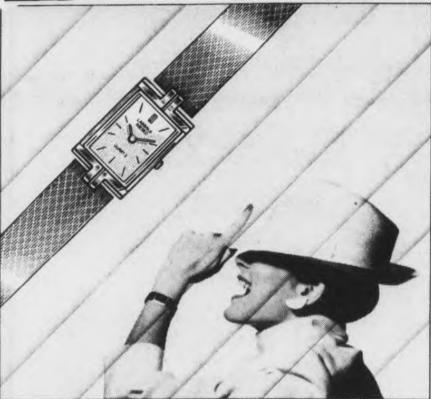

NOV. 1

1126 LARARMIE

Register to win 25 free sessions 776 2426

FREE DELIVERY 11 a.m.-1 a.m. 1116 Moro Buy a 16" pizza Get a 10" pizza FREE Falsettos 539-3830

Think thin. Here's Lassale Seiko's latest thought for her.

So much concentrated elegance in so small, so slim a beauty. Gleaming gold-tone: the textured bracelet, the clasped case, the minimally marked gilt dial. Also silver-tone to be had with gold-tone touches and a dark grey dial. Infinitely delicate, yet consider the durability of Lassale quartz performance.

SEIKO

GERALD'S JEWELERS

419 Poyntz 776-7600

There's No Trick To Treatin' You Right!

FREE ALTERATIONS

Register today to win one of ten Brass Buckle Gift Certificates to be given away! Worth up to $25.00 (Drawing Sunday, Nov. 3)

EASY LAYAWAY

118 S. 4th

M-F 9-8, Th. 9-9, Sat. 9-6, Sun. 12-5

Courthouse dedication to be delayed

By COLLEEN WILSON Staff Writer

The scheduled September dedication ceremony of the Riley County Courthouse Plaza may be delayed due to streetscaping of the intersection of Fifth Street and Poyntz

The project is to begin "next summer at the earliest." Brent Bowman, a Manhattan architect retained to work on the project, said during the Intergovernmental meeting Monday at the University Ramada Inn.

'We want to make the intersection a little more stable," Bowman begun, and the design process is just beginning.

"Over the next couple of months we'll be gathering information about the project and what the downtown business people hope to accomplish by it," Bowman said.

The dedication of Courthouse Plaza is to be coordinated with the 125th anniversary of Kansas, said County Commissioner Darrell Westervelt. Bowman said he, Riley County

Assistant Engineer Eric Shoults and City Engineer Jerry Petty plan to to discuss the project in the near Bowman said surveying has for the celebration, but I just couldn't tell you for sure," Bowman

> He said areas of the streetscaping may be near completion by the dedication date but "we've not really begun to look at the logistics of the projects. Perhaps that's something that I should take to the design team and see if there's any way it can be completed. I just can't tell you for sure (if it will be completed by September)," Bowman said.

During other discussion, Manhattan Mayor Suzanne Lindamood announced the city commission had agreed at last Tuesday's meeting to "We hope to have it all finished use city industrial funds to clean up the relocation site for Kershaw Ready-Mix, Concrete and Sand Co. Inc., near the present Union Pacific

The total cost will be $100,000 for site preparation, with city industrial funds paying $50,000. Lindamood asked county commissioners to consider funding the remaining $50,000.

Bowman said the area is "zoned perfectly" and the work would be necessary to find a new tenant for the land.

City Manager Don Harmon requested a decision by Thursday so the issue can be discussed at the next city commission meeting.

Medicine man to teach Indian healing practice

By The Collegian Staff

Manhattan residents and students will have the opportunity to hear and experience the power of a Native American medicine man this weekend.

Sun Bear, an American Indian, a Chippewa medicine man and member of the Bear Tribe of Spokane, Wash., will share his knowledge of native American philosophy and medicine ways. The lecture, "Path of Power," will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Manhattan Middle School auditorium, Poyntz Avenue and Ninth Street. Admission is $5.

Pat Embers, an apprentice to Sun Bear, said when Sun Bear was young he had visions of bringing people of all races together as one to help heal the earth and live in peace and harmony with one another.

"He basically helps people be in touch both physically and emotionally with the Earth Mother based on all forces - land, air, sun and moon.'

Embers said will be a workshop Friday through Sunday at the Council Grove White Memorial Camp. The registration fee, which includes lodging and meals, is $110, with proceeds going to the Bear Tribe.

The workshop will offer instruction of Medicine Wheel Gathering which deals with the circle of life according to the Great Spirit. There will also be sweat lodges, a process of cleansing the body, mind and spirit.

With the proceeds, the tribe members want to further their work with the publications center in Spokane, which prints catalogs of Native Americans, and with a camp outside of Spokane where Indian traditions are taught.

The lecture and workshops are cosponsored by the Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work and the Department of Psychology.

Student security guards inspect library

By LESLIE STOKES Collegian Reporter

Lurking in the stacks of Farrell Library a group of students employed as security guards are maintaining the safety of the library's collection.

"When the custodians went to daytime hours we needed someone to lock up and serve as escorts for the staff working late," said Rachel Moreland, head of Farrell circula-

The program, which began in the fall of 1983, makes extra staff available, Moreland said.

Moreland said the students usually work from 7 to 11 p.m. in shifts, one per night.

'They will take periodical swoops through the building, checking the stacks and doors," Moreland said. "Most often they find unauthorized,

AGGIEVILLE

TONITE'S SPECIALS

$200 Pitchers

Get ready for Aggieville's wildest and craziest

Oct. 31.

All kinds of FUN

This Fri. & Sat.

THE HEAT

539-9064

120 Moro

Halloween Party

unlocked doors."

When hiring the security guards, Moreland looks for a student who projects an image of authority, one who is level-headed and can think in an emergency. The circulation department hires in the fall or when there is a vacancy.

The average pay for the security guards is about $4 an hour, Moreland said.

The training process begins in the library.

"We are taken throughout the library and shown every nook and crany - doors that must remain locked and things we need to look out for," said Bill Holthaus, graduate in public administration and one of the security guards.

Holthaus said the Department of Traffic and Security instructs them about security procedures and confidentiality and then submits the

"I cover the whole library a couple of times, checking the doors and windows and looking for mischief," Holthaus said.

Holthaus said he hasn't caught anyone stealing books but there are strange things that go on in the stacks - rooms filled with book shelves and books.

"One year, they caught a guy flashing people," Holthaus said. 'Sexual misconduct also happens in the stacks."

Holthaus said keeping people somewhat in line is the reason it is so important to cover the library every

At 11 p.m., Holthaus makes certain everyone is out of the library and locks up.

On evenings of computer dumps information taken from the computers - the security guard may stav until 1:30 or 2 a.m.

The other security guards working for the library are: Chris Steinlage, senior in agricultural mechanization; George Hughes, junior in chemistry; David Kramer, senior in animal sciences and industry; and Dick Burdiek, senior in electrical engineering.

super Halloween party with $ daze Thursday. See Wednesday's Collegian for details. 1800 Claffin 538-9619 The largest and cheapest burgers in town are at

Restaurant & Fee Greamery

Eegee's 1/3 lb. Eegee's Jr. 3 oz. Bigger Burger 2/3 lb. Eegee's Pounder 1 lb.

All made with 90% lean beef! Come try our inflation fighting prices!

Now smoking & non-smoking sections

12th & 537-3999 Laramie

Open daily till midnight

Fall Special on new 1985 and 1986 cars

This rate is in effect until Nov. 15. Used car loans are 12%. Borrow up to $15,000.

Apply for a loan today. If you are not a KSU Credit Union member, there is a 60-day waiting period. But submit your application now to lock in this low 10.8% new car rate before the deadline.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday 532-6274

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers From Across the Seas $1.25

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Memberships available 539-9967 Memberships only $10.45 Reciprocates with all Aggie clubs.

Get yours today.

HOW DO YOU GET HOT, CHEESY,

Call Domino's Pizza. One call from you sets Domino's Pizza in motion. From that moment on, we do everything possible to make sure that your hot, custom-made pizza is delivered to your door in less than 30 minutes.

Our drivers carry less than $10.00.

Tuesday topping and four

Offer valid only on Tuesday

DOMINO

Get a 16" custommade Domino's Pizza with one bottles of Coke for only $8.99

Good at listed locations One offer per order. Limited delivery area. Expires Feb. 15, 1986

Name

Address 16006 DPF-003

Special

© 1985 Domino's Pizza. Inc.

Get a 12" custommade Domino's Pizza with one topping and two bottles of Coke* for only

Good at listed locations. One offer per order Limited delivery area. Expires Feb. 15, 1986

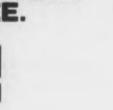

16006/DPF-003 Address

Manhattan 539-0561 517 North 12th Street

Hours: 11 a.m.-2 a.m.

Mon.-Thurs. 11 a.m.-4 a.m. Fri. & Sat. 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

One call: does it all: DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE.

Coke

14 Years Manhattan

"Our Business is Exhausting"

Rose Muffler House

700 North Third St

776-8955

Eugene

Bob

LINE UP BEAR

Auto Repair Wheel Aligning & Balancing

Autos-foreign & domestic

Pickups & 4x4's

Vans

Thermostats • Anti-Freeze • Brake Service TOWING SERVICE

776-4239

121 Poyntz

3rd. Street Battery Center

Come see us when your battery dies in the dead of winter

Installation available

Batteries for import cars

Ask about our nationwide limited warranty

Cordovan Batteries

776-3298

COUPON GOOD FOR 15% DISCOUNT

Tune-up • Engine analyzed • Brakes • Bodywork . Complete Paint

Import & American Auto Repair

BITTERSWEET AUTO FARM, INC. 11/2 miles west K-18

Rental Cars $10.00 a day and up

Expires Dec. 31, 1985

Coupon not valid with any other offer-one per customer

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK (913) 537-0644

GREEN LIGHT AUTO PARTS

2049 Fort Riley Boulevard Manhattan, Kansas 66502

The Auto Saver

Vayne's Quik Lube

will winterize your car! Radiator Flushes - $24.95 (includes cleaner/anti Freeze)

Oil Change, Oil Filter, Lube and all Key Fluid Levels filled $19.95

2304 Sky Vue Lane

PARKSIDE CONOCO

& U-HAUL

539-5431

B.F. Goodrich

C'mon America, Drive Over To

Lube, Oil & Filter

__ Elec. System Check Electronically test starting and charging systems and chack belts $799

Ride Master Shocks

Systems Analysis

Transmission Service Battery Sale!

Alignment

Tire Rotation

$2499 Disc Brakes

Radiator Winterizing

$MONEY TO LOAN$

Now's the chance to buy that vehicle you couldn't has

An UNBELIEVABLE $1,000 off any list price for your trade-in on your motorcycle, car, truck or R.V. Drive it, push it, or pull it in. Just get it in for INCREDIBLE DEAL!

AUTO WEST I 1/2 mile east of Manhattan Airport on K-18 539-4684 539-5121

AUTO WEST II-NEW 3/4 mile south of viaduct on 177

The best in full service Conoco products BF Goodrich

U-HAUL trucks & trailers

Tune-ups

conoco

Brakes

Exhaust

Trailer Hitches

. Heating & Air conditioning

537-1201

1026 Poyntz

16 Point Lubrication, Oil and Oil Filter.

Including Antifreeze to -20 F

Clean Terminals and Test Battery

FALL CHECK-UP

$39.95

Includes all fluids, clean windows and interior.

STAGG HILL TRANSMISSION

Don't get stuck this winter. Turn to the one you can count on for a dependable transmission.

WE SPECIALIZE IN

Front wheel drive

Four wheel drive

Overdrive Transmission

2333 Sky Vue Lane 539-2900

LUBE, OIL & FILTER CHANGE $9.95

Includes: Drain crankcase and refill with up to 5 quarts of a major brand multi-grade oil, install a new oil filter and a 20 point check and lubrication.

PLEASE CALL FOR APPOINTMENT.

Check out drastic price reductions on most popular sizes of General's Top Line All Season Radial.

SERVICE

2925 Claflin in Westloop Center

ALL SALES END NOV. 8, 1985

539-6431

210 No 4th. PH: 776-4806

Radiator Service

Battery Service

BURNETT Automotive

Two Locations "Where Service Is A Tradition

reg. $52.90

Come on down and take advantage of our prewinter specials during November in our sales and service departments.

COOLING SYSTEM SERVICE SPECIAL

LESS $1.50/GALLON REBATE (MAXIMUM $3.00)

*NEW MOPAR ANTIFREEZE *INSPECT HOSES AND BELTS

*PRESSURE TEST SYSTEM *COMPLETE COOLING SYSTEM FLUSH

(CHEMICAL FLUSH AND ADDITIONAL PARTS/LABOR EXTRA) *ASK SERVICE ADVISOR FOR REBATE CERTIFICATE GOETSCH-IRVINE

MOTOR COMPANY, INC. 4TH & LEAVENWORTH MANHATTAN, KS 66502

PHONE: (913) 776-4875 Present coupon(s) when order is written. Offer expires November 15, 1985. Cannot be used in

• CHRYSLER MODOR CORPORATION GENUINE PARTS

REX'S TIRE CO., INC. "You can't choose the right tire if you don't have a choice!"

Computerized wheel balancing

 Front end alignment •Mufflers •Retreads •Brake Service •Tune-Ups

Tire chains •Batteries

CORDOVAN UNIROYAL

DAYTON SUMITOTO

 One of the largest tire inventories in north central Kansas.

2 Locations

Main Store & Office 1001 W. 3rd

776-4081

Westloop Store 2829 Anderson

537-2170

Survey shows regional gasoline price disparity

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

It is a common complaint among student car owners that gasoline prices in Manhattan are higher than in other cities in order to take advantage of students.

In a comparative price study involving Manhattan, Lawrence and Kansas City, it was found that although on the average Manhattan gas prices were slightly higher, the difference wasn't significant.

Most of the difference in prices came when different companies were compared. For example, a Kansas City Amoco station, 701 Kansas Ave., lists its price for regular gas at $1.34. Manhattan's University Standard station, 1701 Anderson, charges $1.36 for its regular gasoline

Lawrence, another university city, is intensely competitive in the gas-pricing war. The stations polled listed their price for regular gas at $1.05 and unleaded at $1.15.

Convenience stores in the Manhattan area also experience this competition, said Jim Blacker, general manager for Manhattan Mini-Mart stores.

"We watch our competition and they watch us," he said. "It (gas pricing) is a big merry-go-round.'

Contrary to what most students think, Blacker said, Manhattan stations do not hike gas prices before a student vacation

"It scares us," he said. "If it's three days before a vacation we don't go up because the media picks up on it.

Blacker said fuel prices in Manhattan go through periodic changes "about every two

Chuck Reinecke, senior in computer science, said he has noticed a significant change in Manhattan's summer fuel prices and those right before students return. "I don't know if this reflects the student population's return or an overall trend. It's just something you accept," he said. Reinecke said he has noticed the competition between convenience store gas

"The Mini-Mart places keep a continual eve on each other," he said. "Prices don't differ much - maybe one or two cents.'

Eric Coyle, senior in computer science, said he really doesn't notice the increase in prices and doesn't think many other students do, either.

"Students don't put much priority on noticing it," he said.

Engines more sensitive to temperature

Cooling system a key to efficient performance

By Metro Newspaper Service

Owners of the more fuel-efficient vehicles built since the late '70s are advised of the importance of keeping their engine cooling systems in prime condition.

According to the Automotive Cooling System Institute, these engines are more sensitive to correct operating temperatures than were their predecessors of a decade or more ago. Engineers have designed engines to operate at higher temperatures due to down-sizing of radiators to fit in small

Ten years ago, larger radiators with 7-pound pressure caps kept the boiling point of an engine at about 230 degrees. Today's cars, which have smaller frontal areas and therefore smaller radiators, have necessitated a move to 15-pound pressure caps, which push the boiling point of an engine to 260 degrees. The hotter-running engines are also more fuel efficient and less be alert to unusually hot or cold engine operation and to take corrective measures before damage is done.

Maintaining efficient performances and long engine life demands conscientious attention to the maintenance of the vehicle.

This is easy for the owner whose car has a temperature gauge on the instrument panel. Over-cool operation or progressive overheating shows up on the dial.

However, most cars have warning lights which often don't indicate trouble until it is too late. For owners of these cars, the Institute suggests several danger signs to be Poor operation of the heater in the winter certainly is an indication that the car is not warming up. A cold-running engine often causes sluggish performance and poor fuel economy due to unburned gases. Additionally, unburned contaminants in the oil can cause sludge to build up in the crankcase.

If it's running too hot, eventually the warning light will come on. Meanwhile, however, an indication of a hot-running engine could be knocking or "pinging" under load or a tendency of "after-run" or dieseling when the engine is shut off.

Preventive maintenance of the cooling system is the key to preventing either of these symptoms.

Automobile winterizing begins early

By The Collegian Staff

While winter hasn't shown its stuff yet, now is probably the best time to prepare your automobile for the chilling weather right around the corner.

Rain, snow and ice easily take their toll on vehicles and in order to alleviate some of the wear, Charlie LaMaster, an auto instructor at the Manhattan Vocational Technical School, suggests a general tune-up is the best 'Right now is the best time to get your car ready for winter," LaMaster said. "It's probably no more critical than any other time but a lot of this stuff gets put off until the beginning of winter and it's not something you want to put off too long.'

When thinking about a vehicular winterwonderland, LaMaster said some of things to check are the alternator, battery, filters, oil, anti-freeze and tires.

One of the biggest, and most expensive, problems with automobiles used to be cracked engine blocks. Water in the radiator would freeze and not circulate, causing the engine to get too hot, resulting in a cracked engine

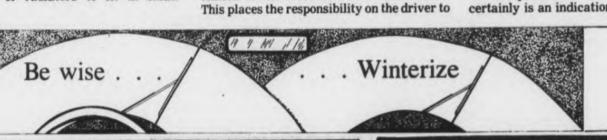

"It's really not as common anymore because people now use anti-freeze," LaMaster said. "People should not use water in their radiator anymore. It freezes at 32 F and sometimes, even if the air temperature is around 40 F there could be the supercooling effect in the lower part of the radiator hose making the raditor get too hot. It's had to think of something freezing which would make the engine get too hot, but it hap-

LaMaster suggests changing the antifreeze about every 4,000 miles

Another item to check is gasoline. Most gasolines today have a type of alcohol or ethynol mixed in. Those types of substances absorb water, which is a culprit behind frozen fuel lines

LaMaster also said newer models cars don't need a lot of idiling time in cold weather before driving.

"Most later model cars don't require warm-up time," he said. "Warm-up is usually better while driving than while sitting there idling. If the car doesn't drive away good you should get a tune-up.'

Prepare your vehicle now before you're snowed under.

Bring in this ad and receive a Radiator Flush/Fill, including windshield washer fluid, for $19.99 (Regular $25.99) No other discounts apply

SEAR'S AUTO CENTER

Offer good thru Nov. 2

4th & Pierre

776-8886

GIVE YOUR CAR A BRAND NEW LOOK

We will: 1. Sand

2. Seal

3. Paint, and

4. Oven-bake finish

Your car to keep it looking brand new for...... (dents and rust extra)

Schroll Body And Paint 539-3131

CAR CLINIC INC.

"We Care About You and Your Car" Specializing in Foreign and Domestic

- Auto Tune-ups
- Electrical Repairs
- Heater & Air Conditioner Service
- Automatic Transmission Service
- Diesel Engine Service
- Computer Engine Analysis

539-1040 214 Colorado

Over 45 Years

7121/2 Kearney

776-3169

Appointment Pick-Up and Delivery

Jim Spencer

Dazzle them with your shine!

Complete wash including whitewalls, interiors, windows, vinyl tops and carpeting. waxing, buffing & compounding extra

8-5 Mon.-Sat.

CHUCK'S CAR WASH

Does Your Car Wash Offer?

- Foaming Brush
- Super Soak
- Hot Wax
- •$1.00 and $5.00 Change Machines
- Bright lighting at night
- Four Super Easy-To-Use Vacuums
- Owner on Duty
- Safe High Pressure Hoses
- Aggieville location
- Towel Vender
- Two Chamois wringers
- •Free Car Wash w/specially marked cans of pop

OPEN 24 HOURS

365 Days a year 1st Anniversary Specials Coming Soon

CHUCK'S CAR WASH

1207 Bluemont

539-6407

Expert gives hints about combating diesel problems

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

When temperatures creep down to freezing levels, the problem of diesel fuel gelling can be combatted with various gas mixtures or engine heaters. "The wax crystals in the diesel fuels get so heavy that they block the fuel filter," said Bernard Strifler, transport driver for Farmers Co-op Association, Second and Pierre streets. Diesel fuels available - No. 1, No. 2 and Ruby - are of different grades and freeze at different temperatures, he said.

Diesel No. 2, a summer fuel, gels at zero to 5 degrees, Strifler said, No. 1 can temperatures to 30 degrees below zero. Most farmers use a D-grade diesel or Ruby diesel in their trucks because it's more refined and a lot cleaner, he said. Ruby fuel runs 4 cents per gallon higher at Farmers Co-op, but Strifler said he uses nothing but the higher grade.

"No. 2 is cheaper, but when the temperature changes it waxes up and will gel up on the road," Strifler said. It also creates more fuel filter problems.

Strifler recommended a mix of No. 1, 30 percent, with 70 percent of higher grade Ruby diesel. A second blend is 40 percent No. 1 with

By The Metro News Service

Some automobile repair and service jobs are beyond the technical abilities of Saturday afternoon mechanics. And even the simple jobs are not always inviting. After all, there is always football, or autumn walks, or camping...whatever! Face it, you'd better find a good auto ed to be frustrating, but much of the guesswork has been eliminated.

There is an organization, highly respected in the automotive industry yet still relatively unknown among consumers, that has devoted itself to improving the quality of automotive service and repair throughout the na-

The National Institute for

Automotive Service Excellence

founded in 1972 by various segments

Locating good automotive help us-repair shop.

Good auto technician necessary for car care

60 percent No. 2. The blends work best when the fuels are not mixed cold. However, once blended they won't separate.

If a gas blend is not available, "dump in a half tank of kerosene," because it thins the gas down by allowing the manifold to heat up so the fuel will vaporize, he said.

After an 18-wheeler has stopped in severe weather, the engine will cool down in a maximum of four hours, Strifler said. Cars would take less time to cool down since their 150 to 450-pound engines and 10 to 21-gallon gas tanks compare to a 2,000-pound engine and 260-gallon gas tank of an 18-wheeler, he said.

In addition to fuel blending, diesel can be kept warm with oil heaters or engine heaters, depending on the type of engine.

An engine heater works like a "little electric heater," he said. They heat the car engine overnight and plug into an electrical outlet. Oil heaters are placed where the dipstick goes, Strifler

Strifler said local service stations providing diesel fuel have the facilities to blend the gases, and recommends customers purchase the blends rather than unblended diesel No. 1 and No. 2.

business of certifying the competen-

Says ASE President Ronald

Weiner, "Don't call these pros

'mechanics' - their skill, dedication and eagerness to master the new, high-tech components make the term

ASE is an independent, non-profit group which gives voluntary cer-tification exams to technicians. Officials at ASE devote much energy to ensuring the fairness and accuracy of the exams. ASE's Director of Technical Services William Kersten has this to say about the exams:

"They are a tough, yet fair measure of a technician's skill and knowledge.

real-world work situations. Any question which seems tricky or overly theoretical is eliminated long before the actual tests are ad-

"The written tests correlate to 'technician' much more fitting."

cy of auto and truck technicians.

Simple maintenance basic to auto care

By LILLIAN ZIER Campus Editor

Lack of time, lack of money or lack of knowledge are among factors leading to students' neglect of their

Local mechanics noted that many students' vehicles suffer from negligence.

Dan Meseke, service manager at Murdock Chevrolet-Cadillac, Sixth Street and Poyntz Avenue, said a regular oil change is the most important aspect of car maintenance.

"Keep the oil changed regularly - about every 3,000 miles," Meseke said.

About 25 percent of the Meseke's customers are students. Of those, many do not properly care for their cars, he said.

"With most, there's a problem with money. They have to wait to get ahold of their parents. It kind of goes both ways though. Parents, or the students themselves, don't want problems here at school, so they keep the car up," Meseke said.

Fuels differ little among stations, he said. Consumer protection laws require all fuels to meet quality standards. Self-service discount stations and full-service stations may receive fuel from the same distributors, so despite the price, the consumer is using the same gasoline.

Jan Leonard, service manager at K-Mart, 401 E. Poyntz Ave., said student customers of the K-Mart service department generally take good care of their cars. "Most students whom we serve come from towns with K-Mart stores and they've been trained. We have a safety inspection program so they know general maintenance. Leonard said. "Those who don't take care of their car are uneducated (in car maintenance).'

Leonard and Meneke included tire rotation, wheel alignment, regular examination of the car chasis and shocks, and an annual tune-up in the list of general maintenance prac-

Tracy Carlile, sophomore in veterinary medicine, said she depends on friends to help her keep her car in running condition. When problems occur with her vehicle, she said she has her father of boyfriend work on it for her. She is currently having a transmission problem with her car, but does not intend to have the car checked unless the problem becomes worse.

"I check the oil every time I get ready to go on a long trip," Carlile said. "I never go to a full-service station.

Dave Prater, owner of University Standard Service Station, 1701 Anderson Ave., said some students are told by their friends or parents not to trust service stations.

"I train all my guys just the opposite," Prater said. "If I catch someone trying to rip someone off, they're out of here.

Most students tend to neglect their cars "very much," Prater said. "When we point it out, they still neglect their cars. They say they'll take it home, but they drive their car two or three months before taking it home," he said.

"If they could realize these things, they'd be better off and maybe people would trust service stations.

Prater said within the last three months University Standard has rebuilt three or four motors for students who have allowed their vehicles' condition to deteriorate.

Station attendants can visually check almost any part of the car within a matter of minutes and advise customers on upkeep such as replacing anti-freeze or worn belts,

> Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

From the problems of broken radiator hoses to needing an oil change, neglect can cause serious damage to cars. According to local service stations, students are most likely to let these type of problems go unnoticed.

539-9783

ministered to the technicians." of the auto industry, is in the 11 4 11/1/1/1/1 Winterize Be wise.

Get your vehicle ready now before winter winds blow in.

Can't Afford A NEW CAR??

Get Your Car checked For Winter!

Everything For Winterizing!

- Washing
- •Engine Cleaning •Checking &
- Waxing

Changing Antifreeze

Work Done by trained mechanic (12 years experience)

C & M AUTO CARE

309 W Third 537-1090

Mon.-Fri. 8:00-6:00 Sat. 8:00-12:00

Western Auto

Come To Western Auto For The Auto Parts You Need!

Prestone Antifreeze $4.49 sale price per gallon -1.50 mail-in rebate

$2.99 final cost per gallon Come see us for quality service and products Western Auto

$39.97 65-6526, 55, 58, 70, 6626 This High Energy design has up to 30% more pure starting power than batteries 50% larger. For 4, 6, and 8 cyl. gas

65 month battery

Store Hours 9-5 Sundays 8 to 8 Mon.-Fri. 8 to 6 Saturday

IT'S NO ACCIDENT -WE TRY TO BE YOUR BEST BET FOR ACCIDENT REPAIR

JERRY'S GETTY

AUTO & WRECKER

CALL US-WE CARE . . . MECHANICS ON DUTY

SUN SCOPE TUNE-UP . BATTERY

& CHARGE SYSTEM TESTER

WRECKER SERVICE

•FIRESTONE TIRES & BATTERIES • MUFFLERS & SHOCKS

*Open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon.-Sat. ★

ELECTRICAL SERVICE
 BULK KEROSENE
 SOLVENT

ENGINE STEAM CLEANING • MAJOR AUTO REPAIR

AUTO AIR CONDITIONING • WHEEL BALANCING •TRANSMISSION SERVICE • BRAKE SERVICE

1531 POYNTZ

- Complete Automotive Painting & Refinishing
- •Complete Auto Body Service
- Frame Straightening
- •Replacement Panels
- •Full line of Glass Installation

FLEETWOOD BODY SHOP "Quality and Service First"

3081/2 Moro Next to Long John Silver's

776-0071

LITTLE APPLE BODY SHOP

415 Yuma

913-539-8143

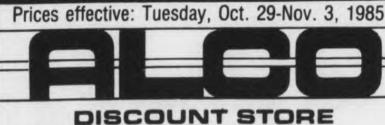

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

Insurance Claims

Sunday 11-6

Free Estimates

at Seth Childs

Welch, Alphin spark 'Cats to 1st win of season

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

It took seven games, but K-State football fans finally were able to see the effective, pass-oriented Wildcat offense that was talked about so much at the start of the season.

For the first six games of 1984, Wildcat supporters saw an ineffective K-State offense fail to score enough points to win a single game.

In K-State's 20-17 win over the University of Missouri Saturday at Columbia, the Wildcat passing attack, specifically the combination of quarterback John Welch and split

Soccer team wins 4 of 5

to take title

By The Collegian Staff The K-State Soccer Club men's team captured the 1985 Ed Chartrand Memorial Soccer Tournament championship Sunday in Overland Park with a 5-1 victory against Iowa

"This was a spirited effort involving both 'A'- and 'B'-team members," K-State Coach Clay Ross said. "The soccer program at Kansas State has shown it can compete

The win in the title game avenged

In the championship game, Harold

Rathburn opened the scoring for

K-State. Later in the first half, Rob

Healy made his first of two goals in the game to stake the Wildcats to 2-0 lead at halftime. Kevin Umidon,

Stuart Craig and Healy added goals in the second half. Iowa State scored

K-State opened the tourney with a

2-0 win against Central Missouri

State University. After the loss to

Iowa State, K-State rebounded to defeat the University of Missouri-

Kansas City 1-0 in the loser's bracket and Wichita State University 1-0 Sun-

K-State's women's team lost to the University of Kansas women's team

3-1 in an exhibition game Sunday its goal late in the game.

day in the semifinals

morning

a 2-1 loss to Iowa State in the second with the best in the Midwest."

State University.

round on Saturday.

end Gerald Alphin, provided the margin of victory

K-State trailed Missouri 17-6 midway through the fourth quarter, but Welch's passes and Alphin's catches brought the Wildcats back from the grave and sent the Wildcats home to Manhattan with their first victory of Welch completed 19 of 28 passes for 271 yards and two touchdowns, including the game winner to flanker Todd Elder.

helluva ball game," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said.

"I thought he (Welch) played a

On Saturday morning before the game, though, Moon was only con-cerned about whether Welch, who was filling in for the injured Randy Williams, would be ready to play.

"He didn't have any choice (about being ready to play.)," Moon said. "I talked to him (Saturday) morning and he said 'Coach, I've been over this 9,000 times and I've seen it in my

"He's got a lot of poise. He told me he knew he's not a great practice player, but games are played on Saturday and he plays on game

After a third quarter where Missouri's defense held K-State to one yard of total offense, Welch came alive in the fourth quarter.

University of Missouri-Kansas City player as teammate Ed Bennett watches K-State won the contest 1-0.

Welch was able to complete key passes in the quarter, including two touchdown passes that won the game for K-State. The man on the receiving end of three of those key passes was Alphin, who caught eight passes for 154 yards.

With 6:16 left in the fourth quarter, Welch hit Alphin with the 41-yard touchdown pass that brought K-State to within 17-12. Welch also completed the two-point conversion pass to Alphin that made the score 17-14.

The Welch to Alphin pass that will probably be most remembered, though, didn't result in a touchdown The big play of the game came on a desperation, fourth-and-18 tipped pass to the Missouri 10-yard line with 1:18 left to play.

"It (Alphin's catch) was incredible," Welch said. "He tipped it once, lost it, tipped it again and hauled it

Alphin said he knew of the significance of the pass when the ball was in the air.

"I wanted to catch it. It was our last shot," Alphin said. "If that wasn't it, we had no chance."

See K-STATE, Page 11

'85 Series high points plentiful

With so many notes, quotes and tidbits from the 1985 World Series, it would be impossible to write about them all or even pick just one item.

So instead, I will try to hit the high points of the Kansas City Royals' win over the National League Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

When President Ronald Reagan called the Royals' clubhouse following Kansas City's 11-0 win in Game 7, he accidentally called Dan Quisenberry, the Royals' ace reliever, "Jim" Quisenberry.

TOOD NIGHSWONGER

KC Manager Dick Howser was asked about falling behind 3-1 in the American League playoffs and World Series before win three consecutive games both times. Howser replied, "Somebody asked me tonight if I went from a goat to a hero. I've never been a goat and I don't plan on being a hero. I would like to be somewhere in between. Being called a 'goat' is being a little too harsh. I'm not from a farm and I don't plan on living on Added Quisenberry on battling back from a deficit: "We have a history behind us of coming from behind. We just found the cracks in the wall, or maybe I should say it was a rubber wall and we bounced off of it.'

While St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog and Cardinals

See SERIES, Page 11

K-State Soccer Club member Clint McKenzie attempts to steal the ball from a for a chance to assist in the play during a match Saturday in Kansas City.

Come Try Our Hot Tubs!

M-F 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sun. Noon-9 p.m.

- ★ Individual rooms for 1-8 people
- ★ Continually chemically fed
- * Remote control color TV

a unique

- * Individual changing rooms
- ★ Inexpensive rates

1214C Moro

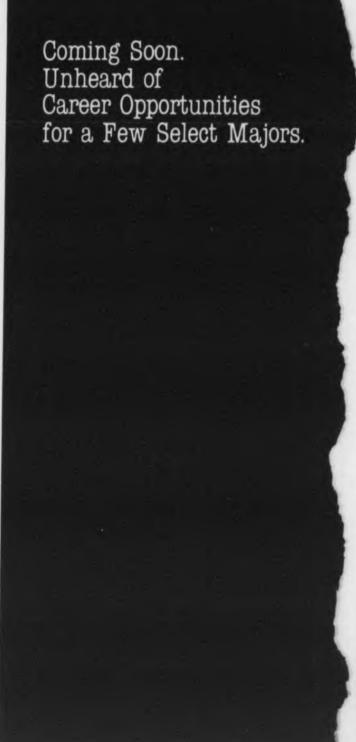

776-7874

opportunity for Home Economists Nutritionists/Dietitians

For you, and the world itself. As a Peace Corps volunteer, you can put your degree to work at a challenging, demanding and unique opportunity. You'll be meeting new people, learning a new language, ex-periencing a new culture and gaining a whole new outlook. And while you're building your future, you'll help people in developing countries with better methods of sanitation, nutrition and home man-agement. The financial rewards may not be great, but as a Peace Corps volunteer, your opportunity for

> Placement Center interviews: Wed. & Thurs., Nov. 6 & 7 Holtz Hall Free Film: Nov. 6-6:30 pm Union, Rm. 203 Info. table: 10/29-30, 11/6-Union

Electrical Engineers...Computer Scientists...

Mathematicians...Language Specialists.

The National Security Agency analyzes foreign signals, safeguards our government's vital communications and secures the government's massive computer systems.

NSA's unique, three-fold mission offers you unheard of career opportunities. Here are just a few of the exciting possibilities:

Electrical Engineering. Research and development projects range from individual equipments to complex interactive systems involving microprocessors, mini-computers and computer graphics. Facilities for engineering analysis and design automation are among the most advanced anywhere.

Computer Science. Interdisciplinary careers include systems analysis and design, scientific applications programming, data base management systems. operating systems, graphics, computer security and networking-all in one of the world's largest computer installations.

Mathematics. Projects involve giving vitally important practical applications to mathematical concepts. Specific assignments could include solving communications-related problems, performing longrange mathematical research or evaluating new techniques for computer security.

Language Specialists. Challenging assignments for Slavic, Near-Eastern and Asian language majors include rapid translation, transcription and analysis /reporting. Newly-hired language specialists may receive advanced training in their primary

In addition to providing you with unheard of challenges, NSA offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package. Plus, you'll have the chance to live in one of the most exciting areas of the countrybetween Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, Md.

Sound good? Then find out more. Schedule an interview through your College Placement Office or write to the National Security Agency

NSA will be on campus November 19, 1985. For an appointment, contact your placement office.

Unheard of Career Opportunities

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY ATTN: M322(N) Fort Meade, MD 20755-6000

U.S. Citizenship required. An equal opportunity employer

'Cats' Sandlin provides inspiration for tennis team in win over Baker

By The Collegian Staff

When K-State's men's tennis team played Baker University last spring, Baker won every singles and doubles match against the Wildcats.

What a difference one season

Friday at the L.P. Washburn Recreation Area tennis courts, K-State turned the tables on Baker by winning seven of nine matches.

Scott Sandlin, the No. 4 singles player for K-State, came up with perhaps the most impressive win. Sandlin edged Stan McDonald 7-6, 3-6, 7-5 but not before staging a dramatic comeback in the third set.

"Scott was down 5-1 in the third set and down a match point and came back to defeat his man," K-State Coach Steve Bietau said. "He could have very easily given that match up, but he stuck in there and gave us a much-needed victory.'

The Wildcats finished 4-2 in six singles matches. Leading the way was No. 1 player Deon Botha, who whalloped Mickey Behar 6-3, 6-1. Kris James at No. 2 singles defeated Gil Sahar 6-4, 6-3 and No. 5 player Shawn Walburn won a 6-1, 3-6, 6-3 decision against Bill O'Connor.

Scott Chandler at No. 2 and Darren Polite, the No. 6 singles player, both suffered defeat.

K-State's three doubles teams each won their matches. Botha and James defeated Behar and Huke 6-2, 6-2; Scott Chandler and Walburn were victors against McDonald and O'Conner 6-2, 6-2; and Darren Polite and Zane Burke edged Steve Lake and David Humble 6-1, 2-6, 6-4.

"Last spring, they (Baker) beat us 9-0," Bietau said. "We are making good progress. I was confident we could take two out of the three in doubles, but Sandlin's match really gave our guys a boost heading in (to the doubles matches)."

With the continued success this fall for the tennis team, Bietau can see benefits developing for the spring.

K-State

Continued from Page 10

Moon was impressed with Alphin's performance.

"If Gerald Alphin doesn't get Big Eight Player of the Week, I'm going to fire all of you guys (writers),' Moon said jokingly.

On Monday, Moon said that Alphin had been chosen as the conference's Offensive Player of the Week.

While it may be too early to tell, if Saturday's fourth quarter can serve as any indication, the K-State passing attack that had been absent through the first six games of 1985, may be a force to reckon with the remainder of the season.

Series

Continued from Page 10

pitcher Joaquin Andujar - both ejected in the fifth inning of Game 7 Sunday night - will not be remembered for being classy individuals, Darrell Porter and Steve Braun will be for the Royals. Said Blaylock of Saberhagen: "He's a unique individual. Look at what's happened to him this year. He's won 20 games. He's got a chance to win the Cy Young (Award) — I think he should. He had his first child and won the seventh game of the World Series. What can you do for an encore?"

The two St. Louis players - both former Royals - went into the Royals locker room after Sunday's game to congratulate the winners.

Royals pitching coach Gary Saberhagen, the 21-year-old pitcher a great feeling."

Saberhagen feels about the same way. "It seems like cverything I've done this year has gone right. I have the world at my feet. What more could I ask for?"

A reporter asked Royals right fielder Darryl Motley, who hit a tworun homer in the second inning of Game 7, how it felt to hit a home run Blaylock must be wondering if in a crucial game. "Did you ever hit anything will ever go wrong for Bret a home run?" Motley quipped. "It's

Jlassifieds

Reality

EVERYTHING THE

LITTLE WEASEL
DOES TICKS ME OFF...HE'S MAKING
MY LIFE MISERABLE!

THIS COUNTRY WOULD DO

WELL TO STOP SWALLOWING EVERYTHING YOU

SALESMEN DISH OUT!

I GOT UP IN THE MIDDLE OF

THE NIGHT AND ATE SOME

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

CAN'T STAND IT! KNEW ROOMING

Bloom County

MARKING

THE PRECISE

SPOT WHERE

HALLEY'S COME

WILL HIT.

Garfield

LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT MY

MONDAY MONDAY WAS GOING GREAT. I THOUGHT IT WAS GOING TO BE THE FIRST MONDAY OF MY LIFE THAT DIDN'T STINK

WITH NELSON WAS A BIG MISTAKE!

WELL .. JUST WHAT

SMARTY-PANTS

DOING NOW ?

15 MISTER

SCIENTIST

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.65 per inch: Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days; $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days; $3.75 per inch, (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

HERE COMES THE LITTLE JOKER NOW

FURTHERMORE.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont.

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

HOW COME YOU'RE EATING MY ALGAE EXPERIMENT?

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

I DON'T KNOW,

OFFICER ... IT

WAS EITHER A

BULLDOZER, A

ZAMBONI OR

A 747!

148

FURTHERMORE,

THEN I WOKE UP THIS MORNING AND MY MARBLE COLLECTION

WAS MISSING!

ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., today thru November 8th, Walk-ins welcome If you have any questions, call 539-5229. (43-47)

02

03

SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52) MYSTIC SOOTHSAYER trained in divination, and applied guidance, taking requests for personal horoscopes. Have success in every aspect of your life, through self-knowledge and your potential dest chart. For details, write to The Secretary, P.O. Box 2015, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-49)

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WE'RE SELLING your dream. Learn to fly. For more Information call Capital Air Service, 539-7623. (45-

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts . . . count on Sun chase! (45-56)

TOTAL IMAGE Salon: Perms $35; haircuts - $6 guys, $9 gals. Call Melanie, 539-4400. (46-50) USED BOOKS and magazines—buy, sell, trade. Trea sure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville. (46-48)

FOR RENT-MISC STORAGE UNITS from $15 monthly. Amherst Self

Storage in west Manhattan. 776-3804. (13tf) COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

FOR RENT-APTS

gieville. (28tf)

TWO BEDROOM basement apartment at 809 N. 11th, $290, bills paid. Call 539-8401, (1tf)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, 1837 College Hts. Available mid-October, 776-9124. (31-49) FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two bedroom, large kitchen, dishwasher, close to campus. Call 539 4959 after 5:30 p.m. (42-46)

Like a FREE VCR, Microwave

or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

Call for details 776-3804

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-3804. (46tf)

QUIET ONE bedroom, 1131 Vattier. Heat, water and trash paid, furnished or unfurnished. $195/month. Call Professor McGuire, 532-6786 or 776-5682 evenings. (46-55)

05

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TCHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing opportunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours

Prairie Glenn Townhouses (44-58)

537-3666 or 532-5881. (44-46) FOR SALE-AUTO

TWO BEDROOM, washer and dryer, clean, $275. Call

1976 VOLVO, very dependable. New tires, great shape, $2,400 or best offer, 539-4373, (44-47)

1975 VOLKSWAGEN Rabbit. Call 537-3192. (44-46) 1967-VW Bug—newly rebuilt engine. Good tires, bat-tery. 1-494-2388, St. George. (44-50)

VAN, 1974 Ford E200, 3/4ton, 302 V8, extraordinary running condition, extras, $850. Kurt. 537-7724.

LATE 1984 Chevy 1-ton dual, 454-automatic, Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352 or 913-668-2214. (45-4)

FOR SALE-MISC

FOUNTAIN FALLS Tropical Fish - One week guarantee on all fresh-water and marine fish. Monday through Saturday, 10:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-8:00 p.m. Sunday 12 noon to 5:00 p.m. 539-1676. (42-46)

VINTAGE FUR pieces, including two short jackets and a stole. Great for Halloween costumes, theater productions and other "dress-up" occasions. 1 456-9364, Wamego. (45-47)

ELECTRIC GUITARS: Gibson Flying-U, excellent condition with case, $425; Kramer 400ST with Floyd Rose, $175. Kurt, 537-7724.(45-46)

The Guitar Shop 2513 Stagg Hill Rd. 776-6167 Switchcraft 25 Ft. Guitar Cables $15.75 All Guitar Strings $5.00 a set New & Used Equipment Guitar Repairs & Set-Ups by Mike Plas

FOR SALE: New age encyclopedias, full set in excel-lent condition. Asking $125. Call 539-4800. (45-47)

Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger

This coupon expires 11/2/85

SMITH-CORONA portable Electra C-J Correcting typewriter, like new, $120. Phone 1-765-3695. (45-

NAGELS-TWO posters by Patrick Nagel: "Gallery Michael" and "Nagel." Best offer, 776-5278 (46-49)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

1975 CHICKASHA-14 x 65, front bedroom, two bath, nice home. Only $6,900 or $150 monthly with 10% down payment. Countryside Homes, 539-2325. (42-46)

1979 MOBILE home-three bedroom, central as priced below appraisal. Available now. 776-3702.

1968 GREAT Lakes—12 ' x 65', three bedrooms, appliances. Excellent buy, $5,200. Call 776-6956 eve

nings. (46-56) FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1981 HONDA CM400-Must sell, runs well, 9,000

miles. Call 539-5871. (45-49)

FOUND 10

GRACE WINTERMAN-We have your KSU I.D. in

Kedzie 103. (45-47) THE FOLLOWING items can be identified and laimed in Farrell Library, Circulation Department:

Magnifying glass with "Rexanne Clark" name sticker, Snoopy zip-bag with calculator, digital quartz watch; two PE textbooks (one for Concepts. one for Therapeutic Rec); two speech workbooks; one Classroom Reading Instruction; one ampl fied Bible; one Serial Gd. to Sub-Sahara Africa. (45-

FOUND: BICYCLE on campus. Call 776-3741 between 4:00 and 5:30 p.m. to claim. (46-48)

HELP WANTED

us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68) PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking knowledgeable office manager with strong horticulture background. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities All inquiries strickly confidential, 1-913-776-0397. PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking experienced, motivated, Landscape Designer/salesman. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397. (45-49) POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Seminar Leaders — Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1986. Specific duties include: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a General Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session; and d) attend ing and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students, c) desire to perform in the role of a helping person; d) are sensitive to the needs of others; and e) have a solid grade point average, es-Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class, EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit) during Spring 1986 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1986 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview. (45-49)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by

START YOUR career now. Earn money and work on Fortune 500 Companies' marketing progams on campus. Part-time (flexible) hours each week. We give references. Call 1-800-243-6679. (45-47)

EARN MONEY on all magazines sold on campus. Need people to post information. Good profit. Write, BPC, 8218 Hardy, Overland Park, KS 66204. COLLEGIATE JEWELRY Distributors allows college students to own their own jewelry and sunglass bysiness. We sell quality sunglasses such as Ray Ban, Vuarnet, Porsche Carrera, Our jewelry prod ucts include solid 14kt gold jewelry (chains, ear rings) as well as gold jewelry which is layered with 14kt gold and guaranteed for life. All of our prod-ucts are sold to the student business owner at near wholesale prices. This is a great and fun way to earn money from your dorm, frat/sorority, apart ment or home. For our catalog: Collegiate Jewelry Distributors, P.O. Box 555, Randalistown, Md. 21133 (46-48)

DIRECTOR OF Christian Education: First Presbyterian Church seeks full-time Director of Christian Education Leadership training and development of a growing ministry with children and youth are the priorities. Must work well with other staff, committees, and volunteers. Position open immediately Send resume to: Director of Christian Education Search Committee, First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS. 66502.

LOST

WILL THE trouser pilot who stole by gray Jansport backpack from Union Bookstore Thursday, please return. No questions asked. Call Pat, 539-2563. (46)

NOTICES 15

14

OVER 1,000 costumes-Men's, ladies' and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early. Marie's Costumes. 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (30H) ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. today thru November 8th. Walk-ins welcome. If you have any questions, call 539-5229 (43-47) TUBE STEAKS! All you can eat! We'll dress your dog with chill and cheese sauce. You finish it off with cold toppings at the salad bar. Tuesday, October 29 in the K-State Union Stateroom, 4:30-6:30 p.m. (45-

PERSONAL

PATTY R - We're proud. Queen Patty, of your royal reign as Flush Bowl Queen '85 Congratulations' Love, Theta Sisters. (46)

TRI-DELTS, CONGRATULATIONS for Powder Puff championship Luv ya. The Pikes. (46)

THETA PATTY. Congratulations on being crowned the 1985 Flush Bowl Queen. The Phi Delts and Sigma Chi's couldn't have made a better choice

Hold that plunger high Love, Cindy (46) OUR "DEAREST" Steve B .- Thanks for the new K-State image. We "love" you for it! 146

AGD CRYSTAL-Glad I missed the seafood dinner. T. PATTIE, BIG Sis Terri, and all searchers. Thanks for the eye opener I love you all. Rob. (46) BITTE BRO "Easy" for Lawrence don't you hate it whens, graveyard runs, Tuttle cuddles and being monotone you No punting permitted UR special—Sis (46)

PATRICK, HAPPY 20th, kiddo! Opps. I guess I can't call you that anymore! Hope your B-day is the best ever! ILY! Paula (46)

Lindo - 2, 4, 6, 8, score before you graduate! Today?

LISA-HAPPY 21st, "bestest friend ever!" I love you lots M (46)

PHI KAP Lif' Sis Tulin: My life has been bliss, since you became my III's is. The clues and candy were great, I ate and I ate. Thanks for the cavities, slime.

Just kidding! You know I think you're simply mar-velous. Love ya! Big Bro' Bill. (46) SONIE-HAPPY 20th from the girls next door. You make a sexy old lady! (46)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted - Two bedroom, one and one-half bath, exceptionally nice, westside location, $162.50 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-2050 after 6:00 p.m. (43-47)

THREE GIRLS looking for fourth to share a special four bedroom, two bath duplex. Low utilities, washer and dryer, large yard, walk to campus. Avail able now and spring session Call 776-3069 (43-47) ROOMMATE WANTED: Close to campus and Aggieville, own room, $95/month, one-sixth utilities, 539-0435. (44-48)

FEMALE-NONSMOKING to share duplex. Own room, washer, dryer, dishwasher and microwave $133 plus one-third utilities Call 539-9293. (44-48) NONSMOKING MALE roommate wanted. $137.50/ month, utilities paid. Call 539-5913. (46-48)

MALE. SPRING semester-Close to campus. fur nished, $110 plus one-half utilities Call 539-3914. FEMALE ROOMMATE to share three bedroom apartment. Own bedroom, only $150 per month. Call 776-3706 after 6:30 p.m. (46-50) ROOMMATE NEEDED for new condo. Washer, dryer, microwave, dishwasher, VCR, three bedrooms two baths, $150. Available November 2. Call 537-4777 QUIET ROOMMATE wanted in house two blocks from campus. $95 plus utilities. 776-8729. (46-48)

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment 228 Poyntz, 776-4240 (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional

quality. letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539

5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (41-

TYPING - FAST and accurate. Pat, 537-8103. (42-46) VW BUG Restoration - Come out for a consultation See how good your Bug can look J & L Bug Service. 7 miles east. 1-494-2388. (42-47) VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at

J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services, 539-6912 or 539-3773. (46-49) PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word proc essed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (46-47)

WANTED TO BUY

NEED UP to ten tickets for KSU-NU game. Call 776-3273 with name, phone number and price. Will pay cash. (44-47)

rossword ACROSS 53 1/746 of 36 Deep sea edge of a frigid painter

(song)

- It Be

air mass

last words?

shockers

5 Fishhook 37 Desert prong havens 38 "Food from 1 Decorated 21 Eastern 9 Successful play heaven' 12 Singer 40 Char Guthrie 42 River 13 Winglike island

1 Enemies

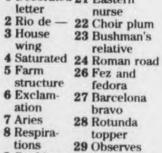

14 Harem 43 Leading room 15 Gardener's structure 17 Spinner 48 Bachelor's 18 Cozy 49 Ireland retreats

50 English 19 Sufficient 21 Ghastly pale (song) 24 Type style: 52 Bristle abbr.

25 Space frontier 26 Hightempered people 30 High, in music 31 Blanches 32 - the line (conform) 33 Serious predicament? 35 Attica

11 Record

16 Marsh

20 West or

Murray

a horsepower

DOWN

letter

2 Rio de

3 House

wing

ation

tions

7 Aries

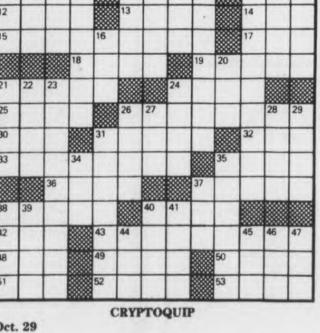

5 Farm

9 Cooking 31 Royal resaids idences 10 Pagan 34 Bump on deity the skin Avg. solution time: 24 min. 35 Scopes trial lawyer

37 Bumpkin 38 Post 39 Assistant 40 Skirt feature

Oliver 44 Paydirt EEPITUP 45 WWII org. ESTIMATE 46 — picker ETA ABET (fussy one)

10-29 47 Asian

Oct. 29

MRQ JUYEL WBXHUMQE YEGVB VWVJXXL PJVWQI IHWW@UM HU

PJEBQUMQE W" VUHGU PURCHASED AT SALE: A GOOD THROW RUG.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: V equals U

25 33 38 | 39 42

Yesterday's Cryptoquip - WHAT IDLE PITCHER

Mall plans reflect campus buildings, Manhattan history

By JONIE R. TRUED Collegian Reporter

In planning the Manhattan Regional Shopping Center, agriculture buildings on campus played a major role in the design of the downtown mall project, said Paul Hanegraaf, design architect of Forest City Rental Properties of Cleveland.

During the first public presentation of the plans for the mall, 7 p.m. Monday at the Community Building, slides depicted the mall's front facade resembling K-State's Dairy Barn, north of Throckmorton Hall.

Hanegraaf said the front facade of the mall needed to reflect the history of the Manhattan community.

He said when designs were initiated for the Manhattan mall, architects found many older buildings reflecting the history of the community. Holtz Hall and the Dairy Barn were two of the buildings featuring a cupola, a design incorporated into the mall's front facade.

Materials proposed for the mall's main exterior surfaces will also look familiar to students, with developers planning to use bricks resembling cottonwood limestone blocks.

Gary Ceepo, project director for the development, said the mall was a complex project.

"We tried to satisfy traffic, existing buildings, on- and off-site utilities and safety considerations." Ceepo said plans were 40 percent complete for the 33-acre facility. Current plans indicate the mall is to be a single-level, multi-purpose center. Another feature of the mall will be a small plaza in front of the mall's main entrance.

Major access points to the mall will include Fourth, Pierre, and Humboldt streets.

Bernd Foerster, professor of predesign professions, said the mall is expected to attract daily crowds of 12,000 to 13,000, while during weekends 20,000 to 21,000 people are

Foerster said the primary market area for the mall will include Junction City, Clay Center, Council Grove and Westmoreland in addition to Manhattan and Fort Riley com-

"Since we're the first to have it, there's less danger of competition,' Foerster said.

Foerster described the downtown as "the front door" of Manhattan.

"For the sake of K-State we have to keep the downtown alive," he said.

Halloween Spooktacula

We Will Be Giving Away

These Great Prizes!

A FREE TRIP TO HAWAII FOR TWO!

Dark Horse Drinking Cups For The

Coors Products: Lights, Mirrors, etc.,

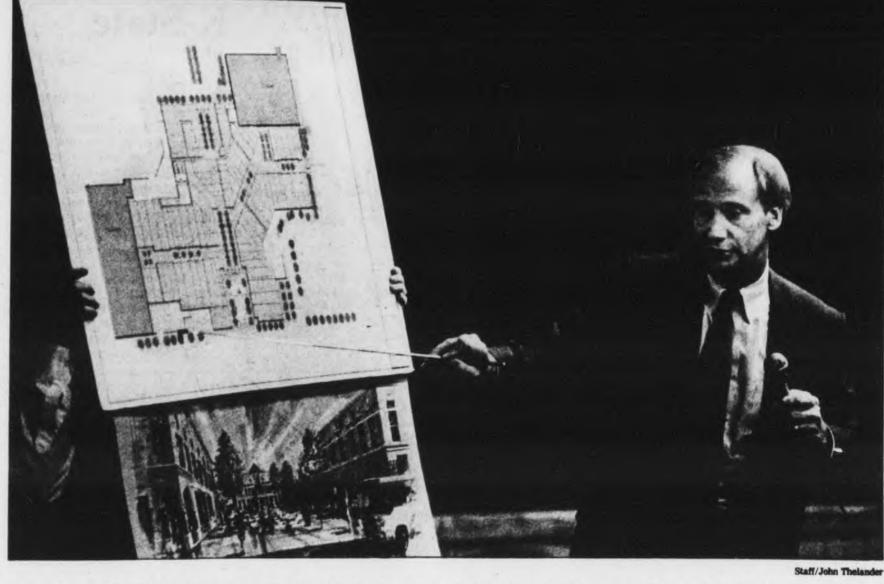

Come To See Or Participate In These Great Contests: Best Costume - Sexiest Costume

> Most Original Costume Also By Popular Request

The Exotic Jell-O Snarfing Contest. THE FUN STARTS AT 7 PMI SEE YOU THEREI

First 100 People in Costume!

· Dark Horse Halloween Shirts

Gary K. Ceepo, of Forest City Rental Properties Corp., Cleveland, answers questions about the proposed downtown mall Monday night at the Community Building. The opening construction date for the mall has not been set, but the opening date is set for Aug. 6, 1987.

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

> LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

532-6544 "Your Medical Facility"

> Announcing SKINNY DIPP'N TUESDAYS

Eat a whole plate full of loaded potato skins for just 50¢. Eat all you want every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.

Ramada Inn

TACO TUESDAY

UNO 2 Tacos + 1 Margarita $2.99 DOS

Have it 3 ways:

2 Tacos + Salad Bar $2.99 TRES 3 Tacos $2.75

BOCKERS RAMADA INN

From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Stop by in your Halloween costume and Offer good thru Oct. 31

The Hair Experts 776-4455

Octoberfest and Halloween Special

receive $5.00 OFF your next cut.

Aggieville

ISLAM IN AMERICA

A Public Lecture by:

Steve A. Johnson

(Ph.D. in philosophy)

Editor of Islamic Horizons International and Director of Islamic Teaching Center in Plainfield, Indiana.

Date: Tuesday, October 29, 1985

Time: 7 p.m.

Place: Forum Hall, K-State Union.

Sponsored by Muslim Community Association.

HALLOWEEN BALLOONS Orange and Black

Rubber or Mylar For Your Halloween Party

Balloon Boutique

on down tonight for 90¢

MARGARITAS

Join us for the first annual Halloween Jager Monster Party this Thursday night. 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

539-4321

John Paul Roche

Haircut & Style only $9

Regular $11.50 with coupon only-through Nov. 30, 1985

ROCHE'S HAIRSTYLING

11271/2 MORO MANHATTAN, KS

CPR Saturday

November 9, 1985 KSU Rec Complex

Welcome Everyone

Choice of 21/2 Hour Sessions

 Pre-Registration Required — Oct. 28-Nov. 1, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

KSU Union Concourse

American Red Cross

Sponsored By:

Lafene Health Center American Red Cross KSU Rec Complex Phi Upsilon Omicron

Radio Shaek

PLUS COMPUTER DEPARTMENT

BUY A TANDY 1000 GET A COLOR MONITOR AT NO CHARGE

Save $299.95 and Get Everything You Need to Start Computing-Including DeskMate™ Disk Software

Only

Reg. Separate Items 1298.95

■ DeskMate Has Six Applications on One Disk: Text Processing, Telecommunications, Filing, Mail, Spreadsheet and Calendar/Alarm ■ Tandy 1000 is Software Compatible

With the IBM PC—Choose from Thousands of Popular Programs ■ CM-4 RGBI Color Monitor Features

80 x 25 Text and 320 x 200 Graphics

■ Easy to Expand to Meet Your Needs

Radio Shaek

In Anderson Square Phone 539-6151

Mon Fri 9 00 6 00 p m Sat 9 00 5 00 p m Closed Sundays

"A RADIO SHACK DEALER"

Kansas State

Wednesday

October 30, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 47

U.S.S.R. offers SDI testing for radar system's updating

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Soviet Union has offered to halt construction of a suspicious Siberian radar and to accept small-scale tests of the controversial U.S. "Star Wars" program, Reagan administration officials said Tuesday

But the offer to halt work at the Krasnoyarsk site, which President Reagan branded as illegal in a report to Congress, is drawing a skeptical U.S. response because it would depend on the United States not going ahead with the modernization of earlywarning radar in Greenland and Britain.

"They have made us an offer we can an official said, stressing the importance of upgrading the Thule and Fylingdales radars in alerting the United States to a nuclear attack.

The Soviet gesture on Star Wars, however, is considered a positive move in dealing with the main impediment to progress on a new nuclear arms control treaty. Reagan's $26 billion program to develop a high-technology anti-missile shield has slowed arms negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland.

Both proposals, through diplomatic channels in Geneva, appear to be part of a concerted public relations campaign by the Soviets in advance of Reagan's Nov. 19-20 summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The Soviets are resisting cuts in offensive nuclear weapons unless curbs are also applied to the Strategic Defense Initiative. But Reagan has refused to submit the program, known popularly as Star Wars, to the give-and-take of the negotiating table.

The president also concluded this month that research, testing and development of anti-missile technology does not violate the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty with the Soviet Union. The Soviets, and many American scientists and analysts, insist that the U.S. program flouts the arms control

However, Gorbachev informed Sen. Sam See SOVIETS, Page 5

Power outage may pose problem to students for next 6 to 8 weeks

By A. SCHARNHORST Managing Editor

Monday's power outage was short in duration but may affect University computer students for the next six to eight weeks, a Department of University Computing Activities official said Tuesday.

The outage, which lasted less than three minutes, "crippled components" in the academic computer labs and "shortened (their) life tremendously," said Dennis Reith, manager of academic computer operations for computing activities.

A power surge or outage affects computer equipment just as it would any other electronic equipment, said Mel Kepple, associate director for operations for computing activities. Swift electrical changes such as surges may damage electronic Administrative computers were apparently not affected by the power outage, which occurred Monday afternoon when a maintenance worker accidently shut off the wrong power switch.

The damage to academic computers those used by students enrolled in computer science classes - includes equipment depreciation and actual damage, some of which may not surface for six to eight weeks, Reith said.

'The types of damage we're going to find will be numerous," he said. "...Some devices are down and need repair," and other problems will develop in the next few weeks. "We don't know the extent of it yet," Reith said. For this reason, no monetary figure can be attached to the damage, he said.

Terminals in the Seaton, Durland and Fairchild halls remote labs are working, but causing some problems, he said. The microcomputer labs in Fairchild are currently working, but Reith expects "flaking out" - intermittent memory error - as time goes on.

"I'd say the microcomputers have the greatest type of damage because of the sophisticated components they have in them." he said.

"If there are problems down the line, we'll know the power surge was the due cause of it," he said. Because the University computing activities department mainframe computers were not affected, Kepple said the problems were minor.

University administrative computers also were not affected, Kepple said.

"We didn't have any problem at all,"

See POWER, Page 5

Enrollment in schools holds pace

By CONRAD EASTERDAY Staff Writer

Four of six Kansas Board of Regents' universities kept pace with their peers regarding enrollment increases and decreases from 1984 to 1985, according to figures recently released by the regents.

K-State and Emporia State University were the only regent schools that fell significantly behind the average for comparable universities. Enrollment changes at other schools either paralleled the average change or were higher than average.

K-State's enrollment dropped 2.9 percent from 18,092 in 1984 to 17,570 in 1985. The enrollment average for six similar land grant universities with K-State included did not change over the same period.

Oklahoma State University and Oregon State University also recorded enrollment losses in the 2 percent range. Offsetting gains at Colorado State, Iowa State and North Carolina State Universities combined to hold the average at zero.

The regents used non-land grant institutions in the same states to serve as peers for the University of Kansas. Enrollment there increased by 1.4 percent from 1984, while the average for KU's peers rose 1.8 percent

Tom Rawson, director of planning and budget for the regents, could not explain why the non-land grant institutions on the whole fared better in attracting more students than did the land-grant schools in those states. "I don't know what to assign the power bank for electrical lines Tuesday above the alley between Laramie allow for more efficient service in the Aggieville area.

See ENROLL, Page 13

Of lines and men

Steve Ukena and Steve Lamb, employees of KPL Gas Service, work on a and Moro Streets. Work on the lines will be complete in a few days and will

Division makes plea for funds

By SARAH KESSINGER Collegian Reporter

The K-State Division of Cooperative Extension has made a $100,000 legislative request for funding the continuation of the state water plan.

The plan was coordinated and supported in 1984 by representatives of Cooperative Extension, the Kansas Water Office, the Department of Health and Environment and the Division of Water Resources.

In a Board of Regents' meeting in Pittsburg last week, the regents approved the request which will filter through the state budgeting process, Gov. John Carlin and the Kansas Legislature before it may go into ef-

The state water plan recommends a coordinated educational plan be developed by these departments and delivered by extension specialists.

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents, said the regents believed it was a good move.

"It's a very good idea to consolidate the state's efforts at water conservation through the Kansas State extension program," Koplik said.

He noted the plan was reviewed by the Kansas Water Office and the Department of Health and Environment in addition to the regents.

The funding request would be split among Cooperative Extension, the Department of Health and Environment and the College of Agriculture, said Hyde Jacobs, assistant director of extension agricultural programs.

See WATER, Page 10

Three-month delay comes to end

House approves Pentagon budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The House on Tuesday approved a bill authorizing a record Pentagon budget for the current fiscal year after some liberal Democrats dropped complaints that had delayed the measure for three months.

The bill, approved by voice vote, authorizes Defense Department spending of $302.5 billion in the fiscal year that started Oct. 1. That will buy thousands of planes, ships, tanks and other weapons, but it also halves President Reagan's MX nuclear missile program from 100 to 50 of the 10-warhead weapons.

It also permits development of new chemical weapons for the first time since 1969, although money to actually pay for the project was stripped last week from a companion spending bill. Those funds will have to be restored on the floor or else the Army could not build the nerve gas bombs and artillery shells.

The Senate approved the authorization measure 94-5 three months ago, shortly after it emerged from a House-Senate conference committee called to resolve 1,200 differences between the versions passed by the Democratic-controlled House and Republican-run Senate.

But some House liberals were unhappy with the bill, arguing that House members of the conference committee, led by Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., made too many concessions.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., said Tuesday "the position of the House was not well-represented" in the conference committee For example, the House originally voted for a $292 billion Pentagon budget, but the conferees accepted the Senate-approved $302.5 billion. Reagan has said he supports the measure, even though it limits the increase in defense spending to the expected inflation rate. Last year's authorized Pentagon budget was $292 billion and Reagan had originally sought a 5.9 percent hike beyond inflation, to about $320 billion.

Frank said procurement reforms approved by the House "were unrecognizable" when the conference committee changed them and noted that while the Senate voted for 50 MX weapons. the House approved 40 and the conferees accepted 50. Still to come is a major fight over separate legislation that actually appropriates the money for the authorized spending. The House is scheduled to begin floor consideration Wednesday of a bill appropriating $292 billion for the Pentagon this year.

The authorization bill had been scheduled for a floor vote in early August, shortly before a month-long recess, but was delayed because of the complaints from some House

After the recess, Aspin and other Democratic leaders worked behind the scenes to deal with the complaints.

At one point, Aspin had promised a separate floor vote on the chemical weapons issue, but that was refused last week by the House Rules Committee.

Under congressional procedures, bills sent to the House or Senate floor by a conference committee must be voted on as a package and amendments are not permitted.

Forum focuses on effects of acid rain on resources

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

Although the cost to pay for clean up of acid rain is more than the cost for preventative measures, Americans aren't willing to shell out the money for prevention, said a University professor during the preconvocation forum on acid rain.

Robert Robel, professor of biology, told more than 40 people Tuesday night in the Union Big Eight room that citizens must pay to have clean air, and they don't want to pay.

"A national opinion poll shows 68 percent are in favor of paying for measures that would give cleaner air and water," Robel said. "But, people don't vote for politicians that raise taxes.

He defined acid rain as rain with a pH of 4. He said water has a pH of 7 and normal rain has a pH of 5.6. Each number down on the pH scale represents an acid increase of 100 percent, he said.

Robel, Patrick Mooney, professor of landscape architecture and Alden Williams, professor of political science, gave presentations about the aspects and problems of acid rain during the forum.

Mooney presented a slide show outlining the ramifications of acid rain on the environment and the effects of the lax American attitude toward the acid rain pollution moving into Canada caused by U.S. industries.

Mooney said acid rain affects the environment in aquatic life, mammals, birds, soil concentrations and stone. He said a dramatic effect of acid rain can be seen in the Adirondack Mountains of New

"Nearly 200 lakes have lost all fishlife and many others are in danger." Mooney said. "The Lincoln Memorial and other buildings are crumbling at a much faster than normal rate. When the problem gets bad enough, something will be done."

Mooney said acid rain dramatically af-

See ACID, Page 13

Ed Stegeman performed in the Union Catskeller Tuesday, playing music by artists such as Dan Fogelberg. See Page 10.

Weather

Today, sunny. Highs upper 50s or low 60s. Easterly winds 5 to 15 mph. Tonight, clear. Lows mid- to upper 30s. Thursday, sunny. Highs mid- to upper 60s.

Sports

Mark Goodwin, a free agent for the Baltimore Orioles farm club in St. Petersburg, Fla., is completing his degree in finance this fall. See Page

INTERNATIONAL

Sakharov's wife to leave U.S.S.R

MOSCOW - Yelena Bonner, wife of Nobel Peace Prize laureate Andrei D. Sakharov, will be released from exile in the Soviet Union and allowed to go to the West for medical treatment, a Soviet journalist said Tuesday.

If the report is true, it could signal a reversal of Kremlin policy toward Sakharov, the country's best known dissident, and his wife.

The West German newspaper Bild reported Monday that Bonner, 60, would be allowed to leave the Soviet Union immediately. Soviet journalist Victor Louis, who has close ties with Soviet officials, said he believed the report was authentic and that the United States was her likely destination.

The Sakharovs were exiled to Gorky in 1980 and have been isolated there since last year, when Sakharov went on hunger strike to try and get permission for his wife to be treated abroad for eye and heart ailments.

Marcos makes public appearance

MANILA, Philippines - Government television on Tuesday showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos jogging and putting a golf ball in an attempt to refute reports he is suffering from a serious illness.

Marcos was shown later talking to a reporter about his order to suspend gold mining in the southern Philippines after two landslides a week apart killed 200 people.

Dressed in a long-sleeved shirt in the hot weather, Marcos was breathing heavily as he spoke with the journalist.

The Washington Post, in a report last weekend, quoted U.S. intelligence and congressional sources as saying the 68-year-old president is suffering from a serious kidney illness and could die before the 1987 presidential election.

A government spokesman issued a statement Monday denying that report and similar stories about Marcos' health which have been carried frequently by the local news media.

Marcos, in power for 20 years, said in a recent television interview he was fit enough to see all his opponents to their graves. Meanwhile, a former vice president, Emmanuel Pelaez, told a National Assembly committee Tuesday it could be disastrous to close the two United States military bases while the government is battling a growing communist insurgency.

PEOPLE

Film too 'bloody' actor Price says

AUBURN, Ala. - Actor Vincent Price, a veteran villain of silverscreen chillers, says today's horror movies are horrible.

"Right off the bat, three people's heads are rolling down the aisle." Price said Monday night during a visit to Auburn University. 'They've just become too bloody, too violent and therefore they lose

The 74-year-old actor said his roles in such films as "The Fly" and "The Pit and the Pendulum" worked well because the screenplays mixed logic, humor and fright.

Price is also national chairman of an Easter Seals project for Halloween safety, which encourages people to distribute gift certificates for candy that can be redeemed at grocery stores.

He said Halloween violence and candy tamperings frighten him, but disagrees with people who advocate ending the observance. 'You can't do away with it," he said. "All kids adore it."

Burns helps in hospital dedication

LOS ANGELES - Comedian George Burns helped dedicate a hospital here with a series of one-liners, telling fellow octogenarians he has no plans to retire and hoped the second half of his life was as good as the first.

"I'll finish up here when I'm old," Burns, 89, told residents and guests Monday at the Motion Picture and Television Country House and Hospital in Woodland Hills, 25 miles northwest of downtown.

"I'm never going to retire," the diminutive comedian said at the dedication of a four-bed intensive care unit underwritten by his $1 million donation. "I'm going to stay in show business until there's no

"I've lived a very exciting life. I expect the second half to be just as good.'

Also appearing at the hospital were actor Cesar Romero, 78, producer-director Hal Roach and actress Janet Leigh, 78.

NATIONAL

Phone bill could cause service loss

WASHINGTON, Pa. - American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said it will cut off telephone service to Washington County's offices, courthouse and jail if a bill of nearly $200,000 isn't paid by Thursday.

County Controller Patricia Beharry said paying the bill might be illegal because it includes equipment purchases for which the county commissioners sought no bids. State law requires purchases of more than $4,000 to be bid.

County Administrator Lou Lignelli said the commissioners followed the state's lead in not bidding for the phone system. Last November, the commissioners authorized the purchase of equipment it had been

He said Beharry is interpreting the law incorrectly.

Legislator wants anthem sung right

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. - A state legislator says he plans to introduce a bill to require celebrities who sing "The Star-Spangled Banner" at public events to sing it right or not at all.

Rep. Mark Youndahl said that while watching this year's World Series games he was upset with the liberties in interpretation taken by some of those invited to sing the national anthem. He said "the national anthem is a symbol just like the flag" and that those singing it should follow the specific notes of the song. Youndahl, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that he did not want to discuss his proposal in detail or specific singers at the "all-Missouri" World Series. But he said his bill will say: "You sing it right in Missouri or you don't sing it."

REGIONAL

Court reverses custody decision

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The Missouri Court of Appeals on Tuesday reversed a Cass County Circuit Court order and called for a new trial in the custody case of a 2-year-old boy.

The three-judge appellate panel overturned a decision by Cass County Circuit Judge Carl D. Gum that would have returned the toddler from his adoptive parents to his natural mother and father, who is a convicted thief and drug dealer.

The state judges accused Gum of "ineptitude" and "judicial dilatoriness" in handling the case in their 22-page ruling.

The child, Kevin Weise, has lived with Keith C. Weise and Connie C. Weise since five days after his birth on Feb. 24, 1983. The couple received the child through a private adoption procedure arranged between their attorney and and Indiana lawyers representing the natural mother, identified in court records only as P.

Although the mother, who lived with her father and stepmother and had just completed her sophomore year of high school, signed an adoption consent form, the father refused to terminate his parental rights, court records said.

Stephan speaks on lawsuit funding

TOPEKA - Two longtime friends of Attorney General Robert T. Stephan collected $24,000 in cash from a group of prominent state businessmen to settle an "innocuous" sexual harassment lawsuit filed against Stephan, former state Sen. Bob Storey of Topeka revealed Tuesday.

With Stephan at his side, Storey told an impromptu news conference how he collected half the cash last February from a group of seven businessmen. He said Stephan did not know any of the details of the settlement until last week but wanted to get it all out in the open he was told.

Storey said he kept the money in a manila envelope at his office until it was picked up by former Attorney General Vern Miller, who negotiated the confidential settlement and raised the remaining $12,000 to complete the deal.

"This is something Bob (Stephan) wanted disclosed and I wanted to get it off my chest," Storey said. "At first, I didn't see any reason to disclose it. Vern thought it would hurt Bob with the voters if they knew any money was involved - even though it was taxpayer money.

Storey said the lawsuit, filed in 1982 by Marcia Tomson against Stephan and two employees in the attorney general's office, was "totally without merit" and a nuisance lawsuit and described the settlement as ordinary.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARDS: Applications are available in Ackert 233 and are due Dec. 1.

CPR SATURDAY PRE-REGISTRATION. sponsored by Phi Upsilon Omicron, will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the table in the Union.

TODAY

PHI ALPHA THETA will have a discussion

THE HISTORY DEPARTMENT will have a

ELECTRONIC DATA SYSTEMS will have an interviewing workshop at 3:30 p.m. in UNIVERSITY FOR MAN will have a table in lecture on "The Great Kansas Bond Scandal" at 1:30 p.m. in Eisenhower 15.

the Union from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. FENIX will have a forum at 2 p.m. in Holton 4.

CENTER FOR AGING meets at 12:30 p.m. in ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SOCIETY OF HISPANIC PROFESSIONAL

Board authorizes tests for education students

By JANET MATTHIAS Collegian Reporter

The Kansas Legislature recently mandated a pre-certification test for education majors, and the state Board of Education has decided that a combination of two existing tests will fill that requirement, said Candace Hayden, certification officer.

The pre-certification test will consist of a combination of portions of the Pre-professional Skills Test and the National Teacher's Examination, Hayden said.

She said confusion had evolved among students in the College of Education due to a lack of information given to the students about the new testing procedure.

The College of Education has been using the Pre-certification Skills Test as criterion for admission to the professional teacher education program since the fall of 1983. The PPST is taken after the completion of 50 college credit hours.

"The PPST covers the areas of mathematics, reading and writing," Hayden said. So far, the PPST scores of University students have been evaluated to establish a standard of PPST scores for the University.

The other test, the National Teacher's Examination, has a core battery of tests that cover about the same material as the PPST on general knowledge, communications skills and professional knowledge.

Even though the NTE is used as a pre-certication exam in other states, a professor at the University of Kansas found the general knowledge and the communications skills portions of the test were not valid for Kansas students, Hayden said.

"As a result, only the professional knowledge portion of the NTE will apply to Kansas students," she said. The general knowledge and communications skills portions of the pre-certification test will be covered by the material from the Hayden said anyone who had taken the PPST would not be required to take it again unless the student was not satisfied with his or her score or had not met the cut-off score.

"The cut-off score for the PPST has not been set yet," Hayden said. "The Board of Education will determine that in January when they decide a cut-off score for the portion of the NTE that we will be using."

Hayden said no Kansas student would be required to take the entire six-hour NTE, although some states required teachers to pass some or all of the examination.

The new pre-certification requirements will take effect May 1. Therefore, May graduates must take the designated portion of the NTE before they can be certified.

The NTE is offered at K-State on national testing dates in April, June and October. Hayden said because Kansas students were informed of the requirement too late, they were unable to participate in the October testing. Therefore, a special testing date will be set.

Education students can contact the Office of Certification for further information on testing dates, registration dates and costs of tests.

MANNEQUINS

Tonight 50¢ Draws TOMORROW

Come and Party 'Till Your Pumpkins Drop At MANNEQUINS 1st Annual

"Good times rock 'n' roll Halloween blowout" Live Music and a Live Party!

AND

50 free tanning appointments 3 hot tub coupons given away throughout the night courtesy of MareYeSol

WALLACE STAINLESS

Quality 18/8 Stainless

All aboard for eamboat January 5-12, 1986

$301/$273 (with your own equipment)

Trip includes:

- Transportation
- 5 nights lodging
- 4 day equipment rental 4 day lift ticket
- Pre-party
- Parties in Steamboat

k-state union

Limited spaces available

Sign-up now

Activities Center

Union Third Floor

FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN

November 1 Cornelia Flora, Jan Flora-

November 8 Susan Angle—

Union 213

will be announced as soon as it

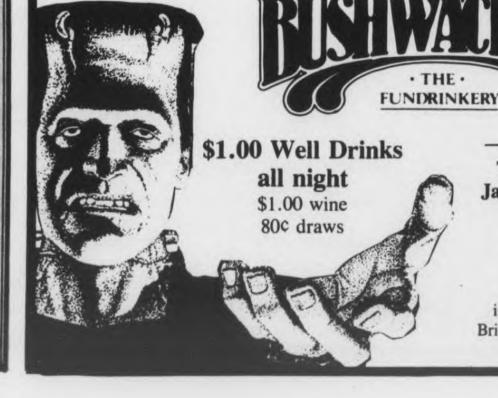

Union 213 is confirmed)

WED. NIGHT LADIES NIGHT $2.00 Pitchers 50¢ Steins $1.00 Coolers THUR., Oct. 31 AGGIEVILLE'S WILDEST & CRAZIEST HALLOWEEN PARTY-Be there. ROCK WITH THE HEAT this weekend

120 MORO

539-9064

Each series is from 12:00 pm-1:00 pm

"Integrating the New Scholarship on Women"

"Women and Counseling" Union 206

November 15 Jim Slattery- "Report from Washington" (the exact date or Nov. 22

All programs are open to the general public; students, faculty, staff, women and men are welcome. Feel free to bring you lunch or pick up a tray in the Union.

— Thursday — The first annual Jagermonster Party

come try the newest drink in town

"Jagermeister" Wednesday night is oldies music night Bring back the memories of yesteryear.

Plus FREE Serving Set

Set Contains: Eight 5-Piece Place Settings, Serving Set butter knife, sugar spoon, tablespoon, pierced tablespoon.

50% OFF PLACE SETTINGS 40% OFF SERVING HOSTESS, & ACCESSORY SETS 25% OFF OPEN STOCK

Sale Ends December 31, 1985

Poyntz Avenue at Fifth Ph. 776-9067

1227 Moro Street Ph. 539-1891

MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502

Architects receive a 'comprehensive' design education

By BRENDA KITCHEN Collegian Reporter

When likened to shoes, other architecture schools in the region offer only leather or soles, said Mark Lapping, dean of the College of Architecture and Design. But, K-State's College of Architecture and Design is comprehensive complete pair of quality shoes.

"We offer the most comprehensive design education in the region," Lapping said.

This comprehensive education is valuable in the profession because architects with different specialties work together on projects, he said.

There are five departments in the College of Architecture and Design. The departments of architecture, landscape architecture and interior architecture offer undergraduate degrees. The Department of Environmental Design provides the first two years of each architecture undergraduate's education. The Department of Regional and Community Planning offers a master's degree only.

"Our students are in incredible demand in the marketplace," Lapping said. This is because K-State architecture students receive an intensive, high-quality education, he said.

The Department of Landscape Architecture is consistently recognized as one of the top landscape architecture departments in the world, Lapping said. He credited excellent faculty and

The Department of Interior Architecture ranks internationally, Lapping said. He cited the International Student Furniture Design Competition where K-State students won three of five awards.

Lapping said the faculty of the Department of Architecture are active in professional practice and design competitions. He said the faculty members are working on real problems and crafting real solutions, whereas some architecture schools offer only a strong theoretical approach to architecture.

The environmental design department provides "much of the background, and many of the skills which all students in design need," Lapping said. The young dynamic faculty is one of the department's greatest strengths.

The regional and community planning department is the oldest accredited regional and community planning program west of the Mississippi River, he said. There is a strong emphasis on community, rural and small town planning. Lapping said the regional and community planning department is the national leader in education on rural and small town planning.

Students in the architecture college have many special educational opportunities. There are international opportunities. The summer education program in Copenhagen, Denmark is an example. Foreign exchange programs in Europe and Japan are being developed, Lapping said. A Boston Design Summer is another option for architect students.

High school students can get a taste of architecture during Design Discovery, a two-week summer program at K-State, Lapping said.

Agency violates rules, scraps project

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The nation's disaster relief agency broke federal contracting rules to purchase a radiation treatment course, and then scrapped it after persistent objections that the material could endanger accident victims, a House committee reported Tuesday.

The House Government Operations Committee unanimously approved the report, which contended the Federal Emergency Management Agency wasted $90,000 and "demonstrated a lack of concern for the safety of the public.'

The lack of concern, the report said, came when a panel of federal scentific experts warned FEMA in August 1983 of potentially lifethreatening material in the course. That was more than two months

The Federal Emergency Management Agency wasted $90,000 and 'demonstrated a lack of concern for the safety of the public.'

-House Government Operations Committee

before the course was purchased from a publishing firm Oct. 31, 1983.

The report accused FEMA of "disregarding the advice" of the panel, which included scientists. But, it added, when the panel members continued their objections, the course "was withdrawn from pilot testing and put on the shelf, where it remains today, resulting in a waste of public

FEMA officials originally had announced plans to send the course of slides and manuals around the country to teach "first responder" emergency personnel how to handle victims of radiation accidents

Bill McAda, a FEMA spokesman, said the agency has deleted the controversial material and now isusing about 85 percent of the content in its emergency training program at the agency's Emmitsburg, Md. facility.

While acknowledging the course never was sent to emergency personnel around the country by FEMA, he said: "It's not all a

The publishing firm, Bradford Communications Corp. of Greenbelt, Md., has said it distributed the course on its own to a number of communities, contending it is safe and effective.

The report also concluded FEMA should have allowed companies to bid competitively to produce the course. No bids were permitted by

The report, however, did not attempt to resolve whether the course was, in fact, dangerous, not did it fix blame for violation of contracting rules.

It added that allegations of wrongdoing should be resolved by the Justice Department, which is investigating this contract and other allegations against FEMA under former director Louis O. Giuffrida.

Researchers discover AIDS-type illness

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A new fatal disease that is linked to the AIDS virus and produces extreme weight loss has been found in heterosexuals in Africa, where it has become known as "slim disease."

"Although slim disease resembles AIDS in many ways, it seems to be a new entity," its discoverers wrote in the Oct. 19 issue of The Lancet, a British medical journal.

AIDS and slim disease share many of the same symptoms, the researchers report, but AIDS does not generally produce the extreme weight loss and diarrhea seen in slim

Victims of slim disease are not as likely to exhibit the swollen lymph glands and the rare cancer called Kaposi's sarcoma, both common features of AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, in European American and homosexuals, the researchers said.

Sixty-three of 71 patients with slim disease showed evidence of infection with the AIDS virus. Studies are under way to determine why evidence of the virus did not appear in all patients, said the researchers, who include Dr. Anne Bayley of University Hospital in Lusaka,

Ladies

Night

$2.00 Pitchers $1.00 Coolers

Ladies Get

Free Admission

Zambia and Dr. Robin Weiss of the Institute of Cancer Research in London.

The disease, found in Uganda and believed to have originated in Tanzania, differs not only from AIDS in America but also from the heterosexual form of AIDS seen in neighboring Zaire, the researchers said. Slim disease occurs predominantly in promiscuous heterosexuals.

A separate case of what appears to be slim disease was found in London in one patient who did not have evidence of infection with the AIDS

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

We'll honor any

local pizza coupon!

539-3830

virus, often designated HTLV-III But that patient did carry an AIDSlike virus that has been isolated and is now under study, the researchers

Not all researchers believe that slim disease is a new illness, said Dr. Timothy Dondero of the federal Centers for Disease Control in "It sounds to me like a variant of ARC (AIDS-related complex), a poorly defined collection of conditions which are related to HTLV-III infection," Dondero said.

Positively

Resume Service 1221 Moro • Aggieville Manhattan, Kansas 66502

(913) 537-7294

TINAI edio 37

Salon Prescription Hair Care Candlewood Shopping Center 776-8830 Mon. through Sat.

Home of the "Original" $Dollar Daze$

1800 Claflin First Bank Center 539-9619

This Halloween's (Thursday) Fright Formula

SUPER DECORATIONS CONTESTS & PRIZES DON'T MISS IT!!

That's Right D.J. & Sound System Apple Bobbing in the "Get Bombed" Shelter

$2.00 cover for you "dead beats" not in costume

(1) ld Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

9.9 MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN. THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Commission action unfair

Commissioners have shown they will do whatever they desire to make their health care facilities No. 1 in the county.

In a vote this week, commissioners unanimously rejected a proposal that would have allowed the City of Wichita to issue more than $100 million in revenue bonds for hospitals operated by the Wichita-based Sisters of St. Joseph, one of which is The Saint Mary Hospital.

Earlier the Manhattan City Commission had given the proposal an affirmative vote.

The move, which could most certainly weaken the financial base of The Saint Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., should be taken as a sign of continued harrassment by the county commissioners.

Unfortunately, action was required by both the city and county commissions. The unfortunate part comes when it is remembered that the competitor for St. Mary, Memorial Hospital, at Sunset Avenue and Claflin Road, is operated by the county. In most cases, this would probably be viewed as a conflict of interest.

The county commission's dictatorial stance regarding operations at Memorial Hospital

Once again, the Riley County is well documented, most notably with the organizing of an "advisory" board so financial and organizational decisions would not be subject to Kansas open-meeting laws.

Recently, Riley County District Court Judge Paul Miller ruled the hospital's exclusion of the press was legal, but local media are planning to appeal Miller's decision.

Although the ramifications of the Riley County Commission are not yet known in regard to the issuance question facing Wichita City Commissioners, the local move could cost St. Mary about $8 million.

The question as to the need for two hospitals in Manhattan is not germaine to this topic. But, thanks to the county commissioners, the case has become one of whether the residents of Manhattan should be able to choose their health care facility.

St. Mary administrator Dan Broyles said the move, and rightfully so, "... is offensive to the hospital and the Sisters of St. Joseph."

The county commissioners should not be allowed to force the financial ruin of another hospital.

> Tom Schultes, for the editorial board

Editorial

Wednesday, October 30, 1985 - 4

Critique of Star Wars petition groundless

It is good to see the petition concerning Strategic Defense Initiative research now circulating among the science faculty here has stimulated a good bit of discussion. Some letters to the editor of the Collegian exhibit confusions that are important to clear up.

It was out of place for the signers of the petition to use the petition itself to present the detailed evidence and arguments that support their professional judgment though of course the petition invites anyone (layperson, scientist, politician) who wishes to gain acquaintance with this reasoning to inquire. But those who would like to take issue with conclusions in the petition incur the obligation to give some reason why readers should suppose their declarations deserve more weight than ours.

Consider, for example, a paragraph from Dan Fischer's letter, "Petition expresses political beliefs," in the Oct. 17 Collegian: "Compaan's and Rahman's beliefs that Star Wars will cause a 'build up of offensive missiles by the Soviet Union, jeopardize our existing satellite surveillance system, violate existing arms control agreements, stalemate current strategic arms negotiations and consequently accelerate the nuclear arms race while undermining our national security' can be easily refuted."

Fair enough: We look forward to seeing of what this easy refutation will consist. Unfortunately what is produced is unsupported contradiction. He informs us that "the Strategic Defense Initiative is an anti-nuclear system that will destroy ballistic missiles and when proven effective, will make nuclear weapons obsolete. With this vital research will come the elimination of nuclear war once Star Wars is operative."

This is precisely the collection of fantasies the signers of the petition are testifying their sober reflection leads them to reject.

Fischer wrote that those who sign the petition "are robbing K-State of a great chance to bring prestige and respect to our campus in the area of research." It is because we have concluded that this research represents a tremendous waste of national resources and a degradation of national and international security that we hold participation in it would bring anything but prestige and respect to our campus. One might as well argue that prestige and respect would be enhanced by soliciting a couple of million-dollar grants to improve our technology for beaming ourselves to Alpha Centauri or for compressing the earth to the size of a tennis ball.

TALAT RAHMAN Guest Columnist

Myron Calhoun's letter, "Expert' opinions not worth much," in the Oct. 18 Collegian, represents us as holding forth the idea that the SDI "is unworkable because some 'experts,' including some on our own campus, have told us it won't work." The petitioners are not claiming that their unsupported declaration in itself has any weight on this or any other question. Nor do they say SDI is impossible (just as it is not impossible for one to reach India from Manhattan by digging a tunnel through the earth). They are saying that, given the state of our physical knowledge, the prospects for success are so small that no prudent planner would be willing to throw any money into it (let alone billions of dollars.)

The argument that other technically sophisticated and seemingly improbable projects like moon landings have succeeded and, hence, so will SDI, does not apply because it is not possible to demonstrate the feasibility of the SDI by testing it. In a real situation, the matter would be even worse, since we would confront a live adversary providing us with ever-changing parameters.

Yet even if for a moment we were to assume that the technical problems presented by the SDI could be overcome, proceeding with it would be unwise because the paradoxical effect of success would be not increased security, but dangerous destabilization.

Fischer evidently believes he has accomplished something by labeling judgments about feasibility (waste) and (disastrous wrong-headedness consequences) as "personal" and "political." Of course it is persons who signed the petition; of course they did so with conviction; and of course the judgments found there have a bearing upon policy. But the relevant issue is their merit. And that is a matter of the quality of the reasoning - on a host of scientific and other questions - that lies behind them.

Similarly, even if Tom Gray (re: "Petition signers possessed by fear," in the Oct. 22 Collegian) could divine some fear or other motive lurking in the hearts of some or all of the petitioners, its presence would be wholely irrelevant to the issue before us: the quality of the reasoning. Gray may not believe he knows enough to form a respectable opinion on these questions. The signers are testifying to their informed opinion that it is possible for anyone to learn.

One of the most important goals of the petition is to invite everyone - not just our scientific colleagues - to acquaint herself or himself with whatever can be said for or against the SDI. They are testifying to their confidence in the conclusions they have reached, but that is far from insulting anyone by expecting him or her to accept their conclusions merely because they have been reached by them.

Editor's note: Talat Rahman is an assistant professor of

HE SAY'S HE WON'T DEBATE STAR WARS BUT HE'S WILLING TO DISCUSS RETURN OF THE JEDI AND EMPIRE STRIKES BACK

Aid requests need review

were charged with swindling the federal government out of $40,000 by posing as students and obtain- employee who caught the ing federal grants and loans.

This points out two distinct considerations for financially hardpressed students. First, there is money available for those who seek it. Second, the money available is not going to the right people.

The federal government is not in the business of loaning unscrupulous individuals funds for their next car payment. If there was a little more checking on someone's checking account, there might well be a little more money for the students who need

This is not to say that there should be big brothers peeking over the shoulders of bankers who handle students' funds. Rather, it would seem reasonable to have something more than the "good word" of an individual who applies...especially if they are applying for the 16th time or so.

What will happen to these women if convicted? It's not too likely that the money will be fully recovered. So the feds are out some serious money, and students who might otherwise

Last week two Topeka women have received a college education are out a lot more.

> Congratulations to the swindlers - but it's too bad they weren't caught an awful lot earlier.

> What's the deal? How can a woman get indicted on 53 counts of making false statements and mail fraud without getting caught any sooner? Richard Hathaway, assistant U.S. attorney, said the woman used 18 aliases to obtain the big bucks. She was finally tripped up when an "alert" employee recognized her as she applied for more financial aid at the Washburn University office under another name.

Alert? This woman must have been a regular feature at the Financial Aid office.

Worse still, there's $40,000 less for students who need the money to go on attending college. It's not particularly cheering to think that while two are caught, many more get away with it.

Those who would steal — there is no other way of putting it - the education of others for the sake of spending money must have a serious character flaw.

Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Letters

Palestinian homeland justified by historical record

Editor,

Re: JoAnn Fremerman's letter, "Arab nations should provide Palestinian homeland," in the Oct. 25 Collegian:

Reading Fremerman's letter, one would get the impression that either she does not have any idea about the roots of the Palestinian problem or, being a Jew, she really does but is trying to mislead the readers.

Palestinians, my friend, did not come from another planet, nor had they been created homeless and landless. If you really do not understand why the Palestinian people see

Israel as their homeland, go back to the Middle East history and you will find out that they have lived there generation after generation since the early days of history until the majority of them were forced to leave

The Palestinian problem, my friend, can not be solved by asking Arab nations to provide Palestinian homeland simply because there are some similarities in culture or because some of these countries are rich, large and less densly populated. Saying this is like giving someone the right to take over someone else's house simply because the latter has many rich relatives.

Finally, as for your question about who has the right to live in Israel, I would like to anwer this by asking simple question: If the Jewish people claim that they have the right to live in Israel because they had lived in part of it for a period of time 2,000 years ago, do you not think that the Palestinian people who have been living there since then have at least the same right to live in that land?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300

Mohammed El Samhouri graduate in economics

THE T.V. NETWORKS HAVE BEEN ACCUSED DISAGREE; THEY WERE

OF EXPLOITING THE

Israel cause of 'Palestine problem'

Re: JoAnn Fremerman's letter, "Arab nations should provide Palestinian homeland," in the Oct. 25 Collegian:

Fremerman implied that to her Palestine meant nothing. To me Palestine means much more. It's a part of my existence because that land was stolen from the Palestinian people by force through a dirty game by other nations. As a result, the Palestinian land was given to some other people who don't and will not ever belong to that part of the world.

To force Palestinian people to live in other Arab countries is not a solution because they will always be refugees and they will always belong to their homeland. Being a Jew does not give you the right to steal the Palestinian homeland, because Judaism is only a religion. It is not a nationality. It takes more than a religion to form a nation.

I want to tell you why I will never forget Palestine. Jesus was born, raised and died in Jerusalem and Bethlehem, which is about 90 miles away from where I live. Yet, because I am an Arab Christian, born and raised in Jordan, I am not allowed to visit these cities. However, all Christians from Europe and America are allowed to go there and enjoy the land of Jesus.

When you say Israel never made any statement about trying to get rid of the Palestinians, I think you as an American should do your homework. You have to read and know what is really going on in Israel, America's No. 1 supported country, before you make statements that reflect how little you know.

> Mouna Jumean junior in chemical engineering

Reporter errs

In his otherwise unobjectionable report, "Terror can be stopped, professor says," in the Oct. 23 Collegian, John Walker, Jr. flatly errs when he says I called the air intercept of the Achille Lauro offenders a clear violation of international law. Unfortunately, it wasn't. Judgments would be simpler if it

> Alden Williams professor of political science

Kepple said. "I feel that probably with larger machines you have a little more protection.'

Kepple said the major concern was about loss of data, which did not oc-Computers in Farrell Library suffered no loss of data, because the system is equipped with a "power conditioner," which keeps a power surge from immediately affecting the computer, said Cherie Geiser, head of the library automation department. The device keeps the computer from shutting down abruptly, she said.

The College of Business Administration, which operates computers for student use in addition to administrative facilities, suffered no apparent long-term damage, said Mike Wonderlich, computer information specialist for the college.

"The main problem throughout on all computers was that people were in working for a couple of hours and lost everything," Wonderlich said.

Student Publications, Inc., publisher of the Collegian and Royal Purple Yearbook, also felt the effects of the outage, said Rhonda Corle, junior in journalism and mass communications and Royal Purple

The yearbook lost approximately 10 percent of its stored data, Corle

Soviets

Continued from Page 1

Nunn, D-Ga., in Moscow in September that fundamental space research cannot be verified - or thereby challenged by the Soviet Union.

Subsequently, officials said, Soviet negotiators in Geneva acknowledged that tests of "small-scale mockups' could not be challenged when they essentially are extensions of laboratory research. However, Moscow still objects to full-scale engineering development of antimissile devices, said a U.S. official who demanded anonymity.

Families asking for limits on Israel

By The Associated Press

In Washington, meanwhile, relatives of some of the American hostages told lawmakers they want the United States to "restrain Israel" until the crisis is over and to open direct negotiations with the captors.

The relatives, in a discussion behind closed doors with members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, asked lawmakers to support a variety of steps they believe could influence the release of six Americans.

"We are aware that members of this committee have a direct influence and are personally responsible for the development of American policy in the Middle East," the families said in a paper listing "key points for discussion. Relatives of four hostages were on Capitol Hill the day after they met with President Reagan at the White

In broad terms, the families requested that lawmakers "support the positive efforts" of Reagan to solve the crisis in a peaceful manner. Specifically, the relatives also sought congressional backing for: The avoidance of "retaliatory action against captors," and "inflammatory rhetoric." The designation of an official within the administration with sole responsibility for the hostages.

STEREO

Moreover, the families said they would like the administration "to initiate direct communication with the captors in order to secure the release of the remaining hostages in Lebanon," and to "restrain Israel for a period of time until the hostage issue can be resolved." They added that the continued sale of arms to countries in the Middle East, especially to Israel, is likely to increase conflict in the region.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

NORLD RADIO'S

ENTORY

We've got tons of top brand name electronics that we've got to sell...and just hours left to do it! We can't afford to give you anything but the LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES! And we're under orders to check with top management before refusing ANY reasonable offer!

Towns David	11140	Those	And	More

Great	Buys	rike	These
		PIRTIN

BRAND/MODEL/DESC RCA EKR-530 Quality Portable 13" Color Television, 19" Remote Control Cable Ready Color Television 25" Remote Control Cable Ready Color Monitor/TV <sup>5</sup>179 $349

CEDECO

13

5999 rofessional Car Stereo tion GUARANTEED For As

SALE PRICE

<sup>5</sup>149

s 69

s69

588°

SALE

SALE

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION Watt Per Channel Digital AM/FM Stereo Receiver Technics SA-151 Coustic HEQ-7000

Fisher 3980 Technics SLL-1 ect Drive Linear Tracking Turntable Sharp DX-110 Compact Audio Disc Player

O'Sullivan AR-138 Component Cabinet with Twin Glass Doors Audio Technica CV-5625 Quality Magnetic Turntable Cartridge

HURRY... SALE ENDS SUNDAY!

Everyday Low Price $499 Complete Sanyo Home

Stereo Component System

- 50 Watt/Channel Integrated Amplifier • 6 Band Stereo Graphic Equalizer
- Digital AM/FM Stereo Tuner Stereo Double Cassette Deck
- Semi Automatic Turntable
   A Pair of 10" 3-Way Speakers Deluxe Stereo Cabinet w/Glass Door

Everyday Low Price $199 40 Watt Per Channel Digital AM/FM Stereo Receiver

This quality stereo receiver features direct access/quartz synthesized tuning, with audio/video inputs. Now at great savings. Model STRVX-450 List price $299

Great Buys Like These And More...

Band Stereo Frequency Equalizer plete Home Stereo Component System

Stereo Cassette Deck with Dolby * NR Randix ACR-120 Sanyo RDS-17 Deluxe Compact Home Stereo System $119 5159 547 s 69 s69 5999

PRICE

598

s69

5499

close-out buys in addition to overstocked brand new merchandise. Due to the nature of this sale, quantities may vary from store to store and all items subject to prior sale. Sorry, No Rainchecks. SONY AM/FM Stereo Walkman

19" Color Television Features Zenith's chromosharp picture tube, with automatic fine tuning and automatic color control. Now at a low clearance price. Model

Great Buys Like These And More...

Items in this ad represent one-of-a kind items, dicontinued merchandise

ront Load VHS Cable Ready VCR with Wireless Remote

Cable Ready VHS HI-FI Stereo VCR with Wireless Remote

Head VHS Stereo VCR with Wireless Remote

O RECORDERS

SALE

PRICE

5379

5599

5549

Video Recorder with Wireless Remote

Front Load VHS Cable Ready

Great Buys Like These And More... PRICE

Features a 14 day programmable timer, with dally program repeat, and 3 speed recording/playback. Has video search, with 108 channel cable ready electronic tuner. Model VC-583

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION s 149 Portable AM/FM Auto Reverse Stereo Cassette Recorder s 19

Sony MDR-20 Lightweight Stereo Headphones. Sanyo C-12 Portable AM/FM Mini Stereo Component System Sanyo RP-45 Mini AM/FM Scereo Radio with Headphones

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION

6X9 3-Way Car Stereo Speakers Whistler WH-2

AM FM Auto Reverse Car Stereo Cassette

50 Watt 5 Band Graphic Equalizer Booster Pioneer TS-6905

Jensen RE-920

Clarion 100 EQB

Portable AM/FM 599 Stereo Cassette Recorder

> SALE PRICE

Everyday Low Price 139

car Stereo Cassette

Indash AM/FM

Has tape auto stop, with AC/DC power operation

Maximum Range Cordless Telephone Great savings Model EX-2100

MICROWAVES

Features a built-in tuner, with metal tape capability, and local/distance switch Model

Cassette with Headphones

"Little Litton"

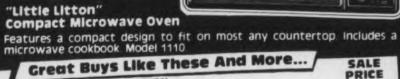

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION

panasonic

Quality RCA

Panasonic PV-1540

Sharp R-5560 Microwave Oven with Cook & Defrost Cycles s 199 "Quick 'n Easy" Microwave with Variable Power Control Litton 1709

NOW IN STOCK AT YOUR NEAREST WORLD RADIO... Rechargeable Batteries!

Financing available. Visa, Mastercard & American Express welcomed Some quantities may be limited. Sale prices good thru November 3 or while quantities last. No Dealers Please!

s 159

MANHATTAN 11th & Moro in Aggieville 537-4190

Compact Car Radar Detector Great Buys Like These And More...

Great Buys Like These And More..

BRAND/MODEL/DESCRIPTION 5477 Sony T-120 or L-750 Your Choice Beta or VHS Video Cassette Tape Sony UHGT-120 or UHGL-750 5677 High Grade Beta or VHS Video Cassette Tapes ow Noise 90 Minute Audio Cassette Tape High Bias 90 Minute Audio Cassette Tape

880 $ 1 69

50 years of Electronics

Features a compact chassis to fit most cars, with fast forward, and auto stop Model FS-80/120. List price $89

WITH APPROVED CREDIT Based on 21% A P R with 20% down and 24 monthly payments. Sales tax of 4% included Monthly payments, A P R and sales tax will vary from state to state

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate began serious debate on the new 1985 farm bill Tuesday by pitting in combat two of the nation's most highly subsidized industries: agriculture and the merchant

"It has become all too apparent that these two vitally important industries are suffering from many of the same problems," including heightened foreign competition made worse by the strength of the U.S. dollar, said Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss.

At issue was a law requiring that half of governmentgenerated cargoes move in U.S.-flag ships, the so-called "cargo preference" subsidy designed to guarantee business for the nation's ailing maritime sector.

Cochran proposed a compromise between the two industries that got heavy support in an early 70-30 test vote. But the body was enmeshed in a parliamentary tangle that promised to take hours to untie.

The preference has been in effect since 1954, but the issue took on new volatility after a U.S. District Court ruling in February. The law for years had been interpreted as applying only to U.S. food giveaway programs like Food for Peace, but the court broadened the requirement to cover sales under subsidized credit as well.

Farm interests which already disliked the subsidy erupted into opposition, and seized on the farm bill as a mechanism for undoing the court ruling. They said the court unfairly burdens some of their grain exports with higher shipping costs at a time when U.S. commodity sales overseas are in an alarming dive.

They see the ruling as a threat programs such as the muchcriticized export bonus system giving certain customers bonus surplus commodities when they buy American. Shipment by U.S. carriers is more expensive because of high relatively high farm income union wage scales and other guarantees now in the legislation. factors. The Agriculture Department says the cargo expected to surface later, subsidy added $40 a ton to its shipping costs under Food for Peace program this year, adding about $1 a bushel to the cost of wheat, for example.

Backers of the subsidy, led on the Senate floor by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, aruged that cargo preference helps preserve the domestic maritime industry, which has dwindled from a fleet of more than 2,000 ships to just over 400, for standby use in time of

"We should end this destructive conflict," Stevens said of the maritime-farm squabble. "The farm bill is a subsidy program. The maritime provisions are a subsidy program. Both warrant taxpayer support."

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, appeared outraged that farm interests would violate an unwritten rule that recipients of subsidies go along with each other to protect their own interests.

"I've voted for every farm program: peanuts, corn, wheat, tobacco," Inouye said, pounding his fist on a desk. "And it's about time the farmers support the shipping program."

Cochran's compromise would override the court ruling, restoring the credit subsidy program to its previous exemption from the cargo preference requirement, along with future programs designed to enhance commercial export

In return, it would boost the proportion of Food for Peace shipments and other giveaways carried on U.S.-flag vessels from 50 percent to 75 percent, in increments over three years.

The issue still remained to be settled when the Senate farm bill goes to conference with the House to work out differences between the two bills. The House version contains language that at least preserves the effect of the court decision, and is seen by some as extending cargo preference to future export promotion plans.

Republican managers of the to future export promotion farm bill on the Senate floor made cargo preference the first major issue to come up in that chamber, theorizing that it would pit coastal against heartland senators and thus fracture the unity of Democrats who hope to preserve

> The income subsidy issue is Republicans preparing at least half a dozen ideas for cutting the $117 billion total cost of the fouryear bill and making it more acceptable to the White House.

sas of 1985. She was judged on horsemanship, personality and appearance, the Miss Rodeo America contest in Las Vegas, Nev.

horse.'

Coming Soon.

Career Opportunities for a Few Select Majors.

Unheard of Denise Shepherd, senior in animal sciences and industry, is Miss Rodeo Kan-modeling, and personal interviews. This December, Shepherd will compete in

Student reigns as Kansas rodeo queen

By The Collegian Staff

Her duties are varied. One day you may find her at a luncheon with a city organization the next day she may be herding livestock out of a rodeo

She is Denise Shepherd, Miss Rodeo Kansas, senior in animal sciences and industry.

Shepherd was crowned Miss Rodeo Kansas in July of 1984 and began her reign in January 1985.

"I've grown up around horses. I've been riding since I can't remember when. I started out in 4-H and horse shows and then started rodeoing in high school. When I went to Colby Community College I learned how to rope and started team roping and breakaway barrel racing," Shepherd

"I had always heard about Miss Rodeo Kansas and I always thought you had to have certain requirements. I had this misconception that there was something special you really had to do, when anybody can run for it as long as you can ride a

Shepherd was judged on horsemanship, personality and appearance, modeling, personal interviews and a three minute speech on her hometown, Manhattan.

To be Miss Rodeo Kansas, a woman must be between the ages of 18 and 25, single and provide her own

A rodeo queen must be knowledgeable about rodeos and horses as well as current events.

"As a rodeo queen I do a lot of things besides wave at everybody,'

"I have postcards that have my picture on them which I autograph and give to people. I answer questions about the rodeo. The cowboys are not always available to the public. They're more concerned about competing. A queen is there for people to talk to," Shepherd said.

Shepherd also rides in parades, clears livestock out of the arena during rodeo performances and makes appearances at dinners to talk about the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association, (PRCA).

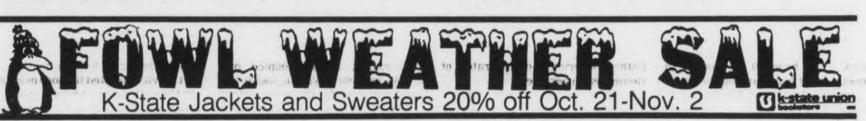

In December, Shepherd will be participating in the Miss Rodeo America pagent in Las Vegas, held in conjunction with the National

Forty-five contestants from different states will be judged on horsemanship, riding reining patterns, personal interviews and interviews on horsemanship. A style show and a three minute speech on their home state will also be included in the competition.

The winner of Miss Rodeo America will win a horse trailer, saddle and the use of a new car for a year.

The new Miss Rodeo America will move to Colorado Springs, Colorado, where she will be a hostess at the Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame during her

"It's been a very worthwhile year. I've had a great time and I've met so many people. I've gained so much out of it.

Register to win 25 free sessions 776 2426

1126 LARARMIE

NOV. 1

Electrical Engineers...Computer Scientists... Mathematicians...Language Specialists.

The National Security Agency analyzes foreign signals, safeguards our government's vital communications and secures the government's massive computer systems.

NSA's unique, three-fold mission offers you unheard of career opportunities. Here are just a few of the exciting possibilities:

Electrical Engineering. Research and development projects range from individual equipments to complex interactive systems involving microprocessors, mini-computers and computer graphics. Facilities for engineering analysis and design automation are among the most advanced anywhere. Computer Science. Interdisciplinary careers include systems analysis and design, scientific applications programming, data base management systems. operating systems, graphics, computer security and networking-all in one of the world's largest computer installations.

Mathematics. Projects involve giving vitally important practical applications to mathematical concepts. Specific assignments could include solving communications-related problems, performing longrange mathematical research or evaluating new techniques for computer security.

Language Specialists. Challenging assignments for Slavic, Near-Eastern and Asian language majors include rapid translation, transcription and analysis /reporting. Newly-hired language specialists may receive advanced training in their primary language(s).

In addition to providing you with unheard of challenges, NSA offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package. Plus, you'll have the chance to live in one of the most exciting areas of the countrybetween Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, Md.

Sound good? Then find out more. Schedule an interview through your College Placement Office or write to the National Security Agency.

NSA will be on campus November 19, 1985. For an appointment, contact your placement office.

Unheard of Career Opportunities

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY ATTN: M322(N) Fort Meade, MD 20755-6000

U.S. Citizenship required. An equal opportunity employer Occupancy rates force change

Hospitals broaden health services

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

Significant changes occurring in today's health care field are forcing the adaption of hospital systems, both locally and nation-

Memorial Hospital, Sunset Avenue and Claflin Road, and The Saint Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., are both facing the challenge of maintaining financial stability while experiencing a decline in utilization during the past three to four years.

Memorial, with 65 beds, and St. Mary, with 100 beds, are both experiencing about 30 percent to 40 percent occupancy.

Ann Renz, chief executive officer at Memorial, said one reason for the low occupancy rate is that 30 percent to 40 percent of Manhattan residents go outside the city for medical care.

Renz said many prefer Topeka and Wichita hospitals for specialized care, such as heart surgery or radiation and cancer treatment, but may return to Manhattan for pre- and post-operative care.

"In the interest of good patient care, we do know our limits," Renz said.

Another factor cited for the reduction in occupancy is the way hospitals are now reimbursed for inpatient care. Medicare and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kansas now use a method called Diagnostic Related Groups to determine how much a hospital receives for its services. Under the DRG system, various illnesses are grouped and the insurance companies 'The success of a hospital is no longer based on the occupancy rate. Lots of things, such as childbirth and sibling classes, reflect the quality of hospital

> -Ed Klimek Memorial Hospital

pay the hospital a pre-determined rate for a particular patient's care, regardless of length of stay. That reimbursement rate is based upon a statistically "average" patient, with all costs exceeding the fixed dollar amounts absorbed by the hospital.

Fifty percent of Memorial's patients have this type of insurance plan, compared to 70 percent for St. Mary.

"Because of these payment systems with insurance companies, we try to keep the length of stay to a minimum," said Susan Bair, community relations director at St. Mary. "We have to cut the fat, but not the quality of care."

Medicaid reimbursement is not affected by DRG's, Renz said, where a hospital is reimbursed at a fixed rate for Medicaid patients, regardless of the illness or services required.

The fixed dollar amount we receive per day for those on Medicaid is 30 to 60 percent below the actual costs," Renz said.

Other factors cited for the decline in occupancy rates is the recent shift to outpatient services, caused largely by technology, resulting in patients receiving needed medical care, but spending less time in the Outpatient services include minor surgery, chemotherapy treatments, and the application of casts and splints.

The average length of hospital stay for patients at St. Mary in 1981, Bair said, was six and one-half days, compared with the present average of five and one-half days.

Ed Klimek, director of public relations at Memorial, said the overall average length of stay there has been reduced from five and one-half days to four days.

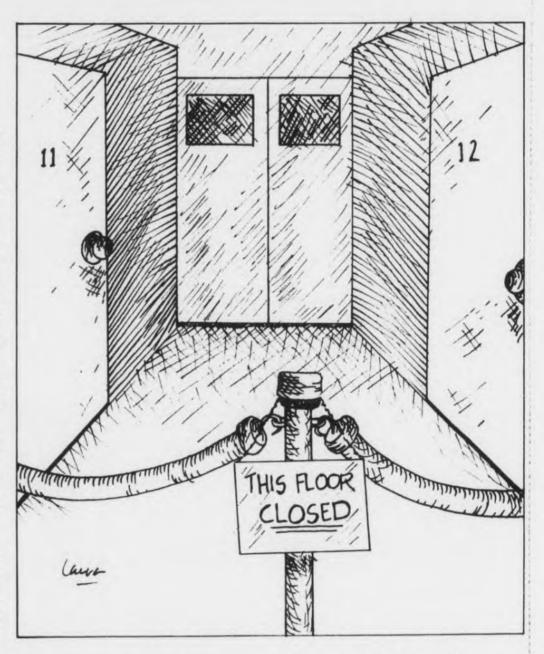

Shortening the patient's length of stay is only one cost-saving measure hospitals are taking, Bair said. The Manhattan hospitals, for example, share a director of radiology and a director of housekeeping. Another method is to not fill jobs as they become

"When a position is open, it is taken to a committee to see if the position can be eliminated," Bair said.

Neither hospital, however, has laid off employees, nor plans to do so in the future. But they are cutting back employees' hours when needed.

"The success of a hospital is no longer based on the occupancy rate," Klimek said. "Lots of things, such as childbirth and sibling classes, reflect the quality of hospital

"It is important to remember that we are first of all a service industry, above and beyond the financial bottom line," Renz said.

'New' health care system allows an alternative to hospitals

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

Home health care is a service whose time has come.

While dating back to the days when church ladies volunteered their services, home health care has only in recent years become an established practice. Riley County began such a service in 1978. "It was a grass roots response to a perceived need," said Marvin Kaiser, associate professor of sociology, anthropology and social work. "We believed we needed to meet a lot of needs among the elderly, many of whom prefer to stay at

And so Home Health Services,

Inc., 2803 Claflin Road, was born. Kaiser said he joined other volunteers who were "simply interested" in offering assistance to Manhattan's elderly and wanted to expand the in-home services available to the community. He is now a consultant for Home Health Services and is a member of the Board of Directors at Clinicare Family Health Services in Kansas

"Home health care has actually been around for a long time, only now it's more sophisticated," said Esther Sobering, administrator of Home Health Services and and tan - in-home skilled and in-home

WEDNESDAY MEANS

ON OUR PATIOS!

In-home skilled services are those which require the skills of a professional, Sobering said. Home Health Services offers nursing, home health aides, occupational therapy, physical therapy, speech therapy and social service. Those eligible to receive such services include the homebound, those under a physician's care, terminally ill patients, the handicapped and the aged.

Sobering said home care of the terminally ill patient is in coordination with Hospice Care, Inc., 2121 Meadowlark Road. Hospice programs provide physical, social and Sobering said two types of home emotional care for the terminally ill and their families.

they (Hospice) provide the volunteer care," Sobering said.

Elderly or disabled Riley County residents are eligible to receive inhome support services through Home Health Services. Homemaker services, such as general cleaning and meal preparation, are offered, as well as companion sitters and custodial care.

'These support services are only for those who require assistance because of a medically related need," Sobering said.

Home Health Services provides only adult services, with in-home support services limited to those over 60.

"Although we don't have a specific program for children. pediatrics "We provide the skilled care, and care is being pushed for nationally because many children need it," Sobering said.

The Riley County-Manhattan Health Department, 2030 Tecumseh Road, offers pediatrics home care services. Pediatrics patients are considered to be newborns to age 21.

at the health department, said only one child is currently using the ser-

"Many things we do aren't considered as part of our home care program. We don't fit into a neat little picture," Holsteen said. "Our home care service is on a much smaller federal levels, as well as from donascale (than Home Health Service's), tions. A payment source offered by but we do follow patients into the both organizations is "self-pay," a

The health department, for example, has maternal/infant programs, which include home care of high-risk pregnancies and high-risk infants. The department also supports the Kansas Crippled Children's Pro-

Holsteen said although the depart-Traci Holsteen, nursing supervisor ment offers home health care, its main emphasis is on the prevention of disease and the promotion of health.

Home Health Services and the Health Department are both nonprofit organizations and receive funding from city, county, state and

See HEALTH, Page 13

Thursday, November 7, 8:00 p.m.

Performed by Beverly Sills' New York City Opera National Company

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan,

MasterCard/Visa accepted.

McCain

MARGARITAS WELL DRINKS ALL DAY & NIGHT! Kansas 66506 FREE SUNTANS

THE TIME IS COMING FOR K-STATE

BASKETBALL

TICKETS AVAILABLE NOV. 4

Fall Special on new 1985 and 1986 cars

This rate is in effect until Nov. 15. Used car loans are 12%. Borrow up to $15,000.

Apply for a loan today. If you are not a KSU Credit Union member, there is a 60-day waiting period. But submit your application now to lock in this low 10.8% new car rate before the deadline.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday

Interested in Law School?

Washburn University School of Law Director of Admissions

Dottie Harder

will be on campus Thursday, Oct. 31 Room 205—Union 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Come see us for the largest selection of new and late model used Cars and Trucks in the Manhattan area.

WE ALSO HAVE

- A Used Budget Lot
- Rental Cars and Trucks
- A Body Shop
- A Parts and Service Center

776-4004 123 S. 2nd

776-4004 123 S. 2nd ales Hours M-F 9-7

VISIT OUR FRAME SHOP

Hundreds to choose from Wide choice of finishes

All natural wood

Ben Franklin,

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m.

Standard sizes...5x7 to 18x24

Bring your stitchery projects, photographs and original artwork to our Frame Shop! We have frames to enhance any decor and accent anything you wish to frame. If we don't have a standard size frame to fit your project, we will customize it...all you pay for are the materials...mat, glass, hangers, wire, etc. We do it all! Additional charge for blocking and stretching stitchery.

Westloop Shopping Center Manhattan

Sat. 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Sun. 1-5 p.m.

300 meet for yearly seminar

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK Collegian Reporter

Nearly 300 educators representing 15 states and foreign countries gathered Monday and Tuesday in the Union for the Seventh Annual Rural and Small Schools Conference.

The conference, "In Search of Excellence," was hosted by the College of Education and consisted of two days of speakers, workshops and panel discussions.

Jerry Horn, associate dean of the College of Education and national president of the Rural Education Association, said he believes there were five main points brought out during the conference.

Included in the five main points were the importance of change, and how educators have to advance with society to meet the challenges of community change. Also included was the effectiveness of school management, and working with students and faculty. Efficiency was another point stressed involving the cost per pupil and the various techniques used to educate these students. Finally, Horn said it is important institutions do not isolate themselves from society and that they need to be willing to work together.

"I would say K-State is the leader of the state in terms of rural education," Horn said.

Keynote speakers Monday included Michael Jenkins, manager of public relations for Pizza Hut, Inc., Wichita, speaking about "The Perceptions of Education from the Private Sector;" Richard Miller, executive director of the American Association of School Administrators, presented a talk about the effective role leadership plays in Monday's other keynote speakers were Alan Peshkin, professor at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, who spoke about understanding rural settings, and Hal Bacon, deputy chief of staff of the aerospace education at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala,. spoke on "The Challenge of Change.

Tuesday's keynote speaker's were Paul Nachtigal, senior associate and director of the rural education project, who covered improving rural schools, and Claudia Jones, president of People United for Rural Education, who spoke on the communities perspective of education.

The conference was sponsored by the Center for Rural Education and Small Schools, the American Association of School Administrators and the Mid-Continent Regional Educational Laboratory.

The Center for Rural Education and Small Schools was approved by the Kansas Board of Regents and established as a part of the College of Education in 1978. The center which was implemented by Horn, focuses its efforts on the improvement of education in the rural and small school settings.

Acid rain lecture to open series of All-University Convocations

By The Collegian Staff

New York conservationist Robert Burgess will be the speaker at the first fall KSU Convocation Series at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in McCain Auditorium.

The lecture, titled "Acid Rain: Many Problems, Few Answers," is open to the public, said Eugene Kremer, chairman of the All-University Convocation Series.

"Acid rain is precipitation that contains caustic nitric and sulfuric acids," said Robert Robel, professor of biology. "Over time it can corrode steel bridges and water towers and erode statues in parks. Acid rain adversely affects forests and lakes, and the effect on our homes is that we have to paint them more often.'

Robel said Kansas is not a large producer of air pollutants that have an impact on the production of acid rain. However, the state is affected by chemicals in the atmosphere that have drifted into the area from western states, he

Burgess has been recognized for his role in the conservation movement by the National Wildlife

Federation and the Safari Club International. He has been active in governing the Nature Conservancy, which leases the Konza Prairie to K-State. Burgess is also chairman of the State University of New York at Syracuse Department of Environmental and Forest

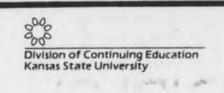

Burgess' lecture is sponsored jointly by the Convocation Series and by the Division of Biology's Enloe Lectureship in Conservation Issues. Burgess will also present a biology seminar at 4 p.m. Thursday in Ackert 221.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

WATCH FOR WINTER '86 INTERSESSION COURSE LISTINGS IN THE NOVEMBER 4TH COLLEGIAN

-Intersession is January 2-14 and offers 47 credit courses in a wide variety of departments for both undergraduate and graduate credit. .

-Registration for Intersession will be at Farrell Library December 9-11.

-Complete information will be published in the November 4 Collegian-WATCH FOR IT!

(For more information, Call the Division of Continuing Education, 532-5566)

UNIVERSITY SING

for Sunset Zoo

Sunday, Nov. 3, 1985

8:00 p.m.

K.S.U. McCain Auditorium TICKETS: $2 50 Advance, $3.00 at door Advance Tickets Available in the Office of Greek Affairs, Holton Hall 203 All proceeds go to the Children's Section of the Sunset Zoo

Wednesday, October 30, 1985

STARMAN

Today at 7:30 & Tomorrow at 3:30 & 7:30 All shows in Little Theatre Rated R. KSU I.D. required, $1.75

A New Movie ... UBURBIA About A New Generation

k-state union

Starman Friday & Saturday in Forum Hall at 7 & 9:30 Rated PG, KSU I.D. required,

Saturday at 2 & Sunday at 2 & 7 All shows in Little Theatre Rated G. KSU I.D. required, $1.50

k-state union upc feature films

Exhibition and sale of laser photos and foil etchings November 6-8 on the Union First Floor Concourse. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

k-state union

BIG FREE DANCE Friday in the Union Catskeller 9 p.m. to Midnight

k-state union

k-state union

SHOP AT THE PLAZA & CROWN CENTER IN KANSAS CITY WITH UPC TRAVEL Information meeting Nov. 5, in the K-State Union 208 at 7 p.m. Sign-up starts Nov. 6, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Activities Center

Friday & Saturday MIDNIGHT in Forum Hall Rated PG, KSU I.D. required, Strong tremor hits Mexico; no injuries

By JAMIE MCPHETER Collegian Reporter

With tuition, housing, entertainment and other miscellaneous expenses taking away hard-earned money, students may not think about spending that money on insurance for their personal belongings or residence.

But, like most people, students probably have more invested in personal items than they realize, said Tammy Tracy, director of the Consumer Relations Board, in explaining the need to consider insurance coverage.

Tracy said students often don't realize just how much money they have wrapped up in a stereo, bike, computer or any other valuable

She said one important detail to get clear before signing a lease is to find out the tenants and landlords' responsibilities concerning insurance coverage for property and personal belongings.

Protecting may lead to assurance

The tenants responsibility is to protect their belongings, she said, noting the apartment's landlord or owner has the responsibility to insure the building and property outside the building, but not individual dwellings, with the exceptions of appliances and draperies.

Tracy said tenants, as well as apartment managers, have a right to get the best protection for the least amount of money from their insurance companies.

Kent Peters, an agent for American Family Insurance, 1010 Westloop Plaza, said students should consider buying a policy to cover their own property.

Peters said a student can purchase a renter's policy for between $70 to $80 a year.

Fred DeNoon, an account agent at Allstate Insurance, 1001 N. Seth Childs Road, said a renters or homeowners policy both carry liability insurance of $100,000 to protect the policyholder against accidents on property for which they are responsible.

Of that total, $1,000 is for medical insurance to cover a guest injured while in the policyholder's apartment. If medical costs go above $1,000, and the guest sues for more money, his insurance company would pay legal fees, DeNoon said.

With such a policy, the deductible is $250, with annual premiums of $92. Any theft of property covered by the policy, but not on the premises, is also covered up to 10 percent of any personal belongings.

DeNoon said any items in the car of the insured are covered if the item is not a part of the car's in-

As an example, DeNoon said, if a purse or bicycle was stolen from the policyholder's car, the theft would be covered, but if the car's

Mayor Ramon Aguirre, in the first of what the government said will be a series of reports on the devastation, said Monday night that 720,000 tons of rubble have been carted from the city so far. He said food has been provided to more than 50,000 homeless people still living in Many who escaped with only their

President Miguel de la Madrid has said the damage in September was so vast that it will take years for lives last month also lost their jobs or temporary shelters or camps.

were already unemployed.

under a different type policy.

Alberta Poindexter, manager of Wildcat Creek Apartments, 1413 Cambridge Court, said it is important for renters to have adequate

Poindexter said the apartment building is insured to the maximum allowable limit, but the management is not responsible for any theft or damage to individual dwell-

"This is why I try to stress to anyone wishing to rent at Wildcat Creek Apartments to get adequate coverage for their belongings," Poindexter said.

Ron Hill, owner of Hill Investment and Rental Company, 3509 Dickens Ave., and owner of several apartment buildings throughout the city, said he would "strongly urge" all tenants to have a renter's policy.

Hill said while his buildings were also insured to the maximum limits, he recommended tenants purchase a renter's policy to protect their own belongings.

reconstruction to be completed.

On Tuesday, lamps swayed and ceiling tiles fell in some already damaged buildings. Clouds of dusts billowed from ruins of the previous quakes. Debris fell in buildings hit

The government news agency

Notimex said the National Seismological Laboratory recorded the quake as registering 5.7 on the Waverly Person, a geophysicist at the center, said the temblor occurred in the same general area as the one

Commission approves additional acquisitions

By COLLEEN WILSON Staff Writer

Another four properties were marked for eminent domain proceedings at a special meeting of the Manhattan City Commission meeting Tuesday afternoon.

In a unanimous vote, commissioners approved a resolution affecting the properties at 200 Poyntz Ave. owned by John and Karen Wertin; 220 Poyntz Ave., owned by Jim Brewer; and 231 Poyntz Ave., 107 South Third St. and 113 South Third St., all owned by Sally Schuchman.

Gary Stith, community development coordinator, said the resolution was necessary because "negotiations were not moving quickly enough."

In other action regarding downtown redevelopment, the first reading of an ordinance authorizing acquisition of another eight properties in the mall area was also approved unanimously.

Properties affected in this ordinance include the Humboldt Square shopping center and businesses in the 200 block of North Third Street, 300 block of Humboldt Street and the 100 and 200 blocks of Poyntz Avenue.

Ruth Schrum, representing the Committee for Just Compensation, said members of the committee want to know if property owners who have already sold their land were paid by Urban Development Action Grant

Stith said they were paid by temporary note funds, not UDAG funds becase amendments in the original contract have not received final ap-

BECAUSE:

80c DRAWS, $1.00 WINE

L FOR 1 ON

BAR FOOD MUNCHIES

STATION GARB

GIVEAWAYS

GREAT SOUNDS and HOT VIDEOS, too!

776-0030

1115 MORO

proval. Stith said Housing and Urban Development has seen the draft, developers have seen the revisions, and the city "hopes to have it ready for the mayor to sign at the Nov. 5 city commission meeting." Forty-two of 70 businesses located in the downtown redevelopment site have negotiated the sale of their property. All affected properties east of Third Street are to be vacated by mid-January. In non-redevelopment action, John Conderman, chairman of the board of trustees for The Saint Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., asked commissioners to enter a joint bond issue with Wichita and other cities to provide an interlocal agreement to allow the city of Wichita to issue hospital revenue bonds.

Conderman said The Sisters of St. Joseph of Wichita, which operate Saint Mary and six other hospitals throughout Kansas, would prefer to have one city issue the bonds rather than having seven separate bonds to save administrative costs.

A resolution was passed by the city commission earlier this month, but Saint Mary trustees discovered a requirement which made approval from the Riley County Commission also necessary.

The county commission did not approve the bond issue, so the trustees returned to the city for approval.

Commissioners approved the $10 million resolution, giving the reason as believing the move would benefit both Manhattan hospitals.

McCain

Robert Klein

Friday, November 1,

Order tickets early! Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University,

Comedian

8:00 p.m.

"A funny evening of singing. clowning, and improvising."

Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

m-sat. 9:30-5:30 thurs. 9:30-8:30 108 S.4th 537-2051 *stuffed animals Manhattan

last month's quake.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - A strong tremor lasting about 25 seconds struck this capital city of 18 million residents on Tuesday, shaking loose debris from last month's killer quake and jangling nerves still tense from the earlier ordeal.

The quake, considered yet another aftershock of the Sept. 19 quake that killed 7,000 people, hit at 9:02 a.m. and was felt as far away as Guatemala, about 950 miles to the

The only injuries reported were 10 people suffering from what the Red Cross called "nervous crisis" who panicked and ran away from a building that was badly damaged in chili & cheese; side of chips.

reg. $2.15

Wed. Oct. 30-Sat. Nov. 2

Associated Press photographer Valente Cotera, reporting from the site at the intersection of Eduardo Molina and the Northern 1 Thoroughfare in eastern Mexico City, said the victims suffered bruises when they fell while running. Little new damage to the building

The Sept. 19 earthquake, measuring 8.1 on the Richter scale, collapsed or severely damaged about 3,000 buildings. It was followed the next day by a quake measuring 7.5 on the Richter scale. Since then, dozens of lesser tremors have hit the capital without causing damage. Tuesday's tremor, stronger than most, registered at

TACO HUT

*hackey sack *models

*toys

*games

*fantasy and war games s

Richter scale.

on Sept. 19.

CPR Saturday

November 9, 1985 KSU Rec Complex

Welcome Everyone

Choice of 21/2 Hour Sessions

 Pre-Registration Required — Oct. 28-Nov. 1, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

KSU Union Concourse

American Red Cross

Sponsored By:

Lafene Health Center American Red Cross KSU Rec Complex Phi Upsilon Omicron

general practice dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner We'd like to be your Optometric office · Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses. • All types of F.D.A. approved contacts. • Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock. · Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

You've Tried Them-

Now Try Us!

Chili Burrito

Taco Hut's own tasty white flour tortilla, filled with refried beans, beef, cheese and sauce, covered with

Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan 537-1118

free door side parking

KSU KU NU ESU

IMPORTANT NOTICE

ACCORDING TO THE KANSAS STATUTES AND REGULATIONS ALL STUDENTS ATTENDING KANSAS SCHOOLS ARE REQUIRED TO MEET IMMUNIZATIONS REQUIREMENTS.

are required to report year of:

1. Last Tetanus Injection (last within 8-10 years)

2. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-Ray (within last 10 monhts)

Students Born in 1956 or Before Students Born in 1957 or After are required to report year you had the disease or year of immunization

- 1. Tetanus (3 required)
- (last within 8-10 years) 2. Rubella*
- 3. Measles*
- 4. Mumps*
- 5. MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubells in
- one injection. 6. Polio (3 required) - oral or injection
- 7. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-Ray. (within last 10 months)

*Reported month and year is required

Be sure that your immunizations are up to date by stopping by Lafene Health Center by end of the Fall Semester. REMEMBER - THIS IS REQUIRED OF ALL STUDENTS

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

PRESENTED BY STROHS STROH LIGHT & WHITE MOUNTAIN

COSTUME CONTEST

BEST GOOD GUY, BEST BAD GANG BEST JOHN WAYNE, BEST CALAMITY JANE

1st PLACE PRIZES

STROHS AND STROH LIGHT 60¢ BOTTLE

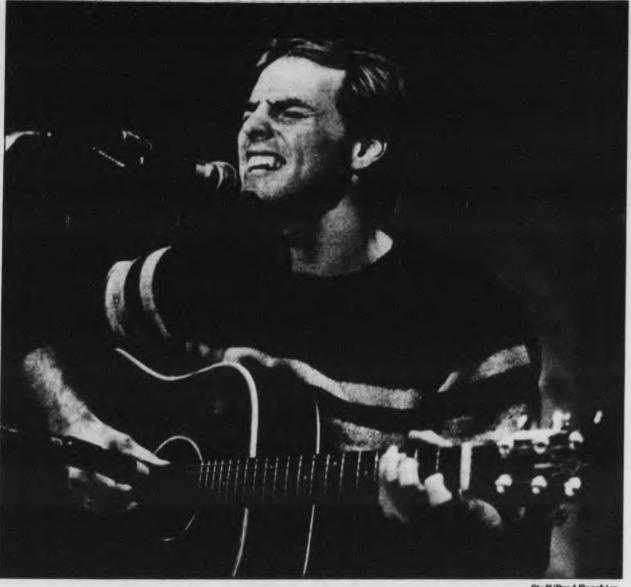

> WHITE MOUNTAIN 80¢ BOTTLE

712 N. MANHATTAN

Ed Stegeman, senior in natural resources management, entertained an audience in the Union Catskeller Tuesday with music from Dan Fogelberg and a Kermit the Frog impersonation.

Christianity part of act

Singer plays spiritual songs

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

Messages of Christianity flowed through musician Ed Stegeman's melodies and lyrics Tuesday as he entertained a Union Catskeller crowd with soft singing and guitar strumming.

Stegeman, senior in natural resources management, played a mixture of original compositions and Dan Fogelberg classics "Leader of the Band" and "The Reach," during a Nooner sponsored by Union Program Council Eclectic Entertainment Committee

Continued from Page 1

1125 Laramie Plaza

Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30

776-7959

Jacobs said the plan funding is to ensure quality and quantity in water conservation. The plan was originally formed to emphasize education on water conservation which the three departments can use to their advan-

In the areas of municipal and industrial water conservation, there has not been much completed, he said. The additional funds should

HEE'S Alterations

All types of alterations

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but

with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggie ville

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

Chiropractor 537-8305

1500 Poyntz Avenue

Water

tage, Jacobs said.

Suits

Coats

Jeans

Zippers

Only a

Chiropractor

can tell if

Chiropractic Can Help!

Find out for yourself

A self-taught guitarist. Stegeman said his writing focus has changed since high shool from primarily outdoorsy songs to include songs with meaning. Quoting words from "Silent Killer," a song he wrote about anxiety, Stegeman exemplified his message: "where the niche in life is vague, give the chords to Him to

"I'm just going to have fun and get the message across," he said. "I don't believe in pounding it into people's heads." Audience participants and Stegeman chuckled about a day on the farm during "Chicken provide for more counseling in these the main subjects of water plan this year, Jacobs said. The College of Agriculture is concerned with conservation because water is being taken from the ground faster than it

12th and Moro

in Aggieville

can be replaced, he said.

Droppings." Following a Kermit the frog impersonation of "The Rainbow Connection," Stegeman said he was taking this time out to be radical.

"The core of me isn't me. It's Jesus Christ," he said.

Stegeman then presented the audience with the question of whether Christianity is a religion or a relationship. Some say religion is crumbling the world, he

"I believe it's a relationship," Stegeman said.

He finished the program with the "Song of Songs" and invited the audience for responses.

user in the state," Jacobs said.

"Anything we can do to preserve

As put before the regents, the educational program would be phased. Phase I would consist of a public service announcement program to make the general public aware of the

1015 N. 3rd

Manhattan

preservation now and in the future.

Irrigation and tillage have been water will contribute to water

"Agriculture is the biggest water need for water conservation.

Dairy Queen

Royal Treat Weekly Specials

Mon. to Fri. 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

THIS WEEK

Peanut Buster Parfait 99¢

Veterinary college sees drop in students' mid-term grades

By The Collegian Staff

Students in the College of Veterinary Medicine registered a significant number of low mid-term grades, Dean James Coffman said

Although Coffman said it would be inappropriate to release any numbers on the number of low grades, he said it was not unusual. 'There are a lot of low grades," he said. "It is not all together unusual for us to have a flurry of low grades at some time during the semester." Coffman attributed the low grades to the heavy work load.

"It's due to a combination of a heavy clinical and curriculum work load," Coffman said. "A big part of the education here is to learn to budget time.'

He also said students are entering into a field where the amount of information to digest is on the in-"The amount of information to digest is doubling every four or five years," he said. "It is our goal to identify the problem areas so that we can tackle solutions.'

One solution the Veterinary Medicine college has already implemented is an ad hoc committee to examine the curriculum, teaching methods and the student and faculty on academic excess.

Coffman said the committee, formed last spring and put into effect this September, is made up of a representative of each class, a student represenative of each class, a faculty member from each department and the associate of dean of education,

Jerry Horn. The overwhelming amount of information coming in and the teaching methods are something the vet college monitors closely, Coffman said. "The magnitude of information is overwhelming," he said. "We may have to revise the method of teaching at a greater rate.' Tracy Carlile, sophmore in veterinary medicine, said the grades seemed lower than in past years.

"We've been hearing a lot that we are not performing up to what we should be," Carlile said.

Hurricane moves ashore, stalls out

By The Associated Press

MORGAN CITY, La. - Unexpected Hurricane Juan wobbled ashore and stalled again Tuesday, knocking down a third oil rig as its heavy rain and 85 mph winds whipped offshore waves 20 feet high and drove tides up to 10 feet above normal against inland levees.

At least three people were dead and four missing, including three believed trapped in a drilling rig that toppled in a marsh. About 160 people had been rescued from rigs and boats in the Gulf of Mexico and adjacent waters over three days, the Coast Guard said.

By 3 p.m. CST, however, Juan's winds diminished to 65 mph, and the National Weather Service downgraded it to a tropical storm. At 5 p.m., the poorly defined center of Juan was estimated to be near latitude 30.4

comprehensive

ofree pregnancy tests *outpatient abortion services alternatives counseling *gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS

$1.75

BLENDED DRINKS

OCT. 31 HALLOWEEN NIGHT come and drink the devils

616 N. 12th

brew-only at Auntie Mae's.

north, longitude 92.1 west, near Lafayette, La.

Displaced snakes, including poisonous water moccasins, and balls of stinging fire ants floated through some flooded streets.

The storm, which surprised forecasters when it strengthened into a hurricane Sunday and then stalled for a day just off the coast, came ashore and then stalled near Lafayette.

By noon, winds on land had gusted to 40 mph and heavy bands of rain extended from the Gulf south of Mobile, Ala., to Jackson, Miss., and as far east as Florida.

Offshore, winds were clocked at 85 mph and kicked up 20-foot waves at noon, seven hours after Juan moved ashore near here, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Gary Stark.

Tornadoes spun out of the rain clouds at Laurel, Miss., and Orange Beach, Ala., damaging trees, a barn and a trailer home at Laurel and a store and car at Orange Beach. In Florida, a tornado caused minor damage to the Panama City suburb of Calloway, and rain flooded streets in Jacksonville, on the Atlantic coast. Southeastern Texas had gotten almost 7.25 inches of rain since

HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES

SPONSORED BY THE HISTORY DEPARTMENT AND PHI ALPHA THETA GOVERNMENT SECRECY

AND YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW A ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION

OCTOBER 30 K-State Union, Room 213 3:30 p.m.

Professor Jacob W. Kipp History

Professor David G. LaFrance History

Professor Carol E. Oukrop Journalism and Mass Communications

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Offer good: October 30 through November 5, 1985

FREE SIDE SALAD

With Purchase of Chicken Sandwich and Large Pepsi

Present coupon when ordering.

3004 Anderson

One special per coupon, please.

421 N. 3rd

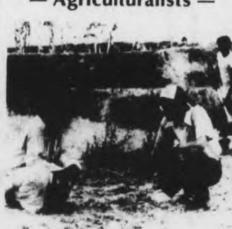

a unique opportunity for

Dairu

GCopyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

Uueen

- Agriculturalists -

Wed. & Thurs., Nov. 6 & 7 Holtz Hall Free Film: Nov. 6-6:30 pm Union, Rm. 203

The toughest job

you'll ever love

For you and the world itself. You can put your AGRI-CULTURE DEGREE or FARMING EXPERIENCE to work at a challenging, demanding and unique oppor-tunity. You'll be meeting new people, learning a new language, experiencing a new culture and gaining a whole new outlook on your future career or retirewhole new outlook on your future career or retirement. And while you are building your future you'll help people in developing countries by sharing your skills in crop or livestock production, bookkeeping, soil management, equipment care, agribusiness or other capabilities necessary for food production. The financial rewards may not be great, but as a Peace Corps volunteer, your opportunity for growth is certain.

Placement Center interviews:

Info. table: 10/29-30, 11/6-Union

The Men of Pi Kappa Alpha and the Little Sisters of the Shield & Diamond would like to thank all those who participated in this week's Fourth Annual Little Sister Olympics:

ΦKO & The Little Sisters of the Aphelion Rose ΣΦΕ & The Little Sisters of the Goldenhearts

ΔY & The She DU's

AKAK & The Cacia Girls ΣAE & The Little Sisters of Minerva

IIKΦ & The Little Sisters of the Star & Lamp TKE & The Daughters of Diana

AKA & The Little Sisters of Athena

YX & The Little Sigma's

W & The Little Sisters of the Golden Rose

ΦΙΔ & The Pri Gamma's

ΘΞ & The Little Sisters of the Unicorn

∑N & The Sigma Nu's ΔΤΔ & The Delt Desings And Special Thanks to Our Sponsors

Best Happy Hours in Town RAMADA

You can gobble a muy grande platos full of them for just 50¢/plate.

All you want TONIGHT

Hitting provides boost into big leagues

Goodwin juggles education, professional baseball career

By BUTCH LACY Collegian Reporter

Earning a college degree usually is challenging enough to keep the average student plenty busy. But squeezing time in for professional baseball doesn't seem to pose a serious problem for Mark Goodwin, senior in finance.

Goodwin was an outfielder for signed as a free agent first baseman with the Baltimore Orioles organization last June.

When Goodwin signed with Orioles, he was 21 hours short of a degree. Thus, he has decided to attend school during the fall and play baseball in the spring and summer until he graduates - probably in the While Goodwin has had to worry K-State the last two years but was about finishing school and starting a baseball career, hitting is not one of Goodwin's major concerns.

"If I am going to make it in baseball, I am going to have to be an excellent hitter," Goodwin said in a recent interview. "Right now, I'm a pretty good hitter. I don't have what the scouts would call above-average speed or an above-average arm, but Batting .328 last season for K-State and .366 his first month with one of the Orioles farm clubs supports the notion that he can swing the bat well. But if the day comes when he can't count on getting a hit, a career in finance will be waiting.

"The most difficult thing to do in sports is hit a baseball. If I come to a level where I can't do that then I'm going to be released, and if I get released then I'm going to need a job," he said.

One person who doesn't think

Goodwin will need to find another job in place of baseball is the talent scout who has followed Goodwin's baseball career since Goodwin was 15 years

"The scout who signed me thought I could hit major league pitching and that's why he signed me," Goodwin said.

Playing baseball is one of Goodwin's earliest memories. His father saw the ability of his son to hit a baseball at an early age.

"As far back as my memory goes, I can remember having a bat in my hands," he recalled. "I can remember hitting wiffle balls in my back yard with my brother when we were about 4 or 5 years old. Even at that time, my dad knew I was going to be a good hitter. I just had that natural ability.

Playing professional ball with the Orioles minor league team last spring gave Goodwin the confidence he needs to play major league baseball and to forget about job hunting in the business world.

"I hit them (minor league pitchers) really well this spring. I started realizing that these guys are good pitchers and I hit them pretty hard. So maybe I can hit major league pitching," Goodwin said.

Jumping into the minor leagues was a moving experience for Goodwin. He left Kansas City, Kan., his home town, destined for a small town in West Virginia just two days after the Orioles scout asked him to

"It was kind of a big culture shock for me," he said. "People had funny accents. There was nothing there. It was a pretty bare town. There was no social life and no place to go after the games - not that we really wanted to because after the day was over you were just exhausted."

Goodwin spent a lot of time on the playing field in the Orioles' minor league system.

"We would be on the field from three in the afternoon until 11 or 11:30 at night. We played every day," he said. Goodwin will be going to spring training again this February in Florida, a time when scouts will determine whether players will be assigned to play on the parent club, play in the minors or be released. "I'm nervous," he said. "Unlike other guys, I have only one thing to fall back on and that's my hitting. If I don't hit I don't play.'

Right now, Goodwin is lifting weights to improve his batting power. He also said weight training will strengthen his throwing arm, one of his weak areas.

"This weight lifting I've been doing will strengthen my arm for throwing and especially for hitting, and I feel if you can hit the ball, they aren't going to get rid of you, Goodwin said. "You can find anybody off the street that has a strong arm and can run fast, but if they can't hit they can't play.'

Goodwin also said it is necessary for him to establish goals in baseball. Doing whatever it takes to break into the major leagues is at the top of his

"My goal definitely with baseball is to make it to the big leagues period. Some people say if they don't make it in three years they will quit. If it takes me 10 years I'm going to stick it out because I know I can hit that kind of pitching," he said.

With this kind of attitude, some people might wonder what Goodwin spends most of his time thinking

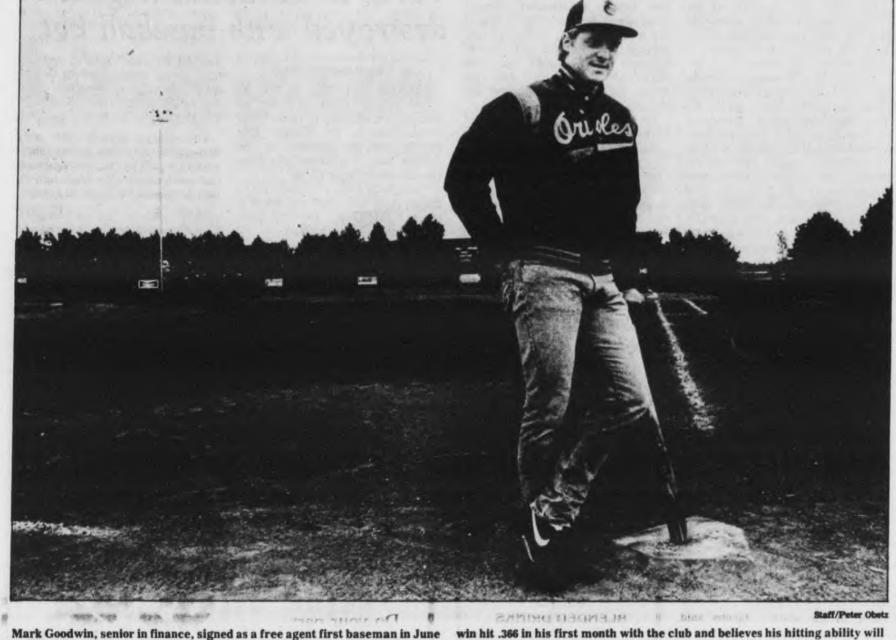

"I think about baseball every minute I'm awake, I haven't gotten burned out yet and I won't get burned out," he said.

Goodwin said playing professional baseball has been a learning experience for him, and that there is a big difference between college baseball and professional baseball.

"Now, college ball seems like bush leagues," he said, "It's much more intense playing pro ball. You have to perform every day and if you don't you're on the bench. And if you're on the bench too long you're released you're through."

The ability to hit the baseball, Goodwin said, takes rhythm, timing, bat speed, eve-hand coordination and good eyesight.

"I can see the seams on the ball as it spins in. People say there is no way I can see that, but right before I hit the ball I can see the seams no matter how hard the pitcher is throwing," he said.

Sports Letter

Leave sportswriter at home

Mark Goodwin, senior in finance, signed as a free agent first baseman in June with the Baltimore Orioles minor league team in St. Petersburg, Fla. Good-

Sports Editor,

Re: Collegian sports editorials: After reading the Oct. 23 sports editorial by David Svoboda, I was impressed by his skills in reporting his trip to Kansas City and World Series Game 2. It appears to me that David knew why he was sent there, and he did his utmost to take advantage of this privilege. A job well done for David and his representation of our Collegian reporting staff. After reading David's article, I reopened the Oct. 22 Collegian and once again read Tom Perrin's report. What a difference! In the future, let's leave immature Tom at home to save box lunches for the high school press club. Better yet, let them "rub shoulders with the elite." Maybe Tom could be assigned to steal Kansas Gov. John Carlin's undershorts next time he comes to

> Gary Thornton engineering technician in mechanical engineering

Athletic finances, lack of success hinders non-revenue varsity sports

By TONY CARBAJO Collegian Reporter

earn him a spot in the major leagues.

Until K-State's varsity sports can matchup both financially and competitively with the rest of the Big Eight Conference schools, no new sports will be added to the Wildcat athletic budget, said Athletic Director Larry Travis.

"We are going to try to maintain what we have, and build what we have into competitors before we do anything about adding any sports," Travis said. "We're going to have to find ways to fund our non-revenue programs. Right now we are short."

K-State's non-revenue sports, which include all sports except football and men's basketball, have been lagging behind other Big Eight schools financially for some time now. Travis said K-State offers only two golf scholarships, while the rest of the conference offers five. The baseball team gets only nine when the NCAA standard is 13.

"We're not going to do anything until we get what we have up to a level where we are competitive," Travis said. "That means every sport is fully funded. That means golf gets five scholarships, tennis gets five scholarships, baseball gets 13 and track gets its limit."

Since Travis took over the athletic director's office in February, he has

(() k-state union

special events

been approached by a number of existing clubs and past non-revenue varsity sports seeking to be affiliated with the University's athletic budget. He said he has talked to members of the soccer club, rugby club, rifle club and crew and has been approached about reinstating gymnastics and wrestling.

"I don't see any programs being added in the next few years," Travis said. "It's sports like gymnastics, wrestling and swimming - those programs that require facilities that are a problem nationally because there simply is not enough money to fund them.

"I think you will soon see these sports on a very limited basis. At one time, wrestling was a very big sport. Now only three Big Eight schools have it. It's (money to fund programs) a real problem, a real big problem."

The trend recently has been to drop programs on the national level. Ohio State, for instance, has dropped five sports from its athletic budget and other schools are following suit.

The big two sports, football and basketball, have increased their budgets because of the money they mean to the schools, while the nonrevenue sports have been getting a smaller and smaller piece of the athletic pie.

"Without football and basketball doing anything, we have no minor sports," Travis said. "Without these two sports - they are the only revenue producers we have everything else is a liability

COUNTRY 107

"Those are the sports that have to support us. When we get these programs up to where we are doing things and getting the support we need, then we have a chance. But right now, those are the two sports that have to make it go.

When Travis came to K-State, he set a five-year goal to have all the non-revenue sports competitive with the other Big Eight schools and to have the football and basketball programs supporting the other programs financially.

At the present time, a university needs eight men's sports and eight women's sports to compete at the NCAA Division I level.

K-State has the minimum number of sports in both the men's and women's divisions. The men's sports are football, basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, indoor track, outdoor track and cross country. The women's program is the same except for volleyball and softball, which replace football and baseball.

Travis sid there has been legislation brought up before the

See TRAVIS, Page 12

Poll lists Jayhawks as favorites

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Kansas has been made the overwhelming favorite in a media poll to unseat Oklahoma as Big Eight conference basketball champion.

Kansas received 36 of 39 first place votes for a total of 308 points. Oklahoma had one first place vote and a total of 248 points. Nebraska was given the other two first place votes for a total of 200 points.

Pollsters had Iowa State fourth with 194 points, Missouri was fifth with 178 points, Colorado was picked sixth with 92 points, Kansas State was expected to finish seventh with 86 points and Oklahoma State was tabbed for eighth place with 78 points.

Danny Manning of Kansas was the favorite as player of the year. Pollsters named Archie Marshall of Kansas as the likely newcomer of the year.

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

Wildcat basketball teams plan intrasquad scrimmages

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's men's and women's basketball teams have scheduled preseason intrasquad scrimmages. Jack Hartman's Wildcats will hold their annual Purple-White game at 7 p.m. Saturday in Ahearn Field House. Proceeds from the $1 admission will go to the United Way.

The men's team also has planned a scrimmage for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12 at the Petro Center's Lee Arena on the Washburn University campus in Topeka. Hartman will conduct a shooting clinic from 6:30 to 7 p.m.

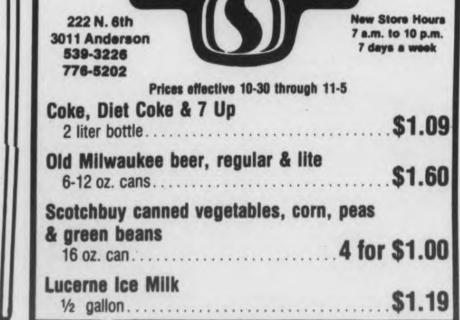

Two scrimmages have been planned for Matilda Mossman's Wildcats. The first is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Manhattan High School Gymnasium. The Salina Bicentennial Center will be the site for the second scrimmage at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.

Admission for both games is $1 with the proceeds going to cover the cost of using the two facilities. Groups of 10 or more can be admitted free to the scrimmage in Salina by contacting the Salina Chamber of Commerce at Box 596, Salina, Kan., 67401 or by calling (913) 827-9301.

Wednesday Daily Special HAM STACK at 95% lean, 25% less salt, piled high $3.49 on a sesame seed bun with swiss cheese Choice of wattle tries or soup of the day 537-3999 12th & Laramie, Aggieville Open Daily til Midnight

SAFEWAY

Travis

Continued from Page 11

NCAA national committee recently to lower that total to six each. Would Travis be in favor of the proposal if it came to vote? "I'm not sure yet. I would have to seriously think about where we are he said. "I know financially it would help us out, but I'm not sure if I would be in favor of it or not," Travis and get some input from my people,"

In the meantime, he is working hard to see that his goal becomes a

"Our goal is five years," Travis said. "That is what we are shooting

AP tabs Cards' Herzog top baseball manager

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - At least partially, Whitey Herzog's selection as The Associated Press' Manager of the Year eased the pain of a disappointing windup to his fifth full term as St. Louis Cardinals pilot.

"Nobody really expected this ballclub to do anything when it started out," Herzog said when informed of an award announced earlier Tuesday. "I really feel like something was taken away from us. I really feel that we should have won the World Series."

Herzog's club, before falling two outs short of winning Game 6 of the World Series in a contest that would have given it the world's championship, did reach heights most did not think possible.

Last winter, in considering foremost St. Louis' loss of relief star Bruce Sutter to free agency, many tabbed the Cardinals to finish last in the National League East. Instead, his competitive fire tested, Herzog assembled a "bullpen by committee" that never lost in the ninth inning until the next-to-last contest.

"I've had some awful good ballplayers. I've never had a team in my 12 (managerial) years that gave me the effort that I had this year,' Herzog said of a team that won 101 games en route to its 14th NL pennant.

"We're pretty young. We've got some guys making a lot of money, but they're pretty enthusiastic," the manager said. "People say you can't repeat any more. I did it three years in Kansas City (as American League West champions). We really did it in '81 and in '82 here and we did it in St. Louis' return to the NL pinnacle it occupied in 1982 represented a remarkable recycling process.

YOU

Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

12th & Laramie 537–3999 Open daily to midnight

Seventeen members of the '82 team were gone. In their place, Herzog wove together a lineup able to capitalize fully on its speed and defense. The club stole 314 bases, committing only 108 errors. Its pitching, in addition to the bullpen's contributions, was bolstered by the off-season acquisition of John Tudor, who won 21 games.

Ozzie Smith, the Cardinals' All-Star shortstop, said it was also no accident that St. Louis, from start to finish, was the winningest outfit in the major leagues.

"Every team reflects its manager's personality," Smith said. "Whitey has the knack of getting the most out of every ballplayer. We're a loose team, and yet everybody does his job."

Pete Rose, who as player-manager guided the Cincinnati Reds to an 89-72 record and second place in the NL West behind the champion Los Angeles Dodgers, finished two votes behind Herzog in Manager-of-the-Year balloting by a nationwide panel of 117 sports writers and broadcasters.

Bobby Cox of the AL East champion Toronto Blue Jays, who recently resigned to become Atlanta Braves general manager, was third behind Herzog. Others receiving votes were Tom Lasorda, Los Angeles Dodgers; Davey Johnson, New York Mets, and Billy Martin, who was fired Sunday as New York

Dick Howser, manager of the 1985 World Champion Kansas City Royals, somehow received no votes.

MANHATTAN

SHOE REPAIR

HEELS WHILE

YOU WAIT

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4

Open 'til 8 Thursdays

Drive-Up Convenience

776-1193

401 Humboldt

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

HALLOWEEN BALLOONS Orange and Black Rubber or Mylar For Your Halloween Party

Balloon Boutique

Introducing Two New Stylists At 50% OFF These Services With This Ad.

Barb comes to us from Wamego specializing in haircuts, permanents and sculptured nails.

Janelle is an instructor at Crum's Beauty College and working part-time as a stylist. She specializes in haircuts, permanents, carefree curls and relaxers

* Jr. Stylists Julie, Kathy and Rosemarie are offering 50% OFF nailtips, sculptured nails, haircuts and perms. All offers expire

Missouri reaps benefits from '85 Series town wallets and purses.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - There simply was no way Missouri could

With the Kansas City Royals and the St. Louis Cardinals vying for their respective league titles and then playing in the World Series, the state and the two cities could only reap a bountiful harvest of green.

And reap they did. Fourteen games of postseason action generated about $140 million for the state, said Marjorie Beenders, director of the Missouri Division of Tourism, with about $100 million of that pumped into the local economies of St. Louis and Kansas

But, even more important than the money, city and state officials said, was the national exposure shared by the two Missouri cities as they dominated the national sports scene in what the media billed as the "I-70 Series" and "Show-Me Showdown."

For nine days, the eyes of the baseball world - albeit somewhat begrudgingly because of the lack of so-called major market teams were trained on Missouri.

"The main advantage to having the World Series is the tremendous showcase opportunity it gives the city," said John Stephens, director of marketing for the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association. "Important business and political leaders saw firsthand what's been taking place in St. Louis. This will have an effect when they think about doing business here in the future."

"One thing we can't put a price tag on is the national exposure," said

Robert MacGregor, president of the Greater Kansas City Area Chamber of Commerce. "It helps us tremendously in the long run. Important people were able to see the $1 billion construction boom going on here, the renovation projects. It has shown people that Kansas City is a big league city."

The national and international media attention focused on Missouri during the World Series will help the state expand its advertising markets, Beenders said.

"We are working aggressively to try to make a positive image for Missouri," she said. "The series will help us as we expand into other outof-state markets.'

Although Kansas City and St. Louis received the majority of the immediate economic impact from the series, the state is the long-term benefactor, said Peter Herschend, president of the Missouri Travel Federation.

Herschend said "the positive press that flowed to Missouri" during coverage of the World Series helped the state's ongoing image-building process, as did the 1982 Series between the Cardinals and the Milwaukee Brewers and the 1980 Series with the Royals and the Philadelphia Phillies.

City officials can expect immediate benefits from the games. According to Patty Nolte of the Greater Kansas City Area Convention and Visitors Bureau, each playoff and World Series game meant about $4 million to the city in the form of boarding, food and souvenir sales. She said, about $1 million of that came from out-of-

MINIMUM VALUABLE COUPON THIRIBINING VIII//

ANY REG. PRICED SHOES OR BOOTS

Lady Foot Shoes

221 Poyntz, Manhattan

For eight games, Kansas City will make about $32 million, she said. In St. Louis, which has a larger metropolitan area than its crossstate counterpart, St. Louis Visitors and Convention Bureau spokesman Jack Walsh said the three games of the National League playoffs and three World Series games pumped about $60 million - or about $10 million a day - into the city's

Although exact figures from the previous World Series involving the Cardinals and Royals were not available, civic leaders said more money was taken in this year because of a greater number of shopping and entertainment opportunities in their respective

Every major hotel in St. Louis and St. Louis County was filled for the duration of the series, Walsh said.

"They normally have a 67 percent occupancy rate in October," he said. "So we're looking at a one-third increase right there.'

It was much the same in Kansas City where, with the help of two conventions on the weekends of the World Series, area hotels reached full occupancy, forcing visitors to find accommodations as far away as Warrensburg, about 60 miles southeast of Kansas City.

Even the towns located on Interstate 70 between the two World Series cities benefited.

Columbia, being about two hours from Kansas City and St. Louis, was "kind of a pit stop" for people traveling to the games, said June Dodd, executive vice president of the Columbia Chamber of Commerce.

Shopping areas in both cities also enjoyed sizeable increases in sales.

Toilet in Cardinals dugout destroyed with baseball bat

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The St. Louis Cardinals managed just a .185 batting average during their World Series loss to the Kansas City Royals, but the restroom in the visitors' dugout in Kansas City looks like somebody batted 1.000.

"Somebody took a baseball bat to the lavatory and toilet and left it in pieces," said David Owen, an assistant engineer at the stadium.

"It's not really a big deal. It happens all the time," he said, recalling that Royals' third baseman George Brett damaged a toilet several years ago at the stadium in Kansas City. The Royals paid for Brett's outburst.

The teams agreed that any damage to the visitors' locker rooms would be paid by the visiting team, and Owen said the Cardinals can expect a bill soon for $1,500 to $2,000.

Owen said no one on the staff knows who smashed the lavatory and

FREE DELIVERY 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

1116 Moro

Halloween Special We've Got A "Treat" for you Thursday, October 31 50% DISCOUNT on a small, medium or large cup or cone

To Anyone Wearing A Halloween Costume

Parents, we'll treat you, too, when you're accompanied by your "trick-or-treaters"

705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers Aggleville Open:

11 a.m.-11 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

11 a.m.-10 p.m. Sun.

Enroll

Continued from Page 1

decline (at K-State and its peer institutions) to," Rawson said. "Students make decisions on where to go on a variety of factors. Where did your parents go? What can you afford? Where are your friends going? Who has the best program?"

He added that factors such as the farm economy and the location of universities could also affect their enrollment gains and losses. KU draws many of its students from the Kansas City, Kan. area which is growing, while K-State, Rawson said, probably attracts many of its students from western Kansas.

Similarly, Provost Owen Koeppe said K-State's distance from metropolitan areas was one of the greater factors contributing to declining enrollment.

"I think that the fact we are away from most metropolitan areas is important," he said. "When we enquire, the most common excuse we hear from (prospective) students is, 'We can't afford to come so far; we need to stay closer to home."

Figures from the University Registrar's office indicate, however, that more students who do start college closer to home are transfering to K-State. The total of new transfer students from 1984 to 1985 increased by 6.3 percent.

The number of new students entering K-State dropped less than 0.1 per-

For other regents' universities, Emporia State lost 2.8 percent of its enrollment. The average for its peer institutions, which include Fort Hays State University and Pittsburg State University, is a 0.9 percent increase.

Pittsburg State led regents' schools with an 8.8 percent enrollment increase. Kansas Technical Institute in Salina and Fort Hays State followed with 5.7 and 4.8 percent increases respectively.

Continued from Page 1

'The environment undergoes acid shock when the snow melts," he said.

fects lakes when snow melts.

"The snow has high concentrations of acidic compounds. Mooney also said industries have made apparent remedies for acid rain pollution. "To solve the problem, they just built the smokestacks higher so the concentrations in one area where they are monitored are low," he said. "When the pollution gets high into the atmosphere it goes across state lines." Mooney, a Canadian, said Canada has passed several regulations governing the release of acid rain-causing residue and environmentally dangerous pollutants into the air. He said soil in Canada has little buffer for acid rain. "Acid emission in the U.S. is 20 percent higher than in Canada," Mooney said. "It would cost the U.S. taxpayer about $20 a year for cleaner air and environment.

After a question from the audience, Mooney said the erosion of the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor and other monuments may be due in part to acid rain.

"Acid rain also attacks metals so it might be one reason you can see deterioration on the Lady," he said. 'Erosion is such in Missouri that you can see the effect on concrete bridges.'

Robel said the Wolf Creek Nuclear Power Plant would not add acid rain to the environment and the Jeffrey Energy Center north of St. Marys used strict guidelines and paid the high price of scrubbers and other preventative emission controls.

Robel also said acid rain has little effect on Kansas soil because of the alkaline content of the soil. The effects of acid rain on other environmental factors are various, he

"The biological effects of acid rain are that it can make lakes sterile, there seems to be an increase in the growth of pine seedlings that sometimes become disease resistant and agricultural crops don't seem to be affected," he said. "The effects are variable and complex."

Williams said he believes the battle of acid rain was a battle of vic-

"I think there has already been a mobilization of the advocates of regulations," Williams said. "The people who want the regulations are already involved. There are many, though, who are on the other side."

The University convocation, "Many Problems/Few Answers," will be presented by Robert Burgess, chairman of the Department of Environmental and Forest Biology at the State University of New York, Syracuse, N.Y., at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in McCain Auditorium.

The lecture is part of the Mark Enloe Memorial Lectureship in Relevant Conservation Issues.

Continued from Page 7 sliding fee scale available for those whose insurance does not cover home care.

"The sliding fee scale is based upon income and how many people it supports; it is not necessarily based upon savings," Holsteen said. According to Sobering, Kansas does not require insurance companies to cover home care. However, many companies recognize it as being a cost-effective measure. Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kansas are examples of companies who reimburse the agencies for skilled home care.

Many people do not need intense 24-hour service, Sobering said.

"Home care is somewhat in the middle of the spectrum," Sobering said. "Acute care in the hospital is on one end, with nursing home care on the other. We are the appropriate care for the appropriate need.

Classifieds

01

THAT'LL BE

#17.50

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon

FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

UH... * INFALLIBLE EXECUTIVE TYPE

SEEKS PERKY BABE WHO'S INTO

CHILD REARING, COOKING, PER-

APPRECIATING JUST WHO THE HECK

Personals

TAKEN HERE

Garfield

Peanuts

MY GRAMPA IS A

TO THE AIRPORT.

FREQUENT FLIER" 50

YESTERDAY HE WENT

rossword

12 Small rug 56 Arrow

ACROSS

1 Harvest goddess 4 Pintail

duck

13 Prefix

8 Composer for legal

- fixe

16 Equine ex-potato

Region of shifting

sands 24 Lukewarm

28 Annoying

despot

44 City in hibition

15 Playing card

18 Scope

20 Sweet

21 or medical

Jerome

46 Indian's tent

50 Cousin of the Pony

Express

55 Ragweed's cousin poison sword

Bist Du

Schoen'

57 Fencing

58 "Bei -

59 Pare

JPM DAVES

HEY, GARFIELD! I JUST BOUGHT A SWISS ARMY KNIFE, IT POES ABOUT A MILLION THINGS!

SURE

10-30

CLEANING FLOORS, DUSTING,

PETUAL CHEERFULNESS AND

WEARS THE PANTS IN

THE FAMILY."

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

Bloom County

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m.5:30 p.m., today thru November 8th. Walk-ins welcome! f you have any questions, call 539-5229. (43-47)

SENIORS—TMI coming soon! (44-52) MYSTIC SOOTHSAYER trained in divination, and applied guidance, taking requests for personal ho scopes. Have success in every aspect of your life, through self-knowledge and your potential destiny chart. For details, write to The Secretary, P.O. Box 2015, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-49)

ATTENTION

I GOT

FOUR BUCKS.

Personals

TAKEN HERE

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf)

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61) WE'RE SELLING your dream. Learn to fly. For more information call Capital Air Service, 539-7623. (45-

$60 PER hundred paid for processing mail at home! Information, send self-addressed stamped envelope. Associates, Box 95, Roselle, New Jersey,

I'VE SEEN THOSE KNIVES BEFORE. THEY'RE ABOUT

© 1985 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE LADY BEHIND THE TICKET COUNTER SAID,

OH, YOU'VE ALREADY

FLOWN A HUNDRED

DOWN

2 Small

rodent

4 Areas of

5 Old Red

head?

6 Make a boo-boo

7 Comfortable

8 Fate

influence

3 British gun

11 Unused

19 Balloon

22 Newts

25 Jetty

26 Caesar's

27 Take out

28 Political hireling

29 Fragrance

54 Vast quantity

23 Regard with excessive pleasure fatal date

1 Tentmaker 17 Corrode

THOUSAND MILES

AS USELESS AS ...

NO PROBLEM.

WE'LL JUST SQUEEZE

Personals

TAKEN HERE

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

MAKE THIS TRIP." SHE

SO HE WENT HOME!

SAID.."YOU CAN 60 HOME!"

IT HERE AND THERE ...

AH. HOW'S THIS ..?

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts . . . count on Sun-chase! (45-56)

TOTAL IMAGE Saion: Perms $35; haircuts —$6 guys. $9 gals. Call Melanie, 539-4400. (46-50) USED BOOKS and magazines—buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville. (46-48)

FOR RENT-MISC

02

STORAGE UNITS from $15 monthly. Amherst Self Storage in west Manhattan. 776-3804. (13tf)

03

04

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM basement apartment at 809 N. 11th, $290, bills paid. Call 539-8401. (1tf)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, 1837 College its. Available mid-October, 776-9124. (31-49)

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university. Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

WARD CLEAVER

SEEKS JUNE CLEAVER."

By Berke Breathed

WHO?

Personals

TAKEN HERE

By Jim Davis

FOOMP!

THAT'S A NEW ONE ON ME

By Charles Schulz

YOUR WHOLE FAMILY'S

WEIRD, MARCIE.

Like a FREE VCR, Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

Call for details 776-3804

QUIET ONE bedroom, 1131 Vattier, Heat, water and trash paid, furnished or unfurnished. $195/month Call Professor McGuire, 532-6786 or 776-5682 evenings. (46-55)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TCHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing opportunity. Call 776-4786 during mornin Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1976 VOLVO, very dependable. New tires, great shape, $2,400 or best offer. 539-4373. (44-47) LATE 1984 Chevy 1-ton dual, 454-automatic,

Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352 or 913-668-2214. (45-49) MUST SELL: 1979 4 x 4 Subaru Brat. New radials, air conditioning, rebuilt transmission, excellent condition. $2,150 or best offer. 539-2899. (47-51) 1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850.

Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf) 1978 Z-28 Camaro—All options, including T-tops. Low miles, must sell, $3,600. Call 537-0227. (47-51)

FOR SALE-MISC

VENTAGE FUR pieces, including two short jackets and a stole. Great for Halloween costumes, theater productions and other "dress-up" occasions. 1-456-9364, Wamego. (45-47)

> The Guitar Shop 2513 Stagg Hill Rd. 776-6167 Switchcraft 25 Ft. Guitar Cables $15.75 All Guitar Strings $5.00 a set

New & Used Equipment Guitar Repairs & Set-Ups by Mike Plas

FOR SALE: New age encyclopedias, full set in excel-lent condition. Asking $125. Call 539-4800. (45-47) NAGELS—TWO posters by Patrick Nagel: "Gallery Michael" and "Nagel." Best offer. 776-5278. (46-49)

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds

27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc.

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1, (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (47)

ATKGNJU

107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

MIKASA BONE china-Nine place settings, contemporary style, "Silver Halo." Perfect condition, $250. Call 776-0733. (49-51)

Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger

The Ritz This coupon expires 11/2/85

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

1979 MOBILE home-three bedroom, central air priced below appraisal. Available now. 776-3702.

(45-49) 1968 GREAT Lakes-12' x 65', three bedrooms, appliances. Excellent buy, $5,200. Call 776-6956 eve-

nings. (46-56) FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1981 HONDA CM400-Must sell, runs well, 9,000 miles. Call 539-5871. (45-49)

FOUND

GRACE WINTERMAN-We have your KSU I.D. in Kedzie 103. (45-47)

THE FOLLOWING items can be identified and claimed in Farrell Library, Circulation Department Magnifying glass with "Rexanne Clark" name sticker, Snoopy zip-bag with calculator, digital quartz watch; two PE textbooks (one for Concepts. one for Therapeutic Rec); two speech workbooks; one Classroom Reading Instruction, one amplified Bible; one Serial Gd. to Sub-Sahara Africa. (45-

FOUND: BICYCLE on campus. Call 776-3741 between 4:00 and 5:30 p.m. to claim. (46-48)

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking knowledgeable office manager with strong horticulture background. Benefits include Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking experienced, motivated, Landscape Designer/salesman. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397. (45-49) POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Seminar Leaders - Successful undergraduates are now nar Leaders—Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1986. Specific duties include: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a General Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session; and d) attend ing and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic succes for all students; c) desire to perform in the role of a helping person; d) are sensitive to the needs of others, and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class, EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit) during Spring 1986 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1986 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview. (45-49)

START YOUR career now. Earn money and work on Fortune 500 Companies' marketing progams on campus. Part-time (flexible) hours each week. We give references. Call 1-800-243-6679. (45-47)

COLLEGIATE JEWELRY Distributors allows college students to own their own jeweiry and sunglass business. We sell quality sunglasses such as Ray-Ban, Vuarnet, Porsche Carrera. Our jeweiry products include solid 14kt gold jewelry (chains, ear rings) as well as gold jewelry which is layered with 14kt gold and guaranteed for life. All of our products are sold to the student business owner at near wholesale prices. This is a great and fun way to earn money from your dorm, frat/sorority, apart-ment or home. For our catalog: Collegiate Jewelry Distributors, P.O. Box 555. Randallstown, Md. 21133 (46-48) DIRECTOR OF Christian Education: First Presbyte rian Church seeks full-time Director of Christian Education. Leadership training and development of a growing ministry with children and youth are the priorities. Must work well with other staff, committees, and volunteers. Position open immediately Send resums to: Director of Christian Education. ately. Send resume to: Director of Christian Educa-tion Search Committee, First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS. 66502. THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board and salary included. 914-273-1626.

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R for current federal

BARTENDERS AND Food Servers. Now hiring at the Cotton Club, Manhattan's newest dinner club. Apply in person at 418 Poyntz in the Wareham Build-

CHILDCARE NEEDED in my home, 2:15 p.m. until various times in the evening, two-three days per week. Position open immediately. Call 537-0117.

LAST CHANCE is accepting applications for cooks. Apply at 1213 Moro. (47-48) REWARD-FREE trip to Daytona plus commission money. Wanted: Organized group or individual to promote #1 Spring Break trip to Daytona. If inter-ested, call 1-800-453-9074 immediately! (47)

NEW YORK couple with two children looking for nother's helper good with children to live-in Pleasant suburban community, easy access to New York City, room with private bath, good pay, transportation, Call 516-621-0824. (47-51)

14 LOST

WILL THE trouser pilot who stole by gray Jansport backpack from Union Bookstore Thursday, please return. No questions asked. Call Pat, 539-2563. (46-

LOST: WOMEN'S glasses in blue case sometime Tuesday, October 22. Call Sally, 776-7672. Reward! (47-49)

15

NOTICES OVER 1,000 costumes-Men's, ladies' and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early. Marie's Costumes. 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (30tf) ROYAL PURPLE pictures for off-campus students now being taken in Union, room 209, 8:30 a.m. 5:30 p.m., today thru November 8th. Walk-ins welcome. If you have any questions, call 539-5229, (43-47) 16

PERSONAL

FAN III-Happy Birthday, Freshman Fred! I love you. Connie (47) G-PHI PLEDGES: MU sneak was really great, the weekend was a blast - The time we spent together, however, really went too fast. Let's remember the good times. I love you all! L.H. (47) AD Pi Sneakers: We loaded the bus and got ready to cruise, and headed for OSU, as we pulled out the booze. Watching The Breakfast Club, Ghostbusters and playing football with the Delts, but where were the girls? The guy/girl ratio really made us melt! The Royals were great and the Sigma Nu's were, too. Thanks for kidnapping us, we love you! The Partying Seniors. (47) ADJES LADJES! It's time to get a date. The KD/G.

Phi duo is gonna be great! (47) DOUG, LOOKING back at the past three years are unforgettable memories in my life. Thank you for sharing those years and for making those memories. Still loving you, Sandra. (47) KAPPA SIGS-Sorry I missed all the fun, however I knew we would end up #1. Congrats! Luv. your X fluffy bunny, JH. (47)

TO THE rugby player who wore his birthday suit at Brother's Saturday. Way to Zulu Shroom. (47)

AARON G .- Happy anniversary! I hope hunting me is as much fun as hunting ducks. (Remember?) I love you very much. Miss-E. (47)

KIM M .- You're about as "bad" as me now Happy 20th! Love, J.T. (47)

PAUL HILL-Happy Birthday, Guess Who! (47) KIM MOORS-Just think, only 365 shopping days left! Happy 20th! We love you, your mom and daughter (47)

SEARCHERS-PASS it on! Love ya! Your Backers.

ROOMMATE WANTED

17 FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted-Two bedroom, one and one-half bath, exceptionally nice, westside location, $162.50 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-2050 after 6:00 p.m. (43-47)

THREE GIRLS looking for fourth to share a special four bedroom, two bath duplex. Low utilities, washer and dryer, large yard, walk to campus. Available now and spring session. Call 776-3069 (43-47) ROOMMATE WANTED: Close to campus and Ag gieville, own room, $95/month, one-sixth utilities. 539-0435. (44-48) FEMALE-NONSMOKING to share duplex. Own room, washer, dryer, dishwasher and microwave $133 plus one-third utilities. Call 539-9293. (44-48) NONSMOKING MALE roommate wanted, $137.50/

MALE, SPRING semester-Close to campus, furnished, $110 plus one-half utilities. Call 539-3914.

month, utilities paid. Call 539-5913. (46-48)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share three bedroom apart ment. Own bedroom, only $150 per month. Call 776-3706 after 6:30 p.m. (46-50)

ROOMMATE NEEDED for new condo. Washer, dryer, microwave, dishwasher, VCR, three bedrooms, two baths, $150. Available November 2. Call 537-4777

QUIET ROOMMATE wanted in house two blocks from campus. $95 plus utilities. 776-8729. (46-48)

18

SERVICES

storage, 776-6166. (13tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equip ment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (41 VW BUG Restoration - Come out for a consultation See how good your Bug can look. J & L Bug Service. 7 miles east. 1-494-2388. (42-47)

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services, 539-6912 or 539-3773. (46-49) PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word proc essed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service. 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (46-47) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, work-quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537 9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (47-51) 22 WANTED TO BUY

NEED UP to ten tickets for KSU-NU game. Call 776-

3273 with name, phone number and price. Will pay cash. (44-47) insect 32 Surge 33 Fuss 34 Porticos 36 Lamprey 37 Price 39 Carpenter need 41 Venomous snake 43 Russian

Yugoslavia Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

9 Anglo-60 Impair 30 — Ponselle by use Saxon 31 Tropical - of Me" letter skin (1931)10 Vintage disease car song) 35 Smash Avg. solution time: 26 min. 38 Christmas 40 Crude EN TITAL 42 Bond 45 Gush forth 47 Egyptian cotton metal A SEAR 50 With it" PIE 52 Her mate ATI is ruff 10-30 53 Poet's word

VHHM GBEVCHY'G AEKUNJUC YHGC MJRC Yesterday's Cryptoquip - THE ANGRY SPLINTER GROUP USUALLY CAUSED DISSENT IN THE CARPEN-TERS UNION.

BYTBUDF

RCEF

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals C

New! Low Prices Everyday!

51b.$69

Stock up at these new low prices!

Vegetable Oil Spread, 16 oz.... Premium Margarine, 16 oz. Pure Vegetable Shortening, 48 oz. . $149 Pre-Creamed Shortening, Walnut Pieces, OOC 7 oz. .....

Powdered Sugar 70

Brown Sugar

Peanut Butter creamy or chunky, grade A fancy, 18 oz. 89¢

Savory Bacon #1 lb. . . . (was .69) 59¢

Ground Beef Patties, soy added, $999 3 lbs..... (was 3.29)

New Harvest... Just 9

Cranberry Sauce	49¢
Fruit Cocktail, choice qual heavy syrup 16 oz	ty. 49¢
Sliced Peaches choice quality, heavy syrup, 29 of	79¢
Pumpkin grade A lancy, 16 oz	39¢
Yams grade A lancy, 16 oz	.39¢
Tomatoes whole peeled, 16 oz	39¢
Cookies & Sna	cks
Saltine Crackers 16 oz	39¢
Bread & Past	ry
Premium White Bread	25¢
Split Top Wheat Bread	.59¢
Donuts variety, sugar or plain, dz	99¢
Brown & Serve Hot Bread, 16 oz	.69¢
Brown & Serve Rolls	49¢
Christmas Stollen	$199
/IDI

Fruits and Vegetables

McCormick Pure Vanilla Extract, 2 oz	S149
McCormick Ground Cinnamon, 1.12 oz	59¢
McCormick Chili Powder
Juice & Drinks	5
100% Pure Orange Juice unsweetened, grade A fancy, 46 oz.	99¢
Hot Cocoa Mix 12/1 oz. pkgs	89¢
Apple Cider gallon	$199
Premium Blend Coffee	$349
Prepared Food	s
Chunk Light Tuna water or oil pack, 6.5 oz	59¢
Stuffing Mix	59¢
Rice-A-Roni chicken flavor, 8 oz.	69¢
Condiments & Spre	eads
Catsup grade A lancy, 32 oz	69¢
Pancake Syrup	79¢

Baking Supplies

1 lb. Premium Bacon

U.S. #1 grade

ALDI Low price

Dairy & Lunchmeat	Cereal	Cereal
rkey, Beef & Ham ces, 2.5 oz	Corn Flakes 18 oz	890 $12
ced Bologna or oked Salami, 12 oz 990	Paper & Household Items
Price Reductions!	Paper Towels jumbo roll Facial Tissue	390
Cut Asparagus Grade A fancy. 14.5 oz. (was 79c) 69¢	175 ct	$12
Hot Dogs 12 oz(was 79c) 69¢	G.E. Light Bulbs, 60 or 100 watt, pkg. of 4	$199
NEW LOW PRICE	Bar Soap,	290

Produce
Red Delicious Apples U.S. #1 grade, 3 lb	69¢
Grapefruit indian river, US#1	25¢
Onions US #1, 3 lb. bag	39¢
Frozen Foods
Jeno's Pizza sausage or combination, 10.8 oz.	79¢
Oncor Salisbury Steak	$169
Orange Juice grade A fancy, 12 oz	89¢
Crunchy Fish Sticks	5199

These are not weekly specials. These are everyday ALDI low prices.

Ch

517 N. 3rd Manhattan, Ks. Store Hours:

9 a.m.- 6 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. 9 a.m.- 7 p.m. Fri. 9 a.m.- 6 p.m. Sat.

0164 8505 1

October 31, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 48

Farm creditors face financial troubles

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congress was asked Wednesday for up to $6 billion to keep the Farm Credit System from toppling and taking thousands of farm borrowers along with it.

"Absent government financial assistance, the system cannot survive the radical transition under way in agriculture," Ray Moss Tucker, chairman of the Farm Credit Council, the system's lobbying arm, told the House Agriculture Committee.

Some members of the committee warmed to the idea, but others expressed skepticism and sought explanations of how the system got so deeply in trouble

Rep. Jim Weaver, D-Ore., said the system isn't the only institution in financial trouble. 'I see a whole fleet of Titanics Lobbyists ask Congress for $6 billion out there," Weaver said. "If we start by bailing out the Farm Credit System, where does it stop?' Recent financial reports have shown that the 37-bank system, the nation's largest farm lender with $70 billion in outstanding loans, has $13 billion in problem loans.

The system suffered losses of $522 million in the third quarter of this year, and more losses are expected.

Donald E. Wilkinson, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, an independent federal agency that oversees the system, blamed its financial troubles on high interest rates, declining farm income and large drops in land values. Wilkinson said that between 1981 and 1985, farm real estate values dropped about $151 billion, with more than $100 billion of it occurring in the past year. As a result, farmers had less collateral to back up loans to cover cash-flow problems. The system, cooperatively owned by its farmer-borrowers and uses no government money at present, is worried that its mounting troubles will cause loss of confidence among the investors who provide its loan capital by investing in farm credit

The risk premium on those bonds already has increased by more than one interest rate point since the system's troubles have been publicly acknowledged over the past few months.

Wilkinson said $5 billion would be enough from the government if steps are taken soon. He asked Congress to expand the FCA's enforcement powers and "clearly define its role as an arms-length, independent federal regulatory agency."

Wilkinson proposed that $5 billion be made available to the system as needed through a special revolving fund. That would "provide the necessary reassurance to the financial markets to ensure the continued availability of funds," he

But Rep. Larry J. Hopkins, R-Ky., challenged Wilkinson's $5 billion proposal. "I don't think that's going to do it," he said. "In my honest opinion...you're going to be looking somewhere between $10 (billion) and $30 billion, when all the chips are in."

House approves freeze of Pentagon spending

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The House voted 359-67 Wednesday to approve a bill freezing Pentagon spending after it avoided fights over money for "Star Wars" anti-missile research and new chemical weapons.

In the only major controversy, a closely divided House first voted to eliminate but later reversed itself and restored $1.7 billion to buy a dozen MX missiles, the nuclear weapon that has been the center of a long-running Capitol Hill fight.

The measure to delete the MX funds first passed by a 211-208 margin but was later defeated 214-210.

Sixteen congressmen switched sides during the votes to delete the MX money, an amendment pushed by Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass. He contended it was useless to spend the money because the House has already voted to limit the future deployment of the weapon.

The House bill would appropriate most of a $292 billion Pentagon budget for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1. That's the same as the Defense Department got last year but far under the $322 billion budget President Reagan originally proposed for it this year.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations defense subcommittee gave voice vote approval of its version of a Pentagon spending bill that would total $302 billion. The Senate measure includes $250 million more than the House for Star Wars and also provides money for chemical weapons.

Major fights were expected on the House floor over nerve gas and spending for Star Wars, President Reagan's Strategic Defense

See DEFENSE, Page 16

Professors offer views of secrecy

By JANIS SMISCHNY Collegian Reporter

Agreeing that the government needs to be more honest to the public and press, three professors participated in a round table discussion about the right of the government to keep secrets Wednesday afternoon.

The speakers who participated in the discussion, sponsored by the Department of History, were Jacob Kipp, professor of history; David LaFrance, professor of history; and Carol Oukrop, professor of iournalism communications. The group discussed how the government filters material to the press and the problems it causes. There is a lack of information given to the press and the public and this guides public opinion, Kipp said. He also commented on government leaks of some materials selectively to shape public opinion. LaFrance discussed the press ban in Grenada in 1983 when the United States invaded the island. The public remembered the first impressions of the invasion as the government released them, but didn't remember the problems of the invasion that were covered by the press later, LaFrance said.

'My concern is the management of the news by the government and the misunderstanding the public has in this," LaFrance said.

See SECRETS, Page 16

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Electrified

Misty Schultz, of Manhattan, scares these haunted house visitors in the Wednesday night. The house was sponsored by the Jaycee Club of Manhatelectric-chair room of the haunted house at the Pottorf House in Cico Park

Senators to oppose financing

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

Two student senators plan to propose a bill to halt student funding of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum until proper planning studies are conducted.

The legislation will be presented to Student Senate at its weekly meeting Thursday in the Union Big Eight

The legislation, titled "Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum," is sponsored by Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine.

Monto and Tsen are suggesting in their legislation that students request the Board of Regents to withdraw monetary support for the coliseum project until proper planning steps are adopted. The legislation outlines eight proper planning steps. These include a master plan of the entire project; a market study; a financial feasibility study; a site selection study; a traffic study; a building program; a coliseum. The bill also states the studies will be financed in the same manner and in the same proportions as the coliseum funding study and a design for the Section four of the legislation states copies of the legislation would be sent to the Board of Regents, the Alumni Association, the K-State Athletic Department, University

See SENATE, Page 9

Nuclear engineering jobs, enrollment fall since 1980

By JOHN WALKER JR. Collegian Reporter

The job market for graduates of the nuclear engineering department has been decreasing since 1980 when total enrollment was 74, said N. Dean Eckhoff. professor of nuclear engineering.

The department now has an enrollment of 55 students with undergraduate enrollment in the College of Engineering at 2,600. Despite the drop, the field has a future, said John Dollar, assistant dean of engineering.

As time goes by, nuclear energy may not be popular with society, but society will need nuclear energy nevertheless," Dollar said.

Through the 1950s and '60s, things were going well for the nuclear power industry because electrical energy requirements were doubling every seven years.

"All of a sudden, this requirement fell off in about a year (late 1969, early 1970)," Dollar said. "When this happened, there was a lot of bad press stories - in one way or another - alleging the dangers of nuclear radiation."

Dollar said the "bad press" and the decline in demand combined to depress the nuclear power industry. "There are no nuclear plants being built," he said, noting students looking for careers in the field are alert to the fact there is limited employment.

As a result of the lack of new power plant construction, the need for nuclear engineers was reduced, resulting in decreased enrollment in the major. However, students still find employment, though not as easily as in earlier decades.

Nuclear defense and retirement of nuclear engineers are among the factors that will maintain the need for graduates. Dollar said the "Star Wars" concept will use lasers in space, with the energy used to power those lasers coming from nuclear reactors instead of solar panels. This concept could create more demand for nuclear engineers.

"Though this sounds fantastic; I don't know where one can get the type of energy

See NUCLEAR, Page 12

Facility shutting down operation

Plant closing to result in job losses

By COLLEEN WILSON Staff Writer

For the second time in recent months,

Manhattan has been notified of the closing of a manufacturing plant. In a recent announcement, Ian Ziskin, human relations manager for the local motor manufacturing division of TRW Inc., 1650

Hayes Drive, said the company will be closing its facility early next year. Late this summer Guerdon Industries, a mobile home factory formerly at 2711 Amherst Ave., gave notice it would be leaving Manhattan resulting in the dismissal of approximately 80 employees The TRW plant, which came to Manhattan in 1982, currently employs 39 production, clerical and managerial employees.

Ziskin said the four members of the management staff will be transferred to the company's Dothan, Ala., plant, but the remaining 35 will be laid off.

Ziskin said a specific closing date has not yet been determined, but would be "no earlier than January 17," with the facility phasing out operations through April.

Ziskin said TRW will provide employees with a layoff assistance package, including early notification of layoff and assistance in finding new employment in their field.

He said the decision to close the plant was due to business conditions in both industrial and military industries, which caused them to miss growth expectations in 1985. Ziskin said the company's two other motor facilities, located in Dayton, Ohio, and Dothan have also experienced layoffs. One reason Ziskin gave for the company to close the Manhattan facility is that the other plants are company owned, while the local facility is leased from Bowman Construction of Manhattan. 'The Dothan and Dayton plants have fully integrated manufacturing ability," he said. "The number of folk at those two facilities have years of experience in delivering our product."

He added the Manhattan facility is the newest and has the fewest employees.

While selecting the city as a location, Ziskin said Manhattan offered to provide a suitable workforce, with the state providing employee training.

Mike Hauser, Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce executive, said the company's closing is "not good" for Manhattan economically.

"We lost in two ways," Hauser said. "We lost jobs for the 35 employees and we also lost the (expected) growth development of the company."

When announcing the original Manhattan site selection, the company said peak employment would reach 300.

Hauser said the Kansas Department of Economic Development "felt the same way" when he spoke to them following the TRW announcement. Hauser said the chamber usually works with the state's displaced workers division of human resources to aid employees in finding jobs, but because no workers will be laid off until Jan. 17, "it's a little too early to start." "Our main goal now is to try to bring new industries to the area so there'll be more opportunity for employment," he said. Hauser said the city had offered the soon to be vacated building to an unnamed division of a Fortune 500 company possibly locating in the city, but the 12,000-square-foot building did not meet their requirements. City Manager Don Harmon said he is unsure how the closing will affect the economy of Manhattan.

'We have no money or staff to assist (those who will be laid off)," he said. "The chamber usually does that on our behalf."

Inside

Pumpkin-carving contests on campus challenge the creativity of the contestants. See Page 7.

Weather

Today, mostly sunny. Highs 55 to 60. Tonight, becoming cloudy with a percent chance of rain. Lows around 40. Friday, cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain.

Sports

K-State defensive back Barton Hundley has a reason to smile as the 'Cats finally get their first win of the season. See Page 13.

Driefly

INTERNATIONAL

Ghandi to address memorial rally

NEW DELHI, India - Sharpshooters in trees will help guard Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi when he addresses a rally expected to number a million people today, the anniversary of his mother's assassination.

Angry Sikh militants in Punjab called a counterrally to glorify her slain Sikh assassin as a martyr.

Elaborate security plans, including helicopters, were laid out Wednesday for the New Delhi rally honoring Indira Gandhi, Rajiv's mother and predecessor.

"Security is so tight that even birds will not reach him (Gandhi)," the Statesman newspaper reported.

Epidemic breaks out in India

NEW DELHI, India - An epidemic of encephalitis has killed at least 1,000 people in northern Uttar Pradesh state and left another 1,000 in critical condition, a newspaper reported Wednesday.

The National Herald, the official voice of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's governing Congress party, said most of the victims were Earlier news reports had put the death toll at 180. Encephalitis is a mosquito-borne disease that causes swelling of the brain.

An encephalitis epidemic in 1978 killed 1,093 people in Uttar Pradesh, India's most populous state.

A team of doctors recently sent by the government to two worst-hit districts, Gorakhpur and Deoria, claimed to have halted the disease. but local officials were worried that medicines had not been distributed to patients, the newspaper said.

PEOPLE

Liddy to guest star on 'Miami Vice'

NEW YORK - G. Gordon Liddy, the former FBI agent who went to prison for masterminding the Watergate break-in, will make his television acting debut as a drug smuggler named Captain Real Estate on NBC's hit "Miami Vice," the network said.

Liddy served 54 months in prison for his role in the 1972 break-in at the former Democratic Party headquarters in Washington's Watergate Hotel. His best-selling autobiography, "Will," was made into an NBC-TV movie four years ago and starred Robert Conrad.

O'Neill agrees to reimburse driver

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. - Actor Ryan O'Neal has agreed to reimburse a driver whose Porsche he allegedly rear-ended as he was leaving a restaurant in his Rolls-Royce, a deputy district attorney said.

O'Neal agreed to pay $840 in damages and $133 in rental car costs to William Holz, according to Deputy District Attorney Kathryn Cuttrell, who presided over a hearing Monday in the Los Angeles County district attorney's Beverly Hills office.

FREE DELIVERY

(10% off with KSU I.D.)

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

539-8888 or 537-0886

comprehensive

associates

NATIONAL

Woman kills three in Pennsylvania

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. - A woman in army fatigues and black boots opened fire with a semiautomatic rifle in a crowded shopping mall Wednesday, killing a man and a 4-year-old boy, and wounding eight others before she was subdued by a passerby, police said.

The 28-year-old woman was taken into custody following the 4 p.m. rampage at the Springfield Mall in Delaware County, said Springfield Township Police Chief George Hill. Police then closed the shopping Police had dealt with the woman before because of "emotional problems," said John McKenna of the Delaware County district attorney's office. Neither he nor Hill would identify her.

Jack Laufer, 24, of Media, "grabbed her from behind, wrestled her to the ground and kicked the rifle away," Hill said.

Juan stalls out over Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS - With damage estimated at $1 billion, Tropical Storm Juan stalled over southern Louisiana on Wednesday, bringing more rain and high tides to a region already awash with water up to the windows on houses in New Orleans suburbs.

At least seven people were killed and eight missing. Thousands had fled their homes in coastal Louisiana and Mississippi and more were stranded by high water that began rising during the weekend when the storm suddenly mushroomed to hurricane strength over the Gulf

The flood damage to homes, about $110 million in damage to sugar cane and other unspecified damage added up to about $1 billion on land, Gov. Edwin Edwards said Wednesday.

By comparison, the combined damage from hurricanes Danny and Elena, which hit the state earlier this year, was $20 million to $25

Three killed in helicopter crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas - A Navy helicopter used for search and rescue missions crashed Wednesday east of here while on a training mission, killing three Navy crew members and injuring three others, authorities said.

The UH-1N helicopter crashed about 2:30 p.m. on Mustang Island between Corpus Christi and Port Aransas, said Ensign Terry Reese, public affairs officer for the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

REGIONAL

Kansas Titan II becomes inactive

MCCONNELL AIR FORCE BASE - The 533rd Strategic Missile Squadron, a Titan II missile unit, will be placed on inactive status on Friday, McConnell Air Force Base officials said Wednesday.

The Titan II missiles are being phased out. Personnel and equipment assigned to 533rd will be consolidated into the 532nd Strategic Missile Squadron, also based at McConnell. There were 183 people assigned to the 533rd squadron when the inactivation process began in April, 1984. Base officials say 71 people currently are assigned to the squadron.

DINNER THEATRE

"The Front Room" at Gregor's

Fri. & Sat. evenings through Nov. 16 Kansas Actors Theatre presents

Fri.-Sat.: Dinner at 6:30 & Performance at 8:00

Reservations 776-1234

A crystal evening

1304 Westloop

Thursday, November 7. 8:00 p.m.

Performed by Beverly Sills' New York City Opera National Company

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan,

Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

McCain.

Process & Print

with this coupon From 110, 126, 35mm or Disc Color Print Film.

13½¢ per print (reg. 27¢) & $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98)

Example: 24 exp. film reg. 89.46 Now $4.73

Manhattan 2700 Anderson Ave. (Next To Westloop-The Old Kentucky Fried Chicken)

539-2519 OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK! MON-SAT. B AM to 9 PM SUNDAYS 12 PM to 6 PM

1000

*free pregnancy tests "Greater Tuna" outpatient abortion services alternatives counseling Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

GLAMOUR WORLD BEAUTY SUPPL

COUPON Daily 9 30 6 00 p m Sat. 9.00 1 00 p m SEBASTIAN, PAUL MITCHELL and LA MAUR Products. 1104 Waters. Around corner from Wendy's 537 3233

404 Poyntz Downtown Manhattan

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggieville

EXPRESS

1116 Moro

14th Anniversary Sale

404 Poyntz, Downtown, Manhattan

Campus Bulletin

ELECTRONIC DATA SYSTEMS meets at 2:30

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Philip Dana Abadie at 10 a.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic will be "A Study of the In-terpersonal Communication Processes in the Supervision of Counseling."

OMICRON NU meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 212.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of M. Hossein Varamini at 4 p.m. in Waters 239. The dissertation topic will be "Macroeconomic Models, Rational Expectations and Their Ap-plications to Futures Markets." PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union

PHI KAPPA PHI meets at 4 p.m. in Union 213. AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR

DESIGNERS meets to tour Dean Barbara Stowe's home at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 115. CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7

SIGMA CHI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7:30

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave

LAW STUDENTS: Representatives from the Washburn School of Law will be on campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Union 205.

NAVIGATORS meet at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

Correction

Due to a reporter's error, in story, "Red Cross 'races' to teach Wednesday's story, "Forum CPR lessons," was incorrect. focuses on effects of acid rain on Participants in the carresources," Patrick Mooney, professor of landscape architecture, was misquoted. The story should have said that to create a cleaner environment Americans would have to pay a one-time fee of $20. Also the release of sulfur dioxide in America is 500 percent higher and nitrogen oxide emissions are 1,000 percent higher than in Canada.

information stated in Friday's Cross is the co-sponsor.

diopulmonary resuscitation classes are required to attend one of the four sessions Nov. 9. The sessions are open to anyone over the age of 12 and interested parties must register in the Union or at the American Red Cross office. Registration will be limited to 500. Cindy Burke's title was listed incorrectly. She is health educator at Lafene Student Health Center. Lafene is the main sponsor of the Because of a reporter's error, event and the American Red

It's a Halloween Restaurant & See Greamery Wear your favorite costume to EeGee's and receive 10% off any meal. We may take your picture for EeGee's Costume Contest. The winner will receive EeGee's 'Pounder Night Special''! (That's a 1 pound burger, 1 pound of waffle fries, 3 pounds of soft drink, and 1 pound of ice cream!) Divide it any way you like with your spooky friends! PICTURES TAKEN ALL DAY OCT. 31, 1985 12th & Laramie 537-3999 Open daily to midnight

Profile shows college's status

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK Collegian Reporter

For the College of Arts and Sciences there is only one word to describe the direction it is moving, and that is up, said Don Smith, assistant to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The College of Arts and Sciences probably provides the best undergraduate education preparation in the state, Smith said according to a recent profile done by the college.

Within the University, the college is a leader in preparing outstanding students for acceptance into professional schools. Last year, more than 95 percent of students who applied to law school were accepted. This is in comparison to the national average which was less than 80 percent. Of students who applied to medical colleges, 74 percent were accepted. One hundred percent were accepted into veterinary schools and 94 percent into physical therapy programs.

"It's amazing the strength of both the faculty and the students at this University, and the fact that so many people out there don't know it," said Smith.

Other areas the college has to be proud of, are the social sciences, humanitites, arts and the sciences.

In the social sciences, the faculty and students in the Department of Economics have been responsible for publications in the Wall Street Journal, Business Week and U.S. News & World Report. In the area of Humanitites, the creative writing program with its literary magazine, Kansas Quarterly, was selected by the Writers Digest as the best nonpaying fiction market in the country the last two years. The KQ was also rated in the top-10 literary magazines in the country in a recent national survey.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Shining in the arts is K-State's Dance Troupe which won the American Dance Festival Association's Midwest Regional Competition this year. The singing and musical performers continue to earn themselves a high reputation. The Concert Choir made a singing tour of Austria and Germany this past summer, and the Glee Club is one of only eight collegiate groups invitied to the Intercollegiate Music Council's Annual Seminar at Harvard in March. The K-State Singers will be Kansas' official representatives to the World's Fair in Vancouver, British Columbia, this

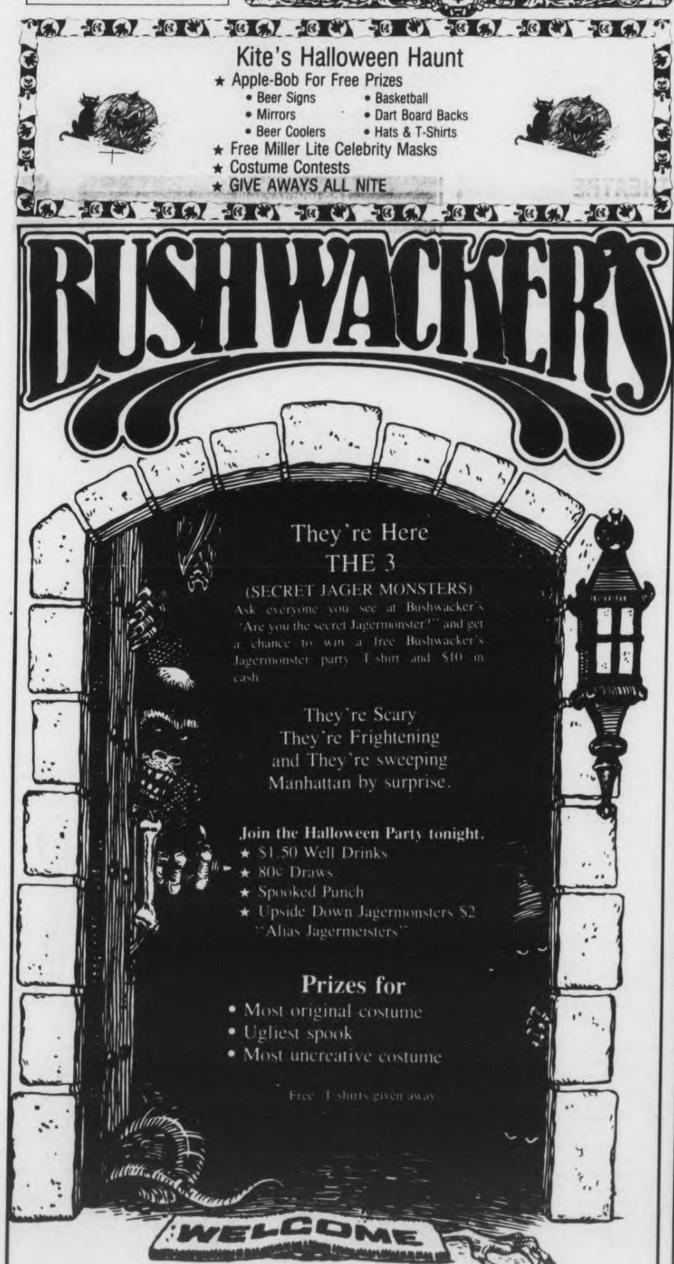

In the sciences, construction is under way on the $6.2 million expansion of the James R. Macdonald Laboratory for the Department of Physics. The lab will be making one of the nation's premier ion collison facilities. This expansion, funded mainly by the United States Department of Energy, will allow K-State students and faculty to conduct research.

Construction is also under way on the first phase of the $30 million Chemistry and Biochemistry Building that, when completed, will be the largest capital building project on any university campus in Kansas history. The Division of Biology is currently working with more than $7 million in research grants in the Center for Basic Cancer Research, one of the premier facilities of its kind in the Midwest.

"It's sad to say that most students don't think of Kansas State for art and humanities, and we want to let them know that we are right up there with the best in the region," Smith said. "We should be shouting these accomplishments from the roof top." Editor's note: This is the third story in a eight-part series highlighting each of the University's colleges and some of the programs of that college. Friday's story will highlight the College

IN MANHATTAN

FALL & WINTER WAREHOUSE SALE

601 SOUTH 5th

THUR., FRI., AND SAT. OCT 31-NOV 1 & 2 10:00 a m to 6:00 n m

10:00 a.m. t	o 6:00 p.m.
	601 SOUTH 5th
SHOES ALL $15.00	AUGUA 411 AAR AA
ETONIC	ETONIC C
Lady Vega$39.95 CONVERSE	Quasar
Spartan	Pro Star
Geneva 32.95	BROOKS
ADIDAS Malibu	Horizon
BROOKS	Avenger
Renegade	Enterprise
Lady Renegade32.95	Aerolite
Super Villanova36.95	X-Celerator
Lady Volanti	ADIDAS New York50.95
TIGER	Top Ten Low
Sundance	Top Ten Hi
SAVEONY Standard	Infinity
NIKE NIKE	Lady Heiress44.95
Tribute44.95	Lady Leather Tennis39.95
Enterprise	Men Leather Tennis39.95
Metro29.95	TIGER
Lady Metro	Raider Hi
Spiridon	Raider Low52.95
Trophi	Lady Equator
Lady Trophi	Lady Leather Cortez39.95
Sky Force Cavae	Lady Pegasus
Court Lites	Transit
	CHUES VIT 640 00
Nike Surge	1 SHUES ALL $10.00
Nike Burst
Nike Scout	24.95
Tiger Cub
Adidas Magic
Etonic Velcro
Puma Basket
CLOTI	HING VICTORISH SERVER AND AND A TOP TO THE PERSON OF THE P
Russell Sweat Crew
Russell Sweat Pant
Russell Sweat Hood
Russell Sweat Zipper  Danskin Leotards
Danskin Tights
Pocket Shorts	8.95
College Lettered Russell Crew
Mens Lt. Wt. Jacket
Fashion Seats, Top & Pantto 3
Warm-ups
Warmupsto 9	99.95 30.00
Men Swim Suits
Rugby Pants
Rugby Shirts
Ski Jackets to 1
Running Topsto
Running Shortst
Coaches Shorts
YOUTH CL
	.9510.00
Russell Sweat Crew
Russell Sweat Hood	11.95
	55.00
Shirts	4.95 2.00
SHIRTS, JERSEYS, SI	HUHIS AND SUCKS

Oym Onorto
SHIRTS, JE	RSEYS, SHORTS	S AND SOCKS
Gym Shorts Plain			10.00 1/2 d
Gym Shorts Stripe
Tube Socks	2.251.	50ea	.15.00 d
Shirts19.95.	5.00ea	a2	5.00 1/2 d
Shirts9.95	3.00ea.		.00 1/2 d
Shirts	2.00ea.	10	.00 1/2 d
Shirts4.95.	1.000	a	.10.00 da
	OTHER ITEMS

Exercise Equipment 72	price
Baseball hats
Visors	1.00
Wilson Rubber Basketball24	.9510.00
Leather Basketball	30.00
Tetherball	8.00
Wilson Racketballs	1.50can

At the warehouse location: 601 So. 5th

(No refunds)

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Coliseum watered down

Like everyone else, we're a litmasquerading as the Fred Bramlage Coliseum continued despite the pressures of reason and logic.

The latest development in the tragicomedy is to move the coliseum to a place where the water table is a little lower so the bowl of the coliseum can be sunk further in the ground.

It smacks of desperation; it smacks of a mad rush to justify poor planning and worse management.

The various administrative organs of this University have done some excellent work in their time, and certain administrators stand out as sterling examples of effective operation. But a willingness to admit a mistake - and in its present form, the coliseum is a mistake - has never been a strong point at K-State. Despite having been beaten about the head and shoulders, the University shows no willingness to admit "Hey, we goofed. It was (and still is) a great idea, but we sure haven't handled it well."

Please, let's do this right. Most strengthening K-State. students, deep down, would have no objection to a coliseum — we coliseum are, by and large, proud of our lunch... University, and want to make it

But no one has gained anything tle tired of seeing the mistake from this debacle. The students are disgruntled, disgusted or disappointed with the planning and administration of the project. The alumni are unhappy with all the furor and the fact that money they gave to a project is languishing. And the administration must fear for their lives every time they venture out of Anderson Hall.

So let's get together on this one, folks, before it rips the fabric of our happy little academic family.

Is it so hard? Can't the students, alumni and the administration get together without fighting (like Wildcats, so to speak)? It seems like reasonable people would be willing to get together on this without a lot of rhetorical horse hockey.

So. What do we suggest? Forums, referendums and committees, sad to say, don't seem to get the job done, often because people prefer to complain loudly and let someone else do the dirty work. What, then, remains?

How about starting from ground zero, in a spirit of cooperation and with a drive for

Let's get together and do the coliseum thing. We'll have

> Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Acker to discuss coliseum

Members of Student Senate and the University at large will have an opportunity to question key administrative personnel on several important issues during tonight's senate meeting, starting at 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight room.

What makes this meeting of special importance to the campus is the scheduled appearance of President Duane Acker, his first to senate in nearly two years.

During the meeting's open period, Acker is scheduled to discuss a variety of issues, most notably those regarding the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

Other topics Acker is scheduled to address senators on include academic advising, selection of a new president, Farrell Library finances, and the missions and goals of the University.

Other University officials who will be present to field questions regarding the coliseum include George Miller, vice president for administration and finance; Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect; and Vincent Cool, associate director of planning.

While an administration has many responsibilities to many sectors, one which should be considered of major importance is communications, from the president down through the ranks. Only through the steady flow of communications, as we can hope will happen tonight, will issues be thoroughly discussed and dealt with adequately.

While in the past there has been little two-way communication between the administration to the various organizations addressing the coliseum issue, tonight's meeting may signal a new approach in communication endeavors. And at the same time provide a precedent for future senate meetings.

Although this marks the final year of Acker's presidency, perhaps this move could begin a tradition toward improving University communications.

But communication is not a one-way street. Students should take the opportunity to have their opinions heard and questions answered. With the amount of funds students have provided toward the coliseum, the chance to meet with University officials should not be ignored.

Tom Schultes, for the editorial board

Editorial

Thursday, October 31, 1985 - 4

As Sammy Hagar says, 'I can't drive 55'

There are times when I wonder what it takes to get a driver's license in this state indeed, in this country. I suspect there are more morons per capita on the road than in our government offices, and that is no mean

In the next three columns, I will discuss the 55-mph speed limit, examine the plight of the American driver and poke at the undead corpse of drivers' education in our high schools...such as it is.

Question: What bears a suspicious resemblance to a pale pachyderm and refuses to die despite the best intentions of intelligent people everywhere? Why, it's the 55 mph speed limit, what else?

I have enlisted the help of Car and Driver, the magazine of choice for knowledgeable auto enthusiasts; in particular Pat Bedard, one of the columnists at C&D. In addition to his efforts at C&D. Bedard has driven in several Indy 500s, unfortunately ending most recently in a spectacular end-over-end pileup in one of the turns. Bedard is a leading commentator on the subject of cars and drivers, and I spoke to him Tuesday evening with particular reference to the 55 debacle.

In July 1983, Bedard wrote an article for C&D dealing with the 55-mph speed limit, and identified the fallacies the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration clings to in a blind effort to justify a law the law enforcement agencies estimate 70 percent of the nation opposes. The biggest of these half-truths, far and away, is the idea that "55 Saves Lives."

The NHTSA first suggested that 4,500 lives were saved by the 1974 imposition (oh, the ironies of that word!) of the 55 limit, then later upped it to 6,000 in June 1977. Then the figure sprouted wings, as it skyrocketed to 7,532. Moreover, the NHTSA gibbered, 41,951 people owed their lives to the decline in traffic deaths directly attributable to the 55 mph limit, and nothing else.

RICH HARRIS Collegian Columnist

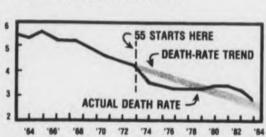

Bedard writes: "The figure - 'estimate' would be giving it too much credit - is so transparently bogus that when you challenge the NHTSA spokesmen on it, they back down immediately. 'Well, it's kind of a maximum possible,' they say."

The graph, though, that accompanies the article, places the final nail squarely in the coffin of the 55 mph white elephant.

It shows quite clearly that the trend in the highway death rate has always been downward, and there is no statistical validity for the claim of a correlation between the death rate and the law.

"Anytime you say 'Speed kills,' you lose anyone with a brain," Bedard said Tuesday. "What kills is hitting things."

What, then, might be the reason for the decline? "The constant redefinition of our highways is enormously significant - better roads, more guardrails and the design of modern automobiles," Bedard said. Bedard cites the fuel shortages of the embargo years as another major contributor.

But what of the law? Bedard said he doubted the law would see a speedy demise. 'There are two ways to handle it - voting with your feet, and actually removing the law from the books. I doubt the law will be gone from the books very soon.'

Here is an amazing thing to consider: Glendon Craig, former California Highway Patrol commisioner, said his "chippies" wrote a half-million more speeding citations after the law went into effect, but estimated for every offender nailed, 22,000 are never caught. Twenty-two thousand people for every one that is caught - all those people that support the 55 limit must not be driving much.

At all. Sammy Hagar says he can't drive 55, and neither can I. Apparently, neither can the rest of the population, including some of the double nickel's loudest proponents - no less a Nader Raider than former president James Earl Carter himself was clocked at 70-plus on his way to a campaign appearance. As Bedard said, "another double-nickel advocate - and the most sanctimonious of them all - bites the credibility dust.' The NHTSA is in the business of big government, which is to say the last thing in the world it will ever do is release information that would diminish is raison d'etre. Therefore we will never see anything from the NHTSA that will lead to the demise of 55. It is in our hands, friends and neighbors, and that doesn't make me any too happy either. I've seen what happens when it's "left in our hands," and frankly, it isn't too much more promising than the prospect of leaving it to the elected leaders of this great land.

If you can't drive 55 either, then do something about it -- something constructive otherwise we'll be plodding along from now until doomsday.

Letters

United States 'indirect killer' of Palestinian people

Re: JoAnn Fremerman's letter, "Arab nations should provide Palestinian homeland," in the Oct. 25 Collegian:

I am an American who visited Palestine (Israel) last summer. You wrote, "I don't understand why the Palestinian people see Israel as the wrongdoer." How are the Palestinians wrong for living in a country for so many thousands of years, being called Palestine, then one day - boom - it was called Israel? Palestine was Palestine first and they have the right to their land!

I agree the Jews need a homeland; everyone does. But the real argument concerns the injustice of the action which in 1948 left millions of Palestinians homeless, living in neighboring countries as refugees.

I must admit, visiting Israel didn't give me a very pleasant feeling. Seeing many Israeli guards holding machine guns on practically every street corner wasn't the type of welcome I expected. We as Americans support Israel almost 100 percent. We supply Israel with guns and ammunition to kill, abuse and destroy the Palestinian people. Is this why we pay taxes — to help enact this foreign policy? Perhaps without realizing, we are indirect killers.

When an Israeli is shot by a Palestinian all heck breaks loose, but do we hear about the Palestinians killed on a daily basis by Israelis in the same way we do an Israeli Palestinians are people too, just like the Israelis, Americans or anyone else. You must realize taking over a nation's land will inevitably bring about a rebellion of that nation. This is where your historical grudges are found.

> Julie Mai junior in modern languages

Israelis should give back property

Re: JoAnn Fremerman's letter "Arab nations should provide Palestinian homeland," in the Oct. 25 Collegian:

I am really appalled with Fremerman and how ill-informed she is about the subject about which she attempted to write. The letter had two great flaws.

For one, Fremerman implies that the Palestinians are the ones trying to kick the Israelis out of their homeland. I wonder, does she know that in 1948 and 1967 the Palestinians are the ones who were forcefully evicted from their homes by European Jews who had never even seen that land? If you go back to the history books you will find that before the mass exodus of European Jews to Palestine, it was inhabited by Arabs who were Jews, Christians and Moslems, and being Jewish does not automatically give anyone the right to take over what is rightfully someone else's.

It is true that everyone needs a country and home, but this does not mean that the Jewish people have to take someone else's country in order to do that. Furthermore, I think her solution of having one of the Arab countries give the Palestinians a homeland is ridiculous and the reasoning used is even more ridiculous.

A better solution - following Fremerman's logic and the fact that she is so gracious in giving away land - would be giving back Palestine to its rightful owners and letting the Americans (Israel's No. 1 supporter) give the Israelis a piece of the United States. This way we wouldn't have to worry about culture matching.

Another point I want to make clear is that actions speak louder than words. The Israelis have time and time again proven their own hostility toward the Palestinians. A few examples will suffice in making this clear: the massacre of Sabbra and Shatella, the massacre of Dier Yassin, the invasion of Beruit, the bombing of Tunisia where they had to travel 1,500 miles to kill Palestinians and innocent civilians. I ask you in the name of justice, don't make rash statements without looking at both sides.

Aida Dabbas senior in elementary education

Rule unwise

Time has proved yet another K-State decision wrong. Last year after the K-State-University of Kansas football game, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics decided to ban containers from the KSU

That decision was controversial because it affected both the coffee-drinking alumni and the beer-drinking students.

Now, one year later, we can look at the results of that decision. Yes, there are fewer drunks at the games, but that is because there are just plain fewer people.

In the first two games last year, with containers being allowed, K-State drew an average of 37,225 fans per game. In eight home games since enforcement of this rule, the average is 22,650 people per game.

This 15,000 people per game difference carried over six games per year costs the athletic department approximately $900,000

With all the financial woes on this campus I'm sure this money is greatly needed, so let's all work to get this rule reversed.

Brian Rees junior in accounting

Reagan's summit schedule 'grueling'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, who has suffered embarrassment in the past for incidents later blamed on a grueling schedule, will end his sixday trip to Europe for the U.S.-Soviet summit meeting with a day to remember.

The 74-year-old Reagan, whose travel schedule has intensified dramatically since he underwent surgery for colon cancer in July, will function at a measured pace in the days leading up to his two days of talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva, Switzerland, on Nov. 19 and 20.

But on the day of his departure, he is expected to bid the Soviets farewell in the morning, have a Agenda includes NATO report quiet lunch in Geneva, then fly to Brussels, Belgium, to report to the allies at NATO headquarters, cross the Atlantic and - taking advantage of the six-hour time change - go straight up to Capitol Hill to report to Congress and the American people on prime time television before going home to the White House for the night.

It is a day reminiscent of the fourcity European jaunt he made in 1982 on the day he was photographed nodding off during his meeting with Pope John Paul II. His wife, Nancy, maintained it was the intensive briefing and rehearsal schedule that tired her husband and cost him dearly in his first campaign debate with Democrat Walter Mondale last

And Reagan was dogged for months by the off-hand comment of an adviser who acknowledged the president sometimes fell asleep in Cabinet meetings.

"The president can travel well," said one White House aide, speaking about the post-summit plan only if promised anonymity. "He can have a light dinner leaving Brussels, get into his p.j.'s and catch four or five hours sleep on the Reagan does have a sleeping cabin aboard Air Force One, but there are those who will wonder how he will be able to stand before a joint session of Congress and deliver an important speech at what - to his body clock - will be about 3 a.m. And that day will crown two days of the most intensive, most critical meetings of his career.

The last day apparently became jammed by two unrelated events that disrupted weeks of meticulous planning designed to present Reagan to Gorbachev in his best fighting trim and bring him home in time to relax for a few days before flying to California for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Former health worker disputes layoff claims

By The Collegian Staff

A former employee of The Saint Mary Hospital said Wednesday recent statements by a hospital official concerning job layoffs are untrue.

In a Wednesday's Collegian story concerning occupancy rates at local hospitals, Susan Bair, community relations director at The Saint Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., said the hospital had not laid off employees, and had no plans to do so in the

In response, Cheryl Dedrickson, junior in social services and former accounting assistant to Mel Robertson, the hospital's chief financial officer, told the Collegian she and "the equivalent of 32 (other workers) were laid off due to low

Dedrickson said she was told her layoff was necessary for the hospital to acheive a better patient-to-worker

Bair said Dedrickson left the hospital for personal reasons and "left on her own accord. Dedrickson said she had volunteered to reduce her work hours, and had talked to her job supervisor about the situation, but was later told further cutbacks were necessary, which resulted in her dismissal "We have had no layoffs and there are no plans for future layoffs as far as I know," Bair said.

Bair said the last layoffs at Saint Mary occurred Sept. 1, 1981, resulting in the dismissal of 24 partand full-time employees.

KU professor could become U.S. Circuit Court official

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A University of Kansas law professor, Deanell Tacha, is being nominated by President Reagan to a new position on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Kansas Sens. Bob Dole and Nancy Kassebaum announced Wednesday that the nomination of Tacha, 39, vice chancellor of academic affairs at KU and a member of the school's law faculty since 1974, will be submitted to the Senate Thursday. Tacha said in Lawrence that Reagan called her Wednesday morning to inform her he had signed the nomination to the 10-member court. "It's a tremendous honor. The federal bench is a position of high public trust and I'm honored to be a part of it," said Tacha.

She said Reagan told her to expect to be called before the Senate Judiciary Committee within the next few weeks for confirmation hearings. "He told me he'd signed the nomination and we talked about the importance of the federal court system," Tacha said. "I told him I consider this job one of the highest public trusts in the nation and will be there the rest of my career."

A KU graduate, she earned her law degree from the University of Michigan in 1971, and practiced in Washington, D.C. and Concordia before joining the university faculty. Tacha, a native of Scandia, served one year as a White House Fellow in the U.S. Department of Labor, where she directed a task force on welfare reform.

The court, based in Denver, was enlarged to 10 judges by an act of Congress last summer. The 10th Judicial Circuit has jurisdiction over Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah and Wyoming.

Tacha was one of four people suggested for the lifetime, $83,200-a-year post to the Reagan administration by Dole and Kassebaum.

"She brings outstanding qualifications to the Senate. Her background in law, teaching, college administration and government is truly impressive. I expect no difficulty in securing her swift confirmation by the Senate," Dole said.

Kassebaum said "she has both the common sense and the keen understanding of the law that is necessary to be a fine

U.S. District Court Judge Richard Rogers of Topeka was recommended last summer by Mrs. Kassebaum and in January by Dole. In June, Dole's office said the White House asked for more choices and they recommended Mrs. Tacha; Martin Dickinson, former dean of the KU Law

School; and Jerry Elliott, a Wichita lawyer. If confirmed by the Senate, Tacha would be the second Kansan serving on the appeals University 'scrambles transcripts'

Registrar alters graduation check

By ERIC RHODENBAUGH Collegian Reporter

In an effort to simplify graduation checks, the Office of the Registrar has introduced "scrambled transcripts" to University colleges this year.

"Rather than listing courses semester by semester, a scrambled transcript lists all the English courses together, all the math courses together, all the history courses together, etc.," said Steve Hall, assistant registrar. Hall said scrambled transcripts were distributed to colleges along with chronological transcripts.

Students from each college have a certain number of classes outside their major they are required to take as well as the courses they must take within their major. To see whether a student has met the math requirement, for example, a person would have to search through three or four years of course work using the chronological transcript.

With the scrambled transcript, all the math courses are in one group

"The idea is, hopefully, to make it easier to spot classes right off the bat," Hall said. The new transcripts will be used for graduation checks only and not as a standard transcript. Hall said the scrambled transcripts were internal working tools only and would not be sent to prospective employers.

A few problems have come with the new transcripts. When you put a new program into operation, you're going to have some bugs in it," Hall said. "It will take time for people to get used to them (scrambled transcripts). William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the college had a little trouble getting graduation checks out this semester

"Ordinarily by this time, we have them completed. We don't have them completed now," Stamey said. "We're not worrying about it. We're not really held up - 90 percent of the students have theirs.'

Stamey, however, doesn't blame the new transcript form for all the delay. Stamey said part of the problem with the checks could be attributed to the large number of May graduates from the college this year. The graduating class for May 1986 will contain more than 500 students, he said.

Students should get their graduation checks before pre-enrollment Nov. 18, Stamey said. Students and their advisers need to be sure of the classes they must enroll in to graduate.

Students also need to check their transcript for errors. If an error is found, the student should get in touch with the dean's office of his college immediately to rectify the error

Each college must decide whether scrambled transcripts are better, Hall said. The College of Arts and Sciences apparently is pleased with the new system.

'In the long run, it's going to be easier because there will be fewer mistakes," Stamey said. "We like the new system. We just haven't adapted well enough to it,

Ray Hightower, assistant professor of engineering, said the college would use the new transcripts for graduation checks.

"We are in favor of it (scrambled transcripts) for grad checks but not as a standard transcript," he said.

Hightower said a chronological transcript was needed to check prerequisites and to chart students' progress through the engineering program.

Marian Tilford, secretary of the director of resident instruction in the College of Agriculture, said the college didn't use the scrambled transcripts.

"They were of no use to me. I preferred the chronological transcripts," Tilford said. "Our programs of study are in chronological order and it is easier to compare them side by side.'

Pitchers

Picture man

on duty

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

A longstanding legend

53 days left 9 Fridays left

9 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition!

KREEM KUP

DELICIOUS ICE CREAM HOT SANDWICHES

M.-Sat. 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Sun. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m. 17th & Yuma

120 Moro

CPR Saturday

November 9, 1985 KSU Rec Complex

Welcome Everyone

Choice of 21/2 Hour Sessions

- Pre-Registration Required -Oct. 28-Nov. 1, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

KSU Union Concourse

Old Towne Mall

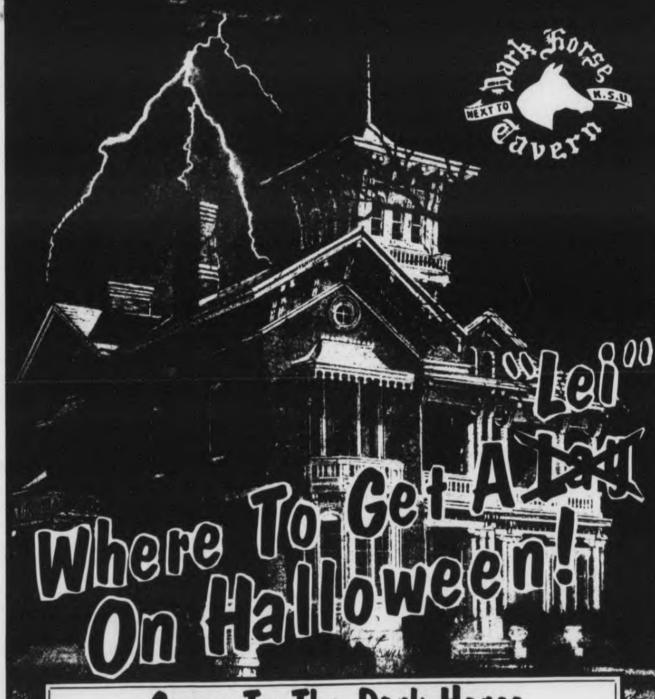

American Red Cross

537-1484

Sponsored By:

Lafene Health Center American Red Cross KSU Rec Complex Phi Upsilon Omicron

Come To The Dark Horse For A Spooktacular Party We Will Be Giving Away These Great Prizes!

A FREE TRIP TO HAWAII FOR TWO! $1.75

Dark Horse Halloween Shirts

 Dark Horse Drinking Cups For The First 100 People in Costume!

· Coors Products: Lights, Mirrors, etc . . . Come To See Or Participate In These Great Contests: Best Costume • Sexiest Costume • Most Original Costume

Also By Popular Request The Exotic Jell-O Snarfing Contest.

THE FUN STARTS AT 7 PM! SEE YOU THERE! By The Collegian Staff

Regent John G. Montgomery will answer questions at noon today in the K-State Union Courtyard about the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, declining K-State enrollment and concerns about the Presidential Search Committee.

Montgomery's appearance is sponsored by the Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee and will focus on "Kansas State: Direction '85.

The coliseum is of issue because when bids on the facility were opened Aug. 20, the lowest bid was more than $3.4 million above the $14.5 million construction estimate made by Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, architects for the project.

In September, the Board of Regents authorized the firm to redesign the structure, eliminate 3,000 seats and cut several million dollars from the budget.

Montgomery will discuss declining enrollment because K-State and Emporia State University were the only regent schools that had significant enrollment declines.

K-State's enrollment dropped 2.9 percent from 18,092 in 1984 to 17,570 in 1985. However, the enrollment average for land grant universities of similar size to K-State did not experience an enrollment decline, but remained steady

The Presidential Search Committee is in the process of searching for a new president for the University. President Duane Acker announced June 27 that he would resign effective July 1, 1986. The regents will select the new president this spring from the list of three to five nominees submitted by the committee

A question-and-answer session will follow Montgomery's speech in the courtyard. The program is open to the public.

Montgomery's speech is part of UPC's "Let's Talk About It" series, a bi-monthly series of lectures focusing on issues specifically concerning students, faculty and staff.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Trick or paint

the second floor windows at the Hollis House, at 1408 Dennison Ave., wearing bunny ears and whiskers to work.

Kansas State University facilities employee Jim Schoen paints the trim on Wednesday afternoon. Schoen decided to get into the Halloween spirit by

Contractor responsible for charges

By The Associated Press

DALLAS International Corp., the nation's second-largest defense contractor, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges that six of its employees filed falsified time cards leading to overcharges on an Air Force contract.

Investigations by the company and the Justice Department failed to find any evidence that company managers participated in the offenses or knew about them, Rockwell spokesman Jim Vallela

In addition to a possible maximum fine of $200,000, Rockwell agreed to pay $1 million in a settlement for double the amount of mischarges and the government's investigation

The contract was for spare parts of the Air Force.

After completing its investigation a year ago, Rockwell disciplined the workers and lowered the price of the contract by $290,839, the estimated amount of the overcharges, he said.

According to the information, Rockwell also agreed that any employee involved in the overcharges will be barred from working on projects involving

Rainfall dampens purchasing of winter firewood

By SHELLY DICKEN Collegian Reporter

Firewood may be difficult to purchase in the coming winter months because of the large amounts of rainfall during the summer and fall, a forestry professor said.

"This year has been a difficult year for wood to dry because there has been so much moisture," said Leonard Gould, associate professor of forestry. "There could be a problem in a shortage of firewood available because the (firewood) dealer has not had the optimum drying time.'

To reach 20 percent moisture, which is the ideal moisture level for burning firewood, the wood needs to dry six to nine months.

Late February through November is a good drying period, Gould said. With all of the rain, the firewood dealer did not have enough good weather to dry a lot of wood.

"The do-it-yourselfer may also have trouble finding wood," Gould said. "He can start cutting the wood now, but it will have to be used next year. For this year he will have to be satisfied going to a dealer to get

When purchasing firewood from a dealer, Gould said, the consumer should make sure the wood has been properly dried.

"The wood will have splitting and checking (openings) on the ends. This is an indication that the wood has been seasoned. You can burn dry wood with green wood, but burn as much dried wood as possible," Gould

When looking for a place to buy firewood, Gould suggests the want ad section of local newspapers.

"Often local daily or weekly papers have ads. Also the yellow pages in the telephone directory are a good place to look. If you have time, drive around the community and find places that sell wood," Gould said.

The kind of wood used by the individual is based on customer preference, Gould said.

Now $799.00

Now $649.00

Now $349.00

14KT. GOLD

DIAMOND

PENDANTS & EARRINGS

.02 T.W. Reg. 59.95

.06 T.W. Reg. 149.90

.10 T.W. Reg. 200.00 .20 T.W. Reg. 325.00

.40 T.W. Reg. 785.00

EARRINGS

$24.00

$59.95

$88.00

$139.99

$334.00

$899.95

5 Ways To Buy

Cash - Lay-A-Way

Financing

Bank Cards — AM Express

Phone Orders Accepted

"Most people like denser woods like oaks and possibly hickory. But if everybody liked oak, a shortage might develop. So what I recommend is to mix the woods, using mostly native hardwoods and some lighter woods like cottonwood, silver maple, elm, ash and hackberry," Gould said.

Very hard woods such as locust, mulberry and Osage orange (hedgewood), need to be used in fireplaces with doors or good screens, Gould said, because these woods give off more heat, and throw off embers, which can be a potential

High moisture will not be the only problem in firewood this year. Judy Berthoff, assistant professor of entomology, said insects can also be expected to pose a problem.

'First of all, firewood is usually stored improperly. If it is moist, the wood starts breaking down,' Berthoff said. "Secondly, the homeowner brings in to the house enough wood for a week. They set it by the fireplace, the wood starts to get warm, and the insects start to emerge.

'There is nothing that can be used to to treat firewood for insects," Berthoff said. "A pesticide has to be used according to the directions on the label, and there are no pesticides labeled for use on firewood that I

DUERFELDT'S JEWELRY

OFFERS ENTIRE STOCK

$450,000.00

14K Gold Filled Sterling

Pendants and Lockets

60% off and more

MORE

SIZES.

PRICES

AVAILABLE

PENDANTS

.02 T.W. Reg. 84.95

.07 T.W. Reg. 195.00

.10 T.W. Reg. 245.00

.25 T.W. Reg. 560.00

.65 T.W. Reg. 2395.00

LADY'S DIAMOND

SOLITAIRES

FINAL THREE DAYS

Thursday, October 31, 9:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m. Friday, November 1, 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Saturday, November 2, 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

BULOVA

All Watches

MORE THAN 50% OFF LIGHT WEIGHT SERPENTINE

14KT. Gold CHAINS AND BRACELETS

LIGH	II WEIGHT SERPENTINE
7" Bracelet	Reg. 9.95$4.24
16" Neckchain	Reg. 38.95$16.49
24" Neckchain	Reg. 59.95$25.49
MED	IUM WEIGHT SERPENTINE
18" Neckchain	Reg. 56.95$24.49
	Reg. 63.95$27.49
LIGHT	BEVELED HERRINGBONE
7" Bracelet	Reg. 49.95$21.74
16" Neckchain	Reg. 84.95$36.49
24" Neckchain	Reg. 129.95$55.49
HEAVY	BEVELED HERRINGBONE
20" Neckchain	Reg. 549.95 $233.99

PLUS SOLID ROPE CHAIN, MANY SIZES AND PRICES

14KT. ADD-A-BEAD ROPE CHAIN

DON'T DELAY

18" 22"

28"

	14KT.	GOLD	ADD-A	-BEADS
0	0	0	0	0	0
3mm REG	4mm REG	5mm REG	6mm REG	7mm REG	8mm REG
.70 SALE	1.25 SALE	1.90 SALE	3.00 SALE	4.00 SALE	7.00 SALE
.24¢	.51¢	.89¢	$1.36	$1.74	$2.78

14KT, GOLD POLISHED Reg. 39.95 Sale $17.99 GOLD BALL Reg. 48.95 Sale $19.99 EARRINGS Reg. 61.95 Sale $25.99

5mm 6mm 7mm REG REG REG 25.00 31.00 39.95 $11.88 $15.88 $19.88

1/2 Carat

Reg. 1500.00

1/3 Carat

Reg. 1150.00

1/5 Carat

SHAPES Reg. 695.00

Reg. 25.00 Plus Much Much More

25% off LADIES & more STYLES

MENS

PULSAR

LAY-A-WAY FOR CHRISTMAS

MENS & LADIES WEDDING BANDS

CARAVELLE

up to 50%

DUERFELDT'S

"THINKING DIAMONDS? THINK DUERFELDT'S!"

315 Poyntz Avenue Manhattan, Kansas

K-State Halloween: a time of ghosts, ghouls

Readers find terror with Stephen King

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Columnist

"Do the dead sing?"

Stephen King is probably the most popular horror fiction novelist in history. His books and movies are a huge success from the moment of release. In his latest book, "Skeleton Crew," he asks, "Do the dead sing?" The answer is hidden within his

"I recognize terror as the finest emotion and so I will try to terrorize the reader. But if I find that I cannot terrify, I will try to horrify, and if I find I cannot horrify, I'll go for the gross out. I'm not proud.

"Here is the final truth of horror movies: They do not love death, as some have suggested; they love life. They do not celebrate deformity, but by dwelling on deformity they sing of health and energy... They are the barber's leeches of society, drawing not bad blood but anxiety.

King believes the work of horror is done on two levels, the "gross out," and, on a deeper level, a search for the heart of the reader, finding him (when it works) "at his most primitive level...a room which may resemble the secret den of a Victorian gentleman, sometimes the torture chamber of the Spanish Inquisition...but perhaps most frequently and most successfully, the simple and brutally plain hole of a Stone Age cave-dweller,

Horror is the stomach-jolting divergence from normal, everyday routine. There's nothing horrific about a walk home from school...unless there's a pervert in the bushes...or a vampire...or whatever. The best horror fiction suspends disbelief - we know good and well there isn't any bloodsucker in the bushes...but what if there is?

King calls the elemental horror story a "Tale of the Hook," wherein "two kids are makin' out on a deserted road with the radio on, an' they hear about an escaped nut who's gotta hook for an arm, an' the girl says she hears a slow, slidin' kinda scrrrape on the door, but the guy says it isn't anythin' but the girl, she gets all nervous, an' so he peels out real fast an' takes her home, an' when he goes aroun' to open her door, he faints dead away, 'cause right there, hangin' from the door, is a great big bloody hook.'

This sort of story is told around campfires late at night and it is universally understood that the last five words are delivered in either a shout or a horrified whisper. King calls "Tales of the Hook" the "brutal." There are three levels within the genre, he writes, "Terror on top, horror below it, and lowest of all the gag reflex of revulsion."

"Horror appeals to us because it says, in a symbolic way, things we would be afraid to say straight

King calls the horror film "an invitation to indulge in deviant, antisocial behavior by proxy." The horror film is permission to "join the mob" and defend against the outsider. The fear of the outsider, of the wrong thing, is universal. Terror is a personal thing, but there are fears common to us all.

King calls it no accident that horror fiction jolts the reader. "When we turn to the creepy movie or the crawly book we are not wearing our 'Everything works out for the best' hats. We are waiting to be told what we so often suspect everything is turning to shit," he

"This is what happened ... "

King calls this phrase "a Zen incantation of story." The essence of writing is telling what happened, whether in fiction or news. He begins the first story in "Skeleton Crew" (a collection of short stories) with this mantra. And it is the essence of horror that nice guys finish last, the piper is paid in blood and that "what happened," though we insist to ourselves "it's just a story," might happen...to you.

"You know what death is ... death is when the monsters get you'

Death is the big red one of horror, it is the crusty king of the genre. People die in all kinds of horrible ways, but, King says, the ultimate conclusion of horror is "Not yet. Not this time. Because in the final sense...(horror fiction) is the celebration of those who feel they can examine death because it does not yet live in their hearts.'

Friendly ghost haunts local bakery basement

By BECKY WILEY Features Editor

Folks searching for doughnut treats down at Swannie's Back Door on Halloween might see more than Yum Yums or Rasberry Bismarks. They could catch a glimpse of Herbie.

Herbie is a ghost who has been haunting Swanson's Bakery, 225 Poyntz, for the past 12 or 15 years, said Richard Swanson, owner of the

He decided to call the spirit Herbie because "Herbie is just a name which would apply to someone friendly. Have you ever heard of anybody mean named Herbie?" Swannie asked.

He said he believes a friendly ghost lives at the bakery because "strange things have happened." Making employees feel a presence in the bakery bathroom is Herbie's weirdest trick, Swannie said.

"When you go in the bathroom and you're standing in front of the mirror combing your hair or something, you could swear there's someone in there blowing on the back of your neck.

"The first girl I ever had work for me - her name was Kathy - came out of there (the bathroom) one time and she was as white as a ghost. She said 'Somebody was blowing on my neck.' I told her there was nobody in there," Swannie said.

The basement of the bakery is a "long, dark place," Swannie said. None of his employees will venture into its dreary confines so he must brave the dark alone. It is in the basement where Herbie's antics can be seen, Swannie said.

"I put some things in the basement, such as special pans that I use only once every two or three years," he said, "and when I go down to get them they're not there or they've been moved to a different place.'

Swannie also told of a time when he and a friend thought they actually saw the friendly phantom.

"One time, real late at night, a bartender from Mel's and I were standing in the back room talking. we both saw somebody standing

We walked in there (the middle room), but when we got there, we couldn't see anyone. We both saw a medium-sized figure of a man, but we couldn't understand it," Swannie said. "So, we wrote it off as Herbie."

Swannie said he wondered what would happen when the new downtown mall is built. Will Herbie stay downtown, or will he follow him to a new bakery location? Swannie said he hopes Herbie will live in the new mall.

But, Herbie's future haunting place won't be a big concern this Halloween. As far as Swannie knows, Herbie is still around and he plans to watch for him tonight.

"Maybe he'll help me fry some doughnuts," Swannie said.

We looked in the middle room, and "The bartender said 'Who's that?"

Guillotine, scary faces await 'kids'

By BRENDA KITCHEN Collegian Reporter

Ghouls with scary faces but charitable hearts are haunting houses this Halloween season.

A guillotine, electric chair and chain saw are among the horrors featured at the Manhattan Jaycees' Haunted House at Pottorf Hall in Cico Park. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under. All proceeds will go to fund the Jaycees' community service programs. The haunted house is open each evening from 7 to midnight. It began on Sunday and will end tonight.

"We've been running a haunted house since 1978," said Brad Streeter, Manhattan resident and Jaycee member. "We've always tried to make it enjoyable for people of all ages.

"The element of surprise is what scares people, so if we have little kids going through, we tone down or screaming or don't move as much. If it's college age kids, we give them all we've got," he said.

There will be an eerie glow on sixth floor of Goodnow Hall tonight also. This haunted house organized by sixth floor residents will resemble a cave where witches and other spooks reside. Admission is 50 cents. Proceeds will go to the KSU United Way campaign. The haunted house will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. After touring the haunted house, children are invited to trick or treat in Goodnow. Residents welcoming trick or treaters will have signs on their Jason is hiding in the Purple Masque Theatre in East Stadium on Halloween night. "Terror in the Purple Masque Theatre' sponsored by the Alpha Angels little sisters organization of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc. Admission is $1.50. Proceeds will go to buy Thanksgiving food baskets for needy families in the area. They will be distributed through Social Rehabilitation Services.

An outdoor scene with Jason, a character from "Friday the 13th Part II," will be among the terror at the Purple Masque Theatre. The Alpha Angels Haunted House will be open from 7 p.m. to midnight.

The K-State Players will be giving Halloween make overs from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Purple Masque. Cost for basic make overs will be $5. Special effects taking more than 30 to 45 minutes to create will cost extra. Witches, pirates and punk rockers are among the types of makeup which can be done. Last year, they recreated the face from the Rolling Stone's "Tattoo You" album. The K-State Players will give make over demonstrations in the Union tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Appointments can be made at that

Pumpkins come alive with imagination

By KEVIN SNELL

Collegian Reporter

The pumpkin is to Halloween what pine trees are to Christmas, everybody wants one.

Although they are ignored throughout most of the year, on the last day of October. No home can be complete on Halloween night without a carved orange face glowing on a porch or in a window. Finding a pumpkin in Manhattan suitable for carving into a jack-o'-lantern is easy. They are sold pumpkins are the focus of attention at most grocery stores in town and prices range from 10 to 20 cents per pound. Most of the pumpkins sold in > town are grown locally The biggest pumpkin-selling days are those right before Halloween, said Terri Herlocker, a pumpkin seller at Dutch Maid Poyntz Pantry, 1522 Poyntz Ave

"I guess everyone wants to get their pumpkins late so they won't rot," she said.

Most early pumpkin sales are of the small variety, Herlocker said. Many parents have bought small ones for their children and some school teachers bought small pumpkins for the classrooms.

Everyone wanted a little one for the kids," she said. "Lately, everyone wants a big one for a jacko'-lantern.

Shoppers often ask which pumpkins are best for carving jacko'-lanterns and for cooking. Selection is important when buying one, said pumpkin shopper Lori Clark, senior in history

'Complexion and stem are important," she said. "You want your pumpkin to have a long stem and no marks on the skin.

The pumpkin's shape also must be considered before buying, Clark said. "You want the pumpkin to be uniform. You don't want it to be lopsided.'

Heidi Ehly, senior in secondary English education, and Clark bought small pumpkins recently. Clark said she preferred large pumpkins, but she bought a small one because it's for only herself and must fit in her room. A small pumpkin does have one advantage over a big one. "The smaller ones have smaller seeds and they're better to toast," Ehly said.

There are hundreds of ways to carve a pumpkin into a jack-o'-lantern and carving contests on campus challenge the creativity of the contestants. Happy, sad, comical and evil faces can be created with a pumpkin and a knife.

Some carvers have one design and stick with it. Becky Brown, freshman in industrial engineering, carves her pumpkins the same way every year.

'Lately, everyone wants a big (pumpkin) for a jack-o'-lantern.'

Terri Herlocker

"I like a big pumpkin with triangulår eyes and a big grin with lots of teeth," she said. "It has to have an upside down triangle for a nose and a candle inside. That's the way it's always been.'

Taking out the seeds and slimy core of a pumpkin doesn't bother Nancy Blaser, freshman in general.

'That's part of the fun of making jack-o'-lanterns," she said. 'Normally I like a big pumpkin. I like to carve it and take out the seeds and roast them."

After Halloween, a jack-o'-lantern can be smashed or thrown away, but for some people, today's pumpkin is tomorrow's pie.

Pumpkin cutie

Jacquelyn Latern, a pumpkin entry in Farrell Libraries staff pumpkin contest, sits in front of a terminal in the cataloging department covered in spider webs while awaiting today's judging.

Stephan, attorney exchange criticism

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Attorney General Robert T. Stephan on Wednesday labeled as "contemptible and ridiculous" allegations by a former employee that he masterminded a secret out-of-court settlement of a sexual harassment lawsuit - a settlement he claimed he never saw until last week.

And Stephan leveled a blast of his own, accusing the former employee's attorneys of carrying out a personal vendetta against him based on lies. The Republican attorney general said again he has told the truth and will stand on his "reputation, integrity and record of public service" to defend himself against the charges.

"I have told the whole truth of the case and settlement as I know it," Stephan said in a prepared response. "The allegations in the lawsuit itself are totally untrue and are just lies. I have made a full disclosure. I have told the truth. I stand by that disclosure.'

The controversy centers on

'I have told the whole truth of the case and settlement as I know it. The allegations in the lawsuit itself are totally untrue and are just lies.'

Marcia Tomson, 50, who now lives in San Diego, Calif., but worked in Stephan's office three years starting in 1979. She put Stephan in the eye of a political hurricane when she filed a sexual harassment lawsuit against him in December

1982 after she was fired. Her attorney, Marge Phelps, called Stephan a "flat liar" for claiming that he didn't know any of the details of the settlement because "he masterminded the settlement.'

"He knew the terms of the settlement because it was his idea to settle." Phelps said in a telephone interview from Wichita. "When he said he didn't know the terms until last Tuesday, he's lying. He was personally involved in the settlement.

- Robert Stephan

Phelps said she expects her client to file another lawsuit, with additional charges, by the end of the week. She said Tomson has vowed not to settle this time and to get a full airing before a jury.

The suit, which sought $750,000 in damages, accused Stephan of making sexist advances and alleged that the other employees had animosity toward her that eventually resulted in her firing. It was settled out-of-court, with a confidentiality agreement on the terms of the settlement, and the case then was dismissed March 19 from U.S. District Court in Topeka.

Stephan immediately became embroiled in a debate with lawmakers and political opponents who demanded to know the terms of the settlement, since $14,000 in taxpayers' money was used to defend the attorney general and his two staff members

On Tuesday, Bob Storey, a close friend of Stephan and former GOP state senator, revealed some of the details of the settlement, including a $24,000 cash payment to Tomson collected from a group of prominent Kansas businessmen and political supporters of Stephan.

Wednesday, Tomson said she considers the settlement reached seven months ago to be "null and void" and is preparing to file another lawsuit against him and "I am now consulting my attorneys in preparation for the filing of another lawsuit against Mr. Stephan and Mr. Storey for fraud, breach of the settlement agreement, libel and slander against me and for violation of my First Amendment and other civil

Business seminars to stimulate minds of honor students

By MIKE ROBBINS Collegian Reporter

The College of Business Administration is offering an honors program this semester designed to stimulate intellectual thinking in the areas of business and industry.

The program was established to further develop broad intellectual interest among students and to investigate the latest in research related to business and industry, said Kay Stewart, director of student personnel services in business administration.

Stewart said this is the first semester the college has had an honors program in a long time, citing non-interest by new students and "tight resources" as possible reasons for the lack of success with past honors programs.

Stewart said, however, the college has developed an honors program different from past honors programs.

"It is not going to be the type of program that additional papers and research will be needed on the students' part. We purposely decided not to do this. These students are honor students already. They have already proved themselves," she

About 150 students are enrolled in the honors program this semester. Stewart said freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors in business are eligible. To be eligible a student must have a 3.5 overall GPA or incoming freshmen must have an ACT composite of 26.

"I know by not requiring a paper to be done in the honors program that we have taken a step out from the norm of what people do for honors programs," Stewart said. "But we want this to be a stimulating experience and an intellectual environment for them. We think they

The honors program is divided into four, three-hour seminars, Stewart

"This semester we have four major professors from our own department presenting topics of interest to the students," she said.

This year's seminars began Oct. 1 with a presentation on management in education in the year 2000 by Clyde Jones, professor of management. The second seminar was presented Oct. 27 by Richard Colemam, professor of marketing. Coleman's topic was "Money, Class, Dreams and Destiny.'

The last two seminars are scheduled for November, Stewart said. Sunday, Eugene Laughlin, professor of accounting, will give a presentation on strategy. Verlyn Richards, professor of finance, will give a presentation on the financial market system on Nov. 28.

Students participating in the honors program will earn one hour of unrestricted elective credit upon completing the seminars, Stewart said.

"This semester 10 of the 12 hours must be attended by the student. A couple of students (in the honors program) have tests that overlap. But as long as they attend a minimum of 10 hours they can get

Stewart said she expects some changes will occur in next semester's honors program. She said planning for next semester's honors program is already underway.

'Not only do we plan to use our own people, but we want to bring in some business and industry people from the surrounding area...They are very willing to come in and present some issues that are real to them. That type of person needs to be brought in and present information to the students.'

Library dean gets position in Colorado

By JANIS SMISCHNY Collegian Reporter

Leslie Manning, associate dean for technical services at Farrell Library, has been named the director of libraries at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs.

Manning, who implemented the computerized book check out process at Farrell, has been at the library for four years. Before coming to the University, she was head of technical services at Colorado

"I feel very positive about going back to the University of Colorado, because working at Farrell has given me a tremendous amount of experience - more than if I would have stayed at Colorado and been promoted," Manning said.

539-4888 $

"We Pile It On!

Manning is responsible for departments of acquisition, cataloging, automation, circulation, reserves and serials in the library. There are heads in each department, but her job is to supervise all activities involved in each division.

"Technical services for the most part is the backroom operations of the library working mostly with the materials and record keeping,'

Manning said. She was responsible for developing the automation system for the library. Manning created an automation department and worked on loading the records including names of books and other information into the computer. The system is used to check books out of the library and keeps track of fines

'We now have the circulation in Farrell and all the branch libraries on campus on automation and last spring the reserve desk was also included," Manning said.

Keeping track of overdue books was made easier because of the automation of the library's circulation desk.

"Before all the record-keeping was done by hand and took many hours and workers, but now the computer can tell us who has the book and prints notices for all overdue bookholders in a short amount of time," Manning said.

Manning has been working on a joint on-line catalog system with the University of Kansas library in which students could search for books from both libraries' terminals. "If the Board of Regents approve funding for this project it might be available in 1989, because this would be a great asset to our library," Manning said.

Manning will be dealing with students, faculty and the administration more when she fills the director's position. There will be new challenges for Manning since the university is smaller in Colorado and the college is made up of mostly commuter students.

Manning will leave her position Nov. 22 and an acting associate dean of technical services will be appointed. A national search will be conducted to find a replacement which could take up to a year. Manning said.

Save every Thursday

15% OFF BLIZZARDS

with this coupon Good through Dec. 31, 1985

Uncover your

K-State pride.

20% off

all purple lingerie

FUNDRINKERY Membership Card for only $10.45 (reg. $15.68) with this coupon

Expires November 7, 1985

Speedy FREE Delivery

$5.95 off any medium

2 topping pizza

of Prints!

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film. C-41 process, for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Expires 12/31/85

South of Westloop

776-9030

Free gift wrap

15% OFF

all

shoes

now through November 2 One coupon per customer please

Taylor's Shoes 1118 Moro-Aggieville

Next to Brother's

Please enjoy an omelet at and save 50¢ Includes hasbrowns and muffins Try Sunday morning breakfast from 8:30 a m -11:30 a m Free Homemade Cinnamon Rolls, Muffins and Donuts with your omelet purchase

C'mon America, Drive Over To Alignment

Lube, Oil & Filter

Ride Master Shocks

Systems Analysis

Radiator Winterizing

■ Battery Sale!

Hurry! Sale ends Nov. 2!

$120.00 COUPON KORG KEYBOARDS

POLY 800 List price . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $795.00

$995.00 $995.00

> Hayes House of Music "We Will Not Be Undersold"

Enlargements! With this coupon, receive

> 25% off any 5 x 7 or 8 x 10 color enlargement order from your 110, 126, or 135 negative. Not valid with any other enlargement promotion.

776-9030

Conditioning limits human development

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK Collegian Reporter

Lecturing on the "Path of Life," Sun Bear, a Native American author, philosopher and medicineman of Chippewa heritage, said the one thing that scares him the most, more than the atomic bombs, is human conditioning.

"I feel that this is the most dangerous thing in the world, that little cap that has been clamped onto our brains," Sun Bear said during a presentation Wednesday night in Manhattan Middle School Auditorium, Ninth and Poyntz. "It says that everything must be this way and this way only. The one that keeps us locked into our own little pre-

Sun Bear's philosophy developed through visions he had when he was very young. In the visions he foresaw a time when people would return to the land.

He said that people walk a certain way, and think a certain way because their parents did — conditioning of getting locked into a trap.

"People play the waiting game in life. They wait until they are old enough to go to school, and they wait until they get out of school and they wait until they get a job or get married, and then they wait for the cemetery," Sun Bear said.

He said he didn't believe that the creator put human beings on Earth to just play the waiting game. Waiting might be part of life, but life means more, Sun Bear said.

Sun Bear continues to pray in the hope that people will see a wider perspective, and become more brave to enable them to reach

He said one of the tasks Native American people have along their "path" is a vision quest, to discover their purpose.

When the Native Americans are younger they hear stories about vision quests. When the time is right they ask themselves what their purpose in life is and how they could best serve the creator, the mother Earth and generations to come. This would give them something in which they could strongly

"The reason I walk the path that I walk on is because of my visions. In a very powerful

Staff/John Thelande

Sun Bear, Sacred Teacher and Medicine Man of the Bear Tribe, presents his lecture "Path of Power" Wednesday night at Manhattan Middle School.

vision I saw major changes coming in the Earth mother. I was told I had a responsibility to share knowledge with people and try to teach them and take them beyond themselves so they were no longer locked into their small little circles of saying this is all life is about." Sun Bear believes the importance not only for himself to share this philosophy, but for his fellow human beings. He said the only time people will have a better world is when better people exist. There needs to be more highly evolved people - people who reach out and view things differently, Sun Bear told a story about a mouse that, while on its way up a mountain to see what he was to be in life, gave up his eyes to help two friends. When he reached the top of the mountain he was able to see again.

The moral of this story is that if people want to see something, they must sometimes forfeit seeing one way to see another. Sun Bear said he has had to give up accepting one way in order to see another

He has been walking this path for a number of years and he feels fortunate to have helped other people to walk it also.

Workshops dealing with Native American Philosophy and Medicine Ways begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday and last until 5 p.m. Sunday at the White Memorial Camp and Conference Center in Council Grove.

Party puts reforms on line during South African vote

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - The National Party, putting its race reform measures on the line with white voters in five special parliamentary elections, handily won one race Wednesday, narrowly defeated an ultra-rightist in another and lost a third, unofficial returns showed.

Results were not in from two conservative farming communities.

The elections were viewed as a gauge of white feeling toward the government's limited moves away from apartheid after 14 months of black riots and a deepening economic crisis.

Meanwhile, police said at least seven blacks were killed Wednesday and late Tuesday in violence believed linked to unrest against apartheid, South Africa's system of enforced racial separation.

In Sasolburg, south of Johannesburg, an ultra-right candidate, Louis Stofberg of the Reformed National Party, defeated the National Party candidate by 367 votes out of nearly 13,000 cast.

Stofberg's victory was the first parliamentary seat won by his party since it broke from the National Party 16 years ago when the Nationalists suggested allowing racial integration on the country's athletic fields. One National Party victory came in Port

Natal, near Durban, where Home Minister Stoffel Botha won easily, as expected. The second win was in Springs, a depressed blue-collar town east of Johannesburg that was heretofore solidly Nationalist. The government's candidate, former journalist P.W. Coetzer defeated the Conservative Party candidate by only 749 votes out of nearly 10,000 cast. Results were not in from Bethlehem and Vryburg, both farm communities. The balloting was to fill midterm vacancies in the whites-only chamber, which has final say in the three-chamber Parliament.

Whites, people of mixed-race and Asians meet separately in the Parliament. Blacks have no vote and no chamber.

The National Party, in power since 1948, fought to hold the five seats against challenges from far-right white supremacists.

Senate

Continued from Page 1

President Duane Acker and Faculty Senate. Monto said he and Tsen decided to present the legislation because they knew about the wide-spread student concern for the project and felt proper planning steps needed to be

"We didn't feel it was right to gamble with students' money," Monto said. "After all, students are contributing $7 million."

The legislation states students assumed proper planning steps would be taken when they pledged support for the coliseum and 'serious doubts" about coliseum planning exist. As a result, the bill states, significant questions about the project remain

There is a need for such studies, Monto said, as shown by the arbitrary figures presented and the contracting bids coming in over the proposed figure.

The projected base cost for the coliseum is $14.5 million. Contractor's bids ranged from $3.4 million to $8.2 million above the projected cost. The lowest bid received was $17.952 million, from Martin E. Eby Construction Co. of Wichita.

"There were no scientific studies done," Monto said. "If they (University) were using private funds, it would never have been done like this.' Monto said he thought senate would probably adopt the legislation.

"I think senators are going to respond to students' concerns and will do the right thing," he said. "I think it will pass senate."

Monto said even if senate adopts the resolution, the Board of Regents will also have to approve the measure before any funding is halted, although he thinks the regents will also probably accept the bill.

"I think they agreed to it (original coliseum proposal) hesitantly and they will be open to this," he said.

Monto also said he didn't think it was uncharacteristic of him or Tsen to propose such legislation.

"Both of us did vote for studying the coliseum last semester," he said.

Clip & Save every Thursday

All Regularly Priced Items

539-1751

3037 Anderson

50¢ off

any

Metallic Balloon

Expires Nov. 6, 1985

704 N. Manhattan Ave. In Aggieville

Save up to $3.00 off our already lowest prices in town!

$3.00 off 36 exp. now only $7.95 $2.00 off 24 exp. now only $5.95 $1.00 off 15 exp. now only $4.70

$1.00 off 12 exp. now only $3.95 Expiration Date 12/31/85 1-Hour KIS Photo

2047 Ft. Riley Blvd. (In the Santa Fe Bldg.)

Treasure Chest-Oasis 124 Moro-Aggieville

With this coupon, save on developing and printing of one roll of color print film (C-41 process only). Get $3 off 36 exposures, $2 off 24 exposures, or $1 off 12 (or 15 exposures disc). Not valid with any other promotion. Offer limited to one roll per coupon.

Expires 12/31/85

South of Westloop

776-9030

20% off all White House Coffee

Expires Nov. 6, 1985

1205 Moro

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30 In Aggieville Thur. 9:30-8:30

FREE BEVERAGE with any

Numbered Dinner

Expires Nov. 2, 1985

Buy one tanning session at regular price ($4.00) and get the second one at 1/2 price with this coupon. Expires Nov. 7, 1985.

776-7874

Coliseum legislation to top Senate agenda

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will hear legislation recommending to the Board of Regents that student monies stop being collected for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum until the eight steps of planning are completed. Senate meets at 7 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

The Proper Planning for the Coliseum bill is sponsored by Lawrence Tsen, senior in premedicine, and Martin Monto, junior in biology. Tsen and Monto will talk about the coliseum and give a presentation to senate.

Fifteen minutes will be allotted to questions from nonsenators. If nonsenators have questions during any other part of the meeting, they will have to be

SOUTHERN

SUN.

has gone

HOG WILD

Buy all you $200 want for

Buy all you want 10-28 to 11-1

use by Dec. 31

written and given to a senator. "There will be a lot of people there and it will not become a debate," Jones said. He also said Fred Bramlage is expected to appear at the meeting.

During open period, University President Duane Acker will speak to senate. Acker will address the topics of the financial situation at Farrell Library; academic advising; views on a new president; his missions and goals; retention and student success; and the University organizational chart.

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance; Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect; and Vincent Cool, associate director of planning will also attend the senate meeting.

776-8060

Aggleville

6th Annual

Cue SALE

20% to 50% off

Social Security proposal gets criticism

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congressional Democrats charged Wednesday that President Reagan's attempt to cut 17,000 positions from Social Security's staff by 1990 is a back-door effort to erode service and undermine support for the program.

Several senators representatives held a news conference to release copies of internal Social Security documents discussing possible cutbacks in service.

"It's all a very clever game to build up public antipathy and resentment of the program," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes of Maryland, where officials are acutely worried about a potential loss of thousands of jobs at the Social Security Administration headquarters in Baltimore.

The Reagan administration has acknowledged previously it wants to eliminate 17,000 of Social Security's 79,600 jobs by 1990 through attrition. But spokesman James M. Brown said Wednesday, "There is absolutely no list of offices to be closed or combined."

No position will be eliminated "if it would reduce the level of service we give to the public," he said.

Twenty-four members of the House, including two Republicans, Virginia Smith of Nebraska and Clarence E. Miller of Ohio, signed a letter urging colleagues to accept a Senate appropriations rider that would bar Social Security from cutting 1,000 jobs or closing offices in fiscal 1986.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the author with Sarbanes of that prohibition, said lines at the nation's 1,300 Social Security offices already are "too long" and any plan for further cutbacks is "reprehensible."

Social Security has already reduced its staff by the equivalent of 7,000 full-time workers in the past four years.

An Aug. 29, 1985, memo by Louis D. Enoff, deputy Social Security commissioner for programs and policy, said that clerks spend the largest amount of time helping people piece together all the information needed to get a retirment benefit.

He suggested that a change "such as altering the assistance we provide claimants in obtaining evidence could have a big payoff.'

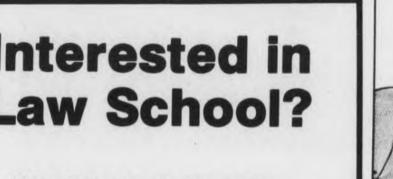

Another recent memo from Deputy Commissioner Herbert R. Doggette Jr. advised Social Security's 10 regional commissioners to keep a tighter lid on studies of potential office closings or reorganizations. It said they should not contact local advocacy or community groups before clearing any closing with Baltimore.

"Local group contacts should be deferred since they may trigger congressional activity prior to headquarters familiarization with the ... reviews," it said.

Wilbur Cohen, secretary of health, education and welfare in the Johnson administration, said, "This whole thing is engineered by the Office of Management and Budget." He said people only go to Social Security offices when they retire, become disabled, someone dies or are seeking help from Medicare with hospital bills.

Robert M. Ball, Social Security commissioner from 1962 to 1973, said the staff cutbacks are "a dagger right at the heart of the Social Security system.'

will be on campus Thursday, Oct. 31 Room 205—Union 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

GARLAND

PULLOVERS

crew & v-neck

SALE 20.99 Levi's® Prewashed 501 denim blue jeans

Reg. 24.99. Levi's" famous fit goes to the head of the class in these jeans of heavyweight indigo blue cotton denim. You'll give them top marks for that prewashed, broken-in feel. With five pockets, rivets, straight legs. And, of course, the distinctive Levi's label and back-pocket stitching.

Men's sizes 28-38

Washburn University School of Law Director of Admissions

Dottie Harder

HALLOWEEN PARTY

PRESENTED BY STROHS STROH LIGHT & WHITE MOUNTAIN

COSTUME CONTEST

BEST GOOD GUY, BEST BAD GANG BEST JOHN WAYNE, BEST CALAMITY JANE

1st PLACE PRIZES

STROHS AND STROH LIGHT 60¢ BOTTLE

> WHITE MOUNTAIN 80¢ BOTTLE

712 N. MANHATTAN

Glee club competition provides social avenue

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State Men's Glee Club is sponsoring the "Battle of the Glee Clubs" concert with three other glee clubs at 8 p.m. Friday in the All Faiths Chapel.

"I don't know where the title 'Battle of the Glee Clubs' originated," said Gerald Polich, associate professor of music and director of the men's glee club. "It's just a friendly competition."

The concert has traditionally involved K-State and the University of Nebraska, Polich said. Each year a concert is put on when the two universities play each other in football. The exchange has been going on for about 20 years.

"It just figures we have a football battle on Saturday so we have a music battle on Friday," Polich said.

Other glee clubs involved this year are the University of Kansas and Emporia State University.

The concert will be about two hours long with each group singing no more than 30 minutes, Polich said.

As a combined effort the four glee clubs will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" to open the concert and "Brothers Sing On," by Norwegian composer Edvard Grieg, at the clos-

"It's an educational purpose and a social purpose getting to hear other glee clubs and getting to talk to other glee club members from other universities," Polich said.

Islamic gunmen free captured Soviets

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Three of the four Soviet embassy staffers kidnapped by gunmen 30 days ago were freed Wednesday night in Moslem West Beirut, Soviet and leftist militia officials said.

The bullet-riddled body of the fourth Soviet was found Sept. 30 on a garbage dump, two days after the group's abduction by members of the hitherto unknown Islamic Liberation Organization.

"They're all free and in relatively good condition," said a of the slain Soviet, 32-year-old Soviet embassy spokesman who declined to be identified. He did not elaborate on their condition.

The kidnappers said in a statement to Western news agencies here that it freed press attache Oleg Spirin, commercial attache Valery Mirikov and embassy physician Nikolai Sversky "to prove our good intentions."

The statement by the Islamic Liberation Organization, believed to be made up of Sunni Moslem fundamentalists, made no mention consular secretary Arkady Katkov.

The statement reiterated earlier claims that the Soviets were seized to force Moscow to pressure Syria, its main Arab ally, to call off an offensive by leftist militias against Sunni fundamentalists in Lebanon's northern port of Tripoli.

The statement, which acknowledged a cease-fire declared the day after Katkov's body was found, stressed: "We are waiting for all concerned to honor their commitments. In order to prove our good intentions, we have freed the Soviet spies so that others will honor their commitments in Tripoli."

The kidnappings, the first of Soviet citizens in Moslem-militiaruled West Beirut, was a major embarrassment to Moslem militia leaders and Syria at a time when they were involved in talks with Christians aimed at ending Lebanon's civil war.

At least 14 other foreigners, including six Americans, are still missing after being kidnapped.

Comedian-actor Klein to perform at McCain

By The Collegian Staff

Comedian Robert Klein will perform at 8 p.m. Friday in McCain Auditorium.

Klein has appeared on and hosted "The Tonight Show" and "Saturday Night Live." He has appeared in nine movies including "The Landlord," "The Owl and the Pussycat," "Hooper" and "A Secret Space."

While at Yale Drama School, Klein's comedy career began when he auditioned for the Chicago improvisational company, "Second City."

His first and second comedy albums, "Child of the Fifties" and "Mind Over Matter," earned him two Grammy Award nominations for best comedy album of the year.

Klein also appeared in the Mike Nichols broadway production of "Apple Tree" and received a Tony 2007 Ft. Riley Blvd.

Award nomination for his performance in the hit musical, 'They're Playing Our Song" and then co-wrote and starred in two NBC comedy specials in 1981.

He was the first performer on the Home Box Office "On Location" series and has done three one-man shows for HBO.

Klein is also trained in music, performing songs with the aid of a piano and harmonica.

Tickets are $8 for students with an ID and $13 for the general public are available at McCain Box Office.

537-2080

This number could save your life. The next time you've had too much to drink and need a ride home, just call us - and we'll get you home, and even more - we'll get you there safely.

Within City Limits of Manhattan.

AGGIE'S CRAZIEST AFFAIR FROM NOON TO THE STROKE OF TERROR (midnight) WILD DJ • PROFESSIONAL PHOTOGRAPHER FIRST 300 PEOPLE after 6 p.m. RECEIVE A FREE BUD LIGHT FRIGHT NIGHT MUG CONTESTS, PRIZES, CRAZY SPECIALS

TONIGHT

LIVE APPEARANCE BY the GREAT PUMPKIN YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO A HALLOWEEN PARTY UNTIL YOU'VE BEEN TO BROTHER'S GET YOUR COSTUME & JOIN US AT BRO'S 1120 MORO NO COVER CHARGE WITH COSTUME 5.39-9064

Mastercard & Visa Welcon

(1) ld Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

9.9 MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN.

Sandinistas restrict freedom

Contra war an 'emergency'

By The Collegian Staff

Suspension of human civil liberties and censorship of the press are two actions which curtailed Nicaraguans' freedom after the country's government declared a state of emergency in mid-October, said John Exdell, associate professor of philosophy, during the fall's second rice and beans dinner Wednesday night.

Exdell and Lyman Baker, instructor of English, were the spokesmen for a discussion of "Nicaragua's State of Emergency" at St. Isidore's Chapel, 711 Denison Ave. More of." than 50 people attended the dinner, including a refugee family from Nicaragua currently residing in Concordia.

Donations for each dinner, sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance on Central America, will go to aid the people of Nicaragua.

Exdell said rights were suspended for security reasons.

"The issue focuses on the largest army in Central America," Exdell said. "From 1981. to 1985, 12,000 people have been killed by the Contra's in attacks. This is something that most people are not aware

Exdell cited a comparison of an attack force of 1 million people based in Canada traveling to the United States and killing 12,000

A tape recording of the Phil Donahue show, which hosted President Daniel Ortega of the Republic of Nicaragua and his wife, was shown at the dinner. Several issues concerning military intervention by the United States were discussed by Ortega and Donahue. There was a brief question-and-answer period after the tape was viewed.

Jigma Chi - If C

UNIVERSITY SING

What is this SAMS business, anyway?

Come find out what we're all about!

SAMS information workshop

Sunday, Nov. 3

Union Big 8 Room

2-5 p.m.

for Sunset Zoo

Sunday, Nov. 3, 1985

8:00 p.m.

K.S.U. McCain Auditorium

TICKETS: $2.50 Advance, $3.00 at door

Advance Tickets Available in the Office of Greek Affairs, Holton Hall 203

Nuclear

Continued from Page 1

required to maintain something like that," Dollar said. "A lot of people who were at the forefront of the nuclear age are getting older and are retiring, leaving some good openings for new engineers," he said.

The shrinkage makes the University "kind of a standout," Dollar said, because other universities are phasing out the nuclear programs at the undergraduate level.

The nuclear engineering major at the University was accredited in 1965, the first in the United States.

The major's future depends on the needs of the industry, Dollar said.

"For student recruitment, it (the low enrollment) makes a nice case because we are a small department - students receive a lot of personal attention in classes," Eckhoff said. The average class size is 20 or less.

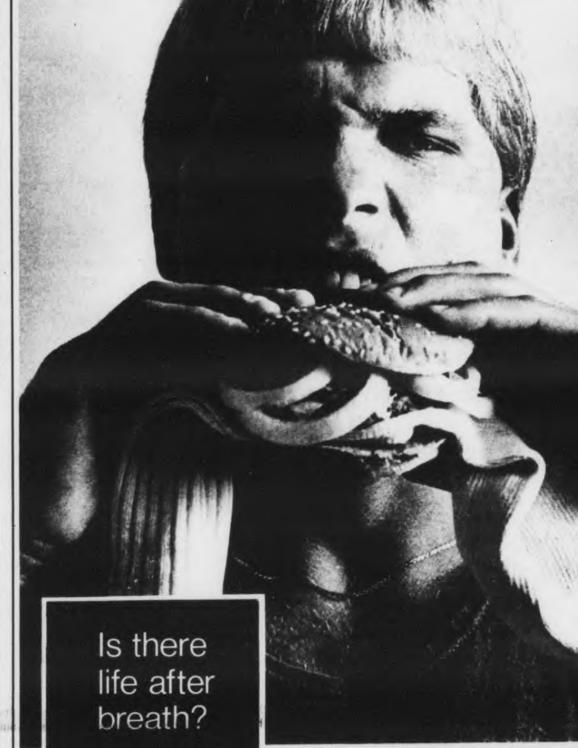

"In mechanical and electrical engineering, student population is from 400-600 in each. If all the engineering colleges in the United States had their druthers, they would most likely want a student-to-faculty ratio like ours." The ratio is 10 students per instructor, he said. "For the first job, grade point average is important," said Scott J. Burkholder, senior in nuclear engineering. The average starting pay for nuclear engineers who hold an undergraduate degree is $28,000 per year, he said, adding that any alumni employed by a firm could have a bearing on employment there for a graduate.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

ASSOCIATES, DENTAL SAGER 514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-8823

We will entertain you at SKATE PLAZA Let's face the facts. "AGGIEVILLE IS DEAD ON TUESDAY AND THURSDAY NIGHTS!"

"Don't just sit home and sulk. Try a change of page and come roller skating!" Seriously, folks, it's a real trip!

Every Tuesday & Thursday is STUDENT NIGHT. Adm. for students $2. HRS: 7:30-9:30 with KSU I.D. For private parties phone

776-6175 or 776-7272 Manager Jon Hoogendoorn

400 Tuttle Creek Blvd. MANHATTAN, KANSAS

T.N.T.

Thursdays 18005 'n' TEQUILA 50¢ TACOS with drinks $1.00 Margaritas 4-6 p.m.

RAMADA INN

JUMP FOR JOY TINTED EXTENDED WEAR soft contact lenses

are now available along with: *Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color of your eyes) ★Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism) *Bifocal (for reading difficulties) *Regular type (for near- and far-sightedness)

★Toric (for Astigmatism) ★Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Replacement Lenses

& Solutions in Stock PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH

Practice of Optometry

776-9461 Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt Manhattan, KS

Put Yourself in our Shoes

313 Poyntz

Downtown Manhattan

You'll flip over Dexter boots.

Open Sundays

1-5 p.m.

This is the hottest boot in America. Dexter's version features soft leather uppers and convertible tops that can flip up, down, or anywhere in between. And at Dexter's price, this season, everyone can afford to be in fashion.

Hundley finally finds reason to smile as 'Cats earn victory

Staff/John Sleeze

'Cats' co-captain and All-American free safety candidate Barton Hundley State University. However, since Saturday's win over University of Missouri, reacts to a penalty call early in the season during the team's loss to Wichita 21-17, Hundley feels the team learned it can come back from behind.

Sooners, 'Huskers still on top of conference

Some things never change. Year in, year out, the Universities of Nebraska and Oklahoma always sit atop the football standings of the Big Eight Conference. This year is no exception.

At the outset of the conference season, it looked like the University of Kansas or Oklahoma State University might have a chance to knock off one of the perennial powerhouses.

After all, KU has the big passing attack. Who knows? If the

TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

Jayhawks could put 30 points on the enough to beat Nebraska or

Oklahoma State seemed like a strong team, too, especially after the Cowboys' win over the University of Washington in the season opener.

As the season has progressed, however, Nebraska and Oklahoma have grown stronger and stronger. Upsets have seemed less and less likely. And again this year, the conference championship will probably be decided when the Cornhuskers and Sooners most on Nov. 23 in Norman, Okla.

While Nebraska and Oklahoma have stumbled in nonconference play this season — the Cornhuskers losing to Florida State University and the Sooners losing to the University of Miami of Florida both teams bounced back from those defeats stronger than ever. Going undefeated in a season is nearly impossible anyway.

Nebraska fumbled it's way to a season-opening loss to Florida State but has since been tough, outscoring opponents 232 to 83. In

See BIG 8, Page 15

By TONY CARBAJO Collegian Reporter

In a season that started out with so much potential, Barton Hundley found little time to smile this season as K-State went winless through it's first six games.

Not until last Saturday when the Wildcats defeated Big Eight Conference rival the University of Missouri, 20-17, did Hundley, cocaptain and All-American free safety candidate, get a chance to celebrate the taste of victory.

'We had been working hard all this time and it seemed like our work was going for nothing because we were 0-6," Hundley said. "Not winning a game had upset us quite a bit."

It wasn't that Hundley wasn't doing his part. He leads the Big Eight in tackles for a defensive back with 71 and has three interceptions for 48 vards and one touchdown. He has also recovered one fumble and caused another.

To add insult to injury, Hundley has had to play most of this season with nagging injuries. An infected elbow and sore shoulder have bothered him much of this year, as well as not winning.

"I have had some minor injuries, but they have not been any real big thing," he said. "It's been pretty tough, especially after losing. It was certainly a lot easier getting out of bed after the Missouri game, Hundley said the game with Missouri was important for the Wildcats. They needed that win to help salvage something from this season.

"It's been tough mentally." Hundley said. "If we would have lost the game to Missouri it would have been a lot tougher. Everybody's spirits have been lifted somewhat and things have been going a lot better around here.

"Coach Moon is a great motivator. He has never let us give up. That is the great thing about him, he has been good for us. Before the game with Missouri,

K-State was rated on the top of Steve Harvey's Bottom 10. Hundley said that bothered the team a little, but they tried not to let it get to them.

"It's not any fun having people talk about it (Bottom 10). You get sick of hearing about it and you just try to get away. I think this win against Missouri is going to help us get away from it quite a bit," Hundley said.

After finally getting in the victory column last week. K-State hosts No. 5 Nebraska this Saturday at KSU Stadium. The win gives the Wildcats a little more confidence heading in.

"The Missouri win taught us how to win a little bit," Hundley said. "We fell behind and now we know we can come back. That helped everybody a lot and it should help us against Nebraska."

The Wildcats have not defeated the Cornhuskers, that perennial powerhouse, since 1968, when they won 12-0 in Lincoln. K-State has lost its last 16 meetings with the 'Huskers and Nebraska has scored over 50 points in seven of those games.

'It's been tough mentally. If we would have lost the game to Missouri it would have been a lot tougher. Everybody's spirits have been lifted somewhat and things have been going a lot better around here.'

Barton Hundley

'They're going to be tough, they're always tough no matter who they have." Hundley said. "They never lose people — they just replace them. They're just the same, year after

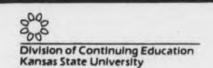

"They're physical and they have good people at the skill positions. We're going to have to go out and play as hard as we can and as best we can and let the score take care of

With the help of Head Coach Lee Moon's motivation and the team's new uplifted spirits, the 'Cats feel they can play with the Cornhuskers or any one else they are scheduled to

"I believe we are in every ball game, or I wouldn't be playing football. That is why college football is so great. There is a chance each week that the underdog will get an upset." Hundley said.

Barton only has to look at the University of Texas-El Paso, whose stunning upset last week over Brigham Young University shocked the entire college football world.

WATCH FOR WINTER '86 INTERSESSION COURSE LISTINGS IN THE NOVEMBER 4TH COLLEGIAN

-Intersession is January 2-14 and offers 47 credit courses in a wide variety of departments for both undergraduate and graduate credit. . .

-Registration for Intersession will be at Farrell Library December 9-11.

-Complete information will be published in the November 4 Collegian-WATCH FOR IT!

(For more information, Call the Division of Continuing Education, 532-5566)

REMINDER

Tomorrow, Nov. 1, is All Saints Day. Holy Day Masses at St. Isadores

Oct 31-4:30 p.m. (anticipated Mass) Nov. 1-12:00 noon, 4:00 p.m., 5:15 p.m.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules. Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

ESBIAN ESOURCE

Halloween Dance Nov. 1 9:00 p.m. Unitarian Fellowship Church Cover-$2

call 532-6960 for more info

This Coupon Good Sunday Monday Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Nov. 3 Thru Nov. 7

This Coupon Good All This Week Nov. 3 Thru Nov. 9

Buy any regular* dinner on Vista's menu-Get a Vistaburger Dinner for only $1.00 Save $1.45 Nov. 3 - 7 10:30 am - closing Biscuits and Homemade Sausage Gravy Nov. 3 - 9 Breakfast Hours: 6-10:30 Mon.-Sat. 7-10:30 Sunday

Fri. 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Sat. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sun. 12-8 p.m.

Cardinals pitcher Joaquin Andujar argues with home plate umpire Don Denkinger during the fifth inning of Sunday's World Series game in Kansas City, before being ejected from the game. Andujar was fined $500 and suspended for 10 days by Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

This Thursday's Fright Formula

$ Daze + Halloween + Disc Jockey & Night

Super Sound System

MASS HYSTERIA

Hundreds of people in costumes

Super Decorations, Contests & Prizes! Don't miss it!

$2.00 for you "dead beats" not in costume

1800 Claflin

539-9619

INNEQUINS

TONIGHT

Mannequin's First 'Good-times rock 'n' roll Halloween Blowout"

Live music from And/Or A major concert announcement at 12:30 a.m.

PLUS

Fifty free tanning sessions to the first 50 people through the door.

> And three hot tub party coupons given away throughout the night courtesy of

> > Mannequins

Fri. & Sat.: "Boys with Toys"

TAP SOME FUN

with a keg from Dutch Maid's Keg-To-Go Price List.

EVERYDAY LOW PRICES.

Keg of	W. red													*		$27.98
Keg of	light															$27.98
Keg of	Bud	W	ei	is	e	r.	 		 							$39.88
Keg of	BUD	) .					 	 								$39.88
Keg of	Co	02	1				 	 								$39.88
Keg of																$39.88

Plus Deposit Please call 2 days ahead to reserve your keg. We keep extra kegs of Bud, Bud Light, Coors, Coors Light, and Millers on hand

Pitcher may appeal suspension issued for Series incident

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - Joaquin Andujar's agent says he may appeal the penalty for Andujar's antics in the final game of the World Series, and Manager Whitey Herzog says he'll stick by the St. Louis Cardinals pitcher.

"I'm sure we'll want to evaluate what's going on," agent David Hendricks said of the 10-day suspension, effective at the opening of next season, and $500 fine announced Tuesday. "It's very Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth meted out the penalty, citing Andujar's outburst during a fifth-inning dispute with plate umpire Don Denkinger, followed by the pitcher's explosion in the visitor's clubhouse.

"Such actions are damaging to the game and cannot be tolerated," Ueberroth said in New York.

Andujar argued two successive ball calls by Denkinger, and after the second pitch, he charged the umpire, slightly bumping him, and had to be restrained by teammates.

An appeal is "his prerogative," Ueberroth's spokesman, Chuck Adams, said.

"Some people have expressed amazement that the commissioner fined him only $500," Adams said. "But there's a limit imposed on him, and the commissioner fined him to the limit."

Herzog, even before Ueberroth's penalty was announced, indicated he wants Andujar back next year although he does not condone the player's actions.

Herzog also was ejected from Game 7, one pitch before Andujar. The pitcher, after leaving the field at Royals Stadium in Kansas City, reportedly destroyed a toilet and a sink with a bat in the visitors'

"I guess he won't start the second or third game now," Herzog said of the impact on St. Louis' plans for next year created by Ueberroth's announcement. "It's good. Maybe he'll learn something.'

Denkinger, who ejected Andujar, said he was pleased with the fine.

"From the Cardinals' standpoint, it was a very disgraceful thing to do to the game of baseball," Denkinger said. "I don't think (Andujar) wanted to (pitch with St. Louis so far behind). But if he is not able to control his emotions, I'm going to do it for him."

Herzog also said Andujar's outburst stemmed at least in part the pitcher's frustrations over his own performances. The 32-year-old hurler, after becoming the major leagues' first 20-game winner on Aug. 23, won only one more contest.

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

You'll love our Old-fashioned ice cream sodas ice cream pies, chocolate dipped cones with nuts

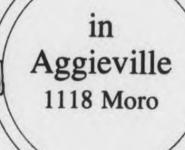

popcorn-plain and flavored ★All made right here in our store

537-7079

1314 Westloop

Speedwash

Wash 75¢ Dry 25°

OPEN 24 HOURS FREE PARKING

WE'VE UNMASKED OUP GREAT -S

ENTIRE SELECTION OF SPORTSWEAR AND DRESSES Starts Today

JUNIOR SPORTSWEAR

Fritzi You Babes Esprit College Town

20% to 40%

price

SPECIAL SELECTION

Harris Tweed Camel Hair and Cashmere BLAZERS

Reg. $152 to $250

NOW $11999 to $17999 ALL NEW

Hanes Silk Reflections

off regular price

INTRODUCTORY OFFER IN NEW AND TRADITIONAL COLORS

MISSES COORDINATE SPORTSWEAR

J.H. Folio Blake Country Suburbans Jones Devon Fire Islander A.J. Hitchell

20% to 50%

regular price

ALL DRESSES

25%

regular price

INCLUDES NEW ARRIVALS

JEANS SEPARATE Entire Stock

BUY ONE AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE

SPECIAL SELECTION

SWEATERS

30%

regular price

WOMEN'S SHOES

Aigner Bernardo Biff Buskens Ciao Regular Values $26 to $56 *

NOW $19.99 to $39.99

Baseball squad closes successful fall season

By The Collegian Staff

If the spring season for K-State baseball goes anything like this fall, K-State athletics will have a true winner.

The Wildcat baseball team just completed a 17-1 record against junior college teams K-State has had trouble with in the past. In the process, the 'Cats put some impressive numbers on the board to go along with the team's record.

The first statistic of note was offensive production. K-State averaged 10.4 runs a game and had a team batting average of .360. The team rapped out 196 hits, including 72 for extra bases. And the K-State batters struck out just 83 times in Leading the way was junior Leo Seiler, who batted at a .542 clip. Next was Connors (Okla.) Junior College transfer Jeff Turtle with a 489 average. Junior Otto Kaifes was next with a .434, followed by Mesa (Ariz.) College transfer Mike Hamacher (.428) and freshman Dan Skala (.417).

Also not to be lost was the 'Cats' 65 stolen bases in 74 attempts. That's almost four stolen bases a game. Senior Gary Pridey was good on 13 of 15 stolen base attempts. Mike Hinkle, a juco transfer from Kansas City Kansas Community College, stole 10 bases in 13 attempts.

K-State pitching was no slouch; either. Wildcat pitchers allowed 65 runs, 43 of them earned, in 139 innings for a 2.78 staff earned run average. In addition, there were 160 strikeouts

Top pitchers included Rocky Ferguson (2.37 ERA and 24 strikeouts in 19 innings), Robbie Guinn (1.12 ERA), Tom Smith (25 strikeouts in 19 innings), Paul Isman (0.75 ERA and 21 strikeouts in 12 innings) and Scott Lichlyter (0.90 ERA).

Still, Coach Gary Vaught was aware of the competition this fall.

"The competition this fall wasn't that good." Vaught said. "Except for Creighton (University) and Kansas City (Kansas Junior College) we really didn't see that much competition."

The 'Cats' only loss came Saturday against Creighton when they were shut out 6-0.

Vaught has given his players this week off to rest and get away from the daily routine of practice. "They need time to get away from us just like we need time to get away from them." Vaught said. "It's time for them to hit the books and rest their arms."

Next week, the baseball team will begin off-season training to prepare for the tougher spring season.

"We've seen them play this fall. We sat back and let them go at it," Vaught said. "We let them learn from their mistakes. That's better than coaching."

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas!

SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52)

lope: Success. PO Box 470CEG. Woodstock. IL through self-knowledge and your potential destiny chart. For details, write to The Secretary, PO. Box

SOUTHERN SUN is offering $2 tanning sessions un til Friday, November 1. Buy all you want and use by December 31. (48-49)

EXTRA FANCY Indian corn, 25 cents each. Available

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61f)

chure. (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WE'RE SELLING your dream. Learn to fly. For more information call Capital Air Service, 539-7623. (45)

at People's Grocery Cooperative, 811 Colorado, 539-4811. Open to everyone on Saturday 10:00

2015. Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-49)

Big 8

Continued from Page 13

that time, the Cornhuskers have won six consecutive games and risen to a No. 5 national ranking.

The 'Husker defense has been inconsistent but was able to hold the high-powered University of Colorado wishbone offense to seven points last Saturday in a 17-7 victory in Lincoln,

Offensively, it's been the same old story for Nebraska. Big, strong offensive linemen leading the way for fast running backs like Doug DuBose and Tom Rathman. The Huskers are averaging 35 points per game. Not too shabby. Any offense that can score 34 points against Oklahoma State's tough defense (in a 34-24 win) is a force to be reckoned Until last week, it was thought Oklahoma's awesome defense might have to carry the Sooners through the season. However, Oklahoma's 56-point outburst in the win against Iowa State University last week put those rumors to rest. Oklahoma's offense may be as good as ever.

The way things look now, other Big Eight schools might as well start looking forward to next year because the 'Huskers and Sooners are the class of the conference again.

KU, Oklahoma State and Colorado are still in the running for postseason bowl bids and have plenty of incentive for the rest of the year.

KU has an uphill struggle to a bowl game. The Jayhawks are 5-3 and have games remaining with Oklahoma and Nebraska. The Jayhawks lost to Oklahoma State 17-10 last Saturday in Lawrence.

KU's loss to Iowa State early in the conference season may have shattered the Jayhawks' hopes.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15: Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer. $4.75.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad-found ON CAMPUS can be advertised Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

537-4246. (7tf)

MYSTIC SOOTHSAYER trained in divination, and ap plied guidance, taking requests for personal horo scopes. Have success in every aspect of your life.

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

THE MANAGEMENT OF THIS FEATURE, IN CONJUNCTION WITH 'BIG PIG PEACHES' PRESENTS THE FOLLOWING AEROBICS INSTRUCTION FOR THE PUBLIC'S BENEFIT.

A HEALTHY AND FIT COMICS READER IS A LAUGHING AND JOYOUS COMICS READER.

SOME MAY WISH TO CONSULT A PHYSICIAN BEFORE EXERCISES

Garfield

By Jim Davis WHY, OF COURSE, WHAT? NO

I HAVE SOME PLANS TO SPIFF IT UP A BIT

By Charles Schulz

42 Actress

44 Treeless tract

50 Beast of 51 Conservative

52 Unlikely

56 Eastern nurse

lake product

prefix

58 Keats

bet burden

46 Soiled

Ullmann

60 Lights-out song 61 Levy

DOWN

1 Part of

MGM's

motto

2 Put on

3 Hunter's

ammo

the Bell

Tolls"

7 Prepare

8 Boat parks

9 Guinness

10 Drifting

6 "For

4 Light color 27 Mire

5 German cry 29 Golfer's

11 Gangster's

21 Forgo food creature girl 16 Place

20 Utter

22 Scandi-

23 Zodiac

ploy

33 Hunting

38 Deceit

40 Puts on

35 Argon, e.g.

30 Assist

31 Saga

navian

a.m.-6:00 p.m. (48-49)

ATTENTION

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sun chase! (45-60)

TOTAL IMAGE Salon: Perms $35; haircuts-$6 guys $9 gals. Call Melanie, 539-4400, (46-50) USED BOOKS and magazines - buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville (46-48) CRUSADE ALTERNATIVE: Wear costumes! Throck morton 132, 7:00 p.m. and party after, Happy Halloween CCC! (48)

FOR RENT-MISC

STORAGE UNITS from $15 monthly. Amherst Self Storage in west Manhattan, 776-3804 (13tf) COSTUMES — FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis.

Makeup, wigs, pariodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

FOR RENT-APTS

gieville (28tf)

$290, bills paid. Call 539-8401 (1tf)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, 1837 College Hts. Available mid-October, 776-9124 (31-49)

Like a FREE VCR. Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

> Call for details 776-3804

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-3804 (4611) QUIET ONE bedroom, 1131 Vattier, Heat, water and trash paid, furnished or unfurnished. $195/month. Call Professor McGuire, 532-6786 or 776-5682 eveings (46-55) TWO BEDROOM basement furnished apartment 1016 Juliette, off street parking. Available November 1, $240, plus electricity. 539-6858 or 776-8352

NEXT TO campus—Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Po meroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets.

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor-tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

rossword

ACROSS 1 Blurbs 4 Mishandles 8 Sir's counter part 12 Tier 13 Soreness 14 Additionally 15 Pic 17 Dance type 18 Lunatic 57 American 19 "Hair" or "Cats"

21 "Old Kentucky 59 Blood: Home' composer 24 Piper of Avg. solution time: 25 min.

myth 25 Bat wood 26 Flight 28 Classy boat 32 One-armed bandit part 34 Coffee holder 36 New York stadium 37 Sum Boot'

(film) See You in My Dreams" chamber 55 Singer Ans. to yesterday's puzzle Ritter

a show 43 Man's man 45 Sigmoid shape HOW 46 Provo's place 47 Alaskan 48 Study, in a way

49 Nick's wife 53 Quick drink 54 Harem

Oct. 31

AMR CREE-PSDCS YGA UFJGAXYER XGAMDJ'U SNFP-

CRYPTOQUIP

SXFP: X CJNARJ'U YEDFP Yesterday's Cryptoquip - VERY UNLUCKY PLAS-TIC SURGEON'S GOOD PRACTICE TOOK A NOSE DIVE

Today's Cryptoquip clue: P equals K

FOR SALE-AUTO

LATE 1984 Chevy 1-ton dual, 454-automatic Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 35,000 miles. Wiemer, 913-668-2352 or 913-668-2214. (45-49)

MUST SELL: 1979 4 x 4 Subaru Brat. New radials, air og rebuilt transmission, excellent condition. $2,150 or best offer. 539-2899. (47-51) 1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1.850.

06

Call 1-494-2388, St. George (47tf) 1978 Z-28 Camaro-All options, including T-tops Low miles, must sell, $3,600, Call 537-0227, (47-51) 1979 RABBIT, 45-50 mpg, excellent condition, stereo air conditioning, 532-6625. (48-52)

FOR SALE-MISC

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased 21% Magnum Dog Food-

$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

NAGELS-TWO posters by Patrick Nagel: "Gallery Michael and Nagel." Best offer. 776-5278. (46-49)

> Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger 69¢

The Ritz

This coupon expires 11/2/85

MIKASA BONE china-Nine place settings, contemporary style, "Silver Halo." Perfect condition $250 Call 776-0733 (47-51)

The Guitar Shop 2513 Stagg Hill Rd. 776-6167 Switchcraft 25 Ft. Guitar Cables $15.75 All Guitar Strings $5.00 a set New & Used Equipment Guitar Repairs & Set-Ups

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

by Mike Plas

1979 MOBILE home-three bedroom, central air priced below appraisal Available now 776-3702.

1968 GREAT Lakes — 12 ' x 65 ' three bedrooms, appliances Excellent buy, $5,200 Call 776-6956 eve-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1981 HONDA CM400-Must sell, runs well, 9,000 miles. Call 539-5871. (45-49)

FOUND BICYCLE on campus Call 776-3741 be-

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary benefits and working conditions Round trip air transportation provided Warm. lov ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc. 33 Whipple Rd. Wilton. CT. 06897. (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking knowledgeable office manager with strong horticulture background. Benefits include Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities All inquiries strickly confidential 1-913-776-0397 PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking experienced, motivated, Landscape Designer/salesman, Benefits include, Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397. (45-49)

DIRECTOR OF Christian Education First Presbyterian Church seeks tull-time Director of Christian Education, Leadership training and developmen of a growing ministry with children and youth are the priorities. Must work well with other staff, committees, and volunteers. Position open immediately Send resume to Director of Christian Education Search Committee, First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS, 66502 BARTENDERS AND Food Servers. Now hiring at the

Cotton Club, Manhattan's newest dinner club. Ap-ply in person at 418 Poyntz in the Wareham Build-CHILDCARE NEEDED in my home. 2:15 p.m. until various times in the evening, two-three days per week. Position open immediately. Call 537-0117.

LAST CHANCE is accepting applications for cooks. Apply at 1213 Moro (47-48)

NEW YORK couple with two children looking for mother's helper good with children to live-in Pleasant suburban community, easy access to New York City, room with private bath, good pay, transportation. Call 516-821-0824. (47-51)

PART-TIME chimneysweep-Relates well with peo ple, very mechanically inclined, no fear of heights 776-9544. (48-49)

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Seminar Leaders — Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1986. Specific duties in-clude: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a General Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, or Mathematics class. c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session; and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students; c) desire to perform in the role of a helping person: d) are sensitive to the needs of others; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class. EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit) during Spring 1986 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1986 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview (45-49) COLLEGIATE JEWELRY Distributors allows college students to own their own jewelry and sunglass business. We sell quality sunglasses such as Ray-Ban, Vuarnet, Porsche Carrera, Our jewelry prod-ucts include solid 14kt gold jewelry (chains, earrings) as well as gold jewelry which is layered with 14kt gold and guaranteed for life. All of our products are sold to the student business owner at near wholesale prices. This is a great and fun way to earn money from your dorm, frat/sorority, apart-ment or home. For our catalog: Collegiate Jewelry Distributors. P.O. Box 555. Randalistown, Md. 21133 (46-48)

PERSONAL

you're not there (48)

LOST: WOMEN'S glasses in blue case sometime Tuesday, October 22, Call Sally, 776-7672, Reward!

14

15

NOTICES OVER 1.000 costumes-Men's, ladies and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early. Marie's Costumes. 17th and Humboldt. 539.

early Marie 5200 (3011)

CINDY BACHOFER, my little sis: I'll always be here for you. Keep on searching Love. Eric (48) PIKE LITTLE Sisters-With you out of costume. we rarely get frightened, but when we're all in them even ghouls get excited. Don't miss the annual Halloween Scare. We'll come looking for you if

ERNESTINE I thank you for your step of faith of hanfor Jesus Christ I loyo love you Ibraheem. (48) THETAS: SUNDAY is the day for U-Sing '85, and with our pride showing our songs will come alive. We've had great fun while singing songs of sixpence and ballads of love, but Sunday will be greater fun as we sound like angels above. Get psyched! The Farmers (48) PIKES-NEW function release direct from Manhat tan. Kansas. "AD Pi's and Pikes walk on the moon Coming this Friday to a fraternity near you Box office opens at 3:00 p.m. Rating—SG (suggested guidance). Love. AD Pi's. (48)

TAMMY. TODAY is your birthday. I hope you'll have fun. You had better get ready, cause the best is yet to come Happy Birthday Love ya. Larry (48) SMURF & PAR-T, no thanks for the date with Miss Parks. J.O. (48)

AD PI LUGINBILL. I just couldn't admit it on the phone. I think I love you. Forever yours. Par-T. (48) DANNY V - Have a spooky birthday! Chris H. (48) CINDY MURDIE. I know she is scary, but it's true today is her 21st, so let's drink some brew We'll party until dawn, that's a cinch, but in the morning she'll still be a witch. Love. Steph and Jag. (48)

LISA CAIN: Your hair is red. your eyes are blue. I love you even more, since you're twenty-two. Pretty bad. huh? Happy birthday old lady! Dave (48)

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED: Close to campus and Ageville, own room, $95/month, one-sixth utilities 539-0435. (44-48)

FEMALE-NONSMOKING to share duplex. Own oom, washer, dryer, dishwasher and microwave $133 plus one-third utilities. Call 539-9293 (44-48) NONSMOKING MALE roommate wanted. $137.50/ nth. utilities paid. Call 539-5913. (46-48)

MALE SPRING semester-Close to campus, fur nished. $110 plus one-half utilities. Call 539-3914. FEMALE ROOMMATE to share three bedroom apar

ROOMMATE NEEDED for new condo. Washer, dryer, microwave, dishwasher, VCR, three bedrooms, two baths. $150. Available November 2. Call 537-4777.

QUIET ROOMMATE wanted in house two blocks from campus. $95 plus utilities. 776-8729. (46-48) ROOMMATE WANTED—Own bedroom, washer/ dryer. Rent plus utilities. 403 South 10th. Call 537-

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537:9180. 103 S.

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz. 776-4240. (4tf)

quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166 (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (41-VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letterquality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (48-51)

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processing. Term papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless. 537-3314. (48-49)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional

18

TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Ser vices, 539-6912 or 539-3773. (46-49)

ment. Own bedroom, only $150 per month. Call 776-3706 after 6:30 p.m. (46-50)

'Suburbia' provides insight into punk rock belligerence

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

In George Miller's "Mad Max" trilogy, mobs of leather-clad mutants lived a nomadic existence, preying upon outsiders who ventured too far away from civilization. This was supposed to take place in the near future, after a nuclear disaster.

Film Keview

But in the Penelope Spheeris's movie, "Suburbia," this future is already here as the punk rockers of today become these misfits. As Spheeris sees it, this situation was created by the banality of middleclass life - by parents who abused and tormented their children. These children band together in a group called "The Rejected," and with nowhere else to go, set up home in the abandoned tract housing of the Los Angeles suburbs.

Their environment is desolate and bleak. Packs of dogs roam the neighborhood. But within this home the kids find friends and a sense of belonging. Here they are cared for and protected.

food by raiding garages. At night they slam dance in the punk rock bars of Los Angeles. It may not be much but it beats the lives they would have lived with their parents.

The performers in the film can only be called actors in a loose sense of the word. It's clear most of them have never had any acting training. But it's easy to excuse their empty line readings because director Spheeris' tale is so intriguing.

Spheeris has a real eye for detail, especially at the house the kids call home. The actors may seem wooden at times, but they're redeemed by the authenticity of the surroundings. Cockroaches crawl in and out of opened cereal boxes, a pet rat crawls over the face of one teenager, pornographic photos are pasted over the refrigerator (of all places!), and a TV drones in the background, telling the kids about a drug rehabilitation center. The teenagers are oblivious to it all.

In her earlier film, the punk-rockdocumentary "The Decline of Western Civilization," Spheeris showed punk rockers to have an almost animalistic innocence. That's even more present in "Suburbia."

During the days, they forage for The kids are simply searching for a place they can belong to, a home where people listen when they have something to say. She contrasts this with the belligerence she sees in middle-class values, the hate and fear that causes rejection.

On occasion Spheeris wields subtlety like a ballpeen hammer, as when she shows two blue-collar workers sitting back in a strip joint. The message is clear, too clear. Middle-class values are a little warped themselves. This scene has a bluntness that lies closer to incompetence than it does the style of punk rock - although at times the two are practically synonyms.

But even with its weaknesses, "Suburbia" provides some real insight to a real problem, getting past the belligerence and the rebellion of the punk rock movement to show that punk rockers aren't quite the monsters the media would have viewers believe.

McCain-

Comedian

Robert Klein

Friday, November 1, 8:00 p.m.

"A funny evening of singing, clowning, and improvising.

Order tickets early! Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted

Secrets

Continued from Page 1

"The government shuns noncooperating reporters and also the government tries to stop stories from being published, because the stories might be embarrassing," LaFrance

Oukrop was concerned with the classification system on top secret material. Oukrop worked for the Department of Army in the 1950s and did not have a top-secret classification but was responsible for keeping track of all top secret materials in a safe.

"I could not read the material, but was responsible for making sure they were in the safe," Oukrop said. She also said many government materials were classified to hide political embarrassments from the public and the press. "There are more than four million people in the government who have clearance and 300,000 people get new clearances each year and that's is too many," Oukrop said.

The Freedom of Information Act was also discussed by the panel. Oukrop was encouraged by the act's progress and had a positive view of how the press has used it.

"To get information from the government, be specific and make sure you know what materials you want, because the government will not give you a blanket search of all materials," Kipp said.

LaFrance said reporters needed to learn the cultures of the countries they were covering and that it would help them understand and report indepth issues. He also suggested a reporter live in the country a few years to get the feel of the language and culture of the society.

Defense

Continued from Page 1

Initiative to develop a shield against nuclear attack

The Army's $163 million request for nerve gas was deleted last week by a House committee. The United States has built none of the weapons since 1969, but Reagan says they are needed to offset a growing Soviet chemical arsenal. Congress has rejected that request for the past three years.

Rep. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., had prepared an amendment to have the Army money added back to the bill, but decided Wednesday morning not to push the issue, according to congressional sources who declined to be named.

Nerve gas was authorized by a separate Pentagon bill passed Tuesday by the House and sent to Reagan, but elimination of the funds from the companion appropriation bill means the issue is likely to be fought again later.

The bill that emerges from the Republican-controlled Senate will likely include nerve gas money, meaning the issue will again have to be resolved by a committee.

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

alsettos 539-3830

WE DON'T TRICK YOU... WE TREAT HTIW DOY OUR LOW PRICES!

For 2 days only...Sat., Nov. 2 and Sun., Nov. 3, every game and game accessory is 10-50% off. Save a bundle on our whole inventory! Now Open Sundays until 8!

BOOK SHOP

3047 Anderson, Village Plaza M-S 9-9 Sun. 9-8 537-8025

Radio Shaek PLUS COMPUTER DEPARTMENT

BUY A TANDY 1000 GET A COLOR MONITOR AT NO CHARGE

IBM/Registered TM International Business Machines Corp.

Save $299.95 and Get Everything You Need to Start Computing— Including DeskMate™ Disk Software

Only

Reg. Separate Items 1298.95

- DeskMate Has Six Applications on One Disk: Text Processing, Telecommunications, Filing, Mail. Spreadsheet and Calendar/Alarm
- Tandy 1000 is Software Compatible With the IBM PC-Choose from Thousands of Popular Programs
- CM-4 RGBI Color Monitor Features 80 x 25 Text and 320 x 200 Graphics
- Easy to Expand to Meet Your Needs

Radio Shaek

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square Phone 539 6151

Mon Fr. 9 00 6 00 pm Clused Sundays

"A RADIO SHACK DEALER"

Thursday, October 31, 1985

ORIGINAL FULL-LENGTH VERSION

Saturday, November 2, 2 p.m., and Sunday, November 3, 2 & 7 p.m. All Shows in the Little

Today, 3:30 & 7:30 p.m., Little Theatre. $1.75 KSU ID Required, Rated R.

Jeff Bridges. Friday, November 1, & Saturday, November 2, 7 & 9 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75 KSU ID Required, Rated PG

A touching love story of an alien who accepts

You can't see them...but they can see you k-state union upc feature films Voyager 2's friendly invitation to visit earth. Stars is Buckaroo Banzai. THE ADVENTURES OF

Your only hope

Considered by many to be the Rocky Horror Picture show of the 80s. Banzai is plunged into a hair-raising adventure when he drives his high-speed jet car into the 8th dimension.

Friday, Nov. 1 & Saturday, Nov. 2, Midnight, Forum Hall. $1.75 KSU ID

Required, Rated PG

k-state union upc issues & ideas

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Let's Talk About...

Theatre. $1.50 KSU ID Required, Rated G

"Kansas State: Direction 85" with John G. Montgomery, Board of Regents Member. Mr. Montgomery will address the presidential selection and the coliseum issue. Today, Noon, Union Courtyard

(() k-state union

Big Free Dance, Tomorrow, 9:00 p.m. to Midnight in the Catskeller. Live DJ and refreshments available!

upc eclectic entertainment

Experience the famous Plaza Christmas lights and shopping in Kansas City on December 7. Information meeting Tuesday. November 5, 7 p.m. in Union Room 208. Cost is $10.

k-state union

Kansas State

Friday

November 1, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 49

Acker cites quality, bids for coliseum

By TOM SCHULTES Business Editor

In a presentation to Student Senate Thursday night, University President Duane Acker expressed his concerns regarding construction of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

Speaking to approximately 50 student representatives and about 50 other concerned persons. Acker said many of his concerns were similar to those of the student body, alumni, faculty and private donors.

"I am concerned that the structure be the quality that K-State deserves," Acker said, "and that it is reflective of Kansas State Universi-

"I am (also) concerned that it be multi-purpose and that purpose be fulfilled in the structure," he said.

In explanation, Acker said that approximately seven years ago "we debated the term by which this coliseum proposed would be described an athletic facility, an all-purpose facility or a multi-purpose facility."

Acker said it was "quickly agreed upon it would be a multi-purpose facility." with men's and women's basketball taking priority during the five-month season, although the facility could still be available for other functions during those months. Another concern cited by Acker regarded the ability of the coliseum to be bid within the budget.

"The extraordinarily high bid relative to the estimates scared me, I suppose, the same way they scared all of you," he said. The availability of funds for the coliseum was another concern cited

Acker said the Kansas Legislature has authorized $16.145 million to be spent on the project.

million," Acker said. Bonds, to be financed by student fees, would provide about another $7 million.

He said early proposals called for the University's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics to provide approximately $2 million for the project, but "since then we've had three bad seasons in men's basketball and we've had three bad seasons in football," resulting in reduced ticket sales and revenues.

Another reason given by Acker for the lack of possible funding through the athletic department was due to a recent Supreme Court ruling on television contracting for football games, which provides more competition and basically lower compensation to the University.

In designing the coliseum, Acker said, the design must meet specifications, high quality, funding availability and "a high degree of confidence that it can be bid within limits" before he would present a proposal to the Kansas Board of Regents for further consideration.

Acker said senate, serving as the representatives of all involved in the project throughout the years, should be able to ask and have answered all the questions it has

"From the beginning," Acker said, we have involved alumni, donors, faculty, students, members of the athletic department" and several other groups.

"And I would expect this by no means to be the last of discussions on this topic," Acker said.

Acker was also joined by George Miller, vice president for administration and finance; Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect; and Vince Cool, associate director of plannning, We have pledges of about $7.8 who were scheduled to speak later.

University President Duane Acker speaks to Student Senate about his feelings on the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum. Senate met Thursday night in the Union Big Eight room to discuss a bill proposing changes in the coliseum planning process.

Coliseum replanning bill outlines project steps

By MARY ROEHL Collegian Reporter

Student Senate heard first reading of a bill Thursday requesting the Kansas Board of Regents to withdraw student monetary support for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum until proper planning steps are adopted.

The Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum bill includes eight planning steps. Planning steps listed in the bill are a master plan of the entire project; a market study; a financial feasibility study; a site selection study; a traffic study; a building program; a funding study; and a design.

The planning steps build on each other, said Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine. All the variables are interlocking, he said.

The bill also calls for the studies to be financed in the same manner and proportions as the proposed coliseum and to be conducted by independent firms. The bill is sponsored by Tsen and Martin Monto, junior in biology.

Legislation states that when students pledged support for the coliseum, they assumed proper planning steps would be taken.

'We don't want to gamble with students' $7 million," Monto said. The architect requested studies to be done, he said. Planning was done

KSU Alumni Association, KSU Foun-See SENATE, Page 14

by University officials, not by profes-

There are many questions that need to be answered before the coliseum plans are continued, said

Copies of the Proper Planning the Proposed Coliseum bill will I sent to the Kansas Board of Regents,

Deficit surge of 57 percent surprises economic analysts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The nation's trade deficit hit an all-time high of $15.5 billion in September, an increase of 57 percent over August, the government reported Thursday.

The huge increase surprised many analysts who had been expecting a much more moderate rise.

The trade deficit had dipped to $9.9 billion in August, down 5.8 percent from July and the lowest monthly total this year.

The August decline had given some analysts hope that the country had finally seen the worst of its trading problems. They said that the decline of the dollar, which began in March, had finally begun to have an impact on the deficit.

However, other economists disputed this contention, saving it was too soon for the dollar's drop to be a positive influence on the trade performance. They said the dollar would have to drop farther and stay down longer to acheive a turnaround on the deficit.

record $150 billion, far surpassing last year's record of $123.3 billion. The country's disastrous trading perfor-

The deficit for all of 1985 is expected to hit a mance has been blamed on a strong U.S. dollar, which makes imports cheaper for Americans and U.S. goods more expensive and thus harder to sell overseas.

The Reagan administration recently reversed a long-standing position against

See DEFICIT, Page 14

Suit might affect Stephan's plans

By The Associated Press

Politicians in both major parties were cautious Thursday in assessing what damage Attorney General Robert T. Stephan may have sustained because of a new splash of adverse publicity over a sexual harrassment lawsuit which he agreed to settle last spring.

Some were reluctant to make public assessments of the effect of this week's disclosure that friends collected $24,000 to settle the case brought by a former woman employee of the attorney general's office, or of charges and countercharges about who is telling the truth in the matter.

Some of Stephan's possible rivals for the Republican nomination for governor next year felt the attorney general should have revealed more about the settlement than he did

But the attorney general's chief fundraiser said Stephan's supporters are "upbeat," and his campaign for the nomination is going ahead full steam.

George Parsons, former Sedgwick County GOP chairman and Stephan's campaign finance chairman, said the mood at a fundraising dance in Wichita Wednesday night was good, with about 1,300 people attending and more tickets than that sold at $12.50 each. He estimated the affair raised more than $25,000 for Stephan. "I felt like everybody was really upbeat because Bob had made his statement and there were a lot of people who had wanted him to do it." Parsons said sional firms.

"He's been through a lot, but he's one of the finest persons I've ever met and the loyalty is so deep and so strong out there. I am convinced that Bob Stephan will not be denied the election. He will be our next governor.

Parsons said he doesn't think the lawsuit issue will go away. "But that doesn't bother us," he added. "We expected it and we're going ahead."

The two state party chairmen were the most conservative in their comments. "I am not able to evaluate the situation as it exists now," said state GOP Chairman Vern Chesbro. "I just don't know that

See STEPHAN, Page 13

Creature feature

A howling Scot Dye, sophomore in computer science, sneaks up on the ticket booth of the Campus Theater in Ag-

ment of Environmental and Forest Biology at the State University of New York at Syracuse

Burgess is chairman of the Depart-

By BRENDA KITCHEN

Collegian Reporter

Acid rain has been falling since the beginning of the industrial age,

Robert Burgess said during Thursday afternoon's University Convocation Lecture, "Acid Rain: Many Problems/Few Answers.

See related story, Page 10 "Acid rain is not a brand new phenomenon," Burgess said. It was first discovered in 1852 by scientist Robert Angus Smith in Manchester, England.

"He found sulfuric acid in the rain that fell in the city and he did not find sulfuric acid in the rain that fell in the surrounding countryside. That is the first place that you can tie this (acid rain) with industrial pollution," Burgess said.

The media has only started reporting on acid rain within the last 10 years, he said

He said acid rain, along with other everyone regardless of where they live. Major ecological issues "transcend national boundaries" because everyone is a citizen of the world, he

Speaker says acid rain occurrences are not new to industrial societies

The impact of acid precipitation in a certain area depends on the sensitivity of the area to acid rain, Burgess said.

'Kansas is clean," he said, "You don't get much acid rain." He said Kansas doesn't get much acid rain because of the state's long distance from heavy industrial areas and the lack of prevailing wind patterns which would bring these pollutants to Kansas. Kansas is also not as sensitive to acid rain because carbonate rocks in the area tend to neutralize any acid from the rain, he said.

The northeastern United States and eastern Canada are extremely sensitive to acid rain, Burgess said.

'The industrial complex of the Ohio Valley is one of the major sources of the pollutants which lead to acid rain," he said. "Prevailing winds carry the pollutants to the northeastern region of the United States and eastern Canada.

The West Coast is not a heavily inmajor ecological issues, concerns dustrialized region. Its acid rain problems are because of other factors.

"The problems caused by automobile exhaust, coupled with topography and wind patterns produce the (acid rain) problems in and around Los Angeles," Burgess said.

Other parts of the world are as largely impacted by acid rain as North America is, he said. Western Europe, Scandanavia and Japan are among other nations affected by acid rain. He said most of the world's environments are slightly acidic.

The natural carbonic acid, derived from the combination of carbon dioxide and water, is not part of the problem, he said.

The problem comes primarily from sulfer dioxide and nitrogen oxide, Burgess said. These are put into the atmosphere through industry and automobile emissions, in addition to other mediums. Once in the atmosphere, the pollutants combine with water vapor. At some point, they come back down in precipita-

This often gives rain an acidity rating of 1 on the pH scale. The pH

See RAIN, Page 10

Inside

gieville and surprises Kirsten Young, of Manhattan, during Thursday's Halloween celebration.

Steve Phillips, Bob Walkenhorst and Rich Ruth make up one of Manhattan's favorite bands, "Steve Bob and Rich." See Page 7.

Mostly cloudy today, high mid- to upper 40s. Winds northerly 15 to 30 mph and gusty. Mostly cloudy tonight, low around 30. Partly sunny Saturday, high around 50.

Sports

Robert Burgess, chairman of Environmental and Forest Biology at the State University of New York-Syracuse spoke on acid rain Thursday. See Page 10.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Premier rejects missile deployment

THE HAGUE, Netherlands - Premier Ruud Lubbers said Thursday he had rejected an invitation by Moscow to discuss the projected deployment of cruise missiles in the Netherlands

Lubbers said the Soviet invitation was made on condition the Dutch government put off a final decision on deployment. That decision is

Lubbers told Parliament he received a cable signed by Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov, inviting him for talks "anywhere" on cruise deployment if Lubbers' center-right government's postponed a deployment decision. "It would not be right to postpone the decision once more, and so it would not be right to accept the invitation," Lubbers said. Friday's decision, expected to be in favor of deploying the 48 NATO medium-range missiles in 1988, would end nearly six years of waffl-

The Soviet invitation, handed to Lubbers by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Blatov on Wednesday, was seen in the Hague as a last-ditch Soviet attempt to stall a favorable deployment decision by the Dutch

In June 1984, Lubbers' coalition Cabinet said it would accept deployment of the cruise missiles allotted to it by NATO only if the Soviet Union went ahead and deployed more than 378 SS-20 missiles

Last week, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization put the number of deployed SS-20s at 441.

Families protesting for information

GUATEMALA CITY - About 150 relatives of missing people took over the Metropolitan Cathedral on Thursday, locked themselves inside and vowed to stay there until the military government accounts

Nineth de Garcia, founder of the organization, Mutual Support (for relatives of the missing), was in the group. The men, women and children entered the Roman Catholic cathedral in the center of the city, asked the few other people inside to leave, then locked the massive wooden doors.

"We came here and we will stay here until we get an answer from the government. We want to know what happened to our relatives. That is why we are here and we are not coming out," she said, opening a door slightly to talk to a reporter.

The church janitors remained inside, but de Garcia said they were not being held hostage. She said the occupiers had keys to all the cathedral doors, but no food.

Four leftist guerrilla organizations have fought a succession of military governments in Guatemala for three decades.

Thousands of people have been killed in the fighting, or murdered by rebels or right-wing death squads supporting the military. Many others disappeared, and are believed to have been kidnapped by government security agents or killed by death squads.

The U.S. Embassy says 564 civilians were killed in political violence last year and 435 disappeared.

PEOPLE

Gov. Wallace has polyp operation

CHARLES FOR AND

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - Gov. George C. Wallace had a polyp emoved from his colon Thursday, but his physician said it did not appear to be cancerous.

Dr. Hamilton Hutchinson said the polyp was similar to one Wallace had removed two years ago and it would be tested to ensure it is

The 66-year-old governor also had diverticulitis, small, pouch-like swellings in the colon, but Hutchinson said that is not unusual in someone the governor's age.

Wallace's press secretary had said the outcome of the governor's hospital visit could play a large role in whether he seeks a fifth term. Wallace, crippled in an assassination attempt in 1972, underwent back surgery July 24 to relieve intense pain.

'Stones not an influence on Lauper

NEW YORK - Singer Cyndi Lauper says she grew up listening to Judy Garland, Billy Holiday, Ella Fitzgerald and the Beatles, but never approved of the Rolling Stones.

"When I was growin' up, I needed hope. I didn't need to be told I was a piece of trash who should be clamoring around after some man," Lauper said in a Parade magazine interview to be published Sunday. "It was just an image, but I took everything seriously."

Despite her unusual appearance and passion for wrestling, Lauper takes feminism seriously. If she gets married, it won't be a traditional relationship: "I would never give up my name, my identity, my Social Security number, everything that makes me equal which ain't much in this country.

NATIONAL

Duarte defends decision to bargain

WASHINGTON - Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte, asserting that "human beings are more important than anything," Thursday defiantly defended his decision to secure the release of his kidnapped daughter by yielding to her captors' demands.

With his daughter, Ines Guadelupe Duarte Duran, sitting nearby, Duarte described the outcome of the 44-day ordeal as a victory for his government, saying he was confident democracy ultimately will prevail in El Salvador.

Company wants ruling on lawsuits

RICHMOND, Va. - The A.H. Robins Co. has asked U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. of Richmond to transfer all Dalkon Shield lawsuits to his court as part of the company's reorganization under Chapter 11 of federal bankruptcy laws.

In papers filed late Wednesday, Robins lawyers said the company intends to transfer all the cases pending against it in state courts to the federal courts in the districts in which the cases are pending.

Once it does so, the bankruptcy law requires that Merhige transfer the cases to his court or send them to the districts in which the Merhige would be obliged to determine where the claims arose, and the process of making such determinations would be a waste of Merhige's time and the company's resources, Robins said.

Transferring all the cases to Merhige's court would "ease the administration of Robins' Chapter 11 case, prevent inconsistent results in the Dalkon Shield cases and expedite confirmation of a plan for reorganization," the Richmond-based pharmaceutical firm said.

Robins also asked for an expedited hearing on the motion because bankruptcy law requires the company to transfer the cases from state courts to federal courts within 90 days of Robins' Chapter 11 fil-

Robins began marketing the Dalkon Shield in January 1971 and withdrew it in 1974 after selling about 2.9 million of the intrauterine contaceptive devices in this country.

Thousands of lawsuits have been filed aginst the company alleging that the Dalkon Shield caused infertility and infections or other serious injuries

So far the company and its insurer have spent almost $500 million to pay claims and legal expenses in disposing of more than 9,200 Dalkon Shield cases. More than 5,000 cases are pending

A small number of plaintiffs' lawyers have supported the concept of a class action and a method of resolving claims that would not involve the expense of trials of individual claims.

REGIONAL

Gambling raid results in 4 charges

LAWRENCE - Four misdemeanor charges have been filed against a Lawrence man following a weekend raid at what authorities called an illegal gambling establishment.

Burgess W. Rennells Sr., 58, was charged Wednesday with gambling, permitting premises to be used for gambling, possession of a gambling device and operating an open saloon, according to Douglas County Attorney Jim Flory.

Reynolds was ordered to appear in Douglas County District Court on Nov. 19.

The charges stemmed from a raid Oct. 19.

Cashier lands in 'barrel' of trouble

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. - The Kansas City Royals' win put the barrel back in Susan Richardson's court.

Two weeks ago, the 30-year-old cashier behind the fuel desk of the Midway Auto-Truck Plaza made a deal over the phone - and on the air - with David Lawrence, a disc jockey at WDAF Kansas City. She said would roll an orange highway barrel 125 miles down Interstate 70 to Kansas City if the St. Louis Cardinals lost the World Series. Contacted Thursday, Richardson said she was going through with the deal, but she didn't know when.

"I'm not off on weekends," she said, "but I have to do it. I'm getting letters from all over," from a woman in South Carolina, a trucker from Nebraska, a fan from Florida

'We're going to make a party out of it," she said

"Roll Out the Barrel.' We play that song every morning, waiting for Susan," Lawrence said in an interview Wednesday. "Everybody in the country is wondering" when she's going to take to the road. "We'll leave it up to her how she'll interpret rolling a barrel," Lawrence added.

MANNEQUINS

For 2 days only...Sat., Nov. 2 and Sun., Nov 3, every game and game accessory is 10-50% off. Save a bundle on our whole inventory!

NOW OPEN UNTIL 8 ON SUNDAY!

THE BOOK SHOP 9-9 Mon.-Sat. 9-8 Sun. Village Plaza 537-8025

NOT JUST A

Friday—Saturday—Sunday We'll honor any local pizza coupon alsettos

539-3830

FRIDAY & SATURDAY BOYS WITH TOYS More fun than you have a legal right to! SATURDAY PRE-GAME CHILIFEST '85 Free chili before the game doors open at 11:00

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a

CPR SATURDAY PRE-REGISTRATION, sponsored by Phi Upsilon Omicron, will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the table in the Union.

TODAY

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kathryn Ann Jacques at 1 p.m. in Call 140. The dissertation topic will be "The Estimation of Bovine Saliva Production with Soluable Rumen Markers and the Effect of Buffering Compounds in Forage Sorghum Dilage-Based Diets."

NEUMAN CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in the basement of St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Norma Lee Blankinship at 1 p.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic will be "The Impact of Employee Benefits on Teacher Absenteeism."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Anita K. Dorf at 10 a.m. in Bluemont 364. The dissertation topic will be "An Investigation of the Relationship Between Hospital-Based Educators' Teaching Styles and Learning Styles."

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER meets at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Fellowship.

AG ECON CLUB meets for a dance from 9 p.m.

to midnight at the National Guard Armory SUNDAY

30 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. in the fireplace room of University for

DELTA UPSILON LITTLE SISTERS meet at

KAPPA SIGMA STARDUSTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the Kappa Sigma ho

Corrections

Due to an error by an information source, the Collegian has received a response about the story of the dismissal of Cheryl Dedrickson from The Saint Mary Hospital.

Susan Bair, community relations director at The Saint Mary Hospital, said she was incorrect in stating Cheryl Dedrickson, former employee of (the hospital), had left for personal reasons and "on her own accord." Bair said she had been misinformed about the conditions of Dedrickson's departure from the hospital.

Bair said, "Dedrickson was asked to leave her job due to the necessity of cutback in staffing in her department. According to hospital policy, Dedrickson's dismissal was an economic separation, which in an employee's eye is the same as being layed off. Dedrickson was still in her three-month primary evaluation period during which time the employee is on temporary status.'

Also, due to an editor's error, Dedrickson's quote of "the equivalent of 32 (other workers) were layed off due to low occupancy (rates)" should have said the decrease in employees was actually caused by attrition and not actual layoffs of employees.

Due to a reporting error in Thursday's Collegian, the dates of the College of Business Administration honors seminars were incorrect. The first seminar, a presentation on management in education in the year 2,000 given by C. Clyde Jones, professor of management, was Oct. 15. The second seminar presented by Richard P. Coleman, professor of marketing, on "Money, Class, Dreams and Destiny," was delivered Monday. The last two seminars will be presented by Eugene Laughlin, professor of accounting, scheduled for Friday and by Verlyn Richards, professor of finance, scheduled for Nov. 19

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Sunday Night

Pan Fried Chicken and Spaghetti with mashed potatoes, salad bar and veg.

just $3.95

17th Anderson

T.G.I.F. Steins - .50¢ Budweiser

Progressive

BELLY BOMBS including Curly Q's or Tater Tots

$2.00 from 5-6 $2,25 from 6-7

$2.50 from 7-8

WILDCAT SATURDAY SPECIAL

BAR BO PORK LOIN RIBS

One full pound of charcoal broiled BBQ Ribs with choice of potato, salad and Texas toast.

CARRY OUTS WELCOME

Regent talks about coliseum

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

John Montgomery, a member of the Kansas Board of Regents, reminded about 100 students in the Union Courtyard Thursday that the Fred Bramlage Coliseum is a project instigated by the University, not the regents.

"If you all decide you don't want this facility, I'm sure there's nobody on the Board of Regents who's going to shove it down your throat,' Montgomery said.

"This is a University matter in the first instance and only ours to approve or disapprove," he said. "We don't get into that (decision making) any more than we get into hiring and firing coaches or administrators.

Montgomery spoke on and answered questions about campus issues as part of the "Let's Talk About It" speech series sponsored by the Union Programming Council's Issues and Ideas Committee.

Montgomery's audience showed greatest interest in the questions surrounding the plans for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum, with its projected cost of about $1,000 per seat, none of which will be state funded.

"I think you can rest assured if it's not a facility we can all be proud of, we're not going to vote for it," Montgomery said.

Montgomery cited the opinion of doubt."

basketball coaches that a nice facility attracts recruits and said that "typically this institution has supported basketball in a very strong

"There's always horse-trading that has to go on at some point. How much do you want brick and mortar, and how much do you want (athletic) programming"

Montgomery said the coliseum will be used for more than basketball games. He said it won't be "Bramlage's Barn, but a true multipurpose facility." He said he would not vote for a single-purpose facility.

Montgomery said the present facility - Ahearn Field House - is not adequate. To comply with new fire codes, nearly 1,500 seats will have to be removed to make more "People use figures to say what they want them to say. I have trouble believing we could fix it (Ahearn) for $5 million and make it something we could be proud of."

After the speech, Tony Rangel, senior in architecture and vice president of the Castle Crusade, agreed with Montgomery that the coliseum is a matter of pride.

"If this building turns out to be a white elephant, then our pride and reputation could be tarnished," Rangel said. "We have to make sure this building will be first class. Professional studies will give us this information beyond a shadow of a

After listening to Montgomery's speech, Rangel said the regents would approve if Student Senate moves to hold back funds until studies have been undertaken.

Other campus issues Montgomery addressed included the decline in enrollment and the formation of the presidential search committee.

He said lower enrollment will not have any effect on tuition, which is set at 25 percent of the cost of operating the institution. It might, however, affect the quality of programs offered, he said.

He said lower enrollment would "force the University to take a good look at itself and decide what it really wants to be - so it can concentrate on those areas. The days of being all things to all people are

Montgomery said the decrease in enrollment follows a nationwide trend in enrollment in agricultural schools. He said the decrease also could be expected because there are fewer high school seniors than in the

Montgomery said "no slight was intended to anybody" in selecting the members of the presidential selection committee. The University needs an effective administrator and public relations person and the alumni chosen have had more experience hiring this kind of person than students and faculty have, he

Storm accelerating toward Florida

By The Associated Press

GULF SHORES, Ala. - Tropical Storm Juan picked up strength Thursday over the Gulf of Mexico and ran ashore again on a track toward northwestern Florida after haunting the Gulf Coast for five straight days with high tides and heavy rain that caused more than $1 billion in damages and flooded thousands of people out of their

The erratic storm's toll included since Saturday, when Juan center, the weather service said. developed as a tropical depression in the Western Gulf of Mexico. A sailboat missing since Monday with four people aboard was reported safe

The National Weather Service said Juan passed over the mouth of the Mississippi River at daybreak and accelerated toward the northeast at 15-20 mph, then rolled ashore here at about 12:30 p.m. EST.

Before Juan hit the coast its winds strengthened to 70 mph neared hurseven people dead and seven missing ricane force in squalls around its Florida Gov. Bob Graham cut short a trip to Washington and urged coastal residents to be ready to evacuate, as they did during the Labor Day weekend because of Hurricane Elena. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace declared a state of emergency and the Emergency Management Agency opened shelters in coastal cities.

Gale warnings were posted from Port O'Connor, Texas, to Fort

COME IN AND TRY RESTAURANTE!

Instant Retail 524.99 REBATE -125.00 As low as $20 per month' with Instant Credit from GE

VHS TABLE MODEL VIDEO CASSETTE RECORDER w/DOLBY" STEREO Model GE 1VCR 6012 Instant Retail 649.99 REBATE -150.00

As low as $22 per month with instant Credit from

Open Monday thru Saturday 10 am - 9 pm / Sun. Noon - 6 pm 3045 W. Anderson

1220 Grant Ave. Manhattan, Kansas Junction City, Kansas

VHS HI-FI STEREO TABLE MODEL VIDEO

******

INSTANT CREDIT

Ask how you can qualify for $1,000 Instant Credit.

Popingo's Pre-Pop®

for 'em in advance and save

Number of

Pre-Pops®

Movies

50

25

As low as $26 per month*

Prepaid

Pre-Pops®

Total Price

$99.99

$69.99

$39.99

$19.99

Retail 774.99

599.99

Check out your favorite Popingo Movi 99¢ each!

CASSETTE RECORDER

REBATE -175.00

Model GE 1VCR 6013

VHS Hi-Fi Stereo Sound — 15 function wireless infra-red remote control — 107 channe cable ready — 14 preset positions — Four programs —

Your Price After Rebate

Price per Movie

99¢

$1.39

$1.59

$1.99

while supply lasts at participating stores only, subject to applicable sales tax. Rebate is cash deduction at time of purchase. © PVI 198

IN MANHATTAN

WINTER WAREHOUSE SALE 601 SOUTH 5th

THUR., FRI., AND SAT. OCT 31-NOV 1 & 2 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

SHOES ALL $15.00

SALE LOCATION 601 SOUTH 5th SHOES ALL $25.00

ETONIC		ETONIC CONTRACTOR
Lady Vega	$39.95	Quasar
Lady VegaCONVERSE		Quasar64.95 CONVERSE
Spartan	32.95	Pro Star64.95
Geneva	32.95	BROOKS
ADIDAS		Horizon
Malibu	29.95	Transition
BROOKS		Avenger41.95
Renegade	32.95	Enterprise
Lady Renegade	32.95	Aerolite
Super Villanova	36.95	X-Celerator
FOOTJOY		ADIDAS
Lady Volanti	34.95	New York
TIGER		Top Ten Low
Sundance	34.95	Top Ten Hi
SAVEONY		Infinity
Standard	32.95	Lady Heiress44.95
NIKE		FOOTJOY
Tribute	44.95	Lady Leather Tennis39.95
Enterprise	44.95	Men Leather Tennis39.95
Metro	29.95	TIGER
Lady Metro	29.95	Raider Hi
Pinstripe	29.95	Raider Low
Spiridon	43.95	NIKE
Trophi	36.95	Lady Equator
Lady Trophi	36.95	Lady Leather Cortez39.95
Sky Force Cavae	29.95	Lady Pegasus49.95
Court Lites	34.95	Transit39.95
Vandal	39.95
INFANTS A	ND YOUT	H SHOES ALL $10.00

INFANTS	AND	YOUTH	SHOES	ALL S	$10.00
Nike Surge					26.95
Nike Burst					24.95
Nike Scout					24.95
Tiger Cub					26.95
Adidas Magic					24.9
Adidas Melondy					24.9
Etonic Velcro					22.9
Puma Basket					19.98
no remova a n tamen
Russell Sweat Crew.			.10.50		6.50
Russell Sweat Pant.

Russell Sweat Pant		6.50
	to 18.95
	to 12.95
Pocket Shorts		5.00
	w14.95
	39.95
Fashion Seats, Top & Pant.		5.00 ea.
Warm-ups	to 34.95	10.00
	to 49.95
Warmups	to 99.95	30.00
Men Swim Suits	to 19.95	8.00
Lady Swim Suits	to 34.95	15.00
Rugby Pants	to 34.95	15.00
Rugby Shirts	to 49.95	15.00
	to 169.95
	to 14.95
	to 16.95
	to 24.95
The second secon	LITH CLOTHING

YUUTH CLUTHING Russell Sweat Crew......9.50..........6.00 SHIRTS, JERSEYS, SHORTS AND SOCKS

Gym Shorts Plain	4.95	2.00ea	10.00 1/2	az.
Gym Shorts Stripe	6.95	3.00ea	15.00 1/2	dz.
Tube Socks	2.25	1.50ea	15.00	dz.
Shirts19.5	95	.5.00ea	25.00 1/2	dz.
Shirts9.95	5	3.00ea	15.00 1/2	dz.
Shirts7.95	5	2.00ea	10.00 1/2	dz.
Shirts4.9	95	1.00ea	10.00	dz.
	OTHER IT	TEMS	and the same

OTHER ITEMS

Exercise Equipment ½ price
Baseball hats
Visors
Wilson Rubber Basketball24.95
Leather Basketball62.95
Tetherball
Wilson Racketballs
Gym Bags
Shoe Laces
Inversion Rack

Time: 10 a.m.-6 p.m. all three days At the warehouse location: 601 So. 5th

(No refunds)

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 929) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kailegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Apathy harms minorities

"There's an apathy among students," is a tired phrase, but one which takes on a special, somewhat alarming meaning when stated by the student director of minority affairs, Dwayne Smith, junior in journalism and mass communications.

According to the Office of Minority Affairs, 30 percent of minority students were on academic probation last semester and 12 percent were dismissed from the University.

Anyone doubting that prejudice still exists should take a look at the recent Wichita Eagle-Beacon sruvey in which 20 percent of Kansans polled believe interracial marriage should be illegal.

Minority students face cultural and often financial problems, and many forms of subtle prejudice. Those problems act as a catalyst to send the advancing, but gradewise "marginal" student into academic failure.

Support services for minority students exist, Veryl Switzer, vice president for Minority Affairs has said, but students are slow to take advantage of the services. All too often, white students are the slowest at becoming involved in minority services such as Black Student Union, and thus, by their apathy imply a lack of concern for the special problems minority students face.

Awareness of minority issues is the only answer and Switzer is indeed the person to take on the job. As a K-State student, Switzer made his mark in football.

Switzer is from Nicodemus, a small black community in Western Kansas which was founded by a group of Topeka blacks in 1877. With a strong Kansas black heritage and with an historical perspective of the changes in minority status at K-State, Switzer is in the best position to help today's K-State students understand the complexity of minority issues.

For students, Switzer is a good example, but even he agrees K-State needs more minority faculty. The state of Oklahoma has recently addressed its minority faculty imbalance by offering $25,000 to colleges and universities for each full-time minority faculty member hired and up to $4,000 to each minority student in medicine, veterinary medicine, law and dentistry.

Perhaps K-State should follow the lead of its southern neighbors. Until then, however, Switzer and Smith's efforts to increase awareness of minority issues are positive steps toward helping all students enjoy the benefits of K-State.

> Catherine Sayler for the editorial board

Editorial

Friday, November 1, 1985 - 4

Speed limit produces poor driving habits

The average driver probably knows no more about what he is doing than if he were trying to perform brain surgery. I have seen more rubes, boobs and bozos on our national highways than I thought possible. I have been rear ended, sideswiped and dinged, and I am convinced drivers licenses are sold under flashing green lights at K-mart.

Americans don't know how to drive. Last time I wrote of the 55-mph speed limit and suggested in no uncertain terms that it is a major mistake. Highways 'superhighways" to be sure - were designed for operation at speeds in excess of 65 mph. Don't forget the national speed limit used to be a lot higher, and we didn't hear all this crap about "speed kills" then. No, what happened was the pencil pushers at the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration decided 55 was the way to go, and the excuse, albeit a lame one, they used was "55

Unh-unh. No way. No thank you, sir or madam. Speed doesn't kill, hitting things kills, and people who can't drive hit things.

Pat Bedard, the columnist at Car and Driver magazine whom I spoke to Tuesday night, says the average driver's mentality conflicts with basic principles of transportation. He says when you demand less from a driver, you get decreased performance. He blames 55 in no small way for the ineptitude most drivers display, and I think he's right on target.

We drive our cars 'til they won't go anymore, then buy new ones. The automobile is no longer a durable good, economically. It has achieved a status not unlike that of the toaster. No maintenance, and when it dies we just say "Oh, well," and buy another.

There's less romance in owning a car. Oh, sure, we like to think we're studly if we have a so-called muscle car, and some of us still think of our cars as living things, and some enthusiasts even like to work with their ride, creating a sort of symbiotic relationship. The day of the greaser, though, the fellow with the long hair and greasy nails who hung around shop classes and the smoking lounge, is fading fast.

RICH

HARRIS

Collegian

I love my car, despite all its inadequacies and mechanical dropsy. It's a Plymouth Valiant, a '72, and not a GT machine by any stretch of the imagination - but it's mine. I love it, and I get torqued (to make a small automotive bon mot) to the nth power when something happens to it. And I am not alone. But the majority of the public, I fear, takes their car for granted.

And it shows in the way we drive, friends and neighbors. It shows in the way we maintain our rolling iron, and it shows in the way we buy cars. It shows especially when freaks of nature like Ralph Nader become spokesmen for the car buying public.

Nader: his mouth is unsafe at any speed. Ralphie has done more to malign the industry and sidetrack development than any other person in history. He is the antichrist of transportation. His foaming-at-the-mouth cries of woe doomed the Corvair to an early demise, but the NHTSA, an agency he was instrumental in founding, later said, "The handling and stability performance of the 1960 to 1963 Corvair does not result in an abnormal potential for loss of control." Poof, and Nader's Raiders should have become so much roadkill. But the deed was done, and we have paid for it ever since.

Unfortunately, the geeks and goons in our nation's capital are not the only ones at fault. We must go back to the driver - you, miss or mister, sir or madam - who hops blithely into the seat and puts pedal to metal without the benefit of seat belt, safety inspections and even trivial maintenance. When was the last time you checked the oil? the pressure in your tires? your radiator? your brake fluid? lights and turn signals (much less ever used your turn signals)? That's right...been a while, hasn't it.

Most European nations require a lot more of their drivers before they hit the AutoBahn. Why we don't is beyond me. We send the moral equivalent of boys to do men's jobs. Drivers education programs are the topic for next time, but how many of you would agree with this statement: the primary philosophy of my drivers ed class was "Drive Defensively" - which is to say, look out for the other guy, because he can't drive ... either.

I went to Shawnee Mission North High School, and graduated in 1981. I took drivers education at North, and "Drive Defensively" was drilled into my head. It never occurred to me to question it at the time, but now I wonder: why not teach "Drive Well." instead of "Look Out For the Other Morons?"

I "trained" on simulators from Sears-Allstate (so I'm in good hands, I guess) with films that looked suspiciously like 1952 Encyclopaedia Brittanica botany lessons there were ladies with bouffant hairdos and bullet-nosed Cadillacs in these films. I was waiting for a thin man to step out of the shadows and whisper through a stream of cigarette smoke, "You are entering another dimension...a dimension of sight and

NEXT TIME: Why Can't Johnny Drive?

Dual program benefits all to a mutually profitable agreement, K-State and the University of Nebraska are nearing a deal to admit 15 additional Nebraska students per year to the College of Veterinary Medicine at K-State.

The tentative agreement, if formally approved by the Board of Regents at its November meeting, would guarantee a total of 30 seats per year in the College of Veterinary Medicine to Nebraska residents.

Nebraska, which doesn't have a veterinary medicine teaching facility, will pay $10,500 for each of the 30 Nebraska students who will attend vet school at K-State.

It seems that every organization needs or can certainly use extra money. The College of Veterinary Medicine is no exception and will obviously profit from the agreement.

However, the College of Veterinary Medicine will benefit not only from a financial aspect, but in other ways as well.

As part of the agreement, veterinary students will be able to utilize the Department of Veterinary Science of the Univer-

In what seems to be turning in- sity of Nebraska at Lincoln and conduct research and work at the Meat Animal Research Center in Clay Center, Neb. The meat research center contains 25,000 animals that can be used for genetic, reproduction and nutrition experiments.

> Common livestock situations and problems in the two states and a similar tax base make the program all the more logical to implement.

> In perhaps the most important feature, in the College of Veterinary Medicine "the percentage of Kansans admitted won't change dramatically," said John Noordsy, associate dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

> In effect, the college will take in more than $300,000 per year in additional revenue and benefit from better facilities, while admitting virtually the same number of Kansas residents every year.

> The College of Veterinary Medicine deserves credit for striking the cooperative agreement with Nebraska.

> > Tom Perrin for the editorial board

Letters

McCain needs senate support to lower ticket prices

The University experience is more that just academics. One of the cultural events at Kansas State University that is lacking in student support is the McCain Auditorium series. The problem is that most K-State students cannot afford to attend but one or two events a year due to the price of tickets.

I am backing McCain Auditorium Director Rick Diehl in requesting Student Senate to allocate $50,000 of the $700,000 left from coliseum funding to McCain Auditorium. The money would be used as an endowment for the sole purpose of reducing student ticket

There are a number of advantages to this proposal. First, students would be able to attend many McCain events during the season at a price they could afford. Second, an endowment is not spent, only the interest earned from it is used. Third, this would be a onetime gift from Student Senate as the endowment would self-perpetuate itself yearly. Fourth, some of the money could be used to hire student staff to work in the auditorium. Fifth and most important, it would benefit all students and give all students a chance to become more culturally educated without stepping foot off campus.

Some shocking figures from Big Eight institutions show how important a performing arts center like McCain is to a university. At the University of Kansas, the Concert and Chamber Series receives $74,000 from students. The University of Nebraska Performing Arts Series receives $25,000 in student support. Iowa State University receives $70,000 to $80,000 a year from their student government. Oklahoma State University this year received $52,000 from student fees. How much did McCain Auditorium receive from student fees this year? $3,000. In all the aforementioned cases, the students benefit by receiving large discounts on tickets at a price they can afford.

I would hope the senate committee in charge of the $700,000 would take a serious look at the McCain proposal. With the endowment, McCain Auditorium could easily become the leading performing arts center in the Midwest. That would not hurt the image of K-State at all.

> Matt Hinkin senior in journalism and mass communications and 33 others

Rituals of greek system demonstrate sexist attitudes

I think it's time we gave the story about Stanley Ehler, associate professor of agronomy, a rest.

I don't know what he really said or what he really meant, but I do know that the opinions of an individual don't have much affect on my life or the lives of those young women who can't seem to stop howling in protest.

Honestly, I am surprised at the continued ruckus over the Bunkeresque philosophizing of an old farmer. For crying out loud, if his knowledge of agronomy is any good, take it and leave the rest to fall with the chaff. Then look around to see who the real sexist offenders on campus are.

The most visible part of University life, next to collegiate athletics, is the greek system. You can look in the Collegian almost any day and see how greeks feel about the roles men and women should play: "The men of ... wish to welcome the newly tapped sweethearts ....

Give me a break. I can't understand how any self-respecting young woman can subject herself to that sort of demeaning drivel.

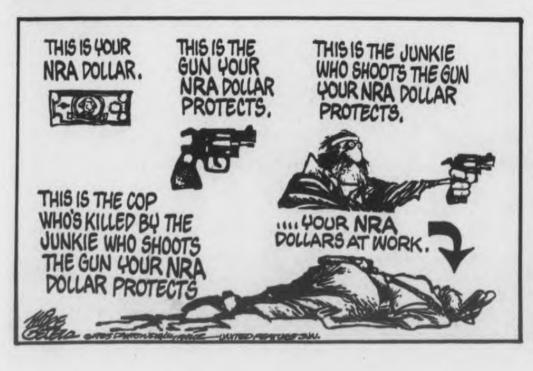

To the fraternities - and because of their acceptance of the situation, the sororities, too - men are men and women are sweethearts, little sisters and moms.

Ehler may or may not be sexist, but at least we don't institutionalize him. He may need glasses, but maybe he's just calling it the way he sees it.

Aaron Schuelle freshman in nuclear engineering

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the his front-engine dragster in the street class division at the Little Apple fourth at the Division 5 Nationals in Scribner, Neb. last summer.

Joe Smith, senior in computer science, spends his summer vacations racing Raceway in Manhattan. Smith has raced his car for three years and finished

Racing speed spurs student's interest

By DONNA COPE Collegian Reporter

For less than the cost of most speeding tickets, Joe Smith, senior in computer science, races legally at The Little Apple Raceway, southwest of Manhattan on Kansas Highway 18.

'If you race somebody on the street and get caught, you pay for it severely." Smith said. "The neat thing about street-class racing is anybody can come out and race.'

The cost of racing at The Little Apple Raceway is broken down in two divisions: super pro racing and street class racing. Super pro racing costs $40 to enter. The cost of street racing is $15. Street racing is open to any drivable vehicle. Super pro is for specialized vehicles, like the front engine dragster. Smith said racers received a discount entry fee if they were members of the National Hot Rod Association.

Smith began his racing career three years ago under the direction of some friends who already were involved in car racing. He said he became involved in racing because of a "natural interest in going fast." At the beginning of his career, he drove a 1964 Comet in the street racing events. Last year, Smith became involved with E.T. (elapsed time)

Bracket racing.

kinds of racing is the type of car you drive and how fast it goes," he said. "The street cars are a lot slower."

Smith drives a front-engine dragster in the E.T. races. The vehicle is called a front-engine dragster because the driver sits directly behind the engine. The wheels are small in the front and very large in the back, yielding a 180-inch wheel base, he said. The vehicle has no radiator or water pump and the engine is bare, causing it to overheat Smith purchased a roll and chassis

- a framework of a car without the engine or transmission. He installed his own Ford engine and built the transmission himself. "I only have about $8,000 or $9,000 invested in my car," Smith said. "You could easily wrap $20,000 or $30,000 into one.

Glynn Tipton, area mechanic and Smith's friend, serves as the mechanic for the car Smith drives in the quarter finals. The most I've competition. Another friend, Glen Schalles, has helped the two adapt the engine to the chassis.

The E.T. drivers compete in time trials to see how fast the vehicle will go. The drivers earn time slips, pieces of paper giving the average driving time during the trials, to determine dial speeds. The dial speed is used to handicap the driver. If a driver goes under the dial time, "The difference between the two the opponent automatically wins.

"The drivers are given a handicap from each race track. as a result of the dial time," Tipton said. "The idea is for the two drivers to cross the finish line at the same time. If one driver has a dial time that is one second faster than the other driver, he is handicapped held back — for one second.

Smith usually drives the straight one-eighth-mile track in 6.9 seconds at a top speed of 105 mph. A quartermile track takes him approximately 10.7 seconds, at a top speed of 130

Smith spends most of his summer vacation racing. The season runs from mid-March to mid-October.

Last year, Smith earned a place in the Division 5 Nationals in Scribner, Neb. He drove in the street car division and finished in the top four.

"I made money that trip," he said. 'The track (The Little Apple Raceway) paid for the gas to get up there, and I won $100 for making it to ever won is $350.

This fall, Smith was entered in the Cedar Falls Division Final for E.T. Nationals in Cedar Falls, Iowa. The event was part of the Firestone Centerline program. The program allows drivers to earn points each time they are one of the top finishers. Twenty-three drivers qualified to go to Iowa from this area. The Centerline program allows for a maximum of 40 drivers to qualify

Smith encountered bad luck with his dragster and was not able to drive it. "My distributor went out, so I had to drive my tow truck," he said. "I never even earned a time trial."

The crew goes through many preliminary checks before Smith drives the car. The timing or basic engine work is checked to make sure the dragster runs properly, Tipton said. All of the tires and bolts are secured and the car is given a basic 'run-over," Smith said.

The dragster takes expensive racing fuel. The cost of the fuel is $4 per gallon or about $195 for a 55 gallon barrel. Smith never fills the dragster's 10 gallon tank because the cost is so high.

Smith wears flame retardant coveralls and flame resistant gloves when he races. The car has a body panel stretching to the engine. There are safety straps that hold him in the driver's seat

Smith said quite a few women are involved in the competition, too.

T've seen five or six of them out there. They all do pretty well," he said. "Sex has nothing to do with it."

Smith feels fortunate he has never had an accident while racing cars. He has had only one engine blow-up and the car was not insured. Dragsters can be insured only for theft and fire.

Acker pacifies concern created by cover letter

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

A letter from President Duane Acker addressing Faculty Senate members and sent earlier in the week said the answers to a controversial survey would not be used in making future University planning decisions.

The instructional activities survey, distributed to faculty and student senate members and selected alumni in early September, asked questions about all of the major programs offered by the University

The survey was originally part of a doctoral dissertation project begun by Jim Isch, graduate student in education administration and foundations.

The controversy began in September because of a cover letter on the questionnaire written by Acker to encourage faculty, students and alumni to complete the survey. The letter did not specify the survey's use for a dissertation project, instead, it implied that survey results would be used to make judgments about future academic programs.

In response to the faculty senate's questions about the validity of survey answers in evaluating various academic programs, Acker sent a letter Monday to Charles Reagan, professor of philosophy and president of faculty senate.

In the letter, Acker said survey answers "will not be used as the basis for evaluating programs or for judgments on the future of programs." Copies of the letter will be given to everyone on campus who was asked to complete a survey.

Isch will use the questionnaires that are not requested to be returned. He said the project was begun with "no intent to deceive anyone or make anyone uncomfortable. One thing that was clear throughout all of our discussions is that there was no one that had any bad intentions," Reagan said.

'Some people who filled it out, filled it out with great misgiving, but the cover letter said the president thought it was important. Then later we found out it was for a student project," said Eugene Friedmann, professor of sociology, anthropology and social work.

Friedmann and Dave Cox, professor of biochemistry, were asked by faculty senate to obtain more information about the proposed use of the survey responses and to suggest how to prevent information from the questionnaires from being used in future planning.

Faculty, students and alumni aren't well enough informed about departments other than their own to be able to rank all the major programs at the University as the questionnaire asked them to do, Friedmann said.

"If you're in mathematics, how do you evaluate foods and nutrition? If you graduated in political science years ago, how do you know the present state of the department?" Friedmann asked.

He said survey data could do 'enormous damage" if it were to be used in planning.

Board to hear briefs concerning tax issue

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The state Board of Tax Appeals Thursday set a schedule for receiving attorneys' briefs before deciding whether to grant a request by the University of Kansas Alumni Association for a rehearing of its appeal from paying property taxes in Douglas Linda A. Terrill, the board's attorney, said a decision is likely in late December on whether the board will reconsider its Sept. 18 ruling denying tax exempt status to the alumni association under a have non-alumni members.

The board Thursday gave the state Board of Regents until Nov. 20 to file a brief in support of the KU Alumni Association's position. It also set Dec. 3 as deadline for the Douglas County counselor to file his brief and Dec. 8 as the date for the alumni association's lawyer to get in his written response

If either side in the dispute requests oral arguments after that, they will be held at 1:30 p.m. Dec.

The executive director of the University of Kansas Alumni Association told the Board of Tax Appeals at Thursday's hearing on the request for a rehearing that officials of other state alumni groups are alarmed over a board ruling making them ineligible for a property tax exemption if they

"It's causing great concern the part of many of my peers,' Fred Williams said. "Basically what they are saying is they also allow friends to be members, either honorary or associate, so they are in the same position as

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

CHILI BURRITO SPECIAL

DON'T FORGET OUR

$1.49 (Reg. $2.15)

THE HEAT

Free T.G.I.F. Set Free ham Sandwiches

Come ham it up only at Brother's.

THE BOSS IS GONE!!

Now Open Sunday 1-5

This Friday, Saturday and Sunday only — Steve and Charles have been given the green light to do whatever is necessary to move all the inventory they can. The Big Cheese is gone and while he is, you can make some of the best deals ever - on Yamaha, Denon, Nakamichi, Boston Acoustics, DCM, B&O, JVC, Sansui and more. Short term layaway will be accepted and $10 will hold any sale item. So plan to come in this Friday, Saturday and Sunday and be prepared to deal.

Days Only

Also: New cutouts have arrived in the record dept.

THE SOUNDSHOP

1204 Moro — Aggieville

Soviets to talk with President

Reagan grants rare interview

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, in a pre-summit gesture to the Soviet Union, will be questioned Thursday by four journalists from Moscow in the first interview granted by an American president to the Soviet press in nearly a quarter of a century.

The session, at 1 p.m. CST in the Oval Office, is "a unique and historic opportunity for the president to communicate directly with the people of the Soviet Union," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes. "We hope it is a sign of a new and more open information policy on the part of the Soviet Union.

No restrictions have been imposed on the Soviets' questions, although they are likely to focus on Reagan's summit Nov. 19-20 with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva and superpower relations, Speakes said. He said the United States has not asked to review in advance what will be published.

'They will report it as they wish to report it," he said. Likewise, he said there was no requirement for the Soviets to publish the full text of the questions and answers.

'We think a sufficient amount of the interview will be conveyed," Speakes said. "We have no reservations about the matter." He said the material probably will be published first on Sunday in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, followed by the release of a complete transcript by the White House.

In other developments related to the summit: - It was announced that Reagan will address a joint session of Congress at 8 p.m. CST on Nov. 21, immediately upon his return from Geneva. On his way back to Washington, Reagan will stop off for two hours in Brussels to report to allied leaders at NATO headquarters on the summit.

comprehensive

*free pregnancy tests *outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling *gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

- Reagan said he was "personally hopeful" and "striving" to present a counteroffer - before the summit to the recent arms proposal from Moscow, which calls for a 50 percent reduction in strategic nuclear weapons. In an interview with Britain's BBC radio, Reagan said the Soviet proposal contains both "seeds to nurture" as well as "some thing that we believe are so disadvantageous to us that they should be negotiated and some changes

- Reagan, asked by the BBC what he hoped to accomplish in the summit, said, "I think that the most that we could get out is if we could eliminate some of the paranoia, if we could reduce the hostility, the suspicion that keeps our two countries particularly ... at odds with each

The last time an American president was interviewed by Soviet journalists was on Nov. 25, 1961, when then-President John F. Kennedy was interviewed in the living room of his home in Hyannisport, Mass., by the editor of Izvestia.

In a letter dated Sept. 27, the United States offered to make Reagan available to the Soviet press. The invitation came four weeks after Gorbachev gave an interview in Moscow to "Time" magazine and received world-wide publicity by predicting the United States would take a hard line at the summit and expect Moscow to make all the con-

On Oct. 12, a Washington correspondent of the Soviet news agency Tass, Alexander Shalney, called the White House and said the offer had been accepted.

The four Soviet journalists, all based in Moscow and described by Speakes as political commentators, flew to Washington on Sunday.

Speakes said the journalists would have about a half hour with Reagan. Their questions will be posed to Reagan in Russian, and translated into English by an interpeter. Reagan's replies will not be translated into Russian on the spot because of the journalists' fluency in English, Speakes said.

The White House will provide the Soviets with a Russian language translation of the interview, Speakes

"We will certainly be able to read their newspaper to see if it is published in its entirety and see if the translation agrees with our translation," Speakes added.

He said the Soviets have not replied yet to a longstanding U.S. proposal for Reagan to appear on Soviet television.

The four journalists who will interview Reagan are Gennady Shishkin of Tass, Stanislav Kondrashov of Izvestia, Genrikh Borovik of the news service Novosti and Vsevolod Ovchinnikov of the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda. Shalney, who covers the White House on a daily basis, also will be present as an "honored and special guest," Speakes said.

Bassette, professor of animal By TONI OGLESBY sciences and industry and quiz Collegian Reporter team coach.

Students prepare for quiz bowl

Four K-State students, who recently clinched first place in the North Central regional quiz bowl competition, will represent the region in the Institute of Food Technologists National Quiz Bowl this summer.

K-State will be one of six teams competing in the IFT quiz bowl June 15-18 in Dallas.

The four students competing are Valerie Proctor, graduate in food science; Oluyemi Ogunrinola, graduate in food science; Nick Hart, senior in engineering technology; and Susan Saunders, senior in food science.

"Each team must have two graduate students and two undergraduate students and they must be members of the student affiliation of IFT," said Dick

To qualify for the national competition, the team competed against and beat three other teams in the North Central regional competition on Sept. 30. The teams were the University of Minnesota, the University of Missouri and the University of Wisconsin - the university that sponsored the competition.

K-State defeated the University of Missouri in the final round of competition.

This is the first time the IFT has sponsored an area college bowl competition. The idea originated at last year's national IFT meeting when some students spontaneously conducted a similar quiz bowl to fill some free time, Bassette said.

"The contest went over so well that the national IFT decided to conduct a regional college quiz bowl where a team from each region would be selected to compete in the national quiz bowl," he

"All universities in the North Central region were invited to send teams, but due to only one month's notice, some of them didn't feel they had enough time to get a team together," Bassette said. Students were selected on the criteria of grades, field interests and if they were able to attend, since the Department of Food Science had only one month before the regional competition.

'These four students were good students and they were able to participate," Bassette said.

The short notice was the primary reason more teams didn't compete, he said.

YOU Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

8 Gallon

Fill-up ONLY AT DERBY STATION

All Faiths KSU KU NU ESU November 1 8:00 p.m.

(1) ld Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

Hundreds of new & used textbooks

Various fields of study

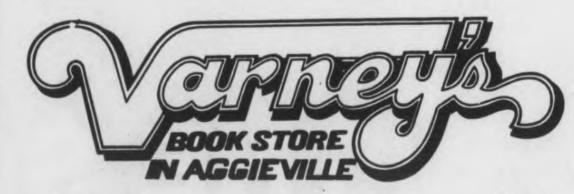

Some previously used at K-State

Some from other universities

Old editions

Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN.

SPORTSWEAR UNLIMITED LIQUIDATION SALE

K.S.U. McCain Auditorium TICKETS: $2.50 Advance, $3.00 at door Advance Tickets Available in the Office of Greek Affairs, Holton Hall 203

ALL CLOTHING FIRST QUALITY MOST ITEMS 50% TO 70% OFF REGULAR RETAIL ONE DAY ONLY!

LADIES FASHION

JOGGING SUITS By Wilson and Winning Ways. Over a dozen different styles to choose from. Stripes, solids, hoods,

crewnecks, elastic leg bottoms,

flared leg bottoms, zippers, pullover

Now $17.99

LADIES

FASHION

SWEATERS

Padded shoulders and v-necks, Many

NOW $14.99

colors. Reg. $42

tops. Values to $45.

COTTON

BOYS NYLON LIERRA WARM-UP SUITS By Wilson. Large sizes will also fit Ladies Reg. $45

Now $9.99

KIDS WARM-UP SUITS By Winning Ways Reg. $24

Now $7.99

MENS POLO STYLE SHIRTS Many colors, all first quality.

Over 200 to choose from.

Fashion Knit Shirts Stripes and solids, all first quality. Reg. $24

Now $9.99

1 DAY ONLY MONDAY, NOV. 4 10 a.m.-7 p.m.

MENS LONG

SLEEVE

DRESS

SHIRTS

Stripes, solids,

button down & bonded collars

by Stanley

Blacker.

Reg. $30.00

NOW $12.99

MENS SWEATERS

By Roert Bruce. Many colors to choose from.

Reg. $30

LARAMIE PLAZA 12th & Laramle Laramie Plaza

NOW $12.99 Now $12.99 MENS FLEECE By Wilson, MacGregor and Winning Ways. Many styles and colors. Hoods and crewnecks. Values to Now $7.99 to $9.99 KIDS SWEATSHIRTS By Wilson Reg. $20 NOW $5.99

Musicians run on inspiration

Steve Phillips, Bob Walkenhorst and Rich Ruth, take time out in a local stereo shop where they recently completed a live remote radio broadcast. Band members were then available for questions and album autographing.

During a four-hour show at a local club, lead guitarist Steve Phillips and bass player Rich Ruth harmonize to an original song "Information."

The magic of music ignited during the high school days of three young men rekindled itself three years ago when a personal style of rock 'n' roll was born - Steve, Bob & Rich.

Previous to their current residencies in Kansas City, Mo., each member matured musically in different parts of the state, dipping into blues, pop and country and western.

Lead guitarist and youngest band member Steve Phillips, 25, was born in Warrensburg, Mo., where his family resided for only a short time after he was born. He attended city schools and recalls jam sessions where the girls danced and the guys sneaked cigarettes as big events. And before the evening ended, they would put back the china that had been shaken off the shelf.

Twenty-nine-year-old bass player Rich Ruth, son of a preacher, moved from California, Mo., to Kansas City at the age of 4. Watching his older brothers play guitar sparked him to pick one up and mess around with it. Rich played with Fields, a blues style band and one of the select bands on radio station KYYS-FM's homegrown tapes, before his current affiliation. and Drummer singer/songwriter Bob Walkenhorst, 32, experienced the small-town life where religion was as strong as the family background. Born in Norborne, Mo., to a carpenter and his wife, Bob remembers in high school, while everybody else was playing football, he and five or six others were playing instruments. He attended Northwest Missouri State University where he met Steve and

The band focuses on entertaining and energizing its audiences, while

"Let's play something we can ge- a part of somebody's life."

nuinely feel strong about, something we can put some muscle into," Bob said. "How can you have any enthusiasm or passion for music you don't like?" Steve, Bob & Rich share this "infectious attitude" with fans spanning a 300-mile radius of Kansas City.

"Most people associate our band with a party and a good time," Steve said. That has a "positive aura about it, but our songs are also messageoriented."

Laden with messages dealing with life's experiences, relationships and everyday occurrences, the band's songs swell with emotion and sparkle with comedy. This package of feelings and laughter coupled with their pumped-up personalities escorts the audience through a four-hour show.

"The best humor is humor that makes you laugh, but makes you think and wince a little bit," Bob said. His song ideas develop from things that run across his mind. "I'll stop and say, 'I bet a lot of people have felt that way,' but most people don't have that reflex, that capitalistic or artistic reflex to say, 'Well how can I boil that down to 100 words or less?' I try to take that spark," Bob said.

"It's a business where you run on inspiration, faith, you concentrate on the moment and give it everything,"

The business calls for a "strange" lifestyle, one where "you're looking for danger" and one where "you want to be your own boss," Steve

"One of the few things I regret is not being able to fool around on holidays, like New Year's," Rich

"Making money is great," Bob enjoying every touring tune said, but what is greater is "to know that something you created became

Bob Walkenhorst, singer/songwriter, sings about his carpenter father.

Story by Linda Schmidt Photographs by Jeff Weatherly

Roth opts for 'cattle call' audition

LOS ANGELES - Rather than depend on casting agents for his upcoming film, rock star and movie producer David Lee Roth opted for an old-fashioned Hollywood audition known as a cattle call - gawking at 1,300 women who hoped to land a part.

Roth, former lead singer for the band Van Halen, watched as the women paraded onto a stage in groups of five.

Ana Maria Hollenbaugh, 20, hopped up and down with joy when "He said 'I want her ... she's got good legs," she said.

Casting director Shari Rhodes said open casting calls are uncommon in Hollywood.

"Very few directors and producers are willing to spend this kind of time," she said.

But Roth thought an open call might turn up new faces for his film, "Crazy from the Heat," described as a "freewheeling rock comedy" set for production in early 1986.

Actor Cosby enjoys TV over film

NEW YORK - Bill Cosby, star of the top-rated NBC comedy "The Cosby Show," says the film industry is often racist and he's much happier working on television or on stage.

"Black people certainly are primitive, aren't they? If you want proof, just send in a white filmmaker," Cosby said in an interview published in the December issue of Playboy magazine.

Cosby, 48, who has starred in such films as "Uptown Saturday Night," said "Year of the Dragon" and "The Gods Must Be Crazy' were examples of racist films. In the first, a white man decimates New York's Chinatown, Cosby said, and the second "shows that if you just drop a Coke bottle out of an airplane, you can pretty much shake up an entire African culture.

Cosby said, "I never cared about being a movie star. ... In reality, the TV series is exactly what I enjoy doing.'

Food shortage needs group efforts

AUSTIN, Texas - Actress Cicely Tyson, chairwoman of UNICEF's trick-or-treat campaign, said that feeding Africa's starving millions is a monumental problem that "no one entity can solve."

"It needs the help of all of the organizations," she said, adding she is concerned about a "feeling of competition" among charities. The actress described a recent trip to Chad and the Ivory Coast in her talk Monday at the University of Texas. "I thought I was prepared when I went there. But I was totally devastated by what I saw.

The UNICEF trick-or-treat program has raised $80 million in its 35

Royal opera continues negotiations

LONDON - Britain's Royal Opera is continuing its discussions with Placido Domingo to save a new production of Verdi's "Othello" starring the tenor superstar this season.

Sir Claus Moser, chairman of the Royal Opera House said Monday he expected to make an announcement shortly on the future of the production, one of the highlights of the 1985-86 season.

After the earthquake in Mexico City last month, Domingo threw international opera houses into a panic when he announced he was suspending his singing commitments to raise money for quake vic-

Ford to write about drugs, alcohol

LOS ANGELES - Former first lady Betty Ford, who has already written one autobiography, plans a second book about whipping her alcohol and drug dependency, her literary agent says

Profits from the as yet untitled book will go to the Betty Ford Center and other addiction treatment centers designated by Mrs. Ford, said Norman Brokaw, who with Owen Laster represented her for the William Morris Agency.

Mrs. Ford's 1978 book is "Times of My Life."

Elvira costume sales top $1 million

LOS ANGELES - Elvira, the campy-creepy hostess of the syndicated "Movie Macabre" television show, says her Flashy Lashes and Daring Dazzle Hairspray sell briskly this time of year.

Peterson launched her own costume company, which has resulted in more than $1 million in wholesale orders for imitations of Elvira's trademark black bouffant wig and clingy low-cut gown.

Reduce your taxes. Support the American Heart Association.

CORRECTION One of the Pyramid Pizza coupons that ran in yesterday's Collegian was incorrect. The correct price is $5.95 for any medium 2 topping pizza.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

The demolition crew will be coming through soon so this will be Mel's last

Wildcat/Cornhusker Celebration

Join us for pitcher specials all weekend "Home of the Fishbowl"

111 S. 3rd

539-9949

Producer applies 'absurdism' in movie

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

"After Hours" is unlike any other Martin Scorsese movie. This time his usual penchant for realism, brutal realism, is discarded in favor of absurdism. The only reminder of past Scorsese films is the acute paranoia that permeates the first half of this movie. Paranoia has always played

Film Review

a major role in his films, whether it was in the confused mind of Travis Bickle in "Taxi Driver" or behind the childlike mask of Rupert Pupkin in "The King of Comedy," but in "After Hours" that paranoia reaches new heights as Scorsese tells the tale of a computer programmer stranded in SoHo, New York, late one night. The movie is similar in some respects to Neil Simon's "The Out-of-Towners," but where that movie became a bit monotonous in tone, 'After Hours' remains fresh.

New York setting provides 'quirkiness'

Scorsese does this by imbuing all the action with a strange sort of energy, filling every action, movement or gesture with panic and despair. And as a result, everything in this SoHo seems charged with static electricity. It's a world that is vaguely familiar, but at the same time it's always on the brink of breaking completely loose from its moorings.

Paul Hackett (Griffin Dunne) is a computer programmer in New York who leads an exceedingly uneventful life, that is until he meets a slender. neurotic young woman, Marcy (Rosanna Arquette). He phones her later on and she quickly invites him to her loft apartment in SoHo. It's already near midnight and he has to go to work the next morning, but he has an itch that needs scratched. And Marcy seems like the one to do the scratching, so he grabs a taxi. And then while checking his wallet, wind sweeps through an opened window and sends his money, a twenty-dollar bill, floating to the asphalt pavement. He tries to get the cabbie to stop, but since when do cabbies in New York listen to their fares? This is just the beginning for Paul.

When he gets to Marcy's apartment, he finds she's not even there, just her roommate - an artist working on a paper-mache figure of a cowering man. This second woman is seemingly available but she's also bored. Her eyes are vacant as she walks around the apartment in just a black bra and skirt. Marcy does eventually return, and so Marcy and Paul retire to her bedroom. Then Paul's ready for something to happen. Every nerve in his body is at attention. But after several frustrating minutes he finds Marcy to be just plain weird. The cute quirkiness that originally attracted him to her becomes unbearable. So he runs out into the night, only now there's a thunderstorm. With not enough money for a subway ride, he's stranded in SoHo.

He keeps running into weird characters wherever he goes. All he wants is to make a phone call so he can get back home, but even when he simply asks to use someone's phone, he gets mistaken for a burglar (the real burglars are played by Cheech and Chong) and soon the neighborhood's vigilante group is on his track, plastering drawings of his face on telephone poles as they scour the streets with search lights.

The night is like one long nightmare for Paul. And for the theater audience it's a bizarre dream where odd connections link up and send the film skittering in every which direction. But the movie never quite breaks free and becomes as hilarious as it always promises to become. Many of the scenes are funny but they all seem to be building to the big payoff and that payoff never really arrives. Instead, the paranoia of being displaced in New York gives way to the fantastic and the bizarre. It's the early scenes that work best, especially when Rosanna Arquette is still around. These scenes are filled with a hypnotic passion, a passion that pushes Paul forward, even when he knows he's completely out of his own territory.

Film relies on old plot tactic

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

"Agnes of God" is a bit of an anachronism. It's the kind of hairpulling, wall-slamming angst that was pawned off as drama many a year ago. And it's all served up with so much attention to its own impor-

Film Review

tance that the movie flounders under its own weight. Director Norman Jewison wants this to be important material so he treats it like a religious artifact. That makes everything in the movie just too precious for its own good.

After an infant is born to a nun at a convent, and then quickly strangled, a psychiatrist (Jane Fonda) is sent to discover the real story behind the events. Using a psychiatrist to dig into the past is an ancient plot device. This makes all the movie's revelations come off like the utterings of a god on high.

Fonda puffs away on her cigarettes, almost as if this were a commercial for the tobacco companies, pushing to get her answers as if the fate of the world rests on her questions. Meg Tilly plays the young nun who gave birth. She gives the best performance in the film, giving off a genuine innocence as she explains she never saw the baby and so she doesn't believe in it. Whenever the camera is on her the film comes alive, but even she can't overcome the contrivances of a hypnotism scene. At this point the movie practically deteriorates into self-parody.

The drama provides a Mother Superior with whom Fonda must struggle against. The Mother Superior (Anne Bancroft) is afraid, and rightfully so, that Fonda wants to strip the young, naive Tilly of her religion. Bancroft and Fonda get to yell at one another, insisting their way is the right way, to the point that there's just too much anguish for one movie to bear

Part of the problem is the casting. Jane Fonda is of course a talented actress but cast as the psychiatrist she attracts far too much attention. The filmmakers have attempted to build the movie around her, but this isn't a story about how the psychiatrist was affected.

It's a story about an event and any attempt to shift the story to Fonda is artificial. If director Norman Jewison had recognized this material as pure melodrama the movie might have worked, but as is, with Sven Nykvist's gloriously respectful cinematography, the movie is defeated by its own sense of self-importance.

McCain

Comedian

Robert Klein

Friday, November 1, 8:00 p.m.

"A funny evening of singing, clowning, and improvising."

Order tickets early! Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

ART EXHIBITS

Ceramics by Jeaneane Johnson - Union Second Floor Showcase; today during building hours Botanical Prints — Union Art Gallery; daily from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Watercolors by Rick Forsyth and James Jones -Strecker Art Gallery; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through

SPECIAL EVENTS

Comedian Robert Klein - McCain Auditorium; 8 p.m. tonight

MUSIC

"Boys with Toys" - Mannequins Ltd.; Friday and

"The Heat" - Brothers; Friday and Saturday Men's Glee Clubs from University of Nebraska, Emporia University, University of Kansas and K-State —

SOUTHERN

SUN.

has gone

HOG WILD

Buy all you $200

Buy all you want 10-28 to 11-1

use by Dec. 31

want for

All Faiths Chapel; 8 p.m. today

FILMS

"Agnes of God" - Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday matinee 3 p.m. "To Live and Die in L.A." - Campus; 4:45, 7 and 9:15 p.m. Saturday and Sunday matinee 2:30 p.m. "Death Wish III" — Varsity; 5, 7 and 9 p.m.

"Godzilla 1985" — Westloop; 5 and 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday matinee 3 p.m.

"After Hours" - Westloop; 9 p.m. "Marie" - Westloop; 4:50, 7:10 and 9:20 p.m. Saturday and Sunday matinee 2:45 p.m.

'Starman" - Union Forum Hall; 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday "Giant" - Little Theatre; 2 p.m. Saturday and 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday "The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai" - Union Forum Hall; midnight Friday and Saturday

John Paul Roche

Haircut & Style only $9 Regular $11.50

ROCHE'S HAIRSTYLING 539-7751

with coupon only-through Nov. 30, 1985

11271/2 MORO MANHATTAN, KS

-JUNIORS-SENIORS-

EARN OVER $1,000 A MONTH NOW

WHILE YOU'RE IN SCHOOL!

Engineers and technical students with a 3.30 G.P.A. and higher: See Lt. Sam Fishel about the rewarding experiences the Navy's Nuclear Propulsion Program can offer you.

TIME: 9:00-4:30

DATE: 6, 7, November 1985

PLACE: Holtz Hall

11 A.M.-NOON

BOSE

301 II

Reg. Price $200.00 Ea.

All 29 Hrs. $169.00

1 HOUR ONLY $160.00 Ea.

3 P.M.-4 P.M.

BG.

JVC

KD-V120

Dolby Cassette with

Flourescent Meters

Reg. Price $169 00

All 29 Hrs. $139.00

1 HOUR ONLY $99.00

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa White-supremacist parties on South Africa's far right said Thursday their broad gains in five midterm elections proved there is a surge in white opposition to sharing power with blacks.

The governing National Party of President P.W. Botha, campaigning on a platform of gradual race reform, won four of the five Parliament seats at stake in Wednesday's voting but lost ground everywhere to the far right.

Two ultraconservative parties slashed the Nationalists' past majority in four districts and took a seat away from Botha's party in the Orange Free State for the first time since 1953.

The National Party, in power since 1948, has a huge margin in Parliament, and parliamentary control was not an issue.

Leaders of the far-right Conservative Party and the Reformed National Party said voters showed anger over government failure to quell 14 months of bloody rioting over apartheid as well as dissatifaction with the economy and the government's approach to race reforms.

Pro-government and liberal newspapers noted that the five districts were largely blue-collar and rural and said the far-right had never been in a more favorable position than in Wednesday's vote.

The far-right's victorious candidate. Louis Stofberg of the Reformed National Party, had made an issue of a couple in his town of Sosolburg who married this year after the National Party repealed laws barring interracial sex and marriage.

Stofberg's pamphlets said the white man and his mixed-race wife 'could live in your street and their children could go to your schools."

Botha said he was satisfied with the outcome of the elections, "considering the difficult economic consequences of the recession, the drought (and) the present unrest situation in certain parts of the coun-

"We will have to continue to work and build toward a peaceful South Africa for all population groups in a responsible manner," he said, suggesting he would not be deterred by the far right's gains.

Andries Treurnicht was jubilant over the gains of his Conservatives and the allied Reformed National Party, which won a seat in Parliament for the first time since its formation in 1969 While the National Party actually increased its votes slightly from 26,274 four years ago to 27,062, the two far-right parties jumped from 6,899 in 1981 general elections to 22,547 on Wednesday. Nearly 15,000 additional voters went to the polls in a heavy turnout, and nearly all the new votes went to the ultraconservatives. "I think the main reason is (Botha's) swing away from white self-determination to power-sharing and mixed government," Treurnicht said in a telephone interview from his home in Pretoria.

Treurnicht, whose Conservative Party split from the National Party in 1982, said a major issue was voter concern over government handling of rioting: "I think it didn't act in time, and in certain cases not strongly enough. That created uncertainty, it created instability. It added to the fear that South Africa might have black-majority rule in the near future.

By official count, more than 800 people, almost all of them black. have died in 14 months of violence arising from apartheid, the system of forced racial separation by which 5 million whites rule over 24 million blacks.

Two-thirds were killed by police, and the remaining third by blacks killing blacks.

Group says bargaining vital

Kidnappers looking for trade

By The Associated Press

BAALBEK, Lebanon - The leader of a radical Shiite Moslem group says there's no hope of five Americans and four Frenchmen kidnapped in Lebanon being released until Kuwait frees 17 extremists convicted of bombings.

"I wish the demands of the kidnappers could be met and all the Americans freed," said Hussein Musawi, leader of the pro-Iranian Islamic Amal, a splinter group of the main Amal movement.

But he said that Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, the group of Shiite fundamentalists believed to hold the U.S. and French hostages, "will not release them until the 17 people held prisoner in Kuwait are freed.

Release of the 17, most of them Shiites, has been Islamic Jihad's main demand since it began kidnapping Westerners in January 1984.

Kuwait refuses to release the men, jailed for bombing the U.S. and French embassies in December 1983 Islamic Jihad claimed on Oct.4 that it had killed a sixth American hostage, U.S. diplomat William Buckley, in revenge for Israel's air strike against Palestinian guerrillas in Tunis. But Buckley's body has not been found, and American officials have said they cannot confirm the Musawi said in an interview Wednesday that he was not involved in the kidnappings or in Islamic Jihad. But his group shares some of the strident anti-American philosophy of the shadowy extremists and has similar links with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary Iran.

The five missing Americans are a journalist, an academic, a librarian, Roman Catholic priest and a hospital administrator.

Musawi, who earlier described the 17 prisoners as "good guys, believers," defended the bombings in Kuwait, saying: "The government of Kuwait is an agent of the American government, just like Israel."

The American hostages are: - Peter Kilburn, 60, of San Francisco, Calif., librarian at the American University of Beirut, missing since Dec. 3, 1984.

The Rev. Lawrence Jenco, 50, a Roman Catholic priest of Joliet, Ill., kidnapped last Jan. 8.

Terry Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, a native of Lorain, Ohio, kidnapped in west Beirut on March 16.

David Jacobsen, 54, of Huntington Beach, Calif., director of the American University Hospital in Beirut, abducted May 28.

- Thomas Sutherland, 54, of Fort Collins, Colo., Scottish-born dean of agriculture at the American University, on leave from Colorado State University.

Includes Shipping, Handling and wire! Lay Away for Christmas Next to Lee's

Hwy. 24 East 539-9466

Western Wear

Driving Drunk is not the safe way to go. Let us call a taxi for you.

537-2080

Dial it yourself, ask a friend or ask the bartender. We really do care about you, so please-let us get you home safely.

Within City Limits of Manhattan

STEREO FACTORY'S BIGGEST EVER

It's easy to have a Great Stereo or Video System when you let the pro's from Stereo Factory show you how Starting at 9 A.M. on Friday, STEREO FACTORY in AGGIEVILLE will begin a gigantic 30-hour sale with tremendous savings on receivers, turntables and speakers. Plus really small prices on our most popular car stereo and speakers. Each hour we'll reduce the price on one Item even more! We're going to stay open until 9 P.M. Friday then we'll close so we can clean up the store, restock our shelves and reprice our products. We may even take a short nap. Then we're going to throw open our doors at 9 A.M. Saturday for even more great deals and hourly specials until 4 P.M. Sunday we'll be open from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. for the last 6 hours of our 30-hour sale. FOLLOW THE SOUND TO STEREO FACTORY IN AGGIEVILLE, BIG 30-HOUR SALE

FRIDAY HOURLY SPECIALS

9 A.M.-10 A.M.

SONY WM-F18 AM-FM Cassette Player with Dolby Equalizer and Head Phones Reg. Price $119.00 All 29 Hrs. $99.00

1 P.M.-2 P.M.

AMERICAN

ACOUSTIC

Auto Reverse, Music Search, 10 Station Presets, SCC Head

HOUR ONLY $88.00

2 P.M.-3 P.M. LUXMAN R-404

10 A.M.-11 A.M.

ALPINE 7135

Reg. Price $350.00

All 29 Hours $319.00

1 HOUR ONLY $289.00

High Quality Stereo Receiver

Reg. Price $300 00

All 29 Hrs. $279 00

1 HOUR ONLY $239.00

D-5500 Loudspeakers 12" 4-Way with 10 yr. Warranty Reg. Price $350.00 Ea

1 HOUR ONLY $209.00 Ea. 5 P.M.-6 P.M.

WILD CARD

Your choice of any previous hourly specials at its special ONE HOUR ONLY price . . . provided we still have it in stock.

9 A.M.-10 A.M.

ALPINE

6205-02 6x9's

Polymer Cone 2-Way

Reg Price $119.00 Aft 29 Hrs $99.00

1 HOUR ONLY $88.00

1 P.M.-2 P.M.

JVC AG-X3B

6 P.M.-7 P.M. CLARION

8200R AM/FM Cassette

Digital with Clock Reg. Price $219.00 All 29 Hrs. $189 00

7 P.M.-8 P.M.

SATURDAY HOURLY SPECIALS

1 HOUR ONLY $139.00

10 A.M.-11 A.M.

SONY STR-AV460

Audio-Video Stereo Receiver

All 29 Hrs. $269.00

1 HOUR ONLY $239.00

2 P.M.-3 P.M.

High Quality Loudspeakers

with Polypropelene Drivers

Reg. Price $300 00 Ea.

All 29 Hrs. $269.00 Ea.

1 HOUR ONLY $229.00 Ea.

Reg. Price $300.00

£30 .#

KOSS HV XLC

Headphones Reg. Price 79.00 All 29 Hours 69.00 1 HOUR ONLY 59.00

NOON-1 P.M.

Clarion

11111

100 EQB5

50 Watt Equalizer,

Amplifier, Fader

and Defeat Switch

Reg. Price $129.00

All 29 Hours $99.00

1 HOUR ONLY $72.00

4 P.M.-5 P.M.

SK-544 Loudspeakers

120-Watt 12" 4-Way

Reg. Price $190.00 Ea.

All 29 Hrs. $150.00 Ea

1 HOUR ONLY $109.00 Ea.

8 P.M.-9 P.M.

ORTOFON

High Performance Electronic Static Gun Reg. Price $23.95 1 HOUR ONLY $14.95

NOON-1 P.M.

11 A.M.-NOON NEC VC-N70

ALPINE 8100

4 P.M.-5 P.M.

TECHNICS SB-X300

Reg. Price $150 00 Ea.

All 29 Hrs $129 00 Fa

1 HOUR ONLY $94.00 Ea.

8 P.M .- 9 P.M.

KOSS KC-24

High Quality Mobile Security System Reg. Price $249.00 All 29 Hrs $199.00 1 HOUR ONLY $149.00

3 P.M.-4 P.M.

High-End Beta Hi-Fi

with Wireless Remote

Reg. Price $995.00

All 29 Hrs. $750.00

1 HOUR ONLY $599.00

Limited Supply

JVC C-1455

Television with Sleep Timer

Reg. Price $399.00

All 29 Hrs. $349.00

1 HOUR ONLY $299.00

INFINITY RS-6B

160-Watt Integrated Reg. Price $350.00 All 29 Hrs. $299.00 1 HOUR ONLY $199.00

5 P.M.-6 P.M.

SONY CDP-70

Sony's Newest Programmable Compact Disc Player Reg. Price $350.00 All 29 Hrs. $319.00

HOUR ONLY $259.00

6 P.M.-7 P.M. ORTOFON OMP 10 Phono Cartridge

Reg. Price 95 00 All 29 Hours 65 00

1 HOUR ONLY $49.00

7 P.M.-8 P.M.

4" Duo-Cone Car

Speakers, Water Proof 30 Watt Capacity. Reg. Price $59.00 All 29 Hours $49.00 1 HOUR ONLY $34.88

Ideal for Walkmen Reg. Price $29.00 All 29 Hour $19.00

1 HOUR ONLY $14.95

1 P.M.-2 P.M.

JVC T-GX2B

Slim-line Digital Tuner

with 16 Pre-sets

SUNDAY HOURLY SPECIALS NOON-1 P.M.

11 A.M.-NOON

VHS VIDEO TAPE 1 HOUR ONLY $4.99 While Supply Lasts

2 P.M.-3 P.M.

ALPINE 7164

High Performance AM/FM Cassette

Indash, Digital, Dolby, Auto Reverse, More.

Reg. Price $350.00 All 29 Hrs. $329.00

1 HOUR ONLY $299.00

NEC N901 BU

VHS Video Recorder, Wireless Remote, 21-day Timer Reg Price $500.00 All 29 Hrs. $449.00 1 HOUR ONLY $379.00

3 P.M.-4 P.M.

JVC KSA-16K

16-Watt Car Audio Amplifier

Reg. Price $49.00

All 29 Hrs. $39.00 1 HOUR ONLY $14.95

Reg. Price $160.00 All 29 Hrs. $139.00 1 HOUR ONLY $99.00

4 P.M.-5 P.M.

WILD

CARD

Your choice of any previous hourly specials at its special ONE HOUR ONLY price . . . provided we still have it in stock.

776-5507

Approved Financing Available

taff/Brad Fansh

Robert Burgess, chairman of the Department of Environmental and Forest Biology at the State University of New York-Syracuse, responds to a question on acid rain during a speech Thursday in McCain Auditorium.

Witnesses tell about killings

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. — Three days after Recife Cosmen celebrated his second birthday, an aunt took him to Springfield Mall to be outfitted for a church's weekend benefit fashion show

Recife was not originally included to be in Saturday's show at the United Methodist Church in Trainer, according to the Rev. Jesse H. Walker of Chester United Methodist Church. But room had been made for him at the last moment, and Wednesday's fitting session was arranged.

About 3:30 that afternoon, a 25-year-old woman wearing combat fatigues went to the mall and repeatedly fired a semiautomatic rifle. She killed two people, including Recife Cosmen, authorities said. Seven others were wounded.

Sylvia Seegrist, who said she lived in nearby Crum Lynne, was charged with two counts of murder, eight of attempted murder, aggravated assault and weapons violations. She was being held at the Delaware County prison.

Seegrist's mother. Ruth, said her daughter had been in and out of psychiatric hospitals 12 times in the last 10 years and once had tried to strangle her. Her pastor said she had stabbed someone at a halfway house four years ago.

At her arraignment Wednesday, she told Justice Joseph L. DiPietro: "Like, hurry up, man; you know I'm guilty, shoot and kill me on the spot." Relatives and friends said she was very interested in weapons and war. Shortly before the shooting, Gina Wootson, 29, her daughter, Tiffany, and four of the girl's cousins, including Recife, who lived in Minquadale, Del., got out of their car in the mall parking lot and headed for the main entrance, according to Wootson's brother, Mario Wootson, Inside, shoppers strolled through the skylit courtyard-like corridors, taking advantage of the 20 percent to 50 percent off sale on crystal at John Wanamakers and eyeing mountains of Halloween candy on display in the stores.

As Wootson and her charges headed for the entranceway, a woman identified by police as Sylvia Seegrist got out of her car and started firing a 22-caliber semiautomatic rifle, missing two people

"She aimed the gun and started shooting the kids," said Mario Woot-

Acid rain may be Kansans' worry

By The Collegian Staff

Acidic deposition, the phenomenon of modern industrial age, is not as new as often thought, said Robert Burgess, New York conservationist during a pre-convocation news conference in the Union conference room

In general, acid rain comes back to earth as rainfall and snow is much more acidified than before, Burgess said.

Kansas hasn't the concern that, for example, western United States has because the Midwest is located long distances from heavily industralized areas, it is outside the main pathways of the prevailing winds and the rainfall is low, Burgess said.

"Kansans have little reason to be concerned personally," he said.

"Eventually we will pay," he said, through the products made and electric bills. That will impact the state of Kansas as much as other states, Burgess said.

Because of Canada's population levels and distribution, most inhabitants live in a relatively narrow fringe adjacent to United State's northern border. They are "very validly concerned," Burgess said, because of their forestry and fisheries.

Research is never adequate and with the federal budget problems basic research dollars have dwindled during the Reagan administration. Efforts resulting from various agriculture, land and forest organizations are "diverse and fragmented."

"If we don't do something within five to 10 years we may, and I emphasis may, see terrestrial and aquatic damage," Burgess said. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, he said.

Rain

Continued from Page 1

scale measures the acidity or alkalinity of solutions. The ranking goes from 1 to 14 — with 1 being the most acidic.

There are four forms of acid deposition. Burgess said. They are precipitation, solid particles, aerosols and gas. Solid particles include exhaust and smoke stack emissions. The particles are carried by wind and deposited because of gravitation effects.

"We are not dealing with simple cause and effect," Burgess said, "It is more a situation in which acid rain is probably only one factor in a much more complex overall pattern."

The decline of forests is one example of an ecological problem. Acid rain, drought and infestation of insects on weakened trees are examples of factors which can work together to cause ecological problems.

UFM executive director to resign

By SHERRI HAGER Collegian Reporter

Ending more than a decade of leadership, Sue Maes, executive director of University for Man, has announced her resignation effective at the end of this year.

Maes became director of UFM in 1968 and has been in the position for 17 years.

"My resignation comes for two reasons," Maes said. "I would like to spend .more time with my children and pursue new professional horizons for myself."

Maes will continue to direct the Rural Action Agenda Project on a part-time basis, saying the project has good potential for the Universi-

The Rural Action Agenda Project focuses on rural adults and their access to post-secondary education.

"I think it's an immensely exciting time to be focusing on the rural person." Maes said. "There's nothing more timely with the farm crisis and various other burdens facing them. This helps them (rural adults) have an additional voice and gain access to education.

"It (the Rural Action Agenda

Project) could some day become the nation's center for rural adult post-secondary education," she said.

UFM was founded in 1967 by a committee comprised of students, faculty and community members who wanted a place for informal learning and exchanging ideas and skills

Today UFM offers about 1,000 different classes and has more than 10,000 participants in its programs.

Maes began as a work-study student at UFM in 1967. Since becoming executive director in 1968, she has seen UFM grow to a multifaceted program providing courses and resources for Manhattan, helping rural communities set up educational programs and serving as a model for similiar programs throughout the country. There are now 45 programs in Kansas modeled after UFM, 17 in Kentucky and three in Oklahoma, Missouri and South Dakota.

UFM serves as a community network linking resources with needs, volunteers with programs and solutions with community problems. While she has been director, UFM started several now wellknown programs and projects, Maes said.

The Lou Douglas Lecture Series is an example of a program started under Maes' leadership. The series honors the late Lou Douglas, professor of political science, who was one of the founding members of UFM and who was instrumental in getting the funding from the state legislation for rural communities. The spring series sponsors about four lectures on public affairs by people interested in public issues. John Stockwell, formally with the Central Intelligence Agency, will deliver the April 1 Lou Douglas Lecture.

The Appropriate Technology Program and community gardens are two other programs developed during Maes' directorship.

"That's been the fun of UFM, it has attracted people with ideas who can say 'this is an idea, this is a need.' As an administrator you need to be both supportive and cautious to new ideas for programs," Maes said.

An example of a UFM program is the Manhattan Farmers Market which is open each Saturday for six months a year, she said. "Someone simply said 'people with gardens need an outlet for excess produce,' so UFM put it in the brochure and the market started."

IT'S TIME FOR...

K-STATE BASKETBALL

That's right, basketball is back at KSU, and you can make the difference by filling Ahearn Field House!

Student season tickets go on sale Monday at 1 p.m., at the booths on the east side of the field house. Join us for a noontime pep rally in the Union Courtyard, then purchase your tickets for another exciting season of Wildcat hoops.

In '85, K-State student season tickets for nine games are just $25. On top of that, the Nov. 30 Southern Colorado game will be offered free to any season ticket holder, and the cost of games taking place over the holiday break will be offered at half-price to the same group.

The schedule is a great one with home contests against Texas Tech, Marquette, Wichita State and the entire Big Eight Conference. It's your chance to be part of KSU's famous sixth man, and the Wildcats look forward to having you on the team.

TICKETS AVAILABLE MONDAY

Must be a full time student. Must have a full time (7 hours or more) fee card for every ticket purchased. Make checks payable to KSU Athletic Department. Visa or Mastercard accepted.

'Cats to face stiff challenge from No. 5-ranked Nebraska

By DAVID SVOBODA Assistant Sports Editor

The 1985 version of college football's "Big Red Machine" rolls into Manhattan this weekend, and if K-State entertains any hope of putting together a two-game winning streak, they'll have to knock off the No. 5-ranked University of Nebraska. Cornhuskers first.

As K-State Head Coach Lee Moon will tell you, that won't be an easy task. But that doesn't mean it can't be done, he said.

"We are going to have to go out and play our best game to date in order to beat Nebraska," Moon said. "But on a given day, anybody can beat anybody. Look at Texas-El Paso knocking off Brigham Young.

"Nobody says we can't win two in a row. If we can get everyone well, we'll line up against Nebraska and see what happens."

What Moon will see Saturday is a Cornhusker offense built around the talents of I-back Doug DuBose, currently the fifth-leading rusher in college football.

DuBose has rushed for 810 yards in the six games he has played in 1985. He missed the 'Huskers win over the University of New Mexico after suffering a knee injury early in the Nebraska win over the University of Oregon

Nebraska's offensive attack will likely be directed by senior quarter-back Travis Turner. Turner has been locked in a battle with sophomore McCathorn Clayton for the starting job. Turner, though, earned the preliminary nod for his second start of the season by putting together a fine effort after coming off the bench in the 'Huskers' win over the University of Colorado last Saturday in Lin-

Nebraska trailed Colorado 7-0 when Turner entered the contest, but the senior helped the Cornhuskers rally for a 17-7 win. Turner completed four of 10 passes for 97 yards and rushed for 12 additional yards in just over three quarters of playing time.

However, Turner's right knee locked up in practice Tuesday. He was able to return to practice Wednesday and should be ready for Saturday's contest, scheduled for a 1:30 start at KSU Stadium.

Turner said the K-State defensive line is the thing that concerns him most about facing the Wildcats.

"They have a real good defensive front, and it will be tough to run on them with any success," Turner

Nebraska Head Coach Tom Osborne, who is 12-0 lifetime against K-State and has lead Nebraska to a 6-1 mark thus far in 1985, also pointed to K-State's defensive secondary as a strength.

"The strength of their team is obviously in their defensive line, but they also have a couple of people in their secondary that can play good football," he said.

Both Turner and Osborne believe the 'Huskers will have to be a great deal more consistent than they have been in recent weeks, both offensively and defensively, to beat K-State.

"We have to be more consistent near the other team's goal line. Our game against Missouri is a fine example of that," Osborne said in reference to Nebraska's 28-20 win over the Tigers in which the 'Huskers had to settle for seven field goals from kicker Dale Klein and only one

"But being more consistent offensively is only half the job," Osborne continued. "We have to play a good 60 minutes of defensive football as well. K-State has shown their opponents over 40 different formations this year, and we have to be ready for a few surprises."

Turner said the biggest foe Nebraska faces lies within.

"Playing against a team like K-State, we're playing against ourselves really," he said. "We're playing a good football team — I'll grant them that — but if we go out and play an error-free 60 minutes of football, we'll beat them. We just need to find some consistency."

K-State is also searching for some consistency, and Moon said he hopes he'll see it in the play of quarterback John Welch, who will make his second consecutive start and third overall.

Welch completed 19 of 28 passes for 271 yards and two touchdowns last Saturday in K-State's 20-17 win over Missouri. He totaled 160 of those yards in the fourth quarter of the contest and both of his touchdown throws were in the final period.

Injury stricken K-State harriers to battle for Big Eight crowns

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

K-State's men's and women's cross country teams will face two obstacles in the Big Eight Conference Championships Saturday at Columbia, Mo.

As expected, the men's team will be battling the likes of Iowa State University and the University of Colorado for the conference title, while the women's team will fight Iowa State and the University of Nebraska for top honors.

An unexpected foe for the Wildcats will be injuries and sickness.

The women's team is in the worst shape. The women were prepared to enter the 1985 campaign with nine runners. But now, the squad is down to five runners and faces the possibility of losing one of the five.

Betsy Silzer (who was redshirted), Jill Wempe and Angie Barry are out with injuries and Cathy Rochford has quit the team. And now Lisa Wakem, a freshman from Scarborough, Maine, and one of the remaining five runners, strained a groin muscle at practice Wednesday.

Wakem is probable for this weekend's 5,000-meter run. But if she is unable to compete, K-State's women's team will not be eligible for the conference title because a minimum of five competitors per team is required.

"If Wakem is hurt, we are going to be in trouble," said Miller, who decided against bringing in a runner from the track team. "I'm not going to run a person who can't compete at the level we need."

Miller, though, is not about to give up on the women's team.

"I think we are certainly going to be in the hunt for the championship," Miller said, despite having only five runners.

If Wakem is healthy, the women still will face an uphill battle for the top spot in the Big Eight. Nebraska, picked to finish first in a coaches poll, is ranked fifth in the country and Iowa State, ranked third, was picked as a close se-

Nebraska coach Jay Dirkson said he expects a good battle for the top spot.

"It should be the closest finish in a long time," said Dirkson. "I think the outcome will be in doubt until the finish line. The Big Eight is one of the strongest cross country conferences in the country. It should be a great championship." Miller agrees.

"We could have as little as three points separating four teams. There is even a chance for a tie—thet's how close it is "Miller said."

that's how close it is," Miller said.

K-State, which finished second in the 1984 conference meet, is the most popular choice for third place in the conference, followed by Colorado, Oklahoma State University, the University of Missouri, the University of Oklahoma and the University of Kansas.

Running for the women will be Jacque Struckhoff, Alysun Deckert, Anne Stadler, Nancy Hoffman and Wakem.

While K-State's men's team will have the maximum allowed seven runners for the 10,000-meter race, the top two runners — Bryan Carroll and Mike Rogers — have been slowed in the last week with bronchitis. Rogers is near 100 percent, but Carroll has been unable to run in practice this week.

Miller said Carroll will compete Saturday if at all possible, but he added bronchitis is worse on a long-distance runner than most any injury.

"It's better to be hurt than sick in your lungs," Miller said.

The men's team, ranked 21st in the country, has been picked by the conference coaches to finish third. Iowa State is picked to win, followed by Colorado. Miller said the team could prove the prediction false if the runners can compete up to their potential.

"In an honest appraisal, I feel we will be third or fourth, but as high as second if we could meet our potential instead of constantly pursuing it," he said. The men were sixth in last year's conference meet.

Oklahoma State is expected to finish in fourth place, followed by Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Rejected

Members of the Haymaker Eight team, Gary Otto, freshman in physical therapy, and Kent Curran, sophomore in accounting, attempt to block a shot by a Putnam Hall team member, at the intramural volleyball matches Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

Staff/Peter Obetz

White House honors KC Royals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan gushed over their "never say die spirit," members of Congress stood beside them for pictures and hundreds of others lined up for autographs. All this attention Thursday for the Kansas City Royals, baseball's world champions.

The Royals charmed the nation's capital, a city without a major league baseball team, starting with a White House ceremony where Reagan hailed them as a team of "super talented players."

A 26-piece U.S. Army band greeted them later on Capitol Hill to the strains of "Kansas City" and "Take Me Out to the Ballgame." The Missouri and Kansas congressional delegations honored them with a luncheon and showered them with more lavish praise for winning the World Series over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Class is perseverance and style under pressure and adversity, and that's the Kansas City Royals," said Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., a lifelong fan of the Cardinals.

Finally came a reception, in which hundreds of congressional staff members and even a few congressman crowded around for autographs offering players baseballs, notepads, scraps of paper, newpaper clippings and sports magazine covers — even a bright red Cardinals batting helmet and pennant — for a signature.

At the White House, Reagan shook hands with each of the Royals in a Rose Garden ceremony and lauded them for becoming the first team to rebound and win the World Series after losing the first two games at home.

"In that Interstate 70 Series, the Show Me spirit really came

'It's a great thing just to be able to see the president let alone to speak to him. I really didn't know what to say to him.'

- Bret Saberhagen

through," said Reagan. "Your team showed the world and you did it royally. You proved to America what a never-say-die spirit can do."

The team presented Reagan with a blue Royals warm-up jacket, a blue and white World Series cap and a baseball bat.

"Whether it be a bullpen pitcher, or DH or whatever, you're on our team and we're proud to have you," said Howser as he made the presentation. Reagan met privately with team members and executives before the ceremony.

"It's a thrill to come up here and meet the most important man in the world," said third baseman George Brett.

After the ceremony, Vice President George Bush huddled in private for a few minutes with Brett, Howser and Bret Saberhagen, the Most Valuable Player in the Series.

Saberhagen, who had never before visited Washington, basked in the limelight of attention during much of the day's activities. He accepted on behalf of the team a plaque declaring them the winner of the first annual congressional "Dewey Beats Truman" award for amazing comebacks. The award referred to the 1948 presidential election and a newspaper headline declaring President Harry S. Truman the loser.

"It's a great thing just to be able to see the president let alone to speak to him," said Saberhagen. "I really didn't know what to say to him."

Reagan singled out several of the Royals for special praise, including the 21-year-old pitcher who won the 7th game of the series with a shutout.

"You're not only a hot pitcher Bret, but I understand you're a pretty good coach too," said Reagan, noting that Saberhagen had become a father last Saturday. LETTERS TO THE SPORTS EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

to forgo lottery system By TODD NIGHSWONGER basis beginning at 1 p.m. Monday. Tickets will be $25 for 10 games

Basketball ticket sales

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

A tradition in K-State basketball is coming to an end this season.

No, Jack Hartman, the men's basketball coach, is not leaving. And no, the Fred Bramlage Coliseum was not built secretly, ending games played in tradition-packed Ahearn Field House.

The tradition that is coming to a close is the annual week of having students camp outside of Ahearn in hopes of getting the best seats for men's basketball games. In past years, one could see a whole "campground" of tents pitched on the Ahearn grounds. But this tradition will be no more.

Yes, there still will be student season basketball tickets. But there are several changes in store for K-State students buying tickets, according to Ken Heinz, senior in accounting and chairman of the basketball ticket sales committee.

Student season tickets, which go on sale at 1 p.m. Monday in the east lobby of Ahearn, will not be reserved on a lottery basis as in past years, Heinz

Using the old system meant getting a lottery number several days before tickets went on sale and being present for each "roll call" at an unspecified time until tickets sales began. A person purchasing tickets for his group had to be at each roll call or would lose his lottery number. In other words, a person missing the roll call would "go to the back of the line."

Because of confusion of using the lottery system in the past and the expected lack of demand for tickets this season, the ticket sales committee decided to make it easier to purchase student season basketball tickets tickets.

This season, student tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served

Tickets will be $25 for 10 games.
Tickets can be purchased after Monday at the Central Ticket Office in Ahearn Gymnasium.

Another change in purchasing student tickets this season is that a student may buy as many tickets as desired as long as there is a student fee card for each ticket. In the past, one student could buy only a limited number of tickets.

Students with season basketball tickets can receive a free ticket to the Nov. 30 game against the University of Southern Colorado. The game, played during the University's Thanksgiving break, is not included in the student season ticket.

To get a free ticket to the Nov. 30 game, the students need to bring their season ticket to the Ahearn ticket office by Nov. 25.

According to Kenny Mossman, administrative assistant in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, giving student ticket holders a free ticket to the Southern Colorado game might help increase the number of students at the game. Unclaimed seats in the student section of Ahearn would be available to the public.

"Because it's on Thanksgiving, and if the kids won't be here, the close-up (student) seats can be sold to the general public," Mossman said.

The student ticket also does not include games during Christmas break. These games are against Northern Illinois University on Dec. 21, Marquette University on Jan. 2, 1986, Wichita State University on Jan. 6 and Abilene Christian University on Jan. 9.

To kick off student ticket sales, a pep rally has been planned for noon Monday in the Union courtyard. Mossman said the rally would feature Athletic Director Larry Travis, the K-State pep band, cheerleaders and yell leaders.

Pigskin Picks

Nebraska 34 at K-State 6
Oklahoma 27 vs. Kansas 10
Colorado 21 vs. Oklahoma State 20
Iowa State 24 vs. Missouri 7
Iowa 30 at Ohio State 24
Florida 24 at Auburn 21
Miami of Fla. 24 at Florida State 10
K.C. Chiefs 21 at Houstou 20
Denver 21 at San Diego 20
L.A. Raiders 31 at Seattle 24

TIM CARPENTER

JEFF TUTTLE
K-State 21 vs. Nebraska 17
Oklahoma 31 vs. Kansas 16
Oklahoma State 34 at Colorado 10
lowa State 17 vs. Missouri 16
lowa 31 at Ohio State 10
Auburn 17 vs. Florida 7
Florida State 17 vs. Miami of Fla. 10
K.C. Chiefs 35 at Houston 10
Denver 21 at San Diego 10
L.A. Raiders 31 at Seattle 17

TODD NIGHSWONGER
Nebraska 38 at K-State 21
Oklahoma 28 vs. Kansas 14
Oklahoma State 24 at Colorado 7
Missouri 20 at Iowa State 17
Ohlo State 12 vs. Iowa 10
Auburn 27 vs. Florida 21
Florida State 20 vs. Miami of Fla. 19
K.C. Chiefs 9 at Houston 7
Denver 28 at San Diego 21
L.A. Raiders 14 at Seattle 10

JOHN SLEEZER
Nebraska 35 at K-State 10
Oklahoma 17 vs. Kansas 14
Colorado 21 vs. Oklahoma State 17

lowa State 17 vs. Missouri 14 lowa 24 at Ohio State 21 Florida 24 at Auburn 21 Miami of Fla. 21 at Florida State 17 K.C. Chiefs 27 at Houston 21 Denver 24 at San Diego 21 Seattle 21 vs. L.A. Raiders 10

DAVID SVOBODA
Nebraska 42 at K-State 10
Oklahoma 28 vs. Kansas 21
Oklahoma State 21 at Colorado 17
lowa State 24 vs. Missouri 17
lowa 27 at Ohio State 17
Florida 17 at Auburn 16
Miami of Fla. 28 at Florida State 20
K.C. Chiefs 21 at Houston 17
Denver 28 at San Diego 10
L.A. Raiders 25 at Seattle 17

ANDY NELSON
Nebraska 17 at K-State 10
Kansas 17 at Oklahoma 10
Colorado 17 vs. Oklahoma State 10
Missouri 17 at Iowa State 10
Iowa 21 at Ohio State 10
Auburn 28 vs. Florida 10
Miami of Fla. 28 at Florida State 10
K.C. Chiefs 24 at Houston 10
Denver 35 at San Diego 10
Seattle 32 vs. L.A. Raiders 10

TOM PERRIN
Nebraska 45 at K-State 16
Oklahoma 31 vs. Kansas 14
Oklahoma State 24 at Colorado 17
Iowa State 24 vs. Missouri 21
Iowa 28 at Ohio State 21

Miami of Fla. 21 at Florida State 17

K.C. Chiefs 28 at Houston 10 Denver 31 at San Diego 24 L.A. Raiders 31 at Seattle 21

JEFF A. TAYLOR
Nebraska 56 at K. State 6
Oklahoma 28 vs. Kansas 24
Oklahoma State 17 at Colorado 10
lowa State 10 vs. Missouri 0
lowa 28 at Ohio State 24
Florida 17 at Auburn 14
Florida State 21 vs. Miami of Fla. 10
K.C. Chiefs 24 at Houston 10
San Diego 35 vs. Denver 21
L.A. Raiders 35 at Seattle 28

LILLIAN ZIER
Nebraska 21 at K-State 14
Oklahoma 32 vs. Kansas 28
Colorado 17 vs. Oklahoma State 14
lowa State 21 vs. Missouri 3
lowa 32 at Ohio State 24
Florida 28 at Auburn 10
Miami of Fla. 21 at Florida State 17
K.C. Chiefs 24 at Houston 21
San Diego 35 vs. Denver 28
L.A. Raiders 28 at Seattle 21

CONSENSUS
Nebraska 8-1
Oklahoma 8-1
Oklahoma State 5-4
Iowa 8-1
Florida 5-4
Miami of Florida 6-3
Kansas City Chiefs 8-6
Denver 7-2
Los Angeles Raiders 7-2

ports Calendar

K-State will take on the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in KSU Stadium. The Wildcats are 1-6 overall and 1-2 in the Big Eight, while the Cornhuskers are 6-1 and 3-0. The game is a

CROSS COUNTRY

The men's and women's teams will compete in the Big Eight Championships Saturday at A.L. Gustin Jr. Golf Course in Columbia, Mo. The women begin at 10:30 a.m. followed by the men at 11:15 a.m.

VOLLEYBALL

The Wildcats travel to Ames, Iowa, today to play the Iowa State University Cyclones at 7:30 p.m.

TENNIS

The University of Nebraska will have another team besides the football squad invade Manhattan on Saturday. The Cornhusker men's tennis team will take on K-State beginning at 9 a.m. at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area tennis courts. K-State's women's team is idle this

RUGBY

The Emporia and Fort Riley Rugby Football Clubs invade Manhattan Saturday to battle the K-State Rugby Football Club at the southeast corner of the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area intramural fields. K-State will play Fort Riley at 1:30 p.m. and Emporia at 3 p.m.

SOCCER

The men's "A" team is off Saturday but is scheduled to play the University of Nebraska at 2 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Stadium. The "B" team travels to Topeka's Felker Park Saturday to play Lagdaf International at 1 p.m. The women's team will be in Kansas City Saturday to play a

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Ueberroth says umpire missed call but considers errors 'part of game'

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The ninth-inning call that helped the Kansas City Royals win Game 6 of the World Series and eventually take baseball's championship was a bad one, Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said

He also said he was considering a rule change which would allow the designated hitter to be used in every World Series, rather than every other year, but only when the American League team is the home team. He said such a change could come as early as next year, when the DH is scheduled to be used in all World Series games.

Ueberroth, discussing last week's controversial World Series call in an appearance on NBC's "Donahue" show, defended American League umpire Don Denkinger as one of baseball's best and said human errors are "part of the game."

The Royals won Game 6 by a score of 2-1 Saturday night and then beat the St. Louis Cardinals 11-0 on Sunday to win the World Series, four games to three.

During the show, Ueberroth viewed videotapes in which Denkinger called Jorge Orta safe at first base after he hit a slow bouncer wide of the bag. The tapes show Jack Clark fielding the ball and flipping it to pitcher Todd Worrell on the bag, apparently before Orta touched base.

"I think he may have missed it. He may have been safe...I think he miss-ed the call," Ueberroth told talkshow host Phil Donahue. "In all of sports, sometimes there's a fumble and they reshow it and, sure enough, the guy fumbled before he was on the ground. And you watch basketball and somebody bumped somebody and the referee misses it.

spokesman at commissioner's office, Chuck Adams, said he believed Ueberroth meant to say that Orta may have

When Donahue said he thought Denkinger "blew the call," the commissioner agreed.

"It's part of the game," Ueberroth said. "Umpires are not perfect. They make mistakes."

'Cats' volleyball team to take on Cyclones

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's volleyball team will continue its charge to a top-three finish in the Big Eight Conference race as the Wildcats take on the Iowa State University Cyclones at 7:30 tonight in Ames, Iowa.

K-State has a 2-4 conference record going into the contest, while the Cyclones are struggling at 0-5. One of those five losses came at the hands of the Wildcats.

The earlier match against Iowa State took place in Ahearn Field House, with K-State winning in three games. The last time K-State defeated Iowa State before that was Wildcat Head Coach Scott Nelson believes strongly in the home court advantage theory, especially when playing at Iowa State.

'They have a real home court advantage," he said. "They play in a small area (a court in the physical education building) and usually draw a pretty good crowd. They traditionally don't lose at home."

Nelson and his squad hope to jinx that advantage and will have to execute the way they did against Iowa State earlier in the season, Nelson

"Iowa State is one of the top serving teams in this area of the country," the coach said. "In our first match with them, we handled their serving pretty well. We need to do that same thing in this match to be successful."

Despite the rather dismal record of the Cyclones, Nelson expects the critical match to be a tough one for the Wildcats.

"The first time we played them, it was a real tough match. It was close and could have gone either way. If they hope to improve their standings in the conference, they need to win. If we want to finish in the top three of the conference, we need to win. This is a very key match for both teams,' Nelson said.

Total Person to hold meeting on drug abuse

By The Collegian Staff

The Department of Athletics' Total Person program will have its first meeting at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in the K-State Union Forum Hall.

The Total Person program is designed to help studentathletes' needs outside of their respective sport. The program, though, can benefit all students, according to Steve Miller, an assistant athletic director who is in charge of the program

Speaking at the meeting will be Tom Gregwar, head of the Juvenile Drug Awareness Program at St. Johns Hospital in Salina. Gregwar will speak on the topic, "Drug and Alcohol Abuse Awareness and Recovery.

"This is our first meeting of what we hope will be an ongaing addition to our student education process," Miller said. "The Total Person program should provide a unique opportunity for our studentathletes to investigate their potential outside of the academic environment."

The meeting is mandatory for University varsity athletes and is open to K-State students. A voluntary meeting for student-athletes also is scheduled for later in the semester, Miller said.

A longstanding legend

52 days left

9 Fridays left

9 Saturdays left

Don't miss out on a tradition!

111 3rd St.

539-9949

RICHARD FORSYTH watercolors

JAMES JONES watercolors

TOBY McGEE blown glass

STRECKER GALLERY

10-5 Tues.-Sat.

332 Poyntz

Mae's Parlor

T.G.I.F.

Friday Specials $1.25 House Drinks 75¢ Draws $1.00 Schnapps

SATURDAY

PRE-GAME PARTY OPENS at 11:00 a.m. with

$1.00 Bloody Marys

$1.00 Screwdrivers

$1.00 Schnapps $1.25 Tonic Drinks

> This Weekend Come to where the party is

616 N. 12th

Experience the best in stereo sound with this FISHER COMPACT DISC PLAYER. It includes full song programming capabilities and more

3244 KIMBALL AVE. WEST OF KSU FOOTBALL STADIUM

ACROSS FROM CICO PARK

537-3992

* FISHER

* FISHER

Get great sound from a great name, at a great price! This FISHER system is powered by a 50 watt per channel INTEGRATED AMPLIFIER with a built in 5 band graphic equalizer, it's complemented by the digital AM/FM TUNER with 16 states on the complemented by the digital AM/FM TUNER with 15 station presets. Your cassettes will sound fantastic on the stereo DUBBING CASSETTE DECK with Dolby & sequen-Treat your records to the semi automatic TURNTABLE with a straight low mass tonearm. The whole system is delivered on a pair of high performance 3-way. LOUDSPEAKERS! House your system in the beautiful CABINET with glass door & top And a marvelous price!

JVC T-120 8 HOUR

VIDEO TAPE

You can't beat the value with this DIGITAL PIONEER patented SUPERTUNER III. SUPER BUY! AUDIOFOX:

*399

Treat your ears to the incredible sound of these h handing AUDIOVOX 3-WAY 6x9" CAR SPEAKERS. You can't beat the price!

JVC

JVC presents this 19" COLOR TV featuring a cableready tuner, wireless remote control, & a sleep-timer to allow 2 hrs of viewing, then it turns off automatically!

STEREO · VIDEO

for the best in special effects. THIS WEEKEND ONLY

JVC continues its commitment to bring you the best in the latest video technology with this VHS VIDEO

RECORDER complete with instant record and 4 heads

ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED PROFESSIONAL CAR INSTALLATION OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK FINANCING AVAILABLE

Mon Fri 10.9 Sat. 106 Sun. 125

Stephan

Continued from Page 1

much about it. I do feel that the attempt on Stephan's part to clear the question was a move in the right direction."

"I really don't have any assessment," said state Democratic Chairman Jim Parrish. "It is a problem the Republican Party has got to work out for itself. I think it is commendable that he released the information that he did. But beyond that, I don't think it is anything I should comment on."

Parrish said he agrees with those who say the publicity Stephan has received has not helped his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor in 1986. "But coming from the Democratic chairman. that is sort of 'so what,' isn't it?" he asked.

Privately, supporters of three potential rivals to Stephan for the '86 Republican nomination — Secretary of State Jack Brier, House Speaker Mike Hayden and Senate President Robert V. Talkington - confided the explosion of the Stephan "problem" into the headlines once more is encouraging.

But publicly, the potential contenders were restrained in their com-

"Half a loaf is better than none, but I believe the people of Kansas deserve full disclosure," said Brier, alluding to the fact Stephan has revealed no details of the settlement other than that money changed hands, nor produced any documentation.

Talkington called it "too bad" that the matter has become such a public issue, "whether he wants to admit it or not."

"Lawsuits should be settled in the courts and elections should be based on the merits of the candidate and legitimate issues, not things like this," said Talkington, an attorney.

"The timing also surprises me," Talkington continued. "If he was going to do this, he should have done it a long time ago. The sad part about it is that it's even worse now than it was originally."

DUE TO NUMEROUS COMPLAINTS

REGARDING THE LACK OF HELP-

FURTHER VALUABLE EXERCISE

FUL AEROBIC INFORMATION IN

YESTERDAY'S INSTALLMENT,

TIP5 ...

ALL OF US HERE AT BLOOM

ABOUT YOUR BODY. TRULY.

Garfield

GEE, I WISH WE COULD GET BETTER RECEPTION ON

THE TELEVISION

WE NOW CONTINUE WITH

COUNTY REALLY CARE

YOU HAVE NO IDEA.

Z

Bloom County

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon

FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper Student Publications will not be responsible for Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (7tf)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enveccess, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52)

MYSTIC SOOTHSAYER trained in divination, and applied guidance, taking requests for personal hor scopes. Have success in every aspect of your life, through self-knowledge and your potential destiny chart. For details, write to The Secretary, P.O. Box 2015, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-49

SOUTHERN SUN is offering $2 tanning sessions until Friday, November 1. Buy all you want and use by December 31. (48-49)

EXTRA FANCY Indian com, 25 cents each. Available at People's Grocery Cooperative, 811 Colorad 539-4811. Open to everyone on Saturday 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. (48-49)

SHE DU's meet at the Delta Upsilon house at 9:30 Sunday night. (49)

THE MEN of Tau Kappa Epsilon would like to congratulate the women of Deita Deita Deita on a great season and the Teke Powder Puff champions!

> Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

PROFESSIONAL COACHING IS ALWAYS

COACH COFF

WHAT'S THAT HE'S

60T WITH HIM?

A PLUS IN SERIOUS AEROBICS.

LONG RESTS BETWEEN EXERCISES

ARE NOT CONPUCIVE TO HEALTHY

WAKE UP!

GET GOIN! HEY!

CARDIO-VASCUBULAR WHATEVER.

CANT

BELIEVE

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf)

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61) WE'RE SELLING your dream. Learn to fly. For more information call Capital Air Service, 539-7623. (45-

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sur

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds

27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

TOTAL IMAGE Salon: Perms $35; haircuts-$6 guys,

$9 gals. Call Melanie, 539-4400. (46-50) NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side. 776-3804. (49tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

04

NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets,

MAIN FLOOR and basement of large house-Two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, dining room, washer, dryer, $275. Call Ron, 537-3866 or 532-5881.

GOOD DISCIPLINE IS ALWAYS A

INSTRUCTION. LAZINESS IS A NO-NO!

MUST FOR PROPER AEROBICS

I SAIP GET GOIN;

By Berke Breathed

BLUBBER BUTT!

MAP, WAR

By Jim Davis

BETTER

By Charles Schulz

A BEAGLE

BLASTER!

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, 1837 College Hts. Available mid-October, 776-9124. (31-49)

QUIET ONE bedroom, 1131 Vattier. Heat, water and trash paid, furnished or unfurnished, $195/month Call Professor McGuire, 532-6786 or 776-5682 evenings. (46-55)

TWO BEDROOM basement furnished apartment, 1016 Juliette, off street parking. Available November 1, $240, plus electricity. 539-6858 or 776-8352.

> Like a FREE VCR, Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

> Call for details 776-3804

> > 05

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing opportunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FOR SALE-AUTO

LATE 1984 Chevy 1-ton dual, 454-automatic, Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 35,000 miles. Joel

Wiemer, 913-668-2352 or 913-668-2214. (45-49) MUST SELL: 1979 4 x 4 Subaru Brat. New radials, air conditioning, rebuilt transmission, excellent condition, $2,150 or best offer, 539-2899, (47-51)

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

1978 Z-28 Camaro-All options, including T-tops Low miles, must sell, $3,600. Call 537-0227. (47-51) 1979 RABBIT, 45-50 mpg, excellent condition, stereo, air conditioning. 532-6625. (48-52)

FOR SALE-MISC 07

NAGELS—TWO posters by Patrick Nagel: "Gallery Michael" and "Nagel." Best offer. 776-5278. (46-49) MIKASA BONE china-Nine place settings, contemporary style, "Silver Halo." Perfect condition, $250. Call 776-0733. (47-51)

TWO TICKETS to K-State/Nebraska game. Call Clyde, 776-6612 or 539-9307. (49)

15th EDITION Encyclopedia Britannica. Mint condition. 30 volumes, $515 firm. Call 539-7344. (49-51) GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also de linquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (49)

Clip and Save

New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger The Ritz

This coupon expires 11/2/85

DESK, SWIVEL desk chair, dra antiques. Call 776-9705.

ii typewriter. One year rirm $325. Call 539-7344. SMITH-CORONA Ultra old, excellent cond

FOR SAL'-MOBILE HOMES 08

1979 MOBILE home-three bedroom, central air, priced 'elow appraisal. Available now. 776-3702. (45-49;

1968 GREAT Lakes-12' x 65', three bedrooms, appliances. Excellent buy: $5,200. Call 776-6956 eve-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1981 HONDA CM400-Must sell, runs well, 9,000

13

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, lov-ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking knowledgeable office manager with strong horticulture background. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts. Wages commensurate with abilities All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397

PROMINENT DESIGN/Build landscape contracting firm seeking experienced, motivated, Landscape Designer/salesman. Benefits include: Medical and life insurance, vacation, employee discounts.
Wages commensurate with abilities. All inquiries strickly confidential. 1-913-776-0397. (45-49)

BARTENDERS AND Food Servers. Now hiring at the Cotton Club, Manhattan's newest dinner club. Apply in person at 418 Poyntz in the Wareham BuildPOSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Seminar Leaders—Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1986. Specific duties ina) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a General Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session; and d) attend ing and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students; c) desire to perform in the role of a helping person; d) are sensitive to the needs of others; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class, EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit) during Spring 1986 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1986 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an

CHILDCARE NEEDED in my home, 2:15 p.m. until various times in the evening, two-three days per week. Position open immediately. Call 537-0117.

NEW YORK couple with two children looking for mother's helper good with children to live-in. Pleasant suburban community, easy access to New York City, room with private bath, good pay, transportation. Call 516-621-0824. (47-51)

PART-TIME chimneysweep-Relates well with people, very mechanically inclined, no fear of heights 776-9544. (48-49)

PROJECT MANAGER-Kansas Council on Economic Education. Unclassified—KSU benefits. Coordinates educational grant and related functions providing inservice educational opportuni-ties for teachers. Position includes budget management, general office duties and extensive telephone work. Requires knowledge of bookkeeping; office management experience; and ex-perience with computers, particularly word processing packages (or willingness to learn). Elementary or secondary teaching experience desirable. Bachelors degree required. Position to be-gin November 18, 1985. Send resume with three references by November 6, 1985 to: Michael Oldfather, Executive Director, Kansas Council on Economic Education, 322 Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506, 913/532-7357.

CHURCH NURSERY Attendent needed Sunday rnings, 8:15 a.m.-12:15 p.m. Must be 18 years of age or older. Complete application at 115 Court House Plaza. Monday thru Friday 8:30 a.m.·12:00 noon and 1:00 and 3:30 p.m. Application deadline November 8th. (49-50) GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R for current federal list. (49)

LOST

LOST: WOMEN'S glasses in blue case sometime Tuesday, October 22. Call Sally, 776-7672. Reward! (47-49)

A PURPLE Eastpac backpack was stolen from the Union. A reward is offered for its return. Contact Amy, 532-3811. (49-50)

15

NOTICES

OVER 1,000 costumes-Men's, ladies' and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-

PERSONAL

12216 TO OUR Sigma Chi Party Dates: It's a Halloween Party, not a day too late. The Monster Mash is going to be great! You guys had better rest up cause, partying with this group of KD's may be rough! Do you guys think you can keep up? We're excited! Love, your KD party dates. (49)

AD Pi's-The D.J. will be rockin and playing our tune. While the AD Pi's and Pikes are walkin the moon We blast off at three, so make sure you're there Cause when the AD Pi's party no one can compare Get psyched, excited, aroused, agitated and, or stimulated. The Pikes. (49)

CHERIE-HEY Buzz-Happy 22nd! Have a great day! Love, Cristi. (49)

CRXTASY-I was waiting for the screw but it never came, going camouflage just ain't the same. Tues-day night was fun and in case you never knew, I want a chance to go out with you! -Kermit. (49)

G-PHI's: We've been planning and plotting and we're ready to dash, down to the "graveyard" to get to-tally "smashed." The duo of the century, the world's biggest bash. Let's all get psyched for the Monster Mash! The KD's. (49)

MATTHEW-HAPPY 22nd Birthday! We'll have some fun celebrating it! JRILY-Diana. (49)

PI KAPPA Phi and Lil' Sis'-At the party tonight we'll get a good scare, with you guys in costume, ya better beware. We're gonna have fun and party till late remember, we want you and it all starts at eight FARMERS-SINGING in the rain, we're just . . . crazy is what we are; 6:00 a.m. and "thumbs up, butt out, tonque out"-Pee Wee Herman's comedy hour? and Chris' (cough) jokes—yes, we're crazy, but we can sing . . . (a song of sixpence) our way to 1st place. U-sing '85, we're psyched! Love, the KATS.

TODD AND Troy Huggins: Happy Birthday to you! Happy Birthday to you! From Lou! (49) LBN-HAPPY Birthday! The big "21" at last-what a woman! Remember: each year gets better and bet-ter, hope this one is the best! Love, KMJ. (49) TIM-I didn't forget your birthday! Have a nice day

Jennifer. (49)

POOPHEAD Happy 2 Years!!

I Love You!! TRISH

POOPHEAD, WE survived Dallas and Beulah, good times and bad! Happy two years. ILY, Kris. (4 CONGRATULATIONS TO the new Chi Omega exec. We love you! Your Chi-O sisters. (49) JIM-YOU really are cute, cuddly, adorable, irresistable, handsome, stunning, good-looking, sexy, seductive and above all—you wear your 501's mighty fine! Happy Birthday! Love ya—Your 'Lil Sis! (49)

PI KAPP Rod-To a great Little Brother, have a grea To find out who I am, come to the Halloween party tonight. Love, your Big Sis. (49) PIKES-TAD, Bo: Tonight is the night, hope we do it up right! Miami Vice can wait cuz we're really hot dates! Love, G-Phi's Cindy, Tammy. (49) TOD, HAPPY Birthday. Luv, Troy, Lisa, Mary, Zoe, Deb bie and Jeff! (49)

PUCK, HAPPY 19th Birthday. Your brother, Rudolf. DEWEY HERTEL: All your friends wanted to wish you Happy Birthday! Signed: Friends, Friends, Friends

SAE's—GET ready, here we come. We're the Alpha Gams and when you're with us, you know you'll have fun. Here's to a great function with the SAE's.

TRI DELT Holly-How 'bout them Bronco's? Thanks for going. Hope you had a good time. Your friend, NHP (49)

ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE, SPRING semester—Close to campus, fur-nished, $110 plus one-half utilities. Call 539-3914. (46-49)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share three bedroom apart ment. Own bedroom, only $150 per month. Call 776-3706 after 6:30 p.m. (46-50)

ROOMMATE WANTED-Own bedroom, washer dryer. Rent plus utilities. 403 South 10th. Call 537-2055. (48-52) MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (31-75)

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (41-

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-84)

TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services, 539-6912 or 539-3773. (46-49)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537

9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (48-51) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processing. Term papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless 537-3314. (48-49)

23

WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m.; Worship 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church —776-8790 after 9:00 a.m. (49)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6:00 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (49) WELCOME TO the Church of Christ, 2510 Dickens,

Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes; 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion; 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship. Andy Miller, campus minister, 539-6581 or 537-ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to ser vices, 8:00 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Fellowship, Sunday, 6:00 p.m. (49) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m.; Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church

all Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-3921. (49) WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd., invites you to worship with them Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Worship, and at 9:00 a.m. for the College Sunday School Class at the Ramada

Inn-lower level. (49) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison

(the white building with the two red doors). (49) WELCOME STUDENTS-First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth offers you Worship Services 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. each Sunday. 9:30 a.m. Sunday School offers college class. 5:30 p.m. each Tuesday College Outreach Bible Study in the Union Rev. Dr. Philip S. Gittings, III, Senior Minister. (49)

St. Francis Episcopal Sundays

9:30 a.m. Danforth Chapel 1402 LeGore 5 p.m.

537-0593 for rides WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church 9:45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Dr. Herb Moser teacher. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breis ford, Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (49) UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800 Claffin Road (Claffin and Browning). Students wel-come! Worship 8:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. Evening Service 6:30 p.m. College age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9:45 a.m. at Mr. Steak. For transportation call 776-5440. (49) First United Methodist Church

612 Poyntz 8:45 a.m. Communion first

Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 11:00 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking-Pastor

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.: Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Cor fessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. this semester "The Gospel of John" with Richard Akins teaching. Worship, 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744.

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). We come students to worship service at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Special class for college-age students at 9:40 a.m. Students needing ride call Kevin Blomquist, 539-2321 or Lisa Gast, 537-2568. Bible study at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays

First Baptist Church

American Baptist 2121 Blue Hills Rd. "the Church on the hill" SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:55 a.m.

NURSERY AVAILABLE For free transportation within city limits, call Bell Taxi, 537-2080

CHURCH SCHOOL 9:45 a.m.

Call for more information about our young adult fellowship 537-3385

Church Office......539-8691 Pastor . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-6494 Campus Minister . . . . . 539-3051 Preschool . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-8811

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church—6th and Poyntz. Com-munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8:00 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 778-9427. (49)

BLUE VALLEY Memorial United Methodist Church welcomes you to its workshop service each Sun-day at 10:30 a.m. We are a big hearted church with a small church atmosphere. Located at 835 Church Avenue (look to your right as you pass Blue Hills Shopping Center going North on Tuttle Creek Blvd.
then turn right on Northfield Rd. and then take a sharp right again—you can't miss it!) Each Wednesday, Blue Valley Memorial has a Men's Breakfast at 6:30 a.m. Students are welcome. Then too, the first Sunday of each month, there is a fel lowship meal called "Meal of the Month" . . . after the worship hour. There is always great food and fellowship and K.S.U. Students are our guests for the meal. Why not visit and worship in the state of the meal. Church in the Valley with a contemporary minis everyone Sunday 11:00 s.m. (south over the via-duct, one-half mile east off K-177, on K-18) to hear a KSU professor, member of Alcoholics Anony-

rossword

45 Pierre

Curie's

wife

deals

eanuts

1 Hammar skiold 4 Cut off 47 Zuider 7 Latin 48 Making music 12 Frost 52 Make lace 13 Mine find 53 E.T., e.g. 14 Baja ta-ta 54 Past

ACROSS

15 Seine 55 Before 56 Used a season 16 Quote reference 18 "Cats" cat 58 Auto 19 "Cats" author DOWN 20 Oil org.

22 Shade source 23 Ditty 27 Slalom maneuver 29 Nurse Clara

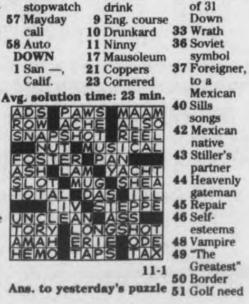

31 Skirt feature

34 Billy goat 35 Drinks are put on it 37 "Golly!" 38 Dumbfounds

39 Corn unit

41 Moist

2 Be trouble- 24 Actress

some 3 Gaggle

5 Prayer

robes

6 Danger

7 Shaker

8 Pitcher

drink fill members

4 Brain part

Hagen

or Red

or Beame

30 Burrows

31 Lawyers'

org.

32 Concern

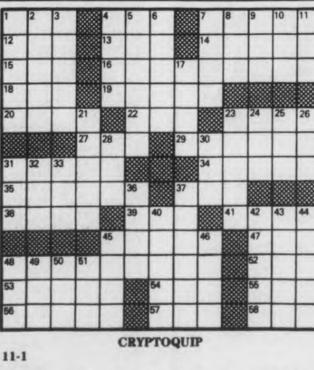

of 31

25 And not

26 Finale

28 Black

NGOHGA ZTQOG'I

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — THE WELL-KNOWN BUT INSCRUTABLE AUTHOR'S NICKNACK: A WRITER'S BLOCK.

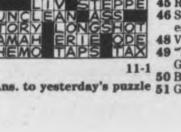

VYRWIA PRC QTUNYA ZTCVZ-YHWOUC: HYY CZRWPI."

North 11th. $145, bills paid. 539-8401. (49-63)

FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST Fellowship welcomes

mous, talk about the organization and his personal experience. Sunday school and child care are available; transportation, by phoning 537-1817. (49)

Sunset Zoo to present. 'Wild Kingdom's' host

By The Collegian Staff

Instead of wrestling crocodiles in Africa or vaccinating wallabies in Australia, "Wild Kingdom's" Jim Fowler will be in Manhattan today and Saturday.

A program and reception in his honor will be at 7:30 tonight in the Regency Ballroom of the Manhattan Holiday Inn Holidome. Tickets are $5 for Friends of the Zoo members and $6 for non-members. Tickets are available at the Sunset Zoo office and at other Manhattan locations.

Fowler also will make two appearances Saturday, one at the Sunset Zoo and another at the K-State football stadium. He will be at the zoo for an autograph session from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. and at the K-State-University of Nebraska football game, which starts at 1:30, to kick off the area Girl Scout Cookie

The presentation is sponsored by the Friends of Sunset Zoo and Sunset Zoological Park. Fowler's visit to Manhattan is the third celebrity appearance sponsored by the two groups in the last four years. Past celebrity appearances include Joan Embery in 1981 and Amanda Blake

Bus slips off sidewalk, wedges against truck

By The Collegian Staff

A small bus attempting to squeeze by a tractor-trailer truck delivering newsprint to Kedzie Hall wedged itself against the front of the truck Thursday morning.

The bus driver, Fred Smith, 331A West Third, Junction City, employed by the Junction City-Fort Riley-Manhattan Bus Co., said the bus slipped off the curb as he tried to drive on the sidewalk between the Union and Kedzie at about 10:35 a.m.

The truck driver, Dan Deshong, of Augusta, Ill., said he had been driving for seven years and had never been in a mishap while a professional truck driver. The rig is owned by Ron Parick, White City.

No one was injured in the accident, and damage estimates were not

A small group of curious students cheered and clapped as the bus driver slowly edged the bus from between the curb and the tractor-trailer truck at 11 a.m.

Firm reports damage

When employees of Reliable Transfer and Storage, 414 S. 5th St., arrived for work Sept. 23, they noticed the safe of the building had been attacked.

Damage to the safe included breaking off the combination dial and a handle, which were removed from the scene. Entry to the safe was not gained nor were any items reported stolen from elsewhere in the business. The point of entry to the building appears to have been on the northwest side of the building.

Investigators for the Riley County Police Department have no suspects at this time.

Information on this or any other crime may be reported to Crime Stoppers at 539-7777.

Please enjoy an omelet at and save 50¢ Includes hashbrowns and muffins Try Sunday morning breakfast from 8 30 a m - 11 30 a m Free Homemade Cinnamon Rolls, Muffins and Donuts with your omelet purchase Must present coupon Open Daily Expires 12/1/85 til Midnigh aramie

Questions surface about 'antibiotic-fed beef'

By GISELE McMINIMY Collegian Reporter

consumption of Human antibiotic-fed beef is a topic creating a lot of questions in the consuming public's mind, said Jack Riley, professor of animal sciences and industry.

Many of these questions have stemmed from a well-publicized research article, called the Holmberg Report, from the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

The article implied several people died of a salmonella infection because they had eaten meat from a herd of beef cattle in South Dakota which had been fed low level antibiotics, Riley said. According to the article, the low levels of antibiotics in the meat caused people not to respond to antibiotic therapy when they were challenged with salmonella, Riley

"The consuming public, in the form of the media, swallowed it hook, line and sinker with the idea there were no problems with the data (Holmberg Report)," Riley said. "Closer scrutiny since then has indicated there's some serious problems with Holmberg's particular conclusions.

Riley said hearings have been held on the use of antibiotics in feed and no decision has been given yet.

"As every day passes without a decision rendered, it lends speculation to the fact that they don't think there's an imminent health hazard," Riley said.

There has been no creditable evidence of danger to humans from antibiotic-fed beef, Riley said.

The amount of antibiotic residues in meat are controlled and regulated to keep levels within a certain amount, he said.

"Assuming they are consuming the upper limit of antibiotic that is approved, a person would have to eat 550 pounds of beef per day to be equivalent to a pill that a lot of teenagers take for therapeutic control of acne," Riley said.

Livestock producers would be the most concerned if there was legitimate, scientifically documented justification of potential threat to human health, Riley said.

"If there is a problem with using antibiotics in the animal and the possible transfer of problems to humans, then who should be the most directly vulnerable? It's the people who are raising the animals," he said.

Antibiotics are fed to animals in their feed because a lot of the problems in animal production are subtherapeutic disease-related problems, Riley said. Subtherapeutic problems are not acute, but are problems just lying under the sur-

"We've got to maintain a healthy, wholesome food supply," Riley said. "We have the most to lose. The individual consumer has alternatives. Nobody says they have to

Riley said it is hard to estimate the effect of the antibiotic con-

Senate

Continued from Page 1

dation, Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, President Duane Acker and Faculty Senate.

During open period, University President Duane Acker spoke to senate. Acker briefly addressed the topics of the financial situation at Farrell Library; academic advising; his missions and goals; views on a new president; retention and student success; and the University organizational chart.

Acker also expressed his position on the coliseum. He said it must meet specifications and be of high quality. He also wants to know where the money is coming from and have high confidence that it can be built within the budget

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance; Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect; and Vincent Cool, associate director of planning, also attended the meeting.

DATING AND VIOLENCE

on Katherine Brady's lecture. Friday, Nov. 1, 2:30 p.m. Union Rm. 207

SHUFFLE DOWN FOR A YUM YUM!

SWANNIE'S BACKDOOR DOWNTOWN

Longstem Red Roses

12th and Laramie

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS $1.25 each

10-5:30 M.-Sat. NWEALTH THEATRES MOVIE MARQUEE

> AGNES OF GOD PG 13

Daily at 4:45-7-9:15 Mat. Sun. only at 2:30 TO LIVE AND DIE IN L.A. R

DEATH WISH III R

West Loop GODZILLA 1985

AFTER HOURS -SEPARATE ADMISSION Daily at 9 only

West Loop

MARIE, A TRUE STORY FC 13

Janet Costin Merle Leonard Kevin Religa Kevin Hoops Paul Stamy

Galen Harbers

FUNDRINKERY

Monday

-Comedy Invasion— Tom Burgeon from Kansas City along with

Brian Burgess

Mike Legleiter Ron Hendrickson Dan Faulkner Jeff Lavery Brian Dierberger Brett Savers

Scott Staggenborg

T.G.I.F.

Free

hors d'oeuvres

old time

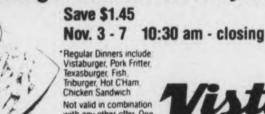

rock 'n' roll

This Coupon Good Sunday Monday Tuesday Wednesday Thursday

Nov. 3 Thru Nov. 7

This Coupon Good All This Week Nov. 3 Thru Nov. 9

Buy any regular* dinner on Vista's menu -Get a Vistaburger Dinner for only $1.00 Save $1.45

Biscuits and Homemade Sausage Gravy

Nov. 3 - 9 Breakfast Hours: 6-10:30 Mon.-Sat. 7-10:30 Sunday Not valid in combination with any other offer eat beef or chicken or pork.'

competitive again.

troversy on the livestock industry.

Deficit The trade deficit has led to growing demands in Congress for passage

Continued from Page I

joint efforts with other countries to drive the dollar down. While these efforts have driven the dollar lower in recent weeks, many analysts said that a further 20 percent decline is needed to make American producers of legislation to protect domestic producers from a host of imports ranging from textiles to water beds. The administration is fighting these measures, claiming they would hurt U.S. consumers and lead to retaliation by other countries.

KENNEDY'S CLAIM

Game Day Buffets

PRIME RIB Buffet 5-10 p.m.

DRINK SPECIALS Bloody Marys

> Screwdrivers $1.50

2304 Stagg Hill Rd. 537-8442 Across from the Holidome

BREAST CANCER Let's Fight Back

you're young, it's not easy to think of disease. It only happens to "other people"

Wrong. Breast cancer knows no age barriers. Breast cancer strikes women of all ages...all

LET'S FIGHT BACK

Memorial Hospital has scheduled a series of public meetings, the subject is breast cancer. These free WELLNESS meetings will deal with self exams, detection methods and cancer education. Most of all, mammograms will be encouraged.

THE VALUE OF MAMMOGRAPHY

A mammogram is a simple procedure using x-rays to show abnormalities of the breast. During November, the Memorial Hospital radiology department will offer mammograms during extended evening hours. We want you to take advantage of this

Join one of our classes offered on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. November 5-13 or Saturday mornings at 10:00 a.m. November 9 and 16. Contact administration at 776-3300 to Care about yourself...don't be careless with your future.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL Working together for a healthier you

National Radiology Week is November 4-10

Kansas State

Monday

November 4, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan. Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 50

Soviets to review U.S. proposals for ceilings on nuclear armaments

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Finland - The United States has proposed a ceiling on American and Soviet strategic bombers and a freeze on nuclear missiles in Europe as part of a new arms control accord with Moscow, a senior U.S. official said Sunday.

See related story Page 13

Other key elements of the package now before Soviet negotiators in Geneva include a ceiling of 3,000 on long-range nuclear warheads and no limits on submarine-launched cruise missiles.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said there is "compromise" in President Reagan's proposal to overcome what he described as "hookers" - snares - in the plan Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev submitted five weeks ago.

For instance, the ceiling of 3,000 on intercontinental ballistic missile warheads is 500 higher than the initial U.S. position in the Geneva negotiations. It would allow the Soviets to retain more of their landbased missile arsenal, the heart of Soviet nuclear strength.

Gorbachev called for a 3,600-warhead limit on strategic ground missiles, bombers and nuclear submarines.

The U.S. official said that if the Soviets accepted the American package deal, there would be no mobile Soviet strategic missiles or any new heavy intercontinental ballistic missiles added to the superpowers' arsenals.

This would presumably prompt the United States, in return, to scuttle the single-warhead Midget Man, which has stirred complaints by some members of Congress. The Soviet SS-24 missile and SS-25 mobile missile are much more advanced than the Midget Man, which is still on drawing broad.

But the outlook for an early agreement appears dim. Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who is expected to discuss prospects for an accord during two days of

See WEAPONS, Page 14

Alcohol, drug dependency at issue in athletes' meeting

By SARAH KESSINGER Collegian Reporter

In today's high-pressure society, the nature of alcohol is a boost to confidence for many during their adolescent years, which can lead to problems later in life.

Tom Gregoire, director of St. John's Alcohol Treatment Unit in Salina, spoke to about 200 people on "Crossing the Thin Line Between Social Drinking and Alcholism," at a mandatory meeting for all University student-athletes Sunday evening in Union

The presentation was given at the first meeting in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics' Total Person program designed primarily for K-State's student-athletes. In an attempt to address the problems of drugs and alcohol, Gregoire said stress, fears and inadequacies of teen-agers disappear for many who choose alcohol as a shortcut to avoiding problems. But the denial of alcohol dependency can readily affect their performance and cause a strain on those closest to them.

"People who use alcohol are meeting a lot of needs with that alcohol," Gregoire said. "They defend their relationship with something that is important to them. One who has a problem with alcohol doesn't see

The Total Person program and St. John's Hospital Assessment Center and Chemical Dependency Treatment Programs sponsored the hour-long program that included a film and talk on the causes and cures of alcoholism.

Assistant Athletic Director Steve Miller, who is in charge of the Total Person pro-

Marcos

to permit elections

By The Associated Press

Ferdinand E. Marcos, facing mounting U.S. criticism and a growing insurgency at home, said Sunday he is willing to hold elections within three months to settle questions of his has been asking for an election. In answer to their request, I announce that I am ready to call a snap election perhaps earlier than eight months, perhaps three months or less,"

Marcos said on ABC-TV's "This

ABC producer Bill Thomas said

here that the election could be held

Jan. 17, the anniversary of the 1981

lifting of eight years of martial law.

But Marcos said an exact date for the proposed election was not expected popularity on both sides have to be settled," said Marcos, 68 and in Marcos first hinted in August that he might call an early election after opposition lawmakers in the National Assembly announced they would seek his impeachment for cor-

When the governing party crushed

the impeachment measure, Marcos

"All this childish claims to before next week, Thomas added.

ld him after the interview

Week With David Brinkley.'

'Well I understand the opposition popularity.

MANILA, Philippines - President

See.TOTAL, Page 14

Authorities hunt killers in Mexico

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - The nation's top law enforcement officials went to a remote mountain area in southern Mexico Sunday to lead the hunt for drug traffickers who killed 21 policemen who had found a large cache of marijuana.

Among the slain officers, some reportedly captured and tortured before being killed, was Alfredo Malaga Vazquez, chief of the Veracruz State Police.

The attack occurred Friday morning near the community of Hidalgotitlan in southern Veracruz state and about 40 miles north of the Oaxaca state border, according to Veracruz officials.

Mexican drug agents have said the area is a center of the country's marijuana production.

Federal Attorney General Sergio Garcia Ramirez was in Veracruz to take charge of the investigation, along with Mexico's Interpol director Florentino Ventura and Jose Maria Ortega, chief of the federal government's anti-drug campaign. Army troops were sent on a village-byvillage search of the rugged area, the state government said.

Two policemen managed to escape the ambush and made their way by 9 a.m. Saturday to Acayucan, about 24 miles northwest of the shooting site,

See KILLINGS, Page 14

By The Associated Press

Soviet soldier who has sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, Afghanistan, met the Soviet ambassador Sunday in the presence of American diplomats and a U.S. Marine guard, the U.S.

The staff of the U.S. Embassy was meanwhile staying inside the building after an American was mistreated by Soviet and Afghan troops surrounding the compound, said U.S. diplomats in Islamabad, Pakistan, who in-

The Soviet soldier entered the U.S. Embassy gates Friday as another person was leaving, U.S.

U.S. officials said the man, identified only as a 19-year Soviet private, had been on guard duty at Radio Kabul near the embassy.

He seemed confused, saying at first that he wanted to go home

The soldier met Soviet Ambassador Fikryat A. Tabeev at 3 p.m. in the U.S. Embassy in the presence of the U.S. charge d'afand was tired of the war.

State Department said.

sisted on anonymity.

officials said.

HELSINKI, Finland - The Soviet private seeks refuge from fighting

Staff/John Sleezer

Light night

fairs, Edward Hurwitz.

George P. Shultz.

ved inconclusive.

chose to do so.'

"The meeting was held at the soldier's request," according to a statement distributed to reporters traveling with Secretary of State that the Soviet soldier has asked for more time to think over any decision he may take. A second meeting has been set for tomorrow (today) morning at the U.S.

In Washington, D.C., the chairman of a House subcommittee that oversees embassy operations said the Soviet ambassador offered the soldier "the equivalent of amnesty" but the meeting pro-

Rep. Dan Mica, D-Fla., said he was told during a briefing with the State Department Sunday morning that the "Soviet ambassador indicated a willingness to let the soldier return to the Soviet Union without facing any charges, if he

American diplomats in Islamabad said power to the U.S.

Embassy in the Afghan capital

See DEFECTOR, Page 14

Embassy," said the statement.

"The upshot of the meeting was Daryl Yarrow, sophomore in agricultural education, studies by flashlight Sunday night as he waits in line outside Ahearn Field House for men's basketball season tickets, which go on sale today at 1 p.m. Tickets are being sold on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Program to assist downtown area

City to get 'Main Street' aid

By MARGARET MAY Collegian Reporter

Manhattan was recently named as one of five Kansas cities to participate in the National Main Street Program in an announcement by Kansas Lt. Gov. Tom Docking.

The Main Street program is a national organization formed to assist projects preserving downtown areas of cities with populations under 50,000. Other cities selected for participation are Lawrence, Hutchinson, Independence and Winfield.

Members of the Manhattan Design Project thought it was important to enter the program because of the proposed mall in the downtown area, said Brenda Spencer, coordinator of Manhattan Design Project. The Main Street program can be set up to coordinate and strengthen the downtown area and the mall.

The application was proposed under the organizational structure of Manhattan Inc. with an approximate budget of $102,000 for the first year, Spencer said. The city had to raise $85,000 through the city of Manhattan, Riley County, Forest City Enterprises of Cleveland, the Downtown Business Improvement District, Manhattan Inc., the Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce and individual contributions, she said.

The Main Street Program does not provide any funds, but provides consulting services, training for the project manager and a resource team to evaluate the needs and assets of

The program has four parts organization, promotion, design and economic restructuring.

Manhattan, Spencer said.

Organization, provided by the program, coordinates the public and private factors and groups all of the efforts of downtown into one project with the hope of having good results and saving money, Spencer said.

"Promotion relates to organization to strengthen existing promotions and coordinating more activities in the downtown areas," she said. "We want to coordinate downtown and the Design will do what the Manhattan Design Project does as far as making plans for landscaping and visual improvements in the downtown area, Spencer said.

Economic restructuring will recruit businesses appropriate to the downtown area, she said, and strengthen the economic base by filling vacancies in the area.

The Main Street Planning Committee is advertising for a full-time project manager in various national magazines and newspapers, said Richard Burke, chairman of the committee.

'We (the committee) are looking for a person with good communicative and organizational skills, enthusiasm and the tenacity to get the job done," he said.

Marketing and advertising skills are also important because the project manager will be "selling Manhattan to this region and the Midwest by planning and executing promotions," Burke said.

The Downtown Redevelopment Advisory Board is expected to disband at the November city commission meeting, said Bernd Foerster, a board member.

"We do not want to duplicate efforts with the Main Street Planning Committee," Foerster said.

The Main Street Project was started in 1977 by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. The goal was to have economic development while preserving historical aesthetics. In order to organize its program nationally, the National Main Street Center was started in 1980. Since its start, the center has helped more than 130 cities in 16 states, according to the "Main Street: Open for Business" report.

dropped the idea of early balloting, saying a government-sponsored survey showed a majority of power 20 years.

ruption.

Filipinos wanted him to finish his term until 1987. In Washington, D.C., White House spokesperson Bill Hart said he would have no comment on Marcos' statements because the question of elections in the Philippines "is an internal matter." Opposition leaders welcomed the announcement, and said former Sen. Salvador Laurel or Corazon Aquino, the widow of assassinated former Sen. Benigno Aquino, could oppose Marcos.

"A snap election...is about the best thing that can happen to this country," Assemblyman Homobono Adaza said, and could remove Marcos from power. Marcos' move came at a time when the moderate political opposition is divided by feuds, with several leaders projecting themselves as possible candidates.

Adaza, vice president of the coalition United Nationalist Democratic Organization (UNIDO), said he was sure there will be only one opposition candidate. "In the interest of common survival we will have to put up one candidate or face debacle, and we're all pragmatic in the opposi-

Marcos, dismissing allegations that he was responsible for massive voter fraud in previous elections, said members of the U.S. Congress would be invited to observe.

The Reagan administration is becoming increasingly concerned about the growing communist revolt in the Philippines.

Comedian Robert Klein performed Friday night in front of a full house in McCain Auditorium. See Page 9.

Weather

Sunny today, highs mid-60s. Light and variable winds. Clear tonight, lows mid-30s. Tuesday, sunny and warmer. Highs around 70.

Sports

The Nebaska Cornhuskers chalked up their 600th win as they defeated the Wildcats, 41-3, Saturday at KSU Stadium. See Page 11.

INTERNATIONAL

President's party take lead in votes

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina - President Raul Alfonsin's centerleft party took an early lead Sunday in the country's first interim congressional elections in 20 years.

The outcome of the elections, the first ever held here under a state of siege, is seen as a referendum on Alfonsin's policies.

He declared the state of siege on Oct. 25 in a crackdown on a small group of militant rightists who he said were trying to undermine his elected government in power since 1983.

Half of the House of Deputies' 254 seats were up for election — 35 of them in Buenos Aires province.

With 3 percent of the vote in that province counted, Alfonsin's Radical Civic Union led with 74,206 votes, or 49 percent. The main opposition Peronist Party had 35 percent while the leftist Intransigent Party was third with 9 percent. The remainder was divided between several smaller parties.

Similar margins were reported from many of the country's 22 provinces, although it was too early to determine how many seats each party would win.

In the capital city, where 13 House seats were at stake, the Peronists' own projections showed Alfonsin's party taking 43 percent and the Peronists 25 percent.

Election officials said more than 75 percent of the 18.7 million voters nationwide cast ballots. The voting, which is mandatory, went off without any reported incident.

Argentina has not staged exclusively legislative elections since 1965. Military coups in 1966 and 1976 cut short democratic rule before elections could be held.

2 plead guilty in Greenpeace case

AUCKLAND. New Zealand - Two French secret agents on today pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the July 10 sinking of the Greenpeace flagship Rainbow Warrior.

The change in the charge from murder to the lesser charge of manslaughter came as a surprise to spectators in the crowded cour-

Maj. Alain Mafart and Capt. Dominque Prieur pleaded guilty to the charges of manslaughter and wilfull damage in the sinking of the ship in which a Greenpeace photographer, Fernando Pereira, was

There is no set penalty for manslaughter, and the two agents will be ordered before the High Court for sentencing.

Some legal observers said the government's decision to accept the pleas to the lesser charges indicated it might deport the couple. They had been charged with murder, arson and conspiracy.

Prime Minister David Lange had said Sunday that the agents probably had no physical connection with blowing up the Rainbow Warrior that was blasted by two mines while docked in Auckland harbor. "I would be almost certain that those two never had anything physically to do on the night of July 10 which caused that ship to sink and that man to die," Lange said. The agents were arrested in New Zealand on July 12.

The Rainbow Warrior was to have led a flotilla to protest French nuclear tests at Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific.

Lange, a former criminal lawyer, said he had no knowledge of the details of the prosecution's case against the pair.

PEOPLE

'Today' co-host calls network inept

INDIANAPOLIS - Former "CBS Morning News" co-anchor Phyllis George was the victim of CBS network "ineptitude," says her ex-rival, "Today" show co-host Jane Pauley.

Pauley made the remark during a speech to the 10th annual Indiana Writers Association Conference here.

George left CBS in September. She had been criticized for on-air gaffes by TV columnists, and the "CBS Morning News" has failed to advance from last place in the morning news show ratings.

"She was sabotaged by the ineptitude of CBS," Pauley said Saturday. "CBS did nothing to make it work for her."

Heston leads 500 in Welles tribute

LOS ANGELES - Film and stage stars Charlton Heston, Janet Leigh and Geraldine Fitzgerald led an overflow crowd of 500 people at the Directors Guild Theater to mark the passing of moviemaker Orson Welles.

Welles, who died Oct. 10 of a heart attack at age 70, was hailed by television producer Greg Garrison on Saturday as a genius who mastered the art of filmmaking, "but not its games."

"Orson was the most talented man I ever worked with - have ever seen," said Heston, who was directed by Welles in "Touch of Evil."

"He was so enormously gifted that things came to him casually."

Leigh, another star of "Touch of Evil," said: "You left us a lot, I do wish you would have been allowed to leave us more."

Fitzgerald, who appeared on Broadway with Welles' Mercury Theater, said Welles unfortunatedly didn't follow the advice he gave her: "Don't fight Hollywood, because Hollywood is quicksand - the harder you fight, the deeper you sink."

NATIONAL

Search team finds 5 bodies in mine

ORANGEVILLE, Utah - The first five bodies of victims of last year's Wilberg Mine fire, found after recovery teams cut a new tunnel, were removed from the damaged coal mine early Sunday.

The bodies, located early Saturday, were placed in body bags at the central Utah mine, carried about a mile to the surface and taken to the state medical examiner's office in Salt Lake City for identification, said John Duray, a United Mine Workers union official.

Twenty-six men and one woman were working in the mine's 5th Right section last Dec. 9 when a fire erupted in the 1st North tunnel system, a main artery into the mine.

Three days later, the fast-spreading blaze forced officials to evacuate the mine and seal it, with the bodies inside, to deprive the Crews hope to recover the bodies of 10 more victims deeper inside the mine within the week, said Bob Henrie, spokesman for Emery Mining Corp., which operates the mine for Utah Power & Light Co. Henrie said recovery of the remaining bodies could take weeks.

Spread of AIDS worries dentists

SAN FRANCISCO - Fear of AIDS sent hundreds of dentists trooping into weekend lectures on infection control, where they were urged to stop discriminating against AIDS patients and pay more attention to office hygiene.

"There is a lot of hysteria. I'm trying to tell dentists there is no reason for concern," said Dr. Mario Andriolo Jr., a New York dentist who lectured on treatment of acquired immune deficiency syndrome patients during the American Dental Association's annual meeting.

The AIDS virus is spread primarily by sexual contact or contact with infected blood. But it also has been found in saliva. Droplets of blood and saliva are frequently splattered toward dentists' faces during routine dental work. Dentists also nick themselves with sharp tools.

However, "despite the public hysteria, this remains a difficult disease to transmit," said Dr. Harry Hollander, head of the AIDS clinic at the University of California at San Francisco.

Hollander told a standing-room-only crowd of 300 dental care workers "to not shun the responsibility of care for these patients."

REGIONAL

Accidents kill 5 on state roadways

Five people were killed on state roads and highways in weekend traffic accidents, including two women who died Saturday when their car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer rig carrying liquid fertilizer, authorities said.

The Sedgwick County Sheriff's Department identifed the women as Cherle L. Wohlschlegel, 20, of Harper, and Jane M. Snyder, 22, of Authorities said the accident on Kansas 42, 15 miles southwest of Wichita, occurred about 2:30 p.m. when the driver of the car attempted to pass a pickup truck.

Norman Jones, 27, of Liberal, died Sunday morning in a one-car accident on U.S. 83, just south of the Finney-Haskell county line in southwest part of the state, the Kansas Highway Patrol said.

Jones' car ran off the road into a ditch, became airborne, then rolled several times, throwing the driver from the car, the patrol said. Vernon Schweer II, 22, of Garden City, was killed early Sunday morning when he was struck by a car while crossing a city street in

Also killed Sunday was Terry Kinnamon, 31, of Wichita. Police said Kinnamon's car hit a curb and overturned on a southeast city street. He died a short time later at a local hospital, police said.

Pilot says indifference detrimental

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - A key cause of terrorism is Western countries' indifference to oppression in the Middle East, says Capt. John Testrake, pilot of the hijacked Trans World Airlines flight 847.

"We as a people have got to become better informed of what is going on around the world," Testrake told 330 newspaper representatives at a Missouri Press Association convention Saturday at a Kansas City hotel. "If we can bother to take the time and trouble, we might head off the explosion. We might not get hijacked.'

Testrake described himself as a "average, garden variety citizen," with little knowledge of Middle Eastern affairs before his plane was taken hostage in June by Shiite Moslem terrorists.

The hijackers demanded that more than 700 Shiite Moslem prisoners be released from Israeli detention camps. He said the demand surprised him because he did not know about the prisoners. "This was the beginning of my education," Testrake said.

While Americans viewed the plane's passengers as hostages and the slain U.S. Navy frogman as a murder victim, the Shiite hijackers looked on the Israeli-held prisoners as hostages. And the hijackers viewed as murder victims those killed when the U.S. Battleship New Jersey shelled Beirut 18 months earlier.

"The thing I wound up thinking," he said, "was that they had a

Campus Bulletin

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. at Deborah Canter's house, 1938 Huntington Ave.

COLLEGIATE FFA meets for yearbook pic-tures at 8:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE PEARLS AND RUBIES meet at 9 p.m. at the FarmHouse frater-

MORTAR BOARD meets at 9 p.m. in Justin lob-

ALPHA KAPPA PSI will have a pledge neeting at 8 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room.

SAMS meets at 3 p.m. in Union SGA Conference Room 1. The business solicitations committee will meet at 6 p.m.

AG YEARBOOK STAFF meets at 9 p.m. in Waters 135.

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets at 5:30

HORTICULTURAL THERAPY CLUB meets at

FENIX will have a forum at 10 a.m. in Holton

Union Big Eight Room BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS meets

SAMS meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202.

SSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS: Officers neet at 9 p.m. at the Lambda Chi Alpha annex. A general meeting will follow at 9:30 p.m.

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 8:30 p.m.

TUESDAY

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS neets at 7 p.m. in Union Flint Hills Room.

GOLDEN KEY meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. Yearbook pictures will follow.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT will

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 213.

PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7 p.m. in the SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

have an informational meeting on sun employment at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 220.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jairaj V. Pothuluri at 9 a.m. in Throckmorton 124. The dissertation topic will be "Plant P Uptake and Soil Test P Change in Some Kansas Soils."

Middle East leader says latest violence hurts PLO's image

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Jordan's King Hussein, calling recent Middle East violence a terrible setback for the Palestine Liberation Organization, said Sunday he told PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat that the peace process is in danger unless we "put our act together."

Hussein said he was sticking by the PLO as the legitimate representative of the Palestinian people in proposed peace talks with Israel, but that he demanded steps by Arafat to improve his organization's image.

The two leaders met in Amman last week to discuss the latest cycle of violence that began in September with the killing of three Israelis in Cyprus, followed by an Israeli air at-lack on PLO headquarters and culminating in the hijacking of the eruise ship Achille Lauro by PLO faction "I believe it was our mutual view that some of these actions represented terrible setbacks and if anyone suffered, the Palestinian image and the Palestinian dimension was adversely affected more than any," Hussein said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"We have looked at where we stand right now and it's obvious to me and to him that we have to put our act together once and for all," Hussein said.

"We have to know where we stand and where we are going. It's obvious that for the PLO to partake in the peace process for the future...then they obviously have to determine what actions they are to take to enable them to play their part - and I'm expecting some answers soon."

A major stumbling block in getting Israel to accept the PLO as a bargaining partner has been refusal of Arafat to recognize Israeli statehood.

Hussein asserted that if Israel accepts his call for an international conference to reach a Mideast peace settlement, such recognition by the PLO might follow. The king reacted bitterly to a recent Senate decision barring the sale of $1.9 billion in sophisticated armaments to Jordan until Hussein begins direct and meaningful peace negotiations with Israel. Critics of the sale in the House said last week they might try to toughen the restrictions by making them apply to all weapons, not just the most advanced ones. "We will be looking to the Soviet Union and others for a way to determine in our own minds where we go from here if Washington, after 28 years of a relationship with our military, has decided to put an end to it," the Jordanian ruler said. He said he will wait until a delegation of Jordanian military officers returns from a series of meetings in Washington, D.C., before making a decision on where to get the arms. But he won't wait long. The Reagan administration proposed the arms deal on the ground that Jordan needs good defenses against possible attack from more militant governments in the Middle East, notably Iran.

> Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

BREAST CANCER Let's Fight Back

easy to think of disease. It only happens to "other people"

Wrong. Breast cancer knows

no age barriers. Breast cancer

strikes women of all ages...all

LET'S FIGHT BACK

Memorial Hospital has scheduled a series of public meetings, the subject is breast cancer. These free WELLNESS meetings will deal with self exams, detection methods and

mammograms will be encouraged. THE VALUE OF MAMMOGRAPHY cancer education. Most of all,

A mammogram is a simple procedure using x-rays to show abnormalities of the breast. During November, the Memorial Hospital radiology department will offer mammograms during extended evening hours. We want you to take advantage of this

Join one of our classes offered on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. November 5-13 or Saturday mornings at 10:00 a.m. November 9 and 16. Contact administration at 776-3300 to Care about yourself...don't be careless with your future.

MEMORIAL

HOSPITAL

National Radiology Week is November 4-10

GRADUATING ENGINEERS

CAREERS TO POWER YOUR FUTURE

Kansas City Power & Light Company services 350,000 commercial and residential customers throughout western Missouri and eastern Kansas. We are a medium-sized investor-owned organization, with high-visibility opportunities for bright, talented engineering graduates.

If you have a degree in Mechanical or Electrical Engineering, cumulative

GPA of 2.8 or better, and power curriculum or power industry internship #### experience, see where your future could lead you with KCPL... TRANSMISSION & DISTRIBUTION

 Electrical Engineers with power orientation can steadily progress into construction and maintenance or technical supervision

GENERATING ENGINEERS

 Degreed Mechanical or Electrical Engineers who are good leaders can take our "fast track" into Middle Management.

RELIABILITY PROGRAMS ENGINEERS

 Graduating Mechanical Engineers can advance their professional credentials by experiencing a variety of problems and solutions in power plant maintenance.

More information is available at your College Placement Office. Stop by. or write to us directly, detailing your educational and practical achievement

George L. Crump Employment Services Dept. Kansas City Power & Light Co. P.O. Box 679 Kansas City, MO 64141

We are an equal opportunity employer. m/f.

GET TWO EDUCATIONS FROM ONE COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP.

And an education in becoming an Army officer. You get both with an Army ROTE scholarship. Army ROTC is the college program that trains controllege sme an officer a leader and a manager You take RCTC, along with cour-other studies, and graduate with both a degree and a second hourenant's commi-

Best of all concern part beatror cour echications to cock right awar. In testa o modernhigh ach Army ac needlemaners communications experts computer special

BE ALLYOU CAN BE.

For more information, call MAJ Krimmer, Army ROTC, 532-6754.

Campus

Wolf Creek to be discussion topic

Bob Rives, group vice president of corporate relations for Kansas Gas and Electric, will speak about the Wolf Creek Nuclear Power Plant and his relations with the media, activist groups and other publics concerned with Wolf Creek, 7 p.m. Thursday in Kedzie Hall

Rives will speak to journalism students at a meeting hosted by Women in Communications, Inc. A question and answer period will follow the speech.

Continuing education adds to staff

Charles Havlicek has joined the Division of Continuing Education staff as assistant director of the Conference Section.

He previously was university coordinator for the Division of Continuing Studies at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Havlicek will be working with marketing of conference programs along with program development. He also will be assuming responsibilities for day-to-day operations of the Conference Section.

Havlicek is a doctoral candidate at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln specializing in community and human resources. He has a bachelor's degree in agriculture and agronomy and a master of arts degree in adult and continuing education, both from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Student receives $1,000 scholarship

A service organization, the Sertoma Club of Manhatttan, recently awarded a $1,000 scholarship to Donna Sternsdorff, a speech, pathology and audiology graduate student.

Sternsdorff was selected on the basis of academic scholarship and dedication to the area of speech pathology and audiology. This is the first year the award has been given.

The organization supports research in speech and hearing disorders, said Gerald Wilde, professor of entomology and member of the Sertoma Club.

Sternsdorff is in her second year of graduate studies at the Univer-

Staff members join human ecology

The College of Human Ecology has added six new members to its staff this fall.

Included are John Murray, associate professor and department head of human development and family studies; Howard Barnes and David Wright, both assistant professors of HDFS; Mary Gregoire, assistant professor of dietetics, restaurant and institutional management; Bernard Rueschhoff and Carol Ann Honeycutt, both assistant professors of clothing, textiles and interior design.

Explosion, fire in silo kills 3, injures 4

By The Associated Press

MARION, S.D. - A grain elevator was rocked by an explosion and fire that blew open a 100-foot concrete silo with a column of flame, fatally injured three people and threatened the community's economy.

As officials on Sunday cordoned off a two-block area around the elevator while an investigation into the cause of the Saturday night blast continued, a second body was recovered and a third man died in a hospital of his injuries.

Four other people were injured. One was in serious condition after being trapped under a concrete slab for more than three hours late Saturday while rescuers used a bucket brigade to remove grain covering him, authorities said.

The elevator is a vital part of local agriculture and "if it doesn't get restructured, there will be a whole lot of hurt," said Duane Tieszen, mayor of the town of 830 people, 40 miles southwest of Sioux Falls.

State fire marshal's investigators

It was 'just a pillar...just like a ball of fire going in the air. I don't know how high it was.'

—Doug Steffen Marion, S.D. volunteer firefighter were at the scene Sunday, but they had not determined the cause of the explosion at the Farmers Co-op Grain Association elevator.

Grain dust suspended in air can explode if ignited.

Deputy Fire Marshal Darrel Fodness of Lennox said equipment was being brought in to clear away 30,000 to 40,000 bushels of corn that spilled into the elevator's office area, but he said it could be noon today before an investigation could begin.

Elevator employees worked Sunday to remove records from the lessdamaged part of the office area of the 275,000-bushel elevator, built in

The 6:10 p.m. Saturday blast tore out the part of the elevator area where grain trucks enter, blowing out most of the wall of the 100-foot structure and leaving jagged hunks of concrete dangling from metal reinforcing bars at the top of the hole. Grain and debris were strewn around the area.

It was "just a pillar...just like a ball of fire going in the air. I don't know how high it was," said Doug Steffen, a Marion volunteer firefighter who witnessed the blast.

Marion farmer Dennis Herlyn was trapped under a concrete slab for three hours and 20 minutes.

Rescue workers set up a bucket brigade to scoop grain off Herlyn and used hydraulic equipment to free him, but the process was slow because workers were afraid of dislodging concrete and further injuring him.

Herlyn was in critical condition Sunday at Sioux Valley Hospital in Sioux Falls.

Authorities identified the dead as local farmer Delbert Dick, part-time elevator employee Roger Schultz, and elevator employee Keith Schoenwald, all of Marion.

Turner County Sheriff Paul Morehouse said Dick's body was recovered Saturday night. Schultz's body was found early Sunday under the rubble near the Schoenwald died Sunday at Sioux Valley Hospital, a hospital spokesperson sajd.

elevator's truck scale, he said.

Three other Marion residents were taken to hospitals. Two were in stable condition and one was released after treatment.

Council will sponsor new lecture series

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

If you were going to die tomorrow, what would you say in your last lec-

Four faculty members will answer that question by speaking in the Last Lecture Series, a new series sponsored by Arts and Sciences Council.

Max Milbourn, emeritus professor of journalism and mass communications, will open the series at 7 p.m. Dec. 9 in the Nichols Hall Theater, which will also serve as the site for three lectures scheduled for next semester.

Other speakers tentatively scheduled include Richard P. Coleman, professor of marketing; John Exdell, associate professor of philosophy; and Roger Trenary, instructor in economics.

Topics for the lecture series have not yet been announced.

Each year, three of the lecturers will be from the College of Arts and Sciences, with the fourth coming from another college. "Kansas State has a number of faculty members who are as well liked or loved for who they are personally as for how much they know," said Don Smith, assistant to the dean in the College of Arts and Sciences. "Most people only get to see how much a professor knows," he said. "This gives the professors and the students (the opportunity to) interact on a more personal level."

The Council invited faculty members they believed were popular with students and who the students respect, Smith said.

"A professor can be popular because he grades easy or is a good teacher, but that doesn't automatically bring in respect,' Smith said. "These folks have earned the respect of their students and their fellow faculty members."

Each speaker chooses his own topic for the lecture. The subjects could cover "personal philosophy, tips on fishing, summation of the discipline or party hearty 'til you puke," Smith said.

Two side benefits to the University are the videotaping of each lecture and having the series in Nichols Hall

Under the direction of Dave Mac-Farland, associate professor in journalism and mass communications, students in radio and television will tape and edit each performance.

KTWU, the public broadcasting station in Topeka, has expressed interest in the series, Smith said, adding that broadcasting the shows would be good for the University's image and help recruitment.

Nichols Hall Theater is a good location for the lecture, Smith said, because speakers can stand at a podium and the audience can sit on three sides of the stage. By using chairs on the fourth side of the stage, it wil become a theater-in-the-round with a seating capacity of 288. "We'll only abandon Nichols if it's absolutely jam-packed to the gills,"

Smith said. The key to the program's success depends on getting the caliber of faculty that would draw students and having the students attend, he said. "It could be fun and interesting," to give a lecture in Nichols Hall

Theater, Exdell said. "I understand some people don't like the medical prognosis implied," Coleman said. "I was delighted to be asked. I'm ready to tell the world about destiny in America."

Of the seven faculty members asked, two are going on sabbatical next semester and said they didn't have the time to participate in the lecture series, while one declined.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

619 N. Manhattan

Thursday, November 7, 8:00 p.m.

Performed by Beverly Sills' New York City Opera National Company

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

Sack Special

Poor Boy Medium Fountain Drink Chips Reg. $2.26 value

only $1.99

Eat in or carry out Good through Nov. 10, 1985

11 a.m.-1a.m.

1816 Claflin

you'll ever love

Put your degree to work where it can do

Your first job after graduation should offer you more than just a paycheck. We can offer you an experience that lasts a lifetime.

Working together with people in a different culture is something you'll never forget. It's a learning experience everyone can benefit from.

In Science or Engineering, Education, Agriculture, or Health, Peace Corps projects in developing countries around the world are bringing help where it's needed.

If you're graduating this year, look into a unique opportunity to put your degree to work where it can do a world of good. Look into Peace Corps.

Placement Center interviews: Wed. & Thurs., Nov. 6 & 7 Holtz Hall Free Film: Nov. 6-6:30 pm Union, Rm. 203 Info. table: 10/29-30, 11/6-Union

Monday HIGH ROLLERS Any Single Liquor Call or Premium Drink Only

$1.50

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE.

Memberships available

539.9967

Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers From Across the Seas

$1.25

MENS LONG

SLEEVE

DRESS

SHIRTS

Stripes, solids,

button down & bonded collars

by Stanley

Blacker.

Reg. $30.00

NOW $12.99

SPORTSWEAR UNLIMITED LIQUIDATION SALE

ALL CLOTHING FIRST QUALITY MOST ITEMS 50% TO 70% OFF REGULAR RETAIL ONE DAY ONLY!

LADIES FASHION

JOGGING SUITS

By Wilson and Winning Ways. Over a dozen different styles to choose from. Stripes, solids, hoods,

crewnecks, elastic leg bottoms,

flared leg bottoms, zippers, pullover

LADIES

FASHION

SWEATERS

Padded shoulders and v-necks. Many tops. Values to $45.

colors. Reg. $42

LADIES COTTON WARM-UPS By Winning

Ways, 100's to choose Crewnecks.

NOW

BOYS NYLON LIERRA WARM-UP SUITS By Wilson. Large sizes will also fit Ladies Reg. $45

Now $9.99

KIDS WARM-UP SUITS By Winning Ways Reg. $24

Now $7.99

MENS POLO STYLE

SHIRTS Many colors, all first quality.

Over 200 to choose from. NOW $12.99

POLO

Fashion Knit Shirts Stripes and solids, all first quality. Reg. $24

Now $9.99

By Roert Bruce. Many colors to choose from. Reg. $30

MENS SWEATERS

NOW $12.99

MENS FLEECE By Wilson, MacGregor and Winning Ways. Many styles and colors.

Hoods and crewnecks. Values to Now $7.99 to $9.99

KIDS SWEATSHIRTS

By Wilson Reg. $20

NOW $5.99

1 DAY ONLY MONDAY, NOV. 4 10 a.m.-7 p.m.

LARAMIE PLAZA 12th & Laramie Laramie Plaza

Acid rain affects Kansans

concentrated in areas such as the northeastern United States, the problem may eventually face Kansans as well.

That was the conclusion of Robert Burgess, chairman of the Department of Environmental and Forest Biology at State University of New York-Syracuse, who spoke at Thursday's University Convocation.

Burgess said Kansans would pay indirectly through cost increases in areas such as electric

An environmental problem caused when sulfur and nitrogen oxides in the air combine with falling rain to form acids with harmful pH levels, acid rain and its effects are obvious in some areas of the United States. Lakes in the Adirondack mountain region have experienced significant fish kills. Acid rain in the nation's capitol is eating away at the Linclon Memorial and other national landmarks.

Many Americans are not yet willing to confront the environmental damage. Robert Robel, professor of biology, told a preconvocation forum Tuesday that although 68 percent of Americans favor cleaning up the nation's air and water, they will not support raising taxes for such measures.

Because of this unwillingness to fund cleanup and because of laxity of regulation under the

While the industrial pollution Reagan administration, the which causes acid rain is more danger could continue to escalate.

> One encouraging sign is the willingness on the part of some power companies to install the scrubbers needed to deal with industrial pollution. Robel said the danger to Kansas from acid rain had been reduced because the Jeffrey Energy center, a coalfired generating plant north of St. Marys, had installed pollution controls.

However, not all power plants and pollution-producing industries are willing to take these measures without federal or state encouragement. Without these controls, the effects will increase. And, as urgess pointed out, the dangers generated by this pollution will eventually fall on Kan-

The clean environment in which Kansans live should not be ignored. Kansas is a beautiful state and deserves protection. Equally, the Kansas economy needs assurances it will not fall prey to high electric bills.

Kansans need to awaken to the dangers of acid rain and support politicians who will fund enforcement and cleanup.

They should dig into their pockets to contribute pennies now before future generations are forced to contribute millions of dollars to survive in a debilatated environment.

Jim Schmidt for the editorial board

Drivers ed teaches little, requires revision

It happens every day - someone gets in a car, to do some errand, and gets creamed by some other mindless bozo. There's no excuse. It's no "accident" - it's an avoidable collision, a wreck, and driver error is the one and only valid explanation.

Driver error: You screwed up, you blew it and you should have known better. Oopsydaisy; uh-oh, better get Maaco.

Why can't Johnny (and Mary) drive? Because they aren't learning how in their high school drivers education program. They've never had a opportunity to learn, excepting always at that institution of highest learning, the School of Hard Knocks.

The National Safety Council, otherwise known as "Nader's Raiders," points out that 85 percent of all wrecks are attributed to driver error. Aside from what that ought to do to their busy-bodying around with an institution they know less about than the "consumer" they claim to protect (to wit: transportation), it indicts drivers education in this great nation.

Because, assuming that the great majority of young drivers receive primary training and preliminary licensing through drivers ed, then it stands to reason that either one, there is little practical benefit in drivers education, or, two, there are more cretins in this nation than even the most pessimistic estimate would suggest.

Don West teaches Driver Education at Shawnee Mission North High School. I received preliminary driver training at SMN, and I have taken blessed little of what I learned to the street with me.

Among other important lessons, I was taught to always crack my window so there would be no chance of being overcome with those sneaky devils, "fumes." (Holy Monoxide, Batman - the Fume Monster is after us!) Unless your exhaust system looks like Swiss cheese, or you spend a great deal of time parked in a closed garage with the engine running, I don't think you have anything to fear from the Fume Monster.

I was also taught it is best to drive with my lights on at all times, so The Other Guy can see me better. The Other Guy, if he thinks about me at all, thinks I'm part of a funeral cortege that got separated from the main

How about that ol' chestnut "55 Saves Lives?" Well, West wasn't quite as emphatic about the whole thing when I showed him the Car and Driver explanation of the statistics. Equivocating, like most of those misled by Nader's Raiders, he said he didn't have all the facts at hand, and couldn't rightly say. You better believe he didn't have all the facts, and if the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration had its way, he never would. Neither would you. 55 doesn't save lives, it doesn't even save that much gas. What it does is "[create] a mentality contrary to transportation," according to Car and Driver columnist Pat Bedard.

I was gratified to see the same thing when I approached Capt. Richard Barta of the Kansas Highway Patrol. Barta didn't have all the relevant facts for Kansas at hand, and didn't know if 55 saved Kansas lives or not, and wouldn't comment on it. What he did say was there was a "drastic" reduction in highway fatalities when Kansas limits dropped to 55, but sorry, no, he didn't have those figures, either. So what's drastic? And where's the direct, statistical correlation between 55 and deaths in Kansas?

Uh-oh, Nader's Raiders, better get Maaco, because your 55-mph support vehicle just got creamed.

All this by way of saying drivers ed isn't working. Barta is responsible for the educational services of the KHP. He claims that drivers ed could work, if there was support from parents and peers. West agrees, saying that parents who ignore speed limits encourage likewise behavior in their children, negating all the benefits of drivers education in one fell swoop.

Come on, gang. I didn't learn any real lesson in drivers ed except to buckle up, a lesson I studiously ignored...until... I "lost control of my vehicle at 55 on an icy highway, divided with 'New Jersey Barriers' for construction purposes, and slid into a barrier, damaging LF fender, bumper, valence and grille." No, I was not wearing my seatbelt at the time. Yes, my car was totalled. No, the insurance company did not see fit to investigate repair estimates. Yes, my car was written off for $475 (it cost me $135 to repair - my father, brother and I did it in three weekends in our garage at home). And you had better believe, friends and neighbors, that when I get in a car, any car, I put on my seat belt. Never mind the excuses I could offer about icy roads and the barriers that prevent correct run-off of snow melt; never mind that the sun was in my eyes and I was tired: I screwed up, and almost killed myself. Driver error. My fault.

What to do about drivers education? Let's start by creating an effective, honest program. Eliminate the lies, like 55 saves lives, and eliminate the nonsense, like rolling down the window and drving with lights on in broad daylight. Instead, let's have some real driver's education, a program that teaches you how to drive, not how to live in a constant state of fear of The Other Guy. Driver training is for a lifetime. We use our automobiles daily, and it would seem logical that unless we learn how to drive properly, we stand a much greater chance of killing ourselves, or someone else.

I'm done. No more columns about driving over the limit or how people make buffoons of themselves when they drive. But get this: Buckle Up. That saves lives.

And don't drive drunk. Drunk drivers are the dregs of the road. They are killers without the remotest hope of saving grace. If you kill someone while driving drunk, it'll haunt you forever. And if you kill a loved one, you'll wish it had been yourself.

If you were drunk, perhaps it should have

Students laugh at speaker

Students in Garden City, laughed an Iowa State Patrolman off the stage during an assembly about drinking and driving. It's a pretty poor showing when no one cares about one of the biggest killers of school age kids around: drunk drivers.

"Seventy-five percent of the students drink alcohol regularly," according to a survey of that school district. In other words, on any given Friday or Saturday night in Garden City, one stands a pretty good chance of getting hit by some drunken driver. And what happens when school officials try to do something about the problem? Their speaker gets hooted off the stage - a sorry state of affairs indeed.

Aside from the potential for damage that exists from drunk driving, their is a deeper matter to consider. Are students so sure of themselves that they think they know what is right and wrong? That they know better than someone who has had to clean up the debris some other teen-age genius made out of what was once a car and living human

Perhaps these students should be given a guided tour of the morgue, be taken to an accident site and made to pick up the pieces — the severed limbs and the mangled appendages - and be forced to hose the blood and glass off the highway. Perhaps a real-life encounter with the results of their bravura would show them the error of their

Joni Rutter, junior class president, said "You'd think the students would be talking about it a lot. But that's just it. The kids don't really talk about it. After the assembly it was like nobody really cared."

Someone should care, or there will be fewer graduates come

> Rich Harris. for the editorial board

United Feature Syndicate MARGULIES ©1985 HOUSTON POST

" HONEST ... SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS ARE BLACK. "

Kansas State

Monday

Tim Carpenter PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jeff Tuttle MANAGING EDITORS Wayne T. Price A. Scharnhorst

COPY EDITORS Laurie Fairburn Jim Schmidt Jean Teller

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Patty Reinert CAMPUS EDITORS Jeri Heidrick

Todd Nighswonger ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR FEATURES EDITOR Becky Wiley BUSINESS EDITOR Tom Schultes

GOVERNMENT EDITOR Vicki Reynolds AGRICULTURE EDITOR Rustin Hamilton
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

REVIEWERS Ben Pease COLUMNISTS

Tim Fitzgerald Katherine Herman Rich Harris Wayne Long EDITORIAL CARTOONIST  STAFF WRITERS Tom Perrin Sue Dawson Bruce Ney Jill Humme GRAPHIC ARTISTS

STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS

Andy Nelson
John Sleezer
Jeff Taylor
John Thelander
EDITORIAL BOARD

ADVERTISING MANAGER Rob Drake ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Lori Wong CO-OP ADVERTISING MANAGER Mark McDermet ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES Darren McChes Pattie Shippen Bob Scheibler Trish Malone Eric McCluer Patti Hannan

Harold Lacy ADVERTISING GRAPHIC ARTISTS

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER

Deve Adams ADVERTISING DIRECTOR Gloria Freeland
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 620) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $30, semester; $10, summer term. Address ch Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 88508.

Farrakhan embodies racism, hatred, evil

It has come time for this nation to meet Louis Farrakhan. Some know of the religious leader whose following, "the Nation of Islam," was legitimized by Farrakhan's closeness to Jesse Jackson in the 1984 presidential race.

Most, though, don't know who the fundamentalist, black leader is, or for what he

In the last two years, Farrakhan has emerged as the most influential current black leader in America. This is why it is vital America should meet Louis Farrakhan.

The October 28 edition of "The New Republic" recognized the power of Farrakhan by placing his likeness on its cover, and the columns in the magazine attacked the man so many black Americans are looking to for leadership. "The New Republic" has good reason to cite the man as dangerous. I have recognized the shame in previous columns, both past and present, of racism in America - but Farrakhan is venting the anger he has developed from this racism into intense hatred of almost anyone who doesn't agree

Racism is America's broken arm and although it isn't healing particularly fast, Farrakhan would prefer to treat it with an amputation, not a splint. It is easy to understand the motives of a man who preached to 20,000-plus people in Madison Square Garden on October 7 such statements as, "We are not poor, we are poorly organized," and "Our people don't need talk, they need guns!" But it isn't only whites Farrakhan hates he even hates the current black leaders in America. "When a leader sells out the people, he should pay a price for that. Should a leader sell out the people and live?"

But it isn't only black leaders Farrakhan hates — ask almost any American Jew who

FITZGERALD Collegian Columnist

Farrakhan really hates.

"Zionism is cancer, and the supporters of Zionism are cancerous! We want nothing but the total liberation of Palestine," Farrakhan told his New York audience.

Black America has lived with hatred. Much of black America still lives with hatred. Any black American who can hate people in such a general sense as Farrakhan hates Jews should never say another word against racism.

A black leader who preaches the hatred Farrakhan preaches toward Jews does not advance the idea of equality in America in any form. Any person who has grown out of the hatred of racism and can then try to justify the mistreatment of another segment of the world is confused and evil.

America stands for freedom, be it racial or religious, and hatred is evil, be it towards blacks or Jews.

And the attention Farrakhan is being given by the press and his growing number of followers is placing him on a psychotic fringe. The words which he spoke at Madison Square Garden said he is the new Messiah. "Jesus had a controversy with the Jews. Farrakhan has a controversy with the Jews. Jesus was hated by the Jews. Farrakhan is hated by Jews. Jesus was scourged by Jews in their temples. Farrakhan is scourged by Jews in their synagogues....They called him a devil. They call me a devil.'

Farrakhan captivates his audiences in a Hitler-like frenzy. (Hitler, by the way, was a great leader according to Farrakhan.)

When Farrakhan asked his audience, "Who were the enemies of Jesus?" "The New Republic" reporter said his audience shouted back "Jews! Jews! Jews!" Welcome to Hitler's Germany.

America meet Louis Farrakhan - an evil preacher of hatred. Louis Farrakhan has built himself into an influential man who only 18 months ago had no more that 10,000 followers in America.

Farrakhan is evil out of nowhere. He is developing into America's own little Kho-

Any man who preaches the violence of hatred as sacred is evil.

Farrakhan is scared, though. "What do you think will happen to America if anything happens to me? I am your last chance, America. You killed your last black leader when you killed Martin Luther King Louis Farrakhan, you have no right to place yourself in the same breath as a person as great as Martin Luther King Jr. America shall always bear the scar of murdered love when King died - Louis Farrakhan, you are evil hatred.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included.

Focus speakers discuss women's study courses

By JAMIE McPHETER Collegian Reporter

A need exists in universities for instructors to incorporate women's studies in the classroom, two professors said during Friday's Focus

The husband and wife duo of Jan Flora, associate professor of anthropology and social work, and Cornelia Flora, professor of an-thropology and social work, spoke on "Interpreting the New Scholarship for Women," at the noon session.

"There are women's studies courses offered from the human ecology department but what the sociology department is trying to do is integrate women's courses somehow into all curriculum taught on campus," Cornelia Flora said.

The department is beginning the integration by asking instructors to try and change the way they present their material. At the present time, instructors in the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work include in their courses a section on sex role socialization and sex role stratification by gender, class and race, Cornelia Flora said.

"A transformation needs to be made by college instructors. They need to rethink their course outlines and organize them to include a women's study section," she said.

One problem in the area of integrating the new scholarship for women is that many of the introductory classes are so large they tend to be taught by instructors who don't understand the English language well and it's difficult to incorporate women's studies into the course, Cornelia Flora said.

Jan Flora spoke about how he, as an introductory sociology instructor,

MONDAY'S SPECIALS

$2.25 PITCHERS

GET READY THIS WEEKEND incorporates women's studies into his class.

In sociology it's difficult to teach the course and include women's studies because the material is broad based. Many times, studies take three or four theories for the same basic approach to an idea, he said.

Jan Flora covers three basic sections in his sociology class. They are socialization in society, social classes in the modern economic system and social changes by men and women in the society. He also includes the subject of women and their roles in society in each of his lectures.

Another way Jan Flora incorporates women's studies into his sociology class is with an extra credit paper he asks his students to write on sexual socialization from their own perspective. The paper is written before his lecture on sex socialization roles. After his lecture, students are asked to rewrite their papers using what they learned about sex role socialization from a sociologist's point of view, he said.

"I believe this exercise helps the student to understand the important role women play in our society," he

"What we want to accomplish is to get a women's studies program into all areas of the curriculum to help people better understand woman as a gender, not just the approach, 'simply add woman and stir," Cornelia Flora said, "but to try and develop a broader understanding of women and the backgrounds they

Doctors call operation success

Activist stable after prostate surgery

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Jailed black leader Nelson Mandela underwent successful prostate gland surgery Sunday at a hospital in Cape Town and was in stable condition, his doctors said.

The Department of Prisons issued a statement on behalf of three urologists who conducted the surgery on Mandela at the Volkshospitaal (People's Hospital), saying Mandela's inflamed prostate gland was removed "and no complications are expected."

the 67-year-old Mandela, widely regarded by blacks as the most important black leader in South Africa, entered the hospital Sunday morning from Pollsmoor Prison for the operation.

government-appointed urologist, a doctor chosen by the Mandela family, and a urologist from a British university performed the surgery, said prisons department spokesperson Lt. Col. Abri van Vuuren. He declined to disclose the doctors' names.

Mandela was jailed for life in 1964

Family lawyer Ismail Ayob said for plotting sabotage by the armed wing of the African National Congress, a black civil rights group that was outlawed in 1960 and began a guerrilla movement to overthrow the white-led government a year later.

International campaigns have repeatedly called on the government to release him unconditionally, but President P.W. Botha has said Mandela will be freed only if he renounces violence as a method for political change. Mandela replied in February that he will not accept conditional release.

A urologist appointed by the government examined Mandela in September and said he needed surgery for a swollen prostate gland and cysts on his liver and right kidney. Family physicians saw Mandela last month and confirmed the diagnosis.

Avob said the surgery was only for the prostate gland, not the liver Mandela's health is of great concern both to anti-apartheid activists and to the government, which could face further outbreaks of violence if Mandela died or became seriously ill in custody.

'Blitz Fest '85' brings students together

By ROBERT CLASEN Collegian Reporter

Students from the College of Architecture and Design were given less than 24 hours to design all aspects of a community recreation facility in the college's "Blitz Fest 85" design competition Friday and Saturday in Seaton Hall.

The Blitz Fest is a competition, begun last year, designed to bring students from the different disciplines within the College of Architecture and Design together to work on a single, hypothetical pro-

"Last year was the first time we put on the Blitz Fest," said Sheila Cosgrove, senior in interior architecture, and member of the "Blitz Fest '85" planning committee. "We try to get all the departments involved."

Six teams competed in this year's project, that began at 10:30 a.m. Friday, with a slide show and lecture by guest host Bill McMinn, dean of the College of Architecture, Art and Planning at Cornell University.

In this year's project, the teams were asked to design a community recreation facility for the residents of the Tuttle Creek area.

"It (Blitz Fest) gives us the experience of working in teams," said Joe Schnieders, junior in pre-design professions, "like what we would be doing in the real world."

Five K-State students and one University of Kansas comprised the winning Blitz Fest team. They were Jay Gordon, fifth year senior in landscape architecture; John Jesik, senior in interior architecture; Ron Johnson, freshman in pre-design professions: Matt Kovatovich, senior in interior architecture; Craig Schultz, senior in architecture and Joe Rexroad, senior in architecture design at

"We wanted KU to be involved," Cosgrove said, "but it was just a last minute thing. We hope they will want to send teams in the future."

Four faculty judges were chosen from the college, and the architecture faculty were given invitations to attend the contest and give spot desk critiques to each of the teams. The four judges included Ron Hess, head of the Department of Architecture; Neal Rassman, assistant professor of landscape architecture; Gwen Wilson, professor of environmental design; and Gene McGraw, professor of interior architecture.

All students within the College of Architecture and Design, excluding first year pre-design professions students, were eligible to participate. The teams were composed by the students, not assigned.

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

PRESENTS A MANUFACTURER'S DIRECT CLOTHING SALE

DAY ONLY

SAVE 50%-70%

and Calvin Klein

MEN'S ADIDAS AND PUMA

SPORTSWEAR

MEN'S OXFORD

SPORT SHIRTS

BY LETGRE

JOHN HENRY

AND L.L. BEAN

Special Assortment of

Men's and Ladies Sportswear

Excellent Values

Reg. $60-$80

Now From $14.99

Elesse and Fila

NOW FROM

SPORT SHIRTS AND SWEAT SHIRTS

FASHION TOPS FROM

SPECIAL ASSORTMENT ALL STYLES AND COLORS

IF PERF.

VALUES TO $33.00

$9.99

Button-downs

Stripes

Solids

Reg. $26.00

TTT Wilson

LADIES AND MEN'S WARM-UP SUITS by WILSON and WINNING WAYS Reg. $45-$60

FROM $15.99

LIZ CLAIBORNE Fashion Slacks and Jeans Wide range of styles and fabrics

POLO

By Ralph Lauren

If perfect, values to $38.00

(Boy's Oxfords and Plaid, too)

FAMOUS MAKER

LADIES COTTON

SWEATERS

Excellent Quality!

NOW

$7.99 to 12.99

Special Assortment

MENS AND BOYS

Short Sleeve Knits

(stripes and solids)

Values to $65.00

Super Styles

Reg. $30-$36

NOW $12.99

NOW FROM

MEN'S

PURITAN SWEATERS

-COTTONS -WOOLS -STRIPES AND SOLIDS

-BUTTON FRONT CARDIGANS If perf. Great Value!

values to $40.00 NOW $7.99

Men's LeTIGRE Heavyweight RUGBY SHIRTS

Stripes-Solids Reg. $34.00

$16.99

LADIES FASHION BLOUSES AND TOPS

Special Assortment

Your Choice

2 FOR $5.00

BIG SHIRTS-BLOUSES-OXFORDS

BY JOHN HENRY AND LADY MANHATTAN -LOADS OF COLORS-

Now from

Values to $36.00

$9.99

Wed. Nov. 6th

Ramada Inn-17th and Anderson Manhattan (across from campus) 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.

temporarily

permanently physically limited students on campus, building to building. Inquire by calling 532-6436

CHEAP TUESDAYS!

DRAFT BEERS

8225 PITCHERS 85¢ BOTTLED DOMESTIC BEER

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD BEER CLUB?

Reagan orders probe into intelligence leak

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan on Sunday ordered an investigation into the leak of intelligence documents disclosed in a published report saying Reagan authorized the CIA to undermine the Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's government.

White House spokesperson Bill Hart, who at first had refused to comment on the report in Sunday editions of The Washington Post, said the president ordered the probe "in an effort to determine who is responsible for (the) disclosure and to take appropriate action."

Hart refused to say what appropriate action might entail or whether the investigation would include the use of lie detector tests on people with access to the classified documents.

Nor would he directly confirm the existence or credibility of the documents quoted by the Post.

Reagan, returning to the White House from a weekend at his Camp David retreat in Maryland, ignored reporters' shouted questions about the report.

'We do not comment on alleged intelligence activity or intelligence activities," Hart told reporters, reading from a prepared statement. "In general, the president is very concerned over the unauthorized disclosure of intelligence and classified information.'

"While in no way attributing any credence to the specific allegations and conclusions drawn in the Washington Post article," he added, "the president is ordering an investigation of the disclosure of the U.S. intelligence documents cited in this news report in an effort to determine who is responsible for such disclosure and to take appropriate action."

The report quoted unidentified government sources as saying Reagan authorized the Central Intelligence Agency to support covert operations to undermine the Khadafy regime.

Television host says wildlife important

By MIKE ROBBINS Collegian Reporter

Mutual of Omaha's program, "Wild Kingdom," has brought realistic images of the natural world to the television screen for over 20

Whether it be observing the harpy eagle in Brazil, studying the mating habits of the emu in Australia or capturing a cheetah in the heart of Africa, "Wild Kingdom" is there recording the many aspects of the natural world unseen by most peo-

Jim Fowler, host of "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom", was in Manhattan this weekend to speak to the friends of the Sunset Zoo Friday evening at the Manhattan Holiday Inn & Holidome. About 30 people attended a program about Fowler's experiences and over 100 attended a reception following the presentation.

Fowler also helped kick off the Girl Scout cookie drive Saturday afternoon during the K-State-University of Nebraska-Lincoln football game.

Fowler, best known as Marlin Perkins' sidekick, took over as host of "Wild Kingdom" July 1, 1985.

Fowler said he believes it is important to spur people's interest in the presently accepted medical use, and we still do not believe it does.

MDMA was developed in 1914 as a diet drug but never manufactured. In the 1970s, some psychiatrists began using it in therapy — as had been the case with LSD. It was never produced by the pharmaceutical industry, but private chemists custom-made it for doctors and recreational users.

Speaker talks to Sunset Zoo friends natural world.

"The natural world is sort of getting the last piece of the pie in relation to everything else in this world," Fowler said. "It is very hard to keep people interested in the natural world unless we really work at it."

Fowler said people interested in animals and the natural world's existence should be "much more aggressive in how they take animals before the public."

It's important, Fowler said, to take animals before the public and tell the public what kind of animal it is, what the dangers are and why it is important to keep it around.

"There are a lot of people today who are concerned about animals rights, and rightfully, so. And there are a good number of people associated with the Humane Society who sometimes have a misdirected attitude, I think, toward animals in captivity. I'm afraid that if we don't show people animals, people are not going to care."

Fowler said people are becoming "removed from the world of nature." He said that is why zoos can play such a tremendous role in promoting the natural world to the public.

Zoos are evolving from a period where they were primarily collectors. Fowler said. He said many zoo buildings were strictly aimed at exhibiting the animal so the maintenance could be efficient and ignored exhibiting the animals in their natural habitats.

But Fowler said zoos are now emerging from that period into a period of education.

"Zoos are beginning to realize that their function is education outreach - getting out into the public and making the public excited about the existence of the natural world."

Fowler said there needs to be more attention given to the fact that zoos should be involved in promotion of the natural world. He said zoos should even tell people in a local community how to go out and enjoy the natural world in that community.

A Perfect

Birthday Gift

more.

"The natural world is real and therefore everything you learn about it is exciting. When you go out to enjoy nature you begin to understand more and more about how life works on this planet. The final result is you realize we humans are all part of it." Fowler said "Wild Kingdom" has a positive effect in helping educate the public of the many aspects of the natural world. "In 1960 we were really the first program about wildlife that dealt with the factual depiction of what wildlife was...I don't think there is any question that we had a major effect on the attitudes that are reflected today. A lot of people have become much more aware of the natural world," he said.

Fowler's current activities, in addition to appearing on "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom," includes lecturing across the nation with amimals he has trained and for television appearances. He has appeared on such shows as the "Tonight Show," "Good Morning America," "The Merv Griffin Show" and "The Mike Douglas Show."

FDA finds no joy in Ecstasy drug

By The Associated Press

A drug called Ecstasy produces a "calm joy" among users — but not among psychiatrists who want to use it and federal drug authorities who have classified it with heroin and

Ecstasy, or MDMA as it is chemically known, was legal until last July, according to an article in the November issue of Harper's Bazaar, when the federal Drug Enforcement Agency temporarily listed it as a Schedule I controlled substance, as are LSD, marijuana and heroin

Do your part

for the Royal Purple

yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Every Monday

ON ANY PIZZA

A group of psychiatrists, convinced of MDMA's therapeutic value, want it listed on the less restrictive Schedule III.

"The general properties of MDMA warrant a full exploration of this drug as a possible catalyst to insightoriented psychotherapy," said Dr. Lester Grinspoon, professor of psychiatry at Harvard University, who fears Schedule I listing will halt research, as it did with LSD.

Frank Sapienza, a DEA chemist, gave the government view:

"We believe MDMA does not fit the criteria for Schedule III. One requirement is the substance have a

A longstanding legend

50 days left 8 Fridays left 8 Saturdays left

Don't miss out on a tradition!

K-STATE MARKETING CLUB PRESENTS UNITED

TELECOMMUNICATIONS, INC. MARKETING CHALLENGES OF THE 80's FOR ALL THE NEW COMPETITORS

TONIGHT UNION BIG 8 ROOM

7 p.m.

Yearbook pictures will be taken after the meeting

Fall Special on new 1985 and 1986 cars

This rate is in effect until Nov. 15. Used car loans are 12%.

Borrow up to $15,000.

Apply for a loan today. If you are not a KSU Credit Union member, there is a 60-day waiting period. But submit your application now to lock in this low 10.8% new car rate before the deadline.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday

Boutique

5 dangerous words! Maybe it will go away. Don't delay Call today

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractor

537-8305 1500 Poyntz Avenue

10 oz. KC STRIP $5.95

16 oz. KC STRIP $8.95 INCLUDES HOME-CUT FRIES, BAKED POTATO, OR VEGETABLE

NAVAILABLE AFTER 5:30 P.M. IN OUR DINING ROOM and BAR

75¢ DRAWS ALL DAY & NIGHT!

Largest Tape Selection and Best Prices in Manhattan

TAPE RENTAL

Everyday Low Price . . . . . . . . . . . . . $2.75 per tape Magnavox VCR (incl. 1 free tape)......$6.70

We also have low weekly & monthly rates

Preferred Card Holders . . . $2.00 per tape PREFERRED CARD HOLDERS-

This Week's Special

Monday thru Thursday Friday thru Sunday

Any Movie-99C

Rent 1 tape at $2.00 and get the 2nd tape from the Children/Family or Classic Selection for just-99¢

Village Plaza Shopping Center 10 a.m.-9 p.m. In the New South Addition 537-1115

GRAND OPENING

539-3830

November 4-10 SPA & TANNING SALON Aggieville

ALL WEEK—HOT TUBS

•1/2 hour-$3.00

•1 hour-$5.00

-$2.00 tanning sessions - limit 10

-register to win

 Grand prize of an evening for two including chauffered limosine, dinner for two at Bockers II, and a hot tub session for two at MareYeSol.

•2nd prize-10 free tanning sessions

•3rd prize-1 hour hot tub session free Tues.Wed. - Buy 10 tanning sessions and recieve 1/2hour hot tub session free, to be used by

Thurs.— KSU Faculty-bring I.D. and purchase 5 tanning sessions for 7.50 Fri. - Mar Y Sol Keg Party and open house.

•Free beer from 2-7

Nov. 17.

•tour the facilities

1214C More Aggie Ski & Sport

raduates

Bachelor's graduation apparel for sale Nov. 1-Dec. 14 Includes cap, gown, tassel (and collar for women) Price $13.97 including tax.

Mail orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height, weight, hat size, degree and $1.50 for postage and handling.

Master, PHD, and faculty rentals will be taken at the supply Dept. Gift Counter Nov. 1-Nov. 30. After Nov. 30 a $3.00 late fee will be added.

Rental Prices: $19.50* Full Set Cap/Gown/Tassel $10.50* Hood only

* add 31/2/sales tax

Announcements

$4.92 (pkg. of 10) includes tax Non-Personalized

Personalized

$20.18 (pkg. of 20) includes tax $31.05 (pkg. of 40) includes tax $40.37 (pkg. of 60) includes tax

$21.00*

$11.50*

$9.50*

Klein 'flows' with audience

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

The beauty of the Bronx, the practicalities of a harmonica and unattained dreams of becoming a doctor battled to be comedy topics during Robert Klein's performance Friday night. Klein, a featured entertainer of the McCain Auditorium Series, jested and joshed for nearly two hours to the full house crowd.

Klein quickly established rapport with the crowd, a mixture of campus and community folk, when he commented that the sign of a great campus was bad football team. He also noted that boarding a plane in Manhattan and arriving in Kansas City, Mo. to be driven to Manhattan seemed like a "short

Throughout his routine Klein flowed with the audience and adlibbed with unexpected incidents.

Jabbing and swatting at a moth, Klein said, "Spies from Nebraska trying to get our signals." Then speaking of himself, "reflexes of a jet pilot.'

With the college campus focus, Klein told the audience he went to school to become a doctor, but some things got in the way - like calculus, organic chemistry, biology, reading, comprehension, attendance, behavior. He joked about types of tests and mentioned his favorite - the essay test.

Prancing around the stage, he said he could boogie, really boogie through those tests - possibly b.s. through those tests. He stopped the prancing, "shovel, please," he said. Between. ing, Klein with a so and a co monica. 1 talk of all the Unite places we ferent rea Austin, too Bronx is s year."

The 43well-travel his comedy ing relative entered Alfi N.Y., as a pi

comprehensive

Overland Par

associates

During Friday's full-house performance at McCain Auditorium, comedian Robert Klein illustrates how a fish might react after being caught.

Congress continues debates on plan for balanced budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress begins this week where it left off last week - stalemated over sharp differences between House and Senate versions of a plan to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Separately, the Senate resumes work today on omnibus legislation setting farm policy while the House, after considering routine matters today and Tuesday, will begin work at midweek on legislation authorizing hundreds of new water projects.

Arugments over the budget proposals have delayed final action on legislation needed to raise the government's borrowing authority, the national debt limit, from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion. The budget plans are being considered as an amendment to the debt legislation.

Congress's failure to raise the debt limit has forced the Treasury Department to, in effect, dip into the Social Security trust funds and other trust funds to keep the government

Both Houses of Congress have passed different versions of stopgap measures to ease the credit crunch until Wednesday and avoid the loss of

However, the Treasury Department officials have said the move to shift money from the Social Security funds will provide enough money for the government to continue operating until Nov. 14.

The situation on the budget plan is that the Republican-led Senate passed a package that would set statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until zero is reached in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on steps to meet the annual goals, the plan would direct the president to impose automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to keep deficit spending within the ceiling.

Three weeks of negotiations aimed at drafting a compromise acceptable to the House and Senate collapsed last Thursday and on Friday the Democratic majority in the House passed its own version of the budget

The House-passed plan is designed to make a larger reduction in the deficit in its first year and achieve a balanced budget a year earlier than the Senate plan.

The House plan also would cut more than $10 billion.

more from the Pentagon and do more to protect welfare programs from cuts than the Senate version. The next step will be for the Senate to consider the House package under an agreement for that action to be completed Wednesday afternoon. Senate Republican leaders have said they plan to respond to the House action by passing a slightly revised version of the original Senate plan. Meanwhile, the Senate will continue work on the farm bill, which has been debated in that chamber now for more than a week.

Action on that measure has been stymied by wrangling over a package of amendments designed to reduce the overall cost of the measure which will set farm policy and price-support programs for the nxt four years.

In the House, action on the water projects legislation would clear the way for new projects that have been blocked since 1976 by disputes among the House, Senate and White House over whether users of the nation's harbors and dams should begin paying part of the costs.

The House bill calls for user fees and local cost-sharing and would authorize 290 new projects, costing

Study compiles breast cancer facts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Women younger than 45 years old who have taken oral contraceptives have no greater risk of getting breast cancer than women

For women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the angrenate rate of last years after pill use was discon-

The breast cancer results, published in the Nov. 2 issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, contrast with those of two smaller in 1983, which uncer risk

orial said

size, may may be a e any in-from con-

dent, said

tudies are ewed 2,088

f 20 and 44

th breast

1982. The tropolitan

San Fran-states of ar on ıday,

day,

day,

day,

riday

1986 WINTER INTERSESSION JANUARY 2-14

INTERSESSION—WINTER AT KSU

The two weeks between Fall and Spring Semester are a special time at KSU-parking is easy, and life on campus is extremely pleasant. Intersession is an excellent way to take courses-it allows the student to pursue one course intensively, without interruptions and demands of other coursework or other campus activities. Classes generally meet about three hours a day. Over 400 students will be enrolling in undergraduate or graduate classes, making their holiday season a festival of learning and sharing. It's a productive way to conquer the after-Christmas blahs.

Winter '86 Intersession offers 47 credit courses—mostly 1 or 2 credits each—from a wide variety of departments and colleges within KSU. Tuition and registration procedures are explained in this schedule. If this publication doesn't answer all your questions, please call the Division of Continuing Education at 532-5566 (toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-4222). Questions about specific course content or requirements should be addressed to the instructors themselves.

REGISTRATION

Intersession is open to KSU students and to the public. Prior enrollment at KSU is not necessary and registration is a simple one-step process.

Intersession registration will take place in the BASEMENT OF FARRELL LIBRARY; registration dates are December 9-11 and the registration staff will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. those three days. Additional registrations will be accepted during regular office hours at 317 Umberger Hall from December 12-January 2. Tuition is due at the time of enrollment. (Some lab/materials fees are also due at this time. See schedule.) The decision as to which courses will "go" will be based on the number of registrations recorded during the first week of registration, and the go/drop list will be posted near the Information Desk at the K-State Union on Monday, December 16. Go/drop information will also be available from the Continuing Education Registration office (317 Umberger, 532-5566).

Students unable to enroll in person December 9-11 may phone or mail in their registration. These registrations will be processed (in the order in which they were received) ONLY if spaces remain in the class as of 4:00 p.m. on December 9. Students may request a friend to enroll for them to maximize their chances of getting into their first-

Students are asked to check with their advisors to ensure that the Intersession class will meet degree requirements.

BE PROMPT!!

Although registrations in most "go" classes will be accepted until the first day of Intersession, students are encouraged to register during the December 9-11 registration period at Farrell Library. The "go/drop" decision is based on enrollments collected during that period. Delays in student registration could result in a course being cancelled; students interested in Intersession classes should register early to be sure their preferred classes have a good chance of going as scheduled.

LATE ENROLLMENTS

A $10.00 late fee will be charged for enrollments after the second class meeting ends, but before one-third of the class meetings have elapsed. A late fee of $25 will be charged for late enrollments after one-third of the class meetings have elapsed but before twothirds of the class meetings have elapsed. NO ENROLLMENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER TWO-THIRDS OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE ELAPSED.

Tuition is $40 per undergraduate ("UG") credit hour and $58 per graduate ("G") credit hour and is due at the time of enrollment; tuition is the same for Kansas residents and for non-residents. Some classes will require lab fees, materials fees, or other costs, and these are indicated in the course listing. The lab and materials fees will be collected at registration or by the instructor at the first class meeting. Lab fees collected by Continuing Education are non-refundable after the go/drop decision has been posted (December 16), except for courses which have been cancelled. Travel arrangements, for courses requiring them, must be made with the instructors as early as possible.

CREDIT

The maximum credit allowed is three (3) hours per student. Anyone wishing to enroll in more than three credit hours must have written approval from his or her academic dean at the time of registration. STUDENTS WISHING TO SIGN UP FOR COURSES ON AN A-PASS-FAIL BASIS MUST DO SO AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION, OR BEFORE ONE-THIRD OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE ELAPSED. Intersession grades will be averaged into the student's KSU G.P.A.

CANCELLED CLASSES

No individual notification about cancelled classes will be made. The "go/drop" notice will be posted in the K-State Union near the Information Desk on December 16. Students may also phone 532-5566 after that date to inquire. Students who enrolled in a cancelled class have the option of registering in another class or obtaining a full refund. Students must report to 317 Umberger Hall to officially DROP or ADD.

REFUNDS

All refund requests must be made in person or in writing to the Division Registrar, 317 Umberger Hall. A 100% refund will be issued if the request is received before the second class begins, or if the class is cancelled. A 50% refund will be issued if received after the second class begins, but before one-third of the classes have ended. NO refunds will be issued after one-third of the class meetings have ended. There are no refunds for an audited class after the class begins. Lab/material fees collected at registration are nonrefundable except those for cancelled classes.

BOOKS

Textbooks (required or recommended) have been ordered for some classes and will be available at Varney's Bookstore at the start of the Intersession. Information about textbooks is available from the instructor or from Varney's. Classes for which textbooks have been ordered are indicated with the letters TB at the end of the course description in this listing.

HOUSING

Overnight housing on campus is available to Intersession students at a very reasonable rate. Double rooms in a K-State residence hall are available for $68 per person for January 2-14. Intersession students interested in arranging to stay in the residence hall should contact Robert Felde, KSU Housing Office, Pittman Building, 913-532-6453, to request room reservation forms. Advance reservation is recommended.

QUESTIONS

Contact the Division of Continuing Education, 317 Umberger Hall, Kansas State University. Manhattan, KS 66506, or phone 532-5566, or toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-8222.

Registration: December 9-11, 1985

Farrell Library Basement For more information call 532-5566 (317 Umberger Hall)

Division of Continuing Education Kansas State University or day. Just on ays!! any size zza! and like.

This 15 You can go want for just

Smurthw:

1984-85

BOC

M.48

Best Hap

TO Alte

Mus

Come music have be

Comic uses many topics in act

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

The beauty of the Bronx, the practicalities of a harmonica and unattained dreams of becoming a doctor battled to be comedy topics during Robert Klein's performance Friday night. Klein, a featured entertainer of the McCain Auditorium Series, jested and joshed for nearly two hours to the full house crowd.

Klein quickly established rapport with the crowd, a mixture of campus and community folk, when he commented that the sign of a great campus was bad football team. He also noted that boarding a plane in Manhattan and arriving in Kansas City, Mo. to be driven to Manhattan seemed like a "short

Throughout his routine Klein flowed with the audience and adlibbed with unexpected incidents.

Jabbing and swatting at a moth, Klein said, "Spies from Nebraska trying to get our signals." Then speaking of himself, "reflexes of a jet pilot."

With the college campus focus, Klein told the audience he went to school to become a doctor, but some things got in the way - like calculus, organic chemistry, biology, reading, comprehension, attendance, behavior. He joked about types of tests and mentioned his favorite - the essay test.

Prancing around the stage, he said he could boogie, really boogie through those tests - possibly b.s. through those tests. He stopped the prancing, "shovel, please," he said. Betweer. ing, Klein with a so and a col monica. 1 talk of all the Unite places we ferent rea Austin, to Bronx is s. year." The 43-well-trave his comedy ing relative entered Alfa N.Y., as a p comprehensive associate

Overland Pa

Smurthw

1984-85

You can g want for jus

Mu

Br Con

musi ave b

During Friday's full-house performance at McCain Auditorium, comedian Robert Klein illustrates how a fish might react after being caught.

Congress continues debates Klein 'flows' with audience on plan for balanced budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress begins this week where it left off last week - stalemated over sharp differences between House and Senate versions of a plan to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Separately, the Senate resumes work today on omnibus legislation setting farm policy while the House, after considering routine matters today and Tuesday, will begin work at midweek on legislation authorizing hundreds of new water projects.

Arugments over the budget proposals have delayed final action on legislation needed to raise the government's borrowing authority, the national debt limit, from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion. The budget plans are being considered as an amendment to the debt legislation.

Congress's failure to raise the debt limit has forced the Treasury Department to, in effect, dip into the Social Security trust funds and other trust funds to keep the government solvent.

Both Houses of Congress have passed different versions of stopgap measures to ease the credit crunch until Wednesday and avoid the loss of interest to the trust funds.

However, the Treasury Department officials have said the move to shift money from the Social Security funds will provide enough money for the government to continue operating until Nov. 14.

The situation on the budget plan is that the Republican-led Senate passed a package that would set statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until zero is reached in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on steps to meet the annual goals, the plan would direct the president to impose automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to keep deficit spending within the ceiling.

Three weeks of negotiations aimed at drafting a compromise acceptable to the House and Senate collapsed last Thursday and on Friday the Democratic majority in the House passed its own version of the budget plan.

The House-passed plan is designed to make a larger reduction in the deficit in its first year and achieve a balanced budget a year earlier than the Senate plan.

The House plan also would cut

more from the Pentagon and do more to protect welfare programs from cuts than the Senate version.

The next step will be for the Senate to consider the House package under an agreement for that action to be completed Wednesday afternoon. Senate Republican leaders have said they plan to respond to the House action by passing a slightly revised version of the original Senate plan.

Meanwhile, the Senate will continue work on the farm bill, which has been debated in that chamber now for more than a week.

Action on that measure has been stymied by wrangling over a package of amendments designed to reduce the overall cost of the measure which will set farm policy and price-support programs for the

In the House, action on the water projects legislation would clear the way for new projects that have been blocked since 1976 by disputes among the House, Senate and White House over whether users of the nation's harbors and dams should begin paying part of the costs.

The House bill calls for user fees and local cost-sharing and would authorize 290 new projects, costing more than $10 billion.

Study compiles breast cancer facts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Women younger than 45 years old who have taken oral contraceptives have no greater risk of getting breast cancer than women who never used the pills. a federal

For women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the aggregate rate of last years after pill use was discon-

The breast cancer results, published in the Nov. 2 issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, contrast with those of two smaller in 1983, which mand cancer risk

AGRICULTURE

Ref. No. 94100

AGRON 600

Crop Problems/Seed Technology (1 UG/G)

Profs. Gerry L. Posler and Richard L. Vanderlip. January 6-January 10, 1986. Monday-Friday from 1:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m. Throckmorton Hall, Room 214.

An overview of seed quality, seed production, harvesting, processing and storage of quality seeds. Insight into the seed industry, seed certification and regulations.

Pre-req: AGRON 220 Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

Ref. No. 94101 AGRON 615

oil Problems/Management of Subhumid Soils of Eastern Kansas and Surrounding Areas (2 UG/G)

Prof. Floyd Smith. January 2-January 14, including January 4 (Saturday), 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Throckmorton Hall, Room 117.

Course will cover: soil-water relationships, historic production, prevailing land types, impacts of precipitation deviation, water conservation, possible irrigation development, soil erosion, lime and fertilizer, alternate crops, future of subhumid areas. Limit: 30

Pre-req: None

Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G

Ref. No. 94102 GENAG 505

Comparative Agriculture/Agricultural Study Tour to Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii (3 UG/G)

Prof. Clenton Owensby. December 26, 1985-January 14, 1986. Sunday-Saturday. Appt. Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii.

Learn about agriculture in Australia, New Zealand, and Hawaii by visiting private and university research centers. Travel course will include stops to view beef cattle, dairy, sheep, swine, poultry and horse operations and a variety of forages and crops. Deadline to enroll: November 12, 1985.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $120.00 UG/$174.00 G; plus travel fees to be collected by the instructor. See instructor about travel arrangements and costs.

Ref. No. 94103 GRSC 790

Grain Science Problem/Baking Industry: The Management Challenge (1 UG/G)

Prof. Joseph Ponte, Jr. January 8-January 10, 1986.

Wednesday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Shellenberger Hall, Room 311.

This course is a computer game for management development in the baking industry. (The techniques used are applicable to other industries.) The decision and planning process is a "hands on", highly competitive experience that will provide a keen insight into how a modern corporation functions. The participants are divided into five competing corporations and are required to make any decisions on all company aspects: sales, production, finance, profitability and growth. The computer accepts their decisions and provides feedback in the form of company statements, thus, measuring the effects of the decisions. No computer experience is necessary to participate in this course. Co-instructor will be Mr. Robert McGarth, Vice President-Administration, Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Greenwich, CT.

Pre-req: Some college credit Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

Ref. No. 94104 PDP 299

Problems in Basic Design/Watercolor: Buildings and

Landscapes Workshop (1 UG)

Prof. James Jones. January 9-January 14, 1986. Thursday-Tuesday, (excluding Sunday) from 1:05 p.m.-4:20 p.m. Session on Saturday from 9:20 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Seaton Court, Room 107 A.

Studio workshop developing skills and techniques in watercolor for beginning or advanced students.

Limit: 15 Pre-reg: None

Fees: $40.00 UG; plus $2.00 for Xeroxing to be paid at registration.

Ref. No. 94105 PDP 299

Problems in Basic Design/Architectural and Interior

Prof. Robert Bullock. January 2-January 13, 1986. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Seaton Court,

Studio rendering experience emphasizing rapid visualization of form, space, light, texture, and materials with felt tip markers, mixed media, and watercolors Materials lists are available and a tentative sign-up sheet will be posted on Prof. Bullock's office door, 105 C Seaton

Limit: 25

Pre-req: Any basic studio design class in Architecture, Art, Interior Design, Engineering, Environmental Design (PDP), Theatre

Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $7.50 for copying, some general materials, solvents, etc. to be collected by the instructor.

Ref. No. 94106

PDP 380

Visual Thinking (2 UG) Prof. Gwen Owens Wilson. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton

Court, Room 107 B. An analysis of a person's recognition, visualization, and recording of environmental experiences. Experimental exercises in sensory stimulation and response recording.

Limit: 20 Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94107

PDP 699 Problems in Environmental Design/Philadelphia Architecture and Urban Planning (2 UG/G)

Prof. Eleftherios Pavlides. January 3-January 11, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. University of Pennsylvania, Art Library.

Philadelphia's urban plan composed by Bacon in the '50s, representing ideas of grand development, was recently revised by Copeland and Brown based on ideas of preserving scale and neighborhoods. In Philadelphia there exist important examples of architecture from colonial times to the present day. Through site visits and through meeting with designers and planners, we will examine the impact of design and planning ideas in the environment. Deadline to enroll: December 2, 1985. Limit: 16

Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G; plus costs for traveling, room, and board in Philadelphia to be collected by the

Ref. No. 94108 ARCH 566

Problems in Architectural Design/Architectural Competitions: Idea, Development and Presentation (2 UG)

Prof. Raymond Streeter. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton Court, Room 204

Strategies for successful entries in architectural competitions will be discussed and explored.

Pre-reg: ARCH 401 or consent of instructor Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94109

IAR 406

Problems in Interior Architecture/Marketing the Architecture/Design Student (1 UG)

Prof. Sarah Garrett. January 9-January 14, 1986: Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton Hall, Room

An introduction to marketing the skills and abilities of architecture and design students. Course will include: refinement of a resume and portfolio brief; graphics and production of personal marketing materials, including resume, brochure and portfolio format; strategies for tailoring the materials to individual employment prospects; professional techniques for interviewing; video recording of students in a simulated interview; and individual feedback and evaluation. Some pre-class preparation and assembly of materials necessary.

Limit: 20 Pre-req: Minimum third year standing Fees: $40.00 UG

Ref. No. 94110

Problems in Landscape Design/Presentation Techniques Prof. Mike Lin. January 2-January 14, 1986. Everyday from 8:30 a.m.-Noon and 7:30 p.m.-Midnight. Seaton Hall, Room 307 and 308. The objective of this course is toward increasing students' ability to delineate drawings and renderings rapidly and convincingly in the design profession. The media to be covered are: pencil, ink, marker, pastel, watercolor, etc. Basic sketching techniques will also be included. TB Limit: 22

Pre-req: None Fees: $120.00 UG

Ref. No. 94111

LAR 440

Problems in Landscape Design/Microcomputer Applications in Environmental Design (2 UG)

Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-10:30 a.m. (Lab time arranged) Seaton Hall, Room 251. This course introduces the students to the uses of microcomputers as a tool in the typical practice of professional planning and design. Students will become familiar with the function, operation, characteristics and applications of some common and popular software and hardware for office documents, data bases, engineering and cost estimating. TB Limit: 15

Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $35.00 lab fees to be collected by the instructor.

Pre-req: None

Ref. No. 94112

LAR 741

Problems in Landscape Architecture/Golf Course Design (2 UG/G) Prof. William Winslow. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Sunday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Seaton Hall,

Room 305. An introduction to the theory and practice of golf course design. Lecture will cover the history and theory of golf course development, modern design approaches, and construction considerations. Practical application will be made by the student through the planning and design of a golf course site, and the subsequent production of working drawings for the design. Students are encouraged to talk with instructor before class starts concerning equipment and supplies. Limit: 20 Pre-req: Junior in the College of Architecture and Design or permission of instructor

Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G; plus Xeroxing and blue printing costs to be collected by the instructor as needed.

Ref. No. 94113 PLAN 590

Problems in Planning/Rural Planning in Developing Na-

Prof. Mark Lapping. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 3:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. Seaton Hall,

The topic of rural development planning in the context of developing nations will be explored. Topics to be covered include: planning from the "top down" versus*NLY planning from the "bottom up"; growth pole theories of development and the "trickle down" effect. agricultural/forestry sector "take-off"; basic needs approaches, etc. TB Limit: 30

ditorial said its size, may ere may be a fore any inisk from conevident, said e studies are viewed 2,088

s of 20 and 44 with breast nd 1982. The netropolitan . San Franie states of Mexico and er on nday, sday, sday, sday,

riday or urday. Just on idays!!

Prof. Kenneth Brooks. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Any Size Pizza!

ST and ly-like.

Klein 'flows' with audience

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

The beauty of the Bronx, the practicalities of a harmonica and unattained dreams of becoming a doctor battled to be comedy topics during Robert Klein's performance Friday night. Klein, a featured entertainer of the McCain Auditorium Series, jested and joshed for nearly two hours to the full house crowd.

Klein quickly established rapport with the crowd, a mixture of campus and community folk, when he commented that the sign of a great campus was bad football team. He also noted that boarding a plane in Manhattan and arriving in Kansas City, Mo. to be driven to Manhattan seemed like a "short trip."

Throughout his routine Klein flowed with the audience and adlibbed with unexpected incidents.

Jabbing and swatting at a moth, Klein said, "Spies from Nebraska trying to get our signals." Then speaking of himself, "reflexes of a jet pilot.'

With the college campus focus, Klein told the audience he went to school to become a doctor, but some things got in the way - like calculus, organic chemistry, biology, reading, comprehension, attendance, behavior. He joked about types of tests and mentioned his favorite - the essay test.

Prancing around the stage, he said he could boogie, really boogie through those tests - possibly b.s. through those tests. He stopped the prancing, "shovel, please," he said. Between ing, Klein with a so and a co monica. I talk of all the Unite places we ferent rea Austin, to Bronx is s. year."

The 43well-trave his comedy ing relative entered Alfa N.Y., as a p comprehensive

Overland Pa

Smurthw

1984-85

This

15

You can g

want for jus

Mu

Com

musi

have be

associates

dian Robert Klein illustrates how a fish might react after being caught.

Pre-req: Introduction to Planning or equivalent

Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G

Ref. No. 94114 PLAN 590 Problems in Planning/Energy and Public Utility Planning (2 UG)

During Friday's full-house performance at McCain Auditorium, come-

Limit: 15

Ref. No. 94121

DAS 202

Limit: 20

Pre-req: None

the instructor.

Ref. No. 94122

brush Techniques (2 UG)

ART 300

Limit: 15

instructor.

Pre-req: None

Ref. No. 94123

paid at registration.

Ref. No. 94124

ENGL 395

Room 218.

Limit: 25

Pre-req: None

Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94125 ENGL 450

Ref. No. 94126

MLANG 450

Room 125.

in contemporary society. TB

CMPSC 206

TB

Ref. No. 94115 Seminar in Planning/Energy and Public Utility Planning

Prof. Nels Leutwiler. January 6-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon; plus two afternoon sessions by arrangement. Seaton Hall, Room 202.

The course will investigate methods whereby the olic and private sectors can manage energy consumption through land use and other planning decisions. Looking at energy from both technological and political perspectives, the class will study regulatory methods through which energy management techniques can be implemented. The course will also review the use of energy conservation as an economic development technique.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G

Ref. No. 94116 PLAN 590

Problems in Planning/Community Development Planning (1 UG)

Ref. No. 94117

PLAN 815

Seminar in Planning/Community Development Planning (1 G)

Prof. Arthur C. Nelson. January 8-January 13, 1986. Wednesday-Monday from Noon-3:00 p.m. (weekdays) Seaton Hall, Room 252.

This course will expose students to community goal setting; the goals of community development; selected components of community development plans including the housing assistance plan, neighborhood strategy areas, addressing urgent community needs, and economic development assistance; and an overview of successful and unsuccessful community development projects.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

Ref. No. 94118 PLAN 590

Problems in Planning/Public-Private Partnerships in Local Economic Development (1 UG)

Ref. No. 94119

PLAN 815

Seminar in Planning/Public-Private Partnerships in Local Economic Development (1 G)

Prof. Arthur C. Nelson. January 2-January 7, 1986. Thursday-Tuesday from Noon-3:00 p.m. (excluding Sunday). Seaton Hall, Room 252.

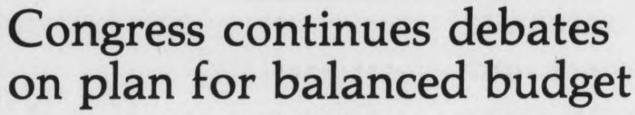

This course will introduce students to some of the ways in which the public and private sectors may cooperatively engage in local economic development. Topics will include tax increment financing, capital mobilization, economic development bonds, enterprise and free trade zones, tax abatements, land write-downs, provision of public infrastructure, and public purchase/lease-back of private project components.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

Ref. No. 94120 PLAN 630

Computer Applications in Planning and Design (2

Prof. Claude Keithley. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton Hall, Room

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congress begins this week where it left off last week - stalemated over sharp differences between House and Senate versions of a plan to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Separately, the Senate resumes work today on omnibus legislation setting farm policy while the House, after considering routine matters today and Tuesday, will begin work at midweek on legislation authorizing hundreds of new water projects.

Arugments over the budget proposals have delayed final action on legislation needed to raise the government's borrowing authority, the national debt limit, from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion. The budget plans are being considered as an amendment to the debt legislation.

Congress's failure to raise the debt limit has forced the Treasury Department to, in effect, dip into the Social Security trust funds and other trust funds to keep the government

Both Houses of Congress have passed different versions of stopgap measures to ease the credit crunch until Wednesday and avoid the loss of

However, the Treasury Department officials have said the move to shift money from the Social Security funds will provide enough money for the government to continue operating until Nov. 14.

The situation on the budget plan is that the Republican-led Senate passed a package that would set statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until zero is reached in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on steps to meet the annual goals, the plan would direct the president to impose automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to keep deficit spending within the ceiling.

Three weeks of negotiations aimed at drafting a compromise acceptable to the House and Senate collapsed last Thursday and on Friday the Democratic majority in the House passed its own version of the budget

The House-passed plan is designed to make a larger reduction in the deficit in its first year and achieve a balanced budget a year earlier than the Senate plan.

The House plan also would cut more than $10 billion.

more from the Pentagon and do more to protect welfare programs from cuts than the Senate version.

The next step will be for the Senate to consider the House package under an agreement for that action to be completed Wednesday afternoon. Senate Republican leaders have said they plan to respond to the House action by passing a slightly revised version of the original Senate plan.

Meanwhile, the Senate will continue work on the farm bill, which has been debated in that chamber now for more than a week.

Action on that measure has been stymied by wrangling over a package of amendments designed to reduce the overall cost of the measure which will set farm policy and price-support programs for the nxt four years.

In the House, action on the water projects legislation would clear the way for new projects that have been blocked since 1976 by disputes among the House, Senate and White House over whether users of the nation's harbors and dams should begin paying part of the costs

The House bill calls for user fees and local cost-sharing and would authorize 290 new projects, costing

Study compiles breast cancer facts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Women younger than 45 years old who have taken oral contraceptives have no greater risk of getting breast cancer than women who never used the pills. a federal

The application of computer concepts to problem solv-

Instr. Myrna Bartel. January 2-January 14, 1986.

For students considering nursing or a related health

Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-Noon. Conference Room, profession as a career. Introduction to nursing care skills, to the development of nursing as a profession, and to the Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $3.00 for lab fees to be paid at registration and $2.00 for filmstrip rental to be collected by Special Studies in Art/Studies in Graphic Design: Air-

Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-Noon and 1:00 p.m.-4:30 before purchasing an airbrush. They'll learn about the technical and graphic applications, available brands and types of airbrushes, spray characteristics, limitations and maintenance procedures. Survey of the history of graphic design and uses of airbrush will be explored through exten-

Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $2.00 for handout materials and $15.00 for materials, boards, and ink to be collected by the Instrs. Pratap Chillakanti and Chaya Yerrapragada.

January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 1:00

Fundamentals of programming in BASIC: applications.

Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $15.00 Xeroxing and disk cost to be

Topics in English/Modern American Folk Legends (2

Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Denison Hall, and rationale of the major urban folk legends that circulate

Prof. Vincent Gillespie. January 2-January 14, 1986.

This course will examine the development, structure,

Prof. Douglas Benson. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-Noon. Eisenhower Hall,

p.m. Graphic Design studio, Art Building.

sive use of slides and supplements.

BASIC Language Laboratory (2 UG)

p.m.-3:50 p.m. Nichols Hall, Room 127.

Pre-req: CMPSC 200 and MATH 100

Prof. David Harmes. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Students will look at the factors they need to consider changing role of nurses in the health care industry.

ing data analysis and graphics in the planning and design mapping and computer aided design.

Pre-req: CMPSC 100 or equivalent

Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Practicum in Nursing (2 UG)

Lafene Student Health Center.

professions, including the development of user skills in the application of various software packages for data display,

For women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the aggregate rate of last years after pill use was discon-

The breast cancer results, published in the Nov. 2 issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, contrast with those of two smaller in 1983, which reast cancer risk l use.

ng editorial said spite its size, may ie. There may be a nd before any incer risk from conomes evident, said future studies are interviewed 2,088 e ages of 20 and 44 sed with breast 380 and 1982. The the metropolitan Detroit, San Franand the states of New Mexico and

Never on Sunday,

Juesday.

Limit: 20 Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $5.00 Xeroxing and film rental cost to be collected by instructor.

An introduction to Japan through literary works, films, and other materials: society, arts, music, values and at-

Ref. No. 94127 HIST 103

titudes. TB

Ref. No. 94128 HIST 503

Ref. No. 94129

Overseas European Studies/The History of London (3

Prof. Robert Linder. December 26, 1985-January 13, 1986. Monday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon and 1:00 p.m. 4:00 p.m. (plus a two-hour orientation meeting before the trip begins.) London, England

A short-term, intensive, and in-depth study of various aspects of the history of London with readings, lectures, discussions, and on-the-spot experiences which will relate historical events to the places visited. TB Deadline to enroll: November 5. Contact instructor immediately. Limit: 25

Pre-req: None (enroll at the appropriate level) Fees: $120.00 UG/$174.00 G; plus $1.00 Xeroxing fee to be collected by the instructor.

Ref. No. 94130 JMC 101

Advertising Flyer Preparation (2 UG)

Instr. Roger Williams. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 6:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Kedzie Hall, Room 208. The course will cover the basics of advertising flyer preparation from the original justification and marketing analysis to the design, artwork preparation, printing and mailing. The finished product of the course will be a flyer with complete specifications for a printer. Limit: 30

Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94131 MUSIC 310

History of Musical Instruments (2 UG)

Prof. M. L. Cochran. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. McCain Auditorium, Room 105 The development of musical instruments in each period of Western music. Limit: 28

Pre-req: MUSIC 150 or MUSIC 250 (or consent of instruc-

Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94132 MUSIC 390

Special Studies in Music: Beginning Recorder Playing (2)

Prof. Frank Sidorfsky. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 6:00 p.m.-9:00 p.m. McCain Auditorium, Room 135.

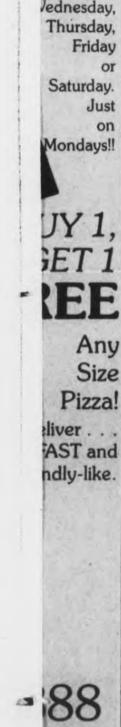

Participants will learn the basics of recorder playing; they will learn to play simple melodies and will acquire sufficient foundation for further development. Basic music reading skills (pitch and rhythm) will be included. Participants must furnish their own instruments (or arrange with the instructor to borrow one from KSU). TB Limit: 20

Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94133 MUSIC 424 Cross-Cultural Experiences in Literature/Japan (2 UG)

Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest (2 UG) Instr. Al Cochran. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Monday-Friday from 1:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m. McCain Auditorium, Room 105.

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

The beauty of the Bronx, the practicalities of a harmonica and unattained dreams of becoming a doctor battled to be comedy topics during Robert Klein's performance Friday night. Klein, a featured entertainer of the McCain Auditorium Series, jested and joshed for nearly two hours to the full house crowd.

Klein quickly established rapport with the crowd, a mixture of campus and community folk, when he commented that the sign of a great campus was bad football team. He also noted that boarding a plane in Manhattan and arriving in Kansas City, Mo. to be driven to Manhattan seemed like a "short trip."

Throughout his routine Klein flowed with the audience and adlibbed with unexpected incidents.

Jabbing and swatting at a moth, Klein said, "Spies from Nebraska trying to get our signals." Then speaking of himself, "reflexes of a jet pilot."

With the college campus focus, Klein told the audience he went to school to become a doctor, but some things got in the way - like calculus, organic chemistry, biology, reading, comprehension, attendance, behavior. He joked about types of tests and mentioned his favorite - the essay test.

Prancing around the stage, he said he could boogie, really boogie through those tests - possibly b.s. through those tests. He stopped the prancing, "shovel, please," he

Between the dancing and prancing, Klein at with a song and a coup monica. His talk of all th the United places were ferent reason Austin, took Bronx is so year."

The 43-y€ well-traveled his comedy i ing relatives entered Alfr N.Y., as a pi health associates Overland Parl

Smurthwai 1984-85 co

This

You can gobt want for just a

Alter Music

Brig

Come music 1

have bee

time management. Limit: 15 Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $50.00 for lab manual to be collected by the instructor.

Ref. No. 94138

Hall, Room 225.

Ref. No. 94139

Limit: 100

Program (1 or 2 UG)

Pre-req: Consent of instructor

Monday-Friday by Appt.

program in one of these districts.

p.m., Bluemont Hall, Room 256.

Bluemont Hall, Room 256.

Fees: 1 hr.-$40.00 UG/2 hr.-$80.00 UG

Topics in Education/Educational Field Experience (2

Prof. Ray Kurtz. January 2-January 14, 1986.

A field experience designed to acquaint prospective teachers with a variety of teaching techniques, procedures and classroom organizations at various grade levels.

Students will have the opportunity to select observations in self-contained classrooms, departmentalized classrooms, classrooms in open space schools and special classrooms in several different schools. Students residing in or near

Shawnee Mission or Topeka will be assigned to a special

Pre-meeting on December 11, 1985. 3:30 p.m.-4:30

Post-meeting on January 15, 1986. 3:30 p.m.,

EDCI 502

During Friday's full-house performance at McCain Auditorium, comedian Robert Klein illustrates how a fish might react after being caught.

The history and development of jazz styles in Kansas

City and the southwestern U.S. emphasizing the influence

Use of Statistical Computer Packages in Data Analysis

Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. Denison 124.

System (SAS) for analysis of variance, covariance, regression correlation, chi-square analysis plus data display using the Calcomp plotter. Also variable transformation and

Topics in Education/Emerging Therapies and Techni-

8-January 10, 1986. Wednesday-Friday from 8:00 viders can enhance their skills in this workshop addressing emerging therapies and techniques. Keynote sessions followed by small group workshops enable participants not only receive information but also practice application of the Adult and Continuing Education Colloquium/The Monday-Friday from 5:40 p.m.-9:00 p.m. Eisenhower guided along a path of self exploration concerning: how to ensure effective interpersonal motivation, personality patterns, patterns and leadership, leadership and power, managing conflicts, listening to lead, praise and correction,

Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $45.00 for lab manual to be

Adult and Continuing Education Colloquium/Adven-

Monday-Friday from 8:40 a.m.-Noon. Eisenhower Hall, business, education, and other professions. Students will be guided along a path of self exploration concerning: how to ensure effective communications, how attitudes affect the results we achieve, how to manage emotions, team building, developing good human relationships, problem solving, how to tap more of your leadership potential, motivation, integrating goals with self management and

Instr. Catherine Fung. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Seminar focusing on human resource development for Instr. Catherine Fung. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Seminar focusing on human resource development for business, education, and other professions. Students will be a.m.-4:00 p.m. Regents Center, Kansas City, KS.

Profs. Fred Newton and Margery Neely. January

Mental health professionals and human service pro-generation and creating data sets will be discussed.

Pre-req: STAT 702, 703, or consent of instructor

Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

EDUCATION

Ref. No. 94135

ques (1 UG/G)

EDAF 686

information.

Pre-req: None

Ref. No. 94136

Hall, Room 16.

Limit: 15

Pre-req: None

Ref. No. 94137 EDAO 318

tures in Attitudes

EDAO 318

Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G

Leadership Seminar (2 UG)

and consistent commitment.

collected by the instructor.

Limit: 30

Prof. Kenneth Kemp. January 6-January 10, 1986.

Processing data primarily using the Statistical Analysis on styles of other geographic areas. TB

Pre-req: MUSIC 150 or consent of instructor

Limit: 30

Fees: $80.00 UG

Ref. No. 94134

STAT 708

While attending Alfred Universi- for the Chicago improvisational

Congress continues debates Klein 'flows' with audience on plan for balanced budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congress begins this week where it left off last week stalemated over sharp differences between House and Senate versions of a plan to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Separately, the Senate resumes work today on omnibus legislation setting farm policy while the House, after considering routine matters today and Tuesday, will begin work at midweek on legislation authorizing hundreds of new water projects.

Arugments over the budget proposals have delayed final action on legislation needed to raise the government's borrowing authority, the national debt limit, from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion. The budget plans are being considered as an amendment to the debt legislation.

Congress's failure to raise the debt limit has forced the Treasury Department to, in effect, dip into the Social Security trust funds and other trust funds to keep the government solvent.

Both Houses of Congress have passed different versions of stopgap measures to ease the credit crunch until Wednesday and avoid the loss of

However, the Treasury Department officials have said the move to shift money from the Social Security funds will provide enough money for the government to continue operating until Nov. 14.

The situation on the budget plan is that the Republican-led Senate passed a package that would set statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until zero is reached in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on steps to meet the annual goals, the plan would direct the president to impose automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to keep deficit spending within the ceiling. Three weeks of negotiations aimed at drafting a compromise acceptable to the House and Senate collapsed last Thursday and on Friday the Democratic majority in the House passed its own version of the budget

The House-passed plan is designed to make a larger reduction in the deficit in its first year and achieve a balanced budget a year earlier than the Senate plan.

The House plan also would cut

more from the Pentagon and do more to protect welfare programs from cuts than the Senate version.

The next step will be for the Senate to consider the House package under an agreement for that action to be completed Wednesday afternoon. Senate Republican leaders have said they plan to respond to the House action by passing a slightly revised version of the original Senate plan. Meanwhile, the Senate will continue work on the farm bill, which has been debated in that chamber now for more than a week.

Action on that measure has been stymied by wrangling over a package of amendments designed to reduce the overall cost of the measure which will set farm policy and price-support programs for the nxt four years.

In the House, action on the water projects legislation would clear the way for new projects that have been blocked since 1976 by disputes among the House, Senate and White House over whether users of the nation's harbors and dams should begin paying part of the costs.

The House bill calls for user fees and local cost-sharing and would authorize 290 new projects, costing more than $10 billion.

Study compiles breast cancer facts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Women younger than 45 years old who have taken oral contraceptives have no greater risk of getting breast cancer than women who never used the pills, a federal study has found.

'For women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the aggregate rate of breast cancer.'

The breast cancer results, published in the Nov. 2 issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, contrast with those of two smaller studies published in 1983, which ast cancer risk editorial said te its size, may There may be a before any inr risk from cones evident, said

ure studies are sterviewed 2,088 iges of 20 and 44 d with breast and 1982. The ne metropolitan etroit, San Franand the states of New Mexico and

Never on Sunday.

Tuesday,

Friday

or

Just

on

Any

Size

Pizza!

ST and

lly-like.

38 ver . .

londays!!

last years after pill use was discon-

Introduction to the application of microcomputer systems for early childhood education, family life education, information processing, and access to national infor-Independent Study in Education/Teacher Assistant mation networks. Emphasis on word processing, spreadsheets, and database management systems. Recitation and Prof. Jackson A. Byars. January 2-January 10, 1986.

Monday-Friday all day. One week of observation in Limit: 20 elementary or secondary school classroom. Orientation Pre-req: None session at 4:30 p.m., November 13, 1985 in Bluemont Fees: $80.00 UG

> Ref. No. 94143 FCD 590

Proseminar in Child and Family/Family Violence (2

Instr. Sandra Stith. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Justin Hall, Room

This course is designed to give the student an overview of contemporary issues and research concerning various aspects of family violence, i.e., spouse abuse, child abuse, and abuse of the elderly. A major emphasis of the course will be to identify factors related to the prevention of family violence. Identification of abusive families, prediction of families at risk of abuse and treatment programs for family violence will be considered. Throughout the course, professionals who work with violent families in social service agencies will be invited to share their work with the class.

Pre-req: Sophomore standing to be paid at registration.

Ref. No. 94144 FN 782

Topics in Foods and Nutrition/Nutrient Composition of Foods and Methods of Analysis (1 UG/G)

6-January 10, 1986. Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. Justin Hall, Room 149.

(chemical and microbiological). Emphasis on laboratory methods and "hands on" experience. Extra laboratory time may be required in afternoon to analyze personally selected Limit: 20 collected by instructor.

Pre-req: BIOCH 521

VETERINARY MEDICINE

Ref. No. 94145 PA 820

Computer Applications in Veterinary Medicine Prof. Joseph Smith. January 2-January 14, 1986.

Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m. Vet Library, VCS K-239. Basic computer knowledge, use of general application program for veterinary use, including computer-assisted diagnosis of veterinary problems. Limit: 14

Pre-req: SM 830 Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G; plus $10.00 copying and diskette cost to be collected by the instructor.

Ref. No. 94146

Perinatal Pathology (2 G)

Prof. Stanley Dennis. January 3-January 10, 1986. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m.-Noon. VCS N, Room

Study of pregnancy wastage of domestic animals. The course will cover the embryonic, fetal and neonatal periods and will include placental, fetal and neonatal lesions due to infections, non-infectious and generic factors, and predators. Limit: 30

Pre-req: PATH 703; DVM graduates or veterinary sophomore standing. Fees: $116.00 G; plus $15.00 Xeroxing cost to be collected by instructor.

ednesday, Thursday, Saturday. Fees: $80.00 UG; plus $2.00 Xeroxing and film rental cost Prof. Jane Bowers and Instr. Jean Craig. January Historical development of data; standard methods Fees: $40.00 UG/$58.00 G; plus $2.00 Xeroxing cost to be

Ref. No. 94140 EDCI 686

Limit: 25

Pre-req: None

Fees: $80.00 UG

Topics in Education/Microcomputers for Classroom Instruction (2 UG/G)

Prof. Custer Whiteside. January 6-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 4:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m. Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. Bluemont Hall, Room 016F.

The focus of the course is on developing effective use of computers for classroom applications. Topics covered are: introduction to microcomputers, selecting software, and integration of microcomputers in the classroom. TB Limit: 20

Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G

Ref. No. 94141

EDCI 686 Topics in Education/Classroom Organization and Management (2 UG/G)

Prof. Paul Burden. January 6-January 13, 1986. Monday-Saturday from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Bluemont Hall, Room 113.

This course will identify: (1) causes of student misbehavior, (2) a variety of teacher responses to misbehavior, (3) management procedures teachers can use to minimize the occurrence of discipline problems, and (4) management guidelines for starting the school year. Films, filmstrips, small group discussions. Limit: 30

Pre-req: None Fees: $80.00 UG/$116.00 G; plus $11.00 for photocopying to be paid at registration.

HUMAN ECOLOGY

Ref. No. 94142

FCD 320

Microcomputers in Human Services and the Home (2

Prof. Robert Poresky. January 2-January 14, 1986. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Justin 329 and

Klein 'flows' with audience

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

The beauty of the Bronx, the practicalities of a harmonica and unattained dreams of becoming a doctor battled to be comedy topics during Robert Klein's performance Friday night. Klein, a featured entertainer of the McCain Auditorium Series, jested and joshed for nearly two hours to the full house crowd.

Klein quickly established rapport with the crowd, a mixture of campus and community folk, when he commented that the sign of a great campus was bad football team. He also noted that boarding a plane in Manhattan and arriving in Kansas City, Mo. to be driven to Manhattan seemed like a "short

Throughout his routine Klein flowed with the audience and adlibbed with unexpected incidents.

Jabbing and swatting at a moth, Klein said, "Spies from Nebraska trying to get our signals." Then speaking of himself, "reflexes of a jet pilot."

With the college campus focus, Klein told the audience he went to school to become a doctor, but some things got in the way - like calculus, organic chemistry, biology, reading, comprehension, attendance, behavior. He joked about types of tests and mentioned his favorite - the essay test.

Prancing around the stage, he said he could boogie, really boogie through those tests - possibly b.s. through those tests. He stopped the prancing, "shovel, please," he

Between the dancing and prancing. Klein added a touch of music with a song about his hometown and a couple tunes on the harmonica. His comments included talk of all the places he's seen in the United States and certain places were remembered for different reasons. "I spent a week in Austin, took a leak Boston, but the Bronx is so beautiful, this time of

The 43-year-old comedian is well-traveled, however he began his comedy in the home, entertaining relatives. After high school he entered Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y., as a pre-medical student.

*free pregnancy tests

*gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

outpatient abortion services alternatives counseling

During Friday's full-house performance at McCain Auditorium, comedian Robert Klein illustrates how a fish might react after being caught.

While attending Alfred University, Klein joined his college acting company and became the "Rod Steiger of Alfred U." He graduated with a bachelor's in political science and history, although his drama professors told Klein's father he ought to pursue an acting Klein took an offer from Yale Drama School, New Haven, Conn., and he was on his way. During the fall of 1963 he did substitute teaching to earn a living in New York. At night he was a comic act at nightspots, the Bitter End and Cafe Hootenanny.

In March 1965, Klein auditioned for the Chicago improvisational company, Second City, and spent an important year of his career in Chicago. "I learned everything, discipline, improvisation and the art of working up a comic routine. It matured me as a performer and gave me a feeling of control of the audience," Klein said.

When Second City closed, Klein was chosen for the Broadway musical, "The Apple Tree."

Klein's evenings were spent at a club called The Improvisation - a training ground for young comedians. It was there he was signed by Rollins and Joffe, the people who managed Woody Allen.

Congress continues debates on plan for balanced budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress begins this week where it left off last week - stalemated over sharp differences between House and Senate versions of a plan to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Separately, the Senate resumes work today on omnibus legislation setting farm policy while the House, after considering routine matters today and Tuesday, will begin work at midweek on legislation authorizing hundreds of new water projects.

Arugments over the budget proposals have delayed final action on legislation needed to raise the government's borrowing authority, the national debt limit, from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion. The budget plans are being considered as an amendment to the debt legislation.

Congress's failure to raise the debt limit has forced the Treasury Department to, in effect, dip into the Social Security trust funds and other trust funds to keep the government solvent.

Both Houses of Congress have passed different versions of stopgap measures to ease the credit crunch until Wednesday and avoid the loss of

However, the Treasury Department officials have said the move to shift money from the Social Security funds will provide enough money for the government to continue operating until Nov. 14.

The situation on the budget plan is that the Republican-led Senate passed a package that would set statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until zero is reached in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on steps to meet the annual goals, the plan would direct the president to impose automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to keep deficit spending within the ceiling.

Three weeks of negotiations aimed at drafting a compromise acceptable to the House and Senate collapsed last Thursday and on Friday the Democratic majority in the House passed its own version of the budget plan.

The House-passed plan is designed to make a larger reduction in the deficit in its first year and achieve a balanced budget a year earlier than the Senate plan.

The House plan also would cut more than $10 billion.

more from the Pentagon and do more to protect welfare programs from cuts than the Senate version.

The next step will be for the Senate to consider the House package under an agreement for that action to be completed Wednesday afternoon. Senate Republican leaders have said they plan to respond to the House action by passing a slightly revised version of the original Senate plan.

Meanwhile, the Senate will continue work on the farm bill, which has been debated in that chamber now for more than a week.

Action on that measure has been stymied by wrangling over a package of amendments designed to reduce the overall cost of the measure which will set farm policy and price-support programs for the nxt four years.

In the House, action on the water projects legislation would clear the way for new projects that have been blocked since 1976 by disputes among the House, Senate and White House over whether users of the nation's harbors and dams should begin paying part of the costs.

The House bill calls for user fees and local cost-sharing and would authorize 290 new projects, costing

Study compiles breast cancer facts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Women younger than 45 years old who have taken oral contraceptives have no greater risk of getting breast cancer than women who never used the pills, a federal study has found.

The study released Thursday, the largest of its kind ever done, is the latest in an ongoing controversy about possible cancer links to oral contraceptives. However, scientists say it may not resolve the issue.

Researchers from the federal Centers for Disease Control and the National Institutes of Health said the finding of no increased risk held true regardless of the age at which women started using the pills or how long they used them.

"For women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the aggregate rate of breast cancer," said Dr. Bruce V. Stadel of the National Institute of Child Health and Human DevelopFor women less than 45 (years old), pill use for the last 20 years has had no effect on the aggregate rate of breast cancer.'

-Dr. Bruce V. Stadel

ment, coordinator of the study that involved more than 4,000 women.

The work is part of a larger, $7 million project called the Cancer and Steroid Hormone Study sponsored by the federal health agencies.

Dr. George L. Rubin of the CDC said previous findings from the overall study showed that taking the pill resulted in decreased risk of cancers of the uterus and ovaries.

Risks of getting these cancers went down at least 50 percent for women taking birth control pills, Rubin said, and the protective effects tended to

last years after pill use was discon-

The breast cancer results, published in the Nov. 2 issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, contrast with those of two smaller studies published in 1983, which found increased breast cancer risk associated with pill use.

An accompanying editorial said the new study, despite its size, may not resolve the issue. There may be a long latency period before any increased breast cancer risk from contraceptive use becomes evident, said the editorial, and future studies are

The researchers interviewed 2,088 women between the ages of 20 and 44 who were diagnosed with breast cancer between 1980 and 1982. The women lived in the metropolitan areas of Atlanta, Detroit, San Francisco and Seattle, and the states of Connecticut, Iowa, New Mexico and

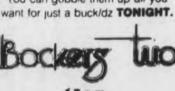

comprehensive

Smurthwaite wants their 1984-85 composite back

You can gobble them up all you want for just a buck/dz TONIGHT.

TONIGHT

MANNICUINS

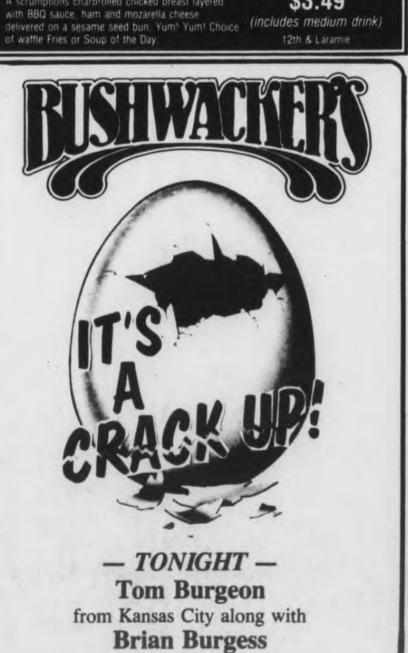

Alternative Music Night

Brigaders Unite!

Come hear the music your ears have been dying for.

Guatemala voters end army rule

By The Associated Press

GUATEMALA

Guatemalans voted Sunday to choose a civilian president they hope will end military rule and pave the way for increased economic aid from the United States. It was this Central American nation's first civilian election in 16 years.

Eight civilian candidates ran for president. The military is due to turn over power Jan. 14.

A series of military governments has ruled Guatemala since 1970.

An estimated 2.7 million of the nation's nearly 8 million people were registered to vote and authorities expected a turnout of about 80 percent turnout. Long lines formed under clear skies an hour before the polls opened at 7 a.m.

Polls were scheduled to close at 6 p.m.

Vinicio Cerezo Arevalo, 42, of the Christian Democratic Party, and Jorge Carpio Nicolle, 52, of the Union of the National Center were considered the leading candidates.

But neither was expected to get the required 50 percent plus one vote needed for victory.

Small fire ignites in plant's wall

By The Collegian Staff

Sparks from a cutting torch ignited a small fire on a wall in the boiler room of the power plant late Friday morning.

The fire began at 11:39 a.m. when sparks from a workman's cutting torch ignited combustible materials inside the west wall of the power plant, said Steve Burnett, battalion chief of the Manhattan Fire Department.

Burnett said 35 to 40 foot flames moving up the wall hindered firefighters' work. Firemen had the blaze under control in 30 minutes, Burnett said. Damage estimates are not yet available.

Staff/John Thelander

Plain shiny

agricultural economics, polishes an airplane's windshield Saturday at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity member Tim Congrove, junior in ATO's plane wash at Manhattan Municipal Airport. The ATOs raised $75 for the Big Lakes Development Center.

Humphrey still miles ! from ocean

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURG, Calif. - Humphrey the whale, lured by a device emitting humpback sounds underwater, reversed course and headed downriver Sunday as scientists in a flotilla of boats began a maximum effort to get him back to sea.

"It's great!" said Hal Alabaster of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. "He's following the boat, even the turns. We've made about seven miles since starting this morning."

In a three-hour period, the 45-ton whale and escorts got back to the Pittsburg vicinity, 40 miles from the Golden Gate, he said.

Scientists placed a transponder into the water and it transmitted recorded sounds of Humphrey's species, Alabaster said. It was the first time the acoustics equipment had been used since efforts started to get the wayward whale back to the Pacific, he said.

On Sunday morning, the scientists, government officials and others in the 33-boat convoy being readied to herd Humphrey toward the sea discovered the whale had made a U-turn and gone up the San Joaquin River. It was Humphrey's 24th day in the delta, where it has been as far as 70 miles from the sea.

Study links some crimes to alcohol consumption

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - More than half of jail inmates convicted of violent crimes had been drinking before committing the offenses, the government said Sunday in a grim study of alcohol's role in fueling crimes of passion.

A report by the Bureau of Justice Statistics also showed that more than half of convicted jail inmates admitted they had been drinking enough to feel "pretty drunk" or "very drunk" just before committing the crimes for which they were convicted.

Altogether, 54 percent of 32,112 people convicted of violent crimes had been drinking, the survey said.

For all crimes, including nonviolent offenses, burglary, public disorder and so forth, 48 percent of the convicted inmates had been usMany inmates 'drunk' before breaking laws ing alcohol before committing the of-

While there has been much publicity in recent years about the problem of drunken driving, and moves by many states to toughen statutes to deal with the problem, the study released Sunday provided a new insight into the impact alcohol has on a wide range of other crimes.

Nearly seven out of 10 people convicted of manslaughter - 68 percent - had been drinking before the offense, while 62 percent of those convicted of assault had been drinking.

The survey found that 49 percent of those convicted of murder or attempted murder had been drinking.

The findings were based on personal interviews with a random sample of 5,785 jail inmates convicted of crimes from some 400 local jails around the country.

The sample was designed to be representative of the more than 223,500 people housed in the nation's 3,338 local jails during the time of the survey in 1983.

The survey did not include 48-hour holding lockups or state and federal

Aside from violent crimes, the most common public-order offense was driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

An estimated 13,000 people - or about 10 percent of all convicted inyears earlier. But the 1983 survey found that mates - were found guilty of this ofmore inmates drank for a longer fense, and about 2 percent had been charged with driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol. When the convicted offenders were asked if they had used drugs or alcohol just before committing the offense that landed them in jail, 26 percent said they had been under the influence of one or more drugs and 48 percent said they had been drinking

Alcohol use just before a crime was only slightly changed from a similar survey in 1978 — 48 percent in 1983 compared to 46 percent five period of time before committing the The 1983 survey found that 54 percent of the inmates drinking just before committing an offense had been drinking for five hours or more. In the 1978 survey, only 44 percent of these inmates said they had been drinking for that long.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

KANSAS STATE ORCHESTRA

PREMIERE PERFORMANCE

McCAIN AUD. NOV. 5 8 P.M.

ADMISSION FREE

Nebraska overpowers 'Cats for 41-6 victory

By DAVID SVOBODA Assistant Sports Editor

Nebraska ran off 17 unanswered points in the second quarter Saturday to break open a close score and never looked back as the No. 5-ranked Cornhuskers downed K-State 41-3.

Nebraska led by a 7-3 margin at the end of the first quarter, but two second quarter touchdown runs and a field goal gave the 'Huskers a 24-3 halftime bulge.

Nebraska moved out on top midway through the first quarter on a 37-yard touchdown run by fullback Tom Rathman. Dale Klein tacked on the extra point and the 'Huskers had an early 7-0 advantage.

Rathman, a senior, ended the contest with 84 yards on 11 carries and was one of three Cornhusker backs who gained over 80 yards rushing on the day. Paul Miles and Doug DuBose, Nebraska's I-backs, ended up with 83 and 82 yards, respectively. Rathman's efforts earned the praise of both coaches.

"As far as a pure fullback goes, Tom is one of the best around," Cornhusker Head Coach Tom Osborne said.

"I think Tom is an excellent player," K-State Head Coach Lee Moon said. "He doesn't get near the amount of credit or recognition that DuBose does, but he's a great player.

"You defense the option, you defense the tailback, and they just line Rathman up and give him the ball and he pounds you.

K-State answered the 'Husker score with one of their own six minutes later. Kicker Mark Porter kept his consecutive field goal string alive, connecting from 44 yards out to pull the 'Cats to within four. The field goal was Porter's sixth in six attempts in 1985. Nebraska's second quarter onslaught sealed K-State's fate, however.

Miles started the 'Huskers on their roll by scampering 21 yards around left end and into the end zone. Miles' run capped an 11-play, 75-yard drive that was highlighted by quarterback Travis Turner's 22-yard screen pass to Rathman on a third-and-20 play. Miles was in the end zone one play

Moon said the pass to Rathman was the play that broke K-State's

"We were in a blitz and they split the backs and set a screen to both sides. We had the one side covered and our middle linebacker didn't pick up the other man," Moon said. "We were in a man-to-man. It was a perfect call for the defense, and our guy didn't get there.

"We're in 'man' coverage and the receivers were all covered downfield. He's (the middle linebacker) got to move to the fullback and make the play, and he didn't. I think that was the big play in the game. That broke our back."

Nebraska Cornhuskers safety Bryan Siebler (right) bobbles the ball before dropping it on a pass intended for K-State split end Gerald Alphin (left), while Nebraska right cornerback Cleo Miller (left) also attempts to catch the ball. The Cornhuskers went on to defeat the Wildcats, 41-3, for the 600th victory in the history of their football program.

With K-State down, Nebraska moved in for the kill. With just over three minutes remaining before the half, Rathman busted up the middle for a five-yard touchdown run and the 'Huskers had increased their lead to

After Nebraska's Mike Knox intercepted a John Welch pass on K-State's next possession, Klein booted a 39-yard field goal to send the Cornhuskers into the locker room at halftime with a 24-3 lead.

K-State's defense responded with a fine third quarter effort, holding Nebraska to just three points. The came on a 50-yard field goal by

Nebraska scored two touchdowns in the final period. The first came midway through the quarter on a four-yard run by Miles, and the second came on the final play of the

It was John Kelly's one-yard run on the game's final play that earned the quiet criticism of Moon.

"I'll remember it," Moon said with an icy stare that could not mask his obvious anger.

Nebraska's offensive attack and the controversy at the end of the game overshadowed a good effort by the K-State offense. K-State had 15 first downs and gained 128 yards through the air.

A. A. C.
tate	3	0
raska			14-

NU — Rathman 37 run (Klein kick)
K-State — FG Porter 44
NU — Miles 21 run (Klein kick)
NU — Rathman 5 run (Klein kick)
NU — FG Klein 39
NU — FG Klein 50
NU — Miles 4 run (Klein kick)

NU — Miles 4 run (Klein kick) NU — Kelly 1 run (Klein kick)

and the sail	AND THE PERSON NAMED IN K-State	Nebraska
irst downs	15	25
Rushes-yards	39-58	62-375
asses	15-34-3	6-17-2
assing yards	128	75
leturn vards	13	77

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Rushing — K-State, Moody 14-62, Strahm 2-10, Witherspoon 1-8, Kendrick 6-4, Wilson 4-3, Welch 12-minus 29. Nebraska, Rathman 11-84, Miles 11-83, DuBose 18-82, Taylor 1-32, Jones 4-24, Sheppard 3-24, Clayton 5-21, Kaelin 2-13, Kelley 3-7, Blakeman 1-5, Turner 3-0.

Passing — K-State, Welch 15-34-3-128. Nebraska, Turner 5-11-1-56, Clayton 1-6-1-19. Receiving — K-State, Alphin 5-62, Warren 3-16, Moody 3-13, Stonner 2-23, Dean 1-10, Elder 1-4. Nebraska, Rathman 2-29, DuBose 2-18, Lindstrom 1-19, Smith 1-10.

'Husker fans wild about their team

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

Oh, those Nebraska fans.

They came in numbers from all parts of Nebraska, some from Kansas and Oklahoma and who knows where else.

Why? They are just wild about their University of Nebraska Cor-nhuskers, the perennial football powerhouse.

"We are just loyal to our team," Marilyn Eitemiller, a Husker fan from Lincoln, Neb., said. "They are a team worth watching because they are a machine!" Attendance at K-State football games had been lagging in recent weeks. The Wildcats were winless until the previous week at the University of Missouri and the fans just hadn't been turning out for home

But count on Nebraska to bring the people into KSU Stadium.

Until Saturday, the largest crowd of the season at KSU Stadium had been the opening day turnout for the game with Wichita State University. The crowd on that day numbered near 31,000.

Saturday's crowd numbered 41,500, the largest of the year and 10th largest in KSU Stadium history. Most of that 41,500 were wearing red, too, Nebraska red.

By one count of the sections at the stadium, 22 were dominated by 'Husker fans, while only eight were controlled by K-State supporters.

"This is the south stadium for Nebraska," John Hatfield of Lincoln said in regard to the proximity of Manhattan to Nebraska. It wasn't just KSU Stadium that Nebraska fans seemed to take over either, it was the whole city of Manhattan.

Motel rooms all over Manhattan were booked solid.

"We were booked up early last spring for this weekend," Judy Darling, desk clerk at the Manhattan Holiday Inn, said. "This and Parents" Weekend are our busiest weekends of the year."

The story was the same at the University Ramada Inn.

"Even (motels) near Junction City were full," John McDermott, senior in elementary education and Ramada Inn desk clerk, said. "When Junction City is full, you know you have an awful large crowd."

While some NU fans may have had a hard time finding a place to stay, they had no complaints about their treatment by the K-State communi-

"I tell you what about K-State fans, they're very hospitable," Don Brandt of Omaha, Neb., said. "I always enjoy coming here and we've always had a good time.'

Tickets are easy to come by and are sold at fair prices, Brandt said.

"If a K-State fan has some extra tickets, they have never scalped us. They've always treated Nebraska fans fair," he said.

With Nebraska's 141 consecutive sellouts in Memorial Stadium in Lincoln, some 'Husker fans' only opportunity to see Nebraska play is at away games.

Forward Derrick Howse, brings down a rebound as center Ron Meyer applies pressure during the Purple-White intrasquad scrimmage Saturday in Ahearn Field House. The White defeated the Purple, 96-61.

Coleman's 37 points draw praise of coach

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

K-State forward Norris Coleman, nicknamed "Ice Cold," was anything but that in his first performance in a Wildcat uniform.

Led by Coleman's 37 points and 12 rebounds, K-State's White squad turned a close game into a blowout in the second half, posting a 96-61 victory over the Purple team in the annual intrasquad game before 1,810 Saturday night in Ahearn Field House.

Coleman, a 6-foot-8-inch, 210-pound forward who recently completed a four-year stint in the Army, was 17 of 24 from the floor and three of four at the line. At one point in the second half, Coleman connected on eight consecutive shots.

"Norris had good concentration on his shots, good shot selection and took his time," said a pleased Jack Hartman, K-State's head mentor who coached the White squad.

Coleman, who is listed as a forward but played the center position for the White team, was not surprised by his performance but did say his points came in an unfamiliar way.

"It was a typical game for me," he said. "But I was somewhat disappointed with my offensive rebounds. That's where most of my points come from."

Coleman's scoring outburst overshadowed a 19-point performance from senior guard Joe Wright. Redshirt freshman Mark Dobbins, a 6-5 guard, added 15 points for the White squad. Senior forward Ben Mitchell scored nine points but had eight blocked shots.

Using the 45-second clock, both squads employed a fast-paced, fullcourt game throughout. A total of 163 field goals were attempted, with the White team faring better. The winning team hit 44 of 82 attempts for 54 percent, while the Purple squad managed to connect on 28 of 81 for 36 percent.

"I thought we reacted to the (fast) break well," Hartman said. "I think we've improved our speed and quickness, no doubt about that."

Both squads came out gunning from the start as neither team could gain much of a lead early. Leading 19-18, the White team outscored its opponent 10-4 to go up 29-22 with 7:17 left in the half.

The Purple team stayed even the rest of the half and trailed 44-36 at Helping to keep the score close in the first stanza was Rodney Heard, a speedy 5-11 freshman guard from Detroit. Heard, utilizing driving layups, scored eight of his team-high 13 points in the first half.

Forwards Derrick Howse and Brad Underwood each contributed 10 points for the Purple team, but combined to hit only 10 of 33 from the

The White team also controlled the boards, out rebounding the Purple squad 49-29. Meyer backed Coleman's 12 rebounds with 10 of his own. Mitchell also had nine boards for the White team. The Purple team was led in rebounding by senior forward Kevin Muff and forward Bret Butler with seven each.

With Mitchell, forward-center Ron Meyer and Wright providing the experience, the White squad turned an eight-point lead into a 56-39 cushion four minutes into the second half. The biggest lead for the White team was 84-49.

Hartman, in his first courtside action since his heart attack in January, pointed out defense, rebounding, timing and passing as areas of concern after 21/2 weeks of practice. The two squads combined for 36 turnovers.

'Cat spikers defeat ISU in 3 games

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

With the combination of good solid play and the ability to maintain their composure, K-State's volleyball team got its third conference win of the season, defeating the Iowa State University Cyclones 15-6, 15-12 and 15-13 in a match held Friday night in Ames, Iowa.

The win was the second over the Cyclones in the conference season for the Wildcats. The two met earlier in Manhattan with the 'Cats winning the contest 15-9, 15-12 and 15-10. K-State's offensive attack was led by sophomore Mary Kinsey who connected on 14 kills. Senior co-captain Donna Lee was also a key to the offense, registering 10 kills. Head Coach Scott Nelson credited a great deal of the Wildcat offensive success against the Cyclones to the play of All-American candidate Renee Whitney. "Renee played a very intelligent game," Nelson said. "She did a great job of getting the ball to the correct attacker in a particular situation."

Whitney is currently second in the Big Eight in hitting efficiency and assists.

Against the Cyclones. Whitney recorded four kills and no errors for an attacking percentage of 40 percent.

In Friday's match, the Wildcats also executed on the defensive side of the court.

See VOLLEYBALL, Page 12

Staff/Peter Obetz

K-State cross country team members Robbie Hays and Pat Hessini jockey for position in Saturday's meet at the A.L.Gustin golf course in Columbia, Mo. The men's team finished third in the competition.

Volleyball

Continued from Page 11

Kinsey led K-State with 16 digs and Whitney had 10 digs. Helen Bundy, despite coming off a shoulder injury, led the team in blocking with one solo block and four assists.

Nelson knew going into Friday's match the Wildcats would have to control the serving abilities of the Cyclones to obtain a victory in Ames.

"We knew coming in that we would have to control their serving," he said. "They are one of the best serving teams in the conference. We also had to serve tough."

The conference win Friday boosted K-State's record to 3-4 in the Big Eight and 17-9 overall. The win keeps the Wildcats in the thick of the conference race.

Going into the weekend competition Nebraska was leading the conference race followed by Oklahoma, Missouri, K-State, Kansas and Iowa

The next match for the Wildcats will be Tuesday night when they face the Unversity of Nebraska at 7:30 in Ahearn Field House.

K-State cross country teams place third in Big Eight meet

By JAY KNORR Collegian Reporter

The Big Eight Conference cross country coaches must be psychic. The coaches picked K-State's men's and women's teams to finish third at the Big Eight Championships Saturday in Columbia, Mo., and they were

Despite injury problems and competing with only five runners, the seventh-ranked women finished with 84 points to finish third behind the University of Nebraska's 61 points and 66 points from second place Iowa State University. Each of the top three Big Eight teams are ranked in the top 10 nationally.

Wildcat Head Coach Steve Miller said he thought the men might end up fourth but won't argue with their third-place finish.

In the men's division, Colorado came out on top with 48 points followed by Oklahoma State with 72, K-State with 76 and Iowa State with

The top finisher in the 5,000-meter event for the K-State women was All-American Jacque Struckhoff, who placed second overall in 17 minutes, 32 seconds. Last year in the Big Eight meet, Struckhoff placed sixth.

Oklahoma State's Christine McMiken won the individual title in 17:04. McMiken was the defending champion.

Basketball

ticket sales

start today

Student season tickets for

K-State men's basketball go on sale today at 1 p.m. in the east

Tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis until 6 p.m. After today, tickets may be purchased in the Central

Ticket Office in Ahearn Gym-

A student fee card is required for each ticket and there is no limit on the number of tickets a student may buy.

The tickets are $25 each for 10

nasium.

Tuesday

lobby of Ahearn Field House.

"I told myself that I should finish second. I was running good but the in the conference," Stahl said. last mile had a lot of hills and I got a "(But) I felt comfortable. I kept little tired," Struckhoff said.

Miller was pleased with Struckhoff's performance.

"She (Struckhoff) ran great," he said. "We had to have her run a great race and she rose to the occasion. She ran McMiken closer than anyone has run her all season. Jacque's performance today should put her as one of the nations top 10 runners."

The next highest finisher for K-State was No. 3 runner Anne Stadler who placed 12th in 18:00. Alysun Deckert, running No. 2 all season, came in 14 seconds later to place 17th and Nancy Hoffman crossed the finish line in 18:35 to take 25th.

"Both Anne and Nancy ran great," Miller said. "Alysun just had a bad day; it happens. She'll be all right, though. If you're good, you overcome adversity."

The only other runner for the women was Lisa Wakem, who was hampered by a pulled groin muscle but still finished 28th in 18:38.

The rest of the women's division had the Oklahoma State University fourth with 86 points followed by the University of Colorado (106), the University of Missouri (108), the University of Oklahoma (153) and the University of Kansas with (209).

Ron Stahl was K-State's men's top finisher as he ran the 10,000-meter event in 31:42 to place eighth.

"That course is one of the toughest moving up and I knew I'd have a good chance to finish high." After a 34th-place finish in the Wisconsin Burger King Invitational two weeks ago, Stahl was looking to bounce back. "Ron ran sensationally. He came back and ran really well today after a disappointing performance at the Wisconsin meet," Miller said.

Bryon Lopez ran a 32:05 to take 11th place and Jim Knudsen took 13th place with a time of 32:24. "Both Bryon and Jim have been consistent performers for us all season," Miller said.

Mike Rogers and Bryan Carroll, both of whom have been sick with bronchitis, placed 19th and 24th, respectively, in 32:42 and 33:05. "If we get Rogers and Carroll over the hump healthwise, I'm confident we can be at the national meet," Miller said. "Today was our first glimmer of real hope. I'm proud of how the men overcame adversity and rose to the occasion.' K-State's men's team has had to recover from one setback after another throughout the season.

"It's been a frustrating year for all of us with all of the injuries and sickness but we're starting to pull together." he added.

Pat Hessini placed 38th and Rob Hays placed 51st for K-State's scor-

Oilers' late field goal ends Chiefs' comeback

Friday

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7 30 am 11 30 am-3 30 pm 7 30-10 pm

ORC 4-6 pm

8

15

22

RC 6 am-2 am

P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm

7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 6:30-7:15 am

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm

A 6:30-7:15 am

Noon-12 45 pm

A 6:30-7 15 am

Noon-12:45 pm

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - Tony Zendejas kicked a 38-yard field goal with 14 seconds to play Sunday to give the Houston Oilers to a 23-20 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs and a share of the American Football Conference Central Division lead.

The Oilers, who led 20-6 going into the fourth quarter, got their chance at victory by driving 57 yards in the final two minutes.

Quarterback Warren Moon hit tight end Jamie Williams with a key third-down pass and a holding penalty against Kansas City's Albert Lewis kept the drive alive.

Thursday

PHONE NUMBERS

Rec Complex: Equipment and Courts

Rec Check

Rec Services.

Moon then hit wide receiver Tim Smith with a 24-yard pass to set up

Zendejas' winning kick.

Houston, 4-5, won its third straight game for the first time since closing out the 1980 season with three consecutive wins. The Chiefs, 3-6, extended their losing string to five.

The Oilers took a 6-3 halftime lead on Moon's 17-yard pass to Drew Hill and built it into a 20-6 bulge on Moon's 3-yard touchdown pass to Chris Dressel and a 3-yard scoring run by Butch Woolfolk.

But quarterback Bill Kenney rallied the Chiefs to a 20-20 deadlock with 4:34 to play on touchdown passes of 6 yards to Herman Heard with 13:40 to play and 18 yards to Stephone Paige with 4:34 to go.

Kansas City's Nick Lowery kicked two field goals.

Saturday

KSU Home Football vs NU at 1:30

NOVEMBER REC REPORT

Swim Challenge

Deadline: Monday, Nov. 4

Distance: 15 miles

in one month

Cost: $3.00

Sunday OUTDOOR RENTAL CENTER The Outdoor Rental Center will close from Mon. Nov. 25, through Fri. Feb. 28 See you next Spring! Reservations for outdoor equipment (after 11/24) may be made through the Rec Services office with 48 hours advance notice at 532-6980 RC Noon-11 pm P 1-5 pm RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7-30 am 11-30 am-1-30 pm 7-10 pm ORC 4-6 pm

RC 6 am-11 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 6:30-7 15 am Noon-12:45 pm 5:30-6:30 pm AQF 7 30-8 15 pm

11

P 6-7 30 am 11 30 am-3:30 pm 7 30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 5:30-6:30 pm

12

19

P 6-7 30 am

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7-30 am 11-30-3-30 pm 7-30-10 pm ORC 4-30-5-30 pm

A 5 30-6 30 pm

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7 30 am 11 30 am-1 30 pm 7 30-10 pm ORC 4 30-5:30 pm A 6 30-7:15 am Noon-12 45 pm 5 30-6 30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm

13

RC 6 am-11 pm

A 6:30-7 15 am

Noon-12 45 pm 5 30-6 30 pm

AQF 7 30-8 15 pm

P 6-7 30 am 11 30 am-1 30 pm 7 30-10 pm ORC 4 30-5 30 pm

RC Rec Complex

AQF Aqua Fitness

ORC Outdoor Rental Center

P Pools

A Aerobics

Wednesday

CODES

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6 7:30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 5:30-6:30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm

14

21

RC 6 am-11 pm

P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm

7 30-10 pm ORC 4 30-5:30 pm

AQF 7:30-8 15 pm

A 5 30-6 30 pm

RC 6 am-11 pm

P 6-7 30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 5:30-6:30 pm

RC 6 am-11 pm* *small gym closes at 9 pm P 6-7 30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 6:30-7:15 am Noon-12 45 pm

532-6000

532-6951

532-6894

532-6980

9 RC 8 am-10 pm P 1-5 pm 7-10 pm ORC 11 am-Noon
CPR Saturday 8 am-6 pm in the Small Gym of the Rec Complex

16

RC 9 am-10 pm

ORC 11 am-Noon

KSU Home Football vs ISU at 1:30

Lee Greenwood Concert in Ahearn Fieldhouse

in evening

RC 9 am-10 pm P 1-5 pm 7-10 pm ORC 11 am-Noon

Late Nighter

Friday, Nov 22nd 11 p.m.-2a.m.

> Unique games... cage ball, volleyball, whiffleball, and more!

Look for information in the Collegian or phone 532-6980

10 RC Noon-11 pm P 1-5 pm ORC 4-6 pm 24 P 1-5 pm 7-10 pm ORC 4-6 pm

RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7 30 am 11 30 am-1 30 pm Closed in evening 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm for lifeguard Noon-12:45 pm 5:30-6:30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm 18 RC Noon-11 pm P 1-5 pm RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-1:30 pm 7-30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm

A 6:30-7:15 am Noon-12:45 pm 5:30-6:30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm 25 RC 6 am-11 pm

P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-1:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC CLOSED TIL SPRING A 6 30-7 15 am Noon-12 45 pm 5 30-6 30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm

20 RC 6 am-11 pm RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7 30 am 11:30 am-1 30 pm 11 30-3:30 pm 7 30-10 pm ORC 4 30-5:30 pm A 5 30-6:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC 4:30-5:30 pm A 6:30-7 15 am Noon-12 45 pm 5:30-6:30 pm AQF 7:30-8:15 pm

26 RC 6 am-11 pm P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-3:30 pm 7:30-10 pm ORC CLOSED TIL SPRING A 5 30-6:30 pm

27 RC 6 am-9 pm P 6-7:30 am 11:30 am-1:30 pm CLOSED IN EVENING ORC CLOSED

28

29

P 1-5 pm 7-10 pm ORC 11 am-Noon Rec Complex Late-Nighter 11 pm-2 am

30

23

RC 9 am-10 pm

RC 1-9 pm P 1-4 pm CLOSED IN EVENING ORC 11 am-Noon KSU Home

Rec Check 532-6000

Rec Complex (Court Reservation) 532-6951

Outdoor Rental Center 532-6894

Rec Services office 532-6980

Nader still critical of U.S. car makers after two decades

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Two decades after his book "Unsafe At Any Speed" rocked the automobile industry, consumer activist Ralph Nader's criticism of car manufacturers is as sharp as ever.

"What they do is what they're required to do. There's very little volunteerism," he suggested in an interview marking the 20th year since the publication of the 297-page book, which made Nader a nationally known personality and launched a new era of consumerism.

His sharp words soften slightly when discussing the Ford Motor Co., largely, he says, because it has broken ranks with the rest of Detroit by offering air bags in at least some of its cars sold to fleet customers.

'GM is worse than ever, the stubborn No. 1," says Nader of General Motors Corp., which was the subject of his 1965 book. "Ford is breaking ranks. Chrysler - nothing."

It was November 1965, when "Unsafe at Any Speed" came off the presses with a message that at the time was nothing short of revolutionary as far as Detroit was concerned. It suggested that automobile design may be as much the culprit of highway accidents as the driver.

More alarming to the automakers, Nader urged the federal government protect Americans against automobile safety defects by requiring safety standards on everything from brake performance to windshields.

General Motors, whose Chevrolet Corvair was the prime target of Nader's book, was so incensed that it hired a detective to follow him. But the ploy backfired when the sleuth was discovered while trying to trail Nader in a Senate office building. GM later had to apologize at a Senate hearing and some say the apology did more to catapult Nader's prominence as the book itself.

Less than a year after the book's publication, Congress enacted the Motor Vehicle Safety Act, which gave the federal government's authority to regulate automobile safety and require federal auto safety standards.

'The book sparked the passage of the laws that revolutionized the way the auto industry does business, says Joan Claybrook, former head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the agency created by the 1966 law.

Michael Pertschuk, now a leading consumer activist and former member of the Federal Trade Commission, was a Senate aide deeply involved with the auto legislation when Nader's book was published.

"When the ideas of regulating the auto industry first came up it seemed impossible," he recalls. "Then the Nader book came out and GM's tailing of Nader. That really transformed the scene."

As for Nader, he says the single most important auto safety issue today revolves around the debate over whether to require air bags - the cushions that automatically inflate to protect front-seat occupants in a crash - in all automobiles.

While pessimistic about the automakers' commitment to safety, Nader says he believes the industry, which has opposed air bags, will soon be making them available. How sure is he of that? Perhaps this will give a hint.

Partly because of concern that someone would take advantage of his name in an endorsement, Nader has not owned a car since his college days when he drove a Studebaker.

Spotlight

(Monday through Thursday)

"Agnes of God" - Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "To Live and Die in L.A." - Campus; 4:45, 7 and 9:15 p.m.

"Death Wish III" - Varsity; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "Godzilla 1985" - Westloop; 5 and 7 p.m. "After Hours" - Westloop; 9 p.m.

"Marie" — Westloop; 4:50, 7:10 and 9:20 p.m.
"Cars that ate Paris" — Union Forum Hall; 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 3:30 and 7:30 Thursday

MUSIC

KSU Symphony - McCain Auditorium; 8 p.m. Tues-

"Faust" - McCain Auditoruim; 8 p.m. Thursday K-State Music Department Faculty Woodwind Quartet - Union Art Gallery; noon to 1 p.m. Thursday

ART EXHIBITS

Watercolor Miniatures by Gary Dierking - Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours Botanical Prints - Union Art Gallery; daily from 8

Watercolors by Rick Forsyth and James Jones -Strecker Art Gallery; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through

SPECIAL EVENTS

"Nooner" - Union Catskeller; noon to 1 p.m. Tuesday

Groups want mass emigration

Jewish advocates plan rallies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Americans hoping the Reagan administration can negotiate a resumption of massive Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union are planning rallies in scores of cities before the Geneva summit to keep the issue alive.

Another purpose of the public demonstrations is to convince Congress - which would have to approve any arms control agreement reached at the summit - that Americans might look dimly upon deals with Kremlin leaders unresponsive to human rights pleas.

Next week, the leading advocates of rights for Soviet Jews plan to publish a directory of events being held in the days before the Nov. 19-20 summit.

A preliminary list includes demonstrations and possible sit-ins at the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., ceremonies led by Roman Catholic leaders in New York, a torchlight walk in Boston led by Massachusettes Gov. Michael Dukakis and marches in Chicago and Philadelphia.

Other major cities where events are planned are Miami, Dallas, Tucson, Ariz.; Los Angeles; Kansas City, Mo.; Baltimore; Tulsa, Okla., and Atlanta.

"No stone will go unturned in demonstrating the importance of this issue to the American people," said William Keyserling, director of the Washington, D.C., office of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry.

Keyserling said the group is seeking the establishment of a reliable system that would premit Soviet Jews to "get on airplanes" and leave the country according to international human rights agreements and past Soviet practices.

From a high of 51,320 departures in 1979, emigration declined to 896 in 1984 and is continuing at the very slow pace, according to the con-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is

Classified advertising is available only to those

does not alter the value of the ad.

4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

religion, national origin, sex or ancestry. ANNOUNCEMENTS

ference. It estimates that of 2.5 million Jews in the Soviet Union, roughly 350,000 have formally expressed an interest in leaving.

President Reagan has said that the loosening of restrictions on Jewish emigration is a key ingredient for better relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz last week welcomed a decision by the Soviets to permit Yelena Bonner, a leading Jewish dissident and the wife of Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov, to leave the country temporarily to receive medical treatment.

At the same time, State Department officials have declined to comment on the question of whether proposals have been offered to the Soviets to bring about relaxation of restrictions that have limited emigration to a trickle.

Van Zile target of pranksters

By The Collegian Staff

Two candles seen burning in Van Zile Hall attic windows on Halloween Thursday night were placed by vandals, not by ghosts of students who once lived in the building.

Vandals broke into the building which has not housed students since May of 1984 — at 8 p.m. and spray painted star-like symbols on windows facing south, said Charles Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department.

Beckom said there was no evidence of forced entry.

"We can only speculate that the vandals had keys or accessed the building through an open window or an unlocked door," he said. "The incident was discovered by housing people making housing checks at the building.

"The candles were some symbolic gesture. The painting is similar to a star or a satanic symbol. This is becoming a popular thing to occur in the country (on Halloween)," Beckom said.

There were no damage estimates available but Beckom said it could cost up to $40 to remove the paint from the windows.

The hall has not been used since it was closed 11/2 years ago. Only a few pieces of furniture remain in the building, said Gene Wiley, physical plant supervisor.

Originally, the hall was closed for renovation, but renovation plans were scrapped because of the decline in enrollment, said Rosanne Proite, assistant director of housing.

No other vandalism was reported on Halloween, Beckom said, with the exception of the Van Zile incident.

assifieds

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246 (711) $10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve-lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60) SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52) Clip and Save

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products

New Special

1/4 Pound Hamburger

The Ritz

This coupon expires 11/10/85

ATTENTION

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and chase! (45-60)

eanuts

59 Jet engine

DOWN

1 Aware:

slang

2 Harem

room

housing

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flyin Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts ... count on Sun

rossword

fare

mother

divider

morsel

writer

telephone 55 Typecircuit 17 Rodent 18 Venomous 56 Mauna snake 19 Simple and 57 Pig's natural 58 Restrain 21 Having a handle 24 Weaver's reed 25 Decompos 26 Theater

28 Planted 31 Oriental nurse 33 Turf 35 Put in gathers: 36 Sired

38 1/1000 of

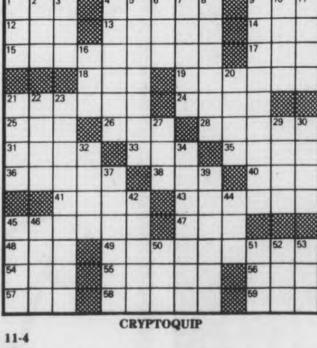

through Avg. solution time: 28 min. 34 Kitchen Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

10 Greenland base 11 Compas sion 16 Chinese pagoda 20 Vintage cars

21 Graceful 3 Obstacle 4 Secret horse 22 City meetings 5 Aides in Alaska 6 French 23 Bachelor's friend fete 7 Tokay 27 - Paul 29 Ireland 30 - Scott and Medoc 8 Robs Decision 9 Influen-32 Barrel tial

37 Surpassed 39 Attorney 42 Clergymanauthor 44 Sunday seat 45 Crazes 46 Unruly tumult 50 Get slower, to Mozart 51 Jungfrau 52 Card game 53 Young boy

AYPX ZDVUTO ZIOXPL VZVQVDX, YP GPAPL IN

PUPQZVTXG

Yesterday's Cryptoquip - CLUMSY BUT KINDLY HITCHHIKER'S DREARY LAMENT: "I'M ALL THUMBS."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals T

$9 gals. Call Melanie, 539-4400. (46-50)

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

QUIET ONE bedroom, 1131 Vattier, Heat, water and trash paid, furnished or unfurnished. $195/mo Call Professor McGuire, 532-6786 or 776-5682 evenings. (46-55)

TWO BEDROOM basement furnished apartment, 1016 Juliette, off street parking. Available November 1, $240, plus electricity, 539-6858 or 776-8352.

NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 olus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets. 537-1180 (48-57)

MAIN FLOOR and basement of large house-Two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, dining room, washer, dryer, $275. Call Ron, 537-3666 or 532-5881.

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FIVE BEDROOM farm home, gas furnance. Modern large country kitchen. large living room, attached garage. Barns, shop and other buildings, room for norses. Located 13 miles north of dam on Hwy 13. E.H. Thiele, 539-3492 (50-53)

FOR SALE-AUTO

MUST SELL: 1979 4 x 4 Subaru Brat. New radials, air conditioning, rebuilt transmission, excellent condition. $2,150 or best offer. 539-2899. (47-51) 1979 VW Rabbit - 4 door, air conditioning, $1,850

Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf) 1978 Z-28 Camaro - All options, including T-tops Low miles, must sell, $3,600. Call 537-0227 (47-51) 1979 RABBIT, 45-50 mpg, excellent condition, stereo. air conditioning, 532-6625, (48-52)

carl $900 or best offer. 776-4915 after 5:00 p.m. (50-51) 1971 OLDS Delta 88-good condition. Great scho

IS IT true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S government? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142, ext. 3286-A. (50) 1982 CHEVY K-10, 4 x 4-B'ack, excellent condition with warranty. Call 776-5217. (50-54)

1975 RED Chev. Monza 2 + 2 hb. Automatic V-8, four new tires with wire spoke wheels, new brakes power steering, air conditioning, AM/FM cassette—Alpine with Jensen speakers, good condition. Excellent care/maintenance, records available, 776-1586, (50-54)

FOR SALE-MISC 07 MIKASA BONE china-Nine place settings, contem porary style, "Silver Halo $250 Call 776-0733 (47-51)

15th EDITION Encyclopedia Britannica. Mint condition. 30 volumes, $515 firm. Call 539-7344. (49-51) DESK, SWIVEL desk chair, drafting chair, bedroon furniture, dinette, miscellaneous furniture. Some antiques. Call 776-9705. (49-51)

SMITH-CORONA Ultra Sonic II typewriter. One year old, excellent condition, firm $325. Call 539-7344. FENDER SUPER Twin guitar amp. Excellent condi tion! $200 firm. Call 776-3473 evenings. (50-54)

VERY NICE wood frame/pillow couch, $150; won en's 10 speed bike, $50. Call 776-6231. (50-54) FAT WETHER lamb, good quality. Can deliver. Call Don Mock 532-5891 days or 537-4132 evenings. (50)

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly. Must sell, $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59) 13

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, lov-ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

BARTENDERS AND Food Servers. Now hiring at the Cotton Club, Manhattan's newest dinner club. Ap-ply in person at 418 Poyntz in the Wareham Building. (47-51)

NEW YORK couple with two children looking for mother's helper good with children to live-in Pleasant suburban community, easy access to New York City, room with private bath, good pay, transportation. Call 516-621-0824. (47-51)

PROJECT MANAGER-Kansas Council on Economic Education, Unclassified KSU baselits. Coordinates educational grant and related functions providing inservice educational opportuni ties for teachers. Position includes budget management, general office duties and extensive telephone work. Requires knowledge of book-keeping; office management experience; and experience with computers, particularly word processing packages (or willingness to learn). Elementary or secondary teaching experience de-sirable. Bachelors degree required. Position to begin November 18, 1985. Send resume with three references by November 6, 1985 to: Michael Oldfather, Executive Director, Kansas Council on Economic Education, 322 Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506, 913/532-7357.

CHURCH NURSERY Attendent needed Sunday mornings, 8:15 a.m.-12:15 p.m. Must be 18 years of age or older. Complete application at 115 Court House Plaza. Monday thru Friday 8:30 a.m. 12:00 noon and 1:00 and 3:30 p.m. Application deadline November 8th. (49-50)

A PURPLE Eastpac backpack was stolen from the A reward is offered for its return. Contact Amy, 532-3811. (49-50)

15 NOTICES

OVER 1,000 costumes-Men's, ladies' and children's. Also wedding gowns and tuxedos. Choose early. Marie's Costumes. 17th and Humboldt, 539-

SPAGHETTI! SPAGHETTI! All you can eat! with gar-lic toast. 4:30-6:30 p.m Tuesday, November 5, in the K-State Union Stateroom. (50-51)

06

JILL M .- Happy Anniversary! It's been a great two years. Here's to many more. Love, Bill. (50) TINA P.- You were great, wonderful, fantastic! It's a night I'll never forget. Thanks again. - Exhausted.

16

GIRLFRIEND WANTED: Looking for hot girl to share my spare time with. Call baseball player Mike, Marlatt Hall. (50)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share three bedroom apartment. Own bedroom, only $150 per month. Call 776-3706 after 6:30 p.m. (46-50) ROOMMATE WANTED-Own bedroom, washer/dryer. Rent plus utilities. 403 South 10th. Call 537-2055. (48-52) FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809 North 11th. $145, bills paid. 539-8401. (49-63) NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, no utilities. Call

776-7331. (50-54) 18 SERVICES MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25, (1tf)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (41-quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537 9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (48-51) SAVE-WORD processing-papers, letters, resumes, etc. Call Kristi at 532-6026 or 776-4900. (50) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput-

WOMEN'S SUPPORT Group now forming. Open to all women who want support in dealing with personal, social or educational concerns. Contact Women's Resource Center, 532-6444. (50-52)

vices, 539-6912 or 539-3773, (50-54)

Total

Continued from Page 1

gram, said the presentation was to provide education student-athletes don't get in the classroom or on cam-

"These are things that exist and happen; they are real things that occur and we need to address them as such," Miller said.

The first Total Person meeting was open to all University students, although few students other than athletes attended.

The film, "The Comebacker," showed the true life story of the alcohol problem of Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Bob Welch. Welch had problems admitting he was an alcoholic but learned to accept it and went through a rehabilitation pro-

Gregoire said it's important for a person to try and help a friend if they see he or she abuses alcohol and refuses to admit the problem.

"Bob Welch tended not to see the shortcomings of his relationship with alcohol because it was really important to him," Gregoire said. "I'm not against drinking. I'm for people knowing they have a problem and I'm for people helping each other." Student-athletes interviewed said the program was interesting and gave a different angle to alcoholproblem "propaganda" they usually

Steven Compton, a freshman cornerback on K-State's football team, said the program didn't stress not to drink but stressed being aware of drinking as a problem.

"Don't drink. Don't drink. That's all you've been hearing since high school. This was really nice because they're saying it's all right to drink but don't let it ruin your life," Comp-

"There are a lot of demands put upon athletes," said Shawnee Call, freshman volleyball player. "It's good for the athletic department to let you know what they're doing (about alcohol-related problems)."

Sarah Bowers, St. John's Assessment Center program coordinator located in Manhattan, told studentathletes where help is available. She said the Total Person program is "very much needed" for the information it provides in areas beyond college life and sports.

"This (program) is a needed reflection of good leadership in (Athletic Director) Larry Travis, Steve Miller and the athletic department," Bowers said.

Stars join fight against AIDS

Gala could net $1.3 million

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - With $1 million already in their purse for the fight against AIDS, a galaxy of stars gathered Sunday to hoof onto the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in hopes of raising $300,000

Among those to perform in "The Best of the Best: A Show of Concern," were Bette Midler, Victor Borge, Christopher Reeve, Lily Tomlin, Brooke Shields, the Count Basie Orchestra, Carol Burnett, Colleen Dewhurst, Marilyn Horne, the McGuire Sisters, Robert LaFosse and Leslie Brown, Mikhail Baryshnikov and other members of the American Ballet

Theater, and the cast of the Broadway musical "La Cage aux folles."

Gov. Mario Cuomo saluted the effort by declaring Sunday "a day of concern for AIDS victims and their loved ones in New York state.

"Let us hope and pray that this event is the beginning of the end of far too many deaths and far too much grief," Cuomo said.

The benefit was organized by the AIDS Benefit Committee of the Actor's Equity Foundation with the help of 23 entertainment groups and unions. Ticket prices ranged from $25 up to $1,000 for box seats.

Before the show, the organizers raised $1 million in advance sales and donations. They hoped that late sales of tickets, souvenirs and advertisements would raise an additional $300,000.

Money raised by the event will go to the AIDS Medical Foundation, the AIDS Resource Center, and the Gay Men's Health Crisis to treat those afflicted with acquired immune deficiency syndrome and seek a cure for the fatal disease. The show was an East Coast echo of a similar benefit in September in California. With stars including Elizabeth Taylor, Burt Reynolds and Shirley MacLaine, and former first lady Betty Ford, the West Coast event raised $1 million for AIDS Project Los Angeles, which is using the money for education and to support victims.

Killings

Continued from Page 1

where they told their story to authorities, Veracruz state spokesperson Arturo Reyes Isidoro told The Associated Press.

The Mexico City newspaper Excelsior identified the survivors as Isidoro Chontal and Moises Gonzalez and said 20 of those killed were Federal Judicial Police agents.

It said the two survivors told investigators they were searching the area as part of the government's anti-drug campaign when they surprised traffickers loading about six tons of marijuana on launches on the Coachapa River.

Excelsior said the two survivors told authorities a three-hour gun battle ensued. Finally, they said, the agents ran out of ammunition and were overpowered by about 30 traffickers using high-powered weapons who killed them "one by one."

In a somewhat different version, the state government said the agents discovered the marijuana sometime earlier and were ambushed when they returned in the pre-dawn hours Friday to cart it away.

The government statement said some of the officers were killed immediately and that others were captured and were taken to a nearby ranch where they were tortured and Excelsior said the surviving agents watched from a hiding place as their comrades' bodies were put in boats and taken down river three miles to the village of Cahuapan. The bodies were laid out in a row along the river bank, Excelsior said.

The traffickers returned to the ambush site to collect the agents' weapons and vehicles, but the site was empty when police arrived there Saturday, the newspaper said.

An agent of the Federal Attorney General's Office in Acayucan told Excelsior that drug traffickers on Saturday bought four coffins in Minatitlan, about 90 minutes by river launch from the massacre site, indicating four of the ambushers had been killed in the shoot-out.

Weapons

Continued from Page 1

talks in Moscow beginning today told reporters the two sides remain 'quite a distance apart.'

The main stumbling block is a Soviet demand for a "total ban" on all arms in space. The senior official said Moscow's definition encompasses all U.S. attempts "to counter objects in space." It is aimed at stopping Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, which envisages using futuristic technology in space to intercept and destroy attacking missiles.

After a rest stop here, Shultz leaves for Moscow today to discuss preparations for the Nov. 19-20 Reagan-Gorbachev summit meeting with Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze and Gorbachev.

Shultz made a courtesy call Sunday on President Mauno Koivisto and Foreign Minister Paavo Vayrynen. Finland is neutral in East-West disputes.

The ceiling on heavy bombers proposed by Reagan is 350, the official said. They could carry up to 1,500 airlaunched cruise missiles. By U.S. count, the Soviets now have 375 Backfires, Bisons and Bears. The United States has 263 B-52s.

Gorbachev's call for a total of 6,000 nuclear "charges" lumped bombers in with all kinds of nuclear weapons, from potent globe-girdling missiles to mines.

American and Soviet intermediate-range missiles in Europe, meanwhile, would be frozen at 140 under the U.S. proposal. This would require a reduction of 103 Soviet SS-20 missiles and no reductions by the United States in the Pershing 2 and cruise missiles deployed among NATO allies.

Block and Bridle Meeting

Tuesday Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m.

Weber 107 OFFICERS meet at 7:00p.m.

Yearbook pictures following meeting

Program speaker, Dave Woolfolk of the Manhattan Federal Land Bank

Continued from Page 1

was cut Saturday and security forces were shining searchlights across the building at night.

Defector

State Department officials said protests were lodged with Soviet and Afghan authorities in Kabul and with Soviet officials in Washington, D.C., and Moscow over the "intimidation" attempt.

The American staff is staying inside the embassy after one person was "not treated gently" by Soviet and Afghan troops while trying to Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds leave the compound, said an American source, speaking Sunday on condition he not be identified.

It was the second known time a Soviet soldier entered the Kabul compound. In 1980, Pvt. Alexander Kruglov spent several days there, but after an interview with the Soviet ambassador in the presence of U.S. officials, decided to go back. He reportedly was promised that he could leave the army without punishment and resume his education.

> YOU Can Be An

> > 532-6600

Air Force Officer

KSU-AFROTC

MAKUH 1304 Westloop

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

539-8888 or 537-0886

THUNAM EXPRESS 1116 Moro

1 pound of hamburger, 1 pound of waffle fries, 1 pound of ice cream. and 3 pounds of soft drink

only $9.99

Old Texthook

Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

Hundreds of new & used textbooks

Various fields of study

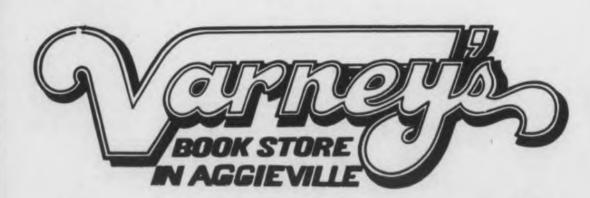

Some previously used at K-State

Some from other universities

Old editions

Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

9-9 MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN.

THE TIME IS COMING FOR K-STATE BASKETBALL TICKETS AVAILABLE NOW!

In business for 40 years, we've earned your trust.

LUNES

776-4074

407 Poyntz

Topeks KS

Reagan links SDI deployment, disarmament

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan says the United States will not erect its "Star Wars" shield against nuclear weapons until America's missile arsenal is abolished. However, the White House took pains Monday to explain that the United States will not disarm unilaterally and would expect the Soviet Union to scrap its weapons also.

In an interview published Monday in Moscow, barely two weeks before his summit in Geneva with Mikhail Gorbachey, Reagan firmly linked deployment of Star Wars with nuclear disarmament.

"We won't put this weapon, or this system, in place, this defensive system, until we do away with our nuclear missiles, our offensive missiles," Reagan said. "But we will make it (Star Wars technology) available to other countries, including the Soviet Union, to do the same thing."

Reagan's statement suggested for the first time that Star Wars technology would not be deployed until U.S. nuclear weapons are dismantled, but White House officials insisted that was not the case.

Presidential spokesmen Larry Speakes and Edward Djerejian said Star Wars, known in the administration as the Strategic Defense Initiative, envisions reducing nuclear weaponry in stages as components of the defense system are installed.

While insisting that Reagan's comments were clear on the point, Speakes said Star Wars would be deployed even if Moscow refused to go along with disarmament and the United States felt it had to keep its

"Certainly, if we get the technology we'd be prepared to deploy it," Speakes said. "But first, we'd express a willingness to discuss it with the Soviets and others, about sharing." He accused the press of trying to "play games" about what Reagan actually said.

The president made his comments in an interview conducted last Thursday by four Moscow journalists who unabashedly challenged the president on U.S. policy, particularly on Star Wars, and criticized some of his responses as being "unbalanced and one-sided in favor of the U.S. side."

In a mini-debate at one point, the president and the journalists argued over whether the United States or the Soviet Union has more nuclear warheads. Neither side conceded

The interview, the first in 24 years between an American president and Soviet journalists, was published Monday in a fullpage display in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. Speakes said he did not know if all of Reagan's comments were Izvestia countered Reagan's views by publishing another full page giving the Soviet interpretation of American foreign policy. The White House released an official transcript of the interview.

Zeroing in on Star Wars, a Soviet journalist said deployment of a space shield would lead Moscow to suspect that the United States was trying to put itself "in a position to make a first strike" against the Soviet Union.

Reagan said the Soviets have been working for years on systems to defend against missiles and that the Kremlin's interest "would indicate that maybe we should be a little suspicious that they want it for themselves.'

Volume 92, Number 51

The president said that if research determines that a space shield against missiles is feasible, "our move would be to say to all the world, 'Here, it is available."" He said, as he has in the past, that the offer would include sharing it with the Soviet

"And if the Soviet Union and the United States both say we will eliminate our offensive weapons, we will put in this defensive thing in case some place in the world a madman some day tries to create these weapons again, nuclear weapons,

See REAGAN, Page 10

Student committee begins researching pleas for $700,000

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee began Monday to narrow the number of groups soliciting part of the $700,000 freed by the refinancing of student bonds.

The meeting, held in the Student Government Services office in the Union, was the second for the committee.

The committee heard a presentation from Jeff Vander Laan. senior in electrical engineering and committee member, who gave a tentative yes or no to each proposal assigned to him for research.

Members were assigned a list of proposals to research and were to report back to the committee with Vander Laan discussed the FONE Crisis Center, an image-building proposal, two Farrell Library projects, the Debate Team and the Holton Hall renovation.

Vander Laan assigned a tentative no to the following proposals: FONE, the University image-builder and fixing the roof on Farrell.

Proposals receiving a tentative yes from Vander Laan were: the Holton Hall renovation project and constructing a rare book room in

The debate proposal needs further research, Vander Laan said.

Vander Laan said he gave FONE a tentative no because he didn't think it met the criteria set up by the committee at its last meeting.

"We felt this was something already funded by Student Senate, Vander Laan said, referring to the committee's guideline that the

See $700,000, Page 10

Staff/Jim Dietz

Sakharov ends protest, talks to U.S. relatives

By The Associated Press

NEWTON, Mass. - Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, speaking with relatives here for the first time in six years, said Monday he is recovering after losing 44 pounds during a hunger strike that ended after the government said his wife would be allowed to leave the country for medical treatment.

Sakharov, 64, and his wife, Yelena Bonner, 62, were contacted by his stepchildren and mother-in-law by telephone in Gorky, where he was exiled in 1980.

Sakharov's voice on the phone was a surprise to the family, which had scheduled the call last week following reports that Bonner had been given permission to leave the country.

Bonner plans to go to Siena, Italy, at the end of the month to consult with an ophthalmologist about her eye problems, then to Boston for coronary bypass surgery.

Bonner's children said their mother and stepfather apparently were reunited Oct. 23, just before Bonner was granted an exit visa.

"They want us to know he is alive. That's quite clear," said Tatiana Yankelevich, Bonner's daughter. Bonner's children said they believe Sakharov's fast and the Nov. 19-20 summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev led to the permission for their mother to leave.

Sakharov, winner of the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, helped develop the Soviet hydrogen bomb, but criticized the government's nuclear weapons buildup as early as 1959. He was exiled to Gorky after criticizing the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in December, 1979. Bonner, a pediatrician who married Sakharov in 1971, was exiled to Gorky in 1984.

Helping hand

A Riley County Fire Department officer and an emergency medical technician help Teresa Clay, of Kansas City, Kan., after she was involved in a three-car accident at the corner of Manhattan and Kimball avenues.

Clay was treated at The St. Mary Hospital and later released.

Shooting 'joke' prompts investigation

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Kay Houser, a friend of Attorney General Robert T. Stephan, said Monday she "jokingly" suggested to the director of the Kansas Bureau of Investigation that he shoot Margie Phelps, attorney for a woman who accused Stephan of sexual harassment.

Houser said she was "flabbergasted" that her statements found their way back to Phelps or that anyone would take them seriously.

In a terse news release, Stephan called the notion that anyone might want to kill Phelps "absurd."

Phelps revealed the threat Monday in a letter she sent Stephan and released to reporters. In the letter, Phelps said she had a sworn affidavit from a state employee who claimed to have heard Tom Kelly, KBI director, discuss whether to have the attorney shot.

In addition, Phelps said the same employee, whom she did not identify other than as "someone I've known a long time," also claimed to have overheard a conversation among Stephan's staff in his Judi ial Center offices last week regarding whether a tap of Phelps' telephones might produce valuable evidence against

. Kelly was not available for comment. Stephan simply said such accusations are "beyond belief" but said his office would look into the

The letter pinpoints the Kelly conversation as around 3:30 p.m. Friday in the KBI offices and identifies Kelly and Houser as the speakers. Phelps said the unidentified employee claims that Houser told Kelly she's dealt with Phelps before and "the best thing to do would be to arrange to have her

Tomson worked for Stephan in 1979-82 before being fired. She filed a sexual harassment lawsuit against Stephan and two of his employees in December 1982, seeking $750,000

In the suit, she accused Stephan of lewd kissing, pinching, patting and sexual advances on the job. In her sworn deposition, Tomson also accused Stephan of "sexually propositioning" her daughter and friends of her daughter.

Stephan signed a secret, out-ofcourt settlement and the lawsuit was dismissed March 19.

Owners of historic buildings plan for 1990s

Architecture class analyzes feasibility of arts center | Landmark club, cafe to remain

By ERIC RHODENBAUGH Collegian Reporter

Architecture students are getting a chance to use their classroom knowledge in a reallife situation with the help of the Manhattan Arts Council.

As a class community studio project, fourth-year architecture students are doing community needs analyses and space-usage studies on the Wareham building and the adjacent Wareham Theatre, on the 410 Poyntz Ave., as a possible community arts center.

Past fourth-year architecture classes have completed community studio projects, including projects in St. Louis and a complete energy audit for Marysville last year, said James Jones, assistant professor of pre-design professions.

Students can learn some of the real constraints that are hard to simulate in a studio," Jones said.

Joe Miller, senior in architecture, said the community studio projects give students professional architecture experience.

"Instead of making up hypothetical situations for a class project, it's a real situation. Our job would be like that of a professional," Miller said. "It's a way to get your foot in the professional door.

"It's a great educational experience, not only in the design, but in the real life applications of dealing with politicians, building codes and such," he said. "It makes you appreciate constrictions professional architects deal with."

The students are doing the studies free of charge to the city.

In September, the Manhattan Arts Council received a grant from The National Endowment for the Arts and the Kansas Arts Commission for a community-based, multiuse arts facilty. The grant is worth up to $25,000 a year for three years, as long as the community can provide matching funds. This year the council will receive at least $12,500. The center will be used for both visual arts, including painting and ceramics, and performing arts, including dance, music

John Biggs, director of the Manhattan Arts

See ARTS, Page 10

By MARK McDERMET Collegian Reporter

Although the owners of the landmark Chef Cafe, 111 S. Fourth St., have also recently acquired The Wareham Club, 418 Poyntz

Ave., the Chef Cafe is to remain in business. Robert Limbocker, co-owner with his brother Larry of both the cafe and Wareham Club, said the Wareham Club reopened Monday, after remodeling to achieve "a look more in tune with the 1920s."

Although some published stories have suggested the move would result in the closing of The Chef Cafe, Limbocker said "the cafe will not close and will not move."

"The Chef is there. It's been there 44 years and will remain there. It's there; it's a tradition," Limbocker said.

Limbocker said he doesn't see any conflict between the Chef or the Wareham because of the differences in the dining atmosphere of both establishments.

"We've got a lot of faith in the downtown area. The mall will have very positive effects on it," Limbocker said.

"It's just another fine dining place downtown."

With the remodeling, he said, "the Wareham will have a nice mellow atmosphere and a laid-back time," with the building's high ceilings, chandeliers and marble walls and floors relating to the "Roaring '20s" era.

See WAREHAM, Page 10

Weather

Today, becoming mostly cloudy. Windy and mild. High 65 to 70. Tonight, mostly cloudy. Low upper 30s to low

Inside

K-State's College of Business Administration is among the top 15 percent of all business programs in the nation. See Page 3.

The Soviet Union has stepped up shipments of military hardware to Nicaragua in recent months. See Page 5.

Sports

Meeting people and making friends is what Willie the Wildcat likes about being the K-State mascot. See Page 7.

INTERNATIONAL

Countries may be peace obstacle

HAIFA, Israel - Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Monday a rapprochment between Jordan and Syria "will serve as an obstacle in the movement toward peace" in the Middle East.

The prime ministers of Syria and Jordan met last month for reconciliation talks after 15 years of hostile relations, and Jordan's King Hussein said Sunday on NBC television's "Meet the Press" that he may go to Damascus for talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Rabin, in a speech to a businessmen's club, said he thought Syrian-Jordanian relations would improve and added:

"I believe that as the result of this, Syria will demand that Jordan not go to peace talks (with Israel) unless it is on its (Syria's) own terms." Those terms would include an international conference that would include the Soviet Union and Palestine Liberation Organization, Rabin said, adding, "This is something Israel cannot accept."

Run-off may be held in Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY - Vinicio Cerezo, a moderate Christian Democrat, took a strong lead in ballot-counting Monday for Guatemala's first civilian president in 16 years. But the conservative trailing Cerezo vowed to force a run-off.

Under the voting laws, Cerezo needs 50 percent of the total vote from Sunday's election.

With 32 percent of the ballots counted by Monday noon, Cerezo had 270,348 votes, or 39 percent of the total, and his closest rival, newspaper publisher Jorge Carpio Nicolle, had 136,626, or 21 percent. Cerezo could face Carpio, of the conservative National Centrist

Union, in a run-off Dec. 8. About 2.7 million of the nation's nearly 8 million people registered to vote.

NATIONAL

Classmates collect for AIDS victim

SWANSEA, Mass. - Friends of an AIDS-stricken eighth-grader have raised about $5,000 to help the family with its medical bills. "I think you can be afraid of the disease itself," said Susan Travers, an organizer of Saturday's fund-raiser. "But you have to have compassion for the family and what they are going through." The 13-year-old boy's condition came to light when Swansea school officials decided to keep him in classes because experts said it was unlikely he would transmit the disease.

The boy, who contracted the disease during treatment for hemophilia, has missed most of the school year because he has been hospitalized, but appeared at the fund-raiser to thank his friends.

Reagan orders investigation of leak

WASHINGTON — A published report which said the CIA had been authorized to undermine Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy prompted President Reagan to order an investigation into the leak and caused one senator to declare that if a member of Congress was responsible, he or she should be censored or expelled.

The Washington Post, quoting unidentified government sources and citing intelligence documents, said Sunday that Reagan signed a "finding" this fall authorizing the Central Intelligence Agency to undermine Khadafy, who has been labeled an international terrorist by both Reagan and former President Carter.

White House spokesman Bill Hart, who declined to directly confirm the existence or credibility of the documents quoted by the Post, said Sunday the president ordered the probe "in an effort to determine who is responsible for (the) disclosure and to take appropriate

Burnett to give award to first lady

WASHINGTON - Actress Carol Burnett will present Nancy Reagan with an award on behalf of the United Cerebral Palsy organization today in New York at a special dinner in the first lady's honor, the White House announced Monday.

The award honors Nancy's "strong commitment to the health and well-being of the American people," according to a statement issued Nancy will speak briefly at the dinner, to be held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, and welcoming remarks will be made by journalist David Brinkley, the statement said.

REGIONAL

5 KU students arrested in protest

LAWRENCE - Five students were arrested Monday following an anti-apartheid demonstration at the University of Kansas after they refused to leave the chancellor's office.

Lt. Jeanne Longaker of the campus police said the students three women and two men - were part of a group of about 40 students who marched to the chancellor's suite at Strong Hall after the main rally broke up at Stauffer-Flint Hall.

Chancellor Gene A. Budig, who had refused an earlier invitation from students to attend the rally, was not in his office, she said.

"After the rally, some of the students walked across the street to the administration building and some went into the chancellor's suite making demands. They were asked to leave numerous times, and all but five left," she said.

She said the arrested students offered no resistance and were released from custody pending court appearances Nov. 12 on charges of criminal trespass and interference with the conduct of public business.

Kansas gas prices jump in October

TOPEKA — Gasoline prices jumped as much as five cents a gallon at the pump in Kansas on the last day of October, the result of the rising price of crude oil, state fuel analyst Lyle Goltz reported Monday.

The increase at the pump reflected a four to five-cent raise in the price wholesalers charge retailers, and that increase resulted from higher prices charged by the refineries, which now are paying an average $28.75 a barrel for sweet Kansas crude oil, up about $2.50 a barrel since the first of the year.

Goltz said the Kansas Corporation Commission's end-of-October survey of state service stations showed the average prices charged at self-serve pumps were $1.14 a gallon for regular leaded, $1.20 for regular unleaded and $1.32 for premium unleaded. Comparable grades at full-service pumps averaged 14 cents a gallon more, Goltz

However, Goltz said gasoline prices should remain about constant in Kansas during November with supplies ample. Refiners will offer about 132 million gallons of gasoline in the state this month, with consumption expected to be about 80 million gallons.

Whittaker gets positive response

AUGUSTA - U.S. Rep. Bob Whittaker said Monday the response of state party leaders to his decision to consider seeking the Republican nomination for governor in 1986 has been "very enthusiastic and very encouraging."

The Associated Press reported over the weekend that Whittaker was contacting party officials to determine if a gubernatorial campaign by him was viable in the wake of adverse publicity swirling around Attorney General Robert T. Stephan, who has been regarded as the frontrunner for the GOP nomination.

Whittaker said the report prompted calls Monday from a dozen party people, two of whom the 5th District congressman described in an interview as being "in the top echelon."

Three top-ranking Republican officials who asked not to be identified told the AP they believe Whittaker should run for governor and that he would have a good chance of winning the primary election next August.

PEOPLE

Principal to climb roof for students

GRANBURY, Texas - Sylvia Campbell, the principal at Granbury Elementary School, recently said she would spend a day on the school's roof if her pupils achieved a 97 percent attendance rate.

The students came through — and Campbell says she will, too.
"She's on the roof," school secretary Mary Stumm said after tallying up the attendance figures from Oct. 7 to Nov. 1. "They made 97 percent.

Campbell said she wasn't sure which day she'll spend on top of the school. "It looks like Friday because that's the only day this week my calendar is open," she said. "I hope the weather is halfway decent." The principal said she doesn't expect to be bored.

"I guess I'll take me a book and some paperwork to work on up there," she said. "There are some things I can do up there."

Campus Bulletin

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS vill meet at 7 p.m. in Union Flint Hills Room.

GOLDEN KEY will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 212. Yearbook pictures will follow.

SPURS will have an executive meeting at 8:40 p.m. and a general meeting at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT will have an informational meeting on sum: employment at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 220. AMATEUR RADIO CLUB will meet at 7:30

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON will meet at 7:30

SAMS will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202

PI SIGMA EPSILON will meet at 7 p.m. in the BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Union 204.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jairaj V. Pothuluri at 9 a.m. in Throckmorton 124. The dissertation topic will be "Plant P Uptake and Soil Test P Change in Some Kansas Catle."

FRENCH TABLE will meet at 11:30 a.m. in

PHI ALPHA THETA will meet at 10:45 a.m. in

FOOD AND NUTRITION INTEREST GROUP will meet at 6 p.m. in Justin 115

CASTLE CRUSADE will meet at 7:30 p.m. in

MICROBIOLOGY CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in

ALPHA CHI SIGMA will meet at 7 p.m. in King

Notices

By The Collegian Staff

Funeral services for two K-State students involved in an automobile accident Saturday afternoon near Wichita will be held today.

The funeral service for Cherle Wohlschlegel, 20, senior in elementary education, will be at 10:30 a.m. at the Elliot Brownel Wiley Funeral Home, 1406 Ash, in

Funeral services for Jane Marie Snyder, 22, sophomore in pre-physical therapy, will be at 2 Methodist Church, 1051/2 High St., Mankato.

The two deaths occurred at z:30 p.m. Saturday on Highway 42, 15 miles southwest of Wichita, when the driver, Wohlschlegel, attempted to pass a pickup truck. The car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer rig carrying liquid fertilizer, authorities said.

Friday will be the last day student pictures will be taken for the 1986 Royal Purple yearbook. Pictures will be taken from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 1:30 p.m. in the Harmony United to 5:30 p.m. in Union 209.

John Paul Roche
Haircut & Style only $9

Regular $11.50

with coupon only-through Nov. 30, 1985

ROCHE'S HAIRSTYLING

539-7751

11271/2 MORO MANHATTAN, KS

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

6 HOUR SALE

TUESDAY, NOV. 5 OPEN NOON TO 6 P.M.

JUNIOR BLOUSES DENIM JEANS Values to $30.00 Values to $35.00 $7.99 $9.99 CORDUROYS SWEATERS Values to $35.00 Values to $50.00 $9.99 $9.99 FALL PANTS TURTLENECKS Values to $50.00 Values to $20.00 $9.99 $11.99 GENESIS, ESPRIT. HOURS SANTA CRUZ ONLY 25-50% OFF

carouse

1215 MORO AGGIEVILLE

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

GERALD'S JEWELERS 419 Poyntz

776-7600

You get the best of Seiko

where you see this sign.

SEIKO

By BRENDA KITCHEN Collegian Reporter

K-State's College of Business Administration is among the top 15 percent of all business programs in the nation.

"Our undergraduate and graduate programs are accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. That puts us in the top 15 percent of all business programs in the nation," said Randolph Pohlman, dean of the College of Business Administration. "Clearly, we have got to be a top undergraduate program."

He said the University of Kansas and Wichita State University have the only two other accredited business programs in Kansas.

Enrollment is up in the College of Business Administration. At the increased more than 100 percent, said Richard Fye, assistant to the dean and the graduate studies coordinator in the College of Administration. Business Enrollment at the undergraduate level is up 84 students. "We put a great deal of emphasis on student advisement." Pohlman

This helps students choose their academic path and may also help them when choosing a career path. He said this emphasis on advising may aid in retention of students because they may feel more secure. The College of Business Administration started putting a heavy emphasis on advisement 11/2 years ago, Pohlman said.

"We provide outstanding undergraduate education," he said. The high quality of instruction and graduate level, enrollment the individualized attention which students receive were among the reasons Pohlman cited for this quality education.

> He said students in the College of Business Administration have received national scholarships. Last year, Greg Case, May 1985 graduate in finance, won the Phi Kappa Phi Scholarship for graduate study at the university of his choice. Phi Kappa Phi is a national scholarship honorary, and 35 graduate study scholarships are awarded yearly.

> Business students may receive 'a little more of an international flavor" at K-State than they would receive elsewhere, Pohlman added.

'We have the International Trade Institute within the College of Business. That provides us with a unique prospective internationalizing our curriculum.

"Its primary objective is to work to help improve an understanding of international trade in Kansas,' Pohlman said.

The International Trade Institute sponsors research and works with businesses in the state informing them about international trade. He said the Institute has a library which can be used by people needing information on a specific country's policies and practices on international trade. Importing and exporting policies are an example of the information available.

Pohlman said the Institute is planning to start international trade policy research.

Editor's note: This is the fourth in an eight part series highlighting each of the University's colleges and some of the programs in that col-lege. Wednesday, the College of Education will be highlighted.

Incest victims find aid in University services

By JANET MATTHIAS Collegian Reporter

Victims of incest can find support through several channels in the Manhattan area.

Numerous centers inform people about what action to take if they are sexually abused. They also offer

"People are reluctant to come forward about incest," said Katherine Parker, assistant director of the Women's Resource Center, Holton Hall 111. "Some people are so into denial that they forget it happened or think it doesn't matter, but of course, that isn't true."

For those ready to talk about incest, the resource center offers informal peer counseling, Parker said.

The Counseling Center, Holton Hall 103, also offers help to incest victims. "One of the first things we do for the people who come to us is to refer them to the Women's Resource Center," said counselor Susan Angle. "They need to read to understand more about what has happened to them - they are not alone.'

The Counseling Center also has individual counseling services. Eight full-time counselors and a variety of part-time counselors on staff have dealt with incest cases, Angle said.

Lafene Mental Health Service also employs a psychologist, a psychiatrist and two psychiatric social workers who are trained to deal with incest victims.

Several city agencies aid incest victims as well.

"Our agency becomes involved because of the child protective service," said Rae Bellows, social worker for the Social and Rehabilitation Service, 312 Humboldt St. "We are required by law to respond to any report of suspected incest. Then we work hand-in-hand with the law enforcement officials on any resulting investigation."

Another agency that helps incest victims is the Victim Assistance Unit of Riley County Community Corrections.

"Our initial contact comes through the legal services because incest is a criminal act," said Kris Kelderman, victim assistance coordinator.

Another important part of the Victim Assistance Unit is child abuse prevention. Kelderman said the "Happy Bear" personal safety program for children in kindergarten to second grade teaches the Three R's: how to "recognize" what sexual abuse is through good touching, bad touching and confusing touching; "resist" by saying no if the children do not like the touching; and "reporting" to the right people.

President Marcos begins campaigning

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - President Ferdinand E. Marcos plunged into campaigning Monday hours after his surprise call for a Jan. 17 presidential election. His squabbling foes met to pick a common candidate against him.

Marcos told reporters he was the only issue in the election. He rejected the idea of an election for the vacant vice presidency, saying he wanted to remove all doubts about the popularity of his leadership.

"Let it be a one-on-one fight...Let Marcos stand up," he said.

Political rivals said U.S. pressure for democratic reforms in the Philippines to counter a growing communist rebellion almost certainly helped spur Marcos' announcement.

Two weeks earlier, he had indicated there would be no sudden election.

*free pregnancy tests

*outpatient abortion services

*alternatives counseling *gynecology comprehensive health

associates

Marcos went vote-hunting hours after he announced the move. choosing as one stop the Tarlac home province of Benigno Aquino. Critics of Marcos, who has governed for 20 years, have accused him of involvement in the 1983 assassination of Aquino, his chief political rival.

'We need the snap election to convince the world that our program is supported by the people," a presidential news release quoted the 68-year-old Marcos as telling 8,000 Tarlac farmers. "We need foreign loans, financial assistance and foreign investments." Government television said Marcos was greeted by about 50,000 "almost delirious" people when he toured adjacent Nueva Ecija

Marcos ordered that $6.5 million be released to help rural people displaced by a recent typhoon in the two provinces. The president said Sunday on ABC- TV's "This Week with David Brinkley" program that he would call a spot election "in three months or less." He told crowds on Monday it would be Jan. 17, subject to National Assembly approval, his news release

Marcos' party holds a two-thirds majority in the assembly.

The opposition's National Unification Committee representing a dozen parties met in emergency session in Manila to discuss mechanics for choosing a common opposition standard bearer.

Opposition leaders said they were ready for a special presidential election.

But they demanded that Marcos first resign to meet a constitutional requirement that a vacancy must exist. Marcos' current six-year term ends in 1987.

Marcos said he would ask the assembly to pass a law allowing him to call for a presidential election

Homobono Adaza, an officer in the National Unification Committee, said one suggestion at Monday's meeting was that the NUC, if pressed for time, endorse either former Sen. Salvador Laurel or Aquino's widow, Corazon, for president.

"In a clean election, the most that Marcos can get is 25 percent of the vote," Adaza said. "In a dirty election, the maximum he can get is 40 percent. Either way, he loses."

"If they (the opposition) can get 30 to 40 percent of the votes, I'll be disappointed," Marcos told reporters.

Restaurant m 1304 Westloop

MAKUH

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

539-8888 or 537-0886

EXPRE55 1116 Moro

YOU Can Be An Air Force Officer 532-6600 KSU-AFROTC

A longstanding legend

49 days left

8 Fridays left

8 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition! 111 3rd St.

539-9949

Block and Bridle Meeting

Tuesday Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m. Weber 107 OFFICERS meet at 7:00p.m.

Yearbook pictures following meeting

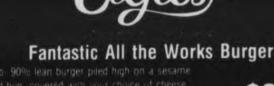

Program speaker, Dave Woolfolk of the Manhattan Federal Land Bank

THE TRADITION IS BACK

*contraception

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

details coming

537-3999

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers From Across the Seas

$1.25

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Memberships available 539-9967 616 N. 12th

Memberships only $10.45

Reciprocates with all Aggie clubs. Get yours today.

REX'S TIRE CO. 24th ANNIVERSARY SALE

Dayton Thorobred Steel

Whitewall REPLACES REG. SALE P-165-80R13 AR-78X13 65.75 36.23 P.175.80R13 RR.78X13 68 50 37.51 P.185-80R13 CR-78X13 70.50 40.90 P-185-75R14 DR-78X14 72.25 42.14 P-195-75R14 ER-78X14 75.50 43.86 P-205-75R14 FR-78X14 78.25 48.40 P-205-75R15 FR-78X15 80.25 47.81 P-215-75R15 GR-78X15 84.50 49.89 P-225-75R15 HR-78X15 89.50 62.49

Corpovan-

Radial G/T

HIGH PERFORMANCE "60" & "70" Series Outline White Letters

"70" Series

"60" Series		SIZE	Regular	SALE
		41.4	P-185-70R13	*80.34	152.04
SIZE	Regular	SALE	P-205-70R14	90.58	58.67
P-205-60R13	191.47	'56.96	P-215-70R14	96.65	62.61
P-245-60R14	109.88	70.59	P-225-70R14	105.97	65.96
P-235-60R15	112.93	73.15	P-225-70R15	105.49	68.31
P-275-60R15	124.37	80 54	P-235-70R15	108.45	70.22

BFG T/A Radial Solid Performer

Classic Good Looks

P-235-75R15 LR-78X15 93.50 64.96

60 & 50 SERIES T/A BALE P235/60R14 79.20 P245/60R14 P235/60R15 P275/60R15 P265/50R14 P265/50R15 P295/50R15 70 SERIES T/A P205/70R14

P215/70R14 P225/70R14 P225/70R15

Cordovan Classic II

40,000 Mile Warranty * Steel Belted Whitewall
* FREE Nationwide Road
Hazard Warranty
* FREE 5.000 Mile Rotation

YOU CAN'T BUY THE RIGHT TIRE IF YOU DON'T HAVE A CHOICE

IN MANHATTAN

1001 North 3rd 2829 Anderson

8:90 to 6:00

(1) ld Texthook Sale

TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN. Editor: Tim Carpenter
Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst
Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert
Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle
Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 929) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6565; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

College education helpful

A college education can make all the difference.

A college education is to the benefit of almost all who pursue it. But, a recent survey of Kansas residents by the Wichita Eagle-Beacon gave an indication of just how much education can mean in the logical opinion-making process of a person.

The difference between high school and college-educated people in Kansas on so-called "moral" issues such as rock music, homosexuality, interracial marriage and contraception is marked, according to the Oct. 29 edition of the Eagle-Beacon.

Outlandish as this may seem,
11 percent of high schooleducated Kansans would like to see rock music outlawed altogether — banned from the public. Another 23 percent of Kansans would like to see regulations placed on rock music.

The paper compared this to college-educated Kansans, of whom only 4 percent want rock music outlawed and another 24 percent who want to see regulation.

Regulating rock music would certainly prove very difficult, while outlawing rock music would be nearly impossible.

Forty-four percent of high school educated Kansans would like to see homosexuality outlawed. This compares with 21 percent of those with college education.

While even more in both groups, 23 percent of high school educated people and 11 percent of college educated people, believe homosexuality should be regulated, the difference between the two groups is easily distinguished.

Somehow, it's hard to picture a bunch of policemen going into a gay bar on a bust. Homosexuality may be wrong or distasteful in many people's eyes, but regulation would certainly be unfair.

Twenty percent of high schooleducated people want interracial marriage outlawed, compared to 5 percent of college-educated people. Even more Kansans, 13 percent of high school-educated people and 5 percent of collegeeducated people want regulation placed on interracial marriage.

While the vast majority of both groups made the logical choice and wanted to leave the situation alone, that this many Kansans are so prejudice as to want to act against interracial marriage is disturbing.

While the majority of both groups made the logical decision, more members of the college-educated group made the much wiser overall decision. It just goes to show that a college education is even more valuable and important, if only to make people more open minded than they were before.

Tom Perrin, for the editorial board

Flexibility needed in presidential selection

The presidential search committee's job description of the K-State presidency is adequately vague. The description, released in its final form last week, can apply to almost everyone, to no one at all or to the super-human.

Editorial

The faculty's fears that the next K-State president will be a corporate manager, devoid of a sense of the ethics of academic freedom and of the patience necessary for good research, can, by interpretation, be allayed by the job description. Similarly, those who fear the financial effects of choosing a poor manager can, by another interpretation of the description, be put at ease.

An obscure sentence in the description states that the new president must have an "appreciation for the appropriate place of instruction, research, student recruitment and retention, cooperative extension and intercollegiate athletics."

Some object to the preferential inclusion of one student activity — athletics — and the exclusion of others such as intercollegiate debate. But, facing facts, athletics brings in money (or it should), Debate does not.

A more valid question is what the committee thinks "the" appropriate ordering of all the activities listed is. Athletics first, instruction last? If the order listed is any indication of the committee's priorities, higher education at K-State will be preserved.

The phrases detailing the candidates' administrative background refer to the "depth and diversity" of administrative experiences, which should include "accomplishment in human motivation, strategic planning and achievement of goals." This description can include everyone from the candidate who has been moving up the administrative ladder for several years to those who have pursued more traditional forms of scholastics.

Who is better skilled at human motivationthan a good teacher? And, in terms of

CATHERINE SAYLER Collegian

Columnist

strategic planning, good management of federal and state funds and achievement of goals, a good researcher may have the edge. The long-term administrator certainly can claim depth of administrative experiences and in some cases, diversity. The description as it stands, though, leaves the field open to non-traditional candidates.

Another area where non-traditional candidates have not been excluded is in the field of academic credentials. The committee asks for scholarly credentials: "an earned doctorate or appropriate terminal degree is desired." Candidates must demonstrate they "recognize" excellence in "teaching, research and public service."

Milton Eisenhower, K-State president from 1943 to 1950, was considered by Kansans — and later by those at John Hopkins University, where he also served as president — as an excellent university leader. Eisenhower did not have a doctoral degree. His university education was in journalism.

The committee has recognized that it would be unfortunate to exclude a potential Eisenhower with an arbitrary degree requirement. On the other hand, though, the committee must realize that the most refined form of appreciation for excellence in teaching, research and public service is personal commitment.

For K-State history buffs, the committee's reference to a strong land-grant tradition is somewhat unsettling. John Anderson,

K-State president from 1873 to 1879, imposed an unusually strict interpretation of the land-grant tradition. He swiftly modified the college program, specifying that it would no longer contain any "Latin or Greek rubbish, no useless 'abstract' mathematics and no fancy 'ologies or 'osophies.'"

One of the student literary societies responded to Anderson's interpretation of a land-grant college in a facetious and at the time disrespectful resolution: "Resolved: that the institution is altogether too high-toned; that such studies as metaphysics, histories or anything which teaches religious principles or any other principles which tend to enlighten and refine man should be thrown out."

Hopefully, the committee's reference to a land-grant tradition is just an undefined, abstract aside to the main emphasis of academic excellence. The last thing K State needs is another Anderson in Anderson Hall.

The search committee will meet again at 10 a.m. today in Union 213 to decide how to screen the candidate applications in order to choose those they wish to interview. The meeting, except for the executive session at the end, is open to the public.

Today is in many ways a turning point. If the committee excludes non-traditional candidates by placing arbitrary specifications on either academic credentials or administrative credentials, it will, in essence, destroy the admirable and vital flexibility of the original job description.

Screening guidelines that are too strict now will result in the committee eventually sending three to six very similar finalists to the Board of Regents. If the guidelines remain as flexible as the job description implies, the committee has a chance of sending a qualified but diverse group to the regents.

Only if the committee remains flexible at this point will it have the chance to choose the individualist K-State deserves.

TRADE DEFICIT SO PROTECTIONISM PROTECTIONISM

"DON'T WORRY! I'M GETTIN' US OUTA HERE RIGHT NOW!"

Gays deserve equal rights

The Supreme Court announced Monday that it will make a decision concerning the constitutional rights of consenting adult homosexuals to participate in sexual activities.

The Court will review an appeal of a Georgia ruling that could negate sodomy laws in many states.

In 1967 — the most recent ruling on the rights of homosexuals — the Court said homosexual aliens may be deported as people "afflicted with a psychopathic personality."

Michael Hardwick, a practicing homosexual, was arrested in 1982 and charged with committing sodomy with another man in his Georgia home. Even though prosecuters decided not to seek an indictment against him, Hardwick sued in an attempt to overturn the sodomy law.

U.S. District Judge Robert Hall threw out the suit, ruling that the constitutional claims had been rejected by the Supreme Court when it upheld Virginia's sodomy law in 1976.

The 11th U.S Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated Hardwick's lawsuit last May saying the Georgia law "infringes upon the fundamental constitutional (privacy) rights" of Hardwick. The law may be valid only if state officials show a "compelling interest" in restricting such rights.

It is difficult to believe that the state of Georgia — or any state — has a "compelling interest" in preventing sexual activity between consenting adults in the privacy of their homes.

It is not prostitution. It does not involve the exploitation of minors. It is not rape. And obviously the law is almost impossible to enforce.

It's time for the Court to recognize the constitutional rights of all citizens — young or old, black or white, gay or straight.

Patty Reinert, editorial page editor

FLUCRODATION IS A COMMINE-INSPIRED. BIG GAVERNMENT SIGNISERD THREAT TO OUR HEALTH! APPLE PIE, FREE ENTERPRISE THREATS TO OUR HEALTH! STREET COMMINION OF THE STREET COM

Letters

Bomb threats on campus should be taken seriously

Editor,

Monday afternoon I was taking an exam in Seaton 63, not doing well and running out of time. Our instructor was out of town so a couple of graders were hawking the class in case someone didn't like his or her own work.

It was about 3:20 p.m. and the grader told us we had until 3:40 to finish up. So I relaxed and began to double check my answers. In stepped a man, no introduction, just "I want everyone in this room to leave right now."

The grader responded, "This class is taking a test and we have permission to be here..." She never finished.

"There has been a bomb threat. Everyone please leave now," the man said.

"Tad, let's go," said my conscience. Sure my test is very important and I hope to get an
"A," but dying for an "A" I will not do. So like most of the students, I began to gather my belongings and head for the door.

"Wait a minute," our grader said, "the bomb isn't supposed to go off until 3:45, so

Re: Janet Costin's letter, "Letters

I have "searched deep within myself and discovered my TRUE motive for attending college." Believe it or not - it is an EDUCA-

A woman who is "secure within herself" doesn't need to go to school to look for a husband. She goes to further her knowledge and increase the skills she needs to be financially independent. To do this, she needs professors laughable," in the Oct. 22 Collegian:

TION - not a husband.

Security lies in self, not husband

you can complete your exam."
Huh! Is this woman serious? She really

Huh! Is this woman serious? She really wants us to finish our test while a bomb lurks to blow us to smitherines? Sorry honey, I'm leaving.

Most, if not all, of the students left at once after the messenger assured the grader that he would take responsibility for whatever happened because we didn't get to use all our time. Thank God.

Fellow students, it's scary to think that had that man not taken responsibility or personally delivered the message, I probably would have been testing up until five minutes before takeoff. What if the grader had received a written message with the time and place? Would she have just "blown" it off? What if the bomb did go off and people were hurt because she wanted us to finish? It's frightening.

Certainly tests shouldn't be taken lightly, and pranks are not appreciated when you or I are racking our brains for test answers. But who will treat her as a committed colleague rather than as a non-committed husband

Just because your motivations for attending college are to find a husband, please do not assume that these motivations are true for every woman. Just thought you would like to hear from someone with views dif-

Pat McIntyre

graduate in psychology

ferent from yours.

it seems logical that a bomb threat is enough reason to exit a room without question. This situation was handled very poorly by the grader. She should have told us to leave our tests on the desk in front and leave immediately as the man had instructed us to

If there is a next time, let's use our college brains. No heroes — just do as the man says. Thanks.

Tad Schroeder junior in marketing

Wrong spotlight

Editor,

Congratulations Collegian! You deserve praise for courageously introducing on the front page of the Nov. 1 Collegian K-State's newest and most promising sports event. Robert Burgess, speaker on acid rain, may never before have thought of himself as an athlete, but he started what I hope remains an honored tradition through the Collegian.

This season has assured us that football was not the Wildcats' calling. I applaud you for bringing public speaking to the athletic forefront. I am proud to be attending an institution which has moved higher thinking to the sports spotlight.

My usual unwritten intentions of sending letters to the editor stem from anger, but this time I am sending compliments and encouragement. Keep it up Collegian! I look forward to every issue.

Cynthia Bachofer senior in English education

Bomb call interrupts

class work

By PATTY REINERT Editorial Page Editor

A bomb threat in Seaton Hall caused the evacuation of students and faculty and interrupted classes for

Lt. James Tubach of the KSU

Police Department said the University operator received the telephone threat about 3 p.m. The caller said the bomb would go off in Tubach then called Mark Lapping,

"We always call the person in charge of the building, and it was his decision whether or not to evacuate

Lapping was in a meeting in the

"My first response was to get everyone out of the building,

Lapping said. "Ninety-nine out of 100 times it's false, but there is always the chance that this could be the one time it's for real. It's not worth

"In an older building with so many nooks and crannies, you never know what could happen. Cooler heads have got to prevail," he said.

Tubach said instructors in the building were asked to look around their areas for anything unusual, and several officers from the police department walked through the building to make sure everyone was

Tad Schroeder, junior in marketing, said he was taking a test in his Consumer Behavior class in

Seaton 63 when they were asked to leave. A woman administering the exam complained when Lapping asked the students to leave the Lapping said. "But tests can wait. You can always reschedule an exam.

You can't reschedule a life.'

the threat.

allowed to re-enter the building.

"She was just very distraught,"

At 4 p.m. students and faculty were

Tubach said the campus police

"It remains an open case," he have "no way of knowing" who made

Union when he received the call.

the building," Tubach said.

taking that chance.

dean of the College of Architecture

45 minutes.

and Design.

almost an hour Monday afternoon.

Soviets send tanks through Caribbean for Nicaraguan use

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Soviet Union, after an unexplained slowdown in deliveries of military hardware to Nicaragua, has stepped up such shipments in recent months and is now trans-shipping cargo through Cuba, government sources said Monday. Intelligence officials still don't have a clear picture of what type of hardware is arriving in Nicaragua, one source said, but there have been indications over the past two weeks of new shipments involving trucks and tanks.

And last week, the source said, a U.S. supersonic spy plane flew over Cuba and confirmed that cargoes were being removed from Soviet and Bulgarian ships and transferred to Nicaraguan freighters.

"We don't know what all is there (in the shipments), but the point is that there has been a resumption of Soviet arms deliveries since a gap that started late last year," said the source, who requested anonymity.

The source refused to discuss a published report that the SR-71 Blackbird reconnaissance plane that flew over Cuba last week was fired on from the ground with Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles.

"We know the Cubans scrambled some planes, but they didn't get close," the source said. "Our plane wasn't in any danger."

A second source at the Pentagon said the pilot of the spy plane "had an indication of radar detection" by the Cubans, "but we don't know if they fired any missiles."

The Washington Times reported Monday that an SR-71 flew over Cuba twice last Thursday night to take surveillance photographs of the port

"The supersonic craft with highly sophisticated cameras was fired on by Soviet-made SAM missiles, but the plane returned to its U.S. base unharmed," the paper quoted unidentified sources as saying.

The United States has long made clear its concern over Soviet shipments of military cargo to Nicaragua. But the Sandinistas, in turn, say their military build-up is a necessity because the United States is trying to overthrow their government by supporting the Contra guerrilla army.

Alumni, students give cooperative counseling

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK Collegian Reporter

The KSU Alumni Association and students are cooperating in an effort to let prospective high school students know what the University

The Student Alumni Board, comprising the two K-State Ambassadors and 17 students nominated by department heads, travels across the state conducting Career Counselor Nights.

Career Counselor Nights have been held in Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita and Cowley County. At the presentations, SAB members talk about campus involvement, the transition from high school to college and living accommodations.

"Career Counselor Nights are a chance for high school students to see what K-State has to offer, as well as giving them an opportunity to talk with one-fifth the fat!!

> FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but

YOGURT

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggieville

Pi Sigma Epsilon

presents

Digital

Equipment

Corp.

Tuesday, Nov. 5

7:00 p.m.

Union Big 8 Rm.

General Meeting

Following

Presentation

Frozen Yogurt Stores

Can't Believe It's

to alumni about various careers," said Polly Colip, senior in journalism and mass communications and president of SAB.

Before the presentation, cards are sent to high school students asking them to indicate two curriculum choices. Alumni from the area of the presentation are then contacted to talk with the prospective students about career opportunities within their fields.

Because the counselor nights reach high school students in the fall of their senior year, K-State students are able to answer questions about college on a one-to-one basis.

"Career Counselor Nights are unique because they tie in planning on a college education with a career," Colip said.

SAB will hold a Career Counselor Night for Manhattan area high school students at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12 at the Manhattan Holiday Inn.

> LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

> > 532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

On the boardwalk

Announcing

SKINNY

TUESDAYS

Eat a whole plate full of loaded potato skins for just 50¢. Eat all you want every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.

Ramada Inn

Frank Logback, senior in mechanical engineering, and Chrisie Ninci, junior in graphic design, enjoy Monday's nice weather by studying on the boat dock at Tuttle Creek Reservoir.

> GEI MUI, CHEEST, CUSTOM-MADE PIZZA

R LESS?

Call Domino's Pizza. One call from you sets Domino's Pizza in motion. From that moment on, we do everything possible to make sure that your hot, custom-made pizza is delivered to your door in less than 30 minutes

Our drivers carry less than $10.00.

Terrific Tuesday

only on Tuesday

Get a 16" custommade Domino's Pizza with one topping and four bottles of Coke for only $8.99

Good at listed locations One offer per order Limited delivery area. Expires Feb. 15, 1986

Address 16006 DPF-003

Get a 12" custommade Domino's Special

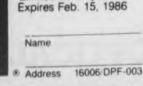

© 1985 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

------

ping and two bottles of Coke" for only Good at listed locations One offer per order.

Pizza with one top-

Limited delivery area. Expires Feb. 15, 1986

Coke

11 a.m.-1 a.m. One call does it all:

Manhattan

539-0561

517 North 12th Street

Hours:

11 a.m.-2 a.m.

11 a.m.-4 a.m.

Mon.-Thurs.

Fri. & Sat.

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS

539-3830

Buy a 16" pizza

Get a 10" pizza

Qualify to train in one of several interesting skills available in a nearby Army Reserve unit, and you'll earn a good part-time salary, plus receiving up to $5,040 for college that won't cost you one penny.

You'll serve one weekend a month (usually) plus two weeks annual training and earn over $1,225 a year to start.

You can begin to earn your college fund after just six months in the Army Reserve. Ask your local Reserve recruiter for all the details about the New G.I. Bill college money opportunity. Stop by or

CALL: 776-8551

ARMY RESERVE

Planning Board studies use of southeast neighborhoods

By The Collegian Staff

The southeast section of Manhattan received the largest share of attention at the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board meeting Monday night.

During a scheduled public hearing, Larry Hulse, chief city planner, presented the Housing Element study for the Land Use Plan regarding the city's neighborhoods south of Poyntz Avenue and east of 17th Street.

During the presentation, Hulse said to preserve its residential character no new commercial areas were added to the neighborhood. Current highdensity housing in the area would not be affected.

Richard Friesen, 220 S. Eighth St., representing the South Manhattan Neighborhood Association, said the plan was "on the whole a very good plan," but had concerns about proposed highdensity zoning near the downtown business district.

Friesen said the association would prefer to have the area zoned R-M, or medium-density zoning, which would restrict dwellings to four-plexes placed on 60-foot wide said she believes high-density housing near commercial areas is a good idea.

Board member Eleanor Brent

Board member Harry Phelps said he favors the combination of low- and medium-density housing for the area, but would consider granting Planned Unit Development zoning if the housing market warranted further expansion of high-density housing.

The board's action now goes to the Manhattan City Commission for study and recommendations.

In other action, the board tabled a request by Steve Ballard of Ballard's Sporting Goods, to rezone property at 601 S. Fifth St.

Volunteers aid terminally ill

Hospice teaches about death

By JAMIE McPHETER Collegian Reporter

Families in the Manhattan area have a support group to assist them in dealing with terminally ill family members.

The support group, Hospice, is a volunteer program in Manhattan that offers supportive services such as physical, social and spiritual care to terminally ill patients and their families, said Mary Ann Johnson, director of volunteers for Hospice.

The program was created in 1979 by Dr. George Bascom to fulfill a need he saw in the community.

Since its founding, the program has assisted 103 patients and their families and is currently working with eight patients and their relatives, Johnson said.

Patients are referred through Bascom who is in charge of Hospice. Members of the support group view death as a part of life and try to comfort the patient and family. The members continue serving by keeping in touch with the families for at least one year after the patient has

Training for Hospice volunteers is provided through a six-week program offered each fall. The program consists of six, two-hour meetings Tuesday nights where volunteers listen and participate in a program designed to give them a realistic view of what it is like to be a terminally ill person. Included in the training are films showing a dying person, ministers speaking on death and dying, and speakers who have been close to a terminally ill person.

The purpose of the training is to stimulate the group to talk about death and dying and their feelings toward the issue. The discussion helps to "weed out the people" that may not make a good volunteer, Johnson said.

When a person takes on the responsibility of being with a person who is terminally ill, Johnson said, they must realize the patient could have only a few days or a few months to live.

"For the most part, we have patients for three to six months, but there have been cases where we learn of a patient who needs Hospice and before we can set up volunteers the patient has already died,"

Volunteers are asked to give a minimum of three hours of service to the patient or family, which often just consists of sitting quietly with the patient.

"After a patient is referred to us, my co-worker, Virgene Caine, and I go and visit the patient. After the visit, we decide which volunteer's personality would work best with the family's and the patient's personality," Johnson said.

'The primary role of the volunteer is to care for the patient and help the spouse and children in any way they can to relieve some of the stress and let them live as normal a life as possible. We want to try and keep the patient at Home as long as we can," Johnson said.

In the Manhattan hospice program, a team consisting of one physician, a nurse, two people who work as coordinators and three to 10 people is established to care for the patient

'We try to help them to get through some of the really tough times like birthdays, holidays and anniversaries," Johnson said.

539-7621

Drinking laws affect living groups openly, repeatedly violates the liquor 'Houses had better have a policy By LESLIE STOKES that restricts possession or consump-

Collegian Reporter

The drinking law changes have created problems in how fraternities, sororities, and residence halls handle their functions and parties, said John Lamb, director of the Alcohol Beverage Control division of the Kansas Department of Revenue.

Lamb, a graduate of K-State, spoke at the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council joint meeting Monday night. House presidents, social chairmen, alumni representatives and representatives from other campus organizations including those from the residence halls attended the meeting.

tion of alcohol by minors," Lamb

There is a potential liability for those houses and residence halls that allow their underage members to consume an alcoholic beverage.

"Having the policy on paper isn't enough. It needs to be enforced," Lamb said. "Houses are criminals if they don't do something about the drinking."

Law suits are becoming more frequent, Lamb said. Fraternities, sororities, alumni advisers and universities as a whole are liable. Lamb said state law has determined that if a house or residence hall laws still in committee, no final draft of the possible alterations has been made available to either the full

Currently, Brownback said,

"Nobody seems to know what confusion exists about the fencing laws apply to the various situations that can arise between the

Some of the laws governing fences were established when Kansas was still a territory and then updated when Kansas became a state, he Existing laws pertain to the driving of animals in herds called farmers and ranchers," he said.

control laws it may be closed and padlocked for as long as two years. Lamb said the house or organization is jointly responsible for the minors when the party is in a private club or lodge.

ABC doesn't do routine checks of private parties unless they are called, Lamb said.

The penalty for altering or borrowing a drivers license may be as much as a $1,000 fine or six months in jail.

If a minor is caught consuming or buying an alcoholic beverage in a bar or licensed building, he or she will be arrested and may pay a fine up to $250 or complete several hours of work service, he said.

down a road or highway, he said.

herd, Brownback said.

state itself," he said.

Then there are amendments

"Some of the laws are as old as the

They were established during the

The new changes will delete the antiquated laws and consolidate the others to fit the changes occurring since the laws were established, he

"The changes will hopefully bring about clear and predictable laws that the farmers and ranchers can times of range wars between the farmers and the stockmen.

defining what exactly constitutes a

Thursday, November 7, 8:00 p.m.

Performed by Beverly Sills' New York City Opera National

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428

MasterCard/Visa accepted.

McCain

Company

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Proposals could change fence laws written for animals being herded With the idea of changes in fencing

Legislature or the public.

application of fencing laws.

By RANAE YOUNG College Reporter

Confusion among farmers and ranchers concerning fence boundries has led to proposals of change in state fence laws.

The Interim Agricultural Committee, a joint committee of the Kansas Legislature, held hearings in Topeka recently on changing the fencing laws for the state, said Sam Brownback, Manhattan attorney and instructor of agriculture economics.

The legislative committee decided laws should be clarified pertaining to the placement of fences between properties and other areas of access, Brownback said.

The clarifications drafted by the committee will be voted on Nov. 12 and, if enacted will simplify the variety of laws affecting fences, he said. The committee wants to make the laws more workable for the people and the proposals are the first step, Brownback said.

NO Questions Asked!

1984-85 composite back

FLOWERS

SWEETHEART

ROSES

$6.00 a dozen

12th and Laramie

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

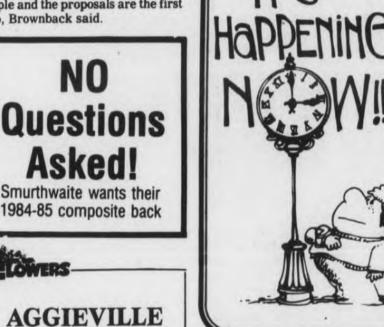

Monday

$2.25 Pitchers

Join us in our new beer garden

10-5:30 M.-Sat.

537-9549

Applications are now being accepted for Collegian

Spring Editor and Advertising

Manager Applications due 4 p.m., Nov. 8, Kedzie Hall.

Rm. 103. Further information on interviewing available in Kedzie Hall, Rm. 103. 000 OOM

$49.95 EYEGLASS SALE

Choose from any frame in stock, including plastic or metal frames, and pay only $49.95. The price includes your reading or distance prescription in glass, plastic, or oversized lenses. There are no extra charges for plastic tinted lenses and prescription up to (+) or (-) 6.00 Diopter's Sphere, on (-) 2.00 Diopters Cylinder. You can choose the pair of eyeglasses that you always wanted, and not worry about the cost! We can fill your doctor's Plastic Executive Bifocals, $20 additional. Photochromatics-add $18 single vision, and $25 for bifocals. Your selection is unlimited. All frames come under this sale except facet cuts. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

Offer expires: November 15 Boutique frames are not included

1210 MORO • 537-1574 Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

prescription, or copy your present glasses. Plastic, Flat Top 25 or 28mm, Round Segments, or 776-4074

we've earned your trust. CUNUES

619 N. Manhattan

as K-State's No. 1 fan

BUTCH LACY

Collegian Reporter

says he likes most about being the Initially, however, Willie did not

"I didn't really like doing it when I first started. I wasn't that outgoing of a person, and it was something I really had to work at," he said in a

Acting as the mascot has been demanding for Willie, and he spends from 20 to 30 hours a week during basketball season practicing, generating new ideas for his act, finding props for his routine and creating other gimmicks to get the Most people don't know who Willie

"It's easier - you don't feel inhibited because people don't know who you are. I feel more comfortable when people on the street don't know who I am. The (Wildcat) head is worth a lot of money, and it's just a tradition at K-State that people don't

The athletic department feels strongly about the image Willie needs to maintain when he's in uniform, and he tries to keep the

"I try to think that I would never do anything with the head on that I wouldn't do with head the off. I don't want to embarrass Willie and I wouldn't want to embarrass myself

- but I am more outgoing with the

The reason Willie is able to undergo a kind of metamorphosis with the head on is because he finds it to be more comfortable once he is disguised, especially after four

"It's pretty easy. You don't know what it's like until you put the head image positive by being himself.

the student is, and he prefers to keep

K-State crowd involved.

know who I am," he said.

head on," he said.

years of being mascot.

it that way.

find being the mascot was all that

K-State mascot.

recent interview.

Meeting people and making friends are what Willie the Wildcat

K-State-Wichita State University football game earlier in the season. Now week generating new ideas for his act.

Willie the Wildcat claws around with Wee Shock and Woo Shock during the that Willie is going into the basketball season, he will spend 20 to 30 hours a

Volleyball team to battle Cornhuskers

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

The Wildcat volleyball team will face tonight what K-State Head Coach Scott Nelson has termed their biggest challenge of the year when they face the University of Nebraska.

The game will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Ahearn Field House. The Cornhuskers come into the contest undefeated in the conference. They are currently No. 5 in the NCAA.

K-State is currently 3-4 in conference action and in close of a third place finish in the Big Eight. The NCAA ranking of Nebraska is deserved. Nelson said. In fact, the K-State coach feels the Cornhuskers deserve a much higher position. "I've said all year that they have Nebraska to put No. 5 rating on line been underrated," he said. "They are legitimately a No. 2 or 3 team. They are one of the top class volleyball teams in the country. Nebraska is one of the best volleyball teams outside of California.'

The two teams met earlier in the season in a match held in Lincoln. The Cornhuskers won the match in three games. Trying to pinpoint the Nebraska's aknesses is like trying to find a fault in a finely tuned machine, Nelson said. "Nebraska has everything that you would like to see in a team," Nelson said. "They have size, strength, quickness, depth and the ability to beat you in different ways. They are solid defensively and offensively. These two together make their transition game quick and explosive."

Nelson said K-State would have to be in top form to knock off the

"In order for us to win we need to have one of our best serving and passing efforts of the year to compete with them," Nelson said. 'Because their offense is so potent, they will challenge our defense constantly. We will need an outstanding defensive effort as well."

In conjunction with tonight's match, Kite's Bar and Grille, 619 N. 12th St., is having a special promotion. The first 500 people in attendance for the 7:30 contest will receive a free plastic cup. During November a person with the cup will receive a free beverage with any food purchase at Kite's.

Nelson encouraged students and faculty to come out and support the

When you play a tough opponent at home the crowd becomes a part of the match. They give you an added advantage when your're making a run at a team," Nelson said.

Tonight's contest is one of two remaining home contests for the Wildcats. The next home match will be against the University of Missouri Nov. 15. All home matches are free to the public.

Saberhagen could join a pitching group that includes Sandy Koufax,

Bob Gibson and the first Series MVP.

the Brooklyn Dodgers' Johnny

Podres. Like Saberhagen, Podres pitched his team to its first winning

"I can't see myself in their company yet, mainly because I haven't been around that long. I'm kind of new to baseball," said

Saberhagen, who pitched his high school team to the Los Angeles city championship just three years ago and made the majors in 1984.

World Series.

on. You have a lot of tunnel vision and you know people can't tell who you are. People approach me a lot Herzog wins award as

By The Associated Press

who managed St. Louis to the National League pennant in what was expected to be a rebuilding year for the Cardinals, Monday was named National League Manager of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America, beating

Herzog received 11 first-place votes and 86 points in balloting by the BBWAA panel composed of two writers from each of the 12 league cities. Rose, who took the Reds to a second-place finish in the NL West as player-manager, had 85 points and 10

Dodgers, winner of the first BBWAA manager award two years ago, finished third with 39 points, including three first-place votes. Davey Johnson of the New York Mets had four points, and Buck

"People are just now getting a glimpse of me and realizing who I am. I don't see any reason why I can't continue to go out and play the way I have been playing. If I can keep doing what I've been doing, maybe then I can relate to being up me," he said.

Using props is an essential part of Willie's standard routine whenever he makes an appearance, and he enjoys using certain ones more than easier, and they're excited to see

He feels the motorcycle, sunglasses, a cape, a unicycle or any type of thing that changes his identity a little bit adds to his routine.

In an effort to improve his routine, Willie went to Memphis, Tenn., to attend the Universal Cheerleader Association camp in August. He feels that he learned more from watching than doing.

"I didn't know what to expect when I went to camp. They didn't actually teach me that much. It was more watching some of the other people. Clemson was there, Auburn was there, and their mascots are traditionally so strong. The minute they put their uniform on they're in character. They walk totally different than when they walk without it. It's just something they do," he said.

Willie feels that he has received many rewards that have given him a lot of personal satisfaction during his years as mascot.

"It's kind of kept me going in school. All those times that school can get you down you can go out and have a good time. It's the road trips and the friends.

"I've had a lot of people do really nice things for me - bring me things at games, knit purple and white scarves, give me their old letter sweaters - just really nice things," he said.

Some people really go out of their way to make Willie feel at home. On one occasion, he was at a picnic and was offered to share in eating some barbecued ribs. However, because of the configuration of the Wildcat head he could not eat the food.

'This guy sent to my dad's office about 15 pounds of barbecued ribs

See WILLIE, Page 8

NL Manager of Year replace Sutter. The Cardinal

NEW YORK - Whitey Herzog, Cincinnati's Pete Rose by one point.

first place ballots.

Tom Lasorda of the Los Angeles Rodgers of the Montreal Expos had Herzog's Cardinals were jolted by the off-season free agent departure to Atlanta of bullpen ace Bruce Sutter, who had saved 45 games for the team in 1984. But the manager designed a bullpen by committee, using a combination of six pitchers to relievers produced 44 saves.

Early in the season, Herzog gave the left field job to rookie Vince Coleman, whose 110 steals as leadoff man served as the catalyst for the Cardinal attack.

Herzog and General Manager Dal Maxvill also engineered a trade for slugger Jack Clark, who gave the team a legitimate cleanup hitter and produced 22 home runs. When Clark was injured in August, a casual coffee shop conversation with Cincinnati pitching coach Jim Kaat led Herzog to acquire Cesar Cedeno as a replacement and he was an important contributor in the pennant

The Cards won 101 games during the regular season, capturing the East title by three games over Johnson's Mets.

St. Louis then dropped the first two games of the playoffs to Lasorda's Dodgers before roaring back to win four straight games and the championship. In the World Series, the Cards were two outs away from the world championship in the sixth game, but succumbed to a Kansas City comeback, losing that contest as well as Game Seven and the title.

See HERZOG, Page 8

Royals, Saberhagen to discuss contract be be announced next week By The Associated Press I expect I'll be sitting down and talking with the Royals the With his Series MVP award, and possible Cy Young Award,

NEW YORK - Next, Bret Saberhagen will find out the value of his right arm.

"I had a one-year contract last year. It's up. I'll renegotiate this year," the Kansas City Royals' ace pitcher said Monday after receiving a minivan as Sport Magazine's Most Valuable Player in the World Series.

"I expect I'll be sitting down and talking with the Royals the middle of the month, maybe the end of it," Saberhagen said. "I can imagine having a tough time negotiating. There could be problems, but I'd like to think there won't be. I have a good relationship with the Royals, they have a good one with me and my agent." Dennis Gilbert of Beverly Hills, Calif. is Saberhagen's agent.

Saberhagen beat the St. Louis Cardinals twice - 6-1 in the third game and 11-0 in the seventh - as the Royals staged the greatest middle of the month, maybe the end of it...there could be problems, but I'd like to think there won't be. I have a good relationship with the Royals, and they have a good one with me and my agent."

- Bret Saberhagen

comeback in Series history by winning the title after losing the first two games at home. In 18 innings against the Cardinals, Saberhagen's earned run average was 0.50. He struck out 10, yielded 11 hits and walked only one.

The "lifetime contract" is a popular item in Kansas City. George Brett, the Royals' slugging third baseman, relief ace Dan Quisenberry and second baseman Frank White each have one.

"I don't expect to be offered one," Saberhagen said with a smile, "but if they do, I'd sure consider it. I wouldn't mind spending the rest of my career with the Royals. They're a top organization. They treat their players well. Kansas City's a good community. I enjoy everything about the Royals.'

His contract, which expired after the Series, also contained a $25,000 bonus clause in the event Saberhagen won the American League Cy Young Award, a possibility following his 20-6 record and 2.87 ERA.

The Cy Young award winner will there with those guys." Wildcat Wrapup

Judge sentences dealer to 12 years in prison

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH - A federal judge on Monday sentenced former Philadelphia Phillies caterer Curtis Strong to 12 years in prison for his conviction on 11 counts of distributing cocaine to major league baseball players.

Judge Gustave Diamond also sentenced the 39-year-old defendant to 12 years of special parole to be served after the jail term. The judge said he wanted to be sure that Strong would be too old to engage in the drug business after leaving federal supervision.

In appealing for leniency for his client, defense Attorney Adam Renfroe cited the immunity from prosecution that U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson granted to baseball players who testified that they used

"It leaves a lot to be said about how someone can be here one day testifiying about how they used and abused cocaine and then the next day receive a standing ovation," Renfroe said in a reference to New York Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez.

"When those people stand up and applaud Keith Hernandez they are applauding a disreputable element of our society," Diamond said.

The judge said the seven major league players who received immunity were "not virginal innocents." But the law considers the crime of using cocaine to be less severe than that of selling the drug, Diamond said.

Strong was convicted Sept. 20 and has been in custody since then. Diamond denied his request to be released on bond and ordered him to begin serving his sentence immediately.

The seven players who testified under immunity from prosecution were Hernandez, Dale Berra of the New York Yankees, Enos Cabell of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Jeff Leonard of the San Francisco Giants, Lonnie Smith of the Kansas City Royals, Dave Parker of the Cincinnati Reds and former Pittsburgh Pirate John Milner.

Tennis team shut out by Nebraska

The K-State men's tennis team, slowed by injuries and missing two players, lost 9-0 to Nebraska Saturday at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area tennis courts.

Deon Botha, K-State's No. 1 singles player, pushed Nebraska's Robert Sjoholm to three sets before falling, 6-7 (7-2), 6-2, 6-3. K-State's No. 2 player, Kris James, also fell in three sets. Nebraska's Craig Johnson downed James, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Scott Chandler, Zane Burke, Denis Hatutale and Darren Polite all lost in straight sets for K-State. All three doubles teams lost as well. Botha and James lost to Mike Marsh and Johnson 6-3, 6-2. Chandler and Polite fell to Sjoholm and

Pat Carson 6-0, 6-2 and Hatutale and the injured Scott Sandlin lost to the brother duo of Steven and Stuart Jung 6-1,6-2. Coach Steve Bietau acknowledged Nebraska's strength, but noted that the 'Cats had not played their best tennis.

"Nebraska is very solid," he said. "We were missing some people and had some playing with injuries, but I was disappointed with the doubles showing.'

Soccer club's 'B' team ends season

K-State's "B" soccer squad ended its season Saturday with a 4-2 loss to Lagdaf International. The team finished the season with a 2-4 record. All players from the "B" team will join the "A" team for upcoming tournaments. The "A" team game scheduled for Sunday against Nebraska was won by K-State by forfeit when the 'Huskers were unable to field a

The next action for the club is next weekend in Lawrence at the University of Kansas Invitational Tournament.

Rugby team wins weekend contests

K-State's Rugby Football Club won a pair of games Saturday to run their season record to 11-6.

K-State won the first game, against Ft. Riley, by a score of 19-6. Ft. Riley took a 6-0 lead early in the game on a try and a successful conversion. Wing-forward Brian Riedel converted a penalty kick for K-State to pull the 'Cats to within three, 6-3.

Wing Alan Bindel scored a try early in the second half and Riedel added the conversion to give K-State a 9-6 lead. The 'Cats never trailed after that.

Fullback Greg Barnes and wing Ron Hollingsworth added tries to break the game open. Riedel converted after one of the tries to round out the scoring.

K-State shut out Emporia in the second contest, 49-0. The 'Cats took a 17-0 halftime lead on tries by center David Todd, prop Dan Morrison and Mike Powers, and a penalty kick and conversion by flyhalf Mike Allen. K-State put Emporia away in the second half with three additional tries by Todd, and one each by Powers, hooker Bill Sexton, wingforward Keenan Beauchamp and scrum half Steve Duncan. Wingforward Darren Granneman added two conversions to round out the

Willie

Continued from Page 7

after that. I couldn't believe it," he

Willie hasn't decided whether or not he will continue to be the mascot next year, but he doesn't think the chances are likely.

"I'm thinking I probably won't be just because of the time commitment. I won't have that heavy of a schedule next year, but it's something I should probably give up and let somebody else have a whack at it for a while," he said.

If Willie decides not to be the mascot next year, an open tryout will probably be held some time this March. One stipulation for trying out is that the individual must be at least

Being a good mascot, according to Willie, takes a lot more than just showing up for the games.

"Someone who really cares about the University will do those extra things. There's a lot more to Willie than going to football and basketball games," he said.

When Willie approaches children he has found that they react in different ways, and he knows what he has to do to make them feel comfortable.

"Either they really like Willie or they're scared to death of him. The majority of the little kids want to shake my hand or they want my autograph. They love me to death from 6 feet away but if I get any closer that's when they get tense. The ones that really cry I usually give some candy and that usually wins them over," he said.

Willie feels like he's different than most mascots. He tries to maintain an image that makes him appear to be a ladies man.

"Instead of a person trying to be a Wildcat, I try to think of it as a Wildcat trying to be a person. I always look at Willie as being mischievous, hanging around the girls. If girls are giving me a hard time then I usually chase them around," he said.

Herzog

Continued from Page 7

Rose staged a season-long pursuit of Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,192 hits, passing him in September. At the time, he still had the Reds in contention for the NL West title after the team had been picked near the bottom of the division. He was rewarded with a three-year contract that will pay him $1 million a year and make him baseball's highest paid manager

TACO TUESDAY

Have it 3 ways: UNO 2 Tacos + 1 Margarita

$2.99 DOS 2 Tacos + Salad Bar $2.99

TRES 3 Tacos $2.75 From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

BOCKERS

RAMADA INN

TACO TUESDAY

99¢ each 3 for $2.50 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. 5-9 p.m. AND

MARGARITAS

Strawberry or Lime 99¢ all day and night!

1115 MORO • 776-0030

Everything Priced To Go Quickly!

West Ltd.

Mon. & Thur. 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Tues., Wed., Thur., Fri. 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sun. 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

EMERGENCY SAL

MUST RAISE CASH!

TO LIQUIDATE INDEBTEDNESS. MUST SELL ENTIRE $500,000 INVENTORY NOW!

SAVE TO 50%

SALE STARTS TUE., NOV. 5th, 8 A.M. SHARP

VALUES TO $325 Includes Regulars, Shorts, Longs & X-Longs.

SPORTCOATS

Worsted Flannel Navy Blazers

congo

Harris Tweed

$185.00

Camel Hairs

$245.00

MEN'S SLACKS

Corduroys

$145.00

Finished Bottom Flannels

REG. $32.50

Reg. $45.00

OXFORD BUTTON DOWN

DRESS SHIRTS

FLANNEL SPORT SHIRTS

PURE SILK TIES Reg. >18.50

SWEATERS

100's TO CHOOSE FROM

Shetland Vests

Crew Neck

Crew Neck Fancies

$1999

$2499

$2999

Pierre Cardin

SOCKS 50% OFF

327 POYNTZ AVENUE MANHATTAN

Due to the nature of this sale: cash, check, Mastercard & Visa only. All sales final, no house charges, no alterations. no layaways.

West Ltd.

Supreme Court will review homosexual-rights decision

"This is potentially a momentous case, a watershed," said Kathleen L. Wilde, the Atlanta lawyer for a man challenging

"We think the facts of this case are very strong for us - no money, no minors, no force involved and in the privacy of one's own

Michael Hardwick, a self-described practicing homosexual, was arrested by Atlanta police in 1982 on charges of committing the crime of sodomy with another man

Hardwick sued Georgia officials in 1983 to overturn the sodomy law, even though prosecutors had decided not to seek an indictment

Georgia's sodomy law.

bedroom," Wilde said.

Students help with campus drive

United Way seeks donations

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK Collegian Reporter

Joining a campus-wide effort to support the United Way, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, Ford Hall and the sixth floor of Goodnow Hall recently sponsored fund-raising activities.

The campus drive has raised about $10,000 more than last year's campus total of $48,000, said Pat Bosco, assistant vice president of educational and student services and United Way campus drive chairman.

The deadline for the campus drive was Oct. 11, but the campus United Way will continue to take donations through November.

The athletic department sponsored the Purple-White intrasquad scrimmage Saturday evening in Ahearn Field House and raised nearly $1,800 for the United Way.

Ford Hall also had a fund-raiser for the United Way over the weekend and collected $191.23 for the campaign. The hall floors were divided into three teams, first through third, fourth through sixth and seventh through ninth.

Pennies were positive points and silver coins were negative points, because residents tend to give more pennies than silver coins, said Judy

Haefele, sophomore in journalism and mass communications and Ford Hall receptionist. Team one, consisting of first through third floors, won the competition.

Goodnow sixth floor President Al Hedrich, senior in secondary education, said floor members received idea of using a haunted house as a fund-raiser from Bosco.

"We have always had a hall decorating contest (on Halloween), and then Pat Bosco thought this would be a neat idea to raise money for the United Way," Hedrich said. The project raised $90 for United is expected by next July. The court has not issued a detailed ruling on the rights of homosexuals since 1967, when it

U-Sing gives money to Sunset Zoo

By The Collegian Staff

FarmHouse and Kappa Alpha Theta won first place at the All University Sing Sunday in McCain Auditorium. Second place went to Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Kappa

During the spring each sorority bids on another living group to sing with for the annual fall U-Sing, said Todd Crenshaw, junior in music and U-Sing committee chairperson.

hasing Reality

CH, NOTHING JUST

WATCHING THE

BETA PLEDGES

BEING PUBLICLY HUMILIATED BY THEIR PUTURE

Bloom County

MILO ... HELP ME,

15 DUE AND I HAVEN'T

SPOTTED A TREND

MILO ... TOMORROW'S PAGE

Jarfield

MY MOM WRITES THE GREATEST LETTERS, GARFIELD. LISTEN TO THIS ...

Five groups, each consisting of one female and one male living group and averaging 80 to 100 people, sing two selections, said Barb Robel, adviser for greek affairs.

Proceeds from the annual U-Sing benefit concert go to the children's section of the Sunset Zoo, Robel said. She said the money raised traditionally amounts to about

Receipts from the benefit show haven't been tabulated yet, but are

M NOT SURE, BUT

I HEAR THAT IN SPITE OF ALL THE

HUMILIATION AND

VIOLENCE, A "SPECIAL COMPADERY" DELELOPES BETWEEN THE GLYS.

GROWING SUSPI 7

GROWING ...

I DON'T GET IT ...

WHY WOULD SOMEONE TAKE THAT ABUSE JUST TO BE IN A FRATERNITY?

YUPPIES ... SINGLE PARENTS..

THIS COUNTRY

SUSPICIOUS OF

FACTURED

TRENDS

MEDIA-MANU-

CABBAGE PATCH THINGS ..

REPUBLICANISM

ICE CREAM ... ALL

THE GOOD CRAZES

HAVE BEEN DONE

"NEWSWEEK"

THERE'S

expected to be greater than $1,000, Crenshaw said.

About 15 years ago U-Sing was titled Greek Sing, but it was changed to University Sing to allow residence and cooperative living groups to participate.

Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Xi won high ticket sales. Others participants were Chi Omega and Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Sigma.

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

YEA... JUST LIKE

THE "SPECIAL

COMPADERY "THAT

DEVELOPED IN

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

THIS COULD

PON'T SPOIL IT FOR ME, JON.

TO COME OUT

WAITING FOR THE MOVIE

BE ATREND!

VIETNAM

cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555

$4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed er lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL

SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52)

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-

new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652. Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

sure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville. (51-53)

FOR RENT-MISC

Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200, (51-75)

> Like a FREE VCR. Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont).

Call for details

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university. Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

TWO BEDROOM basement furnished apartment. 1016 Juliette, off street parking, Available November 1, $240, plus electricity, 539-6858 or 776-8352.

NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Po meroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets. 537-1180 (48-57)

MAIN FLOOR and basement of large house-Two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, dining room wasner, dryer, $275. Call Ron, 537-3666 or 532-5881

WANTED: ONE female roommate for two bedroom apartment. Available immediately or at semester Close to campus, furnished. Must be non-smoker Call 537-4858. (51-54) FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin, 776-9124

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights Available immediately, 776-9124 (51-59)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing opportunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FIVE BEDROOM farm home, gas furnance. Modern, large country kitchen, large living room, attached garage. Barns, shop and other buildings, room for norses. Located 13 miles north of dam on Hwy 13. E.H. Thiele, 539-3492 (50-53)

FOR SALE-AUTO

MUST SELL: 1979 4 x 4 Subaru Brat. New radials, air dition, $2,150 or best offer 539-2899. (47-51) 1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

1978 Z-28 Camaro-All Low miles, must sell. $3,600 Call 537-0227 (47-51) 1979 RABBIT, 45-50 mpg, excellent condition, stereo air conditioning. 532-6625. (48-52) 1971 OLDS Delta 88—good condition. Great school carl $900 or best offer. 776-4915 after 5:00 p.m. (50-

1982 CHEVY K-10. 4 x 4-Black, excellent condition. with warranty Call 776-5217 (50-54)

1975 RED Chev. Monza 2 + 2 hb. Automatic V-8, four new tires with wire spoke wheels, new brakes power steering, air conditioning, AM/FM cassette-Alpine with Jensen speakers, good condition. Excellent care/maintenance, records available, 776-1586 (50-54)

FOR SALE 1972 Toyota Corona, $300 as is. Needs engine work. Call 539-5609. (51-53)

FOR SALE-MISC

03

MIKASA BONE china-Nine place settings, contem porary style, "Silver Halo," Perfect condition $250 Call 776-0733 (47-51) 15th EDITION Encyclopedia Britannica. Mint condi tion 30 volumes. $515 firm. Call 539-7344. (49-51) DESK, SWIVEL desk chair, drafting chair, bedroom antiques, Call 776-9705 (49-51)

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased 21% Magnum Dog Food-

$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

SMITH-CORONA Ultra Sonic II typewriter. One year old. excellent condition, firm $325. Call 539-7344

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc.

107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

FENDER SUPER Twin guitar amp. Excellent condi-tion! $200 tirm. Call 776-3473 evenings. (50-54) VERY NICE wood frame/pillow couch, $150; wom en's 10 speed bike. $50. Call 776-6231. (50-54)

TWO VECTOR Microcomputers, $1,500 each—(two years old-good condition). One hard disc storage/one floppy drive. Software provided: Word Processing, Accounting, Data Management and much more. Call Dan or Vicki at 532-6176 immediately for more details. (51-54)

Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger

69¢ The Ritz

This coupon expires 11/10/85 STELLA 15-speed bicycle. TA/Dura-Ace, two wheelsets, two new tires/tubes, 21" Colur frame, $375 or best offer. Gitane Interclub, 21" nolds frame, $140. Pair for $475. Call 537-8860 after 5:00 p.m. (51-53)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly Must sell, $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59)

CAT FOUND wearing yellow collar with bells. Call Be-verly at 532-6555 during the day or Tom at 776-2284 after 6:00 p.m. (51-53)

U.S. District Judge Robert H. Hall threw out Hardwick's suit, ruling that the constitutional claims had been rejected by the Supreme Court when it upheld Virginia's sodomy law in 1976.

In that ruling, the justices affirmed a lower court's decision that the state sodomy law was constitutional.

The 11th U.S Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated Hardwick's lawsuit by a 2-1 vote last May 21.

In seeking Supreme Court review, Georgia Attorney General Michael J. Bowers said the appeals court ruling could harm "the ability of Georgia and her sister states to legislate in any area which touches upon moral issues."

lassifieds

By The Associated Press

Court, setting the stage for a major gay rights ruling, said Monday it will decide whether the sexual

The justices said they will review Georgia prosecutors' appeal of a ruling that, if upheld, could undo the sodomy laws in about half the states. Their ruling said aliens found to be homosexual

may be deported as people

"afflicted with a psychopathic of consenting

adults activities

homosexual

constitutionally protected.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.
Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) ire, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts ... count on Sun-

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club. A

USED BOOKS and magazines, buy-sell-trade. Trea-

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side.

Brand new 2 BR apts.

776-3804

THERE IT IS! THERE'S HALLEY'S COMET, AND THERE'S ANOTHER ONE

eanuts

2 Boxing

dressing

5 Podiatrist's

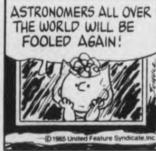

concern

4 Unswerving 22 Convex

3 Road

By Charles Schulz

rossword ACROSS 38 Desert 1 Breakfast 41 Iran

grains 5 Evergreen 42 Fragrance tree 43 Highlands 8 Texas city instru-12 London ment 48 Fabled apartment loser 13 Poem 49 Malay export

gibbon 50 Twelve 14 Musical prince 15 Hearth Oaks' neighbor need 51 Sharif 17 Light gas?

52 Before 18 Jackie's 53 Comedian sidekick 19 Walk King DOWN clumsily 1 Switch 21 Home position library

24 Com motion smoke 26 Oboe, for one 30 Constellation 31 Ministers 32 Runner Sebastian

35 World turner' 36 All - (attentive) 37 Navigation

33 Blowhards

24 Fireplace 6 Bachelor's need last words? 26 Fit to 7 Stately don trees 27 Sacred 8 Dormer or bay 28 Brilliant 9 Brought to maturity 29 Bambi, for one friendly 31 Ski lift 11 French 34 More exriver pensive 35 Role for Sue Lyon 37 Drink 38 London district 39 Furniture

21 "Heart-

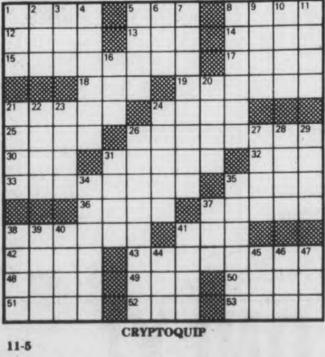

House

writer

29 - Bator

moldings

16 Contorted 20 Appends Avg. solution time; 25 min. 40 Lively Monster 45 Buddy 46 Period of time 47 "The Bridge of - Luis Rey"

XEZFM WPUPWPP'J BCHPGCIM IZJ IBFJGEP

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN TAILOR TURNED POLITICIAN, HE SEWED UP THE ELECTIONS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: I equals W ing Room, Calvin Hall. Claim at Union Lost and Found. (51-53)

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Bound trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton CT. 06897. (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

FOUND: MEN'S maroon tacket in Commerce Read-

BARTENDERS AND Food Servers. Now hiring at the Cotton Club, Manhattan's newest dinner club. Apply in person at 418 Poyntz in the Wareham Build-NEW YORK couple with two children looking for mother's helper good with children to live-in. Pleasant suburban community, easy access to New York City, room with private bath, good pay, transportation. Call 516-621-0824. (47-51) REWARD-FREE trip to Daytona plus commission money Wanted: Organized group or individual to note #1 Spring Break Trip to Daytona. If inter ested, call 1-800-453-9074 immediately! (51)

NOTICES SPAGHETTII SPAGHETTI! All you can eat! with gar lic toast. 4:30-6:30 p.m Tuesday. November 5, in the K-State Union Stateroom. (50-51) TRI-DELT JOSIE-I think you're fun. I think you're great, until Thursday you'll have to wait, because that is when we'll celebrate. Love, Dad. (51) TO THE guy that took a rhinestone earring off of my friend on Halloween night: She was wearing ear-rings that she had borrowed from me and I would really appreciate it if it was returned. It's not be cause it's worth much, it's not. But they have senti mental value to me. My grandmother gave them to FARMHOUSE-WE loved the roses, the party was ticed hard in order to win, but the best was meet ing such terrific gentlemen. Special thanks to you Chris. Love, the Thetas. (51) me when I was in the 6th grade. Please call 537

REEN—EHHH 227 Dad-gummit! Fossil or feeb? Want to go fishing? Happy birthday! — GREEN-EHHH Bangkok (5) BARBIE DOLL-That was sure a nice dress you had on last Thursday how about meeting this Thursday at 9.00 at Charlie's Eddy Haskel (51) JACQUE S .- Congratulations on your excellent finish at Columbia! -SDK. (51)

KD MONSTER Mashers: The Monster Mash was a blast, we are so glad that we were asked. We par-tied and danced and had lots of fun, we were sad n the party was done. Thanks, the G-Phi Graveyard Smashers. (51) MOORE NINE-Thanks for making Penthouse Pajama Party a success. You all are awesome! SAF's - SCOTT Kent and Scott: What a great family!

Thanks for the flowers. Love, Lori. (51) SAE PLEDGES-Congratulations on kicking butts! Love, the Little Sisters of Minerva. (51) DDD DEB C .- Off to meetings you often go, an active Dolphin we all know (51)

SHIRM. TO my better half? Here's to all of the fun times that we've had and to many more ahead. What will you do without me next semester? Happy 22nd Birthday let's make the most of it!

BRITTANY-HAPPY Birthday luf Mishmel. (51) LEANIMAL-HAPPY 21st! You can buy the first round on January 4. M. (51)

MIKE HOOD. I understand that you're taking a quiz over some accounting material this week?! Best of luck-I'll be thinking of you (in my spare time)! Kandy (51) ROOMMATE WANTED 17

ROOMMATE WANTED-Own bedroom, washer dryer. Rent plus utilities. 403 South 10th. Call 537. 2055 (48-52) FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809 North 11th. $145, bills paid. 539-8401. (49-63)

NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, no utilities. Call 776-7331 (50-54) FEMALE. NON-SMOKING-Own room, nice duplex with conveniences. $133 plus one-third utilities.

Call day, 532-5508, ext. 25; 537-4179. (51-54) NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share two bedroom apartment, one block from campus. Utilities paid. $190. Call 776-5265. (51-54)

SERVICES MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (31-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539 5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on compute typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (51-

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (48-51) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (50-54)

all women who want support in dealing with pe sonal, social or educational concerns. Contact Women's Resource Center, 532-6444. (50-52) PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word proc-

WOMEN'S SUPPORT Group now forming. Open to essed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (51-52) WOOD SPLITTING-Call 539-9304, ask for Bruce

Arts

Continued from Page 1

Council, was delighted to give the students the project. He said he was confident in the students' abilities to present creative designs and innovative ideas.

"The study will have tremendous value because of the intelligence and energy found in Jim Jones' classroom," Biggs said.

Biggs said the students' designs will be part of a package to be presented to the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department. The department will present their findings to the Manhattan City Commission, who will decide whether or not to pass a bond issue on the center.

"Funding for a community-based arts center would come from taxpayers," Biggs said. "The studies are being done so the community can be presented with a package that has been put together properly. This way, whatever decisions are made will be informed decisions."

The students' designs won't replace professional work, but the designs will stimulate the professional's thinking, Jones said. The designs, to be completed in about three weeks, will provide alternatives for the Manhattan Arts Council when the presentation is made to parks and recreation in early December.

Jones said the Community House at Fourth and Humboldt streets was studied by professional architects as a possible site. But he said the Wareham buildings have better

"This kind of thing (arts center) could provide balance in the downtown area," Jones said. "With collectors like the mall and plaza on one end and the arts center on the other, business in the middle will

The historic value and existing features of the Wareham buildings including the live entertainment stage and balconies - are also factors to consider, Jones said.

Both Biggs and Jones believe Manhattan has a wealth of talented artists and performers, and they need a place to exhibit their skills. The center could also be used for Manhattan and area schools for exhibition of students' works.

Biggs said the center could help "sell Manhattan" to corporations as an industrial site.

"A community as classy as Manhattan deserves a facility like this," Biggs said. "A facility like this not only has art and educational value, but it would embellish the image of Manhattan."

club because "we would like to do other things."

most local clubs, Limbocker said.

and Calvin Klein

FASHION TOPS

MEN'S ADIDAS AND PUMA

SPORTSWEAR

MEN'S OXFORD

SPORT SHIRTS

BY LETGRE

JOHN HENRY

AND L.L. BEAN

Special Assortment of

Men's and Ladies Sportswear

Elesse and Fila

NOW FROM

SPORT SHIRTS AND SWEAT SHIRTS

Group sets summit agenda

U.S., Soviet officials meet

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - Secretary of State George P. Shultz met with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze for nearly eight hours Monday to plan the agenda for this month's U.S.-Soviet summit meeting, which is expected to focus on arms control.

Shultz arrived with a letter from President Reagan to Soviet Leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, but its contents were not disclosed.

Rozanne Ridgway, U.S. assistant secretary of state for European affairs, refused to characterize the meeting or say whether progress was made.

"We went through the whole agenda and everything on it," she

Shultz was to meet Tuesday with Gorbachev, whose call for a 50 percent reduction in American and Soviet nuclear weapons was followed by a new U.S. arms control offer announced by Reagan.

As outlined by a senior U.S. official Sunday in Helsinki, where Shultz prepared for his Moscow mission, the U.S. proposal calls for a ceiling on American and Soviet strategic bombers and a freeze on deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

The Soviets have announced that they have frozen deployments and even made reductions in the number of medium-range missiles in the European part of the Soviet project not already be a student activity fee-funded group.

$700,000

Continued from Page 1

"Also, FONE is not a large project with recognizable rewards," he said, referring to two other committee guidelines. Vander Laan also rejected the image-building proposal suggested by Dave Higgins, junior in radio and television, because it didn't meet guidelines. Higgins suggested the money be used to hire a University promoter.

"This is a good idea," Vander Laan said, "but it doesn't meet the criteria. First of all, it's redundant because we already have someone who does this. Also, it's out of the appeal process for groups whose suggestions are rejected by the

"We've sent out letters with the guidelines to each group," said Mark Jones, senior in management, senate chairman and committee chairman. 'Now we need to maybe send out (committee) members to discuss the guidelines with the groups."

Jones said the committee needs to narrow the number of groups under consideration.

presentations from the remaining groups, Jones said, and groups whose proposals were rejected would

PRESENTS

A MANUFACTURER'S DIRECT

CLOTHING SALE

Jones said the committee would make its final decisions after appeals, although each group may file an appeal with a student senator to be heard when the final bill outlining the committee's suggestions reaches the senate floor draft a bill including a list of chosen groups whose combined requests also suggested senate receive a handout detailing the requests by other groups rejected by the

to the committee.

Reagan

Continued from Page 1

because, remember, we all know how to make them now," Reagan said.

Returning to Star Wars later in the interview, the president said, "We would not deploy...it is not my purpose for deployment, until we sit down with the other nations of the world, and those that have nuclear arsenals, and see if we cannot come to an agreement on which there will be deployment only if there is elimination of the nuclear weapons."

Commenting on Reagan's statement, Djerejian said the president was not voicing a new policy.

"There has to be a transition period from offense to defensive weapons," Djerejian said. "The president is not implying doing away with all offensive weapons immediately.

"That would be unrealistic, but the president has always said that the ultimate goal is to do away with all nuclear weapons. "And if technology proves feasible, we will want to discuss such a transition with the Soviets," Djerejian said.

In a spirited give-and-take, Reagan and the journalists traded charges over superpower involvement in other countries.

Reagan said the United States intervened in Vietnam and Grenada at the invitation of government officials in each country.

A Soviet journalist said Moscow was asked by the government of Afghanistan to send forces there.

Wareham

Continued from Page 1

The bar and lounge area will be renamed "H.P.'s," after H.P. Wareham, one of the family brothers, featuring mini-burgers to be known formally as "H.P. Burgers."

Renovation to the bar and lounge area will involve extending the bar to the main window, Limbocker said, serving to "make for a more comfortable atmosphere."

An added attraction will feature guest bartenders on Friday from 5 to 7 p.m., to be selected from different segments of the population including the business community and the University, Limbocker said.

"You may see your professor serving drinks down there," Limbocker said.

The Limbocker brothers recently purchased the Wareham from Ric and Mary Tribble, former owners of Ric's Cafe, 317 Houston St.

Mary Tribble said they sold the

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Meet your friends for 90¢

Margaritas tonight

- WED -

$1 DRINKS and oldies music

Process & Print

with this coupon From 110, 126, 35mm or

Disc Color Print Film. 14½¢ per print (reg. 29¢) & $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98) Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94

Now $4.73 Manhattan 2700 Anderson Ave (Next To Westloop-The Old Kentucky Fried Chicken)
539-2519
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

MON.-SAT. 8 AM to 9 PM SUNDAYS 12 PM to 6 PM

Tribble has recently opened a book store in the First Bank Center on Denison Avenue and Claflin Road called Claflin Books and Magazines.

SPECIAL

IF PERF.

VALUES TO $33.00

Button-downs

Reg. $26.00

Stripes

Solids

ASSORTMENT ALL STYLES

AND COLORS

The new club will reciprocate with ordinary and it doesn't meet the nonrecurring project criterion."

The committee also discussed the committee.

"I don't know what the magic number is," he said. "It may just happen."

The committee would then hear receive a letter explaining the reasons for their rejection.

for discussion. Jones suggested the committee total no more than $700,000. Jones committee.

Jones cautioned committee members to remain as unbiased as possible when presenting proposals

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

MEN'S

SAVE 50%-70% Wilson

LADIES AND MEN'S WARM-UP SUITS by WILSON and WINNING WAYS Reg. $45-$60

DAY ONLY

LIZ CLAIBORNE Fashion Slacks and Jeans Wide range of styles and fabrics

POLO

By Ralph Lauren

If perfect, values to $38.00

(Boy's Oxfords and Plaid, too)

FAMOUS MAKER

LADIES COTTON

SWEATERS

Excellent Quality!

NOW

$7.99 to 12.99

Special Assortment

MENS AND BOYS

Short Sleeve Knits

(stripes and solids)

Super Styles

Values to $65.00

NOW FROM

-WOOLS -STRIPES AND SOLIDS -BUTTON FRONT CARDIGANS

If perf. values to $40.00 Great Value!

NOW $7.99

Men's LeTIGRE Heavyweight RUGBY SHIRTS

Stripes-Solids Reg. $34.00

$16.99

LADIES FASHION BLOUSES AND TOPS

Special Assortment

Your Choice

2 FOR $5.00

BIG SHIRTS-BLOUSES-OXFORDS BY

JOHN HENRY AND LADY MANHATTAN -LOADS OF COLORS-

Now from

Values to $36.00

Excellent Values

Reg. $60-$80

Now From $14.99

Wed. Nov. 6th 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Ramada Inn—17th and Anderson Manhattan (across from campus)

0164 8605 1

November 6, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92. Number 52

Arrests of 3 area men close 10-month probe by local, state groups

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Reporter

Three Manhattan residents were arrested Tuesday morning after a 10-month joint investigation by the Riley County Police Department, the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, the Kansas Highway Patrol and three federal agencies.

Donald Leo Finney, 47, 741 Tuttle St., owner of Superior Auto Salvage, Rt. 1, was arrested without incident at his salvage yard and charged with attempted felony theft. He was released on $7,500 bond.

Investigators executed a search warrant at the salvage yard, where they believe Finney may have received stolen automobiles and farm machinery.

Also arrested were Wayne E. Craven, 38, Rt. 5, and Robert M. Whitney, 28, 600 Bluemont Ave. Craven is charged with attempted felony theft; Whitney is charged with altering a vehicle identification number, a felony in Kansas. Bond for both men was set at $7,500. Both men are employees at the salvage yard.

Also assisting in the arrests were agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service and the National Auto Theft Board.

A 7 a.m. briefing of 50 people from the agencies involved in the investigation preceded the arrests. The investigators were divided into teams to search the more than seven-acre salvage yard, according to RCPD Director Alvin Johnson.

Because of the size of the search and the nature of the case, Johnson declined to reveal many of the details of the investigation and the search.

"This is the first time we have been involved in a case of this magnitude," he said. Capt. Larry Woodyard of the RCPD said the search was progressing "slowly," but expects all on-site investigations to be complete by Friday afternoon.

Property believed stolen will be checked against lists compiled by the NATB and National Crime Information Center.

The arrest warrants were issued by Riley County, and search warrants were federally

Johnson said the arrests were not the result of any "sting" operations against the salvage yard, but declined to comment on the possibility of undercover operations.

Authorities said they would not release any further information until the on-site investigations are complete.

A more complete report detailing the operations at the salvage yard could be complete in approximately two days.

Explosions, fires at refinery force citizens to flee homes

By The Associated Press

MONT BELVIEU, Texas - A series of explosions and fires rocked an underground storage tank at a refinery Tuesday, shooting jets of flames high into the air and forcing hundreds to flee their homes.

Two workers were missing. No injuries

"We ran as fast as we could," said Dean Conley, an electrician working at the Warren Petroleum Co. refinery and natural gas storage plant. "We didn't stop to turn in our

Dozens of firefighters tried to contain the blaze, which was fed by five pipelines that could not be shut off because the intense heat kept crews away from valves, said Cul Ingram, a spokesman for Chevron Inc., which owns the burning complex. One of the pipelines ruptured while construction crews were doing maintenance work, Ingram said, although he didn't know how the rupture occurred.

Mayor Fred Miller called for evacuation of the entire town of 1,200, and the American Red Cross opened a shelter at a church in nearby Baytown. Roads in the area were closed.

The blasts occurred in a hollowed-out salt dome used to store natural gas underground at the company in Mont Belvieu, about 30 miles east of Houston where smoke from the fire could be seen.

Clay Hooper, another Chevron spokesman, said the fire involved the contents of five underground storage tanks, containing from 18,000 to 30,000 gallons of liquefied petroleum

One worker, who asked not to be identified, said crews had been working on a gas leak for about 10 minutes when an alarm sounded. "I just walked out the door," the worker said. "Everybody knew what was happening. I think there was enough time for just about everybody to get out.'

At least three similar explosions have occurred in the area in the past five years.

"This is becoming an annual event," complained Bill Wallace, who owns a mobile home park in the community.

"There was a loud boom, then a big ball of fire. I've lived here most of my life and this is the worst one I've ever seen," Wallace said. Shari Falk, 27, who lives about a mile from the refinery, said she fled her home after the third explosion Tuesday. "It shook my bed. I jumped up and left,"

she said. The two missing men were from a construction crew. The 56 employees of Warren Petroleum were not hurt and all were accounted for, a spokesman said.

Roping a horned dawg

Mike Jackson, junior in agricultural economics, releases his rope while honing his calfroping skills on a plastic head attached to a hay bale Tuesday by his apartment.

Court ruling draws appeal from officials

From Staff and Wire Reports

The Kansas attorney general's office has appealed a district court ruling that permitted the closing of meetings of the Memorial Hospital Association Board in Manhattan.

The action came hours after Riley County Attorney William Kennedy announced Monday he would not appeal the ruling and about an hour before the appeal deadline.

Jeff Southard, an assistant to Attorney General Robert Stephan, announced the decision to intervene in the case in an appeal filed in the state appellate court.

"Any time the open-meetings law is construed as to exempt certain bodies, it's a concern to us because we are the agency charged with enforcing that law," Southard said. Neil Woerman, special assistant to Stephan, said the attorney general filed the notice to appeal because "it was a substantial question of state law" and felt it should be appealed to the appellate court. In the original case, the hospital association sought to overturn an order by the Riley County attorney opening its board meetings, but the attorney general's office issued an opinion upholding the requirement that the association's meetings be open. Former County Attorney Colt Knutson enforced the attorney general's ruling, prompting the filing of the court test.

Southard said the atorney general's office also appealed Riley County District Judge Paul Miller's ruling denying the attorney general's request to intervene in the original

Miller ruled last month that the board of the Memorial Hospital Association is a notfor-profit corporation and could legitimately meet in private. He said he found no direct relationship between the association board and the Riley County Commission, the public body that owns Memorial Hospital.

year ago to run the hospital. At the same time a second board, the Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, was established to funnel maintenance and capital improvement funds from the county to the hospital.

The association board was created about a

Kennedy said a month-long study of the judge's decision left him with little prospect for hope of "a reasonable appeal."

"I'm regretfully comfortable that they (Memorial Hospital) can do it at law," Kennedy said of the private meetings. He said the hospital officials, in establishing the dual-board procedure, did not attempt to disguise their motive.

Southard said Tuesday that the attorney general's decision to file should not be read as a "second-guess" of Kennedy's decision.

"He is new to this case, where as we've been in it from the beginning," he said. "We feel that on the facts themselves, this is a case where the (open-meetings) law should be applied."

Southard agreed that the case delved into "gray areas" of the law.

'We feel that if we are going to enforce this law, we need some guidelines from a court of record, either the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court," he said.

Members discuss candidates

Search committee studies criteria

By TIM CARPENTER Editor

Presidential Search Committee members met Tuesday to discuss criteria to be used to evaluate candidates and for the first time met in executive session to examine applications for the presidency.

During the meeting the committee reviewed a list of 17 criteria for evaluating candidates gleaned from the "position description" approved during the last meeting Oct. 24.

Chairman Jerry Frieman, associate professor of psychology, requested the committee select "four or five" of the characteristics from the list to focus on during Frieman said the list of criteria is nonbinding and probably would not be used to rank candidates on a point-by-point basis, but added several key criteria should be used to differentiate the applicants.

Committee member Randolph Pohlman, dean of the College of Business Administration, objected to the use of any type of rigid point system for evaluating the candidates.

"I don't understand what we are doing with a list. I don't see the purpose of ranking four or five items to ask the candidates," Pohlman said. "There is no way to systematize this, punch the numbers into a computer and get a candidate...I'm afraid we are leaning too far in that direc-

Stanley Koplik, executive director for the Board of Regents and non-voting committee member, cautioned the committee not to get bogged down in a statistical analysis by "trying to quantify a very subjective process.

Frieman said two significant items for committee members to consider when judging a candidate is whether that person has "a clear understanding of the role of an established comprehensive university with a land-grant tradition" and is "able to articulate a vision of what the University can be in the coming decades.'

Committee member Charles Reagan, Faculty Senate president and professor of philosophy, echoed Frieman's assessment of the importance of the two criteria, but said it could be difficult to locate someone who can articulate the points adequately.

"If a person can articulate the meaning of a land-grant institution and state a vision of what the University is to be...they may be the only people on campus able to do that."

While reviewing the attributes candidates should possess, Pohlman asked that the intent of a statement about academic requirements in the position description be clarified.

The description says "candidates should possess scholarly academic credentials; an earned doctorate or appropriate terminal degree is desirable.

Reagan said the statement indicates the committee believes an advanced degree is preferable; however, the statement does not eliminate outstanding candidates possessing no advanced or terminal

"If a candidate is an ambassador, we're not going to care whether they have a degree," Reagan said.

The committee went into executive session for approximately two hours to discuss applications and nominees. A closed meeting is necessary to maintain candidate confidentiality, Frieman said.

Acker supports decisions made on sports structure

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

President Duane Acker said Tuesday he was "totally satisfied with the planning steps (and) the planning model" used for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

The steps not included in the original planning process are not needed, he said during a question-and-answer session in the Student Government Services office.

Acker had originally intended to be at the Student Senate meeting Thursday but because of a change in schedule he agreed to meet with students Tuesday.

Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine, and Martin Monto, junior in biology, are sponsoring a bill asking that student monies be withdrawn until eight studies concerning the coliseum are completed.

The original studies for the coliseum didn't include a market study, a financial feasiblity study, a site study or a traffic study. Of the four studies, the University needs help in the marketing process, Acker said. "We need to bring in a consultant on how to market this facility," he said.

Acker gave several reasons why the University didn't need to do the four studies originally excluded from the project.

"As of 1981, we had had two successive referenda by students," and the financial feasibility study done by the KSU Foundation, he said. There's no need for a financial feasibility higher than projected in 1981, and 45 percent of the pledges are in cash already, Acker Concerning the site study, Acker said the study because the University's enrollment is University still had the long-range University master plan and the soil studies done in 1981 on the KSU Stadium, the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex and the Veterinary Medicine Complex. A traffic study is unnecessary, Acker said, because K-State has 15 years of experience using the parking lots at the stadium for 40,000 or more people, and with the coliseum there would be less parking. Acker reiterated his concerns that the coliseum be multi-purpose and of high quality, and meet the high expectations of the program committee and himself. He said he

The coliseum was the only thing that would "tap the big money," Acker said. "The Foundation is building a foundation of fund-raising experiences," and getting people in the habit of donating money.

"What is it (a delay in the coliseum) going to do to our fund-raising credibility?" he

There has been "quite a bit of activity" in wind-power research in the past 10 years. See Page 5.

Today, partly cloudy, windy and cooler. High mid-50s. Wind northwest 15 to 25 mph diminishing in the afternoon. Tonight, mostly clear and cooler. Low in low to mid-30s.

Sports

The University of Nebraska defeated K-State in volleyball Tuesday night three games to one in Ahearn Field House. See Page 7.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Mexican diplomat shot to death

MOSCOW - A Mexican diplomat and his maid were found shot to death in the diplomat's Moscow apartment, the Mexican Embassy said Tuesday. The incident was a rare and unexplained case of violence involving foreigners in Moscow.

Manuel Portilla Quevedo, 43, a counselor at the Mexican Embassy since 1981, and his Mexican maid, Maria del Carmen Cruz, were found Oct. 31 when diplomats from the embassy went to investigate why Portilla had not shown up for work, the embassy's statement

"Dr. Portilla had received a blow with a blunt instrument and then (was) shot in the head," the statement said. "Miss Cruz was severely beaten and shot twice in the head."

An embassy official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the two apparently died the night of Oct. 30.

No explanation was given for the deaths. Embassy officials refused to discuss whether they involved a premeditated attack, random violence or possible suicide.

Cases of violence involving foreigners are rare in Moscow. The last known foreigner in Moscow who died violently was British businessman Dennis Skinner, who fell to his death from his 12th-floor apartment in June 1983.

The embassy statement said word of Portilla's death had not been released until Tuesday to avoid obstructing investigations by Soviet police. A man who answered the telephone at the police station nearest Portilla's apartment said investigations were continuing and refused to give details.

Portilla studied chemistry in Moscow in the early 1960s, graduating from Patrice Lumumba Friendship University for Foreigners in 1965. He gained a doctorate in biophysics from Moscow State University in 1972 and had many Soviet friends and contacts.

REGIONAL

Union to discuss wage concessions

WICHITA - Machinist union members were scheduled to meet late Tuesday to consider wage concessions as part of an effort to bring the Gates Learjet Corp. operations in Tucson, Ariz. to Wichita.

The company announced Oct. 23 it wants to consolidate its manufacturing and administrative facilities in one city to cut costs and overhead. Learjet now has offices and manufacturing plants in Wichita and Tucson. The company headquarters is in Tucson, but Learjet was founded in Wichita.

Workers in the Wichita plant make about $1-$2 an hour more than their counterparts in Tucson. The Arizona plant isn't unionized. About 1,135 people are employed by the company in Wichita. There are 815 on the payroll in Tucson.

During a 50-minute meeting with Learjet officials Monday, Wichita city officials, chamber of commerce representatives and Gov. John Carlin described a package of tax and financial incentives being offered to the company to entice it to make Wichita the consolidation

"I believe we'll win it," Mayor Bob Brown said following the meeting. He refused to discuss the specifics of incentives the city offered. Officials have said Learjet probably would be offered industrial revenue bond financing for any new facilities or equipment it might need, which would allow the company to forgo property taxes on the new buildings or equipment for a specified length of time. There also has been discussion of making the Learjet complex near Wichita's Mid-Continent Airport a special industrial district in which taxes would be lower. If such a status were granted, it would be the first time in city history an industry located within the city has received such a tax break, officials said.

Mayor says no to El Salvador aid

SEDALIA, Mo. - Mayor Larry Foster was as surprised as anyone when he received a form letter from the president of El Salvador asking for donations of goods for his war-torn Central American na-

"I couldn't figure it out myself," Foster said Tuesday after releasing copies of the three-page letter he received last week.

"The only thing I know about El Salvador is what I read in the paper or see on TV. We've got our own problems. We don't need to be giving our money away to foreign countries," Foster said.

The El Salvador Embassy in Washington said Tuesday that President Jose Napoleon Duarte's letter had gone to an unknown number of mayors in the United States.

The letter said international relief agencies had been generous in their efforts to assist the country's 400,000 refugees but said El Salvador's needs are greater than could be met.

ETCHINGS

By ANGEL GIFTS, INC.

EXHIBITION AND SALE

NOVEMBER 6-8

9 a.m.-5 p.m.

K-STATE UNION

1st FLOOR CONCOURSE

NATIONAL

U.S. officials to talk to KGB agent

WASHINGTON - The Soviet Union on Tuesday agreed to a U.S. demand for an interview with KGB spy Vitaly Yurchenko to prove that he is not being coerced into returning to his homeland after three months in the hands of American intelligence agents.

A State Department official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the interview was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at the department's headquarters.

The purpose of the meeting was to assure U.S. authorities that Yurchenko truly wants to return to the Soviet Union and is not being forced to do so by Soviet officials, said Charles Redman, a State Department spokesman.

Meanwhile, the top two members of the Senate Intelligence Committee said the panel will investigate the CIA's handling of the Yur-

Yurchenko, identified by U.S. intelligence experts as the one-time head of the KGB's American section, came to the United States in early August and was in the custody of CIA officials until last

He turned up at the Soviet Embassy on Monday and, at a news conference, said he had been abducted in Rome, drugged, and pumped for Russian secrets at a CIA hideout in Virginia, but managed to escape. The State Department said the allegations were "completely false" and that Yurchenko defected freely, but for some reason decided to return to the Soviet Union.

Redman said it appeared that Yurchenko's decision to go to the embassy after three months of talking to U.S. intelligence officials "was a personal decision and we will attempt to confirm that at a meeting with him."

Chairing the session would be an official of the department's Bureau of European and Canadian Affairs, Redman said.

Before the meeting was set, Redman said U.S. officials had taken "security and legal" precautions to make sure that Yurchenko did not leave the country. He said Yurchenko had entered the United States under special authority granted by the attorney general and that even if the Russian held a Soviet diplomatic passport it would not be valid for travel out of the country.

Illegal alien to keep lottery money

SAN JOSE, Calif. - An illegal alien from Mexico who won $2 million in the California Lottery will be able to collect his winnings, but he'll have to leave the country or risk deportation, officials said

Jose Gaballero, 24, said he told lottery officials he was in the country illegally before he spun the wheel for the top prize on Monday in Los Angeles

"They said it was no problem," he said in Spanish after returning to San Jose, where he lives with relatives who are American citizens. "They said, 'You paid a dollar for that ticket. You got a winning number."

Lottery Director Mark Michalko said Caballero will be awarded full installments of his prize - $100,000 a year for 20 years - less withholding for federal income tax.

PEOPLE

Ferraro receives challenger's letter

NEW YORK - There's at least one New Yorker who won't answer a letter seeking contributions to U.S. Sen. Alfonse D'Amato's reelection campaign - potential challenger Geraldine Ferraro.

A mass mailing from D'Amato arrived at Ferraro's Queens home on Monday, asking her to contribute "whatever you can afford" to the senator's campaign.

But Ferraro, who rose to national prominence as a vice presidential candidate last year and has been mentioned as a Democratic challenger to D'Amato, won't be kicking in to the freshman senator's campaign chest, one of her aides said.

Prince Charles loses bet on horse

Melbourne, Australia - Prince Charles showed promising punter instincts Tuesday when he narrowly lost a bet to a seven-year-old gelding named "What A Nuisance" at the Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest annual sporting event.

A brewery company's sponsorship made it the first $1 million ($700,000 U.S. dollars) horse race in the South Pacific.

The prince of Wales' undisclosed wager was on Koiro Corrie May carrying odds of 10 to 1. What A Nuisance, running at 15 to 1 odds, won by a short neck in the field of 23 horses.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a

CPR SATURDAY PRE-REGISTRATION continues through today at Lafene Student Health Center for the training sessions on Saturday.

TODAY

ALPHA GAMMA EPSILON meets at 6 p.m. in

RACQUETBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in FENIX meets from 2 to 3 p.m. in Holton 4.

ASHRAE meets at 8 p.m. in Durland 173 to hear onsulting engineer Bill Bassette speak. SAILING CLUB meets at 5 p.m. in Calvin 102.

CORPS-INTERNATIONAL

AGRICULTURE meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 203 to see the Peace Corps film, "The Toughest Job You'll Ever Love." The group also will conduct interviews today and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Holtz Hall.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD meets at 3:30 p.m. in Union 206.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETUNING TO

TOMORROW

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

NAVIGATORS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS AC-TIVES meet at 7:30 p.m. Alpha Tau Omega house. Pledges meet at 8 p.m. at the ATO house.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 137. The executive committee meets at SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 202. CHRISTIAN STUDENT FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union

SIGMA DELTA PI meets at 4 p.m. in the Minorities Research Center on the fourth floor of Farrell Library.

Change in ownership closes Aggieville bars

By The Collegian Staff

Two Aggieville drinking establishments were closed Tuesday night pending a change in ownership and issuance of new licenses.

The two businesses, Mr. K's, 710 N. Manhattan Ave., and Kite's Bar and Grille, 619 N. 12th St., previously owned by Mike Kuhn, were both sold to Mike Larimore.

Larimore also owns two other Aggieville businesses, Aggie Station, 1115 Moro St., and Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon, 1213 Moro St. "We plan on being open for business as usual (Wednesday) mor-

HUNAM Restourant

ning," said Dave Aycock, manager of Kite's. He said the business was closed Tuesday night to "just (take care of) some procedural things we have to do."

Aycock said Kite's Tuesday night closing was to allow the new owner to obtain a new license and conduct an inventory.

"We're closing not (permanently)," Aycock said. Everybody just gets a night off."

Rusty Wilson, manager of Mr. K's, said the business was closed Tuesday night, but added "we should be open (Wednesday) morning."

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 Moro

CTI

FREE DELIVERY

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

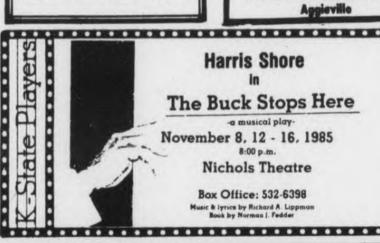

1304 Westloop 539-8888 or 537-0886 LAFENE STUDENT

> HEALTH CENTER

532-6544 "Your Medical Facility"

FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

M.J. Himmel®

Presents Jubilee in celebration of the 50th anniversary

"The Love Lives On" An Excellent Gift Idea

Poyntz Avenue at Fifth Ph. 776-9067

1227 Moro Street Ph. 539-1891

MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502

Dairy Queen Royal Treat Weekly Specials Mon. to Fri. 1 p.m.-5 p.m. THIS WEEK Banana Split 99¢

12th and Moro in Aggieville

1015 N. 3rd

Decorative Arrangements

Wedding Bouquets, flowers

Special Occasion Gifts

Custom design your own floral accent pieces for that special occasion or to coordinate with your decor. Choose your favorites from a wide selection of floral varieties and colors...and our professional staff will arrange them in your own container or in one of our decorative vases. We'll do the arranging FREE! All you pay for are the materials.

Largest selection of Craft Ribbon in the Manhattan areal

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m.

Sat. 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Sun. 1-5 p.m.

Westloop Shopping Center

Manhattan

College prepares educators

By The Collegian Staff

Defining "education" is no easy matter. Nor is the task of preparing students for teaching positions

But the College of Education succeeds in coordinating outstanding undergraduate, graduate and doctoral programs for students pursuing academic excellence, said David Byrne, dean of the College of Education.

"The undergraduate level teacher education program at K-State is the most comprehensive in the state," Byrne said. "In preparing to get people in employment positions" the college is successful because it has a comprehensive teaching program that is historically significant.

Twenty-five percent of the elementary, secondary, occupational and vocational teachers entering Kansas schools each year are graduates of K-State. The college annually awards an average of 400 undergraduate, 250 master's and 60 doctoral degrees.

Byrne attributed the success of education college graduates to superior advising from faculty that have had careers in public schools. Advising is crucial to education students because they must be liscensed and certified to meet college and state requirements, he

At the graduate level, the "reading faculty" in the college is ranked eighth nationally in reviewing journal articles before publication, Byrne said.

The recent implementation of a doctorate of education degree program, aimed at individuals aspiring for a career in the education profession, adds a dimension to the doctoral program.

To supplement the work of its instructional and research programs, the college also coordinates an extensive network of educational programs and services for the state.

This is the fifth in an eight part series highlighting each of the University's colleges and some of the programs in that college. Thursday, the College of Engineering will be

Spacesuit glove design team in Florida for shuttle launch

By SHERRI HAGER Collegian Reporter

Nine months of dedication and hard work paid off for some students and faculty when they watched the Space Shuttle Challenger launch Wednesday.

The five students and four faculty won an all-expense paid trip to Orlando, Fla., for receiving first place in a spacesuit glove design team competition sponsored by NASA and the American Society of Engineering Education.

"We were supposed to get a better view of the shuttle from our area than the press did," said Elizabeth McCullough, associate professor of clothing textile science and one of the four team advisers. "It went off at noon as planned, and we were lucky (it took off on schedule) as clouds were coming in because of Hurricane Juan. When the shuttle went up it looked like a star."

During the summer of 1984, four faculty members submitted a grant proposal to redesign the spacesuit glove as part of the contest.

*gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

A longstanding legend

48 days left

8 Fridays left

8 Saturdays left

Don't miss out on a tradition!

A Perfect

Birthday Gift

See us for balloons and

WE DELIVER

Balloon Boutique

539-9949

*contraception

*free pregnancy tests

*alternatives counseling

*outpatient abortion services

comprehensive associates

111 3rd St.

vited to submit grant proposals. Three universities in addition to K-State were chosen to submit entries: the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla., and Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass.

Each of the four teams was given $30,000 to develop a design for a glove that could handle an increased pressure load while maintaining or improving manual dexterity. The glove was one that could be used in extra-vehicular activity with suits pressurized to 8 pounds per square inch. Space suits are currently pressurized to 3.5 pounds per square

"We came out with the best proposal for two reasons," said Stephan Konz, professor of industrial engineering. "We had better people assigned to the project and better organization of our people.

"We picked only top students for this project and we had a very systematic, organized approach. We met every week, continuously for

YOU

Can Be An

Air Force Officer

532-6600

nine months," Konz said.

Team members were Kim Ellis. senior in textile sciences; Jon Held, graduate student in mechanical engineering; Janice Huck, graduate in functional apparel design; Nesby Bolden, former graduate student in industrial engineering; and Carlyn Solomon, former student in industrial engineering.

Faculty advisers in addition to associate professor of mechanical engineering.

in Orlando, McCullough said.

'The entire group had a VIP tour of the Kennedy Space Center, which involved going to a launch simulation and seeing the new movie 'The

The film was made primarily by the astronauts while they were in space, McCullough said. The second day of the trip the team

A crystal evening

Thursday, November 7,

8:00 p.m.

Performed by Beverly Sills' New York City Opera National

Tickets and information:

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Konz and McCullough were George Eggeman, assistant of mechanical engineering, and Byron Jones,

The K-State team joined an educational conference their first full day Dream is Alive," McCullough said.

heard a speech by a NASA astronaut.

Democrats sweep off-year contests

By The Associated Press

Gerald L. Baliles was elected governor of Virginia on Tuesday, keying a historic Democratic sweep that gave the Old Dominion its first black and first woman in statewide

Also New Jersey Republican Gov. Thomas Kean romped to re-election by a landslide in the nation's other featured off-year contest.

In municipal balloting, Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire took a slender lead in a tough re-election campaign in which AIDS was an issue. Six-term Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre, running against 10 early returns.

Democratic Mayors Ed Koch in New York and Richard Caliguiri in Pittsburgh swept to third terms. Detroit's Coleman Young was heavily favored to win a fourth.

Cleveland's GOP Mayor George Voinovich won a new term, while the first black mayor of Charlotte, N.C., Democrat Harvey Gantt, was reelected, as well. In Louisville, Ky., Democrat Jerry Abramson was elected mayor for the first time.

Kean, elected in New Jersey by the narrowest of margins four years ago, was leading in every county over Democrat Peter Shapiro. The gover-rivals, slipped into second place in nor was hoping for a victory with enough coattails to install a new Republican majority in the Jersey State Assembly,

Whitmire, completing her second term as Houston's mayor, held a narrow lead over 55-year-old Louis Welch, a former five-term mayor who made AIDS a campaign issue. Welch, speaking into what he thought was a closed microphone, joked before one scheduled television interview that one way to rid the city of the disease was to "shoot the queers.'

In Miami's hard-fought city hall race, Ferre trailed Cuban-born Raul

Hispanic poet to present program

By MARK McDERMET Collegian Reporter

Award-winning poet Leroy Quintana will read selections of his poetry at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Union

The Ethnic Studies Program. Minorities Resource/Research Center and MEChA are sponsoring the visit.

His works include "Hijo del Pueblo: New Mexico Poems," "Sangre," and "Interrogations, A Vietnam Memoir." Quintana was winner of the 1982 American Book Award in Poetry for "Sangre." "Hijo" and "Sangre" draw on his experiences growing up in New Mexico, focusing on his family life and experiences in the village where he lived.

"He focuses on Hispanic and Native American world views concerning values, attitudes and folk talks," said Doug Benson, associate professor of modern languages.

Quintana's book "Interrogations" is based on his stay in Vietnam. "It is a combination of the most gentle compassion for mankind with

It gives excruciating insights into the terrible effects of war on man. concerning both the American soldier and the Vietnamese, Benson

Quintana is included with other authors in the anthology "Five Poets of Atzlan," which also includes some New Mexican experiences along with his stay in Vietnam, Benson said.

Quintana has a master's degree in English literature from New Mexico State University. He also has a master's degree in counseling from New Mexico Western University.

KSU-AFROTC

GRAND OPENING WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

 Buy 10 sessions and receive ½ hour hot tub session free, to be used by Nov. 17

Register to win

Grand prize of an evening for two including chauffered limosine, dinner for two at Bockers II, and a hot tub session for two at MareYeSol.

2nd prize-10 free tanning sessions • 3rd prize-1 hour hot tub session

$2.00 tanning sessions all week

776-7874 1214C Moro

Mon.-Fri. 9-9 Sat. 9-6 Sun. Noon-9

Company

MasterCard/Visa accepted.

Introducing 3 new stylists

a subtle and very penetrating irony,"

EXPIRES DEC. 2, 1985

Save 50% with this ad on haircuts & perms. HURRY while offer lasts!

(1) ld Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

Hundreds of new & used textbooks

Various fields of study

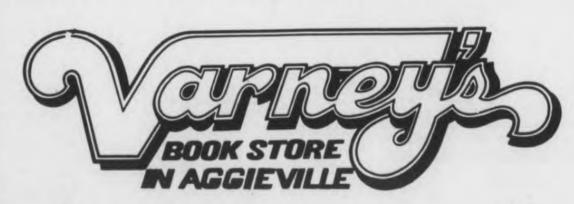

Some previously used at K-State

Some from other universities

Old editions

Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

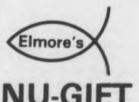

9.9 MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN.

A Free Gift

is yours to treasure as one of your wedding keepsakes from Elmore's Nu-Gift when you use our

Complete Bridal Registry

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Counseling helps abused

are often terrified into silence. the University and city are making an effort to help people who have been abused to deal with their problems.

On campus there are several programs offered through the Women's Resource Center, the Counseling Center and Lafene Mental Health Service. In addition, the FONE Crisis Center has phone lines open to listen to any problems.

In the city, the Social and Rehabilitation Service and the Victim Assistance Unit of Riley County Community Corrections are set up to help victims of sexual abuse.

Sandra Stith, instructor in the department of human development and family studies, has defined sexual abuse as occurring when a person is manipulated, tricked or forced into touch or sexual contact.

An effort to enhance awareness of children about sexual abuse is being made by the city through a newly initiated program called "Happy Bear." Happy Bear and his assistant help children understand what is good and bad touch, as well as helping them

While victims of sexual abuse understand that they have a right to say "No."

> Sexual abuse is a problem that cannot be ignored. Statistics prove people who were sexually abused as children and did not receive help in dealing with the experience are more likely as an adult to live in a home where children are sexually abused.

> Although sexual abuse is a terrible problem, there are preventative steps being taken now to ensure the safety of the children in the future.

> The "Happy Bear" program, where school children are taught the difference between good and bad touch, is one step toward prevention.

Adult victims of sexual abuse should be encouraged to visit the centers on campus and in the city to help them with problems they may have dealing with sexual abuse of any form.

Sexual abuse is an unfortunate problem that can be tackled through awareness and acceptance by the campus and community. The programs designed to help victims of abuse are a neccessity and of help to all.

> LeAnne Stowe, for the editorial board

A cheap road to 'America the beautiful'

It is one thing to be hypocritical. It is something else to be nakedly hypocritical. It is something else again to be proud of standing forth in naked hypocrisy. Yet President Reagan managed this doubly paradoxical feat when he sneeringly dismissed the World Court's jurisdiction to judge Nicaragua's charge that we have been violating international law. Our government has been underwriting and directing military action and terrorism to overthrow the elected government of that country.

Reagan judges it to be necessary to run away from the Court "to protect our vital interests." The verdict is practically a foregone conclusion, Reagan knows, not because the Court is controlled by Cuba and its allies (in fact the overwhelming majority of judges come from countries with which we have deep and lasting alliances) but because the evidence the Harvard Law Faculty team is going to present on behalf of Nicaragua is simply overwhelming.

Yet it would be a mistake to suppose that he is blowing snot on the Court in some desparate attempt to avoid an "internationally embarrassing incident." Reagan is perfectly happy to make it clear to the world that we have not the least regard for principle, but intend to act as the power he commands allows and the interests he serves re-

The Great Communicator is trying to deceive the other of the primary audiences with which he has to contend - the North American people. On this side his move is an hysterical effort in damage control. And here, sad to say, he has history on his side ironically because we are so pitifully innocent of our own history, a condition that in turn is strongly rooted in yet another irony. For it is our national conscience itself that, in collaboration with our laziness or cowardliness, leads us, however uneasily, to swallow lies.

Reagan fears to see our sense of decency

BAKER Guest Columnist activated by a widely reported verdict of the World Court, seriously assessed in the country's media. His dismissal of the Court is moved by the same considerations behind his earlier insistence that the war of terror against Nicaragua be conducted as a "covert themselves into callous monstrosities. Unfortunately, there are two ways in which people may maintain a morally flattering image of themselves. One is to require their conduct to conform to their principles. The other is to distort their image of their conduct. Drunks, wife-beaters and other neurotics have invented all sorts of psychological strategies for not letting the right hand know what the left hand has been action." If the American people are ever induced to see what is being wrought in their name, they will puke with disgust because their image of themselves excludes turning

LYMAN

Representative government makes it even easier - or, put the other way around, confronts its citizens with an even greater challenge to their required maturity. Think of your conduct not as yours but as that of some people appointed by your agents. Then let your employees serve up a menu of comfortable misrepresentations of their service on your behalf. The uglier the conduct - and the more strained the tissue of fictions cooked up to obscure it - the intenser the appetite to take in, and be taken in by, the lies. Even from what trickles through the mainstream media here one can get a nasty whiff of what the verdict of the World Court is likely to be. Because of this, many are eager for even such a flimsy excuse as Reagan offers them (and the press) for not taking a sustained and hard look at the detailed and systematic evidence the Court is attending to and at whatever it publishes as the basis for the finding it eventually reaches. Reagan is betting on the regretable fact that as a people we have always had a gift for fending off unpleasant reminders of what the people we accept as our representatives are really up to on our behalf.

Indeed, we have powerful motives for doing so. Otherwise we might have to confront - like genuine adults, like (say) responsible citizens of a self-declared democracy - a somewhat unpleasant alternative.

Either we really are the sort of people who define our interests in such a way that these interests "compel us" to subvert democracy, frustrate justice, flout what we have publicly agreed shall be the law unless some countervailing power prevents our appeasement and act with the unmitigated meanness of our treatment of the common people of Nicaragua (as of El Salvador, as, to this day, of Vietnam) or we have been naively or supinely snoring away while "our" representatives in foreign policy pursue interests that belong to somebody other than ourselves.

The latter is certainly degrading, but infinitely less degrading than persisting in it a moment longer. For it is not just the campesinos of Guatemala or the working folk of the Philippines or the people of Nicaragua that Reagan (with his predecessors) holds in contempt. It is the great majority of the American people as well. The only question for us is: How long will that contempt continue to remain

Editor's note: Lyman Baker is an instructor in the Depart-

Disarmament: key issue

Continuing rhetoric about the Strategic Defense Initiative, better known as "Star Wars" defense, is causing confusion over a sensitive and vital issue nuclear disarmament.

In his latest statement on SDI, President Reagan said if the United States develops a nucleardefense shield, the technology would not be deployed until existing U.S. nuclear offensive weapons are dismantled. In addition, Reagan said SDI technology would be shared with all other nations of the world including the Soviet Union.

And the prattle continues.

First of all, the Soviet Union is unlikely to discuss disarmament at the upcoming Geneva summit if Reagan continues to dwell on further development of nuclear technology, be it offensive or defensive. Soviet leaders will not accept the philosophy that a defensive shield must be deployed to prevent use of nuclear weaponry which is supposedly obsolete.

Whether the defensive shield will actually render nuclear warheads obsolete cannot be proved without the event of a firststrike. Therefore, the reasoning of the administration presents a dangerous paradox. It appears Reagan is trying to tantalize the Soviets with promises of disarmament while simultaneously developing a system to guard against the very arsenals which are supposed to be dismantled.

Few nations are going to buy the president's offer. Who will believe that one of the world's superpowers will spend billions of dollars developing technology which scientists say may not be feasible - and automatically get rid of a nuclear arsenal on which the United States has already spent billions of dollars?

At the Geneva summit, Reagan must negotiate logically and realistically with the Soviet Union. Hypothetical suggestions of safety for all nations under technology which is as of yet only an idea will not bring about action from the Soviets. If the United States wants the Soviet Union to disarm, then the United States must disarm also - and just talking about disarming will prove nothing.

If the world's superpowers do away with their nuclear arsenals, Star Wars will be unnecessary. To deploy SDI would be like two knights wearing armor to battle without carrying their swords. And it's the battle itself the United States wants to avoid.

Lillian Zier, for the editorial board

K-Hill shows disrespect for earth

Re: Jill Hummels' article, "'KS' letters get yearly wash up," in the Oct. 28 Collegian: There is a great deal for us to be proud of as members of the University community and the state of Kansas. Expressions of this pride and enthusiasm are most always welcome. Unless, of course, these expressions harm people, deface the land or destroy property. Such is the case of the

"KS" letters atop K-Hill. The "KS" letters, built and maintained by Tau Beta Pi. the engineering honor society, are graffiti on the countryside landscape. If a student were to spray paint "KSU" or carve

"GO WILDCATS" on a campus building, a reprimand and disciplinary action would be in order. In the same way that we do not permit graffiti on our buildings, we should not permit graffiti on the earth.

The "KS" letters, visible from many parts of town, are a constant reminder of our society's disrespect for the land. Appropriate, constructive avenues for Tau Beta Pi to express pride should be sought. The first project I would suggest is the removal of the "KS" letters from K-Hill.

William Sullivan assistant professor of environmental design

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed.

Decision correct

Re: Tad Schroeder's letter to the editor, "Bomb threats on campus should be taken seriously," in the Nov. 5 Collegian:

I am the "grader" you are referring to. Contrary to your opinion, I did not "blow off" the bomb scare. I made a decision that was not easy to make because there were many factors to weigh.

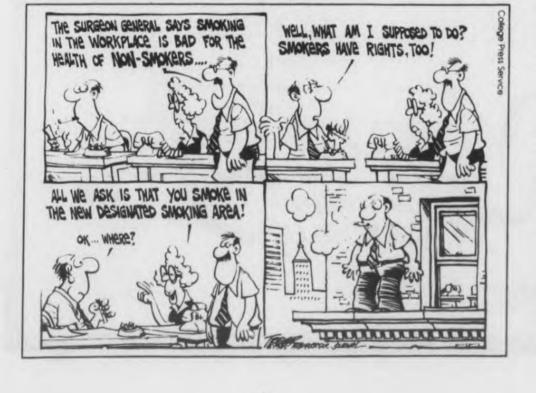

Two Kansas Bureau of Investigation agents came into the room at separate times to tell me about this bomb scare. I asked the first one if it would be all right for the students to finish their tests. After the test, I would have dismissed the class in an orderly manner. The KBI agent said this action would be fine. The bomb was not scheduled to go off right away. Remember, I was also in the building and I also could have been blown up.

We have had several bomb scares at K-State. I'm not trying to say we shouldn't pay attention to these threats, but considering mass panic, the amount of time we had to get out of the building and the fact that people were still finishing the test, I believe I made the best decision.

I really resent the implications in your letter that I was not responsible, and that I might "blow off" a written bomb threat. It makes me angry because you were not aware of all the variables that I had to consider in making my decision.

To you, the situation was poorly handled. I agree. If we had a chance to complete the situation as I wanted to do it, everyone would have finished the test and left the building in a calm, orderly manner.

Pat McIntyre graduate in psychology

Editorial fails to present two sides

Re: Rich Harris' editorial, "Students laugh at speaker," in the Nov. 4 Collegian: In Reporting 1 I learned how to write the facts down and let the reader draw the conclusion. If your editorial about the Garden City students was a good example of editorial writing then this principle should be totally ignored. I'll keep this in mind as I write this

In your editorial you stated that 75 percent of the students in the Garden City area drink regularly. I would like to know where in the survey it states that these students get drunk every time they drink. I drink about every Friday and Saturday night, yet I've only been legally drunk maybe twice since school started. But then again maybe college students are more level-headed and mature, or at least we like to think so.

I would also like to know where in this survey it says everyone who drinks runs out to their car and starts cruising for victims. I work in a bar where at least 95 percent of the clientele drink. That's about 190 people. Less than 20 percent even get drunk, which is less than 40 people. Maybe five actually drive in that state. I'll be the first to admit that that five is too many, but it's nowhere near 190. These are just rough estimates, but I figure if you can make up your facts so can I. Just because people drink doesn't mean they get drunk and drive.

I don't know about the rest of this campus, but I've heckled speakers before, and they weren't talking about drinking and driving, they were talking about where one goes when one does and screws up. Anyone who has seen some of the speakers outside the Union has probably done the same thing.

The minute someone trys to tell me something in the wrong way is the second I stop listening. Until I hear this Iowa police officer, I will have to give the students the benefit of the doubt.

In the future when you write editorials I hope you are more intelligent on the subject and present both sides. Now I'll give you the benefit of the doubt and assume you know more than you conveyed in the story. If this is the case, I wish you luck in finding a job in the real world.

Stuart Scott senior in journalism and mass communications

Wind provides alternative source of energy

By TOM SCHULTES Business Editor

With the recent focus in Kansas toward nuclear-generated energy and consumer costs, and the simultaneous reduction of funding for research in alternative energies, the future of alternative energy sources may be forgotten.

But wind, the nemesis of bicyclers but savior to kite-flyers, is one possible alternative source of energy that may be experiencing a resurgence in utilization.

Not many years ago, one could drive throughout the state and see the rotors and vanes turning, drawing water for the homestead or sending electrical currents to a row of heavy-duty, lead-acid storage battorics.

teries.

But while these traditional, slow-speed windmills may have been acceptable for drawing water or grinding grain, increased speeds and effeciency were necessary to produce adequate power to be cost-efficient.

As a result of that search for increased effeciency came the development of the modern wind generator.

Gary Johnson, associate professor of electrical and computer engineering, and author of the textbook
"Wind Energy Systems," said there
"(Kansas) coupower we would not be needed.

has been "quite a bit of activity" in wind-power research in the past 10 years.

Kansas has a good wind resource, Johnson said, but utility companies would not be the ones to install wind generators. However, he said, individuals are installing wind turbines to reduce energy costs.

'Wind power has a good future. The next generation after Wolf Creek will probably be wind power.'

- Gary Johnson associate professor

One factor in designing the wind generator is the location's availability of high-velocity winds that, while they may be less frequent than lower-velocity winds, also carry most of the available power. Thus, the best possible system design would be capable of catching the widest possible range of wind speeds.

"(Kansas) could generate all the power we would need for the nation," Johnson said, but noted regulations

Johnson said the state needs to take action to determine how much power needed from the wind, determine where wind turbines would be lcated, and establish a permit system, such as the one used for off-shore oil drilling.

If everyone were allowed to build a generating system, Johnson said, the state could produce "10 times more power than we could ever use."

Physicist Y.H. Pao, chairman and chief executive officer of FloWind Corporation of Kent, Wash., in an article in the June issue of Discover magazine, said he sees an "eggbeater" styled wind-generator system as the best system. Pao noted it can be used any time the wind speed is more than 12 miles per hour, and can produce power for 5.4 cents per kilo-watt hour, based on a "conservative" life span of 15 years for the system.

Although Chicago is referred to as the "Windy City," the annual mean wind-speed for Topeka is identical, at 11.2 mph, and Wichita's even higher at 13.70, which would meet the "egg-beater's" requirement.

And if Pao's predictions hold true, the cost of generating electicity by the wind generator would be comparable to current utility rates.

A spokeswoman for the Manhattan office of the KPL Gas Service Company said the current price for electricity is 5.3 cents per kilowatt hour for a house using natural gas for heating.

According to a 1977 study conducted by the Wind Energy Mission Analysis by General Electric, wind could provide a trillion kilowatthours of electricity annually, or 13.6 percent of the demand then projected for the year 2000.

The same study said such a project would require the construction of some 900,000 wind-generators throughout the nation.

Although the traditional windmill may be common to Kansas, the most intense development toward large-scale wind generator usage is taking place in California, where approximately 4,000 wind turbines fill the Altamont Pass east of San Francisco, with more expected in the near future

Johnson said large-scale windfarms could be in Kansas in five years, which could be in the business of selling wind-power as a commodity.

But the development of urban wind generators for private or commercial use has not been without opposition, including utility companies and residents in areas where generators are being erected.

re being erected.

Among reasons given for opposition is the visible impact of towers in areas of residential development, noise caused by the system's blades, radio and television interference caused by metal blades — which has promoted the use of wood and fiberglass for generator blades — and lost revenues for utility companies.

Don Berges, code inspector for Manhattan, said that while his office knew of no wind generators in the city, there were no regulations prohibiting them.

Johnson said he tries to discourage people from erecting windgenerators in city limits, due to windblockage from surrounding structures as well as "zoning hassles."

Berges said if the tower met the maximum height limits and set-back requirements for the zone in which they were to be located, they would be allowed. He also said noise regulations would be under the authority of the Riley County Police Department.

But strange as it may seem, the law case most beneficial to windgenerator owners came not from the Plains states, nor California, but from downtown New York City.

In what has been called a landmark case for self-sufficiency, tenant-owners of a New York apartment house had installed a small wind generator to collector pumps for their rooftop solar collector system — a move that caught the attention of their local utility, Consolidated Edison.

When the tenants requested the generator be hooked-up to Con Ed power lines, the utility refused. But in a decision affecting generating systems owners throughout the nation, the New York State Public Service Commission ruled the utility not only had to allow the connection, but also had to pay "a fair price" for any excess energy created by the tenant's system that went back into Regionally, Johnson said, utility companies are "fairly easy to get along with, but the buy-back rate is low," which he attributed to the cheap price of coal.

"Wind power has a good future," Johnson said. "The next generation after Wolf Creek (nuclear power plant) will probably be wind power,"

Johnson said.

"It's not a trivial thing to the future of Kansas...(it's) an important part of things for the next 15 years," he said.

Special seasoned ground beef, crisp lettuce, sliced tomatoes, cheese, served on a steamed bun.

Wed. Nov. 6-Sat. Nov. 9

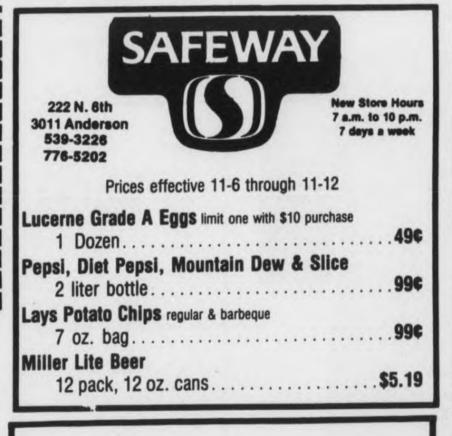

Make Travel
Reservations Today!
...before Prices are Higher Tomorrow
CREATIVE
TRAVEL

Kansas City. Washington. $178.00
Kansas City. Miami...$198.00
Kansas City. New York...$198.00
Kansas City. Orlando...$198.00
Kansas City. Los Angeles...$218.00
Kansas City. Los Angeles...$218.00
Kansas City. Los Angeles...$218.00
Kansas City. London...$514.00
All fares are round trip and are subject to change. Some restrictions apply.

Creative
TRAVEL

539-0531

Village Plaza
Shopping Center
3017 Anderson
Manhattan. KS

Come see us for the largest selection of new and late model used Cars and Trucks in the Manhattan area.

WE ALSO HAVE

- A Used Budget Lot
- Rental Cars and Trucks
   A Body Shop
- A Parts and Service Center

776-4004 123 S. 2nd

776-4004 123 S. 2nd Sales Hours M-F 9-7 S 9-5

BOCKERS TWO BOCKER

By JONIE R. TRUED Collegian Reporter

The first reading of an ordinance to rezone a tract of land for a neighborhood shopping district southeast of the intersection of Knox Lane and Casement Road was rejected by Manhattan City Commissioners Tuesday night.

It was the fourth rezoning request for the property. The request was made by Ruth Schrumm and Mary Meinhart, represented by Manhattan developer Russel Weisbender.

"We don't need a small commercial area in every residential area of town," said Commissioner Dave

"A no means a no after the third or fourth time," he said.

Fiser was joined by all other commission members voting to return the ordinance to the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board.

In giving reasons for the rejection, commissioner's cited safety concerns for children in the neighborhood, increased traffic volume to the neighborhood and the possible decrease in land values for surrounding properties

Residents of the neighborhood supported the commission by appearing with a petition signed by 497 neighborhood residents, with 471 residents against the proposal and 26 in favor of the rezoning.

A spokesman for the neighborhood residents said concern for the safety of neighborhood children was the reason 461 residents signed against the commercialization.

Neighborhood-concept shopping districts allow businesses such as convenience stores, package liquor stores, food stores, and apparel and beauty shops.

The commission also rejected a proposal from local real estate agent and Charles F. Williams.

Alfred Balloqui, of Little Apple Realty, 1510 Poyntz Ave., to amend the text of the zoning ordinance requiring the minimum size of a residential planned development unit to be one-

Balloqui proposed the one-half acre requirement be reduced to 10,000 square feet. He said by reducing the requirement, the commission would be taking the "opportunity to address innovative and imaginative ideas for the redevelopment of older Manhattan.

In proclamations, Mayor Suzanne Lindamood declared November to be Diabetes Awareness Month and Nov. 14 to be Operating Room Nurse Day.

Seven city employees were recognized with 10-year service awards at the meeting. Recipients were Mary E. Davenport, Delmar Fairchild, Dennis George, Wilmer Jensen, Jerry Petty, Gary Sutton

Banker studies farm credit system

By ALICE KUNSHEK and RANAE YOUNG Collegian Reporters

Tremendous overspending by the U.S. Congress is the main reason for farmers' problems today, said Dave Woolfolk, president of the Manhattan Federal Land Bank Association.

Woolfolk addressed the K-State chapter of the Block & Bridle Club on the farm credit system Tuesday.

Government overspending put pressure on the money markets, causing the cost money to stay high, he said.

"This caused inflation during the time we were spending more money than we were taking in," Woolfolk said. "It also created an inbalance in trade and created a strengthening in the dollar, making it difficult to export our agricultural products."

"I believe in the duck theory of management," Woolfolk said.

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

50¢ Cover

for guys

$1.75 Pitchers

$1.00 Coolers

Halloween Party Pics are in duck purchased at former Dean of Animal Science Arthur "Dad" Weber's estate sale.

Woolfolk's management theory is "here comes the duck, here is the duck and there goes the duck." He uses the theory to analyze the problems of the farm credit system.

In 1982, Woolfolk was called into a meeting by a land bank official who said, "we're going to have a train wreck in agriculture and you guys have the best seats in town to watch it. He didn't tell us we were going to be in the caboose," he said.

"It's been a crisis in the credit system ever since," he said. Thus the agriculture problem is before the

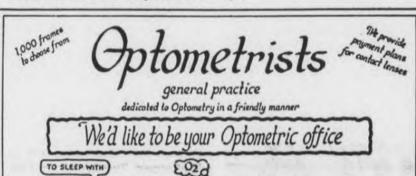

"The real facts are farm prices are low, caused by a change in the world economy," he said.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s the

His theory is based on a wooden inflation rate was increasing faster than the interest rate. Farmers borrowed money at 10 percent and the inflation rate was 12 percent. It was profitable for farmers to borrow money, but when the inflation rate began to decline, farmers lost

> 'We were optimistic, we were gullible, maybe we're too gullible today, because if we were so optimistic then we're so pessimistic now. I think that we may be a bit pessimistic in agriculture today.

"We have assumed President Reagan's going to balance the budget. I think farm people may have assumed that forever we will not have inflation and started making decisions on that basis...as a result we stopped buying things on the farm and it escalated the problems that we have in agriculture to-

 Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.

All types of J.D.A. approved contacts.

• Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock.

· Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting. Drs Price, Young and Odle

free door side parking

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan 537-1118

Bushwackers is going back in time on Wednesdays. Come experience the sights and sounds of the 50's, 60's and 70's. Bring back the memories with the good time rock 'n' roll you grew up with. Enjoy the prices of yesteryear.

$1.00 WELL $1.00 WINE 80¢ DRAWS

If you like Checquers, you'll like Bushwackers on Wednesday night. We're taking on new directions. Come and see where we're going!!

Researchers study cattle

Genetics cause limb defects

By SHELLY DICKEN Collegian Reporter

Limb deformities in cattle, once thought to be the result of nutritional problems, have now been linked to genetic defects, said Horst Leipold, professor of pathology.

The defects were once thought to occur when cows ate plants with dangerous toxins or from mineral deficiencies, Leipold said.

But through a series of intentional matings of cattle affected by deformities, Leipold and Rich Markham, graduate student in pathology, have concluded that angular limb deformities are genetically linked.

Frequent deformities include club knees or swollen knees, toedout hooves, toed-in hooves or askew limbs (crooked legs).

"We first started seeing these deformities in cattle several years ago on Kansas and Iowa dairy farms. Many of the deformed cattle have not come to people's attention because they are so crippled at birth that they are just disposed of," Leipold said.

"We saw several more (calves), all produced by the same sire, Leipold said. We bought some of these affected calves and brought them here to ARF (Animal Resources Facility).'

These animals were raised under controlled conditions such as good footing, soft soil and a lot of extra care, Markham said. Without these special conditions, it is unlikely the animals would have survived.

Deformities in cattle range from mildly affected to severely affected with angular limb deformi-

"The mildly affected cattle are really more important to our research and the cattle industry than the severely affected animals are," Markham said.

"The severely affected animals often don't survive, but the mildly affected cattle can survive. Often their deformities are just said to be caused by the mother stepping on the calf when it is born or something like that. The real problem isn't investigated," Markham said.

"The discovery that these defor-portant for the livestock industry in that it provides a service in making the right decision for breeding programs," Leipold said.

"There may be similar diseases in people, and one can make use of this information from the cattle experiments," Leipold said. "But our primary aim is to help in the health of cattle and the cattle industry."

For some time, Leipold has considered the possibility of the defects being caused by genetics.

"As you see something new you have to start from square one. At first you have what I call very soft evidence. You look at the possibility of a virus, a deficiency, at the environment and at maybe different times of development. These are the simple basic rules to start with," Leipold said.

Leipold examines the ancesural lines of the defected animal's mother and father to see if they reveal any common breeding in previous years. Often, Leipold said, a pattern begins to emerge and he can see possible causes of the defects such as inbreeding.

You'll take a fancy to our pastries

Indulge your discriminating sweet tooth with our simply irresistible pastries. Pamper your taste buds with some petits fours, devil dogs, Napoleons, cream puffs, or eclairs. Each and every one a delicious experience.

We use only the finest, freshest of ingredients!

Swanson's Bakery

225 Poyntz 776-4549

DON'T SLEEP THROUGH

Student Publications is now accepting applications for spring Collegian editor and advertising manager.

Applications may be picked up in Kedzie 103 and are due Friday, Nov. 8 at 4 p.m. in Kedzie 103.

Wildcat 😸 Special

Offer good: 6-10:30 a.m. Nov. 6-Nov. 12

Buy 1 Get 1 Free French Toast

Present coupon when ordering.

One special per coupon, please.

421 N. 3rd

3004 Anderson

Bachelor's graduation apparel for sale Nov. 1-Dec. 14 Includes cap, gown, tassel (and collar for women)

Price $13.97 including tax.

Mail orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height, weight, hat size, degree and $1.50 for postage and handling

Master, PHD, and faculty rentals will be taken at the supply fee will be added

Rental Prices: Cap/ Gown/ Tassel

$21.00°

* add 3 : sales tax Announcements

> Non-Personalized Personalized

$4.92 (pkg. of 10) includes tax

$20 18 (pkg. of 20) includes tax $31.05 (pkg. of 40) includes tax $40.37 (pkg. of 60) includes tax

Sports

'Husker spikers edge 'Cats in 4 games

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

K-State's volleyball team accomplished something that no other team has been able to do for more than a month. The Wildcats managed to take one game from the No. 5 team in the nation, the University of Nebraska, forcing Tuesday night's match to go four games.

The Wildcats lost the first two games 15-6 and 15-8. But the third game proved to be a different story. The 'Cats took the third game 15-4, which was the worst defeat of the season for the Cornhuskers.

closely fought, with the Cornhuskers taking a narrow victory of 16-14 to win the match in Ahearn Field

K-State Coach Scott Nelson said the turning point in the match occurred in the second and third games.

"We really didn't play bad in any game," Nelson said. "In the second game we really started to serve tough and started putting pressure on their passers. We gained our momentum in the second game and carried it over to the third game. Then in the third game we started snowballing. We took them out of

The fourth game of the match was their transition and totally dominated them.' Senior co-captain Donna Lee also noticed the change in momentum. "In the second game of the match we started to establish ourselves," Lee said. "In the third game we had nothing to lose. At the first of the match I would look across the net and Nebraska acted so confident. It was great looking across the net in the third and fourth games, because they were worried.' Before the match, Nelson said that in order to compete with Nebraska, the Wildcats would have to have one of their best serving and passing games of the year. And they did. Both the offense and defense of the Wildcats proved to be a thorn in the side of the 'Huskers.

Lee was the leading attacker for K-State with 21 kills. For the match, she only received three errors and attacked a total of 54 times. Her attacking percentage for the match was 33 percent.

"Donna Lee was the smallest player on the court and she went up against one of the biggest blocks of the year. She was in control," Nelson

See VOLLEYBALL, Page 8

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - What, everyone wants to know, happens to the University of Oklahoma's basketball team without Wayman Tisdale, the Big Eight's all-time scoring leader who passed up his senior year to turn professional?

"That's the most often asked question - Is there life after Wayman?" Coach Billy Tubbs said Sunday as he and other conference coaches gathered for the annual preseason press day.

"Yes, there is," he said. "But basketball is another story."

Tisdale, who scored 932 points last season and 2,661 in his threeyear career, indeed leaves a void in the Oklahoma basketball program, but the Sooners still figure to be a potent force.

'Hopefully, we're at the point now where we have great players going through our program who have to be replaced every year," Tubbs said. "This one just had to be replaced a year sooner than I would have like.

"Obviously, Wayman is a very unusual player to lose because he's very, very talented. But that's just a happening. The system survives and we continue to go on. But it's a big challenge for us, no question about that."

But Tubbs said he has his eye on a third consecutive Big Eight championship, although his team is picked second to the University of Kansas in the preseason poll by sports writers and broadcasters.

"I've been picked behind Kansas before," said Tubbs, whose Sooners were 31-8 last season. "That's nothing new. Two years ago I think we were picked se-

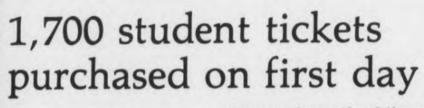

Kansas Coach Larry Brown expects his team will be better than last year, when the Jayhawks were 26-8.

"Whether our record will reflect that is a concern because we play such a fine schedule," said Brown, returning for a third year with the Jayhawks.

The Jayhawks' 6-foot-11-inch sophomore, Danny Manning, was the overwhelming preseason choice of writers and broadcasters as the likely player of the year in the conference, getting 23 votes to 11 for University of Nebraska center Dave Hoppen.

Manning, who with Tisdale's departure seems assured of being the most highly publicized Big Eight player, averaged 14.6 points a game as a freshman, and said he hopes to improve his reboun-

See BASKETBALL, Page 8

By The Collegian Staff

First-day sales for student season basketball tickets totalled 1,700 Monday, said Ticket Manager Carol Tickets sales, which began Monday afternoon at the east lobby of Ahearn Field House, were brisk. An additional 250 tickets were sold by mid-afternoon Tuesday at the Central Ticket Office in Ahearn Gymnasium. Student ticket sales last vear totalled 2,600.

"It's been pretty steady," Adolph said. "They're (the number of tickets sold) about what I thought they would be.' The 650 non-reserved student tickets have been sold out, Adolph said, as well as reserved seating on the east and west sides of Ahearn's basketball court. Plenty of tickets remain for the north and south (end court) bleachers. As many as 5,500 student tickets can be sold.

For the first time in several years, student ticket sales were on a firstcome, first-serve basis. Previously, tickets were sold by a lottery system.

"We didn't hear any of the students complain that they didn't like it," Adolph said of this year's procedure.

Adolph also said students with season basketball tickets may bring their fee card to the Ahearn ticket office beginning Monday, to receive their free ticket to the Nov. 30 game against the University of Southern Colorado. The game will be played during the University's Thanksgiving break and is not included in the student's season ticket.

block a spike by University of Nebraska player Annie Adamczak, in Tuesday

Staff/Peter Obetz K-State volleyball team members Helen Bundy and Mary Kinsey, attempt to night's game in Ahearn Field House. The Cornhuskers won the match 15-6, 15-8, 4-15 and 16-14.

GOODSON AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers Tanneau Covers Boat Covers Convertible Tops Vinyl Tops Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery

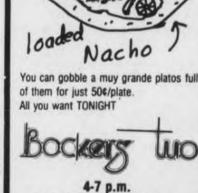

207 Poyntz

Budweiser

Manhattan, Kansas 66502 Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

Best Happy Hours in Town RAMADA

Body By Schliebe, Budweiser and KMKF-101+ Present

Manhattan's Most Physical Contest

Is a little sweat worth $500 cash to you?

Enter Body By Schliebe's Most Physical Contest. Competition will be held Nov. 12 and 14 starting at 9:30 p.m. at Bushwackers. The top 6 contestants each evening will compete in the Grand Finals Nov. 19. All entries must be at least 18 years of age and will receive One Month Free Membership to Body By Schliebe plus a T-shirt. Finalist Winners Will Receive

*1st Place — $500 cash and a one year membership to Body By Schliebe *2nd Place - $100 cash and a 6-month membership

*3rd Place - $50 cash and a 3-month membership You'll be put through a 45-minute work-out by an instructor. and at the same time you'll try to convince the entire club and judges that you are the most physical person in Manhattan.

Pre-register at Body By Schliebe or call 776-1750 for more information

Muslim Community Association invites you to: EVILS OF COMMUNISM

A. AHMADULLAH Former Minister of Interior of Afghanistan Place: Little Theatre, K-State Union Date: November 7, 1985 (Thursday)

Time: 6 p.m.

Everyone is Welcome

THESES. WE DEL

You've survived months of labor pains. And, you've produced a beautiful, healthy thesis. Now, breathe easy and let kinko's reproduce your brain-child with speed, efficiency and plenty of TLC.

50% Cotton Copies at 7¢ Free collation with this ad

1110 Laramie

537-7340

Copies · Reductions · Enlargements Passport Photos · Binding · And much more!

539-3830 BREAST CANCER

Let's Fight Back

usettos

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

We'll honor any

local pizza coupon!

happens to "other people"

Wrong. Breast cancer knows

no age barriers. Breast cancer

strikes women of all ages...all

LET'S FIGHT BACK

Memorial Hospital has scheduled a series of public meetings, the subject is breast cancer. These free WELLNESS meetings will deal with self exams, detection methods and encouraged.

procedure using x-rays to show abnormalities of the breast. During November, the Memorial Hospital radiology department will offer mammograms during extended evening hours. We wantyou to take advantage of this cancer education. Most of all,

mammograms will be

THE VALUE OF MAMMOGRAPHY A mammogram is a simple

Join one of our classes offered on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. November 5-13 or Saturday mornings at 10:00 a.m. November 9 and 16. Contact administration at 776-3300 to Care about yourself...don't be careless with your future.

Working together for a healthier you

National Radiology Week is November 4-10

Basketball

Continued from Page 7

ding and defense and stay out of foul trouble this year.

But he said his greatest enjoyment comes from passing. "Everybody on the court can shoot," he said. "It takes something different to be a good passer and assist man.'

Nebraska, picked third in the preseason poll, got into trouble last month when the university barred Coach Moe Iba and his assistants from practice for five days for practicing illegally before Oct. 15.

"It was an unfortunate thing," Iba said. "I hope it's behind us and we can go on and have a good basketball season.'

The Cornhuskers will again build around the 6-foot-11-inch Hoppen, who averaged 23.5 points as the team posted a 16-14 mark last season.

"But this year, we've got experienced players around Hoppen, where a year ago we didn't," Iba

Iowa State University's Johnny Orr, whose Cyclones breezed by Kansas in the Big Eight tournament last season and then lost by two points to Oklahoma in the championship game, said he has more depth this year than any time since he arrived in 1981 from the University of Michigan.

"We think this is our best chance since I've been here to make a run for the title," Orr said, adding that fan enthusiasm is at a high pitch after the team made the NCAA tournament last season for the first time in 41 years. The Cyclones must fill a scoring gap left by the graduation of Barry Stevens, second to Tisdale in Big Eight career scoring with 2,190 points. Orr said he expects a more balanced attack and points to Jeff Hornacek as "one of the greatest players I've ever coached.'

The University of Missouri's Norm Stewart said he could have the best group of freshmen since 1973 to go with a nucleus consisting of Jeff Strong, Derrick Chievous and Dan Bingenheimer.

Stewart, who said he may have been doing "a little too much coaching" the last couple of years, has switched to shorter practices and even occasional days off.

"Because of our inexperience, we can't do some things consistently, but we pick them up a little quicker,"

At the University of Colorado, Coach Tom Apke said the Buffaloes will be much more athletic this year, helped by recruiting and by a new weight training program.

"Our biggest problem a year ago was lack of athletic ability," he said. When we were playing well, we could play with anybody in the league. When we were just a little off, we weren't very competitive."

Paul Hansen of Oklahoma State University is trying to rebound from what he called his most frustrating

"I thought I had a fourth-place ballclub but I didn't develop it like I should have," said Hansen, whose Cowboys are picked to finish last agains this year. "There was no leadership.

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE - The University of Kansas wants to play the University of Louisville on national television in January, but the Jayhawks are the main entree of the University of Detroit's basketball schedule and the Titans have obtained a court decision to ensure their meal is served.

The flap has left Kansas officials surprised.

"They (Detroit officials) claim that we are the ham in their sandwich this year," said Gary Hunter, assistant athletic director at Kansas. "That we are the attractive game. They have built their whole season around us.'

Because of that, Detroit filed suit in Wayne County (Detroit) Circuit Court last August to prevent Kansas, which is expected to be among the top 10 teams in the nation, from dropping the Jan. 6 game against the Titans in Detroit.

Kansas officials had wanted to drop the game from this year's schedule and reschedule it next year in order to pick up a Jan. 25 game against the University of Louisville in Lawrence, NBC-TV had planned to televise the contest.

The Jayhawks already are at the National Collegiate Athletic Association scheduling limit, counting the Detroit game.

"I don't know why they have been so stubborn, particularly because we have offered to go up there next year," Hunter said.

The two teams played last year in

Lawrence, with the Jayhawks winning 86-64, under a contract signed in 1983 which called for a pay-back game this year in Detroit.

Hunter said Kansas had offered to pay Detroit the "amount of money that was in the contract, plus what their profits would have been."

Hunter said Detroit's unyielding position was surprising because game switching among colleges "is almost done routinely.

"Last year, we switched games to cover a couple of things," Hunter said. "Oklahoma had the opportunity to play Duke on national TV, so we took their game with South Alabama and we also moved the SMU game to Lawrence this year, instead of last year, so SMU could play on TV. Everyone else does this because you may need a favor in return."

Not Detroit. Late last month, Wayne County Circuit Judge Susan Borman made her ruling, which restrained Kansas from entering into a contract to play any other school unless or until it played Detroit, a member of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference.

Hunter said the ruling left the Jayhawks with four alternatives. "Go ahead and play Detroit and forget about Louisville. Forget

Detroit and Louisville," said Hunter. "The third alternative would be to appeal it (the ruling).

But, Hunter said, with Kansas beginning its season Nov. 22 with the National Invitational Tournament regional game in Denver against Pepperdine University, an appeal

Titans' actions surprise Jayhawks probably would not provide relief in

> The last option would be to ask someone outside the Big Eight Conference to reschedule their game so Kansas could play both Detroit and Louisville. But, Hunter said timing again prevented such a recourse.

Kansas would have have asked a non-conference team to reschedule a game earlier but its hands were tied by the courts, Hunter said.

Kansas is scheduled to make at least three regular-season appearances on either national cable or television. The Jayhawks' Dec. 7 game against North Carolina State University in Greensboro, N.C., will be televised by CBS-TV, while the University of Kentucky-Kansas game on Dec. 14 and the Kansas-University of Oklahoma matchup on Feb. 24 will be aired by ESPN.

WEDNESDAY AT

Volleyball

Sophomore Mary Kinsey also led the 'Cats' offense with 20 kills in 46 attempts and nine errors. She recorded an attacking percentage of

Again Nelson praised the quarterback of the Wildcat offense, Renee Whitney, for leading the offense on the court.

"Renee made our bad passes into great sets and our great passes into even better sets," Nelson said.

For the match the Wildcats as a team hit 28 percent, compared to 30 percent for the 'Huskers.

The 'Cats' defense proved to be a key factor in the third and fourth games as they held the 'Husker offensive attack to a zero percent attacking percentage in the third game and just 19 percent in the fourth.

Whitney said the Wildcats executed well in the serving, defensive and offensive areas of the game. "We had tough serving, which made it hard for them to run their offense," she said. "We just kept it on them at critical times. Our defense and transition games were tough. We were really in command.'

FRIDAY LAST DAY to get your Royal Purple picture taken. Step right up to UNION 209. Take your stamped fee

and 1:30-5:30

539-5229

The traffic in the town of Paris was murder.

Today at Forum Hall, 7:30 FREE ADMISSION

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Hours are 8:30-12:30

BECAUSE:

5 WELL & TROPICAL DRINKS 80c DRAWS, $1.00 WINE

2 FOR 1 ON BAR FOOD MUNCHIES

STATION GARB GIVEAWAYS

GREAT SOUNDS and HOT VIDEOS, too!

1115 MORO 776-0030

Continued from Page 7

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

SHOES SHINED AND CONDITIONED Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4

Open Thursdays to 8 Drive-Up Convenience 401 Humboldt, 776-1193

Chiropractors are more than bone doctors, they are nerve spacialists. Find out more call today.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractor 537-8305 1500 Poyntz Avenue

UPC

Wednesday, November 6, 1985

Nov. 9 & 10

two caves in central

Activities Center

Wk-state union

$28.00 for a weekend of underground fun, exploring Missouri. Sign up through noon today in the Union

CAVING

Myth, Fad, or Illness

Dr. C. A. Barnhill, from the Menninger Foundation speaking on eating disorders Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in Forum Hall.

k-state union upc issues & ideas

CROWN CENTER

December 7, 1985

What

happened is true.

Now the motion picture

Enjoy Christmas shopping at Kansas City's famous Country Club Plaza. The viewing of the Plaza Christmas lights has become a noliday tradition for many. Along with shopping, there are many excellent eating establishments at the Plaza. And, a major holiday attraction is the horse drawn carriage rides around the Plaza.

Pink Panther

Series

k-state union upc feature films THE PINK PANTHER,

Sat. Nov. 9 2pm Sun. Nov. 10 2&7pm matinee $1.50 evening

double feature

THE RETURN OF THE PINK PANTHE

$1.75 Mon. Nov.11 Tue. Nov.12 7pm

Tomorrow at Little Theatre, 3:30, and Forum Hall, 7:30, $1.75, Rated R, KSU I.D. required Friday at 7 & 9:30 in Forum Hall

Rated R,$1.75,KSU I.D. required

k-state union upc feature films

that's just as real!

UNPARALLELED TERROR

Friday & Saturday at Midnight in Forum Hall Rated R, $1.75, KSU I.D. required

k-state union

Photographer shows collection of works

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

"Facades," a collection of photographic portraits by Ron Hoffman, director of the media center in the College of Education, is being displayed in the north wing of McCain Auditorium.

The photographs, which will be displayed through Thursday, were taken and printed this year. Hoffman said this is his first exhibit since he became serious about photography in 1970.

He said it is important for him as a photographer to be well acquainted with his subjects for his photographs to be "true to the spirit of what they are as people."

Hoffman used black and white film and only natural lighting in his portraits. He takes pictures of people in their own environment because the environment reveals another aspect of the person, he said.

"Photography by its nature doesn't want to get below the surface," Hoffman said. The photographer is challenged to take pictures that show something real about the subject, he said.

Hoffman chose to call the exhibit "Facades" because he said people put up a front or "photo when they are being photographed.

"If the photographer is sensitive to it, rather than hiding a person, facades can be revealing - a revelation, not a covering, Hoffman said. The same principle was used in Greek tragedies when actors wore masks that expressed the true character of their part,

In general people don't realize how difficult good photography is, Hoffman said.

"Because it is an easy thing to look at, people assume it is easy to produce," Hoffman said. "If I'm lucky, after 20 rolls of film I'll have one picture that just seems

Polish TV program highlights protests

By The Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland - Polish television recently shocked viewers by showing Solidarity supporters outside Poland's U.N. mission in New York shouting "down with Jaruzelski" and carrying placards urging the visiting leader to "go back to Moscow."

The report did not translate the more caustic references to Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski as a "butcher." Viewers, however, did not need to knew English to understand the shouts of "Gestapo" or a placard equating a Communist hammer-andsickle with a Nazi swastika as Jaruzelski's motorcade arrived at the mission.

Although the 15-minute broadcast was intended to discredit the protesters as extremists ignored by New Yorkers during Jaruzelski's September visit, the TV report would have been unimaginable in any other Soviet bloc country.

The broadcast was a striking example of the Communist government's new offensive in an information war with the Solidarity underground press and Polishlanguage services of Radio Free Europe, the Voice of America and

In the information war it is important who is quicker. We are the target of a propaganda war in which aggressive methods are employed. Whatever helps to ward off this aggression is a good thing.'

> -Jerzy Urban Polish government spokesperson the British Broadcasting Corp. Unable to enforce a monopoly on information, the government has changed its propaganda tactics. No longer ignoring opposition, the authorities regularly publicize and ridicule Solidarity protest calls and anti-government commentaries on Western radio.

They also have been more forthcoming about economic, environmental and health problems which were often covered up under past governments.

The result approaches, in a limited way, the pluralistic journalism advocated by the Solidarity labor movement during its 16 months of legal existence in 1980-81.

"In the information war it is important who is quicker," government spokesperson Jerzy Urban wrote in a foreword to a new book on his weekly news conferences with foreign journalists. "We are the target of a propaganda war in which aggressive methods are employed. Whatever helps to ward off this aggression is a good thing.'

Urban, whose news conferences offer a mixture of pure information and sharp attacks on Western press reports, has been a main shaper of the new information policy since Jaruzelski appointed him to his post in August 1981.

In an interview, Urban said several unusual television programs this fall reflected the authorities' growing confidence following October's parliamentary elections in which the government said voters overwhelmingly ignored the Solidarity underground's call for a

"As our sense of growing support gets higher after the elections this creates certain political premises for conducting a more open cultural and information policy," Urban said.

Last week, state television broadcast excerpts from the film "Shoah," directed by Claude Lanzmann, a French Jew, which the government has condemned as "anti-Polish" because it implies Polish complicity with Nazi efforts to exterminate the

The broadcast irked Communist party hardliners, but Urban told the official news agency PAP that Poles should be able to judge for themselves how "unfriendly attitudes" are stirred up in the West, instead of being treated like children who need protection from harmful influences.

Last Saturday night's movie was 'Moonlighting," directed by the Polish emigre Jerzy Skolimowski, which depicts the hard life of Poles working illegally in London at the time of the December 1981 military crackdown in their homeland.

The openness has its limits. Most of the country's 350-plus political prisoners were arrested for publishing or distributing underground bulletins, and government censors routinely order cuts in films, books and religious publica-

lassifieds

has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error

does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

Garfield

Eway Eway

eanuts

I'LL HOLD YOU UP, AND WHEN HALLEY'S COMET

COMES BY, YOU BARK.

GARFIELD, I KNOW YOU'RE HIPING

OUT THERE SOMEWHERE.COME ON. LET'S GO TO THE VET!

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color religion, national origin, sex or ancestry

Bloom County

JUST FINE!

FINE! FINE

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL

SENIORS-TMI coming soon! (44-52)

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3602, 171611 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

02

WELL GOOD!

THAT'S REEEAL

6000

WHERE?

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts ... count on Sun

NEW FROM California—Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wi chita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

USED BOOKS and magazines, buy-sell-trade. Treasure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville. (51-53)

$60 PER hundred paid for processing mail at home! formation, send self-addressed, stamped envelope. Associates, Box 95, Roselle, New Jersey,

I HATE

DEADLINES

By Berke Breathed

SECONDS.

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

SORRY IT WAS JUST

OFF MY SUPPER DISH.

THE MOON REFLECTING

FOR RENT-MISC

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776

NEXT TO campus—Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Po-meroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets

WANTED: ONE female roommate for two bedroom apartment. Available immediately or at semester. Close to campus, furnished. Must be non-smoker Call 537-4858. (51-54)

Like a FREE VCR. Microwave or $250 Cash?

at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

> Call for details 776-3804

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Clallin, 776-9124

Available immediately, 776-9124, (51-59)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

garage. Barns, shop and other buildings, room for horses. Located 13 miles north of dam on Hwy 13. E.H. Thiele, 539-3492 (50-53)

06 FOR SALE-AUTO

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1.850

1979 RABBIT, 45-50 mpg, excellent condition, stereo,

1982 CHEVY K-10. 4 x 4-Black, excellent condition with warranty. Call 776-5217 (50-54) 1975 RED Chev. Monza 2 + 2 hb. Automatic V-8, four ndition. Excellent care/maintenance, records available 776-1586 (50-54) engine work. Call 539-5609. (51-53)

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side 776-3804. (49tf)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions fro Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights

NICE, TWO bedroom apartment next to campus for second semester. $380, utilities paid. 776-5265. (52-54)

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppo-

tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FIVE BEDROOM farm home, gas furnance. Modern, large country kitchen, large living room, attached

Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

air conditioning. 532-6625. (48-52)

new tires with wire spoke wheels, new bra power steering, air conditioning, AM/FM cassette-Alpine with Jensen speakers, good

FOR SALE: 1972 Toyota Corona, $300 as is. Needs

D.J.-COUNTRY Western club will accept applica LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado tions for a part-time position Thursday at 6:30 p.m. loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214. (52-61) Apply in person at Rockin' K, Aggieville. (52-53) GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year-Now 1977 2802-Six cylinder, 4-speed, excellent condition Must see. $3,200 or best offer. 539-2899. (52-

FOR SALE-MISC

07 FENDER SUPER Twin guitar amp. Excellent condition! $200 firm. Call 776-3473 evenings. (50-54)

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein

Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc.

107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

VERY NICE wood frame/pillow couch, $150; wom en's 10 speed bike, $50. Call 776-6231. (50-54)

Special offers for new tenants TWO VECTOR Microcomputers, $1,500 each-(two storage/one floppy drive. Software provided: Word Processing. Accounting, Data Management and much more. Call Dan or Vicki at 532-6176 immediately for more details (51-54)

> Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound Hamburger 69¢

The Ritz This coupon expires 11/10/85

STELLA 15-speed bicycle TA/Dura-Ace two heelsets, two new tires/tubes, 21" Columbus frame. $375 or best offer. Gitane Interclub, 21 Rev nolds frame, $140. Pair for $475. Call 537-8860 after 5:00 p.m. (51-53)

Strings and Drumsticks Buy one set and get second set at

50% Off

DOD Guitar Effects Units 30% Off

Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

9701 for information (52)

223 Poyntz 776-7983 GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also de linquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES

1975 12 × 60 Schultz Wellington. Must see to appreciate. $7.500 or best offer. 539-2596 evenings. (52)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly

Must sell, $100. Call Chris. 539-7518. (50-59)

FOUND CAT FOUND wearing yellow collar with bells. Call Be after 6:00 p.m. (51-53) FOUND: MEN'S maroon jacket in Commerce Reading Room, Calvin Hall, Claim at Union Lost and Found. (51-53)

verly at 532-6555 during the day or Tom at 776-2284

GARAGE SALES 12 TRUNKLOAD SALE November 9th, 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at Clovia, 1200 Pioneer Lane. Come and see. (52-54)

HELP WANTED JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 06897. (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

RECADCAST ENGINEER-Wanted for a local radio station. Responsibilities include equipment of tenance on a part-time schedule. To apply, call 776-hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R for current federal THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare Live in exciting New York City suburbs

Room, board and salary included 914-273-1626

LOST

PERSONAL

evening. Leave at Information Booth or call 537 0668 for reward. No questions asked. (52-53) LOST—MEN'S Pulsar watch. Great sentimental value Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168 (52-57)

HP-34C calculator in Statercom, Union Thursday

TO THE guy that took a rhinestone earring off of my friend on Halloween night: She was wearing ear-rings that she had borrowed from me and I would really appreciate it if it was returned. It's not be-cause it's worth much, it's not. But they have sentimental value to me. My grandmother gave them to me when I was in the 6th grade. Please call 537-8166. (51-52)

KIM - HERE'S to your best birthday ever! Drink it up! Your Dot (52)

JIM - TWO months and going strong! Dating a youn ger guy was the best idea I ever had! Happy Anni versary Love, Dinky (52)

LA SISTERS So glad you're my pals. You make living couldn't do it without you! Love ya Skelly, Queenie LA! (52) MELISSA BARBEE-I'm your piedge dad and you don't know who I am, but you do now. (52) EDDY HASKEL-I wasn't wearing a dress Thursday how about tonight instead, 9 00 at Charlie's Ba HI BRI! It's not a surprise, only three years of fun and we both know it's only the beginning. Thanks for the special times. I'm looking forward to many more. ILY, Crit (52) TRI-DELT SHARA - Tomorrow night is the night. You and your dad—what a sight. When at last you fi-nally know, champagne will surely flow! Love. Dad

CAP-SURPRISE! This one you won't hate. The date? Next Friday at 81 (52)

KERRI: (AZ) Pledge daughter found, pledge dad needs to be found, I'm closer than you think. Till Thursday, Dad. (52) KIM COLLINS-This is to inform you that you have the best piedge dad ever, and it would behoove you to come Thursday and accept this honor. Your awe some dad. (52) BASEBALL PLAYER Mike: Sorry I couldn't be there Monday night. Be at Charlie's back room Wednes day. 11:00 p.m. I'll be looking for you this time. Your loyal baseball (an (52)

DEB C .- Often you wander alone in the streets searching for lost friends or guys to meet. (52)

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED-Own bedroom, washer

dryer Rent plus utilities. 403 South 18th. Call 537 2055. (48-52) FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809

North 11th, $145, bills paid, 539-8401 (49-63) NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester-Own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, no utilities. Call 776-7331 (50-54) FEMALE, NON-SMOKING - Own room, nice dupley with conveniences. $133 plus one-third utilities Call day, 532-5508, ext. 25: 537-4179. (51-54) MALE-DOUBLE-wide trailer, own bedroom washer/dryer. $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-8580. (52-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE for spring semester, $116/ month plus one-third utilities. Close to campus and Aggieville. Call 539-1852 (52-53)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S.

quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (1311) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337 (51)

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (5-561) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput vices. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (50-54) WOMEN'S SUPPORT Group now forming. Open to all women who want support in dealing with per sonal, social or educational concerns. Contact Women's Resource Center, 532-8444. (50-52)

erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Ser

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (51-52) WOOD SPLITTING-Call 539-9304, ask for Bruce.

SUBLEASE

PEOPLE TO sublease at semester-Two bedroom furnished apartment, close to campus, $390/ month plus electricity, 776-6877, (52-54)

rossword

41 General

43 Dumas

man

50 English

51 More expensive 54 Stupor

55 Japanese shrub

46 Poem

Bradley

swords division

sand hill

ACROSS 1 Curve 5 Moonshine container? 8 Scrutin-

12 Oklahoma

Indian 13 - Baba 14 Solitary 15 Party wear. often 17 Nick and

Nora's dog 56 Israeli 18 Prepare to be knighted

21 Part of TLC 24 Haggard novel 25 Conduit 28 Rainbow

30 Ballad 33 GI's org. 34 Eggshaped 35 Polygraph's finding 36 Petrol

37 Apportion 38 Legal wrong 39 Sailor

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle 53 Drunkard port 57 Love god 58 Tit for Israel 19 Bed canopy 59 Deep sea 10 Poker shockers stake Avg. solution time: 28 min. 44 Paper 45 Rabbit's tail 47 Blue or white 48 River duck 49 Table scraps

WOOF!

DOWN

1 Kind of

2 Town on

3 Word with cone or

4 Discover

6 Rubber

8 Scourge

9 "Who's on dive

5 Fruit

tree

7 Pith

26 Dos Passos work 27 Italian poet 29 Detail 31 Make public 32 Still 34 King of 38 Irish port 40 Moslem noble: var 42 Perform 43 Egyptian quantity

52 Harem

room

11 Close

16 Gums

20 Being

23 One of the Muses

25 Excavated

22 Split

11-6

PLAIN HOMETOWN WAS A WHISTLE STOP.

WOXYOVA JLRZLZ FMOYLMG WVM R AVNLT OZLR? Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FORMER REFEREE'S

Today's Cryptoquip clue: W equals F

Hero prepares for anniversary

Superman to get new image

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Superman is about to undergo a midlife makeover.

He'll still be Superman - still based in Metropolis, still fighting for Truth, Justice and the American Way - but he'll have a new look, a new history and a new and more limited cast of super friends.

"The core of it is, we're getting him ready for his 50th anniversary in 1988. We want him to be the best there is," said Paul Levitz, executive vice president of DC Comics, which publishes Superman.

Levitz said Superman has been altered periodically as different artists took on the challenge of recreating the granddaddy of all comic-book heroes. The new Man of Steel will have a more contemporary look, he said, though the famous redand-blue costume will not be chang-

He will still be immediately recognizable as Superman. "It's like George Reeves (TV's Superman) and Christopher Reeve (the movies' Superman) - they don't look alike, but they're both Superman," Levitz

Some of the changes seem to be inspired by the Superman films. Lois

Rodeo Queen Contest

For Kansas State Rodeo

Applications Can be Obtained from

Weber Hall Library Call Hall Dairy Bar

> Due by November 10

For More Information Call Lori Sprinkle 532-2362 #903

3rd Street BATTERY CENTER 917 N. 3rd. 776-3298

Sun. 8-8; Daily 6 a.m. 10 p.m.

ANTI-FREEZE SALE

TEXACO ANTI-FREEZE

1 Gallon, Sale 13.99 Anti-Freeze Coolant + Less Mai in Rebate 1.50 $2.49

Limit 2 gallons

BATTERY SALE 40 Month

$2988 50 Month $3588

60 Month *3888 EXCHANGE

Group 24, 24F, 74

THIS WEEK Budweiser & 12 pk. $4.99 Bud Lite

Stewart Sandwiches some specially priced at 99¢ ALL CAN POP 12 oz. 6 pk.

$1.99

MILK-SNACKS-CHIPS ICE-GUM-CANDY

CIGARETTES

Lane, Superman's heartthrob, will be updated - "more like Margot Kidder," who played the character in the movies, Levitz said.

The romantic relationship will not change drastically. "There will always be the eternal triangle," Levitz said. In this case, the triangle is Lois, Superman and Superman's alter ego, reporter Clark Kent.

As he was on film, Superman will be a bit more vulnerable.

'We want to try and capture some of the emotional dilemmas that a Superman faces," Levitz said.

But Levitz said there are no plans to turn the Man of Steel into a Guy with a Cuisinart. He will be a tough guy, though no Rambo.

'Superman is not about revenge,

. NATURAL DIET AIDS

HOURS: Mon. Sat. 9:30 a.m. 6 p.m.

BOOKS ON NUTRITION

3112 Anderson

about 'This time we're going to win and blow up all those people.' He is about the good side of patriotism," he said.

The changes will take place next summer, around July 4, and will start with a re-telling of the Superman legend.

There will be other alterations. Say goodbye to Supermonkey and Superhorse and other super members of the animal kingdom. "We're clearing away a lot of the busyness and going back to the original character," Levitz said.

No longer will he be a slouchhatted holdover from "The Front Page," Levitz said. Clark is getting a promotion. He's going to be a colum-

Library to select millionth book

By TONI OGLESBY Collegian Reporter

Farrell Library is approaching acquisition of its millionth volume. expected to arrive in mid-April, a library administrator said.

Many of the details of the celebration of the millionth volume have not been decided, said Antonia Pigno, assistant professor in charge of minority collection. Pigno is the chairman of the Joint Planning Committee - 1 Million Volumes. The committee, appointed by Brice Hobrock, dean of libraries, is composed of a student and faculty from various colleges.

"Our purpose is to acquire a millionth volume and to celebrate it," Pigno said.

The committee is in the process of establishing criteria for the selection of the volume.

"First we have to decide what we want, and then we talk to rare book dealers to see if we can indeed find the book that we select," Pigno said. Several titles will probably be selected by the committee, so if one volume isn't available, another choice will be

The volume will most likely be from the 15th-17th centuries, Hobrock said, and will be related to the University's programming in some way.

Mid-April was selected for the celebration because that is when the library's administrators expect the millionth volume to ar-

"That's why we're doing it this year, whether than last year or next year," Hobrock said. "We know when the number 1 million is coming up.

The celebration will not only be for the acquisition of the 1 millionth volume, but will be a "kick-off" for the second million, Hobrock said.

Although details are sketchy, the celebration will include exhibits and a speaker, Pigno said. More details will be released as the celebration approaches.

In correlation with the celebration, Friends of the Libraries will publish a volume of essays commemorating of Milton E. Eisenhower, former K-State president. The essays will be written by people who knew and worked with

Send Check or Money Order To:

DHV, Inc PO Box 1006 Studio City CA 91604

(Includes Postage & Handling)

Specify: 1/2" Beta □ VHS □

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

SPECIAL

IF PERF.

VALUES TO $33.00

Button-downs

Stripes

·Solids

Reg. $26.00

ASSORTMENT ALL STYLES

AND COLORS

and Calvin Klein

FASHION TOPS

MEN'S ADIDAS AND PUMA

SPORTSWEAR

SPORT SHIRTS AND SWEAT SHIRTS

MEN'S OXFORD

SPORT SHIRTS

BY LETGRE

JOHN HENRY

AND L.L. BEAN

special Assortment of

Men's and Ladles Sportswear

Excellent Values

Elesse and Fila

NOW FROM

FROM

MANUFACTURER'S DIRECT CLOTHING SALE

DAYONLY

SAVE 50%-70%

LADIES AND MEN'S WARM-UP SUITS by WILSON and WINNING WAYS Reg. $45-$60

FROM $15.99

LIZ CLAIBORNE Fashion Slacks and Jeans Wide range of styles and fabrics

POLO

By Ralph Lauren

If perfect, values to $38.00

(Boy's Oxfords and Plaid, too)

FAMOUS MAKER

LADIES COTTON

SWEATERS

Excellent Quality!

NOW

$7.99 to 12.99

Special Assortment

MENS AND BOYS

Short Sleeve Knits

(stripes and solids)

Values to $65.00

Super Styles

NOW FROM

PURITAN SWEATERS

COTTONS -WOOLS STRIPES AND SOLIDS -BUTTON FRONT CARDIGANS

If perf. values to $40.00 Great Value!

NOW $7.99

Men's LeTIGRE Heavyweight RUGBY SHIRTS

Stripes-Solids Reg. $34.00

$16.99

LADIES FASHION BLOUSES AND TOPS

Special Assortment

Your Choice

2 FOR $5.00

BIG SHIRTS-BLOUSES-OXFORDS

JOHN HENRY AND LADY MANHATTAN -LOADS OF COLORS-

Now from

Values to $36.00

Reg. $60-$80

Now From $14.99

Wed. Nov. 6th 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Ramada Inn-17th and Anderson Manhattan (across from campus)

Kansas State Historical Soc

00612

Defense controversy clouds impending talks

Reagan redefines 'Star Wars' program goals | Soviets push back American summit hopes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan redefined his goals for the proposed "Star Wars" missile defense system Wednesday, saying he would deploy the space shield unilaterally if other nuclear powers can not agree on a worldwide nuclear defense and disarmament program.

"If we had a defensive system and part to eliminate the nuclear weapons, we would have done our best and we would go ahead with deployment, even though, as I say, that would then open us up to the

we could not get agreement on their charge of achieving the capacity for a first strike," Reagan said in an interview less than two weeks before he meets Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva.

The president's comments appeared to negate the terms he laid out in an interview with Soviet journalists last week in which he said he would not deploy a defensive system until offensive missiles had been dismantled. But Reagan denied there was any inconsistency in his separate descriptions of his policy.

"The terms for our own deployment would be the elimination of the offensive weapons," Reagan said to the Soviets. "We won't put this weapon - this system - in place, this defensive system, until we do away with our nuclear missiles. our offensive missiles...And if the Soviet Union and the United States both say we will eliminate our offensive weapons, we will put in this defensive thing in case some place in the world a madman someday tries to create these weapons again.'

But on Wednesday, he told the White House correspondents of Western news agencies that if the U.S. research program he calls the Strategic Defense Initiative were to come up with an effective system to defend against nuclear attack, the

See REAGAN, Page 8

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - American summit hopes have been set back by Soviet demands to halt the "Star Wars" program and by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's lack of understanding of U.S. policies, a senior Reagan administration official said Wednesday.

"We are undismayed, but we can wait," the official said in summing up 14 hours of talks in Moscow involving Gorbachev, Secretary of State George Shultz, and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

"The pace of progress was set back by this meeting," the official said in a wrapup briefing for reporters under rules that barred use of his name. He spoke in Rekjavik, Iceland, where the U.S. party stopped for rest and refueling en route home from Moscow.

The official suggested the administration now saw the summit as primarily a get-acquainted session for President Reagan and Gorbachev, leading possibly to an invitation for Gorbachev to visit the United States for a second summit in 1986.

In an interview in Washington on Wednesday with correspondents of Western news agencies, Reagan said there is "every indication" that Gorbachev is "a reasonable man," and that gives Reagan hope he can convince the Communist Party chief at the summit that the United States has no expansionist aims.

Reagan also said he would deploy a "Star Wars" missile shield unilaterally if he could not get other world leaders to agree on an international system to defend against nuclear attack.

The president said his comments in an interview last week with Soviet journalists, in which he appeared to make deployment of a Star Wars system contingent on dismantling of-

See SUMMIT, Page 8

Educators experience shortages

By JAMIE MCPHETER Collegian Reporter

Students graduating with degrees in elementary and secondary education will have a better chance of finding jobs than in the past, said Jim Akin, associate director of the Career Planning and Placement Center.

K-State has the state's largest enrollment in education - an average of 400 graduates receive teaching certificates each year. One reason for the high demand for teachers - particularly elementary and secondary teachers of art, English, health, home economics, music and special education - is that post-World War II baby boom children now have children in school, Akin said.

The National Educational Association in Washington, D.C. predicts the teacher shortage will grow each year until the early 1990s with between 900,000 to 1.6 million new teachers needed to replace teachers who retire or leave the profession.

Another reason for the increase in jobs is that women, who have been dominant in the teaching field, are going into higher paying fields such as business, he said.

Teacher salaries have seen an increase. Beginning teachers can expect to receive a salary of $18,000-$20,000. The average salary is $18,500. Graduates' beginning salaries in Kansas rank 36th-39th in the nation, Akin said.

The best place for a graduating senior in education to look for a job is in the sunbelt region. For example, Arizona produces only half of the teachers it needs. Houston also recruits teachers from K-State.

See TEACHERS, Page 8

ing for his next race. Cook, a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, "runs" approximately ago in Topeka with a final time of 23 minutes and 49 seconds.

Bruce Cook, senior in accounting, wheels down Browning Avenue Wednesday afternoon, train- 35 miles a week and placed first overall in the five-mile Stroh's Run for Liberty II two weeks

Wheelchair 'runner' wins road race for Liberty

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

Winning the race in the second Stroh's Run for Liberty five-mile run in Topeka two weeks ago, Bruce Cook, junior in accounting, set a personal best of 23 minutes and 49 seconds and reached a personal goal. Cook was injured two years ago in a car accident and took up the sport of running races in his wheelchair. Not only did he beat out all competitors in wheelchairs in the Stroh's run, he was the first in the race to cross the finish line.

Cook, who practices by "running" 35 miles a week in the area, said the thrill of winning the Stroh's run didn't sink in until two days later.

"When I started racing a year ago it was my goal to beat the whole field," Cook said. "After the race it didn't sink in right away. It didn't really hit me until two days later."

Running five to six nights a week and playing racquetball are two activities Cook uses to train for the years.

"All summer long I trained on the hills near my home and that helped me win the race." he said. "Also, a friend built a new racing wheelchair for me and that helped a

Although he only got started a year ago, Cook attributes much of his success to his coach, Dean Oba, chemistry research associate and wheelchair racer.

"Dean taught me how to run," he said. "He also built the new chair for me and that helped a lot."

Cook has raced in 14 races in the past year, but said he never thought he would reach his goal to win this

The new chair was instrumental in the win, Cook said. "It was made to fit my body a little bit better," he said. "I was able to apply more power to my running stroke. Cook said for him, running is like most people feel after they've done something athletic or physically exhilarating. "When you go out and run you release a bunch of tension and stress and when you are done you feel great," he said. "Sometimes for me it is like waking up. After I'm done I feel good. After winning a race, I feel real good."

Cook said he was involved in athletics before the accident so it was natural for him to stay athletically fit.

"I always was athletic. I wanted something to do and a friend taught me the basics of running in a wheelchair and that's how I got started."

Study lists likely effects of farm credit system loss

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Failure of the $70 billion Farm Credit System would be a hammer blow to the U.S. economy, driving up mortgage interest rates, endangering more than 2,000 banks and prompting a wave of farm foreclosures, according to a system-sponsored economic study.

The system, which is lobbying the federal government for a $6 billion bailout, emphasized it does not expect such a default on its securities, but that it conducted the study to demonstrate the seriousness of its problems.

Gene Swackhamer, president of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, said the results of the analysis by Chase Econometrics "surely would help" in the system's efforts to win support for federal financial aid.

Should the 37-bank system fail to meet payments on the bonds it issues to raise loan money, the study said, "this unprecedented default would further depress agriculture, severely disrupt financial markets and seriously weaken an already fragile U.S. economy.'

If a default were to occur in 1986, the analysts said:

- Loans to an additional 88,000 farmers would be foreclosed. - Commercial banks, which are among the primary purchasers of system bonds, would lose $28 billion. That would push the number of agricultural banks now on the government's "troubled" list from its current 141 to 2,300.

- The gross national product would drop by $76 billion over two years, while the federal budget deficit would increase by $85 billion in the same period.

One surprising result of the study, Swackhamer said, was the effect of a default on home mortgages. The Farm Credit System, a private, cooperatively owned entity, nonetheless

See CREDIT, Page 10

American Royal faces highs, lows

Event provides livestock showcase

By RUSTIN HAMILTON Agriculture Editor

The long-lasting tradition of the American Royal has seen both the highs and lows of any major event which survives the times of 87

The name itself can be directly associated with the "elite," and the longevity of the show is enough to capture the applause from those both directly or indirectly involved.

Since its beginning, the Royal has been a proving ground for stockmen and horseshowers alike and has provided Kansas City with a week and a half of entertainment and tradition.

But with the start of the '80s, turmoil began to confront the Royal, and the non-profit organization began experiencing the hardships of a growing deficit and slow economy.

The turmoil came to a head just three months before the scheduled Nov. 8 opening, as internal unrest within the American Royal Association caused the resignation of eightyear manager Laurence Pressly.

With the introduction of a new staff second wind, as the possibility of both an increase in attendance and exhibits seems more than hopeful for 1985, said Kenny Nofftz, livestock show manager of the Royal. "There's really no way we can tell how however, the Royal may be catching its successful we will be until we start selling tickets," Nofftz said of the 1985 attendance. "There is sure a lot of effort being put out this year and the contributions we constantly rely on have already been similar or greater compared to years past." Maybe the most optimistic sign of success for the '85 Royal is the increase in both horse and livestock exhibits, which the Royal so heavily relies on for drawing in the crowds. The Royal, which boasts one of the premiere horse shows in the country, will have to confront a dramatic increase in exhibits which could overrun stall space, Nofftz said. "Some of our stalls may be used three or four times," he said.

"Livestock exhibits are higher than they've ever been, so we'll probably have space problems with them also." Within the livestock arena, hogs have shown the greatest pre-entry increase with a 59 percent boost over last year. While sheep entries have remained virtually the same. cattle entries have shown a surprising 12 percent addition, compared with last year's

"There's really no reason for the substantial increase in livestock exibits this year," Nofftz said. "Most of the other shows are down in numbers compared to last One reason for such an increase may be high prices given for the championship market animals of 1984, reaching an overall total of $34,500 for the grand champion steer, hog and lamb. "High purchase prices for those market animals can really bring in the 4-H and FFA kids," said Cecil Eyestone, Manhattan resident and sheep superintident of the

"The grand champion hog alone brought $10,000," he said.

While the livestock show will bring in its share of visitors, the American Royal

See ROYAL, Page 8

Weather

Today, partly sunny. Highs mid-to upper 50s. Tonight, mostly clear. Lows mid- to upper 30s. Friday, partly cloudy. Highs mid-60s.

Inside

No citations will be issued for parking in the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex parking lot until further notice. Riot police stormed a university campus Wednesday in Chile and arrested more than 400 people. See Page 3.

K-State cross country team member Ron Stahl finished eighth at

Sports

the Big Eight Championships last weekend in Columbia, Mo. See Page

INTERNATIONAL

Walesa walks out of legal hearing WARSAW, Poland - Solidarity founder Lech Walesa walked out of the prosecutor's office Wednesday after refusing to answer questions at a legal hearing on charges he slandered election officials.

Walesa, contacted at his apartment in the Baltic port city of Gdansk, said he gave the prosecutor a written statement saying he would refuse to give testimony and that he decided to leave when the prosecutor repeatedly turned down his lawyer's motions.

Walesa said the prosecutor also was handed a medical certificate exempting the former Solidarity chairman from work and saying he should not be placed under undue stress.

Walesa said six plainclothes policemen and one uniformed officer entered his apartment several hours after he left the prosecutor's office to try to force him to return. They departed after a doctor determined the medical certificate was valid, he added.

Walesa, 42, suffers from high blood pressure and an ulcer. He is employed as an electrician at the Lenin shipyards in Gdansk.

Elephants damage Sumatran crops

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Herds of wild elephants have destroyed hundreds of acres of crops in the southern Sumatra province of Lampung, the newspaper Sinar Harapan said Wednesday.

The newspaper said the elephants emerge at nightfall from their habitat in the Way Sambas National Park in central Lampung, into the fertile land eating or damaging rice, maize and banana crops.

The newspaper gave no exact figures of the damage done. Authorities told the daily on Tuesday they would try to catch the wild animals and tame them or drive them back to the jungle.

The government recently announced that elephants, which are protected by law, could be caught for private use or for export. Experts were brought from Thailand to help catch and tame the elephants.

REGIONAL

Firemen control Kansas City blaze

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - It took Kansas City firefighters nearly four hours to control a five-alarm blaze that broke out Wednesday morning in a vacant warehouse building located in the West Bottoms.

The fire in the five-story building, which bears a sign saying Great Western Paint Manufacturing Company, was reported about 10:30 a.m. and declared under control at 2:10 p.m.

No injuries were reported, and the cause of the fire was not known. Fire officials said the building was vacant, although there was still some material inside it.

Harold Knabe, the fire department spokesman, said officials were concerned because there were hazardous wastes stored in one nearby building and paint in another. However, the firefighters kept the flames from spreading.

Judge says man unfit to stand trial

McPHERSON - Over his own protests, a young man charged with arson in a fire that destroyed three McPherson businesses and damaged another last summer was found incompetent to stand trial

John Mulligan, 18, who was working at one of the businesses the night of the July 13 fire, was ordered to undergo psychiatric treatment at either Larned State Hospital or Topeka State Mental Hospital.

McPherson County Associate District Judge Carl B. Anderson Jr. ordered that Mulligan's arson trial be placed on the docket with an open date, and asked for an updated report on his mental condition in 90 days.

George Dyck, a psychiatrist with Prairie View Inc., said Mulligan had subconsciously distorted his memory of the night.

"I feel I do remember that night, and I'm ready to go to trial and prove my innocence," Mulligan told the court.

No one was injured in the fire. It destroyed Video Playground, where Mulligan was working, Gran-Diel Music Co. and White Tire and Supply. Another business, R-J Auto Parts, was damaged.

Humane Society destroys pit bulls

LIBERAL - Southwest Kansas Humane Society officials following court orders, have destroyed 21 pit bull terriers confiscated in searches that followed a July raid on a dogfight.

Linda Lucas, a Humane Society investigator, said Wednesday the group still is housing 40 dogs confiscated in the initial raid. She said about 25 of those may have to be returned to their owners because the owners apparently weren't charged and may not have attended the fight.

When authorities raided the dogfight on a farmstead near Liberal, they confiscated 43 dogs. One was destroyed due to distemper. Two others died of wounds sustained in fighting, she said.

Six dogs discovered during the raid were so badly injured, they had to be immediately destroyed. A seventh injured dog already had been shot during the dogfighting.

The 21 dogs that already have been destroyed by a local veterinarian working for the Humane Society belonged to three defendants who have entered guilty pleas to reduced charges in connection with the raid, according to Seward County Attorney Linda

NATIONAL

Jury says agent's trial is stalemate

LOS ANGELES - The jury in the trial of the first FBI agent charged with espionage said Wednesday it was hopelessly deadlocked, but some of the panelists later told the judge they might still be able to reach a verdict.

The judge, who at first said he would declare a mistrial in the case of Richard W. Miller, refused to make a final decision until after meeting with attorneys.

After the panel reported it was hopelessly deadlocked, U.S. District Judge David Kenyon called jurors into court to discuss it with each

But in a chaotic development, five of the jurors told him they believed there still was a chance to reach a verdict on some of the charges against Miller if they were allowed to talk longer.

Romanian sailor jumps from ship

WASHINGTON - A Romanian merchant seaman has jumped ship and is in the custody of U.S. immigration agents, a Justice Department spokesman said Wednesday.

Patrick Korten, deputy director of public affairs, said he could not identify the seaman or provide details of the circumstances surrounding his leaving the vessel near Jacksonville, Fla.

But Korten did say that the man "isn't going anywhere until they have questioned him thoroughly in the right language." Korten evidently was alluding to the case of Soviet seaman

Miroslav Medvid, who Reagan administration officials have said has indicated he wants to return to the Soviet Union after twice jumping off his ship near New Orleans. Ukrainian groups and several conservative organizations have criticized the handling of Medvid by the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and hearings are being held to determine why Medvid was put back on his ship by Border Patrol agents. Duke Austin, an INS spokesman, said Wednesday he could not comment when asked about the possible attempted defection by the Romanian man.

Training program stresses security

GROTON, Conn. - For the first time, security guards at the Electric Boat shipyard in Groton are being trained to carry weapons to protect the defense plant from attacks and break-ins.

Fifteen of the plant's 100 guards are taking a five-week, in-house training program. They will become part of the Armed Response Force in use during all three shifts, Electric Boat spokesman Vincent T. Malcolm said Tuesday.

"Their primary mission is to prevent unauthorized entry into the shipyard and to protect life and property," he said. Navy and congressional officials have often discussed armed security at the shipyard. Their concerns were heightened in 1982 after several anti-nuclear weapons protesters broke into the shipyard and damaged several Trident nuclear submarines.

Malcolm said the guards' training includes self-defense, weapons handling, tactical team deployment and communications and medical response techniques.

PEOPLE

Police arrest former lottery winner

EASTHAM, Mass. - A man who won more than $900,000 last year in a lottery has been arrested on charges of failing to pay child support, authorities said.

Charles R. Nelson Jr., 35, of Eastham, owes $625, according to authorities. He was arrested Tuesday after an investigation by the Middlesex County child support enforcement unit set up last year by District Attorney Scott Harshbarger.

A spokesman for Harshbarger said Nelson, who won $904,860 in the Massachusetts Megabucks drawing in April 1984, was under a court order to pay $100 a week to his former wife and 6-year-old child. Nelson first defaulted on his payments six months ago and had a history of paying late, said the spokesman.

The spokesman said it was believed to be the first time Massachusetts prosecutors have charged a lottery winner with not paying child support.

Actor learns about Ozark tradition

LOS ANGELES - Even a Hollywood type can learn something in the Ozarks, says actor Peter Strauss, who recently discovered Arkansas' "unique tradition" of dropping turkeys out of airplanes.

It's just part of the annual Turkey Trot celebration at Yellville, Ark., Strauss says, who spent several weeks in Little Rock filming 'Under Siege," a television movie about terrorists.

On "The Tonight Show" Tuesday, Strauss told Johnny Carson that the turkeys, and some animal rights activists, don't think much of the tradition of flying over back areas of Little Rock and pushing about 10 live birds out of the plane from 200-300 feet up.

"Turkeys don't fly, do they?," an incredulous Carson asked.
"Well, they claim they do," said Strauss, who said the tradition is that if the turkey flies away, he is free. If the bird lands in someone's arms or backyard, they have their Thanksgiving turkey early.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARDS APPLICATIONS are available in Ackert 223 and

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS will meet at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert

NAVIGATORS will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS will have a meeting for actives at 7:30 p.m. and a meeting for pledges at 8 p.m. at the Alpha Tau

AG STUDENT COUNCIL will have an executive committee meeting at 5:30 p.m. and a general meeting at 6 p.m. in Waters 137.

SAILING CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Union

CHRISTIAN STUDENT FELLOWSHIP will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION will meet at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.

PARACHUTE CLUB will meet at 8 p.m. in

SIGMA DELTA PI will meet at 4 p.m. in the Minorities Research Center on the fourth floor of Farrell Library.

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212

SOCCER LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 9 p.m.

COLLEGIATE 4-H will have an officers meeting at 7 p.m. and a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204. 'CACIA GIRLS will meet for yearbook pictures at 4:30 p.m. in Calvin 201. AMERICAN SOCIETY OF AGRICULTURE

ENGINEERS-STUDENT BRANCH will meet to take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Seaton 236.

HORTICULTURE CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in FOOD SCIENCE CLUB will meet for yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Calvin 102.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 132. ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE will

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP: Actives will meet at 8 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi house. Members should be ready by 9 p.m.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL will have an executive meeting at 5:30 p.m. in Waters 135 and a general meeting at 6 p.m. in Waters 137.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

Federal food assistance reduces diet deficiency

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn. Nutritional anemia or iron deficiency among inner-city infants has all but disappeared in the last decade, a study by Yale University researchers indicates.

The near eradication of the potentially serious diet deficiency among infants from poor families probably can be attributed to a federal nutrition program aiding mothers, infants and children, the researchers believe.

Dr. Howard Pearson, a professor and chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at the Yale University Medical School, said his study provides reasons to keep the Women, Infants and Children nutrition program intact in the face of federal budget cuts.

Iron deficiency can lead to serious health problems among infants and, if severe enough, can lead to impaired motor function, increased susceptibility to infection and heart failure, or death, Pearson said.

Studies indicate that less severe forms of iron deficiency can affect learning and thinking, he said.

Alicia and Co.

2805 Claflin

*Lamaur

★Sebastian

★ Matrix

By Appointment Mon-Sat

537-9825

Enter The Late Night Zone!

Enter a New Dimension of Sight, Sound and Taste! Every Night after 10 p.m. with MTV Music Videos in Stereo.

MTV in Stereo Mon.-Thurs. 10 p.m.-1 a.m. Fri.-Sat. 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

10 p.m.-11 p.m.

Manhattan Only

Free Whopper Jr. when your purchase a Whopper

COUPON

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. This offer expires 11/14/85. Good

See your social chairman for valuable

Burger King coupons.

Police storm Chile campus

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile - Riot police stormed a university campus Wednesday and arrested more than 400 people in the second day of protests against 12 years of military rule. Two people were shot to death.

Police said that 40 people were hurt during Wednesday's demonstrations, and 460 were arrested, including 396 at the University of Chile's Engineering School campus near downtown

Authorities reported that a total of 13 people had been hospitalized with bullet wounds, and more than 600 arrested in the two days of demonstrations against the regime of President Augusto Pinochet, an army general who came to power after a September 1973 coup.

There were demonstrations also in the slums ringing the city and, briefly at the University of Police said they also fought demonstrators in Valparaiso, 83 miles northwest of the capital, and in Antofagasta, 930 miles north. Police also said nine bombs exploded and five labor leaders were arrested. The students sought sanctuary in the engineering school on the national university campus after repeatedly battling police in the street, on the final day of protest organized by Pinochet's opponents.

Police called in reinforcements, surrounded the building and stormed it after lobbing tear gas grenades through the windows.

Reporters were kept at a distance. Anibal Cruz, one of the students, said: "The Carabineros (national police) acted in an extremely tough manner and beat several students."

University officials said five students were wounded during the police action, none of them seriously. Journalists saw one being taken away on a stretcher, and an ambulance came to the Police said all but 57 of the 396 people arrested on the campus were students.

Engineering college provides top opportunitities, facilities

By KEVIN SNELL Collegian Reporter

The K-State graduating engineer is in demand.

'Anyone who really tries can get a job," said Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering. "Year in and year out, we have excellent job placement and our students get the top salary offer on average in any discipline."

Rathbone credits the College's facilities and reputation with attracting quality students. Over half of the National Merit finalists at the University are in the College of Engineering, he said, and students have done very well in national competitions.

Rathbone said he doesn't like to play a numbers game to rate the College, but says its record and reputation can speak for itself.

'I've been a dean for many years and visited a lot of schools so I know we have one of the outstanding programs in the nation.

"We have the largest and most comprehensive engineering program in the state of Kansas," he said. "I think we're doing pretty well."

The Institute for Environmental Research is one of only three such facilities in the world, and primarily conducts human comfort studies.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

The Institute tests human factors in relation to their enviroment.

Rathbone said heating and cooling studies, such as testing a person's comfort in an air-conditioned car, is the center's most important research.

The state of Kansas provided funds to the college early in 1984 for hazardous waste disposal research. Now, interdisciplinary research in removing, processing and storing of hazardous materials is being conducted under the Office of Hazardous Waste Research.

William Johnson, director of the office, said research in sewage treatment, storage of nuclear waste and groundwater contamination are some specific areas of study. The work is mainly done by research faculty and graduate assistants, he said.

Extension programs administered through the College offer engineering expertise to others, Rathbone said. The Engineering Extension Programs provide technical advice to energy users in industry and residential areas, offer assistance to Kansas industry and run a continuing education program.

"We're the only college of engineering that has an extension program with industry in Kansas," he said.

In 1983, the University formed a Center of Excellence, a Kansas Legislature and industry-funded research program in Computer-Controlled Automation, Rathbone said. Last year, for every dollar of funding industry provided, the Legislature provided $2. The Center is located in the College of Engineering, but research may include disciplines outside of engineering such as computer science, statistics or mathematics.

Not only does the college have quality programs, but a quality facility to house these programs. Durland Hall was recognized as one of the outstanding buildings in Kansas by the Kansas Society of Architects, of the American Institute of Architects, Rathbone said. It is also recognized as one of the finest engineering facilities in the country.

"Everyone who comes here is impressed with the facility," Rathbone said. He said he hopes a third phase of Durland will be built and in use by 1994.

This is the sixth in an eight part series highlighting each of the University's colleges and some of the more significant programs. Friday, the College of Human Ecology will be highlighted.

· THE ·

FUNDRINKERY

e're going tonight

$3 Cover

50¢ DRINKS

25¢ DRAWS

all day

Police delay rec-complex ticketing

By The Collegian Staff

No citations will be issued for parking in the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex parking lot without a parking permit until further notice, a University official said Wednesday.

To avoid misinterpretation of rules, the campus police will wait until the Parking Council establishes a clear definition of the permit requirement before ticketing.

"Until a response is received from George E. Miller, vice president of administration and finance, no citations will be issued," said Charles A. Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department.

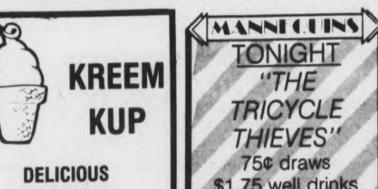

"There are some gray areas, and the Parking Council is currently drafting a proposal that must be approved by Miller," Beckom said. The Parking Council meets every

The dubious areas involve purchase of special permits for recreational complex users who don't normally park on campus. Beckom also said guests were using campus facilities - including the recreational complex parking lot.

"It's not fair for students to have to pay for permits and others not to,' Beckom said.

Once rules are established, ample time will be allowed to inform recreational complex users of the new parking policy before ticketing commences, he said.

ICE CREAM HOT SANDWICHES

Sun. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m. 17th & Yuma

$1.75 well drinks FRIDAY & SATURDAY "CHARLIE & THE STING RAYS" A dance party

M.-Sat. 8 a.m.-10 p.m. you don't want to miss!

Fall Special on new 1985 and 1986 cars

This rate is in effect until Nov. 15. Used car loans are 12%.

Borrow up to $15,000.

Apply for a loan today. If you are not a KSU Credit Union member, there is a 60-day waiting period. But submit your application now to lock in this low 10.8% new car rate before the deadline.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

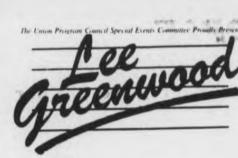

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday 532-6274

Muslim Community Association invites you to: EVILS OF COMMUNISM A. AHMADULLAH Former Minister of Interior of Afghanistan Place: Little Theatre, K-State Union Date: November 7, 1985 (Thursday)

Time: 6 p.m.

Everyone is Welcome

Special Guests "THE WHITES" PARENTS DAY.

Saturday. November 16 Ahearn Field House 8 p.m. All seats reserved $10 w/KSU Student I.D. $11 General Public Tickets on sale now 10 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Union Box Office and 5 Bar J Clothiers.

k-state union

BUY ANY ONE SWEATER IN STOCK SAVE 50% ON SECOND SWEATER

(2nd sweater equal value or less)

1/2 PRICE SWEATER

MAURICES

116 SOUTH FOURTH STREET DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

Savings on Women's and Men's sweaters!

Buy any sweater at current ticket price and receive a second sweater of equal value or less at 1/2 PRICE! Choose from crews, V-necks, cardigans, shetlands, hand knits, fisherman knits, vests, Shakers, and novelties ...all in a variety of comfortable styles and popular fall & winter colors. Watch for additional sale items in pants, skirts, dresses, and outerwear.

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Dogs' lives must be saved

The Kansas Humane Society destroyed about 20 pit bull terriers after they had been confiscated from a dogfight. Pit bulls have been the subject of controversy since recent reports of several maulings by the dogs.

While it is open to question whether dogs - or any other animal - dangerous to humans should be destroyed, it would appear that the punishments are falling altogether on the wrong heads. The owners of animals trained to be vicious would seem to be at fault, rather than the animals themselves.

When an animal is trained to attack, whether on command or on sight, there is an acceptance of the burden of liability on the part of the owner. It implies a willingness to be responsible for the actions of that animal, and it requires attention when those animals are loose on general society.

Pit bulls, whether trained as attack dogs or fighting dogs, respond to situations without the benefit of rational assessment. The same applies to German shepherd and Doberman pinscher "guard" dogs. These animals are bred for their tenacious fighting, and when placed in a situation that triggers their attack response, it is illogical to expect them to stop, think and say: "Whoa! I hadn't better bite this person, now had

They bite, full speed ahead.

Let us not, then, destroy animals that are not able to reason out the whys and wherefores of their lives. Rather, the individuals who train these animals - deliberately train them - to be a menace to society should cease their actions.

It is not so much a question of deciding if attack dogs are "right" or "wrong," but what the result of their actions will be. It is becoming increasingly, painfully clear that attack animals are a menace, and if the assumption of responsibility is sufficient to indicate fault, then their owners and trainers are in the wrong.

Attacking animals is not the answer, nor is destroying those animals already trained to be dangerous. Putting a halt to the training - and worse yet, the combat for spectator "pleasure" is. Instead of punishing animals as if they were responsible for their actions, those trainers who are responsible should be punished. If the training of attack dogs is eliminated, there won't be any more attack dogs. It seems so simple - perhaps that is the difficulty.

Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Editorial

Thursday, November 7, 1985 -4

1 . 1 . . 4317 - 11111 1 1

President of University needs 'right stuff'

One of the biggest impacts on the future of our University lies with the decision that will be made by the group of students, faculty and, disproportionally, alumni who comprise the University's Presidential Search Committee. It is crucial that this committee select a president who will be able to recognize, communicate and respond to the needs of the University community.

There are a number of qualities the committee needs to look for in the selection of our next president. They range from being an effective manager of personnel to being a highly visible, national personality. Package these qualifications into one and we would have a president who has the "right stuff."

There has been much debate surrounding whether or not the new president should come from an academic environment or from the public sector. A happy medium must be found here.

It is important the new president has served in an academic environment, both as an instructor and as an administrator. But it is crucial that our new president also be someone who has served in the private

It is a necessity that the new president has had a chance to view a university system from the outside, sort of a "looking in at the fishbowl" for a change, rather than always having to "look out." The best management skills come from those who have served in the private sector.

One of the most important characteristics of our new president should be that of a polished communicator. K-State is failing at this point in public and press relations. Only the school's downfalls are being brought out.

MIKE RILEY Collegian Columnist

The lack of communication on the Fred Bramlage Coliseum fiasco is case in point. Nobody is being told what is going, on resulting in a continuing image of K-State as a bumbling bureaucracy.

The administration is not perfect - none is - but an effective public relations campaign, led from Anderson 110, could shed light on our school's positive aspects rather than allowing the press and the public to center on its drawbacks.

Communication is a necessity. We need a president willing to let the students and faculty know what is going on. The vehicle for this communication would be up to the president, whether it be weekly interviews with the press or question-and-answer forums with students. Not only will it give us the opportunity to know what is going on, but it will also give the president the chance to find out what issues are most concerning us.

I would like to see a qualified candidate come along who has also worked with a state legislature and a regent system in some aspect. Because we rely on the Legislature and the Board of Regents for funding and certain policy guidelines, it would only be beneficial if the new president has been exposed to the systems before.

Something that would be great for K-State would be the selection of someone highly visible on the national level. One can only guess the benefits received if our president is a household name. Although this may appear to be wishful thinking, some of the tidbits floating through the rumor mill tell us that one or two such people have expressed some sort of interest in serving as our next president.

In short, I would like to see a candidate selected who has served in instructive and administrative capacity for a university, has served five to 10 years in the private sector as a personnel or resource manager for a sizable institution, is a capable communicator willing to address the needs of all members of the University community, understands the politics in dealing with a state legislature and the regents and who is nationally known.

Our new president will be taking the helm of a University requiring effective leadership capable of taking us through the storm many believe will rain down on us due to the inadequacies of our current administration. Let's hope the committee selects a president who has the right qualifications - the right stuff.

ANYONE MAY submit a guest column offering an opinion on a topic of public interest. Columns should be about three double-spaced pages.

Rethink coliseum project

Clearly the construction prospects of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum are shaky. The administration, however, reports the project is "essential" to the fund-raising hopes of the University and should be carried to completion.

Literally thousands of hours of work has been put into the project during the eight years the $16.1 million structure has been under consideration, but not a single speck of dirt has been removed south of KSU Stadium.

Last spring, University administrators admitted no site or feasibility studies were completed before the size, location and cost of the building was determined.

Yet University officials said they were shocked when construction bids were $3.4 million to $8.2 million above the $14.5 million estimate.

The redesign will eliminate 2,500 seats and nearly all of the coaches' offices. Are we getting what was promised?

In response to the concern about the coliseum, Student Senate is expected to vote today on a bill that would freeze $7 million in student funds for the coliseum until several studies are completed. Why were studies not completed eight years ago?

Considering the stakes, it would have been prudent for the the coliseum planners to have anticipated the decline in enrollment, and perhaps, the changing values of the student population, stagnant performances of the sports teams and the prospect of tighter operating budgets.

The future of the University is, in a way, tied up in the coliseum. The completion of the facility is not "essential" to the success of the University. The educational mission of the school is "essen-

Everyone involved in the project should take a step back and consider the implications of this mammoth project. Will it be a grindstone the University is forced to carry for 20 years? Or will the coliseum be the greatest thing to happen at K-State in 20 years? It is not too late to decide. And it is never too late to correct errors.

> Tim Carpenter, editor

Family thanks

My husband and I want to tell each and every one of you how deeply we appreciate everything you have done. We cannot begin to tell you how much it means to us to know there are so many good people like all of you. We have had so many calls, cards, letters and donations to Mike Newton's memorial

We want to thank you with all our hearts including all of the faculty at K-State - from the president on down. We want to thank you for your calls, cards and visits at the hospital and for coming to Kansas City for Mike's funeral. We also want to thank all the students who did the same. We want to thank all of Mike's friends and neighbors for all they have done.

We would like to tell Jerome Nadel that we really appreciate the letter he wrote in the newspaper about Mike. There aren't enough words to express how much we really appreciate everything that has been done for our son. He was a lucky person to have so many care about him.

I could go on and on, but each of you know who we are trying to thank. We will never forget any of you - including Mike's bicycle friends.

> Barbara and James Newton parents of Mike Newton couraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the authob and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached must be included.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are en-

Photo tasteless

I have enjoyed sitting down to breakfast with the daily Collegian in hand - until I saw the front-page picture in the Nov. 5 Collegian. The very upsetting and most uncalled for picture of Teresa Clay's unfortunate accident does not need to be shown for the general public's "delight."

Can you imagine Clay's reaction when she sees herself on the front page of the Collegian for everyone to see? After all, would you like to see your picture on the front page after you have been in an automobile accident? Almost everyone would say, "no." The Collegian doesn't need to stoop as low as certain national newspapers by printing pictures of violence in the paper.

An apology from the Collegian staff to Clay and to the daily readers is in order.

Michael Tillotson

freshman in electrical engineering

Accident picture lacks sensitivity

When I picked up a copy of the Collegian this morning (Nov. 5), I was shocked to see a front-page picture of an accident victim, Teresa Clay, as she was being helped from her car. My reaction was not to the accident itself (I'd already heard about it the night before) but to the fact that such a picture was

Teresa is the wife of Don Clay, a student at the American Institute of Baking, where I am a teaching assistant. He was hospitalized in the accident. When we at AIB saw the picture, the main reaction was disgust that such a sensationalistic photo would be printed. Sure it was news, but people's pain should not be an item for public display, unless they give their consent. I wonder whether your photographer had it. The picture was also so close up that whoever took it practically had to be in the way of the

In the future, I suggest that the Collegian show a little more discretion.

Denise Eulert Manhattan resident

'KS' not graffiti

Re: William Sullivan's letter, "K-Hill shows disrespect for earth," in the Nov. 6 Collegian:

I fail to see how K-Hill is disrespectful to the earth. I'm quite sure many will agree that K-Hill is an impressive welcome to Manhattan after driving from western Kansas on Fort Riley Boulevard.

I question Sullivan's definition of graffiti. Some graffiti is vulgar and obscene, some is art, but it is all illegal. Am I correct to assume the "KS" letters were legally constructed? Furthermore, K-Hill does not fit into the American Heritage Dictionary's interpretation of graffiti, "scrawling written or drawn so as to be seen by the public." K-Hill was done in neat block letters.

I question the statement that "K-Hill shows disrespect for earth." The concrete "KS" letters are nothing more than a manmade landmark. What Sullivan implies is that all man-made structures are disrespectful to the earth because they all disrupt the natural environment.

Let's not stop with structures. How about farms? Millions of acres of natural vegetation are brutally plowed under because of man's selfish needs. If environmentalists had their way, the world would still be natural deserts, forests, prairies and water, capable of supporting far fewer humans than at present. You think we have a starvation problem now? Thank God for technology and good ol' capitalism to encourage its growth.

As far as removal of the "KS" letters go. I hope Sullivan was kidding. I'm sure it would cost much less, economically and environmentally, to construct a "U" and make it more current than to mass excavate

I agree humans have made foolish decisions about the use of land God gave us, and we always will. I just wish the environmentalists would get a clue and realize what is more important, man or a few squirrels' environment.

Joel Mueller senior in construction science

Firefighting offers excitement

TOTAL PROPERTY AND A SECOND

Students learn to save lives

By JOLA MURPHY Contributing Writer

Nine University students are providing a public service and learning how to save lives and property while attaining their education.

The city began sponsoring a student firefighter program this summer when the new fire station opened at the corner of Denison and Kimball.

After applying for the program, students go through a 120-hour training period in which they learn basic firefighting skills including search-and-rescue and first aid. The program takes about three

"We are conducting the program to augment our full-time strength," said Larry Reese, deputy fire chief. "We are very pleased with the way the program is working out."

Reese said the students are limited to duties which maintain their skill level.

After completing the training period the students become firefighters. During the summer the students work full time and during the school year they work part time. The undergraduate students must take at least 12 hours and maintain a 2.0 GPA. Graduate students must take at least six hours and maintain a 3.0 GPA.

final examination is a cumulative test of academic and physical skills. For example, a student must be able to strap on a self-contained breathing apparatus in 40 seconds or less. The student firefighters must be able to carry a body while climbing a ladder.

"We do the same things the regular firemen do. Our skills have to become second-nature to us." said Ted Smith, freshman in journalism mass communications.

Three women and six men are participating in the program. They live in a residential area in the basement of the fire station and share a living room, kitchen, laundry and storage room.

"I'm a risk taker by nature and I like to try anything once," said Tammy Tracy, graduate in consumer affairs. "When I was younger, I was interested in forestry and I think that's what sparked the challenge in me to become a firefighter.

"Sometimes when we're on duty we get bored and hope something exciting will happen, but at the same time we hope we don't get a call because we know someone could be hurt or someone's property is being destroyed. It's a very exciting job.'

Many of the students participating in the program do not plan to make firefighting a living, but are doing it part time for the experience and a steady job through college.

"I saw it as an excellent opportunity while I was going to school," said Keith Sharp, freshman in computer science. "My father is a fireman and he suggested that I apply for the position as one of the student firefighters - so I did and I'm glad. It's a good opportunity and a great place to live.

When the students go on duty, they leave the apartment and live upstairs in the station where the equipment is ready and the firefighters are prepared for incoming calls.

"When we go on duty, we can't come back down to our apartment until our shift is over," said Mike Pemberton, freshman in electrical engineering. The students take turns working at the dispatch desk and relaying phone calls.

When the students aren't fighting fires, they clean the fire station. Every Monday night is cleanup night.

Firefighting can be a dangerous occupation but no students feel they have been in a lifethreatening situation.

"I don't know what I would do if I got in a really dangerous situation," said Andy Leon, freshman business in administration. "But I think that I'm prepared enough to handle a situation if it should arise.'

"We are told to use our own discretion," said Steve Moyer, freshman in pre-forestry. "If a person is trapped and I think I can get him then I should go for it, but if it's too risky, then it's better not to lose two lives."

Play portrays life of Truman

By The Collegian Staff

"The Buck Stops Here," a dramatic musical-play of the life of President Harry S. Truman, cowritten by Richard A. Lippman and Norman Fedder, professor of speech, makes its Kansas debut at 8 p.m. Friday in Nichols Hall.

The Manhattan community has the opportunity to view the first production in the new theater in Nichols Hall. Other performances scheduled are Nov. 12-16.

The play premiered in 1980 in New York and received rave reviews from the New York Times, Fedder said. It also traveled to Washington, D.C., and Arrow Rock, Mo.

Professional actor Harris Shore portrayed Truman in the previous residency at K-State for the past six weeks to return as Truman. He plays an unusual role, Fedder said.

"Apart from the fact that he looks the part, he's an excellent actor," Fedder said. "He brings his acting into dancing and singing. He has charisma." Someone who could age from 17 to 69 in two hours was also needed, he said.

Fedder wrote the "book," - the dialogue, pattern of action and structure. Lippman wrote the musical score - the music and

"It's proven to be a show people want to see. People like Truman, his life," he said. The musical opens when Truman is 10 and progresses through Truman's life, emphasizing productions and has been in in particular his political career as the United States' 33rd president.

Even though the play is a political play, it is also a love story, Fedder said. Truman had known Bess Wallace, who he later married, since his childhood. Three other women, his daughter, mother and mother-inlaw, also play significant parts in the

On the political side of the play, Truman became president only by accident, because he was vice president when President Franklin D. Roosevelt died.

"I had to take a stand on issues of his life, I wrote the play because I admired the man," Fedder said. "But I was still obligated to be true and not distort history. The facts are included, but yet it is entertaining.'

KU students charged in disruption

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE - Five students at the University of Kansas were charged Wednesday with interfering with public business after they refused to leave the chancellor's office Monday after an antiapartheid demonstration.

The five were charged with interference with the conduct of public business in a public place, a misdemeanor, said a spokesman for Douglas County District Attorney Jim Flory. Court appearances were set for Nov. 12 in Douglas County District Court.

Those charged were: Jane Ungerman, 25, of Lawrence; Lisa Rasor, 19, Topeka; Edward Jackson, 24, Topeka; Ruth Lichtwardt, 26, Lawrence; and Michael Maher, 18, Roeland Park.

about 40 people who marched to the chancellor's suite on the second floor of the administration building in the center of campus. The group went to the chancellor's office after they attended a peaceful rally of about 200

The five were among a group of

"After the rally, some of the students walked across the street to the administration building and some went into the chancellor's suite making demands," Lt. Jeanne Longaker of the campus police said. "They were asked to leave numerous times, and all but five left."

The students had been demonstrating against the KU Endowment Association's continued investments in South Africa. They held a mock funeral procession and heard speakers denounce South Africa's apartheid policy, under which the white minority rules the black majority.

Following demonstration, Chancellor Gene A. Budig said "disruptive behavior is in diametric opposition to what a university stands for...Those who disrupt the activities of a university do not understand the basic purposes of an institution of higher learning."

Budig also said his representatives have met with members of the KU Committee on South Africa, one of the groups advocating divestiture, and remained willing to do so.

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

comprehensive health associates

*free pregnancy tests *outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling *gynecology contraception Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Fountain Falls Tropical Fish Shop Thursday Special 6-8 p.m.

15% off

fish

0%

D);-

*

9).

D)-

B)-

6%

Selected freshwater

CORRECTION

The UPC film, "The Cars That Ate Paris," today at 3:30 (Little Theatre) and 7:30 (Forum Hall) has an admission price of $1.75

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

539-3830

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

101 + DayTODAY ONLY

$101 Specials

Post It Note Pads Reg. 1.50-2.00 Pocket Trivia Games, Reg. 1.95 Paper Weight Stationary 10 sheets, 10 envelopes, Reg. 2.00 Cabbage Patch Figurines, Reg. 2.50

$10°1 Specials

李 李 李

-

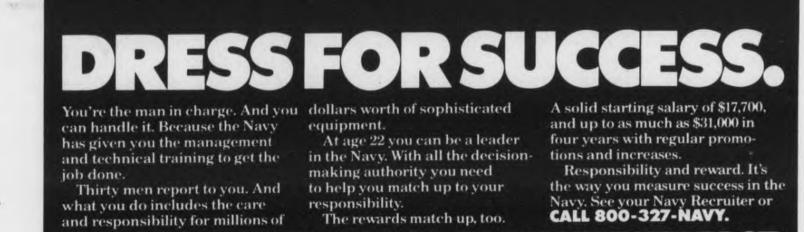

4 4 4

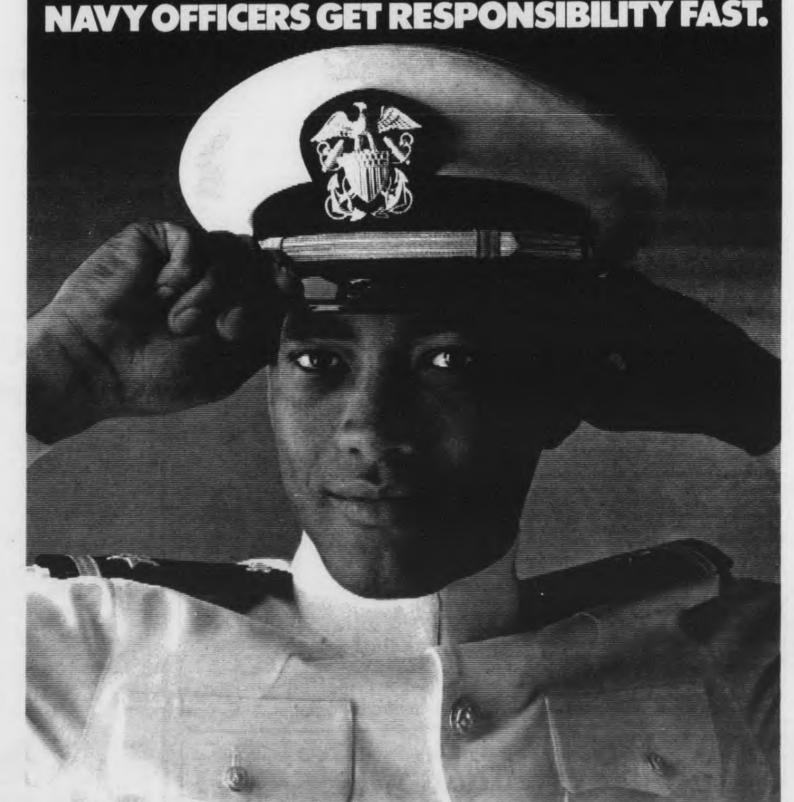

Bear Foot Slippers, Reg. 20.00 4 Coffee Mugs, up to $5.50 ea. Create a Scrapbook Binder and 3 inserts, Reg. $20.00

$10100 Specials J.J. Bearfoot, Reg. 150.00

704 N. Manhattan in Aggieville Hours: Mon.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 Thursday 8:30-8:30

4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4

Survey shows Lafene services not dissatisfying to students

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

Lafene Student Health Center is used by fewer students than it should be, however, Lafene is striving to improve communication to increase student use, said Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene.

During fiscal year 1984-85, about 64,000 students visited Lafene, including clinic and outpatient services, Tout said. Every time students walk through the door and records are pulled from the files, students have technically visited Lafene.

'We still don't have the student who lives in or near Manhattan," Tout said. "I would guess students not using our services are either in that category or simply are not aware of what we offer.

The Lafene Health Survey, conducted in April 1983 by the Office of Planning and Evaluation Services, showed the failure of students to use Lafene was not caused by dissatisfaction with its services or personnel. Tout said, but rather, students "not being ill" or "being carried by another medical plan."

The survey, requested by the health center, is completed on a five-year cycle, said Ron Downey, director of educational research. Downey said 1,000 questionnaires were mailed to full-time students, 256 of which were returned and evaluated. The questionnaires were distributed late in the semester and no follow-up attempts were made to obtain further responses. Overall, 94 percent of those students completing the survey were satisfied with Lafene's services. Tout said the majority of the dissatisfied 6 percent "may have a medical problem which can be better taken care of elsewhere."

Tout also said student dissatisfaction may be caused by a bad experience during a visit to Lafene, such as not liking a nurse or being denied service because a fee card is not readily available.

"Once a student has that kind of experience, he may never attempt to use the service again, which is unfortunate," Tout

The survey also showed a number of students were told by other students that Lafene's services were unsatisfactory. Therefore, use of the health center can be gained or lost by word of mouth, Tout said.

"However, we don't have as many uninformed students as we did four years ago," he said. "We are making ourselves more visible. It is an ongoing effort to better Lafene's image."

For example, the health center sponsors guest lecturers and has a public relations committee which addresses student concerns. Also, Tout said Lafene is often used for class projects and receives recommendations based on the results.

Students pay $55 per semester for Lafene's services, Tout said. Students enrolled in six hours or less can elect to pay the health fee. Those who choose not to pay the initial fee are charged $20 for each of their first three visits to Lafene. After three visits, they receive the same service as the students who initially pay the fee.

Tout said married students are given 10 days after registration to enroll their spouses for coverage under the health fee. Children and faculty and staff members are not allowed use of the health center.

Additional charges are made for certain visits, such as blood counts and throat cultures. Tout said students are also charged for medications and prescriptions. Markup on prescriptive drugs at Lafene is 35 percent as compared with 100-300 percent at local pharmacies.

Total income for the fiscal year 1984-85 was about $1.98 million, about $19,500 less than the $2 million in total expenditures, Tout

Income consists of funds generated by the student health care fee and additional charges imposed on students using the facility. Lafene receives no state or federal funding.

Tout said the majority of Lafene's expenditures are used toward employees' salaries. Lafene employs 93 people, including student employees.

"We are looking at areas to cut, such as food service," Tout said. "However, some employees are needed and kept busy but don't generate income, such as the health educator or a secretary."

Lafene is subject to the same cost increases as any other health-providing areas, Tout said. The markup of services must be high enough to generate income for

"However, at the same time we have to do what the students need and want," Tout said. "It is an ongoing thing and a constant

Professor opposes selection of new appeals court judge

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A University of Kansas English professor announced Wednesday she'll oppose the nomination of KU administrator Deanell Tacha to a seat on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at confirmation hearings next week before the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee.

Myra Hinman, who has logged 25 years on KU's faculty and is suing the school for sex discrimination in its employment practices, revealed her plans to oppose Tacha in of a letter her attorney sent to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. and chairman of the committee.

Tacha, 39, is vice chancellor for academic affairs and a law professor at KU. President Reagan announced last Thursday he had selected Tacha to take a lifetime seat on the 10-member appeals court.

"Ms. Tacha has used her position as vice chancellor at KU to vigorously oppose every effort by women and minorities to achieve equal employment opportunities at KU," Fred W. Phelps Jr., attorney for Hinman, said in the letter, which was released to the news media.

Tacha was not in her Lawrence office Wednesday and unavailable for comment. Hinman accused Tacha of "unlawful misconduct" for refusing to enforce a "conciliation agreement" signed by the university with the U.S. Department of Labor after violations of the federal equal employment opportunity guidelines were reported at the school.

'Ms. Tacha, with responsibility to implement said agreement, not only failed, neglected and refused to do so, but on the contrary appears to have used her position at KU to, in effect, thwart implementation thereof," Phelps said, stating Hinman's

"Ms. Tacha has shown by her actions over the years at KU that she is profounding opposed to equal rights under the law for all Americans.

Phelps said Hinman believes and will testify that Tacha "cannot be trusted with power as a federal appeals court judge to be fair, but will, to the contrary, in all probability translate her apparent un-American and unconstitutional philosophy into decisional law."

Hinman filed a discrimination lawsuit eight years ago which is pending in U.S. District Court in Topeka. Her lawsuit is critical of all aspects of KU's employment policies including promotions, pay, sabaticals, research grants and classroom assignments. In the letter, Phelps said his client challenges Tacha's "integrity and fitness to be a federal appeals court judge" and asks permission to testify and requests the hearing be delayed so she has more time to gather information.

Flood waters continue to rise in East

Officials fear pollution of water

By The Associated Press

Health officials voiced concern about contaminated water Wednesday in the wake of devastating floods that killed at least 35 people in the mid-Atlantic states. The governors of Virginia and West Virginia surveyed damage estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Rivers that crested at record levels were returning to their banks in many areas, but Richmond braced for a surge on the James River and sandbagging continued at historic sites around Washington, D.C., in anticipation of a Potomac River crest up to 7 feet above flood stage.

About 20 people were still listed as missing in the floods that followed three days of heavy rain.

More than 2,000 people remained out of their homes Wednesday in Pennsylvania and the Virginias, while many began the task of mopping up.

For others, however, there was no home to return to, as trailers, A-frames and other structures washed down swollen

"You could see the loss in people's eyes and hear it in people's voices," said ambulance worker Chris Trout at Rainelle, W.Va. "All around, people have lost their homes and everything.

Gov. Charles S. Robb toured Virginia's flood-ravaged western mountains by helicopter Wednesday, as his state's storm death toll climbed to 19. The bodies of 15 more were recovered in West Virginia and one in Maryland, officials said.

The West Virginia governor's office said an earlier figure of 18 dead was erroneous because several fatalities had been counted twice. State officials said, however, that they expected to find more

Meanwhile, the James, surging out of its banks, roared toward Richmond and threatened to inundate a major section of the city's downtown area. Richmond officials were distributing sandbags for the river's expected crest Thursday and City Manager Manuel Deese declared a state of emergency.

"Tropical Storm Agnes-level water is coming down the river," said city Public Safety Director Jack M. Fulton. Agnes, the greatest flood of record in the city since 1771, hit in June 1972 and crested more than 271/2 feet above flood stage.

The National Weather Service was predicting a crest of 20 feet above flood stage, but Fulton said it could go higher.

flooding because gauges were washed

Observers monitoring water levels were having difficulty determining the extent of

"When the stream gauge that's set to withstand the flood in swept away, you're talking flood," said climatologist Patrick Michaels.

The National Park Service closed several parks in the Washington area and sandbagged the historic Great Falls Tavern and other sites against possible flooding.

The National Weather Service said the Potomac was expected to crest at six to seven feet above flood stage Thursday afternoon in the Georgetown area of Washington. Park Service spokesman Earl Kittleman said 5,000 historic artifacts had been moved from Harpers Ferry Park on the Potomac in West Virginia to higher ground or sandbagged buildings. Gov. Arch Moore of West Virginia also took to the air to examine the devastation for which he sought federal disaster aid in 22 counties.

Twenty-six emergency shelters were set up and food and medical supplies were moved into the flood area, the governor

The governor and others expressed concern about contamination of drinking water supplies, as raw sewage and dead livestock floated down streets.

NOW YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS CAN PARTY IN ULTIMATE CLASS

MAKE APPOINTMENTS NOW

CALL: 539-7926

PERFECT FOR DANCES, PARTIES, SPECIAL OCCASSIO

- Color T.V. -Moonroof -AM/FM Cass - Privacy Glass -Chauffer Driven a Ride Limousine elevice
SPECIAL WEEKDAY RATES

TODAY is the LAST DAY to get your Royal Purple picture taken.

Take your fee card to UNION 209. Hours are 8:30-12:30 and 1:30-5:30.

539-5229

FRI. & SAT. ALL SEATS $4.00

SPECIALS FOR STUDENTS!

0% OFF

any meal on our menu when you present your Student I.D. Offer good 7 days a week, 5 p.m.-close.

Come enjoy a sensational meal at the Plum Tree...your home away from home!

Remember... Everyday is a holiday at your

530 Richards Dr.,

NIGHTHAWK Open Sunday 1-5 p.m. McCall's Shoes 539-5311

Senate to vote on bill to halt coliseum funds

By MARY ROEHL Collegian Reporter

Student Senate will vote on legislation asking the Board of Regents to halt student financial support of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum at its weekly meeting.

The bill requests the regents to withdraw student monetary support for the proposed coliseum until proper planning steps are adopted. The legislation details eight planning steps: a master plan of the entire project, a market study, a financial feasibility study, a site selection study, a traffic study, a building program, a funding study and a design for the facility.

The Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum bill is sponsored by Lawrence Tsen, senior in premedicine, and Martin Monto, junior in biology.

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance; Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect; Vincent Cool, associate director of planning; and Fred Bramlage will attend the senate meeting to answer questions about the coliseum during discus-

Senate will also hear first readings of a resolution and a bill for Associated Students of Kansas, both sponsored by Kevin Elmore, senior in computer science and ASK campus director; and Senate State and Community Affairs Committee.

The Prioritization of ASK Tentative Platform resolution presents K-State's views of what issues ASK should concentrate on next year.

The Approval of ASK Constitution Changes bill revises the ASK constitution.

Senate meets at 7 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

McCain to offer opera

By The Collegian Staff

McCain Auditorium will present the New York City Opera National Company's production of Charles Gounod's "Faust" at 8 tonight.

The opera will be presented in French with English subtitles projected onto a screen directly above the action.

Based upon portions of Goethe's classic, "Faust" concentrates upon the sentimental romance of Faust and a young maiden, Marguerite. Faust is an aged philosopher who sells his soul to the devil in exchange for the secret of worldly pleasure.

The devil, named Mephistopheles, represents evil and Marguerite represents good. Faust's soul hangs in the balance between these forces.

The opera is set in a period of spiritual and social upheaval where Romantic ideals clashed with scientific reality.

Founded in 1979 by Beverly Sills, the New York City Opera National Company features a 75-member performing ensemble.

Tickets are available from the McCain Box Office for $16 and $17 for students and $19 and $20 for the general public.

FREE DELIVERY (10% off with KSU I.D.) 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

with English subtitles

539-8888 or 537-0886

1116 Moro

Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

A longstanding legend 47 days left 8 Fridays left

> 8 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition! 111 3rd St.

HUNAM Restaurant m

1304 Westloop

DINNER THEATRE

"The Front Room" at Gregor's

Fri. & Sat. evenings through Nov. 16 Kansas Actors Theatre presents

"Greater Tuna"

Fri.-Sat.: Dinner at 6:30 & Performance at 8:00

Officials arrest prize winner as alien

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Calif. - A young Mexican who sneaked across the border and won the California lottery's $2 million jackpot was arrested Wednesday immigration authorities who said they acted quickly because he "bragged" about his illegal status.

Jose Caballero, a 24-year-old illegal alien working for $200 a week, was arrested at his home in East San Jose, according to Arthur Shanks, deputy director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in San Francisco.

Shanks said Caballero was given a choice of an immediate voluntary deportation at his own cost or a hearing with a judge to determine whether he will be allowed to stay in the United States. Caballero opted for the hearing, Shanks said.

Shanks said Caballero was arrested "because it would look real bad to the taxpayers," if he were allowed to remain free after boasting of his illegal status.

"He's bragged about his ability to enter the United States illegally," said Shanks. He said Caballero normally would have been asked to come to the INS office with his attorney to discuss his immigration

The arrest was made quickly because Caballero had put the federal agency in an embarrassing position, Shanks said.

congratulations on a wonderful mission," Mission Control told the astronauts as the spacecraft came to National Aeronautics and Space

Administration chief James Beggs said the success of the international,

West German-sponsored mission

'gives us a lot of confidence that we can proceed to the space station era where we'll be cooperating with a

He said the mission was important number of countries.

YOU

a rest under a cloudless desert sky.

David Still, the acting officer in charge of the San Jose INS office, said Caballero was taken to the INS office at 8:15 a.m. and was then interviewed for several hours with his attorney present.

"He moved up in our priority system, possibly because of all the notoriety," said Still. "The word came that we should go out and interview him right away.

Caballero will post $5,000 bail and be freed until the hearing. according to Still. No date for the hearing has been set.

Caballero said earlier that he had planned to go home anyway to see his parents and eight brothers and sisters, who thought he was joking when he called them from Los Angeles after winning the jackpot Monday.

Although Caballero has said he would like to become an American citizen and start his own business, that part of his dream may have to Caballero will have to leave the United States, then apply for a permanent resident visa the same as any undocumented alien, said Harold Ezell, INS regional commissioner in Los Angeles.

"A lot of people have money and would like to come here. It would be unfair to the many who are waiting," Ezell said.

Lottery Director Mark Michalko said Caballero would be awarded full installments of his prize.

Shuttle completes international project

By The Associated Press

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. - Challenger coasted onto a desert runway Wednesday after a science mission flown by a record crew of eight, and researchers promptly began studying five of the astronauts to see how they re-adapt to gravity.

The space shuttle and its crew of five Americans, two West Germans and a Dutchman touched down at 11:45 a.m. CST on a dry lakebed after a 7-day, 45-minute mission in which it orbited the Earth 111 times and traveled more than 3 million miles.

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600 K-State Players

HARRIS SHORE starring in THE BUCK STOPS HERE -A Musical Play-November 8, 12-16

8:00 p.m. Nichols Theatre Call 532-6398 "Harry Truman comes alive on stage"

"Welcome home, Challenger, and for NASA's goal of establishing support from a number of nations for the U.S. plan to build a permanent space station.

> During the 48-second coast after Challenger touched down on the Edwards runway, mission commander Henry Hartsfield tested a new nose wheel steering system that is to give more control for landing space shuttles.

Tucked into the Spacelab module in Challenger's cargo bay were the results of 76 studies on the effects of

TAVERN

Thursday

$1.00 Admission

$1.45 Pitchers

40¢ Steins

Wildcat Dancers

Guest Bartenders

Halloween Party Pics are in

619 N. Manhattan

weightlessness on melted metals and glasses, biological specimens and on human physiology

West Germany paid NASA $64 million to fly the experiments, about 42 percent of the $150 million estimated cost of the mission. The research was monitored from a control center in Oberpfaffenhofen, near Munich. Officials in West Germany said it will take scientists at least a year to study, evaluate and report on the vast amount of data gathered.

 KSU Faculty-Bring I.D. and purchase 5 tanning sessions for $7.50

·Friday-Mar · Y · Sol Keg Party and open house

-free beer from 2-7 -tour the facilities

1214C Moro Behind Aggie Ski & Sport 776-7874

SUITS

Entire stock of Winter and Year-Round. Super selection of solids, pinstripes and patterns. Pick from Hart Schaffner Marx, Halston, Cricketeer, Kingsridge and J.D. Christopher.

$129.90 to $299.90 REG. $225.00 to $395.00

SWEATERS

Excellent selection of solids and fancies. From Puritan, Lord Jeff, Robert Bruce, Damon and others.

SAVE 20% to 50%

DRESS SHIRTS

Entire stock by Arrow, Damon, Downing and Dent and other famous DUE TO THE NATURE OF brands. Regular collar and button

THIS SALE: CASH, SINGLE CHECK, MASTERCARD & NEEDLED VISA ONLY, ALL SALES FINAL, NO HOUSE REG. $25.00 CHARGES, NO ALTERATIONS, NO

PINPOINT OXFORD FROM $14.99 FROM $29.99

SPORTCOATS

A Savings Opportunity You Will Not Want To Pass Up.

Very large selection of sizes, colors and fabrics. Choose from Kingsridge, Jack Nicklaus, Cricketeer and other famous brands.

$89.90 to $189.90

Reg. $145.00 to $325.00

SLACKS

Entire stock 100% wool and dacron and wool blends. Fashion and casual slacks including Jaymar Ruby, Berle and Tailor Bench.

$19.99 to $59.99 REG. $32.50 to $85.00

TIES

Hundreds of traditional pure silk, polyester and polysilk blends in stripes or foulards.

$9.99 $12.99 $14.99 REG. TO $25.00

WEST LTD. 327 POYNTZ AVENUE

LAYAWAYS.

STARTS FRIDAY NOVEMBER 8TH

AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

Continued from Page 1

United States would call a meeting of all nuclear powers to "see if we cannot use that weapon to bring about...the elimination of nuclear

If that conference failed to gain an agreement for mutual use of the defensive system, Reagan said, "we would go ahead with deployment."

Earlier Wednesday, when asked if he meant to give the Soviets veto power, in effect, over deployment of the proposed defensive weapons system, Reagan replied, "Hell no."

Reagan also said in the wideranging discussion that he suspects but can't prove the defection and subsequent return of Soviet masterspy Vitaly Yurchenko and two other Soviet citizens were part of "a deliberate ploy" by the Kremlin in the days leading up to the Nov. 19-20 Geneva summit.

The president said he was perplexed by the three cases, but we just have to live with it because there's no way we can prove or disprove" that the cases were orchestrated.

Contrary to recent reports from intelligence sources, Reagan said the information Yurchenko provided 'was not anything new or sensational. It was pretty much information already known to the

As recently as last week, U.S. intelligence sources were crowing over what they called the gold mine of information from Yurchenko, who defected to the United States three months ago and returned to the Soviet Union on Wednesday.

Reagan also made these points in the half-hour interview

There is every indication that Gorbachev is "a reasonable man," and that gives Reagan hope he can convince the Communist Party chief the United States has no expansionist aims and genuinely wants to ease the distrust with which the two superpowers regard each other.

- His goal at the summit will be to "eliminate the distrust" between the superpowers, not to negotiate a new arms control agreement.

- He welcomed word from the Soviet Union that Yelena Bonner, wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, will be permitted to leave the country for medical treatment, saying her release is "long overdue." But he added that positive move by the Soviets won't prevent the United States from raising human rights issues at the summit.

But, he said, Gorbachev also was argumentative, occasionally impulsive and "apparently there are some gaps in his knowledge of American criticism of Soviet pro-

Troops rush court; leftists retain judges

By The Associated Press

BOGOTA, Colombia - About 25 leftist guerrillas shot their way into the Palace of Justice Wednesday, but three hours later troops stormed the court building, seizing the lower three floors and freeing more than 100 hostages.

Guerrillas of the April 19 Movement still held a "large number" of judges on the top two floors of the five-story structure, according to one of the hostages, Supreme Court President Alfsonso Reyes. He was contacted by telephone and said, "If the government doesn't cut off its attack there could be a tragedy here."

As sporadic shooting continued, the Bogota mayor's office reported that four policemen and soldiers had been killed and about a dozen were wounded. It gave no figure on guerrilla casualties, but radio stations reported earlier that two guerrillas were slain in the initial gun battles and at least 15 more were killed during the army assault.

Reyes told radio station large number of judges as hostages and it is a question of life or death that the gunfire stop. Please pass that on so the president will give the order to stop the attack.

As the judge spoke, bursts of submachine gun fire could be heard from Reyes' office on the fourth floor of the building. Exchanges of gunfire continued as night fell.

Radio Caracol telephoned federal Judge Fernando Gonzalez before the army assault, and he said, "I think all 24 members of the Supreme Court are being held hostage."

It was not known if Gonzalez was among more than 100 people who were freed and fled from the building during and after the army assault.

Radio stations said President Belisario Betancur's brother, federal Judge Jaime Betancur, was among those who escaped unharmed.

President Betancur met with his Cabinet in an emergency session, but no details were given and it was not known if it was

Teachers

Continued from Page 1

A program funded by 44 states offers students in the top 5 percent of their class $30,000 to complete teaching degrees. After students earn teaching degrees, they may agree to remain in the state a certain length of time to receive their loans debt-free. Akin said.

On Feb. 28, state schools looking for teachers for the following school year will be on campus interviewing education majors. About 8.5 percent of education graduates leave the state to teach, he said.

Royal

Continued from Page 1

Association is greatly depending on the annual rodeo to boost attendance.

The rodeo, combined with a variety of country music stars including Rornie Milsap and Gary Morris, will headline the Royal for five nights.

The overall attendance of events, combined with the contributions, will be the major factors determining the financial success of the Royal, Nofftz

Continued from Page 1

fensive weapons, were erroneously interpreted. Asked earlier if he meant, in effect, to give the Soviets veto power over deployment of the proposed defensive weapons system, Reagan replied, "Hell no."

The American party returned to Washington on Wednesday afternoon, with Shultz telling reporters at

Andrews Air Force Base that the Soviets "think that everything that happens in the United States is a conspiracy of the military and big business."

Asked whether prospects for an arms limitation agreement appeared slim after the secretary's meetings, Speakes said Shultz's sessions with Soviet leaders "make some progress, but differences do remain."

"We are prepared for our part to enter into serious discussions...but

The official who briefed reporters in Iceland described Gorbachev. after seven months at the Kremlin apex, as articulate, vigorous and intellectually curious.

grams and also of our concerns.

"The United States has no alterreporters traveling with Shultz

A SUNDAY SPECIAL TO MAKE A SPECIAL SUNDAY MERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

BEFORE or AFTER CHURCH RELAX AND ENJOY LUNCH or DINNER AT MR. STEAK

Your Choice of 5 oz. FILLET OR SIRLOIN TERIYAKI SIRLOIN MUSHROOM & ONION STEAK CHICKEN FRIED STEAK

SHRIMP 12 TERIYAKI CHICKEN LIVER AND ONIONS GROUND BEEF BROIL HAM STEAK HOT PEPPER STEAK FEATURE MENU

4.49 Served With Your Choice Of Our Great Soup and Salad Bar or a Large Crisp Salad served at your table. Also your Choice of Potato or Seasoned Rice and Ranch House Toast.

Westloop Shopping Center Full waitress services . CHILDREN'S MENU

Ski jackets, knit hats & ski sweaters

THURSDAY ONLY

Ski jackets, knit hats

FRIDAY ONLY

& ski sweaters

Ski jackets, knit hats & ski sweaters

SATURDAY ONLY 10% off all other winter wear these 3 days only

Sat 10-5:30

Thurs. till 8:30

1212 Moro

 American Express welcomed Some quantities may be limited Sale prices good thru November 9 or while quantities last. No dealers please

Financing available Visa, Mastercard

maxell

149

FACH

Video Cassette Tapes

DUR LOWEST

Beta or VHS

High Blas 90 Minute

Audio Cassette Tapes Stock Up Now Model UCX 90

SONYOLD

SONY

90

69

MANHATTAN 11th & Moro in Aggieville

Telephone Answering Machine with Beeperless Remote

Voice activated incoming message function, with variable outgoing message capability, and LED call counter, Model KXT-1421

Panasonic

537-4190 WITH APPROVED CREDIT Based on 21% A.P.R. with 20% down and 24 monthly payments. Sales tax of 4% included. Monthly payments. A.P.R. and sales tax will vary from state to state By The Collegian Staff

Students yearning to learn what the "real world of work" is like may now find out through The Alumni Learning Exchange.

The Alumni Learning Exchange, a new program offered by U-LearN and the KSU Alumni Association, will bring together alumni with students who have specific questions about their chosen career field.

"One thing we struggle with in career counseling is students are relatively uninformed about various occupations, so U-LearN is always looking for new sources students can relate to," said Susan Angle, a counselor in the Counseling Center and adviser to U-LearN.

Alumni may provide information in a number of ways. A profile sheet asks the participant to decribe his or her career path, their day-to-day duties and how much responsibility they have. It also asks the participant to discuss what types of

'One thing we struggle with in career counseling is students are relatively uninformed about various occupations, so U-LearN is always looking for new sources students can relate to.'

-Susan Angle, counselor people they encounter, how much stress they feel, whether they take work home and what they would suggest a student do to better prepare for a career while they're still in school

In addition to, or in place of, the profile sheet, a participant may offer to host a student at his or her workplace, or accept a phone call. Seventy alumni are in the program so far, but it is hoped there will eventually be a few hundred, Fraser said.

To participate in the program, a student must go to U-LearN in Holton Hall and work with a trained student volunteer. Between them, they work together to develop some knowledge about the career and determine what questions to ask, said Tracey Fraser, assistant director of U-LearN and graduate student in family life and human development. "It's important the student is prepared to ask well-informed questions, so the experience is positive and beneficial for the student and the alumnus or alumna," Fraser said.

To ensure the success of The Exchange, both the student and the alumnus will fill out an evaluation of their experience, Angle said.

The program was initiated by Angle, who knew of a similar program at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

"It would be nice to inform all students about the Alumni Learning Exchange. The undergraduates could use it and the students who are recent graduates could contribute and be of service to the University," Angle said.

The KSU Alumni Association is co-sponsor of the Exchange.

"The Alumni Association's main role is assisting in identifying alumni who can participate in The Alumni Learning Exchange," said Amy Button Renz, assistant director of alumni records and graduate in political science.

The Alumni Association helps provide something for graduates to become involved in and at the same time it is a worthwhile program for the students, she said.

"People seem interested in the program, especially the younger graduates. Because they want to help but are not financially able, this is a way they can help," Renz

Elusive runaway steer could build reputation

By The Associated Press

ROCKFORD, Ill. - The Pacific Northwest is believed to harbor the man-like sasquatch, Scotland has the legendary Loch Ness monster and the Himalayas may be home to the Abominable Snowman.

Boone and Winnebago counties have Freddy, a wayward steer that is almost as elusive as the others and decidedly more real.

Freddy has been roaming the prairies and cornfields of western Boone and eastern Winnebago counties since his escape during a horse show last month.

The elusive critter was most recently spotted Monday, on the lawn of the Clock Tower Inn, James Gibson of Roscoe Realty said Tuesday

Naturally, Freddy took off before authorities could corral him, he said.

Freddy was among about 35 head of cattle being used Oct. 4 in a cutting horse competition, in which a horse and rider separate a steer from the herd, that was sponsored by Gibson's

Freddy got cut out of the herd, decided to cut out altogether, and jumped a fence.

Several attempts to capture the steer have ended in failure.

Off-year votes provide varied results

By The Associated Press

Voters approved ballot measures affirming handgun control and the right to abortions and to smoke-free workplaces, but three communities rejected attempts to fluoridate their water and San Franciscans refused to limit downtown high-rise construction.

Even in an off-off year election, voters in nine states and scores of cities and towns grappled with ballot issues that touched on some of the nation's most emotion-laden economic and social questions.

Three New England towns -Bristol, Conn.; Dover, N.H.; and Derry, N.H. - rejected similarly worded measures Tuesday calling for the overturning of the U.S. Supreme Court's 12-year old ruling that legalized abortions.

It was the first time since the high court ruling, Roe vs. Wade, that voters had the chance to vote on such referendums.

Oak Park, Ill., one of four U.S. cities which have banned handguns, beat back a proposal to repeal its 13-month-old ban. The other cities with similar handgun laws are Washington, D.C.; Morton Grove, Ill.; and Evanston, Ill. Tucson, Ariz., voters passed a proposition restricting smoking in workplaces, and another one limiting the size and location of billboards. But they defeated a measure that would have required smoke-free space in restaurants.

Fluoridation fared badly in three cities. San Antonio, Texas, narrowly turned back a proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply, making it the second largest city without fluoride in its water after Los Angeles. Westfield and Leominster, both in Massachusetts, also rejected fluoridation.

The president of a national antifluoridation group saw the results as part of a trend.

"People feel the time has come to decrease the amount of additives in our drinking water and they are increasingly demanding a say in issues such as fluoridation," said Susan Pare, president of the Center for Health Action, based in Springfield, Mass.

San Franciscans soundly defeated a proposal to authorize spending up to $150,000 in public funds for a statewide petition drive to legalize marijuana. They also rejected a ballot measure to deny building permits for high-rise structures exceeding 50,000 square feet.

In the District of Columbia, one of about 200 cities with rent control, voters narrowly approved even stiffer guidelines over the objections of Mayor Marion Barry. Opponents had argued the tighter guidelines were unnecessary, and might inhibit rehabilitation of rundown properties. Among other noteworthy ballot contests:

$1.45 Pitchers

 Texas voters gave their blessing to a two-part, $1.43 billion water conservation and development plan that backers led by Gov. Mark White claim will take care of that state's water needs into the next century.

 Ohio voters endorsed a measure authorizing $100 million in borrowing to promote research in removing sulfur from coal and give a lift to the state's depressed coal industry.

Maine narrowly approved a "people's veto" referendum giving residents the right to approve any disposal plans for low-level nuclear

Residents of two college towns, Boulder, Colo., and Oberlin, Ohio, approved measures declaring their cities "nuclear free zones," off limits to nuclear weapons.

Welcome

Royals

Fans!

40¢ Steins

Come down to Dark Horse

tonight and sign our 6 foot congratulatory card to be sent to the World champion K.C. Royals. Don't be left out!

Burglars enter cabin, take valuable items

A cabin near Tuttle Creek Lake was burglarized in early September, resulting in the theft of about $2,000 in property.

The cabin was entered by removing a window screen and lifting the lower sash of the double-hung window enough to permit entry.

The cabin is located in the White Canyon area north of Randolph, about two miles northeast of U.S Highway 77 and County Road 384.

Among items stolen were a Panasonic-brand microwave oven, a Magnavox-brand television, an oscillating fan with ivory base, a set of elk antlers, a small bedside table, a dining table, three-piece wicker $1,000.

furniture set and an assortment of household items.

Information on this or any other crime may be reported to Crime Stoppers at 539-7777. Callers need not use their names and may qualify for a cash reward of up to # Test yourself.

Which early pregnancy test is as easy to read as red, no-white, yes?

Which is a simple one-step test?

Which has a dramatic color change to make the results unmistakable?

Which is 98% accurate, as accurate as many hospital and lab tests?

Which is portable for convenience and privacy?

You get a Plus! You're right.

AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

U.S.D.A. CHOICE SIRLOIN Cajun flavored with Baked Potato All You Can Eat

Soup & Salad Bar

PLUS The Most Efficient Servi Open 7 Days A Week ot Facilities A 776-8660

IN OUR DINING ROOM and BAR ALL HAMBURGERS $795 includes Home-Cut

FRIES

(10 to choose from!) PLUS, after 5 30 KC STRIP OZ. RIBEYE

Home-Cut Fries. or Vegetable

80c DRAWS $1.00 WINE

RESTAURANT & BAR

1115 MORO 776-0030

All Week Specials

All Week-Hot Tubs •1/2 hour-$3

• 1 hour-$5

-$2 tanning sessions-limit 10 -register to win

·Grand prize of an evening for two including chauffered limosine, dinner for two at Bockers II and a hot tub session for two at MareYeSol. •2nd prize-10 free tanning sessions

> 1214C Moro behind Aggie Ski & Sport 776-7874

•3rd prize-1 hour hot tub session

(across from Post Office) 511 Leavenworth

776-0495 DON'T

> SLEEP THROUGH

Student Publications is now accepting applications for spring Collegian editor and advertising manager.

Applications may be picked up in Kedzie 103 and are due Friday, Nov. 8 at 4 p.m. in Kedzie 103.

COMPUTER DEPARTMENT

BUY A TANDY 1000 GET A COLOR MONITOR AT NO CHARGE

ered TM International Business Machines Corp.

Save $299.95 and Get Everything You Need to Start Computing— Including DeskMate™ Disk Software

> Only 25-1000

> > Reg. Separate Items 1298.95

■ DeskMate Has Six Applications on One Disk: Text Processing, Telecommunications, Filing, Mail, Spreadsheet and Calendar/Alarm

■ Tandy 1000 is Software Compatible With the IBM PC—Choose from Thousands of Popular Programs

■ CM-4 RGBI Color Monitor Features 80 x 25 Text and 320 x 200 Graphics

■ Easy to Expand to Meet Your Needs

Radio Shaek

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square Phone 539-6151

Mon Fri 9 00 6 00 p.m. Closed Sundays

"A RADIO SHACK DEALER"

Puerto Rican gunmen wound Army officer

By The Associated Press

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico - Two men on a motorcyle shot and wounded an Army major riding a motor scooter to work at the Fort Buchanan garrison Wednesday, police and Army sources reported.

News agencies received anonymous calls from people claiming responsibility for the attack, and one said it was a response to the visit to Puerto Rico of FBI Director William H. Webster. The callers threatened more assaults.

Police and army spokesmen said Maj. Michael Snyder, 37, of Columbus, Ohio was shot twice with a small-caliber weapon at 7:40 a.m. (5:40 a.m. CST) on Highway 165 near the base on the western edge of the

They had reported earlier that he was shot with a semi-automatic, military-type rifle. One bullet struck Snyder's left hip and the other chipped a rib on his left side, according to Capt. Jesus Verdejo, the operations officer at Fort Buchanan.

Snyder underwent surgery in the Veterans Hospital and was reported in stable condition

"No one knows for sure what kind of a gun was used, but it was a very small-caliber weapon," Army Sgt. Maj. William Lourido said.

The Spanish news agency EFE said it received an anonymous call from a man who said in Spanish, "In reprisal for the presence of the FBI director in Puerto Rico, the Macheteros have attacked a major of the armed forces in Puerto Rico. More will fall in the coming days.'

A Spanish-speaking caller telephoned The Associated Press more than three hours after the shooting to claim responsibility for the attack on behalf of the "Volunteers for Puerto Rican Revolution.'

Patients, families find assistance

Workshop to treat mental illness

By The Collegian Staff

For families with members suffering from chronic mental illness, a workshop to assist both the patient and family has been scheduled for this weekend.

The workshop, "Helping Us Understand," is sponsored by Pawnee Mental Health Services and the Flint Hills Chapter of Families for Mental Health.

The main purpose of the workshop, scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday at the Riley County Senior Center, 412 Leavenworth St., is to help family members accept and cope with the reality of mental illness.

'The workshop is to tell the people that mental illness is not a stigma to hide behind locked doors," said Andy Carver, president of the Flint Hills Chapter of Families for Mental Health. "Perhaps we can find a cure for schizophrenia and depression."

The first workshop, last year, drew approximately 30 participants.

"It showed a need in the community for support," Carver said. The result of the first workshop was the formation of the Flint Hills Chapter of Families for Mental Health.

The organization, which serves a fivecounty area, serves to provide families of the long-term mentally ill patient with a better understanding of the disease. Members are also available to serve as advocates and to provide additional support for patients.

Members of the chapter, as well as staff members of Pawnee Mental Health Services, are scheduled for presentations.

Other scheduled speakers include Assistant Riley County Attorney Greg Kiefer, representatives from the Kansas Guardianship Program of Kansas Advocacy and Protective Services, and Social Security and Social Rehabilitation Services from Junction City.

Those interested in the workshop must pre-register at the organization's Pawnee offices, 2001 Claflin Road. There is a $5 registration fee per family.

Credit

Continued from Page 1 enjoys an investor perception that its bonds are federally guaranteed, even though they are not. That perception, known as "agency status," also extends to other quasigovernmental financial systems such as the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. and the Federal Home Loan Bank System. If the government does not live up to its perceived obligations to back up the Farm Credit System, the perceived risk in other "agency" bonds would increase and drive up their cost of borrowing. Home mortgages would rise from about 12.5 percent interest to 15 percent or more, the analysis said.

As farm credit dried up, interest rates to farmers would almost immediately rise by 3.5 to 4.5 percentage points, the study added. Values of farmland would continue their downward spiral, dropping another 20 percent as a direct result of a default, it said. Swackhamer said the study was ordered after initial admissions of severe financial problems in the system were met with skepticism in the Reagan administration and in Congress.

'We were shocked to hear so many say, 'let the bondholder take the hit,' or suggesting that we continue liquidating PCAs," or production credit associations, the local outlets for the system's farm operating loans, he said.

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Attorney General Robert T. Stephan held in a legal opinion made public today that participation by parochial schools in a proposed state teacher intern program would not violate separation of church and state as dictated by the U.S. Constitution.

However, Stephan added, paying teachers in a parochial school system who supervise the interns out of state funds likely would violate the prohibition of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment and probably would be held unconstitutional by the courts.

"The state's payment of a cash stipend to senior teachers supervising and assisting interns at parochial schools would not withstand a constitutional challenge," Stephan wrote in an opinion requested by Rod Bieker, legal counsel for the state Department of Education.

Bieker said he agreed with the opinion and would so advise the state Board of Education.

Church schools may share state program

The board has under study a proposed teacher internship program under which first-year teachers would be supervised and assisted by professional educators in a 'professional development plan.'

Interns successfully completing the program would be recommended for state certification as teachers.

Under the plan, the state would pay participating school districts $1,000 for each intern, with the money going to the senior teachers responsible for managing each

Since the intern-teacher would be an employee of the parochial school system and not paid by or affiliated with the state, Stephan wrote, "the state's involvement with the intern in minimal."

participation as state action which has the primary effect of advancing religion," he

"Accordingly, we do not view the intern's

In addition, the committee supervising and assiting the intern does not include any representatives of the state, he noted.

However, paying the supervising teachers out of state funds is a different matter, Stephan said.

"We cannot ignore the danger of aiding sectarian values from the state's payment of a stipend to senior teachers," the attorney general wrote

JUMP FOR JOY

TINTED EXTENDED WEAR

soft contact lenses are now available along with:

- *Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color
- of your eyes) ★Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for
- astigmatism) ★Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- ★Regular type (for near- and far-sightedness)
- ★Toric (for Astigmatism) ★Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Replacement Lenses

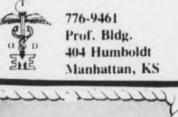

PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH

Practice of Optometry

& Solutions in Stock

This Thursday

- Mountain Oysters from 6-8 p.m.
- Free admission for the ladies
- •50¢ steins

•$2.00 pitchers

DUNTAIN OYSTER FRY TONITE:

yie 3 Bubba Smith 4 Ben Davidson 5 L C Greenwood 6 Tommy Herisohn 7 John Madden 8 Dick Bulkus 9 Mary Throneberry 10 Bert Jones 11 Boog 9 Mary Three 10 Bert Jones 11 Bood Powel! 12 D D Lewis Powel! 12 D D Lewis Williams 15 Red Auerbach 16 Steve Mizerak 17 Frank Deford

18 Grits Gresham 19 Boom Boom Geothion 20 Jim Shoulders 21 Lee Meredith 22 Mickey Spillane 23 Alexis Arguello Billy Martin 25 Corky arroll 26 Rodney angerfield 27 Bob Uecker

Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

Atlas gives look from space

Special photos show details

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Its publishers call it "the most riveting look at our continent ever put between covers of a book." Before even one copy was ready, 200,000 had been sold for $29.95 - or $39.95 for the deluxe issue, which comes with a magnifier.

The National Geographic Society's "Atlas of North America," unveiled Wednesday, looks at the continent from space and presents a stunning portrait.

In vivid blues, greens and reds photographic images printed in colors other than their own to bring out details invisible to the human eye - the atlas is, according to the society, "a new way of seeing the earth that is neither mappping nor photography, but does the work of both and better than either."

In addition to containing the familiar maps and illustrations found in conventional atlases, the new one makes heavy use of pictures from space to show not only what the earth below looks like but also what it's made of and how it is being shaped by natural and man-made forces.

Jon Schneeberger, the book's illustrations editor, said "our mandate is to disseminate information about geography. But that has a lot of different definitions these days - it can be anything from economics to the situation with the Russian wheat

The atlas, for instance, has a map of North America's major environmental stress points, ranging from areas with acid mine drainage and acid rain deposits to those with chronic flooding, those becoming deserts, those that have sinkholes and those contaminated with dioxin.

The society got its pictures from Landsat satellites, which have been in use since 1972, as well as from weather satellites, crews of the Apollo, Skylab and shuttle spacecraft and from airplanes.

One photograph shows the United States at night, the clusters of lights from the cities appearing as white paint splashes across the unmistakable shape of the country.

Indianapolis mayor criticizes affirmative action opposition

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Indianapolis Mayor William Hudnut said Wednesday the U.S. Justice Department is driven by ideology - not pressure from the public - in its effort to end affirmative action in government hiring practices.

Hudnut, who was in Topeka for a round of appearances and to deliver a lecture on "Politics and Religion," has gone to court resisting a Justice Department order attempting to force Indianapolis to drop its affirmative action program in police and fire department hirings and promotions.

"Our's is an effort to increase the number of women and minorities in our police and fire departments," Hudnut told a news conference.

"I would prefer we have goals and guidelines to do that. They (the Justice Department) say we have quotas. We say we have a race and sex-conscious policy.

Hudnut, a Republican, said his city is only continuing a policy dictated by the federal government when Jimmy Carter was president. Under Ronald Reagan, Hudnut charged, "The Justice Department has done a 180-degree flipflop.'

Under Attorney General Ed Meese and chief aide Brad Reynolds, Hudnut said, the Justice Department "is driven by ideology and not pressure.

'Mr. Meese and Brad Reynolds have decided they are going to

'It isn't perfect. A Utopia has not arrived in Indianapolis, but by and large it's worked."

> -William Hudnut Indianapolis mayor

impose their conservative philosophy on America. I think what they are doing is wrong - legally, politically and morally.

Hudnut, a third-generation Presbyterian minister-turnedpolitician, also paid a visit Wednesday to Dr. Karl Menninger, the 92-year-old co-founder and chairman of the board of the Menninger Foundation, and delivered a community service lecture in a series named for Menninger

In his prepared remarks, Hudnut expressed concern over the mixing of religion and politics in this country.

"Government has to be the impartial arbitrator on issues, not an advocate," he said.

He said he is "very concerned" about "one-issue" issue politics, in which individuals or groups judge candidates wholly on their stand on one issue.

"It's a very tricky issue, and you've got to be very careful," he said of religion in politics. "There is not an area of public life that doesn't have religious connotations to it, but you can't overstep the bounds.' Hudnut said the visit to Menninger's office on the foundation grounds in northwest Topeka gave him "an opportunity to express the love and affection our family has for

The Indianapolis mayor said he paid his respects to "one of the leading Presbyterian laymen in America," and discussed with Menninger the development of The Villages residences for unwanted and wayward youth, which he said "has had a little bit of a rough go in Indianapolis.' Menninger was instrumental in founding The Villages in Topeka in the mid-1970s.

Hudnut addressed the Greater Topeka Chamber of Commerce on "The Indiana Story," relating how Indianapolis went about revitalizing itself.

"We are trying to encourage downtown re-investment without discouraging suburban investment,' the mayor said.

He said what worked for Indianpolis won't necessarily work for cities such as Topeka, which still is struggling to revitalize its central city area.

"I think each city is unique," Hudnut said. "You've got to analyze your strengths and weaknesses and build on your assets. You have to figure out what you do well and then build on it.

Defector returns to Soviet Union

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Smiling broadly, former KGB official Vitaly Yurchenko boarded a Soviet airliner and flew home late Wednesday, capping a bizarre twist in an East-West spy drama in which the defector became an accuser against the nation that offered him a new life.

After a half-hour motorcade from the Soviet embassy to Dulles International Airport outside Washington, Yurchenko walked briskly past three State Department officials, leading an entourage of about 20 Soviets into the Ilyushin 62 jet that earlier had returned Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin from pre-summit talks in Moscow.

Before being allowed to leave, Yurchenko apparently satisfied U.S. authorities that he was returning to the Soviet Union on his own accord, without coercion. No one knew what kind of reception awaited him in Moscow but experts here predicted a and biege overcoat, grinned as he took his last steps on U.S. soil, offering a brief wave to reporters before stepping inside the plane.

American officials had said Yurchenko defected in Rome in August and was brought to this country. Last Saturday, he left his CIA handlers and went to the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

On Monday, he told a news conference at the Soviet compound that he had been kidnapped, drugged, and held at a CIA safe house near Fredericksburg, Va.

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off All Imports

> All Day THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

bleak future for him. Yurchenko, wearing a brown suit Auntie

AGGIEVILLE

Mae's Parlor

House Drinks 50¢ Draws

Memberships

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Speedwash

Wash 75°

OPEN 24 HOURS FREE PARKING

It's Called An Attitude...

There is something that can only be expressed by a man's clothing. It's called an attitude. Borck Brothers has the idea that clothing should be a positive, natural and flattering statement of the applaud that attitude.

BORCK >

Thursday, November 7, 1985

A tasteful, harmonizing duo bringing you a unique blend of folk and blues.

Friday, November 15, 8 p.m., Catskeller Tickets $2.00 at the door. Bring your Lee Greenwood ticket and pay only $1.50!

k-state union

Midday Arts presents:

K-Stale Music Dept Faculty Woodwind Quartel

> -Andrew Sarris, Village Voice

TODAY, Union Gallery, Noon-1 p.m.

ETCHINGS Exhibition and sale by Angel Gifts, Inc. Photos by National Geographic photographers. K-State Union 1st Floor

Concourse, November 6-8, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

UNPARALLELED TERROR

you'll ever see

Where deals were made, lives were traded and the legends of jazz lit up the night.

Friday, November 8 and Saturday, November 9, 7 and 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall, $1.75 KSU ID Required, Rated R.

Saturday, November 9, 2 p.m. & Sunday, November 10, 2 & 7 p.m., Little Theatre. $1.50, KSU I.D. Required, Rated G

FOIL

Today, 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre, and 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall $1.75, KSU I.D. Required, Rated R.

> Friday, November 8 and Saturday, November 9, Midnight, Forum Hall. $1.75, KSU I.D. Required, Rated R.

"Apocalyptic horror comedy truly funnier than anything Monty Python has been able to manage."

> strange, cannibalistic family that lives in remote

Texas and survives by preying on unfortunate travelers. Based on a true

K-State cross country team member Ron Stahl stretches before Wednesday's practice. Stahl, who has struggled this season with illness, finished eighth at in the top five at the NCAA regionals.

the Big Eight Championships Saturday in Columbia, Mo., and hopes to finish

Runner beats ailments, hopes to regain form

By SARAH KESSINGER Sports Writer

Ron Stahl's 1985 cross country season could be compared to several of the courses he has run on - up and

With problems ranging from impacted wisdom teeth to several colds, Stahl has had to struggle to maintain his pace as one of the top runners on K-State's men's team.

However, he has pulled through, as evidenced by his eighth-place finish in the Big Eight Championships Saturday in Columbia, Mo., where the men's team placed third.

Concerning his sickness, Stahl said his training may have hindered his performance.

"I think I tried training through it and it took me longer to get over it," he said of his various ailments. Stahl's self-assurance faltered during this period but he said he will "hopefully keep building" to regain his confidence.

The high finish in the Big Eight meet should have been a confidence booster as he bounced back from a 34th-place finish in the Wisconsin Burger King Invitational two weeks

"I was pleased," Stahl said of his performance in the Big Eight meet. "I've been having an up and down year but I felt my ability level was

"I probably ran a little more conservative, but going into the race I felt I was going to do well."

Stahl had to help carry the load Saturday for Bryan Carroll and Mike Rogers who had been fighting bronchitis and placed 19th and 24th, respectively. Stahl said that with Carroll and Rogers recovered from their illnesses, the team should do well in the NCAA regionals.

"Bryan and I usually run fairly "We've just got to stay well together," he said. "With Bryan run smart," Stahl said.

and Mike back in, it will be a lot easier to run in a group."

Wildcat Head Coach Steve Miller said Stahl has shown ability to compete as a top-10 runner. "His season has been like the men's season with problems caused by illness and injuries. The indication is that when he is ready and on top of things, he really can perform well," Miller said.

With NCAA regionals set for Nov. 16 in Stillwater, Okla., Stahl is being careful to not go overboard in his training.

'I tried training through it and it took me longer to get over it.'

> - Ron Stahl on his ailments

"For regionals he is resting a bit more," Miller said. "All the hard work is behind us now. We're just doing maintenance work with a high cut way back.' Both Stahl and Miller have set high goals for regionals with hopes of level of intensity but the duration is qualifying for nationals. "Individually, I'd like to place in the top five teamwise, just to qualify (for nationals)," Stahl said. "We have a fairly good chance. We just have to keep the momentum going."

Miller predicts a finish in the top 10 for Stahl, adding he is capable of finishing sixth.

"(But) it's very tough to be at your best when it's the most difficult," Miller said.

Stahl said if Carroll, Rogers and himself placed in the top 10, the K-State team could come close to taking the championship.

"We've just got to stay relaxed and

Howser quietly earns recognition

He's not loud, he's not arrogant, and he's not flashy. He doesn't argue with umpires, and he doesn't blast his owner in the papers. He does, however, win — and he's the best manager in the major leagues, even if the pollsters don't agree. His name is Dick Howser.

As manager of the World Champion Kansas City Royals, Howser finally got some long-overdue attention this season. As the playoffs began, the bulk of this attention revolved around his losing record as a manager in playoff games. Howser was blasted as "the man whose teams couldn't win the big ones." It was a bum rap, and one that Howser beat the way he beats you best - quietly.

When Toronto jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven playoff series, the national media ripped Howser openly. The 49-year-old skipper quietly listened to what the media had to say and continued going about his business.

It would have been easy for a lesser man to snap back at those who had so openly criticized him, but Howser refused to do so. He decided he would let his skills speak for themselves, and in the last five games of the playoffs and in the entire World Series they did exactly that.

Howser is not without his faults, and he was testy with reporters after a couple of close games in the World Series. But through it all he represented himself and his ballclub extremely well.

His statistics speak for themselves. In just over five seasons as a big-league manager, Howser's teams have won three division titles, finished second twice, and won a second-half title during the split season in 1981.

It was three playoff losses after his first division championship that led to Howser's firing and ultimate hiring as manager of the Royals. He has his current employer to thank for that.

Howser was manager of the 1980 New York Yankees, a club that won 103 games and lost only 59 in running away with the American League Eastern Division Championship. As Eastern Division titlists, Howser's club faced the Royals in a bestof-five series for the American League Championship.

The Royals won the opener at Royals Stadium in impressive fashion as Larry Gura went the distance in defeating New York, 7-2. New York scored its only runs of the game on back-to-back solo homers by Rick Cerone and Lou Piniella, who was named the new Yankee skipper two weeks

Game Two also belonged to Kansas City. The Royals jumped on Yankee starter Rudy May for three runs in the third inning and held on for a 3-2 win. Dennis Leonard and Dan Quisenberry combined on an eight-hitter to give the Royals a 2-0 edge in games as the series headed to the Big Ap-

Game Three was probably the most memorable game in the history of the Kansas City franchise - at least until this season's heroics. Down 2-1 going into the top of the seventh, the Royals looked as if they would need Game Four to wrap up the title. Enter George Brett.

The Royals had two outs in the seventh when they started their uprising against Yankee starter Tommy John. Willie Wilson got the rally going with a double to the gap in left. Howser, the Yankee skipper, then called for his ace in the bullpen -Goose Gossage. U.L. Washington greeted Gossage by beating out an infield hit, and Brett came to the plate with the stage set.

Brett ended the confrontation - and possibly Howser's reign as Yankee manager along with it - rather quickly,

See HOWSER, Page 13

Cox takes AL honors as top skipper in 1985

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Bobby Cox, who managed the Toronto Blue Jays to their first divisional title and then left the club to become general manager of the Atlanta Braves, was named American League Manager of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America

Cox received 16 first place ballots and 104 points from a 28-voter panel composed of two writers from each of the league's 14 franchise cities.

Dick Howser of the Kansas City Royals, who defeated Cox's Blue Javs in the American League playoffs and then won the World Series against St. Louis, finished second with four firsts and 63 points. Gene Mauch of California was third with eight firsts and 57 points.

The Blue Jays won 99 games under Cox and beat the New York Yankees by two games to win the AL East title. In the playoffs against Kansas City, Toronto took a 3-1 lead only to have the Royals recover by winning the last three games to capture the

During the World Series, Atlanta asked permission to talk with Cox, whose contract with Toronto had expired. He then signed a five-year contract to join the Braves as GM, returning to the team he had managed for

By joining the Braves, Cox surprised many veteran baseball observers. Atlanta had hired veteran manager Chuck Tanner to be manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and it appeared that Cox would stay in Toronto. Cox's desire to return to Atlanta changed all

Cox was attending the general managers' meeting in Inverness, Fla., when Wednesday's announcement was made.

It was the second year in a row that Howser has finished second in the BBWAA balloting. He lost by one point last year to Sparky Anderson of Detroit, who did not receive any votes this year.

Mauch, who returned to manage the Angels last season after a two-year retirement, had his team in the West Division championship race in the season's final week and finished one game behind Howser's Royals.

Billy Martin, fired for the fourth time by the New York Yankees after the season ended, finished fourth in the balloting with 19 points followed by Oakland's Jackie Moore, who had four. Tony LaRussa of Chicago and John McNamara of Boston, who was Mauch's successor in California, received one point each.

Whitey Herzog of the St. Louis Cardinals was named National League Manager of the Year earlier this week.

ntramural Roundup

Intramural volleyball

INDEPENDENT

League 1: Bump Sphinx 2-0, Construction Science 2-0, Pl Kappa Alpha 1-1, Phi Delta Theta Piedges 1-1, Wool Monsters 0-2, Haynaker 6 Independent 0-2. League 3: Front Row
The V-Team 2-0, Civil Tongued Devils 2-0, ECM

1-1, Underdogs 1-1, ASCE 0-2, The Outlaws 0-2. League 4: Wildcats AVMA '86 2-0, Red Tie Club 2-0, The Team 2-0, Underdogs 0-2, No Comp 0-2, Spazmaticks 0-2. League 5: USA!!!

Campus View 2-0, Tau Kappa Epsilon Independent 2-0, DPMA 1-1, Glenwood Gunners 1-1, Excel 0-2, ROTC Green Machine 0-2. League 6: Six Pack Byte Busters 2-0, Salsa Nueva 2-0, White Lightning 1-1, Blackshirts 1-1, Alpha Gama Rho Independent 6-2 FP United States

nt 0-2, EP Heads 0-2. League 7: Cobra Manhattan Beach 2-0, Smith House 2-0, Mev's 1-1, Wild Childs 1-1, BMA 0-2, Ag Engineering League 8: Spike Latinos 2-6, Newman 1-6, Hoover Dam 1-1, Bed Pans 6-1, Bros. 6-2.

RESIDENCE HALL

League 2: Uecker Haymaker Three 2-0, Goodnow Five 1-1, Haymaker Seven 1-1, Mariatt Two 1-1, Mariatt Five 1-1. Mariatt One 0-2.

Haymaker Eight 2-0, Haymaker Four 2-0, Four 6-2, Putnam 6-2.

Mariatt Three 2-0, Haymaker One 2-0, Edwards Hall 1-1, Moore Five 1-1, Moore Six 8-2, Haymaker Nine 8-2.

Mariatt Six 2-0, Haymaker Two 1-0, Haymaker Six 1-1, Haymaker Five 0-1, Goodnow One 0-2.

FRATERNITY

Beta Theta Pl 2-0, Sigma Alpha Epsilon 2-0, Sigma Phi Epsilon 1-1, Acacia 1-1, Farmho 6-2, Alpha Kappa Lambda 6-2.

League B: Roof Lambda Chi Alpha 2-0, Tau Kappa Epsilon 2-0, Theta Xi I-1, Pi Kappa Phi 1-1, Delta Tau Delta 0-2, Delta Sigma Phi 0-2.

League C: Serve Sigma Nu 2-0, Kappa Sigma 2-0, Phi Kappa Theta 1-1, Triangle 1-1, Phi Gamma Delta 0-2, Alpha Gamma Rho 0-2. League D: Net

Pi Kappa Alpha 2-0, Delta Upsilon 2-0, Sigma Chi 1-1, Phi Delta Theta 1-1, Beta Sigma Psi 0-2,

WOMEN

League 2: Dig Olympia's 2-0, Blitzkriegettes 1-1, Alpha Xi Delta 1-1, Goodnow Six 1-1, Lady Lion's 1-1, Good-now Five 0-2.

Gamma Phi Beta 2-0, Ford Three 2-0, Power Hitters 1-1, Alpha Delta Pi 1-1, Not Yet Vets 0-2, League 4: Mishandle Alpha Chi Omega 2-0, Gamma Phi Beta Pledges 2-0, Gator Haters 1-1, Chi Omega 1-1, appa Alpha Theta 0-2, Sigma Sigma Sigam 0-2.

The Spuds 2-0, Ford HGB 2-0, Lady Attackers 2-0, Newman 0-2, Ford Eight 0-2, Clovia 0-2. League 6: Jump Serve Generics 2-0, West Three 2-0, Goodnow Three 0-2. Ford Two 0-2.

League 7: Face Dig Delta Delta Delta 2-0, The Jetsets 2-0, Delta Delta Delights 1-1, Ford 15 1-1, Kappa Delta 0-2, Kappa Kappa Gamma 0-2. League 9: Roll Shot Pl Beta Phi 2-0, Sweetles 2-0, Chappers 1-1, West Two 1-1, Boyd Hall 0-2.

POWER CO-REC

Pink Panthers 2-0, ABOJ 2-0, Snafu 0-2, Airomatics 0-2. League 2: Angle Sand Lot Gang 2-0, Mev's 1-1, Irregulars 1-1, Six

Pac 0-2.

CO-REC Six Pack 2-0, NCK All-Stars 2-0, Goodnow Six 2-0, Mistakes 0-2, Goodnow Zero 0-2, Goodnow

Unicorns 2-0, Hort Club 2-0, Goodnow 5A 1-1, floore Seven Wildcats 1-1, Sippin' the Suds 0-2, Lost Causes 0-2.

League 3: Karch Bumpers 2-0, U Know Whats 2-0, Slammers 1-1, Farmhouse Rubies 1-1, Farmhouse Pearls 0-2, League 4: Kilgore Glenwood Gunners 2-0, The Landers 2-0, Goodnow Four 1-1, Mar-Ford 1-1, Farmhouse Browns 0-2, IA-5 0-2.

League 5: Mucho Rise Dogs Know 2-0, Rebel Rousers 2-0, NSAE 11-1, NSAE 21-1, Katz 0-2, Moore Stars 0-2. Vet Freshmen One 2-0, Vet Freshmen Four 2-0,

Vet Freshmen Three 1-1, Vet Freshmen Five 1-1, Vet Freshmen Two 0-2, DPMA 0-2. League 7: Honor Call Aces 2-0, Power House 2-0, Goodnow Two 1-1,

Dinkel's Dozen 1-1, Edwards Hall C 0-2, Goods League 8: Back Row Liberators 2-4, Palace 2-0, V-Team 1-1, Ter-minator 1-1, Drop Outs 9-2, Aiche Party Animals

Wade's Spears 2-0, Jerry Kid's 2-0,

Borgurygma 2-0, Dementia Duo's 0-2, Three/Haymaker Seven 0-2, Kappa Sigma 0-2. League 10: Cross ET Lab 2-0, Edwards Hall A 1-1, Misfits 1-1, Rawhide 1-1, The Spikers 1-1, Moore Three 0-2.

League 11: Tandem Screaming O's 2-0, Clueless 2-0, Swarzenegger 6-1, Gophers 6-1, The Whoppers 6-2. League 12: Santa Monica ith Co-Rec 2-0, U No Da Kine 2-0, Golden Hit-

League 13: Big Wall Awesome Six 2-0, Alpha Omega Servers 2-0. Ball Brakers 2-0, Moore Six 0-2, Magic's Misfits 0-2, Bollermakers 0-2. League 14: Santa Cruz IIE 2-0, Moore 2B 1-1, ASCE 1-1, The Network

ters 1-1, None 1-1, Moore 2A 8-2, Smurthwaite Co-

1-1, S.W.A.T. 1-1, Rough Drafts 0-2. Rockers 1-1, Ag Econ Club 1-1, The Hammer 1-1, Goodnow One 6-2.

four years from 1978-81. Graduate works on raising funds

By MARGARET MAY Collegian Reporter

When Larry Travis left Georgia Tech University in February to become K-State's athletic director, he made several changes in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, one of which was to reorganize the alumni Catbacker Clubs

To help with the reorganization, Travis hired Craig Renfro in August as field representative for development in the athletic department. Renfro is a K-State

Alumni groups around the state are being reorganized to play a bigger role in recruiting athletes and raising money for athletic scholarships, Renfro said.

Renfro assists John Kadlec, associate athletic director, in fund raising and reorganizing the alumni clubs.

Renfro is in the process of changing the structure of the alumni Catbacker Clubs to be like the alumni clubs Travis had while at Georgia Tech University, Renfro said

The 14 Catbacker Clubs across the state were reorganized to involve more people and keep the club members involved throughout the year, he said.

director and a recruiting coordinator - someone who is interested in sending prospective student-athletes to University," Renfro said.

The recruiting coordinator attends prospective athletes' sporting events and keeps a list of names of the students and stays in touch with the recruiting coach in each area. The recruiting coordinator and his committee will send letters and make phone calls encouraging the athlete to attend K-State, he said.

K-State running back Maurice Henry also was recruited by the University of Kansas and chose the Wildcats because he felt K-State had an interest in him due to the calls and letters from the Catbacker Club in Salina, Renfro said.

Five other Catbacker Club coordinators help the athletic department by promoting K-State in their area, recruiting new club members and organizing fundraising events, Renfro said. The clubs help raise the $750,000 in donations each fall to pay for the education of approximately 230 athletes. "Fund-raising is very important to our office," he said, "because it

"Every club has a president or a is the backbone of our department."

Approximately 2,200 donors give money to the athletic department. The clubs are trying to involve recent K-State graduates to help take some of the pressure off of regular donors, Renfro said.

"All of the (Catbacker) clubs are expected to raise $1,000, which is enough for an Ahearn Scholarship," he said. Different club levels of donations range from $40 a year in the K-Club to $3,000 a year in the Director's Club, Renfro said. The different club levels receive different membership benefits such as season ticket priority, a football/basketball brochure and preferred parking at sporting events. The benefits are for one year from the time of donation, he said.

"A lot of people ask 'why, when we see Kansas State in the news or in the paper in the spring, do we always see them at the bottom of the Big Eight?' and the reason for this is that we don't have near the scholarship money that the other schools in the Big Eight have to give out. So, naturally, they're able to attract a lot more quality student-athletes to their program because they have a lot more money to give out," Renfro said.

Howser

Continued from Page 12

unloading on Gossage's first pitch and smashing it deep into the upper deck of Yankee Stadium. Less than one year later, Howser was Brett's manager in Kansas City.

Howser's current club is built around several of the same ingredients that were so vital to the Royal club that beat his Yankees in 1980 pitching, speed and defense.

His patience with one of the league's youngest pitching staffs led the "fab five" to become the most respected starting rotation in baseball in 1985. His confidence in his deck made them World Champions. If only he'd blow his own horn a little louder. That wouldn't be Dick club's ability to come back off the Howser's style, so I'll do it for him. Kansas City is lucky to have a man that cares so much about his players and his organization at the helm. Howser is tough and yet fair with those players. He treats them as they want to be treated - like men. He doesn't claim to be responsible for Kansas City's success, and yet he is the man who made the Royals World Championship dreams a reality.

He may not win national honors, but he's still No. 1 to those who know him best. To Dick Howser, that is reward enough for a job well done.

KC shortstop pokes fun at Letterman

NEW YORK - Buddy Biancalana, the Kansas City Royals' light-hitting shortstop whose fortunes zoomed after he was the butt of a David Letterman joke, took a few verbal swings at the talk-show host Wednesday night.

By The Associated Press

"I took it in fun," Biancalana told Letterman during a five-minute appearance on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman" show. "It got me a lot of publicity."

Letterman mentioned Biancalana in early September, at a time when Cincinnati's Pete Rose was nearing Ty Cobb's all-time hit mark.

Letterman brought out a gadget showing Biancalana's career hit total and Rose's total, noting in jest that Biancalana was "only 4,000 or so behind."

After the World Series, the Letterman show called Biancalana and the soft-spoken, 25-year-old gladly accepted.

Letterman, who had Atlanta Braves pitcher Terry Forster on his show earlier this season after calling him "a fat tub of goo," introduced Biancalana as "the ultimate underdog" and "my kind of ballplayer."

Biancalana walked into the studio carrying his World Series bat, which he gave to Letterman.

"I used this for half the season. As you can tell, there are no ball marks on it," Biancalana said, and added:

'That's just a joke.' Letterman noted that after the original routine aired, Biancalana responded in jest that he was "a lot closer to Pete Rose than he (Letterman) is to Johnny Carson." "I came up with that one,"

Biancalana said. Letterman also pointed out that Biancalana's mother said

Letterman's program was "not a quality show.

"She apologized in the Kansas City paper this morning," Biancalana told Letterman. "She probably caught it on a bad night, with a rock group or something.

Letterman brought out the original hit counter, now updated and showing Biancalana with 56 career hits and Rose with 4,204, and gave it to Biancalana. The show's staff also prepared a one-minute video set to Carly Simon's "Nobody Does It Better" - a slow-motion package from the World Series that only showed Biancalana drawing walks.

Afterwards, Biancalana said he felt "very comfortable" doing the show, adding matter-of-factly, "I didn't need all of that, as a person or

Llassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon

HEY NELSON! I

JUST GOT A REALLY

MMMIN' POSTER AT

THE RECORD STORE!

OH, MISTER LIFESTYLES

EDITOR ... REMEMBER

THE "TRENDS" PIECE

YOU DID FOR

LAST WEEK'S

EDMON ?

Bloom County

*AMERICA

15 ALL AGOG

OVER EGGNOS

Garfield

eanuts

rossword

12 Tiny hole 49 "There

14 Tortoise's 50 Cabin

ACROSS

amat

5 Dog doc

8 Ski lift

13 Highest note

15 Coup d' -

16 Edge

17 Sicilian

18 Hearty lot

22 Dessert

choice

23 Replaceshort paints

24 Finger-

27 Spine

32 Aussie

bird

city

38 Terrier

type

39 Alfalfa

33 Brazilian

35 American

pastime

34 Canoe prop AR

ment, for resort

20 Used the

1 Amo, - ,

40 Track trip 58 Remit

DOWN

1 Mimic

2 Oriental sleuth

3 Show

6 Yale

7 Pack

8 "Ay,

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

down

there's

9 Account

record

Avg. solution time: 24 min. 38 Newspaper

horse

4 Camera

player

positions

5 Spine part

42 Buffalo team

homes piece

Indian

55 Corner

river

ative

57 Affirm-

56 Hades

54 Reverence

52 Wander

53 Chaco ought to 45 Pueblo

LIFT ME HIGHER .. WHEN

HALLEY'S COMET COMES

BY, I WANT TO SEE IT ...

GOOSH

JPM DAVIS

One day: $4.65 per inch: Three consecutive days $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ZACK! YOU KNOW

I DON'T LIKE

ROCK POSTERS

SO STRANGE.

THEY'RE ALWAYS

YES. THE WIRE SERVICES PICKED IT UP. THEN THE WALL STREET JOURNAL" COVERED THE

'ECONOMICS OF EGGNOG." "USA TODAY" SPLASHED IT OVER THEIR WHOLE FRONT PAGE AND "TIME"

HAS "THE NEW EGGNOG" ON THIS WEEK'S COVER. DAVID HARTMAN

YOU PRINK TOO MUCH COFFEE,

NOW HAND

ME THE

BINOCULARS

10 British

11 Peruse

21 Invite

24 Society

girl 25 Dr.'s org.

26 African

29 Pasted

30 Thumbs

down

36 Cerumen

37 Toodle-oo

section

42 College

entry

tests

43 "Thanks

44 Do in

46 Drill a

47 Flat

11-7 51 Be in

48 Plant-to-be the red hole

41 Commercial

31 Before

primate

28 Be unwell

artworks

19 57 Across,

in Baja composer

GARFIELD

WILL BE INTERVIEWING

A BOWL OF CINNAMON

EGGNOG TOMORROW

MORNING.

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (7tf)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enveccess, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL

BUT I SUPPOSE

IT'S ALL RIGHT.

YOU DON'T HAVE

MANY POSTERS.

THE U.S. EGGNOG

OH, YEAH? WELL, TELL THAT TO

AAU6H.

MY NAP

ASSOCIATION SENT YOU

IN DEEP APPRECIATION.

THIS CHECK FOR FIVE GRAND

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS-New member sign-up table will be open in the Union 10:30 a m -2:30 p.m

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (611) chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652. Wichita.

67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61) WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toil free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts ... count on Su

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

JUST SO ITS

NOT WEIRD OR

By Berke Breathed

I KNEW

THIS WAS A

RACKET

By Jim Davis

MAYBE JON WAS RIGHT ...

By Charles Schulz

STUPID

BEAGLE!

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet Free brochure, 316-264-3742, PO. Box 3652, Wichita 67201 K-State representatives needed. (49)

USED BOOKS and magazines, buy-sell-trade Trea-sure Chest, 1124 Moro, Aggieville, (51-53)

ATTENTION SEX Halloween party goers: Party pics are here! Order yours in the Union today from 10.45 a.m. 12:00 noon and Friday from 1:30 p.m.-? Table set up at the job board, 1st floor. Sherri. (53)

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available Treasure Chest, Aggieville (28tf)

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side 776-3804 (4911)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200 (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges, 776

NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets, 537-1180. (48.57)

Like a FREE VCR. Microwave or $250 Cash?

Special offers for new tenants at Parkview (1026 Osage) and Horizon III (1212 Bluemont). Brand new 2 BR apts.

> Call for details 776-3804

WANTED ONE female roommate for two bedroom apartment. Available immediately or at semester Close to campus, furnished. Must be non-smoker Call 537-4858 (51-54)

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin 776-9124 FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights

Available immediately, 776-9124 (51-59)

second semester $380, utilities paid 776-5265

FOR RENT-HOUSES 05

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours Prairie Glenn Townhouses (44-58)

FIVE BEDROOM farm home, gas furnance. Modern large country kitchen, large living room, attached garage. Barns, shop and other buildings, room for horses Located 13 miles north of dam on Hwy 13 E.H. Thiele, 539-3492 (50-53)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door air conditioning $1.850 Call 1-494-2388, St George (47tf)

1982 CHEVY K-10, 4 × 4 — Black, excellent condition with warranty. Call 776-5217. (50-54)

1975 RED Chev Monza 2 + 2 hb. Automatic V-8, four new tires with wire spoke wheels, new brakes, power steering, air conditioning, AM/FM cassette—Alpine with Jensen speakers, good available 776 1586 (50 54)

FOR SALE 1972 Toyota Corona $300 as is Needs engine work Call 539-5609 (51-53)

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214 (52-61) 1977 280Z - Six cylinder, 4-speed, excellent condition Must see $3,200 or best offer 539-2899 (52) 1977 DATSUN B-210-New paint new brakes. Must sell. 539-6167. (53-57) 1973 FORD LTD-Powerful 429, runs well, some body damage, $300 Box 9, c/o Collegian, (53-57)

FOR SALE-MISC

FENDER SUPER Twin guitar amp. Excellent condi-tion! $200 firm. Call 776-3473 evenings. (50-54)

VERY NICE wood frame/pillow couch, $150; wo en's 10 speed bike, $50. Call 776-6231 (50-54)

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy

Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

Strings and Drumsticks Buy one set and get second set at

50% Off DOD Guitar Effects Units

30% Off Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

223 Poyntz

TWO VECTOR Microcomputers, $1 500 each—itwo years old—good condition. One hard disc storagerone lioppy drive. Software provided. Word Processing, Accounting, Data Management and much more Call Dan or Vicki at 532 6176 immedia ately for more details. (51-54) Clip and Save New Special

1/4 Pound Hamburger

This coupon expires 11/10/85

STELLA 15 speed bicycle TA/Dura Ace 1wo wheelsets, two new tires/tubes, 21° Columbus frame $375 or best offer Gitane Interclub, 21 Rev nolds frame, $140 Pair for $475. Cail 537 8860 after 5 00 pm (51.53)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 8

1975 12 x 60 Schultz Wellington. Must see to appreciate. $7,500 or best offer, 539-2596 evenings. (52-56)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly

Must sell. $100 Call Chris. 539.7518 (50-59)

verily at 532-6555 during the day or Tom at 776-2284 after 6 00 p.m. (51-53) CAT FOUND wearing yellow collar with bells. Call Be FOUND: MEN'S maroon jacket in Commerce Read ing Room, Calvin Hall Claim at Union Lost and Found (51.53)

FOUND ON campus—Diamond, istone only) Contact Investigations, K.S.U. Police Department, i53

FOUND: SHARP EL 506H calculatur in Union. Call 537-0694 evenings (53-55)

GARAGE SALES

TRUNKLOAD SALE November 9th, 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at Ciovia. 1200 Pioneer Lane. Come and see (52:54)

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR Nanny Network of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9.12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whippia Rd., Wilton CT. 06897. (203) 834-1742. No fee (39-68) BROADCAST ENGINEER - Wanted for a local radio station. Responsibilities include equipment main tenance on a part time schedule. To apply, call 776. 0104 (52-54)

D.J - COUNTRY Western club will accept applica tions for a part-time position Thursday at 6:30 p.m. Apply in person at Rockin K. Aggieville (52-53)

REWARD-FREE trip Daytona plus commission money. Wanted Organized group or individual to promote #1 Spring Break Trip to Daytona. If inter-ested, call 1-800-453-9074 immediately! (53)

LOST

HP-34C calculator in Stateroom, Union Thursday evening Leave at Information Booth or call 537. 0668 for reward. No questions asked. (52.53) LOST-MEN'S Pulsar watch Great sentime value. Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168

PERSONAL

JULIE SANDER - Happy Birthday on Saturday! Fil nally 217 Un nuh. Look out El Dorado. The lady's coming home! The Smurthies in 108. (53) TRI-DELT Shara-This is it! See you tonight! Love

PI PHI Patty N .- I'm so glad because I'm your dad, so when tonight is here, let's put down some beer!

Love, Last Name First (53)

YEE-HAW Kappas and Delts-Old McDiffit had a farm . EIEIO So get psyched to unlace those hightops, pull on those sweatshirts, amd make it to the Casual Connection! Here's to a great party!

me who you are! (53)

KERRI AZ: Today is the day, you Il find your prey. I'm happy to say i'd have it no other way? Your P Dad

MSO sorry about the earring iPlease, whoever took it from me, return it ) Sorry Hun' (53)

RICHARD, THANKS for taking Sue and Lout it was fun. Second chance maybe? Fife (53) ANGIE B .- Here's to the start of a great new triend

PIKE JERRY Hedrick—Thursday right was a real blast I'm glad I found my dad at last' Love, your Dot (53)

JANELLE—I am sure you will look good in a red yacket Good luck in K.C. Love. Bob. (53)

HEY TEASE I can't believe it's been only a month since it's good to have fun here's to many more months together Love you Temptress (53)

TRI-DELT Josie — Today is the day, the time is now to night we're going to party and how Love. Dad (53) DDD DEBIC — Wherever you fall, you can sleep like a nock, it's nice to have Mo, as a personal alarm clock (153).

SOCCER LITTLE Sisters-Check Bulletin for this week's meeting. Crinton and Ed. (53)

BECKY 'Riff' - Despite my moods and late night hours, your smile brings happy showers. Ang (53 (HUSH PUPPY) S.L.F. I miss you! Lave K.D.K. (53) KAPPA SHELLI-Hope your biday is lots of fun be

MEN OF the Gold and Green - You'll think we're really mean, but don't get mad it wasn't so bad. We took your pics, just for kicks. Cathy Fran Leah. Dec (53) cause we think you re number one! Luy - your 5th

PATRICK Happy 1 Year. I Love You PAULA

ATO DWIGHT-Are you ready for the sight? You and your mom, what a grazy night (53)

ATO GREG.—Do you like to party? Yes, I know you do Now that tim your most, we'll party all hight thru.

CARLA O BUNNY went down to look at the lingerie we picked out Saturday Would you wear if for me around my house? Lover of lase (53)

TRI-DELT NANCY Tonight's the nite, you would never have guessed for you and your dad, we'll be the best. Now don't you worry, don't you doubt, just follow the dues, you will spon find out. Love

SLAM-TODAY is your day the big one nine here's to you, we'll have a grand time. Friends for ever Zeph and Laur 153

MIKE BASEBALL-I'm hot if your thick you can han die the heat, you're welcome to try I'm looking to only the best, do you quality. Stephanie (53)

ROOMMATE WANTED FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809

North 11th $145, bills paid 539,8401 (49-63) NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom cable TV only $137.50 no utilities. Call 776-7331 (50-64)

FEMALE NON-SMOKING - Own from nice duplex with conveniences $133 plus one third utilities Call day, 532-5508 ext. 25, 537-4179 (51,54)

MALE-DOUBLE-wide trailer own bedro washer/dryer, $125 plus one third utilities, Call 537,8580 (52:56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE for spring semester $116 month plus one-third utilities. Glose to campus and Aggreville Call 539 1852 152 53 FEMALE NON-SMOKING to smare two bedroom apartment with three others $110 per month plus one-fourth utilities. Call 539 3828 (53-57)

TWO NON-SMOKING males to share with third for spring semester across from Aheam $88 plus one-third utilities and cable (Wildcat Apts ) 527 7412 (53.5F)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share micely decorated apartment $160 month, all bills paid includes electric, water trash, cable and laundry facilities 776-1604 (53.57) house. Own room, washerdryer, rent plus utilities, 403 South 18th, 537 2055, (53.57) ROOMMATE FEMALE-Nice private bed and bath. 1122 Vartier Reasonable, Call 539-9345 (53-55)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share three bedroom

NEED FEMALE roommate to take over lease from January to August. One half block from campus own room, very nice apartments, great roomies. Call Shiela, 537-2261 ext. 411 (8.30 a.m. 4.30 p.m.) or Pam, 776-0228 (53-57)

18 SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics - Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539 2070. Handi capped accessible. (31.75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pred nancy lest Confidential Call 537.9180, 103 S. Fourth St. Suite 25 (111) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equinment 228 Poyntz, 776 4240 (411) WORD PROCESSING by computer professional storage 776-6166 (1311) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes cover latters etc. 539 5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35:65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337 (51 VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at

J&L Bug Service Rabbit's bugs ghia's and type 3's welcome 1-494-2388 St. George (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST—Zenith computer letter quality printer Very reasonable rates. Phone 537, 9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda (52-61).

TYPING RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox. Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (50-54) WOOD SPLITTING - Call 539.9304, ask for Bruce

PROFESSIONAL TYPING — Resumes, cover letters dissertations, reports, 539-2411 (53-57) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processing Term papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless. 537-3314 (53-54)

20 SUBLEASE PEOPLE TO sublease at semester—Two bedroom, furnished apartment, close to campus, $390/ month plus electricity 776 6877 (52.54)

WANTED 21

CRYPTOQUIP

11-7 DSM

IDEA?

CSIUTMF

LVDRCDC FMURFMF DI ELVVP

CIIW: DSMP DRMF DSM TWID Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHERE DID THE LEVEL HEADED FICTION WRITERS SEARCH FOR A NOVEL

Today's Cryptoquip clue: F equals D

ELUVLEM

your ATO Dad. (53)

MARLA'S SECRET Admirer-I give up! Please tell

SOMEONE TO haul a washer to Baxter Springs 537-

50%

121/2€ per print (reg. 25¢)

98¢ developing charge (reg. $1.95) for 1 hr. service.

From 110, 126, 35mm or Our already lower prices disc color print film. with this coupon Coupon expires Nov. 15

1-Hour KIS Photo 2047 Ft. Riley Blvd (In the Santa Fe Bldg. 776-2336

Treasure Chest-Oasis 124 Moro-Aggieville

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film (C-41 process) for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Expires 12/31/85

South of Westloop

776-9030

FOUNTAIN FALLS TROPICAL FISH

Buy any freshwater fish-

free.

get 1 equal

Exp. Nov. 23, 1985

Mon.-Sat. 10:30-6 Thursday 10:30-8 Sunday 12-5

2007 Ft. Riley Blvd.

539-1676

C'mon America, Drive Over To

Lube, Oil & Filter

d aid add up to five quarts of war and install a new aid lifter

Ride Master Shocks ng lasting shorks to help restore $1299 trafface and stability

Systems Analysis

Alignment

Radiator Winterizing

■ Battery Sale!

Hurry! Sale ends Nov. 16!

STUDENTS STUDENTS

DO YOU WANT TO ... IMPROVE GRADES

THEN RENT AN OFFICE STUDY DESK FROM NOW TILL MAY AND RECEIVE A SWIVAL DESK CHAIR AND DESK TOP ORGANIZER (while supplies last) AT NO ADDITIONAL RENTAL CHARGE.

> 24x45 15.00/monthly HOMESTEAD

RENTAL

2332 SKY-VUE LANE

DESK SIZES

ANY SIZE PIZZA Mark Faund mokee "We Pile It On!"

50%

Process and Print with this coupon

from 110, 126, 35mm or Disc Color Print Film 141/2¢ per print (reg. 29¢) and $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98) Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94...NOW $4.97! Limit one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other offers Expires 11-20-85 Code KS11 -

2700 Anderson Ave. 539-2519 Open Mon. - Sat. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday 12 to 6

ANY REG. PRICED SHOES OR BOOTS from our large selection

> This offer is good Thurs.-Sat. 11/7-11/9

LADY FOOT SHOES

221 Poyntz DOWNTOWN

Enlargements!

With this coupon, receive 25% off any 5 x 7 or 8 x 10 color enlargement or der from your 110, 126, or 135 negative. Not valid with any other enlargement promotion.

776-9030

BUY-SELL-TRADE-LOAN DEALERS IN MOST ANYTHING OF VALUE

2047A Ft. Riley Blvd

1/3 off all used stereo's, TV's and VCR's with this coupon.

537-9737

Offer expires Nov. 15, 1985

Beat the Blues

20% OFF anything blue

Free Gift Wrap at

20% off any 1986 Calendar

Expires Nov. 14, 1985

704 N. Manhattan

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 Thurs. 8:30-5:30

$10.45 (reg. $15.68) with this coupon

Expires November 7, 1985

10% Discount Coupon Reeds for Clarinet, Sax & Oboe LaVox Reed Gaur ds Pad Savers for Flute and Sax Mutes for Trumpet & Trombone 12 String Guitar Sets

407 Poyntz

Save Up To Developing!

776-4704

With this coupon, save on developing and printing of one roll of color print film (C-41 process only). Get $3 off 36 exposures, $2 off 24 exposures, or $1 off 12 (or 15 exposures disc) Not valid with any other promotion. Offer limited to one roll per coupon.

Expires 12/31/85

South of Westloop

776-9030

with this coupon Good through Dec. 31, 1985

GET THAT SEXY NAILS LOOK! 1/2 Price on Nail Tips and Sculptured Nails 776-5651

25% OFF All Regularly

Priced Items

539-1751

3037 Anderson

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 54

GOP hits campaign roadway

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

TOPEKA — The Kansas Republican Party Executive Committee Thursday reviewed six possible GOP candidates in Topeka for the 1986 gubernatorial race.

State Chairman Vern Chesbro said the purpose of the meeting was to "provide Kansans with candidates they can be proud of."

Each candidate was asked to make an oral commitment to refrain from undue criticism of other candidates, the so-called "11th Commandment" to speak no evil of a fellow Republican.

Attorney General Robert Stephan was among those asked to address the committee. Stephan, who was a solid frontrunner according to a poll taken by the GOP in Kansas earlier this year, has experienced recent adverse publicity concerning the renewal of a sexual harrassment lawsuit against him.

Stephan, who termed the suit "an obvious effort to ruin me politically," said he didn't think it would damage his chances for the candidacy.

"As Yogi Berra says, 'It ain't over 'til it's over,'" Stephan said. "I haven't done anything wrong, nor has it been proven I'm wrong, and they won't find I'm wrong."

Stephan said he doesn't have any enemies in the other possible Republican candidates involved in the governor's race, although he is aware of negative comments made about his viability as a candidate. Stephan said he will announce his Stephan said he will announce his final plans for the race after the first of the year, but not before Kansas Day, Jan. 29.

Secretary of State Jack Brier, another possible candidate, also appeared before the committee.

Brier said he doesn't plan to "worry about the other candidates"

taff/Jim Dietz

Attorney General Robert Stephen displays an air of confidence during a television interview after the Kansas Republican Party Executive Comin the gubernatorial race next year.

"I look at the race as a question not of who you can beat, but, can you win?" he said.

Brier said he had no problems with the pledge the committee asked him to make.

"I'm a team player," he said. "I always support the Republican ticket. That's the way I've always believed it works."

believed it works."

Brier said he sees a positive opportunity for the Republican party in the election, saying "1986 is not the gloom and doom predicted for the Republican party."

Kansas House Speaker Mike Hayden said he laid out a plan of issues he plans to pursue in the race and his position on them, but would not say what those issues are.

Hayden said he plans to run a "high-level positive campaign," and hopes to make an announcemittee meeting Thursday at the Ramada Inn in Topeka. The meeting was held to hear those interested in the Republican nomination for governor.

ment about his candidacy before pressed his possible candidacy to the legislative session ends.

Senate President Robert Talkington also attended the meeting as a possible GOP candidate.

His experience in the state legislature qualifies him for the position, Talkington said, but added he didn't want his candidacy to interfere with the current legislative

Sen. Fred Kerr of Pratt also ex-

The meeting was pressed his possible candidacy to the committee.

Kerr said he thought it was important for Kansans to know the issues he will focus on, and added he should draw attention to the issues concerning him "whether I win or not."

Barbara Pomeroy, 46-year-old adjunct professor at Wichita State

See GOP, Page 6

President appoints secretary

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Otis R. Bewen, a former Indiana governor described as a conservative country doctor, was selected by President Reagan on Thursday to be the next secretary of health and human services, replacing Margaret Heckler who will become U.S. ambassador to Ireland.

Reagan said he picked Bowen "because of all the qualifications he has in excess for this particular position," including experience as a family doctor and medical professor and eight years as governor.

Reagan and Bowen, citing the nominee's pending confirmation hearings in the Senate, declined to answer most questions from reporters when they appeared in the president's Oval Office for the announcement.

But Bowen denied any illegal action in deciding to treat his terminally ill wife some years ago with three drugs not approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

Bowen had revealed his action in a 1981 speech to an American Medical Association conference, and criticized what he considered dawdling on new drug approvals by FDA, which will be under his direction at HHS.

The drugs he used included dimethyl sulfoxide, or DMSO, an industrial solvent believed by many to be a pain reliever when used as an ointment; tetrahydrocannabinol, or THC, the principal active ingredient in marijuana; and an unidentified drug approved in France but not in the United States.

The first two were intended to treat his wife's "incredible, excruciating, unbearable pain," he said at the time.

The third was an attempt to treat her fatal bone cancer. She died Jan. 1, 1981.

"Why can't a dying person, with

See BOWEN, Page 6

Senate coliseum bill hits snag

Student funding issue unresolved

By WAYNE PRICE Managing Editor

Student Senate failed Thursday night to act on a bill asking the Board of Regents to withdraw student funding for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

Senators voted to postpone discussion of the bill until the Nov. 14 meeting, to allow President Duane Acker a chance to be present.

The bill, "Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum," sponsored by Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine, called for student senate to request the regents to withdraw student funding for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, "until proper planning steps are adopted."

The "proper planning steps," listed in the bill, which had its first reading last week, are: a master plan of the entire project, a market study, a financial feasibility study, a site selection study, a traffic study, a building program, a funding study and a

For a period of time Thursday night, nobody quite knew the fate of that bill.

By The Associated Press

DENVER - Michael G. McKay, a 40-year-

McKay, who carries a picture of inventor

Thomas Edison, has stuffed his company's "suggestion box" about 250 times in the past

21 years with ideas he felt would save GM money. The company estimates about 200 have been implemented at a savings of $3 million. Many of the rest are still being

Enlisting the employee is the drive for greater efficiency has never been more popular in the United States as managers, economists, politicians and consultants old machinist for General Motors Corp., is proof of the power of suggestion.

evaluated.

Thursday afternoon, Monto said he and Tsen were indefinitely tabling the bill, numbered 85-86-20, in favor of a new bill, 85-86-22, "Enhanced Student Input of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum Program Planning Committee," which, among other things, asks student senate to request the program planning committee to "expand student membership by an additional three student senators with full membership privileges."

The planning committee's purpose is to ensure University interest in the coliseum project.

A number of student senators and others attending the meeting, who supported the first bill, were angered by the change, saying University administration pressure was the reason behind the drafting of the second bill. "The first bill had teeth. This second bill is just gums," said Steve Milligan, graduate in chemical engineering, who spoke during the open session in favor of the first bill. Monto admitted he and Tsen had met with Monto admitted he and Tsen had met with student leaders and University officials in the last two days but, "they didn't give us any pressure — just different points of view," he said.

George Miller, vice president for addecry what they see as slipping U.S. productivity and increasing competition from other nations, especially Japan. The modern form of the suggestion box is growing more impor-

Employee suggestion programs have been around a long time - Eastman Kodak Co.

established the first in 1898. And the National Association of Suggestion Systems began in 1942 when 35 suggestion administrators from different organizations met in Chicago and decided to establish a clearing house through which affiliated organizations could benefit

The association has grown rapidly and now feeds information and expertise to 900 companies and government entities that have set from the experience of others.

Employee suggestion box grows in value ministration and finance, said he favored the second bill because, among other things, "it would help the flow of information and that will be helpful."

Miller attended the meeting, along with Larry Garvin, director of planning and University architect, Larry Travis, athletic director, and Fred Bramlage, Junction City businessman and donator of $1.7 million to the coliseum project. Miller, Garvin, Travis and Bramlage answered questions about the project and expressed support for administrative decisions made on the coliseum.

But Monto and Tsen changed their minds before senate was called to order, opting to vote on the first bill, "because I don't think it's a replacement for the other bill," Monto said.

Brett Bromich, junior in pre-professional business administration and chairman of the student affairs committee, said he believes the second bill achieves "the end result" of first bill and called for a motion to postpone the first bill indefinitely.

Bromich said the regents probably would not pass the bill and that it essentially, "breaks down to a vote of confidence for the administration."

up departments to encourage and study approximately $800 million last year and a like amount in 1983 through their suggestion systems. Last year alone they paid at least

$98 million to employees for suggestions that Suggestion programs have developed from the old "suggestion box" concept to programs that favor participation by employees in management, said Nicholas Fritsch, corporate suggestion coordinator for Eli Lilly &

But the key to making the concept work is still the guy on the job who sees a better way

Member companies reported savings of employee's ideas.

Co. in Indianapolis.

of doing something.

Architects offer expertise; Foundation forgets pledge

By SUE DAWSON Staff Writer

In September 1983, two associate professors of landscape architecture volunteered to donate their services toward the construction of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, but have never been taken up on their offer.

Kenneth Brooks and Dennis Law responded to a written request from the University asking faculty members for donations to the coliseum. The letter stated that $2,000 would be a reasonable amount to donate, Brooks said.

"Dennis and I decided that we would be interested in making a contribution to the coliseum campaign," Brooks said, "but we offered a contribution of professional services which we anticipated to be necessary in the planning and design activities

"As we indicated in our letter, we both have experience doing facility siting work, we've worked with recreation facilities, we've both worked as planners and consultants dealing with campus situations and we're registered landscape architects, so we felt highly qualified to contribute in this particular case," Brooks said.

Since the $2,000 figure was recommended, both decided to contribute a joint amount of $4,000 in professional consulting services to the University.

Law and Brooks received a letter in response to their offer from Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, on Sept. 29, 1983. It said their contribution was appreciated, but premature, and that they would be contacted later.

"With your understanding we will have to hold this offer in abeyance since at this time we do not have the official architect's plan," the letter stated. "Obviously, site planning would have to be done in concert with the final contract, and as such it would be presumptuous of us to acknowledge your contribution prior to that decision being made. We will advise you at a later date."

Brooks and Law have not heard from the University on the subject since this correspondence.

"So, we assumed that they decided to take care of it all by themselves," Brooks said. Thirteen days after receiving the first letter the two men received a second letter asking for coliseum donations. "The size of the gift is important...but not as important as your participation," it said. Law and Brooks said they believe it was an ironic twist to a continuing saga.

"Obviously, we would much rather work with the architect prior to the architect's plan," Law said.

Both feel there has been a lack of understanding about what services were offered and that the public lacks an understanding of the definition of land-scape architecture. "Landscape architecture has a very broad and extensive scope and a capability to provide planning and design contributions at an intensive level throughout much of the planning and design process," Brooks said.

"Anytime the land is involved, we have services we can offer," Law added.

"This fall, one of the things that was pointed out by the past campus planner (Robert Jackson, associate professor of architecture) was the lack of site evaluation services preceding facility design," Brooks said. "The professional services we were offering would not cover all the kinds of planning that were not done as part of this study, but they were very much in line with the site selection and

See COLISEUM, Page 10

Entertainment

tant in the effort.

The New York City Opera performed Charles Gunod's "Faust" Thursday night in McCain Auditorium. See Page 7.

Weather

Partly cloudy today, high mid-60s. Winds southerly 15 to 25 mph and gusty. Mostly cloudy tonight, low 35 to 40. Cloudy Saturday with a slight chance of showers, high around 50.

Sports

The K-State football team will travel to Stillwater, Okla., Saturday to battle the Oklahoma State Cowboys. See Page 8.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Colombian army frees 48 hostages

BOGOTA, Colombia - Soldiers blew down walls of the Palace of Justice with dynamite Thursday and rescued up to 48 hostages held by leftist rebels. Officers said they found 50 bodies in the burned-out building after "annihilating" the guerrillas.

Survivors said the guerrillas shot to death six Supreme Court judges, including the chief justice.

Jorge Antonio Reina, a driver for the court, told radio station Caracol that he saw April 19 Movement guerrillas kill four

"They shot magistrate Manuel Gaona Cruz here," he said, touching a finger to his forehead. "They made him lie down on the floor and that's where they shot him even though he was insisting that they should try to negotiate" with the government.

Reina said the guerrillas earlier had killed three other judges, including two from the Supreme Court. The rebels decided Thursday morning to kill the justices when it appeared the guerrillas' situation was hopeless, Reina said.

The reports could not be independently verified, and there was no confirmation that the bodies of the justices had been identified. Most of the bodies were badly burned by a fire that swept the five-story building beginning late Wednesday night. It was not clear how and when the hostages had died. Military sources said 50 bodies were found inside and 18 were those of guerrillas, including six members of the high command of the April 19 Movement, the group the rebels belonged to. Neither side said why the rebels seized the building.

Terrorists threaten to kill captives

BEIRUT, Lebanon - An anonymous caller said Islamic Jihad extremists planned to kill their half-dozen American hostages Thursday, and a second caller claimed they were dead. But no bodies were found in the designated spot.

The captives were to be "executed" by firing squad because indirect negotiations with the United States had reached "a dead end," the first man said in a call to a Western news agency.

In Washington, D.C., however, a White House official said "contacts" in the Lebanon hostage case had not broken down. And President Reagan said of the death threat, "Evidently there is no substantiation of that at all."

Six Americans are missing in Lebanon. Islamic Jihad claimed Oct. 4 it killed one of them, diplomat William Buckley, 57. But no body has turned up.

Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, believed made up of fundamentalist followers of Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, had said it would release the Americans when Kuwait frees 17 Shijte comrades serving prison terms for the bombings of the U.S. and French embassies in Kuwait in December 1983. Kuwait refuses.

PEOPLE

Texas governor to star on 'Dallas'

AUSTIN, Texas - He may not be a rival to J.R., but Gov. Mark White will make his acting debut on the television show "Dallas" on

The scene of the governor appearing with a rodeo announcer will last all of 20 to 60 seconds, said White, who warned viewers "You'd better stay glued to your set, or you're likely to miss my TV debut."

Lorimar Productions said White will be the first non-professional actor to appear on the popular CBS nighttime soap opera. He was paid $292.83 because union rules require anyone appearing on entertainment TV to be paid union rates.

But the money will be in the governor's hands no longer than the scene will be on screen; his office said it would be donated to the Southwest Alternate Media Project in Houston, a group that helps independent film makers in Texas.

Tax collectors seize singer's auto

MEMPHIS, Tenn. - Tax collectors continue to seize property from Jerry Lee Lewis and the latest snatch is a Mercedes-Benz driven by the rock 'n' roller's sixth wife, an Internal Revenue Service spokesperson said.

Lewis faces tax liens totaling $1.7 million, IRS spokesperson Eric Roberts said, and federal agents seized the luxury car from the 50-year-old singer's downtown condominium in June as part of efforts that began in 1979 to recover that money.

Roberts said he did not know how much the Mercedes was worth, but he noted that less elaborate models sell for more than $25,000.

NATIONAL

Senate subpoenas Soviet sailor

WASHINGTON - A Senate committee issued a subpoena Thursday for a Soviet sailor who apparently tried to defect but later changed his mind, calling him to Washington, D.C., to determine whether his change of heart was made freely.

Meanwhile, the full Senate called on the Reagan administration to use "all legal and legitimate means" to resolve the case of 22-year-

The deputy counsel to the Senate Agriculture Committee, Terrance J. Wear, was carrying the subpoena, translated into both Russian and Ukrainian, on a flight to New Orleans and planned to attempt to serve it late in the day.

Nine members of the 17-member committee had been contacted and given their authorization for the subpoena to be served, staffers said.

The Senate resolution declared that there were "serious questions" about the initial handling of the case by the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and suggested further government action was needed to determine whether the sailor was returning to the Soviet Union of his own free will.

Reagan to address Soviets on radio

WASHINGTON - President Reagan will address the Soviet people Saturday in a 10-minute radio address beamed to the Soviet Union, telling them about his "hopes for peace, hopes for a successful summit," a spokesperson said Thursday.

The president's speech will be carried by the Voice of America in English, but it will also be translated and broadcast in Russian and the other languages spoken in the Soviet Union, spokesperson darry Speakes said.

Reagan will speak at 11:06 p.m., the time he normally sets aside for a nationally broadcast five-minute radio address. This week's remarks will also be made available to U.S. radio and television, the spokesperson said.

Asked whether such remarks beamed to a Soviet audience one week before he departs for his Nov. 19-20 summit in Geneva with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev might be deemed provocative, Speakes replied: "We don't think an American president speaking of his hopes for peace, his hopes for a successful summit could in any way be provocative."

REGIONAL

Missouri could be Midgetman site

WASHINGTON - Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri was added Thursday to a list of potential sites nationwide for basing the Midgetman, a small, mobile nuclear missile under development.

The Air Force announced that Whiteman, about 70 miles east of Kansas City, was one of five new candidate bases under a new proposal for limited mobile deployment of the single-warhead missile, which is to be deployed in the 1990s.

The five military posts join 46 already being studied as potential homes for the Midgetman. A sixth base was mentioned by the Air Force Thursday as a candidate for the latest deployment method, but was among the original list of 46.

An Air Force spokesperson, Maj. Rick Oborn, said Whiteman was selected as a candidate site because the military is looking at a slightly different way of deploying the Midgetman.

Pentagon officials said Thursday they are considering a proposal under which the mobile missiles would not be moved about as much. Under that scenario, Whiteman and other smaller bases could work as a home for the Midgetman.

Stephan calls detractors 'vultures'

TOPEKA - Attorney General Robert T. Stephan fired back at his critics, some fellow politicans and the news media Thursday, calling his detractors "vultures" and vowing it has not entered his mind to give up his bid for Republican nomination for governor in 1986.

"I think the vultures thought the meat was off the bones and they found there is still some meat there," Stephan told an impromptu news conference after meeting with members of the state GOP executive committee and explaining to them his situation relative to the party's gubernatorial nomination.

He said he has no regrets over reopening the secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit and the stream of adverse publicity that has brought him the past 10 days.

His allusion to "vultures" came in reference to a spate of charges leveled against him since he disclosed publicly that money had been collected privately on his behalf to pay $24,000 to settle the lawsuit brought by Marcia Tomson, a former woman employee in his office.

Dairy Queen

Royal Treat Weekly Specials

Campus Bulletin

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appo

TODAY

K-LAIRES will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the south

ALPHA KAPPA PSI will meet for initiations at 6 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Carol J. Carnes at 9:30 a.m. in Waters 341A. The dissertation topic will be "The Effects of Post-1980 Financial Deregulation on U.S. Monetary Control: Modeling the Money

SATURDAY

ECKANKAR CAMPUS SOCIETY will meet at 7

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 7 p.m. at the Alpha Gamma Rho house. K-LAIRES will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in Union

SAMS board of directors and assistants will meet at 9 p.m. in the Union SGS Office, Con-ference Room 1.

NEWMAN CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

STUDENT FOUNDATION will meet at 7 p.m.

SWEETHEARTS OF THE SHIELD AND DIA-MOND will meet at 8 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Alpha

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE PLEDGES will meet at 3 p.m. at the Beta Sigma

KAPPA SIGMA STARDUSTERS will meet at 9

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Durland

CONSUMER AFFAIRS INTEREST GROUP

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Justin 150.

APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING MA-JORS will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Justin 109

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Mary E. Devin at 1 p.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic will be "Deferred Repair and Renovation in Selected Kansas Public Schools."

HUMAN ECOLOGY AMBASSADORS will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254

Correction

Because of a reporter's error in Tuesday's Collegian story, "Hospice teaches about death," several items were reported incorrectly. Virgene Crane, Hospice co-director, was misidentified.

Also, all volunteer applicants are interviewed before actual training but make any decision to volunteer on their own.

More than 10 doctors refer patients to the program and the organization has never turned anyone away.

Many students prefer extended college career

By BOB SCHEIBLER Collegian Reporter

For some people, four years is not enough time to complete the hours of credit needed to earn a degree.

Although it takes more than four years for some students to finish, it is estimated that one out every 1,000 students finishes his or her degree in 31/2 years, said Don Smith, assistant to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences

About half the number of students who usually graduate in May will be graduating in December this year. The advantage for December graduates is that half as many people will be actively searching for employment, said Bruce Laughlin, director of the Career Planning and Placement Center.

The schedule of employment interviews at Holtz Hall lists about the same number of interviews for December graduates as for May graduates. There have already been 4,000 interviews in Holtz this fall and the total number of interviews is expected to reach 5,000 by the end of the semester, Laughlin said.

"People jump to the conclusion that the on-campus interviews represent the total job market and they don't; it is just one aspect of the job search - obviously a very convenient one from the standpoint of people who have the opportunity to get interviewed," Laughlin said.

"Students put too much emphasis on the vocational aspects of life. Twenty years from now it is probably not going to matter what their first job was out of college. Probably half of the students won't even be in the same field that they were in when they got out of college," Smith said.

The College of Business Administration has 175 applicants for December graduation, said Janie Kidd, secretary in the office of Student Services in business administration. Last year during the December graduation, 161 students graduated from the college. The number of May graduates was 315.

The College of Arts and Sciences has about 250 applications for December graduation for this year, Smith said. This is about the same number of graduates who received degrees at December graduation last year. The College of Arts and Sciences graduated 540 during the May ceremony last year.

"There are any number of reasons for going extra semesters such as changing majors, dropping out of school or just taking extra classes. There are about a zillion reasons for not graduating in four years," Smith

Career Planning and Placement dees not have statistics for job placement of December graduates because data is only available on students who used the placement center.

A CLASSIC PUMP IS QUITE SIMPLY A NECESSITY AND JOYCE FASHIONS IT WITH SUPERB STYLE AND GRACE.

Winter White Taupe Black Blue $46.00

Ladies Shoes From

Eckankar: A spiritual pathway presents Soul Travel Techniques: Spiritual Exercises KSU Student Union Rm. 203 Sat., Nov. 9, 7:00 p.m.

Swannie's Cure For The Late Night Munchies Swannie's Backdoor

M-Sat. 9:30 p.m.

The Faculty Woodwind Quartet performed Thursday in the Union Art day Arts Committee. The group has performed together since 1979, play-Gallery during an attraction sponsored by Union Program Council's Mid-ing classical music, and has entertained audiences across the state.

uartet shares classical music talents

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

Since 1979 the Faculty Woodwind Quartet has been playing classical music from four centuries of composers at performances in the

Thursday the quartet livened the Union Art Gallery with musical pieces from the Renaissance and Baroque periods to 20th century sounds, as a Midday Arts attraction sponsored by Union Program Coun-quartet was established. cil's Art Committee.

"Before (the quartet) there were regular," said clarinetist Frank Sidorfsky, associate professor of music. The musicians perform an average of twice a semester.

Baritone saxophone player Al Cochran, instructor of music, and recorders and crumhorns flutist Mary Lee Cochran, assistant double-reeded instruments where professor of music, moved to the reed is concealed - are il-Manhattan six years ago, when the lustrated and played, she said.

Sara Funkhouser, oboe player and assistant professor of music, temporary groups, but nothing joined the others to complete the foursome. Funkhouser said they introduce instruments from early periods into their performances at elementary and high schools. Renaissance instruments such as "We try to make the program varied from different periods," Mary Lee Cochran said. Compositions by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart of the Classical period, 1750-1800, and Bernhard Henrik Crusell of the 19th century Romantic period are explored, she said.

Al Cochran said King Henry VIII even "threw a couple of notes on paper" that the quartet plays.

"It's fun, a lot better than gargling with peanut butter."

Peace Corps representatives search for recruits

By JANIS SMISCHNY Collegian Reporter

Students who are prepared for a job in a foreign country can find one in the Peace Corps. An office has been opened in Waters Hall to find volunteers for the program.

Bernadette O'Brien, a Peace Corps recruiter, was on campus Wednesday to interview students for Peace Corps volunteer jobs. About 10 students were interviewed and during the day at a table set up at the Union for representatives to answer questions. O'Brien gave a film presentation to a group of 20 Wednesday night and spoke about living and working in a foreign country.

"Any student from any major can become a volunteer, but we could use people from forestry, agriculture, engineering, nutrition, skilled tradespeople, business, education and the health profession," O'Brien

The Peace Corps sends volunteers to 61 countries and has more than 5,000 volunteers working in those countries. Any country that asks for

YOU

CAN

from the Peace Corps, O'Brien said.

The first step to becoming a Peace Corps volunteer is filling out an application and then interviewing with a recruiter. The application is sent to a Chicago office to be analyzed and then is checked at the main office of the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C. Either office can reject an unqualified applicant.

The applicant also gives the recruiter eight references, which are checked thoroughly.

"The entire process is long and complicated, but if you can get through it, the experience of working in a foreign country is worth it," O'Brien said.

The process takes six to eight months from the point of application. A volunteer must have a dental and physical examination, fingerprints taken and a background check to

Accepted volunteers are put through a three-month training program. The volunteer has a general introduction of a country's culture, learns the language by living with a

Sunday

Night

Pan Fried

Chicken and

Spaghetti

with mashed potatoes,

salad bar and veg.

just $3.95

assistance will receive volunteers non-English speaking family and is taught about the assigned area of work

> "Usually the three month training is done in that country and I think the hardest part of it is learning the language, because you're thrown into it and you have to learn or not communicate," O'Brien said.

> A volunteer receives a monthly living allowance for room and board. The money is usually comparable to the salaries in the foreign country, O'Brien said. After Peace Corps volunteers have worked two years, they can receive readjustment allowances of $4,500.

"Not very many college students can save $4,500 in two years, just out of college," O'Brien said.

Martha Metzler, graduate student in general studies, is in charge of the office in Waters Hall. She has never worked for the Peace Corps, but has spent time in Brazil living in remote areas helping villagers with gardening techniques and teaching English. 'It takes a lot of flexibility and you have to adapt to the culture and live each day one day at a time," Metzler

One problem O'Brien discovered was the difference in male-female relationships. O'Brien said she felt like a second-class citizen.

"The men in my office didn't take me seriously, so to get things accomplished I would have to go out-

See PEACE, Page 5

College outgrows stereotype, secures professional image

By LESLIE STOKES Collegian Reporter

The College of Human Ecology not only has a new name to offer its students, but also has a wide variety of opportunities

The college is the only one in Kansas which offers degrees in foods and nutrition; clothing, textiles and interior design; dietetics, restaurant and institutional management; and human development and family studies, said Barbara Stowe, dean of the College of Human Ecology.

Within the college are opportunities for awards, scholarships including the $1,000 Dean Scholarship Program - and internships for nearly all of the 20 career options.

Students and faculty in the college of Human Ecology have won awards. Stowe said a team of K-State textiles students, engineering students and faculty won the NASA competition for the design of an astronaut glove last year.

Bernard Rueschhoff, assistant professor of clothing, textiles and interior design, designed a life vest for the Federal Aviation Administration. He presented the vest at the Fall Regional Conference of the Association of College Professors of Textiles and Clothing in San Francisco on Oct 25.

Marian Spears, professor of dietetics, restaraunt and institutional management, wrote "A Management and Systems Approach," a text for restaurant management. Stowe said this is one of the fastest growing fields in the

The College of Human Ecology has also made strides in the research and graduate studies. It is the only college in the Big Eight offering a comprehensive research and training center for food flavor analysis.

The college is one of three colleges in the United States to have accredited marriage and family therapy programs at both the master of science and doctorate levels, she Stowe said 90 percent of the 1984 graduates seeking employment found it, 75 percent finding positions directly related to their major. In addition, all of the nutrition science graduates who have applied to medical school were accepted.

"Many of the apparel and textile marketing majors are employed by Christian Dior, Foxmoor and Dillards," Stowe said.

Stowe said there are misconceptions about students in human ecology and their jobs.

"These students are not the students right out of your high school home ec class," Stowe said. "We have grown up into a professional and pre-professional college. This is one of the reasons for the new name."

When looking for a job a person needs to catch the employer's attention, Stowe said.

"An employer may ask what Human Ecology is. This gives the graduate a chance to describe Human Ecology and (the description) may do away with an employer's preconceived ideas," Stowe said. "It gives the graduate seeking employment a foot in the

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh of an eight-part series highlighting each of the Univer-sity's colleges and some significant programs of that college. Monday, the College of Veterinary Medicine will be highlighted.

Student Publications is now accepting applications for spring Collegian editor and advertising manager.

Applications may be picked up in Kedzie 103 and are due TODAY at 4 p.m. in Kedzie 103.

7th Anderson

TODAY is the LAST DAY to get your Royal Purple picture taken.

RAMADA INN

Take your fee card to UNION 209. Hours are 8:30-12:30 and 1:30-5:30.

539-5229

COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

Kansas State

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price. Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Increase to harm students

falling into a deep pool of red.

sufficient level to produce income needed to keep the economy bars. above water.

A year ago, Democratic Gov. John Carlin backed a tax in-Representatives flatly rejected fect all students. his proposals. Today they will see collection.

sibility for introducing taxlegislature.

by nearly $100 million over the next 18 months. If the Legislature does not impose sales tax increases, state agencies will face further funding cuts to maintain a balanced state budget. Here's where K-State enters the picture.

If funding to Board of Regents'

It looks like Kansas may be institutions is cut, students will once again see increases in tui-The state's three leading tion, services and activity fees. If revenue-generating industries — a sales tax is implemented. agriculture, aviation and oil and students will feel the pinch on gas - are not functioning at a every trip to the gas station, the grocery store or the Aggieville

Of the two, the sales tax would be a more logical solution as it would favor students who cannot crease. Carlin foresaw the finan- afford to travel or go out often cial trouble the state is facing this and who make an effort to save. year, but leaders in the House of Increased tuition and fees will af-

The ironic twist is the question the outcome when the projection of how an increased sales tax for the state's income for the year would help put businesses back comes in $90 million short in tax into a positive profit margin. Along with inflation, an increased Carlin has decided the respon- sales tax could further influence consumers to spend less. If increase policy lies with the state business income continues on a downward trend, state income State income is expected to fall tax collections will also continue to shrink.

> Whatever action the state pursues, legislators will be criticized, but the University must support whomever acts in the best interest of the students.

> > Lillian Zier for the editorial board

Editorial

Movie desensitizes audience to violence

Woman — The Statue of Liberty, Geraldine Ferraro, Margaret McClintock. These are some of the current media images of the strength and success of the American woman, images which foster respect and give hope to those still struggling against

The woman impaled on a meat hook in a Union Program Council advertisement in Wednesday's Collegian also portrays an image, one which is frighteningly prevalent in American culture and one which is, to say the least, detrimental to the safety of all ages of the female sex.

The UPC advertisement is for the movie "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre" which is showing in the Union this weekend. The advertisement depicts a woman hanging on a meat hook, screaming in agony while her male torturer stands in the foreground holding the instrument of his torture at the level of his crotch.

The subliminal imagery is repugnant and much too obvious to merit further explana-

UPC can be complimented on one point, and one point only - the advertisement accurately portrays the menu of violence and degradation to women, and to a lesser extent to men, offered its viewers.

Those who find the advertisement repulsive need not attend. UPC has made sure of that.

CATHERINE SAYLER Collegian Columnist

So then, will the theater be empty at the midnight showing of "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre?" Unlikely. Far too many people find the UPC advertisement intriguing, perhaps even exciting, and will be drawn to attend.

Study after study shows that humans exposed to graphic violence become desensitized and often oblivious to the images stored away in their subconscious.

If, instead of a woman, the family dog, the happy, loyal puppy or trusting kitten was impaled on a meat hook might not things be different? Might not those same viewers turn away in revulsion, unable to glean any sort of entertainment out of such a cruel act to so trusting and helpless a creature?

These are the questions every viewer must ask her/himself. Have we decided women are somehow not helpless against the strength of a rapist or killer and somehow deserve the treatment they receive?

Slashermovies such as "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre" rarely succeed in places such as Santa Cruz, Calif., where men and women routinely climb on stage during the violence and read prepared statements of opposition. Santa Cruz feminists are determined to raise the level of consciousness of their citizens. Perhaps concerned K-State students should lodge some form of active protest as well.

"The Texas Chainsaw Massacre" is a true story. It might be argued that women need to know what sort of people are out there to

The movie, unfortunately, was produced for entertainment, not enlightenment, and in no way helps women learn protective measures.

Some claim to perceive elements of absurdity in the film. Some feel that the film is, in fact, a parody on all the violence that occurs in movies today.

The parody, however, if it exists, is not obvious to the majority of viewers who swallow the line that the motion picture is "just as real!" as the truth.

Of course, other movies, books and television shows portray violence toward women. "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre," unfortunately, is not an isolated example. It is merely a timely example, one which will hopefully cause all K-State students to reflect on their images of American womanhood and decide that this movie is one that is just too horrible to attend.

JOHNNY, EVEN THOUGH YOU HAVE AIDS...THIS SCHOOL STILL WELCOMES YOU AND THINKS YOU DESERVE A PAT ON

Press limits prolong crisis Recent restrictions placed on the problem - government

ournalists in the racially-torn Republic of South Africa will impose unnecessary limitations on the amount of information dissimenated to the world. Journalists working in South Africa will need police permission to report on distrubances in nonwhite areas or face up to 10 years in prison.

The restrictions stem from President P.W. Botha's belief that the media incites violence and exaggerates the urgency of the situation. Reporters are not policies are

Restrictions on press access will not alter the horrible condition South Africa finds itself in: nor will it restore peace. Only when the universally condemned policy of apartheid is repealed will peace reign.

A shortage of information will serve only to hinder the world's understanding and prolong the South African conflict.

> Tim Carpenter, editor

Senators stand by ideals

Martin Monto, junior in congratulated for holding their beliefs under much pressure. ground on senate bill, "Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum.'

The two senators considered tabling the bill, which calls for the Kansas Board of Regents to withdraw student monetary support for the coliseum until eight planning steps are adopted, in favor of a much weaker bill, which in essence asks the Program Planning Committee of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum to allow three student senators on that committee for added input.

Monto and Tsen showed respecbiology, and Lawrence Tsen, table political stanima and true senior in pre-medicine, should be sincerity by sticking to their

> If matters proceed as planned for Monto and Tsen, then both bills could pass. Such a situation would surely dishearten a number of people and would logically delay the day ground is finally broken for the coliseum.

> But the end result of that situation would not only increase student input but help to guarantee the process is performed in a formal, business-like manner.

> > Tim Carpenter, editor

Date rape common on campuses

Editor,

As a concerned student, I am writing to point out a situation that is epidemic on our campus as well as campuses across the nation. The epidemic I am speaking of is date or acquaintance rape.

In a three-year survey, conducted by Mary Koss of Kent State University on a grant from the National Center for the Prevention and Control of Rape, 35 schools and more than 7,000 students revealed the following:

 One-fourth of the women in college have been victims of rape or attempted rape. If we apply these statistics to K-State, we find: 18,085 students, say 50 percent female equals 9,024. Twenty-five percent of this, 2,260 women at K-State, have been victims of rape or attempted rape.

Ninety percent of the victims know their attacker. At K-State, this means that of the 2,260 victims, 2,034 know their attackers.

The average age of the victim is 18. I would like to point out these are only statistics that I have applied to K-State and the actual number could be higher or lower.

Date rape is more serious than stranger rape because it is not only a violation of body and emotion, but causes far worse psychological damage to victims. It causes them to not be able to trust their own judgment or other human beings. Women are finally realizing what has been true all along - that we have a right to our bodies and to use them as we wish.

This is where the cause of date rape begins. Men don't believe that when a woman says no, she means it. They think women want to be raped. Men think women owe it to them for taking them out on a date. Most of this stems from our socialization. We need to open our eyes and communicate with

I realize that I have talked in terms of women being the victim rather than men. It can happen to men as well, but statistics show that one in four women are raped, compared to one in 20 men.

If K-State is like most campuses, the administration will deny that this is happening. It is, and probably more than anyone thinks. For this reason, we need to incorporate a program into freshman orientation to alert the students to the problem of date rape, how to prevent it and what to do if it should hap-

In addition to freshmen orientation, a program needs to be developed for all organized living groups - male and female. Education is a valuable weapon against this crime.

> Ashlyn Conoyer junior in marketing and 31 others

Traffic appeals policy unjustified

On Sept. 18, the K-State Police were, once again, hard at work. I received a ticket for illegally parking in the Cardwell student park-

I gathered my parking ticket, my parking permit receipt and my courage and went to the station to tell my story. I was sure that the problem would be easy to rectify when I told the campus police my problem. Not so. On Friday, Oct. 18, I received an answer to my appeal - guilty.

I was told that I could not confront the officer or any of the members of the board.

Now I am bewildered, as I know for a fact that the Sixth Amendment does apply to me. The amendment states: "The accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury...and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witness against him....

The campus police and the traffic board must be above the Bill of Rights, as they have shown through their unjust policy and their sub-human understanding.

God save the campus police!

Matthew Bretz freshman in political science LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged.

Advisers help

I recently had the opportunity to do a speech for my Public Speaking class wherein the topic was to deal with a problem concerning K-State. After the usual search for a topic, I settled on academic advising at K-State.

In doing my research, I ran across several interesting items. It seems that although advising at K-State has improved dramatically over the past few years, the University still has quite a bit of room for improvement. Some colleges are universally recognized for having high-quality advising programs (Agriculture, for one) while other colleges are singled out for possessing less than highquality advising (Business, as an example.)

K-State's advising system is a classic example of one hand not knowing what the other is doing. Each college addresses advising in its own way, with what appears to be very little coordination University wide. The differences in quality between colleges are a natural result of these uncoordinated ac-

The solution to the problems of uneven advising quality and lack of coordination is to have a University-wide policy that sets up programs and outlines actions each college must follow with respect to advising. Under this policy, every college would have an equal level of advising excellence and the advising process could be easily evaluated. If such a policy exists now, it certainly is not being followed closely.

I would like to thank all the faculty and staff for their cooperation in my research, and I hope K-State continues to improve academic advising programs to the benefit of us all.

Jim Titsworth junior in agricultural economics

Cheerleaders seek spot in nationally televised collegiate competition

By JANE KRIEGER Collegian Reporter

During the last football game of the season and the first varsity basketball games, Willie the Wildcat and the K-State cheerleaders will be videotaping segments of their performances to send to the 1985-86 Ford College Cheerleading National Championships.

The cheerleading squad hopes to be one of the 18 squads selected to travel free to compete in the nationally televised cheerleading finals in January in San Diego. Willie hopes to be one of the 20 finalists in a separate competition, the Ford National Collegiate Mascot Championship held in February.

"We're (the squad and Willie) not dying for nationals. It would be nice and good, but the primary reason we're out here is to support the team," said Scott Shell, junior in veterinary medicine and K-State cheerleader sponsor. "It's more important for the hometown croud to think we're good."

This is the first year the Universal Cheerleader Association has sponsored the National College Mascots as part of the American School Spirit Awards. Now mascots can compete separately from their cheerleading squads.

Willie the Wildcat will compete against more than 250 mascots from colleges, universities and junior colleges across the country, said Kris Shepherd, tournament director for the championships.

Willie faces a big challenge because he is not a typical mascot. While Willie wears an

Peace

Continued from Page 3

side the office to help the people," O'Brien

Many volunteers quit the program because they have personal commitments. An average of 24 percent drop out of the program in the first six months.

Margaret Kaii, graduate student in regional and community planning, lived in Guatemala for two years and helped with the forestry program. She worked closely with the government on projects, but did many things on her own.

"Sometimes we wouldn't be able to plant trees, so I would have to find some other projects to do. I learned to give cow vaccines and taught the women to sew," Kaii said. animal head with either a football or basketball uniform, most other mascots are animated. They have big floppy hands and feet, Willie said.

The Wildcat head, which is mounted on a football helmet, allows Willie freedom of movement in his neck, but presents him with other problems.

"The wildcat head weighs 30 pounds — more than the other mascot heads and you can't tumble in it," Willie said.

"A lot of them (the other mascots) can change the look of the mascot by pressing the face in — stuff where you can get lots of different expressions. In Willie you can't.

"The head also restricts my vision. I can see from my nose to the top of my eyes," Willie said. "Once a little kid saw my face behind the head's teeth and thought that Willie had eaten somebody."

Willie will videotape highlights of his best performances. The tape he sends to the competition will include stunts and a pyramid with the cheerleaders and a two-minute skit like the striptease he does at the basketball games.

Mascot judging will be based on character development (walk, personality and exaggerated motions and emotions), entertainment value (music, prop assistance and comic relief) crowd appeal, image and overall effect which includes interaction with the other spirit groups, communicating enthusiasm to the crowd with showmanship and personality and creating "the element of surprise," Shepherd said.

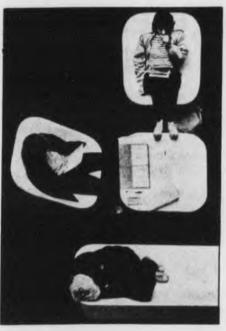

The yell leaders will face national competition against schools such as the University of Nebraska, the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas, Shell said.

They are also preparing a videotape to submit in the competition. The videotape will include a cheer, a sideline cheer and a traditional school song.

"We will do what we do best," Shell said.
"We will perform to Wabash (Cannonball) doing gymnastics, tumbling, girl dancing, guy-girl dancing and the 3-2-1 tension pyramid we are famous for. The tension pyramid is three men high and takes skill and practice to do well.

"For the sideline cheer, we will do stunts to emphasize good solid arm movements and a group lift," Shell said.

A panel of cheerleading experts will judge the cheerleaders on fundamental cheerleading skills, communication and projection, group technique and crowd appeal, image and overall effect.

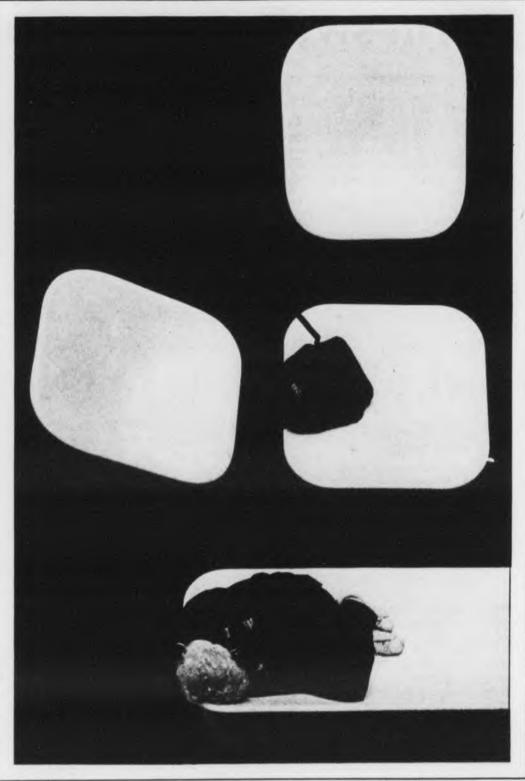

Staff/John Sleezer

Body language

TOP: Susan Dahl sleeps in the Union Courtyard while a student yawns. ABOVE: Shelley Arnold relaxes before leaving Dahl, RIGHT, still snoozing.

'Main Street' program leaders take office

By MARGARET MAY Collegian Reporter

Following the acceptance of Manhattan to the National Main Street Program, local business and governmental representatives have been selected to administrate the local

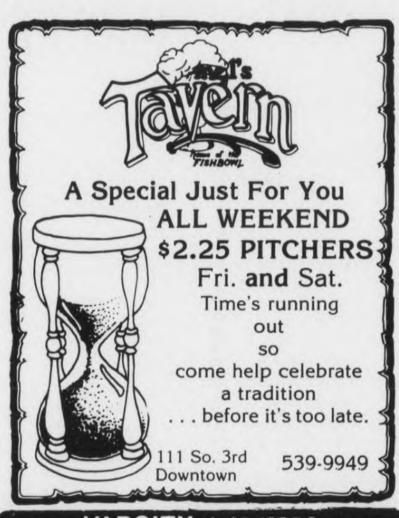

At a Wednesday night meeting of the Main Street Board of Directors, an executive committee was officially selected. The executive committee is made up of representatives of the major funders of the program, said Karen Daily, redevelopment officer and executive committee member representing the city.

Other members are Riley County Commissioner Rosalys Rieger; Barry Sarvis, president of Downtown, Inc.; Gil Gillespie, Downtown Business Improvement District; Tom Whalen, Manhattan Chamber of Commerce; Brent Bowman, architect; and Richard Burke, chairman of the Main Street Planning Committee.

On Nov. 13, Loren Medly, state coordinator for the Main Street Program and Robert McDuffy Nichols, program associate for the National Main Street Center, are scheduled to visit Manhattan to "get to know the city,"

The executive committee, along with the new project manager, will also have a training session Jan. 21-23 in Topeka.

FRI. & SAT. ALL SEATS $4.00

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Introducing the 49¢ Ritz Jr. Burger AND REDUCED PRICES!

99¢ Breakfast Special

2 eggs, 2 pieces bacon, toast, coffee 7:30-10:30 a.m.
Breakfast served anytime

FREE

1/2 lb. Curly Qs with order over $1.00

the Pitz

the mitz

FirstBank Center 1800 Claflin 537-3335 FREE 12 oz. Pep with every 1/4 lb hamburger (not good with Ritz Jr.)

Storm-swollen rivers surge eastward

By The Associated Press

National Guardsmen patrolled flooded streets in Richmond, Va., on Thursday and monuments were sandbagged in the nation's capital as the crests of storm-swollen rivers surged eastward after laying waste whole towns and killing at least 38 people.

Behind the crests, people returned to the ruins of communities across the western mid-Atlantic region, to begin rebuilding in the wake of deluges that left nearly 50 people missing.

As muddy floodwaters of the James River spilled into low-lying sections of Richmond, including a

By SHELLY DICKEN

Collegian Reporter

Pheasant and quail hunting season opens Nov. 9, and hunters can expect to find more birds than they did last year, said Randy Rodgers, small game biologist for the Kansas Fish

Excellent weather conditions are the primary reason for the increase in bird populations this year, made for good nesting cover, and consequently, there was a good hatch," Rodgers said. "We also had a mild, fairly wet summer, with ideal pared to the last seven or eight years, they may still fall a little below average. But the numbers

University, was an unannounced possible candidate who appeared

Pomeroy, who is currently a federal executive for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said she decided to run because her experience and education made her a

*gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

MANHATTAN

SHOE REPAIR

KEYS MADE

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-1

Drive-Up Convenience

776-1193

Friday—Saturday—Sunday

We'll honor any local pizza

coupon!

Falsettos

539-3830

401 Humboldt

*contraception

*free pregnancy tests

*alternatives counseling

*outpatient abortion services

Continued from Page 1

"If the bird numbers were com-

"We had an early spring which and Game Commission.

cover for young birds.

before the committee.

qualified candidate.

comprehensive

associates

Rodgers said.

Floods damage towns, kill 38 people

Fowl plentiful as hunting season opens newly renovated area of shops and businesses, firefighters monitored five 1 million-gallon fuel tanks that were afloat off the south bank, opposite downtown, but still tethered to their moorings.

'There's always the danger of a leak," said public services Director Jack Fulton. He said the tanks hold an unspecified petroleum product.

The waters lapped the Main Street Station, a renovated train station in riverfront Shockoe Bottom that was to have reopened as a shopping center Thursday.

were so far down last year even a big increase would not bring us back up

The Kansas Fish and Game Commission uses two surveys to find the approximate number of birds in Kan-

The first survey is done by the rural mail carriers. They keep track of the number of birds seen in four specific weeks throughout the year.

birds seen per 100 miles driven to get

The other survey is done by Fish and Game Commission employees.

They count the number of birds seen

"We also keep an ear to the ground as to what the farmers are saying,

and we listen to what other people who work outside, such as oil company employees, say about the "People have been trying to convince me that I have a better chance in my candidacy," she said. "It's occurred to me as long as eight years ago, but I was never here (in Kansas). However, I always knew I'd

U.S. Rep. Bob Whittaker and Pittsburg businessman Gene Bicknell,

who have also expressed an interest in running for governor, were not

The name of the GOP nominee will

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but

with one-fifth the fat!!

Can't Believe It's

YOGURTI

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggieville

able to attend the meeting.

be announced in August, 1986.

1304 Westloop

come home.

the estimates," Rodgers said.

in mid-July through August.

We use an index of the number of to really good hunting," he said.

"This is terrible for the people down here," said Irene Williams as she scanned the flooded area, which was watched over by some of the 586 National Guardsmen deployed to help police.

Traffic on Interstate 95, the East's major north-south artery, was detoured onto secondary routes after the James overflowed onto the highway just south of the Richmond public schools were closed because traffic was barred from three of the seven bridges that number of birds they see," Rodgers

The northwest part of Kansas is the best pheasant hunting area in the state, he said. For quail, the "West of Riley County, the pheasant population seems to pick up.

Clay County and down around

Abilene are good areas. The Flint

Hills are a very good quail area,"

Don Morton, owner of Don Morton

Sports, 2040 Tuttle Creek Blvd., said the north end of Tuttle Creek is a good place to hunt around Manhat-

"This area does have the disadvantage that there is a lot of cover, especially this year. We had a wet fall, so there are a lot of sunflowers and weeds. There are a lot of birds, southeast can offer the most birds.

span the James.

The current crested at 24.2 feet at the Richmond water filtration plant, about five miles upstream from the city's center, where a sandbag dike 28 feet high protected the drinking water source, said City Manager Manuel Dease.

In Washington, D.C., spillover from the bulging Potomac River covered the plaza of the Jefferson Memorial, but had not come close to the steps leading to the statue in the domed, open-air structure.

In flooding earlier this week following four days of heavy rain, 19 people died in Virginia, 18 in West Virginia and one in Maryland.

but there is also a lot of cover," Mor-

Mortion said hunters need to be

"Hunters have to be particularly careful to leave a foot on the birds (to distinguish the sex of the bird) in transport," Morton said. "If they go through a road check and there is no

Rodgers said Fish and Game Commission employees will make a numerous checks to see that hunters are not shooting hens or going over

A hunter can shoot four pheasants each day the first four days of the season, but cannot shoot more than 16 birds throughout the rest of the season. The daily limit on quail for the first three days of hunting is eight, with a season limit of 24 birds.

foot, they will get a ticket."

the allowed limit of birds ton said.

aware of regulations.

Brown discloses guilt, initiates rehabilitation

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

Student Body President Steve Brown, junior in pre-veterinary medicine, said he pleaded guilty Oct. 29 to a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol because he knew he was guilty and he wanted to get started with a program for people convicted of DUI.

Brown was arrested on Oct. 25 a few blocks from his residence, 1516 N. Manhattan Ave., for driving under the influence. His sentencing date is set for 1 p.m. Nov. 21, but Brown has already taken the alcohol evaluation test required for all DUI convictions and enrolled in the alcohol school usually used as a diversion program after sentencing.

'They use the test so they can get a feel for you as an individual," Brown said. "I wanted to get these out of the way, because that's also going to help me when I go to sentencing. Also the alcohol school gives a recommendation to the judge about you as an individual."

The activities of being a college student and student body president were the source of a lot of pressure, Brown said.

"One of my main problems was just the pressure," he said. "Going to vet school, being president, working at night and trying to go to class and go to all the meetings was a lot of pressure. Sometimes I just get bogged down and sometimes when I do, I go out and drink.

'What I am trying to do now is narrow the drinking down and try to do other things like jogging, running or racquetball - more constructive things.' Brown said he thought most of the legal action undertaken by the city concerning DUIs deals with students. "You'd be surprised at all the students that do get DUIs. I think that my position, if nothing else, is going to help students be aware of the fact that students are getting caught," he said. "I hope it makes them realize that basically the police are looking for us."

Brown said the University administration has been supportive of the way he has gone about handling the situation and he wants students to take note of what has happened.

Pat Bosco, assistant vice president for educational and student services, said he was not aware of any orricial University conversations with Brown, but he said he believes Brown had handled the situation in the right manner.

"Steve is a very sensitive individual and certainly doesn't take this incident lightly," Bosco said. 'From my observation Steve has been very concerned about the incident and has not waited for the court to instruct him on education and

Heart fund gives grant for fitness, stress study

By The Collegian Staff

Exercise and stress reduction, the study of different behavior patterns and how exercise may change stress in individuals is being researched by Ron Bulbulian, assistant professor of physical education, dance and leisure studies

With a $5,000 grant from the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Bulbulian will study stress reduction in type A and type B individuals and the role exercise plays in stress reduction. Bulbulian said type A individuals are coronary prone because they are highly motivated to achieve and have difficulty sleeping.

Type B individuals are coronary resistant so they are less prone to heart attacks, Bulbulian said. He said these individuals are mellow and are not tense.

Spinal cord activation levels will be measured on project volunteers.

The grant was presented to Bulbulian Oct. 19 at an Eagles Fall Conference at the American Legion, 114 McCall Road. The money was contributed from the Max Bear Heart Fund, said Greg Livingston, vice president of Eagles Lodge 2468.

The check was presented to Bulbulian by Vernon Nole, state president of the Eagles.

Bowen

FREE DELIVERY

(10% off with KSU I D ) 11 a.m. -1 a.m.

539-8888 or 537-0886

Rodgers said.

Continued from Page 1

1116 Moro

539-9949

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

'CHARLIE AND THE STINGRAYS"

-Hard-driving, classic rock'n' roll at its very best!

PARENTS WEEKEND!

"JOHNNY RENO

AND THE SAXMANIACS"

A Show that Mom and Dad are sure to love!

severe pain, have easy prescription access to it?" Bowen asked in his 1981 speech. "The only excuse I could find was that after prolonged use and heavy dosage, it (DMSO) caused an occasional cataract in dogs only."

He later said DMSO use was part of a clinical trial of the drug. But he added: "It seems to me as if we have been looking at some of these drugs

A longstanding legend

Don't miss out on

a tradition!

46 days left

8 Fridays left

111 3rd St

8 Saturdays left

forever. I'm not calling for unleashing of harmful drugs, but it seems to me you have to weigh the benefits and risks. With any new drug, there is always going to be someone who reacts badly to it.'

Asked Thursday if he would advocate using unlicensed drugs, he replied: "I did nothing illegal. DMSO is not illegal.'

Reagan did not comment on the issue. Later, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was aware of everything in Bowen's background before selecting him.

FREE

ADMISSION

C&W, Drinkin' & Dancin'!

N. Manhattan—Aggievi EXPIRES NOV. 9

CLIP-N-SAVE

KSU-AFROTC

Can Be An Air Force Officer

532-6600

GREEN THUMB |

Open Monday Thru Seturday 8 to 5 30 Sunday Noon to 5 30

Ten gallon all glass aquarium $9.99 Fish Special 2 for 99€ Brick Swords

Red Tux Platty Black Molly Zebra Danio 3 pack of TetraMin fish food reg $6.59 now $5.39 save $1.20 Parakeets reg $14.99 now $8.99

Prices good through Sun., Nov. 10, 1985

1105 Waters 539-4751 'Across from Alco'

SALON Aggieville

GRAND OPENING

Keg Party and Open House 2:00-7:00 tour

Register to win

Grand prize of an evening for two including chauffered limosine, dinner for two at Bockers II and a hot tub session for two at MareYeSol. 2nd prize-10 free tanning sessions

•3rd prize-1 hour hot tub session free Drop in & check out our all week specials Hot Tubs

•1/2 hour-$3

•1 hour-$5

-$2 tanning sessions -limit 10

1214C Moro behind Aggie Ski & Sport 776-7874

TO MAKE A SPECIAL SUNDAY MERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

4.49 BEFORE or AFTER CHURCH RELAX AND ENJOY LUNCH or DINNER AT MR. STEAK

Your Choice of 5 oz. FILLET OR SIRLOIN TERIYAKI SIRLOIN MUSHROOM & ONION STEAK CHICKEN FRIED STEAK SHRIMP 12

TERIYAKI CHICKEN LIVER AND ONIONS GROUND BEEF BROIL HAM STEAK HOT PEPPER STEAK FEATURE MENU

Served With Your Choice Of Our Great Soup and Salad Bar or a Large Crisp Salad served at your table. Also your Choice of Potato or Seasoned Rice and Ranch

Westloop Shopping Center Full waitress services . CHILDREN'S MENU

Ballard's in Aggieville Largest Racquet Selection in the State

539-2441

Children's Clothes Make Perfect Gifts at Elmore's Nu-Gift

Elmore's Nu-Gift has children's clothes starting at sizes for the 3-month old and up to a size 4 for toddlers that make perfect gifts. Come in and look through our selection of name brand children's clothes including

*Carter's

*Jack Tar

*Buster Brown

*Bull Frog Knits

*Wranglers

*Polly Flinders

Elmore's Nu-Gift has gift ideas for the young one on your list.

'Faust' exhibits actors' extraordinary talents

Mephistopheles, the Devil, played by Craig Heath Nim, sings during Act 1 of the New York City Opera National Company's production

By LISA BOOTHE Collegian Reviewer

When the New York City Opera National Company announced their production of "Faust" would be in French, with English subtitles projected on a screen, one might have suspected another electronic tampering with fine art - a fear the public will no longer need to work at comprehending artistic expression because it is spelled out in captions.

Keview

But why be high-brow? If you can't speak French, you need a little help, and that added help just may awaken those cultural senses from their dor-

Considering the extraordinary musical and orchestral ability of the opera company, it would be hard not to be affected by the talent alone.

"The subtitles have a monstrously powerful impact on the public," said Craig Heath Nim, who plays the devil, Mephistopheles. Nim believes because opera is a foreign art form, there will always be problems with private garden, or the village adapting it, but the subtitles enhance his performance. Humor is caught, plot is understood and detail is notic-

Fortunately the plot and detail are kept uncomplicated in Charles Gounod's adaptation of the classic novel by Goethe. Even the theme is so simple it is childlike, but this only helps to keep the focus on the main event - the voices.

Set in 19th century Germany, the action opens when the elderly Dr. Faust (Keith Olsen) exchanges his soul for his youth, so he may try again to seek knowledge and discover the secrets of life. Through his love affair with a maiden, Marguerite, (Randi Marrazzo) he struggles with good and evil, heaven and hell, grace and damnation.

As in traditional Romantic pieces, the circumstances surrounding the characters' struggles are exaggerated, but the issues are basic and transcend time. It is sheer nostalgia to be affected by such Romantic ploys as Marguerite brushing her golden tresses by the well in her maidens dancing around the Maypole. It is metaphysical malarkey to summon Satan to turn back the clock, but it is opera and it is wonderful. Realism, for all its good points, isn't nearly as fun.

This is the second year K-State has had fun with the New York City Opera National Company, formed in 1979 and directed by Beverly Sills. The company came to K-State last spring with "Rigoletto" and is touring with "Faust" for less than six Nim describes this kind of touring as "one-night stands, constantly living out of suitcases but more than a little exciting.'

He felt upbeat about his performance in Manhattan and even enjoys playing the villain night after night. "I love it. It's great. With bass roles, either you play the philosopher or the doctor...you never get the girl. "But something I learned really early on is people are out there to see you. They've paid good money to see you, so you learn to give, give,

Edward Cook, a New York City Opera National Company chorus member, applies his make-up prior to Thursday evening's performance of "Faust."

K-State Players

HARRIS SHORE starring in THE BUCK STOPS HERE -A Musical Play-November 8, 12-16 8:00 p.m. Nichols Theatre Call 532-6398 "Harry Truman comes alive on stage"

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook. Get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment, call 539-5229. Or, if you're in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Today through Nov. 8: Off-Campus

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. & 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

The Associated Students of Kansas invite and encourage all interested students to participate in the following events:

ASK Legislative Orientation Day Nov. 12, Topeka, KS 1:00-4:00 PM

Program includes:

- Introduction to Legislative process
- Introduction to ASK lobbying strategy and procedures
- Issue briefing by State ASK Staff
- Introduction to key legislative and executive staff members

ASK November Legislative Assembly Nov. 23, Emporia, KS 9:00 A.M. - 3:00 P.M. Program Includes:

- Approval of Final Legislative platform
- Prioritization of ASK/Student issues - Minority Student Caucus meeting
- Committee discussion of Academic, Social, and Financial

Transportation to both events will be arranged. For application and further information, please contact Kevin Elmore at the SGA office in the Union Courtyard.

10th-ranked OSU next challenge for K-State

Jones taking 'Cats seriously

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

K-State's football team may be 1-7 on the year, but Pat Jones is not about to be lulled asleep by the 'Cats' performance in 1985.

Jones, in his second year as the head football coach at Oklahoma State University, is making sure his team does not look past K-State, which will face the 10th-ranked Cowboys Saturday in a 1:30 p.m. kickoff at Lewis Stadium in Stillwater.

The Cowboys are 6-1 overall and 2-1 in the Big Eight, while the 'Cats are 1-3 in the conference. Even though Oklahoma State defeated K-State 34-6 last year in KSU Stadium, Jones, who was the Cowboys' assistant head coach and defensive coordinator in 1983, remembers the '83 game when the 'Cats pulled out a 21-20 victory in the final minute.

"It's still stuck in our craw," Jones said.

The big story for the Wildcats this season has been a lack of offensive output. 'Cats' Interm Head Coach Lee Moon has tried several offenses to rectify the situation but has had little success. Jones, however, said K-State's varied offensive formations, while not all that successful, still should provide a challenge for the OSU defense.

"It's hard to tell what direction they're (K-State offense) going,' Jones said. "They've bounced around, so we really don't know. They've presented us with this type of problem in past years."

The Wildcats continue to lag in total offense production - ranking 105th, or last, in the NCAA Division I, averaging 200 yards per game. The lack of offense translates to a scoring average of 10.5 points a game.

While scoring just three points last Saturday in a 41-3 loss to the University of Nebraska, Moon said he saw improvement from the offensive unit and is hoping for more against OSU.

"If we can continue to make progress — and I think we are doing that offensively - to where we can keep our defense off the football field, our offense can maybe reach their poten-

Oklahoma State's offense is powered by tailback Thurman Thomas. Thomas, just a sophomore, is fourth in the nation in rushing, averaging 150 yards per game. He also leads the conference in touchdowns with 10 and all-purpose running with 170.4 yards a game.

Thomas was lingering in obscurity as a third-string tailback last year until breaking loose against K-State for 206 yards and two touchdowns.

"That was kind of his coming out for him," Jones said of Thomas.

But OSU's offense is not all Thomas. Quarterback Ronnie Williams guides a passing attack that averages 151 yards per game.

The Cowboy's defensive unit is operating at less than full speed, Jones said, with injuries to key personnel. Two-time All-American defensive tackle Leslie O'Neal tops the list of injured OSU players. The 6-foot-3-inch, 245-pound senior has a minor knee strain and is expected to see limited duty Saturday. O'Neal is leading Big Eight linemen in tackles with 72.

Two nose guards, Marvin Hawkins (sprained knee) and John Washington (bruised elbow) may not

"We're pretty banged up defensively," Jones said.

K-State's defense has had more than their share of injuries in the past two weeks.

Defensive ends Kevin Humphrey, Jeffery Hurd and Troy Adams have all missed parts of the last two games. Humphrey and Hurd will be available against OSU but Adams will not be ready to play. Defensive tackle Les Miller may see action at end for K-State and could play both positions Saturday.

Offensively, 'Cats' quarterback Randy Williams is still hobbled by an ankle injury. He will make the trip to Stillwater but will be used only in an emergency. Second-string fullback Greg Strahm dislocated a wrist against Nebraska and is out.

Other than 1983, K-State has not won at OSU since 1971. The 'Cats have been OSU's Homecoming foe the last nine times K-State has played in Stillwater.

Oklahoma State tailback Thurman Thomas plows through K-State's defensive line in one of his rushing attempts, net-

OSU linemen not bothered by 'Cats' size

By The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla. - When Oklahoma State's three down linemen get ready to bang helmets with K-State's offensive line Saturday, they will be outweighed by an average of about 20 pounds apiece.

But as far as they're concerned, lighter is better.

Every team we play is bigger than we are," said defensive line coach George Walstad. "I don't think our kids think about it that much anymore."

Noseguard John Washington

"It doesn't bother me at all," he said. "I think we can use our quickness on them and it'll make up the difference in weight."

Washington has been bothered by injury himself but will play the middle in place of injured Marvin Hawkins. Washington, at 274, is by far the largest Oklahoma State defensive lineman and will face K-State center Charles Sander, who weighs 280.

Right tackle Leslie O'Neal is listed at 250, and probable left tackle Leonard Jackson weighs about 240. O'Neal's foe is expected to be 296-pound Tim Stone.

Washington, as noseguard, can expect to be double-teamed most of the day by the middle of K-State's line, which averages about 275 pounds -Sanders, Jerry Poole (272) and Bob Bessert (273).

On paper, it appears that if Jackson starts he may have the toughest time of things. The junior from Pine Bluff, Ark., is the lightest of the three and will face a right tackle, Rockey Dvorak, who outweighs him by nearly 40 pounds.

Jackson has an ace up his sleeve, however, in his roommate. It's O'Neal, who has been playing against larger opponents all his life with great success.

"I've been watching Leslie play for

See LINEMAN, Page 9

Wildcats should be better than No. 7

K-State men's basketball Coach Jack Hartman expressed a sense of wonderment when he found out that members of the media picked the Wildcats to finish seventh in this year's Big Eight Conference basketball race.

Based on Hartman's comments so far about this year's team, he believes K-State will have a very competitive ballclub.

After watching the Nov. 2 Purple-White scrimmage, which the White team won 96-61 over an undermanned purple team, it became obvious why the normally reserved Hartman is so high on K-State's chances in the Big Eight. One word says it all talent.

K-State has its most talented squad since the 1981-82 team that was one of the final 16 teams in the NCAA tournament. That team included such standouts as Ed Nealy, Tyrone Adams, Randy Reed and Tim Jankovich.

One new K-State player that particularly stood out in the Nov. 2 scrimmage was Norris Coleman, the 6-foot-8-inch, 210-pound power forward Hartman recruited at the national AAU tournament in Topeka earlier this year.

Coleman, a four-year veteran of the U.S. Army and member of the White team in the scrimmage, dominated play throughout, scoring 37 points on 17 of 24 shootings.

TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

With due respect to the other members of the K-State team, Coleman pretty well did as he wanted in the scrimmage. Obviously, the most talented player on the floor, Coleman connected on eight consecutive shots at one point in the second half.

Coleman served notice he is a bonafide talent. He can shoot, rebound and move well on his feet. In other words, the man can flat play ball. No doubt about it.

The key for K-State will be for Coleman to avoid turning into a one-man show. Other K-State players will have to take scoring pressure off Col-

Joe Wright, who scored 19 points for the White in the scrimmage, will need to find the range on his outside shot, as he did at times last year, to open up the inside game for Coleman, Ben Mitchell, newcomer Per-ting him 206 yards and two touchdowns against K-State last year.

cy Eddie and Ron Meyer. Eddie, who executed an effortless 360-degree slam dunk in prescrimmage warm-ups, also looks to be a talented player. He seemed out of control at times in the scrimmage, however. If Eddie, a 6-foot-8-inch, 185-pound junior college transfer from Milwaukee Wis., can play in Hartman's system, he could be a fac-

Not much needs to be said about Mitchell, the only full-time returning starter from last year and a proven Big Eight competitor. Mitchell averaged almost nine points per game last year and has worked hard to improve.

Meyer, a 6-foot-9-inch sophomore, will provide even more depth at the forward or center position.

Mark Dobbins, a 6-foot-5-inch redshirt freshman, may earn a starting position at small forward. Dobbins. who exhibited a good outside shooting touch with 15 points in the scrimmage, may be looked upon to balance the inside power of the big forwards with perimeter shooting.

While other areas look to be fairly solid, Hartman will need to find a point guard to make the team com-

Wright was used at point guard some last year but is far more effective as a shooter.

Benny Green, a 6-foot-3-inch freshman, started for the White team at point guard, while 5-foot-11-inch freshman Rodney Heard played the position most of the game for the pur-

Green moved the ball around well and seemed to control the flow of action well. Green, however, couldn't find the range on his outside shot. It may have been nerves, though, playing in a game situation for the first time in Ahearn Field House. If Green wasn't a good shooter, he wouldn't have averaged 21.9 points and won state player of the year honors in Arkansas.

Heard is a potentially exciting player but, like Eddie, looked out of control at times in the scrimmage. Heard, who plays a fearless style of game, made a number of exciting plays in leading the Purple team with 13 points.

If Green or Heard can emerge as a quality point guard, K-State may be ready to challenge for an upperdivision conference finish.

Sports Calendar

FOOTBALL

K-State will take on Oklahoma State University at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Lewis Stadium in Stillwater, Okla. The Wildcats are 1-7 overall and 1-3 in the Big Eight, while the Cowboys are 6-1 and 2-1. The game is Homecoming for OSU.

CROSS COUNTRY

The men's and women's teams have the weekend off and will compete Nov. 16 in the NCAA District Five Championships in Stillwater, Okla.

TENNIS

The men's team has completed the season, but the women will travel to Stillwater, Okla., Saturday to compete against Oklahoma State University beginning at 9 a.m.

The Pittsburg State University Rugby Football Club invades Manhattan Saturday to battle the K-State Rugby Football Club in a 1:30 p.m. matchup at the rugby practice field east of KSU Stadium.

SOCCER

The men's "A" team will be participating in the University of Kansas Invitational Saturday and Sunday in Lawrence. K-State plays KU at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. On Sunday, the 'Cats take on the University of Missouri at 9 a.m. and Wichita State University at noon. The women's team will battle Kansas at 3 p.m. Sunday in K-State's Memorial

Oklahoma State 21 vs. K-State 14 Colorado 14 at Kansas 7 Oklahoma 31 at Missouri 12 Nebraska 35 vs. Iowa State 1 Florida 21 at Georgia 17 Arkansas 14 vs. Baylor 10 Alabama 24 at LSU 21 Pittsburgh 31 at K.C. Chiefs 14 Dallas 34 at Washington 21 L.A. Raiders 21 at San Diego 14

JEFF TUTTLE Oklahoma State 34 at K-State 3 Kansas 21 vs. Colorado 20 Oklahoma 63 at Missouri 6 Nebraska 41 vs. Iowa State 17 Florida 21 at Georgia 10 Arkansas 21 vs. Baylor 17 Alabama 14 at LSU 10 K.C. Chiefs 34 vs. Pittsburgh 21 Dallas 31 at Washington 14 L.A. Raiders 37 at San Diego 17

TODD NIGHSWONGER Oklahoma State 35 vs. K-State 9 Kansas 17 vs. Colorado 16 Oklahoma 45 at Missouri 0 Nebraska 58 vs. Iowa State 14 Georgia 18 vs. Florida 17 Arkansas 24 vs. Baylor 17 LSU 14 vs. Alabama 12 burgh 31 at K.C. Chiefs 10 Washington 27 vs Dallas 7 L.A. Raiders 35 at San Diego 31

JOHN SLEEZER Oklahoma State 21 vs. K-State 14 Kansas 24 vs. Colorado 17 Oklahoma 49 at Missouri 10 Nebraska 52 vs. Iowa State 7 Florida 28 at Georgia 21

Alabama 21 at LSU 17 K.C. Chiefs 27 vs. Pittsburgh 21 Washington 24 vs. Dallas 21 L.A. Raiders 35 at San Diego 28

DAVID SVOBODA Oklahoma State 28 vs. K-State 17 Kansas 28 vs. Colorado 24 Oklahoma 38 at Missouri 10 Nebraska 45 vs. Iowa State 14 Arkansas 21 vs. Baylor 20 Alabama 27 at LSU 24 K.C. Chiefs 28 vs. Pittsburgh 20 Washington 28 vs. Dallas 20 L.A. Raiders 35 at San Diego 17

ANDY NELSON Oklahoma State 45 vs K-State 7 Colorado 21 at Kansas 20 Oklahoma 48 at Missouri 7 Nebraska 63 vs. Iowa State 3 Florida 35 at Georgia 7 Baylor 21 at Arkansas 15 LSU 21 vs. Alabama 17 K.C. Chiefs 21 vs. Pittsburgh 17 Dallas 35 at Washington 31 L.A. Raiders 28 at San Diego 24

TOM PERRIN Oklahoma State 31 vs. K-State 10 Colorado 21 at Kansas 17 Oklahoma 56 at Missouri 10 Nebraska 63 vs. Iowa State 7 Florida 21 at Georgia 10 Arkansas 17 vs. Baylor 14 LSU 21 vs. Alabams 17 K.C. Chiefs 33 vs. Pittaburgh 17 Washington 28 vs. Dallas 29

JEFF A. TAYLOR Oklahoma State 34 vs. K-State 6 Colorado 28 at Kansas 24 Oklahoma 28 at Missouri 7 Nebraska 41 vs. Iowa State 14 Florida 28 at Georgia 24 Arkansas 14 vs. Baylor 6 Alabama 10 at LSU 7 Pittsburgh 28 at K.C. Chiefs 17 Dallas 10 at Washington 6 L.A. Raiders 28 at San Diego 21

Oklahoma State 45 vs. K-State 13 Kansas 22 vs. Colorado 21 Oklahoma 63 at Missouri 3 Nebraska 52 vs. Iowa State 10 Florida 17 at Georgia 14 Arkansas 17 vs. Baylor 10 LSU 28 vs. Alabama 24 K.C. Chiefs 32 vs. Pittsburgh 21 Dallas 17 at Washington 10 San Diego 35 vs. L.A. Raiders 28

Consensus Oklahoma State 9-0 Kansas 5-4 Oklahoma 9-0 Nebraska 9-0 Florida 8-1

Arkansas 7-2 K.C. Chiefs 6-3 L.A. Raiders 8-1

RECORDS (Last week, overall) John Sleezer 5-5, 52-47 Lillian Zler 5-5, 46-24 Jeff A. Taylor 5-5, 46-24 Todd Nighswonger 5-5, 46-33 David Svoboda 5-5, 40-27 Tom Perrin 4-6, 50-29 Andy Nelson 4-6, 48-31 Tim Carpenter 4-6, 47-32 Jeff Tuttle 3-7, 43-36

overtime at Series

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Kan-

He said the cost of providing police security during the series was $63,000, and that 593 officers worked overtime at the four World Series games played here, at celebrations in the Westport and Country Club Plaza areas, and at the victory parade after the Kansas City Royals won the series in seven games over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Police work

sas City police put in more than 3,200 hours of overtime on security duties associated with the 1985 baseball World Series, and Police Chief Larry Joiner says it may require some careful budget-watching the rest of the year.

made. Maxvill said.

Cards decide against keeping catcher Porter

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - The five-year relationship between catcher Darrell Porter and the St. Louis Cardinals appears to have ended.

Dal Maxvill, general manager of the major league team, on Thursday confirmed what many have suspected for months - the Cardinals will not offer Porter a contract for the 1986 season.

Maxvill said veterans Cesar Cedeno and Mike Jorgenson, who have both filed for free agency, also would not be offered contracts for next year

"At this time we have no intention of signing them," Maxvill said in a telephone interview from Florida, where he is attending a meeting of major league general managers. "We've had an organizational meeting and talked with all our people, and that's the decision we've

Porter will probably file for free agency before the Nov. 11 deadline,

The jut-jawed Porter, who will be 33 in January, was the Most Valuable Player in the 1982 World Series when the Cardinals defeated Milwaukee in seven games.

That was the highlight of his five St. Louis seasons, in which Porter hit .237 with 53 home runs and 249 runs batted in. In 1985, when the Cardinals won the National League East and League Championship Series, then lost the World Series in seven games to Kansas City, Porter hit .221 with 10 homers and 36 RBI.

He missed much of the first half of the season with a broken tow and broken thumb, and split the remaining time behind the plate with Tom Maxvill had said he told Porter on Wednesday of the club's decision. He said Porter took the news in stride.

Porter told a St. Louis newspaper that he was disappointed in his performance last season, but that he hoped to continue playing baseball.

"I don't know what will happen, but I definitely will not lose any sleep over it all," Porter said. "If I never play the game again, I guarantee you I'd survive ... But it would be nice to play a little longer. I think that would be great."

Cedeno formally filed for free agency Wednesday.

Lineman

Continued from Page 8

the last few years, and if you want great technique, he's the one to watch," Jackson said. "He helps me a lot, and all I've got to do is get out there and play."

O'Neal and Jackson became roommates last year. Both are from Arkansas, where they were high school opponents, and both play the same position. The friendship was a natural. O'Neal is from Little Rock.

"Leslie, he's a hard worker and he sets a good example," Jackson said. "We was 224 as a defensive tackle early in his career and he did a good

Jackson has seen most of his playing time on the special teams. Only in the last several weeks has he seen extended time at tackle.

"I'm not what you'd call a big defensive end type," he said. "But I haven't been injury prone and I've been working hard in the weight

"I"ve just got to go out and play to the best of my ability. I'm going to know my assignments and get after it, and let what happens happen."

Walstad said the huge K-State line poses a problem in that "with big guys, you have to get down low or they'll kill you. We can't stand up and fight with 'em."

But he said his players have faced similar challenges many times

"It's been something we've been accustomed to the last three years," he said. "We just expect that every week. We try to do the things we can do best during the week, and hope it all turns out all right on Saturday.'

Not only does K-State's offensive line average 281 pounds, the average height the Wildcat hulksters is 6-4.

Raffle tickets due today

Raffle ticket stubs and money from University greek houses for the 1986 Ford Thunderbird, to be given away at the K-State-Iowa State University game Nov. 16 are due by 5 p.m. today in Ahearn 101.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an er-ror exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics - Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (711)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enveope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today!

OLIVER WENDELL JONES, YOUR OPINION PLEASE:

LITTLE COSMETIC SUR-

GERY ... DO YOU THINK

I'M JUST BEING

TOO INSECURE?

T'M CONSIDERING A

Bloom County

YOU'RE GETTING

A FANNY-LIFT?

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

HOLIDAY GIFT Expo-City Auditorium, November 9th-9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. Crafts, ceramics, toys, jewelry, Cabbage Patch, much more. Snacks, soup. Register for prizes (54)

HISTORY OF London trip to England. Winter Intersession, three hours credit. Sign-up deadline ex tended to November 15. A few places still available. See Dr. Linder, History Department immediately: Eisenhower Hall 205, phone 532-6730. Consult Intersession Schedule in Collegian, Monday, November 4. (54-56)

Take your parents to a super art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 16, from 9-6 at Cico Park - West on Kimball Ave.

BUTTONS AND Bows arts and crafts fair. 36 booths, kids' photos with Santa. 9:00 a.m. 4:00 p.m., Satur day, 306 S. Juliette. (54)

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side. 776-3804. (4911)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

NO NO ...

WHAPPYA

JOB.

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 deposit plus electric. No children, no pets, 537-1180. (48-57)

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights.

WELL. LET ME

JUST SAY THIS

ABOUT THAT ...

WANTED: ONE female roommate for two bedroom apartment. Available immediately or at semeste Close to campus, furnished. Must be non-smoker. Call 537-4858. (51-54)

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin, 776-9124.

Ski the Colorado Summit! Condo for rent. 2 BR/2 Bathloft, full equipped kitchen, fire place, indoor recreational facilities. Call (303) 481-2471.

NICE, TWO bedroom apartment next to campus for second semester. $380, utilities paid. 776-5265.

SPACIOUS FOUR bedroom, two bath, central heat/ air. Close to campus and Aggieville, $530. Call 776-0203 (54-58)

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview and

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with

> Call for details 776-3804

NICE ONE bedroom furnished apartment. Water trash and three-fourths of gas paid. Nice for couple or graduate student. Available December 1st. Call 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (54-59)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

FIRSTLY,

115-

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

By Berke Breathed

WHAT

15 WRONG

WITH MY

By Jim Davis

05

FOR SALE-AUTO

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

1982 CHEVY K-10, 4 x 4-Black, excellent condition, with warranty. Call 776-5217. (50-54)

1975 RED Chev. Monza 2 + 2 hb. Automatic V-8, four new tires with wire spoke wheels, new brakes, power steering, air conditioning, AM/FM cassette—Alpine with Jensen speakers, good condition. Excellent care/maintenance, records available. 776-1586. (50-54)

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado. loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214. (52-61)

1977 280Z-Six cylinder, 4-speed, excellent condition. Must see. $3,200 or best offer. 539-2899. (52-

1977 DATSUN B-210-New paint, new brakes. Must sell. 539-6167. (53-57)

1973 FORD LTD-Powerful 429, runs well, some body damage, $300. Box 9, c/o Collegian. (53-57) 1984 FORD Escort Diesel: 33,000 miles, sharp. Auto

West, 539-4684. (54) 1981 DATSUN 310GX: Sharp, cloth interior Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1981 DATSUN 810: 4-door, cloth seats, sharp. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1981 PLYMOUTH Reliant Wagon: Automatic, airconditioning. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1980 MAZDA RX7: Air-conditioning, AM/FM, covers. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1980 PLYMOUTH Arrow: 4-speed, air-conditioning. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1979 CHEVY Blazer: 4 x 4, automatic, airconditioning. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1978 TOYOTA Celica GT: Sunroof, 5-speed. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1978 DATSUN 280Z: T-tops, automatic. Auto West, 1978 DODGE Omni: Front wheel drive, sharp. Auto

West, 539-4684. (54) 1978 JEEP Cherokee: 4 x 4. Auto West, 539-4684. (54) 1974 OPEL Manta: 4-speed, cute. Auto West, 539-

1979 LINCOLN: Two door, sunroof, full power. Auto West, 539-4684. (54)

1980 OLDS Regency diesel: 4-door, full power. Auto West, 539-4684. (54) MUST SELL 1983 Buick Skyhawk Limited-New tires, 5-speed, $5,500. After 5:30 p.m., 1-456-2818 (54-55)

MUST SELL 1983 Chevy Cavilier. Low miles, 5-speed, $4,500 negotiable. After 5:30 p.m., 1-456-2818. (54-

FOR SALE-MISC

FENDER SUPER Twin guitar amp. Excellent condition! $200 firm. Call 776-3473 evenings. (50-54) VERY NICE wood frame/pillow couch, $150; wom en's 10 speed bike, $50. Call 776-6231. (50-54) TWO VECTOR Microcomputers, $1,500 each-(two years old-good condition). One hard disc storage/one floppy drive. Software provided: Word Processing, Accounting, Data Management and much more. Call Dan or Vicki at 532-6176 immediately for more details. (51-54)

07

Clip and Save New Special 1/4 Pound

Hamburger

69¢

The Ritz This coupon expires 11/10/85

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1, (U repair). Also de-linquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (54)

FREE MAGNUM HAT

with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds

27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

BRAND NEW turntable, like new vacuum cleaner and 8-track tape player, 532-2073, (54-56)

FOUND ON campus-Diamond. (stone only). Con tact Investigations, K.S.U. Police Department (53

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

Must sell, $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59)

1975 12 x 60 Schultz Wellington Must see to appreciate. $7,500 or best offer. 539-2596 evenings. (52-

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly.

FOUND: SHARP EL-506H calculator in Union. Call 537-0694 evenings (53-55)

FOUND

06

FREE-BLACK Lab mix and Springer Spaniel Adult dogs. Good family pets. Call 539-2786. (54-56)

GARAGE SALES

12 TRUNKLOAD SALE November 9th, 8:00 a.m. to 3:00

HELP WANTED

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd , Wilton, CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (39-68)

BROADCAST ENGINEER—Wanted for a local radio station. Responsibilities include equipment main tenance on a part-time schedule. To apply, call 776-0104 (52-54)

OFFICE SUPPLIES-Hull's Business Machines. 715

North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (54tf) GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Nov ng. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R for current federal list. (54)

LOST

LOST-MEN'S Pulsar watch. Great sentimental value Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168 (52-57)

PERSONAL

B.P. JEFF-Happy Birthday! RU ready for tonite?! I hope pink'll do it! Ok, it's your turn to talk now TO MY Man of Iron-Fancy clothes, money, who needs them? I got you and I love you, ponytail and all. Most people would be lucky to share even half the love we share. Thanks for the best year of my life! ILY Pam. (54) LORI Z .- Goodbye and good luck. Have fun in K.C. Happy birthday, Happy graduation, too. (Did we forget anything?) We'll miss you. Your roomies,

Cynthia, Teresa, Cindy. (54) DELT JIM: To the Casual Connection we will go the cork will pop as bubbles flow, and we will toast and toast and toast and All yours, KKG Lisa. (54)

SHARON: HAPPY 20th! Have a great day and good luck at 'home'! - Mimi and Duh. (54)

Dear Dahlywacker Have a Good One

THETA PARTY Dates-Time for a Kat nap ahhn zzzzz. Hey! Wake up. it's a party Saturday night; we're gonna dance to our dreams delight. Put on your PJ's, but don't go to bed — there's crazy Theta fun in the evening ahead. (54)

TO OUR TKE men: We'll cas' and connect, like you'll never suspect. Another week, another barn as they say, third times a charm Your tolerant Kap-pa's: Nancy, Patty, Michelle, Kathy, (54)

FH CHRIS T .- Read our lips-olive juice and we're not kidding! (54)

DDD DEB-As an active Delta we think you are great. such a busy person, no time for a date! (54) MARK-(MY Pot Belly Bear)-The time that we have spent together has been the best year of my life Happy Anniversary. I love you. Squirt. (54)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809 North 11th $145, bills paid, 539-8401, (49-63)

NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, no utilities. Call with conveniences. $133 plus one-third utilities Call day, 532-5508, ext. 25; 537-4179 (51-54)

MALE-DOUBLE-wide trailer, own bedroom washer/dryer, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-8580 (52-56) FEMALE, NON-SMOKING, to share two bedroom

TWO NON-SMOKING males to share with third for spring semester, across from Ahearn. $88 plus one-third utilities and cable. (Wildcat Apts.) 537-

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nicely decorated apartment. $160 month, all bills paid. Includes electric, water, trash, cable and laundry facilities.

776-1604. (53-57) ROOMMATE WANTED to share three bedroom r/dryer, rent plus utilities

NEED FEMALE roommate to take over lease from January to August. One-half block from campus. own room, very nice apartments, great roomies! Call Shiela, 537-2261 ext. 411 (8:30 a.m. 4:30 p.m.) or Pam 776-0228 (53-57)

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

capped accessible (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz. 776-4240. (41f)

storage, 776-6166 (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65)

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Radbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (50-54)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING-Resumes, cover letters dissertations, reports, 539-2411. (53-57) MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word Processing. Term

papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless 537-3314 (53-54)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS - Suits, coats, jeans, zippers All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, 776-7959. (54-70)

SUBLEASE 20 PEOPLE TO sublease at semester-Two bedroom furnished apartment, close to campus, $390/ month plus electricity, 776-6877 (52-54)

WANTED 21 SOMEONE TO haul a washer to Baxter Springs, 537

WELCOMES

11

13

14

16

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza, Church School 9:45 a.m., World ship 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Ministers. Ben Duerfeldt. 539-8685; Sue Amyx. 776-0025. Transportation to church-776-8790 after 9:00 a m (54)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School 9:45 a.m. Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Prayer Service Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (54)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ 2510 Dickens Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes, 10:30 a.m., Wor ship and Communion, 6:00 n.m. Evening Worshin Andy Miller, campus minister, 539-6581 or 537

First United Methodist Church

8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 11:00 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking-Pastor

ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sur set and North Delaware welcomes students to ser vices, 8:00 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Fellowship, Sunday, 6:00 p.m. (54)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office. 539-3921 (54)

First Baptist Church

American Baptist

2121 Blue Hills Rd "the Church on the hill" SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:55 a.m. CHURCH SCHOOL 9:45 a.m.

NURSERY AVAILABLE For free transportation within city limits, call Bell Taxi, 537-2080

Call for more information about our young adult fellowship 537-3385

Church Office . . . . . . . . . 539-8691 Pastor . . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-6494 Campus Minister ..... 539-3051

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Worship, and at 9:00 a.m. for the College Sunday School Class at the Ramada

Preschool . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-8811

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumen ical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors) (54)

St. Francis Episcopal Sundays 9:30 a.m. Danforth Chapel

1402 LeGore 17 5 p.m. 537-0593 for rides

> WELCOME STUDENTS-First Presbyterian Church 801 Leavenworth offers you Worship Services 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. each Sunday 9:30 a.m. Sunday School offers college class. 5:30 p.m. each Tuesday College Outreach Bible Study in the Union Rev Dr Philip S Gittings, III, Senior Minister (54)

WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School 9:45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Uni versity Class meets at 9.45 a.m. Dr. Herb Moser teacher Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breistord, Pastor, Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565 For transportation daytime call 776-0424 (54)

Claffin Road (Claffin and Browning), Students well come! Worship 8:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. Evening Service 6.30 p.m. College age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9.45 a.m. at Mr Steak For transportation call 776-5440 (54) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800

Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (54) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a m this semester "The Gospel of John" with Richard Akins teaching Worship, 8.15 and 11:00 a.m. and

7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744 FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Wei come students to worship service at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Special class for college age students at 9:40 a.m. Students needing ride call Kevin Blomquist 539-2321 or Lisa Gast, 537-2568. Bible study at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays

ST PAUL'S Episcopal Church - 6th and Poyntz Com munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8:00 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call

BLUE VALLEY Memorial United Methodist Church welcomes you to its workshop service each Sun day at 10:30 a.m. We are a big hearted church with a small church atmosphere. Located at 835 Church Avenue (look to your right as you pass Blue Hills Shopping Center going North on Tuttle Greek Blvd. then turn right on Northfield Rd. and then take a sharp right again—you can't miss it!) Each Wednesday, Blue Valley Memorial has a Men's the worship hour. There is always great food and fellowship and K.S.U. Students are our guests for the meal. Why not visit and worship in the "Little Church in the Valley with a contemporary minis everyone Sunday 11:00 a.m. (3rd Street south, over the viaduct, then one-half mile east on K-18) to hear Edith Hinrichs discussing Eudora Welty, the writer, Sunday School and child care offered. For transportation phone 537-1817. (54)

Jarfield

GARFIELD, YOU MAKE A LOVELY FIRE A LOVELY

Peanuts

I HOPE YOU REALIZE

THAT HALLEY'S COMET

WON'T BE VISIBLE FOR AT LEAST ANOTHER MONTH ...

NOBODY TELLS

ME ANYTHING!

NOBODY TELLS ME ANYTHING EITHER, BUT I

By Charles Schulz

rossword

ACROSS 1 Used a sponge 6 Fore's part 9 On the (fleeing) 12 " — Lucy" 13 Card game 53 Picnic 14 In the man-counter-

55 Actor 15 Has drinks 16 Teacher's surprise 56 Greek 18 Pregnant 57 Polar 20 Goad less bird

ner of

23 Fire, in a way 24 Bank deals 25 Thin 27 On the 21 Flight-

31 Pass 35 Gold unit 37 Whiskey drink 38 Ricochet

41 Fall behind 43 Apiece

up and up 29 Old auto particle 1 Humor 45 Like the 2 Labor org. gram 47 Bakery 3 Kids' item 4 At any 49 Pueblo home 5 Cul-52 Unified 6 Tyrolean

Beatty

letters

fellow

44 Tiny

7 Rations pest 54 French cap 8 Pinnacle 9 "Little House" 10 Straighten 11 Puzzle

DOWN

weaponry

THEN WHY AM I

STANDING OUT HERE NOW

FREEZING TO DEATH ?!!

features Avg. solution time: 26 min.

33 Take to 34 Go awry 36 Warns 38 Poultry 39 Make 40 Lassoed

11-8

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

42 Seizes 45 Bill of fare 46 Brainstorm 48 Panel truck 50 Wager 51 Schedule

abbr.

17 Needed

19 Bravery

22 Actress

26 Indiana

30 Scot's

cap

32 Cinema

snack

court offering repairs

West

24 "Diamond

28 Allude to 21 Yore

amounts

32 | 33 CRYPTOQUIP 11-8

TYOHYQ ZXJHR W ZXWOF? Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE SHOCKED MACRAME ARTISTS DECIDED TO MARRY SOON; THEY TIED THE KNOT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: O equals C

TXOFAXDHRQ'B

776-7331 (50-54) FEMALE, NON-SMOKING - Own room, nice duplex apartment with three others. $110 per month plus one-fourth utilities. Call 539-3878 (53-57)

7412. (53-56)

house Own room, washer/dryer, re 403 South 18th, 537-2055, (53-57) ROOMMATE, FEMALE—Nice private bed and bath. 1122 Vattier. Reasonable. Call 539-9345. (53-55)

SERVICES

nancy test Confidential Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (51-

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537 9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61)

WOOD SPLITTING-Call 539-9304, ask for Bruce

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST Fellowship welcomes

HAR

Zappa battles labeling controversy

WASHINGTON - Francis Vincent Zappa, rock music's Jonathan Swift, found inspiration in the halls of Congress. So much, in fact, he's incorporated America's lawmakers into his new album.

"An average musician doesn't really think about Washington, D.C. You don't keep your mind on politics," says Zappa. "But you can sure get mad if you get a whiff of it."

This is the same outspoken Frank Zappa, looking more like a stockbroker than a 44-year-old rock musician, who came to the nation's capital in September to do battle against the forces who want to put warning labels on rock albums.

He angered at least one senator, and left town disturbed by the machinery of government and vowing to fight on.

Zappa's plan is to launch the youthful forces of rock 'n' roll as a ship of attack.

He said, "There's a lot of people out there who are 18 years old and I think the people in Washington, who are wasting everbody's time and money, should be alerted to the fact that they can vote like a beast. And I'm going to encourage them to do so.

Phase one of Zappa's plan is his newly released album: "Frank Zappa Meets the Mothers of Prevention." It contains a 12-minute cut called "Porn Wars," which was inspired by the Senate hearing on record labeling demands by the Parents' Music Resource Center.

The song, a typical Zappa creation, is a computer-generated musical collage. It blends electronic and rock music with remarks by senators and witnesses at the Senate Commerce Committee's hearing. The statements often are speeded up or slowed down to change Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., for example, can be heard repeating the phrase: "Fire and chains and other objectionable tools of gratification in some twisted minds."

Phase two of Zappa's attack is still uncertain, but he hopes to fashion a music video of the committee proceedings.

Gala raises $1.3 million for AIDS

NEW YORK - The most uproarious applause and most somber moment of a star-studded gala which raised $1.3 million to fight AIDS came during a comedy and musical routine by Bette Midler, who began her career singing before gay audiences.

Midler said Sunday she recently visited her former hangouts and found the "mood wasn't quite the same. It's like wartime.

Performing before a predominately male audience of nearly 4,000 at the Metropolitan Opera House, the off-color humorist and singer said, "I remember all the friends I have lost in the war and join my prayers with yours that it will be over soon.

The generally upbeat gala, "Best of the Best," included a ragtime ballet with Mikhail Baryshnikov, songs by Marilyn Horne, Carol Burnett, Melissa Manchester, Peter Allen, Victor Borge, the Harlem Boys' Choir and New York Gay Men's Choir and humor by Midler and Lily Tomlin.

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

site evaluation portions of planning that were not done.

Brooks said that these omitted planning steps "need to proceed before you ever start talking about what is the shape of the building or that building."

Law said a landscape architect is typically used as a consultant on major development projects such as the coliseum. The consulting work the two men proposed could have saved the University money.

"We felt like now, in looking back at this, that (our contribution of) site selection, site evaluation, orientation

THIS COULD BE YOUR LUCKY

An Air Force ROTC scholarship can mean a lot when you need help with college finances. It's just what you need to allow you to concentrate on your studies and end up with a good, solid degree. Check out AFROTC. See what we offer, then show us what you offer in return. It might be our lucky day too.

Call 532-6600 for more information

AIR FORCE

ROTC

N MANHATTAN

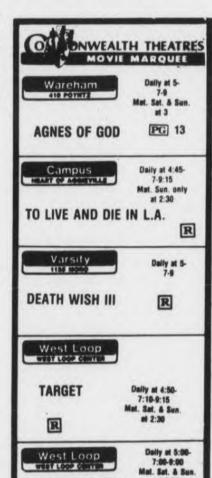

COUPON GOOD AT PARTICIPATING

DERBY

of buildings - some of the things we do - would probably have actually saved on the budget," Law said.

"We felt like we were in a position to provide a fair amount of service at a fairly low overhead cost of the project because of our familiarity with the area, campus, programs, and interests of the institution, and because of our own personal commitment to a better Kansas State," Brook said.

"Good planning does not cos money, it saves money," Brooks said. "It is an investment."

THAT WAS THEN

Spotlight

(Friday through Sunday)

"Agnes of God" - Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "To Live and Die in L.A." - Campus; 4:45, 7 and

"Death Wish III" - Varsity; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "Target" - Westloop; 4:50, 7:10 and 9:15 p.m.

"That was Then, This is Now" - Westloop; 5, 7 and 'The Cotton Club" - Union Forum Hall; 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday "Texas Chainsaw Massacre" - Union Forum Hall; midnight Friday and Saturday

"The Pink Panther" - Little Theatre; 2 p.m. Saturday and 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday

MUSIC

"Charlie and the Stingrays" - Mannequins Ltd.;

Friday and Saturday "Dogs?" - Brothers; Friday and Saturday

ART EXHIBITS

Watercolor Miniatures by Gary Dierking - Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours Botanical Prints - Union Art Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

THEATER

"The Buck Stops Here" - Nichols Theatre; 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday

Spotlight is a semiweekly calendar of entertainment events in the Manhattan area. Entries should be mailed to the Collegian in care of the Arts and Entertainment editor, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University,

Poet presents views of people, life

By BOB SCHEIBLER Collegian Reporter

The human experience comes to life through the poetic words of Leroy Quintana, award-winning poet from San Diego.

Quintana presented selections from his three books of poetry Thursday in the Union Catskeller.

Quintana's visit to campus was made possible by the Ethnic Studies Program, Minorities Resources/Research Center and MEChA.

His works include "Hijo Del Pueblo: New Mexico Poems," "Sangre," and "Interrogations, A Vietnam Memoir." Quintana was a winner of the 1982 American Book Awards in Poetry for "Sangre."

"Hijo" and "Sangre" draw on his experiences growing up in New Mexico, focusing on his family life and experiences in the village where he lived. "Interrogations" focuses on the effects of the Vietnam War, those in the war and their families at

"The book is called 'Interrogations,' because I think that we have a lot of questions to ask - both of ourselves, and our nation - when we prepare to go to war," Quintana said.

Quintana's poems are about people he has met; many are serious, but some have a humorous tone.

"I read some things that prominent people had written about the day that John F. Kennedy was shot, and so I decided to write "November

Kansas tax collections may decline

"November 23" Quintana began to

"I suppose that it is not a good thing to go home and tell people that you cried in front of your audience, but I am human and that is what poetry is about for me. Poetry is a way to express my emotions," he Quintana has a master's degree in English literature from New Mexico State University and a master's degree in counseling from New Mexico Western University. He is working as a counselor for people who lost members of their family in the McDonald's restaurant shooting in San Ysidro, Calif.

be impossible for lawmakers to ig-

Swenson said the six-member estimating group likely will slash its earlier estimates of tax collections

by $40 million for the current budget year, which ends June 30, 1986. And it will cut its income projections another $40-$50 million for the follow-revenues are going to drop dramatically over what we had been expecting," he said. "Over the next two years we're talking potentially over $80 million or $90 million plus.

This has been building. It's a very

'There's no doubt now that nore the financial realities.

ing fiscal year.

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Although Kansas is facing a potential shortfall of $90 million in tax collections through the next budget year, Gov. John Carlin will not again "lead the long, lonely charge" for a tax increase after being flatly rejected by Republican legislative leaders last year, his spokesperson said Thursday.

Mike Swenson, spokesperson for the Democratic governor, said that Carlin's worst fears about the budget will be confirmed Thursday by a group of financial experts. The socalled consensus revenue estimating group is expected to slash up to $90 million from its earlier projections of tax-generated income in the fiscal year which ends June 30, 1987.

However, that does not mean Carlin will automatically renew his

T.G.I.F.

- also -

Free ham sandwiches

Come ham it up only at

Brothers

Halloween pictures are in

Cowboy Mall

Dinner 4-10:30

call for an increase in the state's sales tax. He's decided the onus is now on the Legislature to initiate a tax hike.

"For the past year, the governor has tried to alert all Kansans and the Legislature to what he knew we were going to be facing," Swenson said Thursday. "When he recommended a revenue measure, he knew we were facing a very serious situation. He began discussing it a year ago and that's why he came out in favor of a sales tax increase.'

The Republican-controlled Legislature, however, spurned Carlin's idea of raising taxes and succeeded in building a budget without any new major sources of revenue.

Now, facing a dramatic drop in income of nearly $100 million over the next 18 months, Swenson said it will

MR KS

PRESENTS

APPEARING

AH EXCITING BRAND

OF POCK N ROWHAT

Stillwater, Oklahoma.

(405) 377-0376

3

REALLY GETS YOU OFF

Genny 3

1314 Westloop

Manhattan, Kansas

539-1233

LEO'S PEKING PALACE RESTAURANT

We're 2 blocks west of Lewis

Stadium on Hall of Fame Avenue. We serve Chinese and American food.

Come in before or after the game.

Lunch 11-2:30

THIS FRI

serious situation and something the governor warned would happen. *********** Don't Forget Our TACO BURGER SPECIAL Buy 2, Get 1 FREE Expires Sat., Nov. 9

000

Choose from any frame in stock, including plastic or metal frames, and pay only $49.95. The price includes your reading or distance prescription in glass, plastic, or oversized lenses. There are no extra charges for plastic tinted lenses and prescription up to (+) or (-) 6.00 Diopter's Sphere, on (-) 2.00 Diopters Cylinder. You can choose the pair of eyeglasses that you always wanted, and not worry about the cost! We can fill your doctor's

Offer expires: November 15

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Conflicts affecting the Wolf Creek Nuclear Power Plant have created opportunities to communicate with the public, said a Wolf Creek representative Thursday. Bob Rives, group vice president for Kansas Gas and Electric of Wichita spoke to members of Women in Communications and other journalism students, about Wolf Creek's media and public relations, in the Kedzie Hall Library.

Biases lead to conflicts

on energy

By LESLIE STOKES

Collegian Reporter

When the nuclear reactor was brought into Kansas from Tulsa, Okla., protestors tried to block the train, Rives said.

Some lay on railroad tracks and had to be arrested," Rives caid. In pictures taken of the incident, a banner stating Wolf Creek's effort toward creating jobs showed in the background.

"In this way, the conflict offered an opportunity to communicate," Rives said.

The media have caused problems in the communication process for Wolf Creek, Rives said. The media tend to arouse public interest in issues and set the agenda for public discussion. However, Rives said today's journalism students are better trained than those of the past.

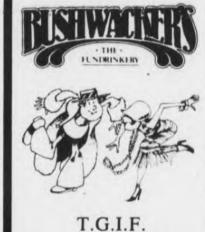

Rives, a former reporter, was critical of overt bias of many reporter.

'Some of the reporters have actually been active in anti-nuclear groups and have petitioned against nuclear power," Rives said. "That's like being a democrat and having your republican opponent plan your campaign.' Some communication problems occur from inaccuracies in reporting.

One incident occurred at a Nuclear Regulatory Commission meeting focusing on nine plants which were having trouble obtaining licenses. Although Wolf Creek was not one of the nine, the reporter included it in the story. This caused a major drop in stock prices for Wolf Creek and resulted in a $20 million loss.

> Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Free hors d'oeuvres & old time rock-n-roll Monday - Comedy Invasion -

Joel Madison appearing on Star Search in 4 weeks

Tom Blaze appearing on Star Search in 2 weeks

Show starts at 10:00 539-9727 539-4321 $2.00 tickets

00 $49.95 EYEGLASS SALE

prescription, or copy your present glasses.

Plastic, Flat Top 25 or 28mm, Round Segments, or Plastic Executive Bifocals, $20 additional. Photochromatics-add $18 single vision, and $25 for bifocals. Your selection is unlimited. All frames come under this sale except facet cuts. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

Boutique frames are not included

OPTICAL STUDIO Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Kansas State

Monday

November 11, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 55

Veterans Day honors effort of deceased, living soldiers

By JANE KRIEGER Collegian Reporter

Imagine graduating from college, getting married and on the honeymoon finding out the United States is at war.

News of the Korean War is a vivid memory for James Townsend, assistant to the dean of the College of Business Administration. He was in his 20s and had just graduated from West Point

"My wife and I were married on the 24th day of June and went on our honeymoon the later part of the day. It wasn't until several days later that we saw the headline that we were in a war," Townsend said.

Townsend served in Korea and has made the Army a career. Today, we honor him and others like him who served in the armed forces. Veterans Day honors all living veterans as well as those who gave their lives

"I think one thing most veterans come away with is an understanding, a little better perspective on the imperfections of our system. And, even with those imperfections, how much better a place this is than most any other place in the world," said David Dilts, associate professor of management. He is a veteran who served in the Vietnam War from 1970 to 1972, then returned to civilian life.

Dilts' experiences were for the most part positive. The Veterans Administration paid Dilts to get a bachelor's degree and a master's degree. He also got to see 11 European countries.

"I came home with everything where it was supposed to be. Other people weren't so

See VETERANS, Page 8

South African riots claim 5 lives; newspaper says government lied

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa -Police said Sunday four blacks died in antiapartheid violence nationwide, and a policeman was snot and wounded in a black neighborhood near Worcester in Cape province over the weekend.

In another development, The Sunday Star newspaper said a letter used by the government as evidence to restrict journalists was "bogus" and was part of "a shocking disinformation scandal."

Police officers seldom have been shot at during racial violence, but shootings have increased since August, suggesting that rioters may be adding firearms to the rocks and gasoline bombs that are their usual weapons.

By official count, more than 800 people - the great majority of them black - have been killed in anti-apartheid riots.

In a police statement covering unrest from Saturday night through dawn Sunday, one black was reported shot to death by police who returned fire in Sunday's Worcester incident.

A black man died southwest of Johannesburg after a mob attacked a guard who fired on them, police said.

Police reported they discovered the body of a young black who had been hacked to death Saturday near Port Elizabeth.

A police spokesperson in Pretoria was unsure why the death was included in the report of unrest, except that the area is one of 38 under a state-of-emergency decree.

In the confrontation between the government and journalists, The Sunday Star said a letter alleging wrongdoing by journalists was "bogus.

Louis Nel, deputy minister of information, waved the letter before a national television audience Wednesday, saying its author had seen a television crew stage a

Nel used the contents of the letter to justify the government's Nov. 2 decision to outlaw television crews, still photographers and radio reporters from

Chilly outing

Cris Bulman, Tracy Merriman, Michelle Regini and Ann Isemand wrap up in blankets to keep warm while watching the K-State Rugby team play

Saturday at L.P. Washburn Recreational Area. Cool temperatures are expected to continue today with a high in the upper 30s.

Bill stirs controversy in Student Senate

By VICKI REYNOLDS

Government Editor

The new legislation dealing with the Fred Bramlage Coliseum project has angered some student senators and pacified others. The uproar in Student Senate came after Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine, introduced a new bill last week at the senate meeting which some senators call a watereddown version of a previous bill, which many senators said "had bite.

The original bill, also sponsored by Tsen and Monto, calls for senate to request the Board of Regents to withdraw monetary support for the coliseum until eight proper planning steps are adopted.

The planning steps are: a master plan of the entire project, a market study, a financial feasibility study, a site selection study, a traffic study, a building program, a funding study and a design.

The new legislation came after Monto and Tsen met with student leaders and University officials.

The second bill, called "Enhanced Student Input on the Fred Bramlage Coliseum Program Planning Committee," calls for senate to request the Program Planning Committee to add three student senators.

Currently Steve Brown, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and student body president, is the only student on the committee. Tsen said he sees no problem with the second legislation - hoping both bills will pass. "Both (pieces of) legislation go hand-in-hand," he said.

Tsen said he and Monto opted to introduce the second bill because it 'gives us a good indication about senate's concern.

Tsen stressed, however, that the second legislation is "by no means a substitution for the first bill.'

Tsen said he thinks, regardless whether either bill is passed, the communication brought about by the legislation has is beneficial.

"I've been in senate three years and it's the first time I've seen so much enthusiasm and information on the part of students, alumni and faculty," he said.

Becky Yeary, senior in elementary education and student affairs committee member, said she's against the first bill - calling it a "waste of "The administration knows what they're doing," she said. "People like the architect, (Larry) Garvin,

See SENATE, Page 10

Users to select 'long-distance' company

By MARK McDERMET Collegian Reporter

As a result of the breakup of American Telephone and Telegraph, long-distance telephone companies are now required by the Federal Communications Commission to ask local subscribers which longdistance telephone company they prefer for their service.

Sue Hayden, account representative for AT&T in Dallas, said the FCC ruling gives all long-distance companies equal access to customers, while the previous policy was for customers who did not choose a different long-distance company to remain with AT&T.

In the past, customers wanting to use a long-distance company other than AT&T had to dial an access code used by the other company, Hayden "With equal access it will be possible for them to use a long-distance carrier other than AT&T simply by dialing the one, (the) area code and number without using the access code," Hayden said.

Each customer is to be sent a ballot by mail listing all the longdistance companies available to that customer's area. Using the ballot, a customer will be asked to select their choice for long-distance services and then their long-distance calls will be routed through that company, she Manhattan carriers will be U.S. Telecom, AT&T Long Distance Service, MCI, American Express and Sears, said Margaret Holmes, service representative for Southwestern Bell in Topeka.

"A lot of people still think that Southwestern Bell and AT&T are still together, but that's not true anymore," Holmes said. "They just need to pick the long-distance carrier they want."

'The customers are simply being asked to choose a long-distance company much the same way they are asked to choose between any other consumer product," Hayden said. 'The choice will be based on individual needs."

When selecting a company, customers should consider quality of service, what services are offered by the company and their service rates,

See EASY, Page 10

KSU Foundation buys 3 coliseum scoreboards

By TIM CARPENTER Editor

Although the University doesn't have a coliseum yet, it has purchased three new basketball scoreboards for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum at a cost of $283,913.

A custom-made, four-sided basketball scoreboard, two auxiliary basketball scoreboards and color modification equipment for the KSU Stadium scoreboard were purchased simultaniously May 22.

The entire $344,413 entertainment package, purchased by the KSU Foundation, was paid for with donated funds.

The basketball scoreboards, scheduled for construction in 1986, and the football scoreboard equipment, delivered before the season began, will be paid for with funds to the Foundation and originally designated for coliseum use, said Art Loub, executive vice president of the Foundation.

Loub said the Foundation was able to spend a portion of the $1.75 million reportedly donated for the coliseum by Fred Bramlage, Junction City businessman, to cover the cost of all four scoreboards.

Larry Fjeldos, sports systems manager for Daktronics, Inc., the Brookings, S.D., firm that sold the scoreboards to the Foundation, said the multi-scoreboard purchase was economical for the Foundation because Daktronics could underbid competitors.

"We see in the purchase of the equipment not as money spent for football - and not the coliseum but as efficiency in purchasing. It's not a missappropriation of funds," Fjeldos said.

Loub echoed Fjeldos' statement in a recent interview saying, "the bid (by Daktronics) was such that we accomplished an objective that wasn't intended. We spent money for the coliseum scoreboard and got something extra.

Two other bids were submitted for the entertainment package - one for $385,900, which Loub said was "too high as far as I'm concerned," and another for $457,500. The second bid was not seriously considered, he

The Daktronics bid came in lower than the other bids because Daktronics supplied the existing scoreboard at the football stadium. "We wanted the coliseum scoreboard to have color modules and so we changed to color at the football stadium," Loub said. If a new basketball scoreboard is installed in the coliseum, the football and basketball scoreboards will operate with compatable controllers made by Daktronics, he said.

To date the Foundation has paid $58,000 of the $60,500 cost of the color modulation equipment for the football scoreboard.

Using coliseum donations to purchase scoreboard equipment for the stadium is not illegal and merely represents an attempt by the Foundation and Bramlage to enhance the image of the sports facilities, said former Assistant Athletic Director Conrad Colbert.

The decision to purchase scoreboards for the coliseum before the project is formally bid and approved by the Board of Regents is also an effort to maximize the purchasing power of the Foundation, Fjeldos said.

If the Foundation were to wait until 1986 to purchase the scoreboards it might have to pay more, Fjeldos

The coliseum project has not been formally approved by the regents and has been in limbo since construc-

See COLISEUM, Page 10

2 Middle East officials continue verbal battle

By The Associated Press ABU DHABI, United Arab

Emirates - PLO chief Yasser Arafat said Sunday the Palestinian people will "never let the gun fall from their hands." And in Jordan, King Hussein told a military graduating class that "the Arab flag" will soon fly over Jerusalem.

Arafat's statement on Abu Dhabi television followed a declaration he made only last week in which he denounced violence against unarmed civilians anywhere and pledged to punish violators of a PLO commitment against terrorism outside Israeli-occupied territory.

Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, said Sunday that his Cairo declaration was "a diplomatic riposte to the fierce U.S. and Zionist (Israeli) campaign against the PLO."

The declaration was criticized by some Arabs who contended he had dropped the Palestinian armed struggle in favor of peaceful accommodation with Israel

In Amman, Hussein said in a speech that Arabs will soon rule Jerusalem, a city with a population of 400,000. Israel captured the Old City of eastern Jerusalem from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War and later annexed it.

The king, in alliance with the PLO, has proposed peace with Israel in exchange for Israel's withdrawal from all lands occupied since the 1967 war.

Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres has expressed willingness to negotiate with Hussein and with Palestinians who renounce violence. But Israel says it will never give up Jerusalem, which is a holy city for Jews, Christians and Moslems.

Israel also opposes Hussein's call for a U.N.-sponsored peace conference, although Peres has indicated he would accept some sort of U.N. support for direct talks with Israel.

The Arts

"The Buck Stops Here," a play about Harry S. Truman, is being presented by the K-State Players in Nichols Theatre. See Page 6.

Today, cloudy with a chance of drizzle, possibly freezing in the morning. Highs 35 to 40. Northeasterly winds 5 to 15 mph.

Sports

Oklahoma State handed K-State its eighth loss of the season, defeating the Wildcats 35-3 in Stillwater. See

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Gunman hijacks plane in Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda - A gunman suspected of having ties to an insurgent rebel group hijacked a Uganda Airlines domestic flight Sunday with 49 people aboard and forced it to fly to rebel-controlled territory, officials said.

Four West Germans were among the passengers and crew aboard the Fokker Friendship, said Guenter Held, West German ambassador to Uganda. He identified the four as medical personnel working in northwestern Uganda and said he had no other details on

The twin-engine, propeller-driven plane was on a scheduled onehour flight from Entebbe International Airport near Kampala to Arua, in northwestern Uganda near the Zaire border, when it was hijacked, Ugandan officials said.

Ten hours after the hijacking, a man purporting to be a spokesman for the National Resistance Army in Uganda called the Nairobi bureau of the British Broadcasting Corp. to claim responsibility for the hijacking.

The caller said the plane was diverted to Kasese in southwestern Uganda, 200 miles from Kampala, because the military government had been using that flight to bring troops to Kampala.

Colombians mourn judge's deaths

BOGOTA, Colombia - President Belisario Betancur said at a memorial Mass Sunday that he tried to negotiate with leftist guerrillas who occupied the Palace of Justice during a 28-hour siege that left at least 109 people dead.

Among the victims were 12 Supreme Court judges, and the 11 surviving court members boycotted the Mass held at the National Cathedral.

The Bogota newspaper El Tiempo said on Saturday the judges contend Betancur refused to negotiate with the guerrillas of the April 19 Movement, known as M-19.

Betancur arrived on foot at the cathedral, located on the same plaza as the Palace of Justice. He led a group of Cabinet ministers, generals and other government officials past a file of presidential

The president glanced briefly at the fire-blackened Palace of Justice as he entered the cathedral where former Colombian presidents and foreign diplomats were among the audience.

REGIONAL

World telephone call links families

WICHITA - A family picked up the telephone this weekend and heard voices from six countries around the world.

In a special conference call, orchestrated by Japan's Kyodo News Service, Lynn and Shirley Buerki of Sedgwick County spoke with families from six other nations.

The call was moderated by one of the news service's reporters for a New Year's Day feature titled, "We Are Families of the Earth."

The Buerkis were chosen because Buerki "is a farmer who is still maintaining the traditional American lifestyle," said Masato Tamura, a photographer for the Japanese news service who snapped photos of the family as they talked.

Buerki who said his farm, three miles east of Goddard, was only 160 miles from the geographic center of the continental United States, conversed with people in Sao Paulo, Brazil; Vienna, Austria; Nairobi, Kenya; Jakarta, Indonesia; Moscow; and Tokyo.

For 25 years, the Buerkis have been hosts to foreigners who traveled to Kansas to visit an American family farm. Fifteen years ago, one of those visitors was Kensuke Suzuki, now an executive with Kyodo, which supplies news to 62 newspapers and 67 television stations throughout Japan.

"As our children were growing up, the places on the map meant something," Buerki said. "They weren't just places. They were peo-

NATIONAL

Soviet freighter leaves for Russia

NEW ORLEANS - The freighter carrying Miroslav Medvid back to the Soviet Union was well out of Coast Guard jurisdiction Sunday, but the sailor who twice leaped into the Mississippi in apparent attempts to defect remained in the thoughts of those who tried to block his departure.

"We're not going to forget this. And we're not going to let the powers that be forget this," said Jeff Pandin, who tried to organize a flotilla of small boats to harass the Marshal Koniev on its way down the Mississippi River.

Medvid, 25, sparked an international uproar when he jumped ship and swam to shore Oct. 24. He jumped again from a launch which took him back to the ship.

He cut one wrist after being forced back to the ship, but later told U.S. officials that he wanted to return to the Soviet Union. He said he had fallen from his ship and could not remember what happened

Crash could mean high death toll

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. — Two private airplanes collided Sunday and plunged into the New York suburbs, setting six residential buildings afire and killing at least four people. Authorities said the death toll might soar when the charred homes were searched.

Two people were found dead in a light propeller plane that crashed in nearby Fairview, but the greatest casualties were feared here, where a three-engine business jet with at least two people aboard slammed into an apartment building, setting that structure and four adjacent buildings afire.

The pilots of the Falcon 50 were presumed dead, although their bodies had not been found, said State Police Sgt. Tom Dombroski. Capt. Tom Pierson of the nearby Fort Lee police department said he expected to find at least 20 bodies in the burned buildings.

'As far as victims go, there is no one alive in any of those buildings," said Pierson, who estimated the five buildings housed as many as 90 families.

Pierson said it was not known how many people were in the homes when the jet, owned by Nabisco Brands Inc. and capable of carrying 12 passengers, crashed into the two-story apartment building around

PEOPLE

Writer hears of donation for work

LONDON - John le Carre, the British spy novelist, says his complaints about Soviet piracy of his books have suddenly borne fruit. The author said that Moscow's Literary Gazette contributed $700 at his request to a fund of the International PEN Club for imprisoned or persecuted writers.

He said in an article in The Sunday Times that he discovered the donation only when the family of the late German writer, Heinrich Boell, sent him thanks for his contribution in Boell's memory.

Le Carre, whose books include "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold" and "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," said all but a few of his books have been banned in the Soviet Union.

Prime minister gets punch in face

BANGKOK, Thailand - Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda suffered a bloody nose but was not seriously hurt Sunday when he was punched by a student at an athletic games ceremony.

The 65-year-old Thai leader had just finished closing the University Games at Hua Mark Stadium when the man rushed past bodyguards and struck him, police reported.

A Thai army source, quoting military radio reports, said the assailant told police he was a university student and that investigators said he appeared to be mentally disturbed. The motive for the attack was not known.

usettos 539-3830

WE'RE A CUT ABOVE THE REST.

MIDWEST COMPUTERS

3035 Anderson-VillagePlaza

537-4460

Arts & Sciences Student of the Semester

Applications now available in Dean's Office & SGA Office

Applications Due: Friday, Nov. 15th 5:00 p.m.

$49.95 EYEGLASS SALE

Choose from any frame in stock, including plastic or metal frames, and pay only $49.95. The price includes your reading or distance prescription in glass, plastic, or oversized lenses. There are no extra charges for plastic tinted lenses and prescription up to (+) or (-) 6.00 Diopter's Sphere, on (-) 2.00 Diopters Cylinder. You can choose the pair of eyeglasses that you always wanted, and not worry about the cost! We can fill your doctor's prescription, or copy your present glasses.

Plastic, Flat Top 25 or 28mm, Round Segments, or Plastic Executive Bifocals, $20 additional. Photochromatics-add $18 single vision, and $25 for bifocals. Your selection is unlimited. All frames come under this sale except facet cuts. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

Offer expires: November 15 Boutique frames are not included

ICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER is now hosting on-campus interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to apply.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Durland

CONSUMER AFFAIRS INTEREST GROUP

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION will

APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING MA-

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Mary E. Devin at 1 p.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic will be "Deferred Repair and Renovation in Selected Kansas Public Schools."

HUMAN ECOLOGY AMBASSADORS will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.

FENIX will have a forum at 10 a.m. in Holton

ALPHA PHI OMEGA will meet at 7 p.m. in CBA BUSINESS COUNCIL OPEN HOUSE

COMMITTEE will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 206 RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT CLUB will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 110.

ECON CLUB will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Waters

MORTAR BOARD will meet for yearbook pictures at 8:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

SIGMA NU LITTLE SISTERS will meet for yearbook pictures at 8 p.m. in Calvin 102.

MARKETING CLUB AND NAMA will meet at THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS will meet for yearbook pictures at 5 p.m. in Calvin 102.

PHYSICS CLUB will sponsor a teleconference, "From Trinity to Star Wars," at 7 p.m. in Durland 173.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY OF AMERICA will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

PHI ALPHA THETA will meet at 3:30 p.m. in

PROFESSIONALS IN HUMAN MOVEMENT will meet and take yearbook pictures at 6:30 p.m. in Union 209.

GERMAN TABLE will meet at 12:30 p.m. in

FREE HEARING TESTS for students will be offered from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Leasure 107

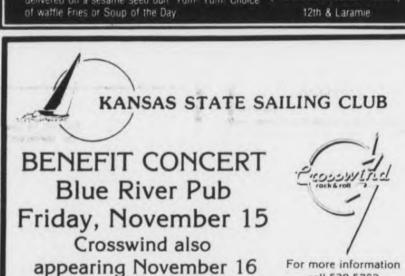

PRE-NURSING will meet to carpool to the tiley County Health Center at 6:45 p.m. in Ackert

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELEC-TRONICS ENGINEERS will meet for yearbook pictures at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102

1120 Moro 539-9064

BUD LIGHT

Vote for your candidate in the K-State Union Nov. 11, 12 and 13

Alpha Gamma Rho-John Smith Alpha Kappa Lamba—Gary Bamford Delta Sigma Phi-Kent Ely Delta Tau Delta-Chris Fellers Delta Upsilon-Doug Grossenbacher FarmHouse-Tom Stinson Kappa Sigma-Chris Hamann

Acacia-Tim Duxon

Lambda Chi Alpha-Tim Henson Phi Delta Theta-Tom Partridge

Phi Gamma Delta-Rick Wietham Phi Kappa Tau-John Olson Phi Kappa Theta-Bill Blasing Pi Kappa Alpha-Kurt Kolbeck Pi Kappa Phi-Bob Nunes Sigma Chi-Kevin Mott Sigma Nu-Dan Allen Sigma Phi Epsilon-Brian Walton Tau Kappa Epsilon-Jeff Morris Triangle-Steve Kohler

Silver coins count as positive votes and pennies and bills count as negative. All proceeds to benefit cystic fibrosis

Programs help college generate funds

By DONNA COPE Collegian Reporter

The College of Veterinary Medicine plays an essential role in generating funding for its pro-

The college gains funds for its programs in a variety of ways. Money is earned at the clinic from veterinary services. The college has reciprocal contracts with other schools so in-state tuition can be payed by students not from Kansas. Tuition and other earnings also help to gain funds, said Dean James Coffman.

Work done in the area of cattle production is one major way the college contributes to its own economics

Beef production is the No. 1 industry in the state, said Associate Dean John Noordsy. In recent years, Kansas has experienced on- University and college," he said. ly a 1 percent change in the death rate among cattle.

The Black Leg vaccine for cattle was discovered at K-State in the early 1900s. A 2 percent to 3 percent drop in cattle illness can be attributed to the use of the vaccine, which treats a specific bacterial infection, Coffman said.

"More recently, other advances have continued to push the death loss down," Coffman said.

The 1 percent change in the death rate could mean a savings of about $22.5 million for cattle breeders. The amount of tax revenue the state earns from this savings is about $6 million. This amount is greater than the $5 million general tax revenue the vet school receives,

"This is one major way we are contributing to the economics of the

The college has the best facility in the United States, Noordsy said. He attributes this reputation to the "very major commitment of people involved with the program in the

The college recently received the first University chair at the million dollar level, Coffman said. The chair is part of a living trust in the name of the Edgar E. Coleman, a K-State alumnus.

The money will be used in part to contribute to scholarships offered in the area of specialty services, such as embryo transplants and stress physiology in cattle.

Coffman said the college has a weakness in research. The program has less outside grant money than all but one of the 27 veterinary medicine colleges in the nation.

The College of Veterinary Medicine has $272,180 in federal and private grant funds. The next highest amount a vet school has is $475,000. The greatest amount of grants a school has is $12,000,000.

'The weakness in research is a direct result of a manpower shortage," Coffman said.

Because the 62 faculty members are heavily involved teaching classes and doing service such as work in the veterinary clinic, the area of research suffers, he said. There are about 100 students in each class at the vet school.

The 1985 Kansas Legislature has provided funding to upgrade six more faculty positions. The Board of Regents recommended funding to upgrade seven positions in 1986, he said.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of an eightpart series highlighting each of the University's colleges and a few of the programs of that col-lege.

AIDS movie to 'calm' viewers about disease

ENROLL IN AMERICA'S

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Rock Hudson's bout with AIDS made the public more aware of the illness and sympathetic to its victims. Now, with the made-for-TV movie "An Early Frost," AIDS-support groups feel millions of Americans will have their best chance yet to be educated about the deadly disease and its impact.

"An Early Frost" is the story of how one family is torn apart when their son, a 29-year-old homosexual lawyer, contracts acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

NBC, which will broadcast the two-hour film tonight, predicts a national audience of 50 million viewers

Mark Senak, director of legal services for the Gay Men's Health Crisis in New York, said the interest in Hudson raised both consciousness and fear. The movie "takes us a step further," he said. "It takes our hands and says, 'Calm down."

"Rock Hudson was the first mass humanization of AIDS to the American public," said Glenn Kennedy, associate director of AIDS Project LA.

> Becoming an officer in today's Army - which also includes the Army Reserve Guard - requires getting the

What's the best way to right kind of management

America's largest manage-

In the Army ROTC

acquire discipline of mind and spirit, and the ability

We call it learning what to perform under pressure.

It'll pay off, too First.

during your last two years of college, when you'll start receiving up to $1.000 a year graduation day, when you receive a commission along with a college degree ARMY ROTC. BE ALLYOU CAN BE.

And, most of all, on ment training program-

4-year program, you'll

Army ROTC

it takes to lead

and leadership training.

get it' By enrolling in and Army National

Police end site work in auto theft case

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND

ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS

announces Tues., Nov. 12

ROYAL PURPLE PICTURES

CALVIN 102 6:00 p.m.

General Meeting

Ackert 221 6:30 p.m.

McDonnell Douglas Speaker

Ackert 221 - 7:00 p.m.

THESES.

You've survived months of labor pains.

reproduce your brain-child with speed,

efficiency and plenty of TLC.

And, you've produced a beautiful, healthy thesis. Now, breathe easy and let kinko's

50% Cotton Copies

at 7¢

Free collation

with this ad

Copies · Reductions · Enlargements

Passport Photos · Binding · And much more!

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Reporter

Authorities have finished on-site investigations at Superior Auto Salvage, Rt. 1, Manhattan, wraping up a 10-month investigation leading to the arrest of three Manhattan area residents.

Local, state and federal authorities seized 19 vehicles. Fourteen of the vehicles, identified through the National Crime Information Center and the National Auto Theft Bureau, were listed as allegedly stolen, and two vehicles, believed to have had vehicle identification numbers altered, were seized at the salvage yard. Three other vehicles were impounded in the Manhattan area.

Donald Leo Finney, 47, 741 Tuttle St., was arrested Tuesday morning at the salvage yard and charged with attempted felony theft. Also arrested

A longstanding legend 44 days left 7 Fridays left 7 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition!

Alicia and Co.

Announces A New Member To Our Staff of Professionals

> C. P. EVANS Formerly of Lords & Ladies

C.P. invites any new or former clients

to call or stop by for an appointment

539-9949

Best Happy Hours In Town

This Coupon Good

Wednesday

Nov. 11 Thru

Thursday

Nov. 14

This Coupon Good

All This

Nov. 11

thru Nov. 17

Week

Monday

Tuesday

were Wayne E. Craven, 38, Rt. 5, and Robert M. Whitney, 28, 600 Bluemont Ave. Craven is charged with attempted felony theft; Whitney is charged with altering a vehicle identification plate, a felony in Kansas. Each of the three are free on $7,500 bond. Capt. Larry Woodyard of the Riley County Police Department said in a press conference Friday, the seized automobiles were believed to have been stolen in the Chicago area, but would not comment on possible investigations there.

rosette rivets, used to attach vehicle identification plates. The rivets are "a controlled item through the industry," Woodyard said Friday.

Kansas Department of Transportation trucks were used Thursday to haul away sections of impounded autos from the salvage yard to the KDOT lot in Wamego.

Agents of the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, the Kansas Highway Patrol, the RCPD, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal

Also seized Friday were several Revenue Service and the NATB cooperated in the 10-month investigation.

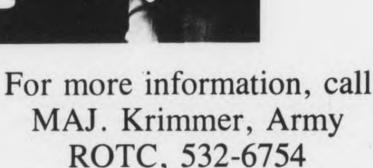

Woodyard would not specify how the investigation began. He said all the authorities involved had been aware of the problems and "just got together on it" at the beginning of the Riley County attorney's offices.

Woodyard said information and evidence obtained through the search warrant issued Tuesday would be turned over to the U.S. and

THIS SALE: CASH,

FINAL, NO HOUSE

CHARGES, NO ALTERATIONS, NO

LAYAWAYS.

CHECK, MASTERCARD &

VISA ONLY. ALL SALES

4° 50% OFF

A Savings Opportunity You Will Not Want To Pass Up.

famous brands.

SPORTCOATS

Very large selection of sizes, colors and fabrics. Choose from Kingsridge,

Jack Nicklaus, Cricketeer and other

$89.90 to $189.90

Reg. $145.00 to $325.00

SLACKS

Entire stock of Winter and

Year-Round. Super selection of solids, pinstripes and patterns. Pick from Hart Schaffner Marx, Halston, Cricketeer, Kingsridge and J.D. Christopher.

SUITS

$129.90 to $299.90 REG. $225.00 to $395.00

SWEATERS Excellent selection of solids and fancies. From Puritan, Lord Jeff, Robert Bruce, Damon and others.

SAVE 20% to 50%

DRESS SHIRTS

Entire stock by Arrow, Damon, Downing and Dent and other famous brands. Regular collar and button DUE TO THE NATURE OF

> PINPOINT SINGLE OXFORD NEEDLED FROM $14.99 FROM $29.99 REG. $25.00 REG. $45.00

Entire stock 100% wool and dacron and wool blends. Fashion and casual slacks including Jaymar Ruby, Berle and Tailor Bench.

$19.99 to $59.99 REG. $32.50 to $85.00

TIES

Hundreds of traditional pure silk, polyester and polysilk blends in stripes or foulards.

> $9.99 $12.99

$14.99 REG. TO $25.00

WEST LTD. 327 POYNTZ AVENUE

Two delicious chicken sandwiches only $2.09 Save $1.69

1110 Laramie

Nov. 11 - 14 10:30 am - closing

Not valid in combination with any other offer On 537-7340

Ham & Cheese, Bacon & Cheese, Cheese or Plain. Made with 3 fresh grade A eggs, served with golden hash browns, toast or homemade biscuits, and jelly.

Nov. 11 - 17 Breakfast Hours: 6 - 10:30 Mon. - Sat.

7 - 10:30 Sunday

In honor of U.S. veterans

celebrated today to honor members of the armed forces, past and present. Originally known as Armistice Day, it was first designated by Woodrow Wilson to commemorate the end of World War I; however, its meaning has been altered to express admiration for the dedication of millions of Americans.

Due to the heavy military involvement of the United States in Veterans Day will be the 20th century, more than 30 million Americans have become veterans. Thus, this day should touch nearly every American either directly or indirectly.

> We should not forget those who sacrificed so much. Today we have an opportunity to honor the young men and women who died while serving their country. We should do so gladly.

> > Tim Carpenter,

Malpractice limits helpful

In a move designed to possibly lower current rates, or at least reduce increases in malpractice insurance rates, an interim legislative study committee of the Kansas Legislature voted Friday to recommend a $1 million limit on the amount of compensation that can be awarded in medical malpractice suits.

The committee's recommendation, which will be sent to the January legislative session, requests legislators to change current state law to maximum awards of $500,000 for actual damages and $500,000 for substantiated medical and care costs.

The action came after members of the medical profession said the limits could help hold the line on or reduce insurance malpractice premiums.

The main opposition to limits has come from the legal profession due to proposed guidelines on their claims.

Included in those guidelines are disclosure of time spent on the case and skill involved in building the case; whether the attorney had to turn down other business while handling the case; the customary fee in the locality for similar work; and the amount of the judgment and the results ob-

But the intent of the legal profession's objections must be examined.

What must be remembered is that malpractice actions must concentrate on the economic and/or physical effects of medical malpractice, and damages awarded must reflect the actual event - not related to a lawyer's commission rates.

The special committee should be commended for realizing extravagant awards do not necessarily punish misdeeds but do increase health care costs for all of society, which are ultimately paid by consumers.

> Tom Schultes, for the editorial board

Experiences result in profound statements

Profound statements have a way of breathing life into dull, listless copy

Whether it be a news story, English essay, public announcement or just plain old idle chatter, learned comments sometimes have a way of revealing the sincerity within a person's heart.

They range from the cynical, "To the Puritan all things are impure." - D.H. Lawrence; to the simple, "I am a Bear of Very Little Brain, and long words Bother me." - A.A. Milne in "Winnie-the-Pooh"; to the sad, "We think caged birds sing, when indeed they cry." - John Webster.

And while most of us cannot be as painfully pathetic as Henry David Thoreau at Walden Pond - "Most men lead lives of quiet desperation" - or as comically clever as Dorothy Parker after being told President Calvin Coolidge had died - "How could you tell?" - most people have a unique way of constructing their own vernacular masterpiece - even though the odds are against such phrases ever finding a niche in "The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations."

Lee Judge, editorial cartoonist for the Kansas City Star and Times, had this to say about his first meeting with publisher Jim Hale, "Mr. Hale is one of those good-old-boy types. He said 'You can call me Jim or you can sit down but you can't do both."

Once a journalism professor was surprised when no one in his lecture class could spell "Ayatollah." His reaction - "It's okay to be WAYNE PRICE Managing dumb. But being stupid is proud to be ignorant." Collegiate romance provides excellent examples of avant garde linguistics. One guy I live with had this to say about females, "The way I look at it is like this, I'm not an ugly person so why should I spend money on somebody that's ugly?"

A bartender at an Aggieville bar, feeling philosophically sentimental one day, took comfort in scribbling Steve Miller lyrics on the inside of match book covers: "You treat me like I was your ocean. You swim in my blood when it's warm."

A freshman female obviously considered herself more than a mere peer of the other sex, "I like him a lot as a friend but he's gross.

And this person obviously was suffering from the "Dear John" grand finale, "I bent over backwards to kiss her butt and all I got out of the deal was a sore spine and a bad taste in my mouth."

Academics, of course, have a place among the esteemed.

This person was ready to buckle down and quit his eight day a week partying habits, "I'm going to quit going out on weekdays. I need to study. I have to graduate - I'm starting this week." And one person, who took to writing on desktops in Denison Hall, had mastered the art of analogous statements when comparing a college education to a contraceptive: "...It's a false sense of security while you're getting screwed." People also have numerous methods of explaining apathy: "If I get involved then I have to think - I have to care. Well, the truth is I care not to think." or "I get more out of one episode of 'Gilligan's Island' than most people get in a lifetime of listening to Dan Rather.

Ag students are great with phrases, when you understand them: "Frog legs may taste like chicken, but the skin sure don't taste like

Maybe the list of latter statements will never compete for respectability with Edna St. Vincent Millay: "Need we say it was not love just because it perished?" but there's a certain complacency in easily understood statements of the present, which may or may not have some sort of deep meaning but are nevertheless enjoyable: "I wanna to party with you, cowboy." - John Winger (Bill Murray) in "Stripes."

Kidnapping may be ploy

Intelligence services seldom offer a clear picture of all that goes on. What is presented to the public may bear no relationship to reality.

The recent "defection" of a KGB agent to the United States, followed by a return to the Soviet Union, may be an example of this game. It is a standard ploy - a spy, offering a great deal of information, appears to want to spill

The operative's spymaster orders him to present a face of disrepute to the other side, in the hopes they will pick him up and swallow the misinformation. Both sides are aware of the ploy, but the opportunity is seldom ignored.

In John LeCarre's classic thriller, "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold," this is the operation Smiley and his cohorts have planned. It is the stuff of paperback thrillers.

The embarrassment afforded to the United States after the KGB agent cried "kidnap" must have been no small pleasure to the Kremlin. Indeed, this may have been the intent of the operation. Though no one in Langley or the Pentagon will confirm it. "sources" have indicated they believe this was an operation planned by the KGB. After the recent "real" defections of both East and West super-spies and the triumph of U.S. intelligence services in the recovery of the Achille Lauro terrorists, perhaps the KGB believes the CIA was a little too successful.

> Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Veterans' Day honors U.S. heroes

Speed limit reduces fatal accidents

Originally, Veterans' Day, Nov. 11, was called Armistice Day. It was celebrated as the anniversary of the armistice of World War I in 1918. Then, after World War II in 1945, the name was changed to Veterans' Day and it commemorated the end of hostilities in both 1918 and 1945.

In the last few decades, Veterans' Day ceremonies have been extended to include those people who served in Korea and Viet-

A veteran is "one who has been a member of the armed forces." Too often we only remember those soldiers who served and those who died in the World Wars, Korea and Vietnam. We seem to forget about the Marines who died in Lebanon and, more recently. Robert Stethem who was brutally murdered during the hijacking of TWA Flight 847.

Although they may not have served in a "war," they too are considered veterans and should be honored.

President Abraham Lincoln delivered a Re: Rich Harris' columns, "Speed limit

While Harris backs up his opposition to the 55-mph speed limit with absolutely no facts or data, he demands statistics from 55-mph supporters. Here are a few facts from documents supplied to me by Sgt. Stephen

The 55-mph limit accounts for up to one-

Although the number of miles driven has increased since 1973, the rate of deaths per

In a collision, the chances that a motor vehicle occupant will be fatally injured doubles with each 10 miles of speed over 55

Highway deaths in 1973 totaled 54,590. In 1974, the first year of the 55-mph limit, total deaths numbered 45,536, a reduction of 9,054 deaths in one year. There was ony a 1.8 percent reduction in miles driven due to the oil embargo, while the reduction in deaths was miles driven has decreased 31 percent.

mph that the vehicle is traveling.

16.6 percent in that same period.

half of the more than 40,000 lives saved in the

Crane of the Kansas Highway Patrol:

produces poor driving habits" and "Drivers

Education teaches little, requires revision," in the Nov. 1 and 4 Collegians:

last decade.

speech at the dedication of a national soldiers' cemetary on Nov. 19, 1863, at Gettysburg. Pa. The speech, known as the Gettysburg Address, was written in honor of those soldiers who fought for a free nation. Parts of Lincoln's speech still hold true to-

"The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here...that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion - that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain...'

These words were dedicated to soldiers who fought in the Civil War. Just as we will never forget those soldiers, we will never forget the ones who served and who gave their lives to preserve what those in the Civil War fought so hard to attain.

ceeded 1973's highway death total.

wreck at 65 mph.

the right thing.

I wouldn't say these points are completely attributed to 55 mph, but any idiot can see a correlation. No, speed doesn't kill, but it obviously enhances the odds. Just think what might have happened if you had had your

As for your knock on defensive driving, defensive drivers don't get "rear ended, sideswiped and dinged" as you have. Nor do they "live in a constant state of fear of The Other Guy." They use caution and common sense and maybe a little pessimism rather than naive trust and the belief that other drivers possess adequate skill. I'd rather not assume the other guy is always going to do

When my father, Lt. Jack Blow, of the KHP, became a trooper in 1970, hardly a

Mary Roehl senior in journalism and mass communications

words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number must be included. Comic appalling

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertain-

ing to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300

As a student at K-State, I am very proud of my school and all it has to offer. I would also like to say that I am proud of our student newspaper and the way it serves the University community. However, I periodically seem to lose this pride in the Collegian. In fact, I am frequently appalled at the lack of discretion and the absence of journalistic professionalism practiced by the Collegian's staff.

The most recent incident was the printing of a cartoon in the Nov. 5 issue. The cartoon was derogatory toward K-State's greek system as a whole. I think the Collegian sometimes forgets the power of the written word and the damage it can do - or the good it can accomplish.

I still have my pride for K-State and for its strong greek system - for the Collegian...well, time will tell.

Keenan Beauchamp senior in agricultural engineering

Faculty available

Re: Catherine Sayler's column, "Flexibility needed in presidential selection," in the Nov. 5 Collegian:

I agree with Sayler that the Presidential Search Committee must remain flexible in its search for prospective candidates.

Although the committee's job is a formidable one, it is incredulous to think they might consider making guidelines so stringent as to exclude, even inadvertently, any particular group of qualified candidates. It is essential that both traditional and nontraditional "administrators" be considered.

I believe there is a great wealth of administrative expertise among the faculty at this or any other university. Only by considering non-traditional candidates along with the traditional can we be assured that K-State will get a president of the caliber we

Donna Fox graduate in biology

Kansas State

Monday

Tim Carpenter
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jeff Tuttle MANAGING EDITORS

COPY EDITORS Laurie Fairburn

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR

CAMPUS EDITORS Lillian Zier Jeri Heidrick SPORTS EDITOR

Todd Nighswonger ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

FEATURES EDITOR Becky Wiley BUSINESS EDITOR

Tom Schultes GOVERNMENT EDITOR Vicki Revno

AGRICULTURE EDITOR ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

REVIEWERS Lisa Boothe Ben Pease COLUMNISTS

EDITORIAL CARTOONIST

Tim Fitzgerald Kevin Elmore Katherine Herman Rich Harris Wayne Long

STAFF WRITERS Tom Perrin Sue Dawson LeAnne Stowe Trish Mehaffey Bruce Ney Jill Hummels GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Colleen Wilson Conrad Easterday

Laura Aceve Becky Boyd STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS Andy Nelson John Sleezer

EDITORIAL BOARD Tom Schultes Rich Harris

Tim Carpenter Patty Reinert A. Scharnhorst Lillian Zier ADVERTISING MANAGER

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER Lori Wong CO-OP ADVERTISING MANAGER Mark McDermet
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Darren McChesney Trish Malone Trish Malone Eric McCluer

Harold Lacy ADVERTISING GRAPHIC ARTISTS

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER ADVERTISING DIRECTOR

Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR Connie Nelson ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 620) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $30, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

tion of 50 percent to 60 percent in disabling injuries.

In more than a decade, we have never ex-

The 55-mph limit has resulted in a reduc-week went by that he wasn't called out in the middle of the night to scrape someone's seriously or often fatally injured body off Interstate 70. When 55 mph became law in 1973, dad got a lot more sleep. Late night calls became rare. That's drastic.

"55 saves lives" is not a "lie," nor is it "crap." It's a proven fact and a relevant one at that. It may just save your life someday. Who knows? Maybe it already has.

> Steve Blow junior in management

Speaker explains counseling

By DONNA COPE Collegian Reporter

Mental health issues dealing with women have been around for centuries, but topics such as sexual preference and career choices are now being readily discussed in women's counseling sessions, said Susan Angle, assistant professor and counselor in the Counseling Angle spoke Friday on "Women and Counseling," part of the Friday Focus on Women lecture series.

"This certainly isn't a topic where one person has an expertise and others do not," she said.

Women now have many specific complaints and problems, dealt with in therapy sessions. Angle addressed the issues of women and their careers, saying women constantly have to decide on marriage options. A woman may choose to start a second-level career after her children leave home. She may also decide to return to school or seek a new form of employment later in life, Angle said.

"What a woman decides at age 18 or 20 can be totally different than what she wants in her 50s," Angle said.

Many of the women Angle works with are learning to deal with stress and anxiety.

The topics women are most likely to discuss in therapy sessions include relationship concerns, eating disorders, health problems, double standards in sexuality, sexual preferences and sexual assault, Angle said.

The three types of therapy one can encounter when seeking counseling are feminine therapy, traditional therapy and non-sexist therapy, Angle said. She practices feminine therapy, which is used as a means to counteract women's problems, she said.

All three kinds of couseling are available on campus. Angle said most cases are assigned on a random basis, unless the client requests a certain counselor.

Many of the clients Angle counsels request help in the area of sexual preference.

"It has not been until recently that the medical profession has realized sexual preference is not pathological," she said.

Two approaches may be taken when working with Lesbian women or gay men during therapy sessions. The conversion method tries to help the person operate as a heterosexual. The affirmation model tells the client it is as acceptable to have homosexual preferences as it is heterosexual. Angle said there is a great deal of harm done by professionals who deal with their clients using methods other than the affirmative approach. 'We do live in a heterosexist and homophobic society," she said.

Committee tackles advising issues

By TONI OGLESBY Collegian Reporter

Academic advising plays a major role in student retention, and a committee has been formed to improve advising on campus, a University official said.

The Subcommittee on Academic Advisement is part of a larger committee concerned with recruitment, retention and advising, initiated and chaired by William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services

Subcommittees have been formed to study recruitment and retention (concerning problem areas other than academic advisement).

Members of the Committee on Recruitment, Retainment and Advisement represent the individual colleges and several student service offices including the Career Planning and Placement, the Office of Student Financial Assistance and the Counseling Center. All committee members were chosen by the deans of each of the colleges or the office

Sutton said advisement and retention are closely related.

"We (University administrators) believe if you advise students well, you will have increased retention," Sutton said. "We believe that good advisement will enhance retention it won't do it all by itself, but it will certainly help.

The Subcommittee on Academic Advising is studying a report made to the Board of Regents this summer on advising and plans the colleges have for academic advising.

The report states every student in the University should have an adviser, know who that adviser is and visit with the adviser at least once or twice during the semester. It also states an evaluation of advisers should be developed and implemented by the University.

The report recommends students complete their ACT entrance exams with acceptable scores, participate in all of their college pre-enrollment orientation programs and get to know their academic advisers, Sutton said.

The Subcommittee on Retention. Other Than Academic Advising was formed to address financial, illness and academic problems.

Finances are the No. 1 problem in retention, Sutton said. Students don't feel they have enough money to continue their education.

One solution currently emphasized is for every student who withdraws from the University to attend an exit interview. This interview would allow the University to find reasons for student withdrawal.

"If we can get students to talk to someone and let that person direct them to where they might find additional financial assistance, the student may find it's not as bad as they think," Sutton said. "But if the student decides all by himself that he doesn't have enough money, he'll be unable to learn about a way that exists.

In an effort to deal with the problem, Sutton is currently working on obtaining more scholarship money for the University and has talked to the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce about job opportunities for college students.

"We can't do much about illness or when a student states his reason for withdrawing as personal, but we can and are doing something for the No. 1 problem, which is economics," Sutton said.

175 attend workshop for CPR

By The Collegian Staff

CPR Saturday may become a lifesaver for individuals suffering a heart attack or lung failure.

About 175 people participated in the workshop, which was sponsored by Lafene Student Health Center this weekend. The program demonstrated techniques of cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Cindy Burke, student health educator at Lafene, said CPR Saturday was a "super success." However, attendance to the event was down from original estimates. About 250 people were expected to participate in CPR Saturday, but cold weather and the opening of pheasant season may have contributed to the lower turnout.

The event was held at the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex. Burke said the recreation complex served as an ideal location for the event because it was convenient for students and faculty. Two types of CPR were taught during CPR Saturday. One was "Race for Life," a 21/2-hour program in which participants learned how to administer CPR alone. The other, called the "Modular Program," demonstrated the administration of CPR individually or in teams and dealt with administering CPR to a baby. Burke said Lafene wants to sponsor the program annually. The last CPR Saturday was in 1982.

Other sponsors of the event were the American Red Cross, the recreation complex and Phi Upsilon Omicron, the College of Human Ecology honorary.

comprehensive health

associates

*free pregnancy tests *outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling *gynecology

*contraception Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

JUMP FOR JOY

TINTED EXTENDED WEAR soft contact lenses are now available along with:

- ★Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color of your eyes)
- *Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism)
- ★Bifocal (for reading difficulties) *Regular type (for near- and
- far-sightedness) ★Toric (for Astigmatism) ★Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Replacement Lenses

& Solutions in Stock PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH

Practice of Optometry

A Professional Association

776-9461 Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt Manhattan, KS

World Radio's Our Best Selling Systems, Components & Portables! World Radio brings you the savings of a lifetime on virtually every stereo MONDAY, TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY ONLY! component in stock! For months we've been putting together fantastic deals with top manufacturers like Sony, Harman/Kardon, Pioneer, Bose...special allocations of compact disc players, AM/FM stereo receivers, cassette decks, turntables and complete stereo systems! World Radio buys big, so you save big!

Built your world class stereo system around an AM/FM stereo receiver that defines precision performance...the Harman Kardon 330i. Its velvet smooth controls and ruggedly handsome styling are the first clue that this receiver is engineered to surpass all competition. And when you hear its lear, powerful sound, you'll know why Harman/Kardon sets the standard with remote control convenience! Sit back and enjoy incredible digital stereo...Pioneer makes it easy with wireless remote control! Handy compact disc is the ultimate in stereo performance. And this Pioneer CD player is the ultimate in convenience. Program up to 27 selections to play back in any order you choose, or use remote controlled scan/search to pinpoint exactly what you want to hear

NOW ONLY...

Affordable 50 watt per channel stereo system with Fisher quality! Here's an affordable stereo system with features sou'd expect to cost much more! Stereo SYSTEM..

Top quality Pioneer stereo

A power packed Pioneer performer! Has a stereo amplifier that delivers 100 watts of power per channel, power to spare' AM TM stereo tuner has clear digital station readout. Dual cassette system has 100 watts of power per channel!

deck with Dolby B. Choise reduction reduction lets you record, play and duplicate tapes. Auto return turntable locks in precise speeds with DC servo motor. Includes a pair of 12" 3 way speakers with removable grilles that give amplifier with a smooth 50 watts of power per channel, AM FM stereo tuner with clear digital station readout. Double cassette deck records. plays and duplicates tapes, and a semi-automatic turntable for precision performance. 3-way speakers with 8" wooters give litelike sound, and a glass door component cabinet makes the whole system look

Model X 3002

NOW ONLY ..

Unique linear motor scanner finds your selection anywhere on the disc in ss than a second...far faster than other systems. Program up to 16 songs to play back in any order you select, then repeat automatically! And full function wireless remote control is included in World Radio's low price!

Model CTS 44

deck at big World Radio savings! Pioneer packed this top-notch stereo cassette deck with the features you need for maximum performance! Dolby *B noise reduction is ideal for pre-recorded cassettes, and Dolby *C noise reduction cuts tape hiss even more. And Pioneer's even built in professional standard DBX noise reduction for top quality recordings from digital sources! Soft touch controls make it easy to use. Save big...now at World Radio! List price $175.

Pro quality stereo cassette

Quality stereo sound

FINANCING AVAILABLE

welcomed. Some quantities may be limited. Sale prices good thru November 13 or while quantities

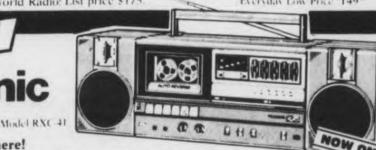

last. No Dealers Please!

Visa, Mastercard & American Express

DETACHABLE

SPEAKERS!

NOW ONLY ... Everyday Low Piece '149"

that's easy to take anywhere! It goes where you do ...but it's not just another "boom box!" This Panasonic portable packs the features and quality you want in a true stereo system. Auto reverse cassette deck means you never have to turn over a tape, 2-way speaker system gives wide range response. Speakers separate from main unit for expansive, spacious stereo! Big sound, compact size_low World

MANHATTAN

11th & Moro in Aggieville 537-4190

WITH APPROVED CREDIT. Based on 21% A.P.R. with 20% down and 24 monthly payments. Sales tax of 4% included. Monthly payments. A.P.R. and sales tax will vary from state to state.

Harris Shore portrays Harry S. Truman in the K-State Players presentation of "The Buck Stops Here." The play is running in Nichols Theatre Tuesday through Saturday.

Equity actor recreates President Truman's life

"The Buck Stops Here," conceived by Richard A. Lipp-mann; book by Norman J. Fedder; director and choreographer, Kate Anderson; music director, Steven Rushing; set designer, Alfred Sheffield; technical director, John S. Uthoff; lighting designer, Phil Anderson; costume designer, Lydia V. Aseneta; stage manager, Cynthia S. Baker. Presented by the K-State Players and departments of music and speech

> By LISA BOOTHE Collegian Reviewer

In Nichols Theatre's premiere performance Friday night, what could have been more appropos than an original musical by a K-State speech professor about a Midwest farmer who grew up to be the 33rd president.

Based on the life of President Harry S. Truman, "The Buck Stops Here," was a sellout show performed to a sold-out audience.

Play Review

The musical is a collaboration between Norman Fedder, professor of speech, and Richard Lippmann of St. Louis. Both men had researched Truman's life independently before combining their efforts.

"Buck" premiered in New York by the AMAS Repertory Theater, and has been performed at the Lyceum Theatre in Arrow Rock, Mo. and the Smithsonian Institute. Fedder and Lippmann hope the musical will some day run annually in Truman's hometown of Independence, Mo.

From Scene 1 to Scene 30, Truman's personal and political relationships are pan yokel," while singing, dancing and acrecreated with just the right balance of sentimentality and restraint. It was a real eyeopener for those too young to remember Truman. And at a time when the name Truman has become a too-common buzz word for overzealous button-pushing, it is a tribute to the integrity of the man.

Throughout his life, Truman worked hard to be regarded by others as his own man. He fought for principle, whatever the conse-

But Truman is not characterized as a saint. It is no accident he is depicted as somewhat of a good-natured nitwit at first long on book-brains but short on social senses. This makes it easier to rally for his causes later

And like most people, Truman had both faults and virtues. Fedder's book presumably focuses on his honesty. A book to be released in December by Richard Lawrence Miller will focus on the supposed crooked deals of Truman's early days. Such is public opinion.

It is a difficult task to span 60 years, focus on Truman's relationships to four women, set this to song and dance, use only one set with no curtain and no lengthy transitions, and still come up with a smooth and wholly believable production. But it was done.

The greatest thrill of the evening came from watching equity actor Harris Shore capture the appearance, mannerisms and convictions of Truman, a so-called "lick-the-

During a rehearsal of the K-State Players production "The Buck Stops Here," Deni Good, graduate in speech, and Paul Honigs, junior in bakery science, lift Harry S. Truman, played by Harris Shore, after he is elected vice president of the United States.

ting with Broadway skill. Shore originated the role, and although he has a slew of stage and television appearances to his credit, he seemed to interact well with the amateur

But don't let "amateur" throw you. Aside from a few opening-night voice jitters, the cast was clear, well-trained and expansive. Although it was evident the actors were better singers than dancers, the choreography was spirited. There was always spectacle, but the movement was well-integrated. Nothing is worse than a "first we sing, then we dance, then we act again" musical. Particulary fun was "The Haberdashery Blues," about Truman's clothing business failure and "That Boy's Not Good Enough For You," hilariously sung by Madge,

Truman's mother-in-law. "Will You Be My Best Friend?" a duo with Harry and his wife Bess, tugged at the heart, whether sung by the childhood sweethearts (Justin McCarthy and Ashleigh de la Torre) or the aging sweethearts (Shore and Connie Ramos.)

As Truman's mother, Martha, Terri Myers performs with her usual ability to depict the elderly, and as Madge, Kathleen Pfister has one of the stronger voices and gets some of the best laughs. (It is a shame she had on so much makeup. In the intimate theater her wrinkles looked more like whiskers and detracted from her otherwise ideal perfor-

Other highlights included Tom Overmyer's portrayal of the ailing Charlie Ross, Truman's press secretary, Kelly Vance as Tom Pendergast and Ramos as Bess. Ramos' strengths lie in her ability to express her character through responsive gestures and timing.

Perhaps the most impressive aspect of the production was the versatile set and use of stage space. Even the stairways were used, and a platform built near the lighting booth served for Truman's whistle-stop speeches.

And then there's the wonderful three-piece band...and the great costumes...and, well, see for yourself on Nov. 12 through 16. You'll be sold out, too.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1985

A tasteful, harmonizing duo bringing you a unique blend of folk and blues. Friday, November 15, 8 p.m., Catskeller Tickets $2.00 at the door Bring your Lee Greenwood ticket and pay only $1.50!

k-state union

Director of Communications

Thursday Nov. 14 12:00 p.m. Union Courtyard

An enchanting comedy that has been hailed as Woody Allen's Masterpiece. November 13, 7:30 and November 14 at 3:30 and 7:30 in the Little Theatre. KSU I.D. Required

Rated PG $1.75 k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Myth, Fad, or Illness

Dr. C.A. Barnhill from the Menniger Foundation will be speaking on eating disorders. He is the director of the program for eating disorders at Menniger's.

This is the first small evening lecture. Tuesday, November 12 at 8:00 p.m. in Forum Hall. Free Admission

k-state union upc issues & ideas

Sat. Nov. 9 Sun. Nov. 10 Little Theater

AND

k-state union

THE RETURN OF THE PINK PANTHER

> Mon. Nov. 11 Tue. Nov. 12

$1.75

OSU scores early for 35-3 win over K-State

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

STILLWATER, Okla. - The place remained the same. Only the result was different.

Oklahoma State University's Lewis Field was the place Saturday as K-State took on the O-State Cowboys. The last time these two teams met here, the Wildcats pulled off a stunning 21-20 upset victory over the favored Cowboys.

The result Saturday, though, was not the same. This time it was all OSU as the Cowboys scored early and often on their way to a 35-3 Homecoming win before 50,000 fans.

It didn't take long - about 46 seconds - for K-State to figure out things were not going to go the 'Cats' way, as in the 1983 upset of OSU.

That's how long it took the Cowboys to score their first touchdown - a 10-yard run by tailback Thurman Thomas.

The first score was a "gimme" for O-State, set up by a fumble on the opening kickoff inside the 10-yard line by K-State freshman Dimitrie Scott. Sophomore linebacker Kenneth Cumby garnered the loose ball at the 13. OSU was on the scoreboard two plays later.

"We fumbled the opening kickoff and things went downhill from there," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said.

By the time the first quarter came to a close, the 'Cats must have felt like they were buried in an avalanche created by the running of Thomas.

Thomas, a 5-foot-11-inch, 186-pound sophomore from Missouri, Texas, ran for 213 yards on 29 carries and scored four touchdowns - all in the first half, staking Oklahoma State to a 28-0 halftime lead. Three of Thomas' scores came in the first quarter and the last was a 65-yard scoring burst in the second quarter.

"The first quarter was just a disappointment. It's just frustrating,' Moon said in his fifth game as K-State's head football coach. "The first half was as low of intensity the players have shown since I've taken over."

What intensity the players may have lacked on the field was more than made up for with intensity from comments in the locker room after

"It was a typical K-State game," split end Todd Elder said of the 'Cats, who sport a 1-8 record. "I sure

By The Associated Press

got the go-ahead touchdown on a

71-yard punt return and Gary Anderson kicked a team record five field

goals Sunday as the Pittsburgh

Steelers pounded out a 36-28 National

Football League victory over the

Anderson's five field goals broke

his own record for the Steelers, 5-5,

who remained in a tie for the AFC

Central lead. It was the sixth loss in a row for Kansas City, 3-7, and assured

the Chiefs of a 14th consecutive non-

Todd Spencer and Bob Kohrs

threw key blocks for Lipps, who

outran punter Jim Arnold down the

sideline to give the Steelers a 20-14

lead midway through the second period. Walter Abercrombie capped

a seven-play, 79-yard drive with a

2-yard touchdown run to put the

Steelers on top 27-14 at intermission.

receiving, including a remarkable

41-yard catch in the final minutes

while falling to the ground to set up

Anderson's fifth field goal, a

Deron Cherry gave the Chiefs a 7-0

John Stallworth totaled 126 yards

fading Kansas City Chiefs.

playoff year.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Louis Lipps

Anderson's field goals

lift Steelers past Chiefs

hope things change in the future. We got beat up like we always do.'

Elder was critical of both the offense and defense.

"I wanted to test their corners (cornerbacks) but we didn't," he said of K-State's receivers. "They tested ours and beat us upside the head. We have five or six guys who are good receivers. We should have tested them...What it boils down to is that we don't have much offensively.'

K-State's offense, indeed, was its usual anemic self. The Cowboys' defense came into the game giving up 295 yards a game. But the 'Cats managed just 175 yards total offense and eight first downs. K-State didn't get a first down until 7:10 was left in the second quarter.

"We did not come ready to play," said senior free safety Barton Hundley, who did come ready to play and finished the game with 18 tackles and an interception. The interception

- Hundley's sixth - tied a team record for interceptions in a season. "We played a little better in the second half, but you can't spot a team like OSU 28 points and expect to

The Wildcats did outscore O-State 3-0 in the third quarter with the points coming on a 51-yard field goal by Mark Porter, who is seven for seven in field goal attempts this

About the only other bright spot for K-State was Mark Wentzel, who returned four punts for 62 yards, inluding one return of 31 yards.

0-State	21	7	0	7-35
O-State - Thomas 1	) run (0'	Don	nell h	rick)
O-State - Thomas 1	run (O'I	onn	ell ki	ck)
O-State - Thomas 4	run (O'D	onn	ell ki	ck)
0-State - Thomas 65	run (O'I	Donn	ell k	ick)
K-State - FG Porter	51
0-State - Brown 4 pa	ss from	Willi	ams	(O'Donnell kick)
	W.S			O.State

0 0 1 0-3

14-26-2 8-43.5

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Rushing — K-State, Wilson 12-42, Moody 7-27, Kendrick 5-17, Welch 5-5, Randy Williams 2-minus 9. O-State, Thomas 29-213, Nash 12-48, Timmons 4-14, Limbrick 3-10, Luder 1-3, Mille Passing — K-State, Welch 4-10-0-13, Randy /illiams 7-19-1-82. O-State, Ronnie Williams

14-25-2-195, Rankin 0-1-0-0.

Receiving — K-State, Alphin 1-36, Elder 3-31, Stoner 2-10, Moody 2-10, Wilson 3-8. O-State, Riley 6-115, Wemer 5-60, Brown 2-15, Dillard 1-5.

lead in the opening minutes when he intercepted a David Woodley pass

and sped 47 yards to score. Moments

later, Woodley connected with

Stallworth on a 13-yard touchdown

Jeff Smith's tackle-breaking

45-yard touchdown on a pass from

Jeff Kenney gave Kansas City a 14-13

lead early in the second period ahead

of Lipps' second touchdown punt

Anderson also had field goals of 27

and 36 yards in the second half. His

36-yarder followed a 13-yard touchdown pass from Kenney to

Smith that sliced Pittsburghs lead to

Kenney added a 13-yard scoring

Smith's 45-yard touchdown pass

strike to Anthony Hancock with 15

seconds remaining to narrow the gap

play, the longest by a Kansas City

receiver this season, gave Kansas City a short-lived 14-13 lead with 9:27

left in the first half. Then Lipps put

Pittsburgh ahead to stay with his

71-yard punt return. Walter Aber-

crombie's touchdown with 55 seconds remaining sent the Steelers into halftime with a 27-14 advantage.

31-21 with 13:32 remaining.

return of the year.

Oklahoma State University wide receiver Bobby Riley catches a pass over K-State safety Brad Lambert during the Cowboys' 35-3 victory over the 'Cats Saturday in Stillwater. Riley was the leading receiver in the game.

Bears win 10th consecutive game

By The Associated Press

"It was old fashioned football old fashioned Bear football," running back Walter Payton said of Chicago's latest victory, its 10th straight National Football League triumph.

Payton rushed 26 times for 107 yards Sunday - his fifth consecutive 100-yard game and the 69th of his career - as the Bears, 24-3 winners over Detroit, continued their best start since the 1942 team won all 11 of its regular season games.

Matt Suhey, usually the blocking back for Payton, rushed 16 times for 102 yards, his first 100-yard game in two years.

"The weather helped us more than it did Detroit," Bears Coach Mike Ditka said of the blustery, rainy and windy conditions in Chicago.

In other games Sunday: Buccaneers 16, Cardinals 0

Quarterback Steve DeBerg connected with Adger Armstrong on a 1-yard touchdown pass and Donald Igwebuike kicked three long field goals as Tampa Bay halted a ninegame losing streak for the Bucs and was only the ninth for Tampa Bay in its last 42 games.

Igwebuike, a native of Nigeria, kicked field goals of 46, 47 and 50 yards. James Wilder ran for 120 yards on 29 carries and DeBerg completed 11 of 27 passes for 196 yards. Eagles 23, Falcons 17

One play after Atlanta pinned the Eagles on their own 1-yard line with a punt, quarterback Ron Jaworski and wide receiver Mike Quick combined on a 99-yard touchdown pass play 11/2 minutes into overtime to give Philadelphia its victory.

Bengals 27, Browns 10 Second-year quarterback Boomer Esiason passed for 262 yards and a touchdown, outshining Cleveland rookie Bernie Kosar. The Bengals' third consecutive victory kept them tied for first place in the AFC Central Division with Pittsburgh at 5-5. Cleveland fell to 4-6 with its fourth straight loss. Esiason completed 23 of 33 passes without an interception, while Kosar was 16 of 32 passes for 229 yards in his fifth pro start. However, the rookie was just nine of 22 for 139 yards going into the game's closing minutes. Packers 27, Vikings 17

Quarterback Lynn Dickey came off the bench to lead Green Bay to victory, completing nine of 11 passes for 135 yards, including a 63-yarder to Phillip Epps that set up a 1-yard touchdown pass to Eddie Lee Ivery. Bills 20, Oilers 0

Buffalo, 2-8, was led by quarterback Bruce Mathison, making the first regular-season start of his three-year NFL career. He completed 11 of 22 passes for 121 yards and ran for 57 yards, including a touchdown.

Patriots 34, Colts 15 In a two-minute stretch in the third quarter, Irving Fryar scored on a 77-yard punt return and a 5-yard pass, sparking New England, 7-3, over Indianapolis, 3-7.

The Patriots scored 17 points after three third-quarter fumble recoveries, while a second-quarter interception by Fred Marion set up one of Steve Grogan's two touchdown

Giants 24, Rams 19 Joe Morris scored two second-half touchdowns as the Giants rallied from a 13-point deficit to defeat the Rams. It was the Giants' fourth straight victory

Seahawks 27, Saints 3

Quarterback Dave Krieg led a 17-point fourth-quarter explosion and the Seattle defense throttled New Orleans through the final 30 minutes of play. Krieg threw for 282 yards and a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Chargers 40, Raiders 34

A 17-yard touchdown dash by Lionel James 3:44 into overtime lifted San Diego over the Raiders. The Chargers victory snapped a four-year, seven-game losing streak at the hands of the Raiders.

Dolphins 21, Jets 17

Returning from a seven-game layoff, wide receiver Mark Duper caught nine passes for 217 yards and two touchdowns, one a 50-yarder with 41 seconds left to boost Miami past the Jets.

Duper's 217-yard effort broke the Dolphins single-game record of 210 yards set by Nat Moore in 1981.

Cowboys 13, Redskins 7 Running back Tony Dorsett combined with quarterback Danny White for a 48-yard touchdown pass play and Rafael Septien kicked two field goals as Dallas edged Washington.

Cowboy back runs rampant against 'Cats

> By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

STILLWATER, Okla. - What a

It might be stretching things to say Oklahoma State University tailback Thurman Thomas single-handedly defeated K-State Saturday afternoon at Lewis Field.

However, it wouldn't be exaggerating a bit to say Thomas had one whale of a ballgame against the Wildcats in the Cowboys' 35-3 vic-

Thomas, a 5-foot-11-inch, 186-pound sophomore, gained 213 yards on 29 carries for the game and scored the Cowboys' first four touchdowns - all in the first half.

In the first quarter alone, Thomas ripped Wildcat defenders for 93 yards, rushing on only 14 carries, and scored three times.

"Thomas is just a great back and great backs make great runs," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said. "I thought he was a great player coming in, but he's better than what I thought."

'(Thurman) Thomas is just a great back and great backs make great runs. I thought he was a great player coming in, but he's better than what I thought.'

Coach Lee Moon

Oklahoma State Coach Pat Jones had praise for Thomas as well.

"Thurman is a marvelous back as we all know," Jones said.

Thomas, as many running backs will do, was quick to give credit to his offensive linemen. 'They did a great job today, Paul Blair, David Tucker, all of them. I've got to give them credit," Thomas said. "All the credit comes to me, but the offensive line did a great job to-After tearing up the K-State defense in the first quarter, Thomas had a relatively quiet second quarter until breaking a 65-yard touchdown run to give the Cowboys a 28-0 lead, virtually eliminating any K-State comeback plans.

"Nothing really happened (on the 65-yard run). It was just a little offtackle play that we've been running through the course of the season, Thomas said. "Lots of times we've come close to breaking that play. Today, we broke it for a long one.

Thomas seems to like playing against K-State. In last season's 34-6 Oklahoma State victory over the Wildcats at KSU Stadium, Thomas, at the time only a third-string tailback, emerged as the Cowboys' top runner with 206 yards on 34 carries and two touchdowns

When asked if he would like to play K-State every week, Thomas replied with a smile, "No, not every week. But it's nice to have a big win like

With his performance Saturday, which upped his season total to 1,227 yards with three games left to play, Thomas solidified his position as a candidate for the Heisman Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate football player.

However, Thomas is trying to keep his mind off the Heisman and on his team's play for the remainder of the season.

"No, I'm not thinking about the Heisman," Thomas said. "Right now, I'm just thinking about going out and winning against Missouri (the Cowboys' opponent next week). If the individual honors come at the end of the season, then it's all right with me.'

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR SHOE CARE SUPPLIES

Open daily 8-5:30; Saturday 8-4 Open Thursdays to 8 Drive-Up Convenience 776-1193

FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggieville

The Union Program Council Special Events Committee Proudly Presents

Special Guests "The Whites" Parents Day Saturday, November 16

Ahearn Field House 8 p.m. All seats reserved $10 w/KSU Student I.D. $11 General Public Tickets on sale now 10 a.m.-3 p.m. at the

Union Box Office and S Bar J Clothiers

For more information call 532-6571

Wk-state union

NATION-WIDE TELECONFERENCE

"FROM TRINITY TO STAR WARS"

A forum on the nuclear arms race The public is invited

Local Viewing: 7:00-9:00 p.m., Nov. 12 Durland Hall 173

Produced by the Union of Concerned Scientists

Local sponsors are The Student Chapters of The American Institute of Chemical Engineers Society of Women Engineers KSU Physics Club

Discussion of crisis could help farmers

By RANAE YOUNG Collegian Reporter

Farmers desire open discussion while experiencing a crisis, said Charles Griffin, coordinator for the Kansas Rural Wellness Center.

"Just having someone there to talk with seems to be their major request," he said. "They do not need solutions at this time, they just want to tell their problems to someone who will listen.

Griffin discussed the issue in a speech "More than Coping, Resources for Successful Family Adaptation to the Farm Crisis," during the Fifth Annual Working with Families Seminar, held Saturday. The seminar was sponsored through the Division of Continuing Educa-

"Five or six years ago, when I first started making presentations to groups on the problems of stress in agriculture, most of the groups I spoke to were women's groups," he said. "Things have changed since then. More and more the farmers are discussing the crises affecting their

"When we first developed programs on stress management, we looked at stress as anxiety and worked at ways to relieve the anxiety," Griffin said.

Wellness refers to a lifestyle and its effect on health and well-being, he

Wellness programs have been developed by many farm communities, he said. These projects mainly consist of fitness and excercise, some health testing and screening, nutritional programs and some stress management, Griffin said.

Working in the rural hospital in Onaga, I found out it is very hard to talk to farmers about jogging," Griffin said. "I've tried to talk to my father about exercise. Some how he does not have time to take out from baling hay to work out in the local

When asked about why many people choose to stay on the farm, Griffin said farmers think that it's a good place to raise a family and they also like the type of lifestyle rural living offers, he said.

"The family is a main strength for the farmer in good times, but when a crisis happens, he tends to shut them out from the problems he is facing," he said.

"We have to show the farmers there are people around who are willing to listen and help," Griffin said.

"We have found a stronger, more together family tends to weather the problems easier than a more separated family that dos not spend time together," he said.

Other resources available to the farmer in need are neighbors, friends and people in the community,

"For years when there was a problem people thought that something had to be physically done for it to be fixed," he said. "Now we realize that offering a time for the people to get together and talk about the crisis was the best thing to be done."

PIZZERIA'S MONDAY PIZZA PLUS

Now on Mondays You can order any one-topping pizza PLUS get the second at HALF PRICE.

776-0004 CALL NOW!

Veterans

Continued from Page 1

"There was another fellow with the same birthday as me who I went to high school with. He was always the one who kept everybody else out of trouble." Dilts' friend, "has a very bad limp and went through some very painful injuries. He got shot up pretty bad. To ask me what it means to be a veteran and to ask him are two different things. I didn't pay any costs and he did.

Dilts saw heavy combat every day for several months and has nightmares he said people wouldn't

"I do find it kind of interesting they're celebrating the 10th anniversary of the mess in Southeast Asia here recently and all the hoopla, the parades and the Vietnam memorial in Washington, D.C. It's amazing how people's guilty consciences took 10 years to catch up with them,"

Lt. Col. Terry Heyns, professor of aerospace studies, a pilot in the Vietnam War, commented on those who didn't serve during a war.

"When you think of the veterans, you think of the ones who served in combat, and certainly disabled veterans deserve a special thanks, but there are many others too who perhaps did not serve in combat but made sacrifices. True, they weren't as great as those who were wounded, but they made sacrifices too, and we should remember them. "Remember, veterans don't necessarily have to have served in combat. There are many veterans of the 1950s who didn't serve in combat. Thank heavens they didn't have to," Heyns said. "In many ways they served their country just by being part of the military forces, and in that sense maybe prevented a war. So, we owe just as much to them as to those who went into actual war."

DARK HORSE

Heyns said the soldiers were up early in the morning and it was late at night before they went to sleep. Many were separated from their families. For the lower-ranking people, there was time when, if you calculated what their pay would be, there would be no way the treasury could pay them for the service they rendered and the tremendous hours they worked - some of them 16 to 17 hours a day.

"While we were over there, our on-

David Linder, professor of history and enlisted in the Army during World War I, said, unfortunately, Veterans Day probably doesn't mean much to anyone.

"Most of us have mixed feelings," Linder said. "We don't object to the honoring of veterans, but I don't think most of us feel any great outflow of emotions or sentiment.

"I think most veterans look upon what they've done as something they've had to do and they are glad they did it, but are glad it is over Linder said America historically hasn't been a militaristic nation. Only recently has the United States had a standing army.

He said he could never think about Nov. 11 without feeling nostalgic, heartache and almost a knot in his stomach because millions of men killed each other in World War I.

"People I guess don't understand what it is the military does and what it's all about. I was drafted, I wasn't a soldier. My friends and neighbors selected me so to speak. Even when I was in the service I never really thought of myself as a soldier," Dilts

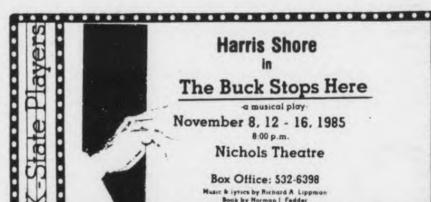

Process & Print

From 110, 126, 35mm or Disc Color Print Film.

14½¢ per print (reg. 29¢) & $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98) Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94 Now $4.73

Manhattan 2700 Anderson Ave. (Next To Westloop-The Old Kentucky Fried Chicken) 539-2519

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK! MON-SAT. 8 AM to 9 PM SUNDAYS 12 PM to 6 PM

Harris Shore

The Buck Stops Here

a musical play November 8, 12 - 16, 1985 Nichols Theatre

> Box Office: 532-6398 Book by Norman J Fedder

Friday & Saturday Performances

10 oz. KC STRIP $5.95 16 oz. KC STRIP 58.

INCLUDES HOME-CUT FRIES, BAKED POTATO, OR VEGETABLE AVAILABLE AFTER 5:30 P.M. IN OUR DINING ROOM and BAR

Agre. 750 DRAWS ALL DAY & NIGHT!

ly thought was to get back," he said. SHOULD SOMEONE YOU CARE FOR KNOW ABOUT MEADOWLARK HILLS RETIREMENT COMMUNITY?

"The Best Place for Your Best Years"

An Interdenominational Retirement Community of cottages, apartment living and skilled nursing care.

LET US TELL YOU MORE Call Marjie Uelk 537-4610

Home Cinema

Largest Tape Selection and Best Prices in Manhattan

TAPE RENTAL

Everyday Low Price . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $2.75 per tape Magnavox VCR (incl. 1 free tape) .........$6.70

We also have low weekly & monthly rates Preferred Card Holders . . . $2.00 per tape PREFERRED CARD HOLDERS-

This Week's Special

Friday thru Sunday

Monday thru Thursday

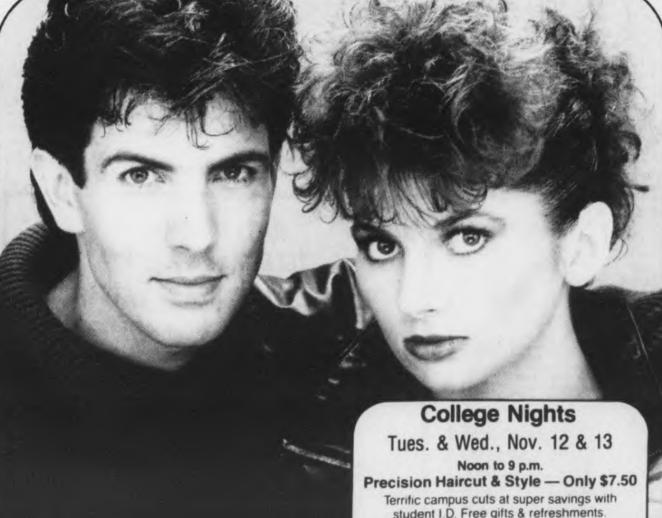

Regis hairstylists 4th & Houston 539-2535

Rent 1 tape at $2.00 and get the 2nd tape from the Children/Family or Classic Selection for just-99¢

Village Plaza Shopping Center 10 a.m.-9 p.m. In the New South Addition 537-1115

EARLY ENROLLMENT

Fall Students: Early enrollment for Spring Semester is coming. Dates are November 18-December 6

Appointments for the Enrollment Center are printed on your Class Enrollment forms.

Location of Class Enrollment Forms:

College

Agriculture

Education

Engineering

Human Ecology Graduate School

Architecture & Design

Business Administration

Arts & Sciences

Location

Adviser's office

Department Offices Pre-professional and undeclared

in Dean's Office-Others

in Department offices

Pre-professional and general in Calvin 105 - Others in Department offices

Bluemont Hall, Room 13

Department Offices

Adviser's Office

Dean's Office

Dates are assigned on a priority system of hours completed.

Class

Beginning Priority Dates

Graduates Seniors

Juniors

Sophomores

Freshmen

Others

November 18-20 November 21-22

November 18-20

November 25-December 2

December 2-5 December 5-6

If you miss your priority time, you can enroll any time through December 6.

OSU scores early for 35-3 win over K-State

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

STILLWATER, Okla. - The place remained the same. Only the result was different.

Oklahoma State University's Lewis Field was the place Saturday as K-State took on the O-State Cowboys. The last time these two teams met here, the Wildcats pulled off a stunning 21-20 upset victory over the favored Cowboys.

The result Saturday, though, was not the same. This time it was all OSU as the Cowboys scored early and often on their way to a 35-3 Homecoming win before 50,000 fans.

It didn't take long - about 46 seconds - for K-State to figure out things were not going to go the 'Cats' way, as in the 1983 upset of OSU.

That's how long it took the Cowboys to score their first touchdown - a 10-yard run by tailback Thurman Thomas.

The first score was a "gimme" for O-State, set up by a fumble on the opening kickoff inside the 10-yard line by K-State freshman Dimitrie Scott. Sophomore linebacker Kenneth Cumby garnered the loose ball at the 13. OSU was on the scoreboard two plays later.

"We fumbled the opening kickoff and things went downhill from there," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said.

By the time the first quarter came to a close, the 'Cats must have felt like they were buried in an avalanche created by the running of

Thomas, a 5-foot-11-inch, 186-pound sophomore from Missouri, Texas, ran for 213 yards on 29 carries and scored four touchdowns - all in the first half, staking Oklahoma State to a 28-0 halftime lead. Three of Thomas' scores came in the first quarter and the last was a 65-yard scoring burst in the second quarter.

"The first quarter was just a disappointment. It's just frustrating, Moon said in his fifth game as K-State's head football coach. "The first half was as low of intensity the players have shown since I've taken

What intensity the players may have lacked on the field was more than made up for with intensity from comments in the locker room after the game. "It was a typical K-State game," split end Todd Elder said of the 'Cats, who sport a 1-8 record. "I sure

By The Associated Press

got the go-ahead touchdown on a

71-yard punt return and Gary Anderson kicked a team record five field

goals Sunday as the Pittsburgh

Steelers pounded out a 36-28 National

Football League victory over the

his own record for the Steelers, 5-5,

who remained in a tie for the AFC

Central lead. It was the sixth loss in a row for Kansas City, 3-7, and assured

the Chiefs of a 14th consecutive non-

Todd Spencer and Bob Kohrs

threw key blocks for Lipps, who

outran punter Jim Arnold down the

sideline to give the Steelers a 20-14

lead midway through the second period. Walter Abercrombie capped

a seven-play, 79-yard drive with a

2-yard touchdown run to put the

Steelers on top 27-14 at intermission.

receiving, including a remarkable

41-yard catch in the final minutes

while falling to the ground to set up

Anderson's fifth field goal, a

Deron Cherry gave the Chiefs a 7-0

John Stallworth totaled 126 yards

Anderson's five field goals broke

fading Kansas City Chiefs.

playoff year.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Louis Lipps

hope things change in the future. We got beat up like we always do."

Elder was critical of both the offense and defense.

"I wanted to test their corners (cornerbacks) but we didn't," he said of K-State's receivers. "They tested ours and beat us upside the head. We have five or six guys who are good receivers. We should have tested them...What it boils down to is that we don't have much offensively."

K-State's offense, indeed, was its usual anemic self. The Cowboys' defense came into the game giving up 295 yards a game. But the 'Cats managed just 175 yards total offense and eight first downs. K-State didn't get a first down until 7:10 was left in the second quarter.

"We did not come ready to play," said senior free safety Barton Hundley, who did come ready to play and finished the game with 18 tackles and an interception. The interception

- Hundley's sixth - tied a team record for interceptions in a season. "We played a little better in the second half, but you can't spot a team like OSU 28 points and expect to

The Wildcats did outscore O-State 3-0 in the third quarter with the points coming on a 51-yard field goal by Mark Porter, who is seven for seven in field goal attempts this

About the only other bright spot for K-State was Mark Wentzel, who returned four punts for 62 yards, inluding one return of 31 yards.

K-State O-State	21 7 0	7-35
O-State - Thoma	s 10 run (O'Donnel	l kick)
O-State - Thoma	s 1 run (O'Donnell	kick)
O-State - Thoma	s 4 run (O'Donnell	kick)
0-State — Thomas	65 run (O'Donnell	kick)
K-State - FG Por	rter 51
	pass from William	ns (O'Donnell kick)
	W Chata	O-State
	K-State	O-State
First downs	N-State 8	23
W. M. W. C.	8 31-79
Rushes-yards	8	23
Rushes-yards Passing yards	8 31-79	23 50-282
Rushes-yards	8 31-79 96	23 50-282 195
Rushes-yards Passing yards Return yards	8 31-79 95 67	23 50-282 195 46

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Penalties-yards

Anderson's field goals

lift Steelers past Chiefs

Rushing — K-State, Wilson 12-42, Moody 7-27, Kendrick 5-17, Welch 5-5, Randy Williams 2-minus 9. O-State, Thomas 29-213, Nash 12-48, Timmons 4-14, Limbrick 3-10, Luder 1-3, Miller 1-3, Ronnie Williams 2-minus 3, Rankin 2-minus 6. Passing — K-State, Welch 4-10-0-13, Randy Williams 7-19-1-82. O-State, Ronnie Williams

Williams 7-19-182. O-State, Robins Williams 14-25-2-195, Rankin 0-1-0-0.

Receiving — K-State, Alphin 1-36, Elder 3-31, Stoner 2-10, Moody 2-10, Wilson 3-8. O-State, Riley 6-115, Wemer 5-60, Brown 2-15, Dillard 1-5.

lead in the opening minutes when he

intercepted a David Woodley pass

and sped 47 yards to score. Moments

later, Woodley connected with

Stallworth on a 13-yard touchdown

Jeff Smith's tackle-breaking

45-yard touchdown on a pass from

Jeff Kenney gave Kansas City a 14-13

lead early in the second period ahead

of Lipps' second touchdown punt

Anderson also had field goals of 27

and 36 yards in the second half. His

36-yarder followed a 13-yard

touchdown pass from Kenney to

Smith that sliced Pittsburghs lead to

Kenney added a 13-yard scoring

strike to Anthony Hancock with 15

seconds remaining to narrow the gap

Smith's 45-yard touchdown pass

play, the longest by a Kansas City

receiver this season, gave Kansas City a short-lived 14-13 lead with 9:27

left in the first half. Then Lipps put

Pittsburgh ahead to stay with his

71-yard punt return. Walter Aber-

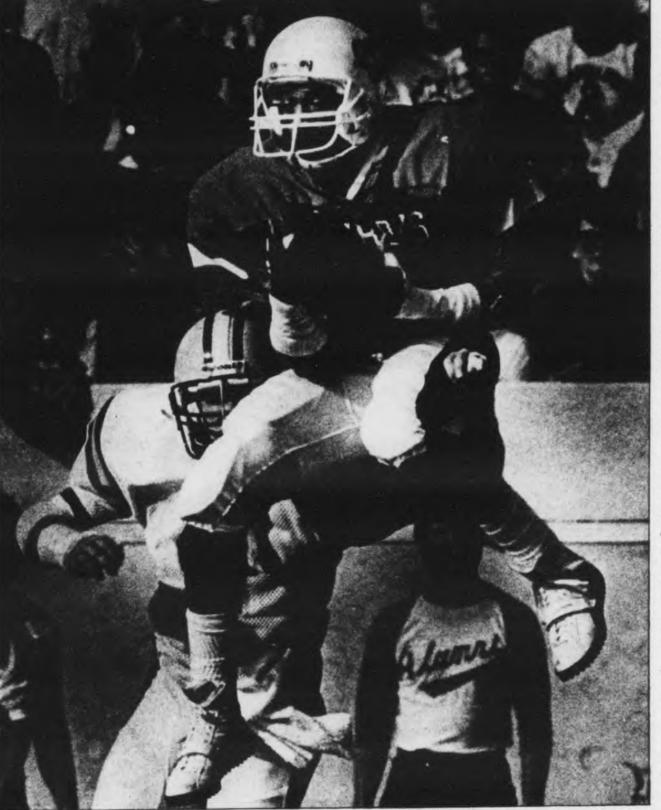

crombie's touchdown with 55 seconds

remaining sent the Steelers into halftime with a 27-14 advantage.

31-21 with 13:32 remaining.

return of the year.

Oklahoma State University wide receiver Bobby Riley catches a pass over K-State safety Brad Lambert during the Cowboys' 35-3 victory over the 'Cats Saturday in Stillwater. Riley was the leading receiver in the game.

Bears win 10th consecutive game

By The Associated Press

"It was old fashioned football old fashioned Bear football," running back Walter Payton said of Chicago's latest victory, its 10th straight National Football League triumph.

Payton rushed 26 times for 107 yards Sunday - his fifth consecutive 100-yard game and the 69th of his career - as the Bears, 24-3 winners over Detroit, continued their best start since the 1942 team won all 11 of its regular season games. Matt Suhey, usually the blocking back for Payton, rushed 16 times for 102 yards, his first 100-yard game in two years.

"The weather helped us more than it did Detroit," Bears Coach Mike Ditka said of the blustery, rainy and windy conditions in Chicago.

In other games Sunday:

Buccaneers 16, Cardinals 0 Quarterback Steve DeBerg connected with Adger Armstrong on a 1-yard touchdown pass and Donald Igwebuike kicked three long field goals as Tampa Bay halted a ninegame losing streak for the Bucs and was only the ninth for Tampa Bay in its last 42 games.

Igwebuike, a native of Nigeria, kicked field goals of 46, 47 and 50 yards. James Wilder ran for 120 vards on 29 carries and DeBerg completed 11 of 27 passes for 196 yards.

Eagles 23, Falcons 17 One play after Atlanta pinned the Eagles on their own 1-yard line with a punt, quarterback Ron Jaworski and wide receiver Mike Quick combined on a 99-yard touchdown pass play 11/2 minutes into overtime to give Philadelphia its victory.

Bengals 27, Browns 10 Second-year quarterback Boomer Esiason passed for 262 yards and a touchdown, outshining Cleveland rookie Bernie Kosar. The Bengals' third consecutive victory kept them tied for first place in the AFC Central Division with Pittsburgh at 5-5. Cleveland fell to 4-6 with its fourth straight loss.

Esiason completed 23 of 33 passes without an interception, while Kosar was 16 of 32 passes for 229 yards in his fifth pro start. However, the rookie was just nine of 22 for 139 yards going into the game's closing minutes.

Packers 27, Vikings 17

Quarterback Lynn Dickey came off the bench to lead Green Bay to victory, completing nine of 11 passes for 135 yards, including a 63-yarder to Phillip Epps that set up a 1-yard touchdown pass to Eddie Lee Ivery.

Bills 20, Oilers 0 Buffalo, 2-8, was led by quarterback Bruce Mathison, making the first regular-season start of his three-year NFL career. He completed 11 of 22 passes for 121 yards and ran for 57 yards, including a

Patriots 34, Colts 15

In a two-minute stretch in the third quarter, Irving Fryar scored on a 77-yard punt return and a 5-yard pass, sparking New England, 7-3, over Indianapolis, 3-7.

The Patriots scored 17 points after three third-quarter fumble recoveries, while a second-quarter interception by Fred Marion set up one of Steve Grogan's two touchdown

Giants 24, Rams 19 Joe Morris scored two second-half touchdowns as the Giants rallied from a 13-point deficit to defeat the Rams. It was the Giants' fourth straight victory

Seahawks 27, Saints 3 Quarterback Dave Krieg led a 17-point fourth-quarter explosion and the Seattle defense throttled New Orleans through the final 30 minutes of play. Krieg threw for 282 yards and a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Chargers 40, Raiders 34 A 17-yard touchdown dash by

Lionel James 3:44 into overtime lifted San Diego over the Raiders. The Chargers victory snapped a four-year, seven-game losing streak at the hands of the Raiders. Dolphins 21, Jets 17

Returning from a seven-game layoff, wide receiver Mark Duper caught nine passes for 217 yards and two touchdowns, one a 50-yarder with 41 seconds left to boost Miami past the Jets. Duper's 217-yard effort broke the Dolphins single-game record of 210 yards set by Nat Moore in 1981. Cowboys 13, Redskins 7

Running back Tony Dorsett combined with quarterback Danny White for a 48-yard touchdown pass play and Rafael Septien kicked two field goals as Dallas edged Washington.

Cowboy back runs rampant against 'Cats

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

STILLWATER, Okla. - What a running back.

It might be stretching things to say Oklahoma State University tailback Thurman Thomas single-handedly defeated K-State Saturday afternoon at Lewis Field.

However, it wouldn't be exaggerating a bit to say Thomas had one whale of a ballgame against the Wildcats in the Cowboys' 35-3 vic-

Thomas, a 5-foot-11-inch. 186-pound sophomore, gained 213 yards on 29 carries for the game and scored the Cowboys' first four touchdowns - all in the first half.

In the first quarter alone, Thomas ripped Wildcat defenders for 93 yards, rushing on only 14 carries, and scored three times.

"Thomas is just a great back and great backs make great runs," K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon said. "I thought he was a great player coming in, but he's better than what I thought."

'(Thurman) Thomas is just a great back and great backs make great runs. I thought he was a great player coming in, but he's better than what I thought.'

Coach Lee Moon

Oklahoma State Coach Pat Jones had praise for Thomas as well.

"Thurman is a marvelous back as we all know," Jones said.

Thomas, as many running backs will do, was quick to give credit to his offensive linemen.

"They did a great job today, Paul Blair, David Tucker, all of them. I've got to give them credit," Thomas said. "All the credit comes to me, but the offensive line did a great job today.' After tearing up the K-State defense in the first quarter, Thomas had a relatively quiet second quarter until breaking a 65-yard touchdown run to give the Cowboys a 28-0 lead, virtually eliminating any K-State comeback plans. "Nothing really happened (on the 65-yard run). It was just a little offtackle play that we've been running through the course of the season. Thomas said. "Lots of times we've come close to breaking that play. Today, we broke it for a long one. Thomas seems to like playing against K-State. In last season's 34-6 Oklahoma State victory over the Wildcats at KSU Stadium, Thomas, at the time only a third-string tailback, emerged as the Cowboys' top runner with 206 yards on 34 carries and two touchdowns.

When asked if he would like to play K-State every week, Thomas replied with a smile, "No, not every week. But it's nice to have a big win like this."

With his performance Saturday, which upped his season total to 1,227 yards with three games left to play, Thomas solidified his position as a candidate for the Heisman Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate football player. However, Thomas is trying to keep his mind off the Heisman and on his team's play for the remainder of the season.

"No, I'm not thinking about the Heisman," Thomas said. "Right now, I'm just thinking about going out and winning against Missouri (the Cowboys' opponent next week). If the individual honors come at the end of the season, then it's all right with me.

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

SHOE CARE SUPPLIES

Open daily 8-5:30; Saturday 8-4 Open Thursdays to 8 Drive-Up Convenience 776-1193

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

Special Guests "The Whites" Parents Day Saturday, November 16

Ahearn Field House 8 p.m. All seats reserved $10 w/KSU Student I.D. $11 General Public Tickets on sale now 10 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Union Box Office and S Bar J Clothiers

For more information call 532-6571

( k-state union

NATION-WIDE TELECONFERENCE

"FROM TRINITY TO STAR WARS"

A forum on the nuclear arms race The public is invited

Local Viewing: 7:00-9:00 p.m., Nov. 12 Durland Hall 173

Produced by the Union of Concerned Scientists

Local sponsors are The Student Chapters of The American Institute of Chemical Engineers Society of Women Engineers KSU Physics Club

Prospective tenants face difficult choices

Consultants give housing options

By GISELE McMINIMY Collegian Reporter

When making a decision toward renting an apartment, the prospective tenant should investigate all aspects carefully before signing the lease.

Many problems people experience in renting apartments or houses begin because people don't look at things logically, said Tammy Tracy, director of the Consumer Relations Board.

"So many of the problems can be avoided if people would just simply open their eyes before they sign the lease," Tracy said.

Before beginning to look for an apartment, people need to evaluate their needs and consider what they can afford, Tracy said.

She said other things to consider would include choice of roommates and living arrangements, the location and the type of housing desired, such as an apartment complex or a house converted into apartments.

Tracy said she believes potential renters should also take into consideration the unit's management, the overall appearance of the unit, safety aspects and the types of utilities which are the tenants' responsibility before making a final deci-

Jose Garibay, senior personnel technician of the Department of Human Resources for Manhattan, said prospective tenants should talk to neighbors or the previous tenants for additional information as well as checking into the history of the landlord.

"You may be able to find out if a landlord has any problems. Talk to a neighbor or talk to friends you know," Garibay said. "If you have the opportunity to check into that, do it."

Garibay said he always suggests a written lease, which should include the exact address, the amount of a security deposit (a fund for possible damages) required, the rental rate, the length of time the lease covers, payment of utilities, duties of both tenants and landlord and promises the landlord makes.

"Read the contract or lease thoroughly. You have to know what's in there.' Garibay said. "If something doesn't look right, ask about it."

Tracy said if students have questions about a lease, they can bring the contract to the CRB office and get a pre-lease con-

01

She said prospective tenants should start looking early for an apartment for next "To have the greatest variety in choice, students should start looking shortly after spring break, but they'll be able to find an apartment up until the week before school starts." Tracy said.

She attributed the ease of finding an apartment, even at a late date, to Manhattan's overabundance of housing, which she expects to continue into next year. Tracy said although there is a wide range in prices, average prices for housing could range anywhere from $390-$400 in a new apartment complex to $200-$250 in a house divided into separate apartments. Both Tracy and Garibay said they encourage students to come to their offices for information before leasing an apart-

'We get a lot of people who are already having problems. I'd like to see more people doing preventive medicine - knowing beforehand what their rights and responsibilities are," Garibay said.

Library dean finds contrast in U.S., Chinese libraries

By MIKE McQUEEN Collegian Reporter

A recent trip to the People's Republic of China gave Virginia Quiring, associate dean of Farrell Library, a chance to compare Chinese libraries with American libraries in an educational exchange.

The exchange program is sponsored by China-U.S. Scientific Exchanges. The goal of the non-profit foundation is to promote a cultural exchange of talent and ideas between professionals of the two countries.

The 18-day exchange began Oct. 8 when Quiring and 19 other librarians and four spouses left San Francisco, flying to Tokyo and then to Hong Kong. The group visited cities including Beijing, Nanjing and Wuhan. The group noticed a number of differences between library systems, Quiring said. "All the Chinese libraries are operated similarly," she said. "There are no open stacks for browsing and securing one's own materials.

Quiring said to check out a book a request slip must be completed, given to the staff member behind the desk, who gives it to another for retrieval of requeste material.

"There is no instruction on how to use the library," Quiring said. "When a patron needs reference help, the librarian does it.

To have a reference question answered, one fills out a form, the librarian will seek the answer or information and return it some days later."

Quiring said there was more than one library in each city.

"We visited both university and public libraries," Quiring said. "Most libraries quoted collections of 1 million to 2 million volumes. One library (representative), however, said there were five copies of everything in their collection."

The Chinese are interested in receiving more American material and information, Quiring said. Many of the young Chinese librarians have interest in scholarships and the idea of studying at American institutions,

Some of the libraries are very up-to-date, such as Nanjing University which has modern facilities, she said.

Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore jointly sponsors the library on Nanjing University's campus, Quiring said. It is known to be the center of Chinese and American studies.

"I appreciated having the opportunity to make this trip," Quiring said. "These kinds of visits do help us to understand the different kinds of cultures."

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

IF HALLEY'S

DON'T DO

IT, OPUS ...

SURGERY 15

MUTILATION!

COMET 15 GONNA

HEAD, I AT LEAST

ATTRACTIVE.

WANT TO DIE

LOOKING

Garfield

OH, VERY WELL, GARFIELD, YOU MAY HAVE ONE BITE OF MY SPAGHETTI

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Bloom County

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

JUST THINK ... HAVE YOU

WHAT BARBRA STREISAND

EVER WONDERED

WOULD BE WITH A

SMALL NOSE ?

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (7tt)

Take your parents to a super art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 16, from 9-6 at Cico Park - West on Kimball Ave.

NOBODY!

BUT AN

NOBODY.

ATTRACTIVE

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL. 60098. (31-60)

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61) WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sunchasel (45-60)

A METAPHOR

FOR THIS

GENERATION

I PON'T GIVE

THAT CAT

NOUGH CREDIT

IF I'VE EVER

By Berke Breathed

YOU CAN

JOAN COLLINS

PAINT AND

REACH ME AT THE

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

BUT TELL IM WE WANT

MORE ICE CREAM IN

THE NEXT ONES!

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wi chita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-HISTORY OF London trip to England. Winter Inter session, three hours credit. Sign-up deadline extended to November 15. A few places still availa-

6730. Consult Intersession Schedule in Collegian. Monday, November 4. (54-56) ASK ME about R.O.T.C., the view points of a student

For information call Bob, 537-0144. (55-59)

ble. See Dr. Linder, History Department

ediately: Eisenhower Hall 205, phone 532-

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis

776-3804. (4911)

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776

deposit plus electric. No children, no pets, 537-1180 (48-57)

SPACIOUS FOUR bedroom, two bath, central heat air. Close to campus and Aggieville, $530. Call 776-

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview

776-3804

trash and three-fourths of gas paid. Nice for couple or graduate student. Available December 1st. Call 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (54:59) no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70laundry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets 537-8389, 537-8494 (55-65)

tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58) 06

Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214 (52-61)

MUST SELL 1983 Buick Skyhawk Limited-New

1973 FORD LTD-Powerful 429, runs well, some body damage. $300. Box 9, c/o Collegian. (53-57)

1977 280Z-Six cylinder, 4-speed, excellent condi-

1977 DATSUN B-210-New paint, new brakes. Must tion. Must see. $3,200 or best ofter. 539-2899. (52-tires, 5-speed, $5,500. After 5:30 p.m., 1-456-2818. MUST SELL 1983 Chevy Cavilier. Low miles, 5-speed. $4,500 negotiable. After 5:30 p.m., 1-456-2818 (54-

IS IT true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S. nent? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142, ext 3286-A. (55)

FOR SALE-MISC

sell 539-6167 (53-57)

BRAND NEW turntable, like new vacuum cleaner and 8-track tape player, 532-2073, (54-56)

OFFICE SUPPLIES - Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55tf)

Sub of the Week WESTERN

The Best Submarine Joint in Aggieville

AL'S DELI

South of Baskin Robbins

TECHNICS SL5, direct drive, automatic turntable

system. Best offer. 539-4863. (55-59)

Strings and Drumsticks Buy one set and get second set at

50% Off

DOD Guitar Effects Units 30% Off

Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

776-7983 223 Poyntz

110 LB. AQUARIUM with set-up equipment - fresh or salt Must sell $250 Shanan, 537-0323 (55-59) FREE MAGNUM HAT

with every two bags purchased 21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy

Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 1975 12 x 60 Schultz Weilington. Must see to appreciate $7,500 or best offer. 539-2596 evenings. (52-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly

Must sell, $100 Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59) FOUND

FOUND ON campus—Diamond, (stone only). Contact Investigations, K.S.U. Police Department. (53-FOUND SHARP EL-506H calculator in Union. Call 537-0694 evenings. (53-55) parking lot facing Edwards. Call 532-6048 (after 7:00 p.m.) to identify (55-57) FREE

A CASIO watch found on pavement near Jardine

FREE-BLACK Lab mix and Springer Spaniel. Adult dogs. Good family pets. Call 539-2786. (54-56)

HELP WANTED

AD SALES for Kansas Folklife Festival - Temporary part-time position to contact local/area bus nesses, sell signature ads, and secure times for festival auction. Further information and application form available at KSU Conference Office, 1623 Anderson, 532-5575. Deadline November 18, 1985.

HELPING HANDS Inc .- Tune in to NBC's Today Show, Wednesday, November 13, after 8:00 a.m. segment if you're interested in our Nanny Net ork. We will be featured along with our Nannies and client families. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whip ple Rd., Wilton, Conn. 06897. (203) 834-1742. (55)

5,000 + openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report. Mission Mountain Co., 651 2nd Ave. WN, Kalispell, MT 59901 (55-63)

SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co.'s 21 parks-

14 LOST LOST-MEN'S Pulsar watch Great sentimental value. Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168. (52-57)

15 NOTICES CUSTOM BURGERS! All you can eat! with fries. You pile on the hot and cold toppings at the salad bar. Tuesday, November 12 in the K-State Union Stateroom, 4:30-6:30 p.m. (55-56) 16 PERSONAL

PHDPPRD WITH an MS in BS-Horsegrins and insecteyes after blacklabel with chicory at Desire with Henrietta. Viable alternative to security tags or staples. Obviously, Beefeater and Tonguelicker

CHOPPED LIVER-Welcome to the Over-the-Hill Gang. Happy 25th, enjoy your funtastik day. liil, (55-TO GUMBY "Damn it!" Still drinking free water with lemons. We've characterized you! When in doubt Three irresponsible classmates and E.M. (55)

AGR JOHN P-Get out your foxy green speedo and get excited for Greek Playboy. I hope your socks don't shrink. Luv. Spot. (55)

DOUG-THANK best friend! It's been the best ever Huv you! Happy A -R at 1022 (55)

MINKY-IT'S the real thing! Good growing painsstuff! Fall again! - MonChiChi. (55)

SPARKY-SUMMER absence makes the heart grow fonder! - Cuddles (55) ERL-NOVEMBER was a great month to fall. Suction cups—bar party December March—getting to know you! Cold (warm!) nights with Bert

Springtime/hardtimes ____Beans (55) KSB: I L Y CSR. (55)

LOVER OF Lace: I'll wear the lingerie for you if you'll wear only a pink tie for me. O'Bunny (55)

DUH - WHAT'S the story on the Playboy Bunnie? Ar-

STEPHANIE-IF Mike Baseball strikes out, let me try for a ground rule double. Asbestos (55)

17 ROOMMATE WANTED FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809

North 11th $145, bills paid 539-8401 (49-63) MALE-DOUBLE-wide trailer, own bedroom washer/dryer, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-8580. (52-56)

FEMALE, NON-SMOKING, to share two bedroor apartment with three others. $110 per month plus one fourth utilities. Call 539-3878. (53-57) TWO NON-SMOKING males to share with third for spring semester, across from Ahearn, $88 plus one-third utilities and cable. (Wildcat Apts.) 537-7412. (53-56) ROOMMATE WANTED to share nicely decorated apartment. $160 month, all bills paid includes electric, water, trash, cable and laundry facilities.

776-1604. (53-57) ROOMMATE WANTED to share three bedroom house Own room, washer/dryer, rent plus utilities 403 South 18th, 537-2055. (53-57)

ROOMMATE, FEMALE—Nice private bed and bath, 1122 Vattier. Reasonable. Call 539-9345. (53-55)

NEED FEMALE roommate to take over lease from January to August. One-half block from campus. own room, very nice apartments, great roomies Call Shiela, 537-2261 ext. 411 (8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.) or Pam 776-0228 (53-57)

ROOMMATE WANTED at 925 Thurston. Three blocks from campus, $135/month pius utilities. 537-9727

18 SERVICES MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (31-75) PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equip ment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166 (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (51-

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61)

WOOD SPLITTING-Call 539-9304, ask for Bruce. PROFESSIONAL TYPING-Resumes, cover letters.

dissertations, reports, 539-2411. (53-57) HEE'S ALTERATIONS-Suits, coats, jeans, zippers All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, 776-7959. (54-70)

TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (55-59)

SUBLEASE

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice. Available January 1st. month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

20

WANTED

21 SOMEONE TO haul a washer to Baxter Springs. 537

Today's Cryptoquip clue: M equals V

rossword ACROSS 44 Ireland

abbr. 7 Vast 11 Gamin 13 Mimic 14 Affirm 15 Italian bread? 16 Free 17 Role for Angela Lansbury 18 Instruct 20 Soft drink

22 Iran export 24 Biblical land 28 Intoned 32 Roman official

34 Wine cask 36 Animal's stomach 37 Ammonia 39 "My Last

33 Etna

41 Interfere 43 Type of dance

coat

56 Designer

Cassini

57 Word with can or blond

58 Sight in Sicily

59 Nocturnal

60 Luau neck-creatures

HEY, BILL, AS LONG AS

COUPLE MORE! I'M PAYIN'

YOU'RE UP, ORDER A

28 Shellfish 29 Harness 30 Greedily 31 Defective bomb 35 Zany one 38 Wallach Whitney

ation

27 Reporter's

concern

40 Male swan 42 Potential energy 45 Comfort 47 Observe 48 Italian matron 49 Asterisk 50 Sailor 51 Miss.

neighbor catcher's need? Letter before

"BTOR ZTEB

FRXEZKBHOX VYWF VYXRVDYW'V HYMLTEBR DLMER:

Yesterday's Crytoquip: ISN'T THE DUCKHUNTER'S DOCTOR QUITE A QUACK?

Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf) AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75) FOR RENT-APTS 04

3804. (46tf) NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Po meroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin. 776-9124 FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights. Available immediately, 776-9124, (51-59)

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with

Call for details

AVAILABLE JANUARY-One bedroom near campus

FOR RENT-HOUSES 05 CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor

FOR SALE-AUTO 1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850.

eanuts

TODAY IS VETERANS DAY.

I ALWAYS GET TOGETHER

WITH OL' BILL MAULDIN ON

VETERANS DAY, AND QUAFF

A FEW ROOT BEERS.

DOWN 21 New Guinea 1 Defeat at 46 Curves 1 - of the 50 Work bridge earth port 4 Biography crew 2 Barge 23 Lease 53 Breach 25 English canal 55 Spot on 3 Scarlett's 26 Exclam-Santa's home

4 Deface

in scale

7 Sandwich

9 Jeweler's sale

5 Heroic

6 French

wine

duo

8 Grape

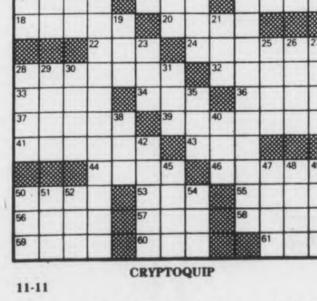

10 Before

OL' BILL AND I CAN

REALLY PUT EM AWAY

piece 12 Breakfast 61 Anvil duo 19 Strike Avg. solution time: 23 min.

52 Dog Ans. to yesterday's puzzle omega

Easy

Continued from Page 1

Hayden said.

If the customer does not make a selection, the local Southwestern Bell office will make the selection, Hayden said. Local companies won't make an attempt to match a customer's needs with the company most suitable for them, she said.

"They will be assigned in proportion to those customers who did select a carrier," Hayden said.

Although ballots are being distributed by Southwestern Bell, Holmes said customers will probably also receive literature from other long-distance carriers for promotional purposes.

Holmes said customers need to be sure they are returning the Southwestern Bell ballot to make their selection.

Customers who miss the selection date deadline and are assigned a long-distance company will have a second chance to choose their own service, Holmes said.

"If they don't like the company we've issued them then they have a six-month period to change companies," Holmes said.

Deadlines will be based on the exchange number the customer has and what area they are in, Hayden said. Customers will be notified of these deadlines by mail.

After the six-month selection period has ended, Southwestern Bell will charge any customer wanting to change long-distance companies $15.61, Holmes said, noting the additional charge is based upon the work involved changing the service.

YOU

Can Be An Air Force Officer 532-6600 KSU-AFROTC

MUSIC

Faculty Artist Series: Jerry Langenkamp, voice, and Robert Edwards, piano - All Faiths Chapel; 8 p.m. Thursday

ART EXHIBITS

Watercolor Miniatures by Gary Dierking - Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours MFA exhibit by Glenda Taylor - Union Art Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

THEATER

"The Buck Stops Here" - Nichols Theatre; 8 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday

(Monday through Thursday)

"Agnes of God" - Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "To Live and Die in L.A." - Campus; 4:45, 7 and

"Death Wish III" - Varsity; 5, 7 and 9 p.m.

"Target" - Westloop; 4:50, 7:10 and 9:15 p.m. "That was Then, This is Now" - Westloop; 5, 7 and

"The Return of the Pink Panther and The Pink Panther Strikes Again" - Little Theatre; 7 p.m. Monday

"Purple Rose of Cairo" - Little Theatre; 7:30 Wednesday and 3:30 and 7:30 Thursday

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

tion bids, opened Aug. 20, were more than $3.4 million above the $14.5 million construction estimate. The regents have since authorized the architecture firm of Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, to redesign the structure.

Tentative plans call for the elimination of 3,500 seats and nearly all of the coaches' offices from the structure. The University anticipates the total cost of the redesigned 13,500-seat coliseum to be $16.1 million.

Gossen Livingston is redesigning the coliseum, but the University must wait until February - the earliest possible time for rebidding positively...

There is a difference in styling and cutting. A lot of people have good cuts with an out-of-date style. Some people have good styles with bad cuts. Quit living in the 80s with a 60s or 70s style. Come in and let us show you what we

FOR HAIR

Candelwood Shopping Center

salon prescription hair care could do with your hair.

776-8830

- before it is known if the project will be completed, Warren Corman, director of facilities for the regents, said at the Oct. 18 regents' meeting.

If the regents terminate the $16.1 million project, which they have the authority to do at any time before signing of a construction contract, the University could elect to accept the basketball scoreboards and pay the nearly $300,000 remaining on the Daktronics contract or pay a substantial penalty for canceling the contract, said Jim Shepard, University architect.

"If (the coliseum) doesn't go, some kind of penalty will be assessed - I think justifiably so," Shepard said. The industry standard for equipment purchased and canceled calls for "the purchaser to pay a 20 percent restocking charge," he said.

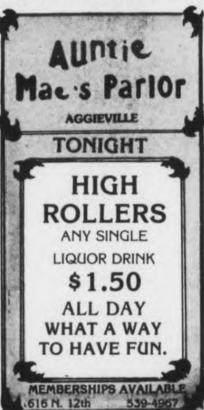

Mon.-Sat.

In addition to the restocking charge, which could be as high as $55,000, the Foundation would also be obligated to pay Daktronics for designing the coliseum scoreboards.

In a recent interview, President Duane Acker said he is concerned that rebidding of the coliseum might not yield the low bids necessary to allow the project to continue.

"All of us must keep our minds open - that (the rebidding process) is the big issue," Acker said.

Loub said that when the Foundation, which is responsible for the expenditure of $7.1 million in alumni contributions to the coliseum, entered into the contract with Daktronics there was no indication the project could be jeopardized.

Senate

Continued from Page 1

have a good reputation and they're not going to put it on the line."

Garvin is director of planning and University architect.

Gretchen Hagen, junior in history, said senate should have waited for the first bill to go through before proposing a second bill.

"We didn't actually discuss it (the second bill)," she said. "The first bill does something; the second bill doesn't say as much as the first bill." Hagen said she thinks the second bill hurt the first bill's chances of approval. "People who might have voted for the first bill now think the second bill satisfies the administration and they'll vote for it," she said.

Debbie Fields, junior in finance and student senator, said she thinks the second bill fulfills senate's goals better because the "first one doesn't do any good."

"It doesn't get anywhere," she said. "The second one has more in-

"It comes down to a question of whether you can trust the administration, and I like to think we can trust them," she said.

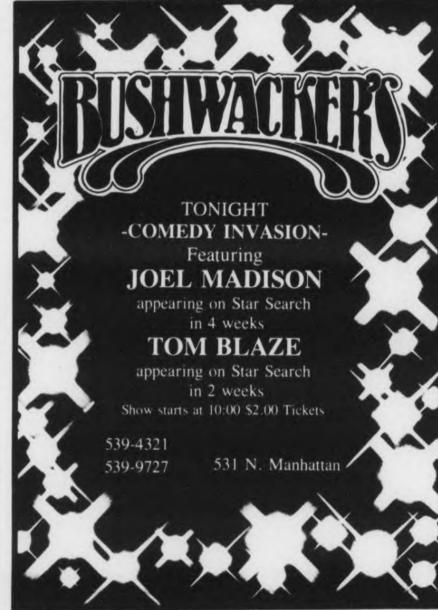

Virgil Wiebe, senior in political science and student affairs committee member, said he has mixed feelings about the two pieces of legisla-

"The eight steps done by independent firms - my feeling is that not all of them need to be taken," he said. "There's no reason to do things that have already been done if they've been done properly."

Wiebe said a big concern of senators is, "How much trust we can put in the administration."

"It's also frustrating to me that the only reason they (administration) showed up to answer questions is because senate threatened to pull money out and the bids came in so high," he said. "If that hadn't happened, they wouldn't have cared.'

Senate is scheduled to vote on the first bill and hear first reading of the second at its meeting Thursday.

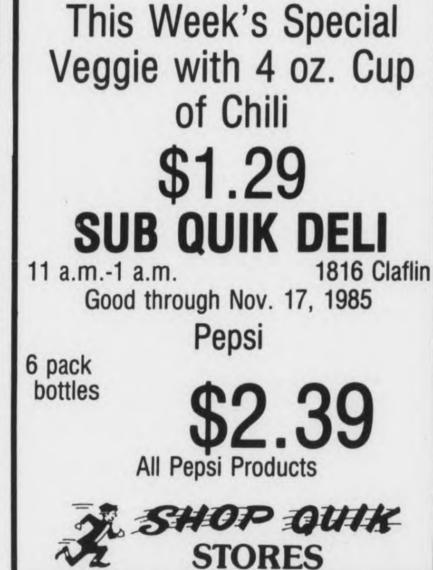

FREE

707 N. 12th

In Aggieville

Wildlife Calendar Sale

1986 Remington Wildlife Calendars Lobby Ackert Hall November 11-15, 8:30-5:30

Just $3.00

KSU Student chapter of The Wildlife Society

Kansas State Collegian

Tuesday

November 12, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan. Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 56

Campus memorials recognize veterans of military service

By MARY ROEHL Collegian Reporter

Students may be reminded of American history by the memorials around campus honoring students who lost their lives in World War I, World War II, and the Korean and Vietnam Wars.

"Memorials, whatever their nature, whatever their grandeur, can only hint at the feeling that fills the hearts of those who would give their appreciation a voice," states the program from the dedication ceremony of a war memorial on May

Memorial Stadium, built in the 1920s, was the first memorial on campus. The stadium stands as a tribute so students and graduates who gave their lives in World War I won't be forgotten.

In 1919, Kansas State Agricultural College President William Jardine appointed a committee to decide what type of war memorial to build. The committee decided to combine the memorial with the need for a football stadium.

The money for a stadium was to be raised by donations and fund drives. The city of Manhattan raised the first $40,000 of its $62,500 contribution within 24 hours.

Students pledged $77,000 toward Memorial Stadium within six hours after the football coach, Charles Bachman, delivered a speech which swayed student opinion about the war memorial.

"It is because the stadium is itself a manifestation — an outward and visible sign of loyalty in its most superb form...Our soldiers have given the highest proof of loyalty that a man can give; and in dedicating this memorial to them, we are but faintly echoing their noblest deeds.

"They made a great sacrifice for you and for me and we are now privileged to show our gratitude by erecting to their memory this monument of loyalty," Bachman

During the summer of 1985, students painted an 8-foot by 17-foot mural with a war theme in the breezeway of West Stadium. It contains the names of K-State students who were killed in World War I Another World War I memorial stands in the hallway of the Military Science Building.

"1917 — Lest We Forget — 1918" was originally intended to be part of Memorial Stadium but was placed in Anderson Hall. This summer it was moved to the Military Science Building.

The memorial was dedicated on May 28, 1929, with President F.D. Farrell presiding. The dedication program states, "The complete experience of giving one's life for one's country can only be imagined. The living can only guess at the significance of the supreme sacrifice. But they can acknowledge whatever memorials they conceive as wholly inadequate and their debt much greater than can be told."

Danforth and All Faiths chapels are a memorial to K-Staters who fought and died in World War II and the Korean War.

Through Danforth, recognition is given to the approximately 200 alumni and students who died in World War II. In 1950, before construction on the chapel auditorium could be completed, all civilian building halted due to the Korean War.

On April 15, 1956, the chapel was dedicated.

"No country on earth would want war if the decision were left to the people," said Preston Bradley,

See MEMORIALS, Page 10

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

A Veterans Day

Saluting fellow veterans, Delbert Erickson, World War II and Korean War veteran, and Don Geren, veteran of the Korean War, both Manhattan residents, watch proudly as the K-State Air Force ROTC flag detail raises the American flag Monday morning in a ceremony at the local VFW Post 1786. Flags represented at the ceremony included the American Legion, VFW and 40 and 8 (an honor society of the American Legion). A breakfast was served following the ceremony. according to Neil Dalley, VFW Post manager. Four campus memorials honor veterans. Memorial Stadium, and a memorial in the Military Science Building, are dedicated to the students and graduates who died in World War I; a plaque in Danforth and All Faiths chapels is a memorial to K-Staters who died in World War II and the Korean War; and a plaque on the first floor of the Union honors students who ed in Vietnam

Sanctions affect foreign employees

South Africa may expel workers

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government, declaring that "charity begins at home," said Monday it may have to send home thousands of foreign black workers if sanctions force more South Africans out of work.

Minister of Manpower Pietie du Plessis denied a report in an influential financial newspaper that the government already had approved the expulsion of some of the 1.5 million black foreign workers, many of whom work in the gold and diamond mines that supply much of South Africa's hard currency.

But du Plessis said "contingency plans" were being drafted to send home foreign blacks if necessary in the future. "This action has been forced on the South African government by those who favor sanctions and disinvestment without having regard for the detrimental effect on innocent people," he said.

"Since charity begins at home, the government has no option but to give preference to the needs of its own citizens as regards job opportunities," du Plessis said in a statement issued in Pretoria, the capital.

Business Day, which closely reflects the thinking of business leaders, reported that the expulsions had been endorsed by senior Cabinet and military officials. An accompanying front-page editorial said the "mad and provocative act" would ensure tougher foreign steps against South Africa.

Support for sanctions, even if they mean increased hardship, are viewed by many as a peaceful way of pressuring the white-led government to move away from apartheid and to share power with the black majority.

The government hinted two months ago at the possibility of expelling foreign workers if sanctions and divestment damage the economy and drive up unemployment. President P.W. Botha has said sanctions would hurt blacks within South Africa and in neighboring countries more than whites.

The tiny kingdom of Lesotho, for example, derives at least 50 percent of its gross national product from 139,000 of its workers who are employed in South African mines.

Zambia has endorsed sanctions, while other countries such as Zimbabwe and Mozambique agree in principle but say their economies could not stand

See AFRICA, Page 10

Nixon's Watergate papers buried in federal red tape

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Thirteen years have passed since Congress passed a law seizing Richard Nixon's presidential papers and tape recordings. Despite orders that documents dealing with Watergate be released "at the earliest reasonable date," not a single one has been made public.

Nor has anyone been able to listen to the 4,000 hours of tapes. Only 12½ hours of the recordings are public — because they were used in the criminal trials of Nixon's subordinates.

The latest attempt by the National Archives and Records Administration to provide for public access to the 40 million pages of Nixon materials is stalled in the bureaucracy, although the Reagan administration denies there is any political reason.

The archives sent a final draft of proposed regulations to the White House's Office of Management and Budget for routine approval on July 11.

Nothing has been heard about the regulations since then. No regulations, no public access.

The proposed regulations represent the sixth attempt to let the public see the Nixon documents. The first three sets of regulations were rejected by Congress, the fourth was submitted and withdrawn for legal reasons. The fifth set was ruled unconstitutional by a federal court.

One problem may be that many people who worked for Nixon are, or have been, associated with the Reagan administration.

"They are extremely concerned about access to the public record of their activities — even though the stuff we are trying to open is like the stuff opened up for years in other presidential libraries," said one government official, who would speak only if promised anonymity."

Fred Fielding, the White House counsel

See NIXON, Page 10

Citizens protest nuclear war radio network

By CONRAD EASTERDAY Staff Writer

In 1984, the first phase of the Ground Wave Emergency Network (GWEN) was completed without fuss. The system was erected quietly at nine sites in the Midwest. Two appeared in Kansas — one in Manhattan at KKSU and another in Colby at KXXX.

But, plans for a "thin-line" second phase that would establish a workable network until the final phase is constructed have run into opposition from citizens in areas where sites have been proposed.

The Air Force described the initial network under its command as "the forerunner of a survivable (radio) communications system for passing emergency and wartime messages throughout the country."

By 1987, GWEN was to comprise a network of more than 240 input/output, relay and receive-only stations, so that if several "nodes" were destroyed enough would survive to pass messages.

In January, however, preparations for following the forerunner system with a 57-station, thin-line network before January, 1986, stirred protest about GWEN's "survivable" and "wartime" aspects.

Now the schedule for adding the thin-line network to the first phase has been stretched to the summer of 1986, when the Air Force also plans to remove the KKSU and KXXX sites from the system. The two were included originally to test sharing GWEN transmitters with existing commercial stations.

The Air Force's arguments for its system are that GWEN provides a reliable means of communication between the National Command Authority (the president and the secretary of defense) and the NCA's strategic forces commanders.

The system's opponents, organized across the United States in "No-GWEN Alliances," see GWEN differently.
"The Ground Ways Emergency Network is

"The Ground Wave Emergency Network is designed for use during a protracted nuclear war," said Nancy Foster of the No-GWEN Alliance in Amherst, Mass., where a relay tower is proposed.

"This new strategy (of nuclear war) assumes you have to have systems like GWEN to fight a protracted war...to meet every kind of attack. (But) to try to match every conceivable kind of attack is preposterous."

The kinds of attack the Air Force hopes GWEN will match are those involving nuclear explosions above or high in the atmosphere. The explosions would create an electromagnetic pulse (EMP) rendering most communications useless, said Clay Wait, GWEN program director for R&D Associates, the designer of the system's initial phase.

Special shielding protects GWEN components. Its signal, an AM radio wave below normal frequencies, hugs the ground and is so large that atmospheric disturbances caused by EMP will not affect its clarity, Wait said.

GWEN was first conceived by R&D in 1978, Wait said. The system gained final authorization from the Air Force in 1982. For the thin line and the final phase of GWEN, the Air Force has awarded a $122 million contract to the RCA Corp.

The system's ability to operate in a "nuclear environment" is part of a shift in nuclear strategy from accepting both sides' "mutual assured destruction," to planning for a survivable nuclear war, said Lois

Barber of the GWEN Project.

The GWEN Project, also located in Amherst, makes current information on opposition to the network available to the various No-GWEN Alliances.

No-GWEN Alliances have been started in several communities where GWEN relay nodes for the thin-line network have been built or proposed by the Air Force, Barber said.

Alliances are present in six states. Three New England states have the most organizations, with seven. One each exists in Nebraska, Wisconsin and Oregon.

Opposition to GWEN is not universal, according to Franklin Miller, director of strategic forces policy for the Department of Defense. Public hearings called by local governments at proposed sites cause the

See GWEN, Page 8

Inside

The game "Killer," better known as "Assassin," is being played by several K-State students. See Page 6.

Weather

Today, cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain. Highs mid- to upper 40s before turning colder late

Sports

The K-State women's basketball team played its first scrimmage of the season Monday night at Manhattan High School. See Page 8.

INTERNATIONAL

Panda gives birth to seven cubs

PEKING - A giant panda, who twice was artifically inseminated, has produced a record seven cubs and nurtured five that survived, the official Xinhua news agency said Monday.

The 13-year-old panda, Meimei, was named a "model mother" after giving birth five times since 1980. Three of the births were the result of natural mating and two followed artificial insemination, the news agency said.

Meimei had two sets of twins, but only one cub from each set

The panda now is tending her youngest, a 49-day-old cub named Chengcheng, at the zoo in Chengdu in the central province of Sichuan, Xinhua said

Xinhua said her breeding rate was the highest of any panda. China has an estimated 1,000 wild giant pandas, and 55 are known to have starved to death since their staple food, the arrow bamboo, began dying two years ago because of a rare flowering cycle.

Officials prosecuted for Falklands

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina - A military prosecutor on Monday accused former armed forces chiefs of negligence in Argentina's humiliating defeat by Britain in the Falklands War and asked that they be given prison terms of up to 12 years.

Sixteen army, navy and air force officers are on trial for their part in the war that began April 2, 1982, when Argentina invaded the Falklands, a British colony, and ended 74 days later when British troops recaptured the islands off Argentina's southern coast.

Air Force Gen. Hector Canale, prosecutor for the Armed Forces Supreme Council, recommended 12-year prison terms for expresident and former army commander Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri and former navy chief, Adm. Jorge Anaya. He called for an eight-year sentence for the former air force chief, Gen. Basilio Lami Dozo.

They were the three members of the ruling junta of the military government in power at that time.

Defense Minister Roque Carranza said "It is necessary to establish all responsibility for military conduct" in the war.

REGIONAL

Kansas education shows progress

WASHINGTON - Kansas has followed the trend of the rest of the nation in addressing problems in the teaching profession, with salary increases outpacing inflation and more talented students entering teacher training programs, a new study indicates.

According to a Carnegie Foundation report, which found the nation making "slow but steady progress" in improving the condition of teaching, the improvements came at a time when enrollments in elementary and secondary schools in Kansas are experiencing only slight growth.

The number of public school students was 405,822 in 1984-85, up three-tenths of a percent from the previous year. Secondary school enrollments are dropping in the state, but elementary enrollments are on the rise.

Fire damages Junction City theater

JUNCTION CITY - An early morning fire Monday caused extensive damage to the lobby area of the unoccupied Junction City community building, home of a local theater group, authorities said. Junction City Fire Chief Bill Ritter said the state fire marshal's office will investigate the fire, which was reported around 7 a.m. and brought under control within 15 minutes.

There were no injuries but the fire caused heavy damage to the lobby, ticket area and a large number of theatrical costumes, which were stored in the lobby and waiting for inspection after being returned as Halloween rentals. Smoke damaged the auditorium area,

The one-story building is used by the Junction City Little Theater Group, which does not have any scheduled productions in the building until January, said theater president Chuck Otte.

KU dedicates Vietnam memorial

LAWRENCE - A site on the west side of the University of Kansas campus was dedicated Monday for a memorial to about 60 former KU students either killed or listed as missing in action in Vietnam. The site was dedicated during a brief Veterans Day ceremony

Tom Berger, the chairman of the committee to build the memorial attended by about 50 people.

1111 Moro

Aggleville

and the research assistant to the executive vice chancellor, unveiled the design for the memorial - an L-shaped wall designed by Doren

John Musgrave of Baldwin City, a former Vietnam veteran and committee member, urged those at the ceremony to remember the 12 names of soldiers missing in action. "This memorial stands to honor those former KU students who paid the ultimate price in the name of service to our country. It is also to stand as a reminder and call to action for fellow countrymen to the plight of American prisoners of war who are serving in our name in the communist prisons of Southeast Asia," he said.

NATIONAL

Probe into 'defection' completed

WASHINGTON - The Immigration and Naturalization Service has completed an internal probe into its handling of would-be Soviet defector Miroslav Medvid, and that report is being reviewed by the Justice Department, an administration official said Monday.

The official, declining to be identified publicly, said the INS report was being studied by high-ranking officials at the department, including aides to Attorney General Edwin Meese and Deputy Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen.

The Washington Times quoted an unidentified senior administration official as saying: "It is in order that the investigation of this incident should lead to severe disciplinary action and a clear record of punishment."

Astronomers eye Halley's comet

PASADENA, Calif. - Two California astronomers were the first to see Halley's comet on its current visit without the aid of telescopes or binoculars, an astronomical reporting agency said Monday.

Astronomers Steve Edberg and Charles Morris said they saw the comet without the aid of binoculars or telescopes early Friday from the 7,000-foot level in the San Gabriel Mountains near Mount Waterman, about 30 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

No other reports of naked-eye sightings have been received. The comet, which returns to Earth's vicinity roughly every 76 years on its elliptical orbit around the sun, looked like a "patch of light approximately the diameter but not the brightness of the full moon," Edberg said Monday from his office at Jet Propulsion

Town sets school board lottery

SMITHTON, Ill. - Officials have set a lottery for today to decide who wins a spot on the school board.

The two finalists? Write-in candidates who got a grand total of two votes apiece last week.

The school district for Smithton, a village of 1,400 people southeast of St. Louis, had only three candidates for four board seats in last today's election. The fourth seat will be filled by either Douglas Sibert or Joel Boeving, the two top write-in candidates, a board spokesperson said.

The board will fill the vacancy by putting slips of paper with both names in a container and drawing one out - the procedure used to resolve ties in elections, the spokesperson said.

PEOPLE

Couple winds down royal visit

WASHINGTON - After smiling regally through three glittering days in Washington, D.C., Britain's royal couple wound down their stay on a sobering note Monday. Prince Charles placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and Princess Diana took part with Nancy Reagan in a moving rap session at a drug treatment center for children.

Dressed in his ceremonial Royal Navy uniform, with the rank of commander, the Prince of Wales saluted the tomb as the band played the British anthem, "God Save the Queen." He held the salute for the National Anthem that followed.

In the evening Charles and Diana were to be at a farewell reception at the National Gallery of Art. They leave today for a oneday stay in Palm Beach, Fla., and yet another gala dinner.

Diana and Nancy Reagan, who share an interest in drug abuse problems, sat in on a therapeutic session at the Straight Drug Rehabilitation Center in suburban Springfield, Va.

Meanwhile, Charles went to the Library of Congress and took part in a discussion of the Constitution with top legal scholars and jurists, including Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Celebrities discuss children's 'gifts'

NEW YORK - Dr. Benjamin Spock says nuclear disarmament is the gift he would most like to give his children and grandchildren. Actress Joan Collins says it would be good health.

And writer Danielle Steel would like her children always to believe "in the magic of Christmas and Santa Claus."

Their wishes were published in the December McCall's magazine in which celebrities told what they could give their children that might last a lifetime.

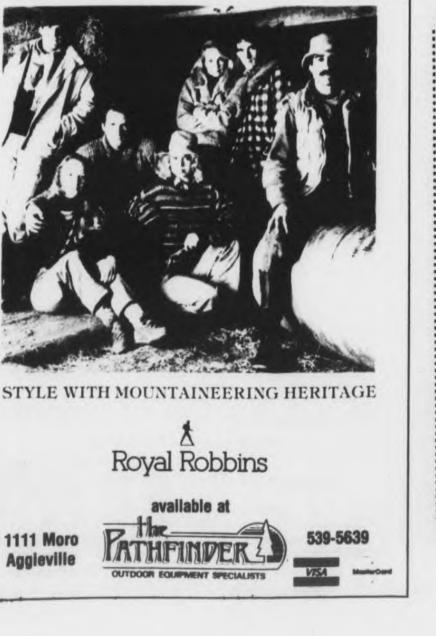

Loretta Lynn said that she would give her five children "the ability to understand the other person."

And actress Liv Ullmann said, "I would like my daughter to remember...how much more fun it was to give than to receive."

Carney stars as Boys Town priest

OMAHA, Neb. - Art Carney, famous for his role as the zany sewer worker on television's "The Honeymooners," says he decided to play a priest in a television movie about the Boys Town orphanage because it is an uplifting story.

Carney, 67, will star as Father O'Halleran in "Miracle of the Heart: A Boys Town Story," which is being filmed in Omaha.

Campus Bulletin

PHYSICS CLUB will sponsor a teleconference, "From Trinity to Star Wars," at 7 p.m. in Durland 173.

PHI ALPHA THETA will meet at 3:30 p.m. in

PROFESSIONALS IN HUMAN MOVEMENT will meet for yearbook pictures at 6:30 p.m. in Union 209.

GERMAN TABLE will meet at 12:30 p.m. in

FREE HEARING TESTS for students will be offered from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Leasure 107.

PRE-NURSING will meet to car pool to the Riley County Health Center at 6:45 p.m. in Ackert lobby.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS will meet for yearbook pictures at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ARTS AND SCIENCES AMBASSADORS will meet at 9 p.m. in the basement of Dark Horse.

DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB will meet at 7:30 p.m.

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION will meet at AG COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW will

SPURS will meet at 9 p.m. at Vista.

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION WILL

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in

DEPARTMENT OF AEROSPACE STUDIES

AG ECON CLUB will meet for yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight room. JMC FALL FIELD TRIP will leave from the

BUSINESS COUNCIL PUBLICATIONS will

AG AMBASSADORS will meet at 6 p.m. in outh doors of the Union at 10:45 a.m.

BLACK STUDENT UNION will meet at 8 p.m.

SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING ENGINEERS will meet for the plant trip at 6:30 p.m. in the north Durland parking lot.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP will meet at 9 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi hou

RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT CLUB will meet at 5 p.m. in the back room of Kite's.

Lack of grain exports causes storage problem

By GISELE McMINIMY Collegian Reporter

The nation is facing a shortage of grain storage facilities because of decreased grain exports, said Harvey Kiser, associate professor of agricultural economics.

"When you have seen the dramatic drop in exports that we have seen, compared to stable or increasing production, our storage capacity has not been able to match storage demands," Kiser said.

The United States Department of Agriculture estimates a nationwide storage capacity of almost 20 billion bushels of on-farm and off-farm storage facilities, Kiser said.

In October, an agency of the USDA calculated the amount of grain already in storage before the fall crop harvest. They added the estimated amount of grain from the fall harvest and determined 86 percent of the nation's storage capacity will be used, Kiser said.

Considering about 10 percent of storage capacity is needed for handling and moving, a minimum of only 4 percent of storage capacity may be available for use after harvest, Kiser said.

In Kansas about 84 percent of the storage capacity will be in use after the fall harvest, he said.

"If you had all the grain and all the storage equally distributed, you might possibly get it all in - but that isn't the case," Kiser said. "Sometimes you have storage where it's not needed and other places you have more grain than you do storage."

Distribution problems are leading to situations in Kansas where grain sorghum is being stored on the ground because there isn't enough room in certain areas of the state.

Because farmers can't get a warehouse receipt for grain stored on the ground, problems are created for those farmers who need loans, Kiser said.

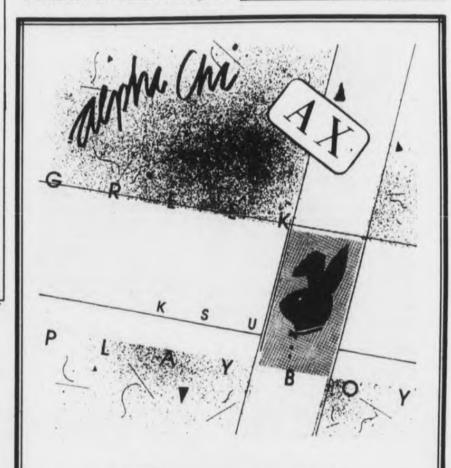

"If a corn farmer wants to get a loan and there's no local storage capacity, he can't get a warehouse receipt and so he can't get a loan," Kiser said. "That means probably the only way he can handle it is to sell it at market price which is below the government price support loan."

The fall grain crop is going into storage under a nine-month loan, Kiser said. If there is not a good market to entice farmers to sell their grain, enough grain may remain in storage to cause a storage problem during the wheat harvest next year, he said.

"The only way I can see the storage situation loosening up a little bit would be if, for some odd reason, exports would increase," Kiser said.

Correction

Because of editing error in Monday's story, "Veterans Day honors effort of deceased, living soldiers," Robert Linder was stated as serving in World War I, but he was actually in the service following World War II. Also David Dilts served in Europe, not in Vietnam and a statement by Stan Fye was attributed to James Townsend.

BUD LIGHT

Vote for your candidate in the Union today & tomorrow 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Acacia-Tim Duxon Alpha Gamma Rho-John Smith Alpha Kappa Lamba—Gary Bamford Delta Sigma Phi-Kent Ely Delta Tau Delta-Chris Fellers Delta Upsilon-Doug Grossenbacher FarmHouse-Tom Stinson Kappa Sigma-Chris Hamann Lambda Chi Alpha-Tim Henson Phi Delta Theta-Tom Partridge

Phi Gamma Delta-Rick Wietharn Phi Kappa Tau-John Olson Phi Kappa Theta-Bill Blasing Pi Kappa Alpha-Kurt Kolbeck Pi Kappa Phi-Bob Nunes Sigma Chi-Kevin Mott Sigma Nu-Dan Allen Sigma Phi Epsilon-Brian Walton Tau Kappa Epsilon-Jeff Morris Triangle-Steve Kohler

Silver coins count as positive votes and pennies and bills count as negative. All proceeds to benefit cystic fibrosis

Staff briefs Reagan

Gorbachev.

thinking.

foreign trade.

But aides say Reagan's own convictions and the almost daily talks they have had with him on other pre-summit events seem to have had the most effect on his

"He has read books for quite a while now," said one White House official involved in helping the president get ready for the summit.

"We've given him books and articles on the Soviet economy, trade, historical, the role of the Soviet military, the KGB, domestic issues,

But that official and others, all of whom agreed to discuss Reagan's pre-summit work on condition they not be identified, said the president's general views about the Soviet Union have been formed over a quarter century and aren't likely to be changed during the period they call

The White House obtained a copy of a Russian movie called "Moscow Without Tears" for the president to Aides said Reagan also has been shown videotapes of Gorbachev's public appearances, particularly those he has made in Britain and France, and has seen videotapes "on the Soviet people and personalities."

"the run up to the summit."

Curtis Britt Saturday at a local department store as Samantha Swirynsky children from birth to adulthood.

Melanie Jones, member of The St. Mary Hospital auxiliary unit, fingerprints looks on. The fingerprinting was a part of Ident-A-Kid, a saftey program for

Ident-A-Kid increases public awareness

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

The national concern of child abduction has prompted a child identification program in the Manhattan area

In an effort to educate parents about the issue which annually affects some 1.8 million children, the auxiliary unit of The Saint Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., has initiated Ident-A-Kid, a safety program for children from birth to adulthood.

This is one way for a community to start its own grassroots program to alert parents of the danger of child abduction, said Donna Sears, an auxiliary member working with the program.

Once a month, the auxiliary's volunteers go to a business in

By The Associated Press

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. -

Investigators inventoried wreckage strewn over 20 blocks Monday and impounded air traffic control recordings to determine why two planes collided and crashed into two

New York City suburbs, killing at

A sixth person was missing and believed to have been in his apartment when a burning corporate jet slammed into two buildings here Sunday evening, igniting a fire that also engulfed three other buildings.

Fourteen people were in the two buildings and "13 had time to escape," said state police Capt.

Three bodies were found in the debris of a light propeller plane which struck the front porch of a two-story apartment building about five blocks away in Fairview. No bodies were recovered from the jet, which least five people.

Joseph Craparotta.

Plane collision kills 5,

ignites fire in buildings

Manhattan or surrounding area to black," she said. fingerprint children and distribute safety packets to parents.

The safety packet contains information on preventing child abduction, abuse and general safety

Each child's identification card contains two sets of fingerprints, a body profile of scars and birthmarks, a chart of the child's height and weight, with space for updating, and a space for the child's photograph.

For fingerprinting, the auxiliary uses an "inkless ink" that has a chemical reaction with the card, Sears said.

"It's fun for the kids because they're expecting to get all messy, but then we show them they can look at their finger and they won't see anything, yet the minute they put them down on the card, it turns

National Transportation Safety

Tape-recordings of conversations between the pilots and the tower at Teterboro Airport about five miles

The jet was equipped with a flight recorder but it had not been away were impounded.

Board spokesman Ira J. Furman.

make the experience positive by telling the children the fingerprints are another form of identification, like a drivers license, she said. The volunteers try to make it a happy experience for the children, she said. If a child is afraid, the

The body profile, Sears said, is good because there are many

"I've got a 5 year old who really has the stiches," she said, "so on his card every place he has the stiches I

The program is for the child's well-

"A lot of kids are apprehensive being, and that's where the hospital

(about being fingerprinted) because we (say) 'don't talk to strangers,' and then their mother brings them up and says 'Here is a stranger who's going to do something to you," Sears

To reduce a child's fear, the auxiliary volunteers attempt to children with the same eye and hair color combination.

have them marked.'

comes in, Sears said.

parent can hold the child while a volunteer guides the child's fingers. "We could wind up having paranoid children who are too scared to go out the door," Sears said. Since the local auxiliary began the program 21/2 years ago, they have fingerprinted approximately 5,000 children - about 700 this year alone.

Sears said participation has increased this year.

Before this year, she said, the auxiliary would have done about 200 children in a single four-hour

At the auxiliary's final session this have ranged from 10 days old to high school age.

Sears said when babies are involved, the volunteers often use footprints because their hands are

The auxiliary operates from February to May and from September through November because a child's fingers are too warm to fingerprint during the

Some parents don't have their children fingerprinted because they are frightened by the prospect of their child being abducted, Sears

"Parents don't want to say 'Hey,

"You've been hearing so much about it on TV all the time," said Debbie Lundgrun, who took her children Matthew and Christina to be

"It just seemed like a good idea," Lundgren said.

"I'm kind of leary of it (child abduction)," said Shari Owen, mother of eight-month-old twins Laura Beth and Melissa Sue. "That way they (the authorities) have some way to identify them."

TAVERN

Tuesday

Pitchers

year, Saturday at the Manhattan Wal-Mart, 628 Tuttle Creek Blvd., the volunteers fingerprinted 66 children. Ages of children fingerprinted hot and sweaty summer, she said.

said.

this could happen to me," she said.

fingerprinted and registered.

Ski Coats (Down-thinsulate-poly)

· Leather ski gloves

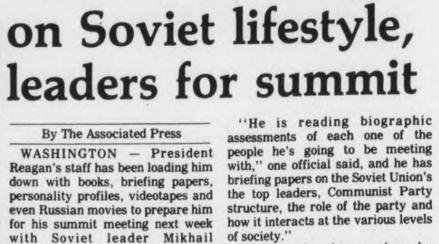

· Wigwam ski socks, ski hats, and headbands

Polypropylene gloves and sock-liners

539-2441

$2.00 1110 Laramie Sign up for our free trip to Hawaii given away Halloween Night! 619 N. Manhattan COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA of society." Reagan also has spoken by telephone with former President Richard M. Nixon, who sent him a 20-page memo on East-West issues and his own experiences and the Reagan has revealed little in his public remarks about what he has learned in his preparations.

In one interview, he remarked that he had "been told that in the Russian language there isn't even a word for freedom." Spokesman Larry Speakes said later Reagan had been made aware the word for freedom in Russian is "svoboda."

And on policy issues, such as his own program to design a space shield to protect the world against nuclear weapons, Reagan has made contradictory statements about the circumstances under which he would deploy such a system, which remains

But Reagan's advisers profess to be unconcerned about his apparent inattention to detail on some of the issues to be discussed at the summit.

"My goodness, they're not negotiating a treaty," said another White House aide. "It isn't a court of law. I think the bigger issue is whether they're able to communicate as two human beings. That will be the measure of success.'

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS

announces TONIGHT ROYAL PURPLE PICTURES CALVIN 102 6:00 p.m. General Meeting

Ackert 221 6:30 p.m. McDonnell Douglas Speaker Ackert 221 - 7:00 p.m.

HESE

You've survived months of labor pains And, you've produced a beautiful, healthy thesis. Now, breathe easy and let kinko's reproduce your brain-child with speed, efficiency and plenty of TLC.

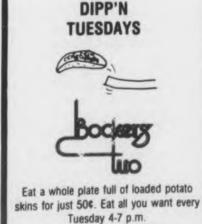

50% Cotton Copies at 7¢ Free collation with this ad

537-7340

Copies · Reductions · Enlargements Passport Photos · Binding · And much more!

Ramada Inn

SKINNY

Kansas State

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Parking-fee decision wise

issue citations for parking without a permit in the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex parking lot until further notice was a wise one.

The newly expanded parking lot was not completed at the beginning of the school year and confusion about the parking situation at the rec complex has reigned since the lot opened in early October.

The initial decision to charge students a parking fee - after more than a month of the semester had passed - was not prudent.

Many students who knew about the new restrictions, justifiably expressed dismay that a student parking permit would be required to park in the new lot.

Students who live within walking or bike-riding distance of campus, but do not live close to the rec complex, previously had no reason to purchase parking permits. In October, they learned they would have to spend $22 for a yearly student permit or $11 for a one-semester permit to park at the rec complex use the facilities.

Spending $22 to park on campus five days a week for an entire

The University's decision to not semester is one thing. Spending $22 to park at the rec complex once or twice a week for the year is quite another. Charging students that kind of money to use a facility students paid for is simply not fair.

It is hoped the decision not to give citations at the rec complex will hold firm, at least until the end of the semester. However, a definite decision should be made in time for the start of the spring semester.

Charging a per-semester or per-year fee, taking effect either at the beginning of the spring semester or the 1986 fall semester, to park in the rec complex parking lot seems to be a reasonable proposal.

Students with parking permits paid for the rec complex parking lot. Students who didn't or won't help pay for the lot don't deserve the right to park in it.

A solution would be to offer a lower-cost, rec complex-only parking permit. This way, people who want to use only the rec center lot can pay for using that lot, but not pay a full, unwarranted parking fee.

> Tom Perrin, for the editorial board

Pentagon should try walkie-talkie system

When I was a child, my parents bought me a set of walkie-talkies. I had great fun with the contraptions — I could talk into one and a friend down the block would talk back.

My prize toy came in particularly handy when I was playing "war." My friends and I could send messages to each other and almost always win.

Well, with Christmas nearing, I think it would be nice if Congress would send the Pentagon a good set of walkie-talkies.

No joke. Someone at the Pentagon forgot that the various branches of the armed services should work together in times of crisis just like my friend, Clark, and I used to do when playing war with my walkie-talkies.

In their never-ending buying binge, the various branches of the armed forces bought a lot of neat toys with which to communicate. Unfortunately, the various branches often can not communicate with one another because their equipment is not compatible.

For example, when the U.S. Navy intercepted the Eygptian plane carrying the hijackers of the cruiseship, the Achille Lauro, the final order to do so came from President Reagan.

Simple enough. The problem was that the president was forced to give the final order to Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger over an open radio-telephone link simply because the signal-scrambling units at the Pentagon and aboard Air Force One are not compatible. This makes me feel real secure. Who is the president supposed to call if there is any type of military crisis — probably Nancy will get a call to tell her Ron might be late for dinner.

The thought of military secrets being broadcast over open radio frequencies is a little unnerving and must be causing a sharp increase in the number of ham radio operators named Vladamir in the United States.

My personal favorite Pentagon communications snafu deals with the U.S.

COMRADE, QUICK,, I NEED SOME HELP...

TIM FITZGERALD Collegian Columnist

invasion of Grenada. Senator Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a usual supporter of the Pentagon, said on the Senate floor that the interservice communication during the invasion was Nunn told a story of an Army officer who, after failing to reach a Navy commander due to incompatible communications equipment, used his AT&T calling card to phone his office in North Carolina which then passed the word on to the Navy to begin a bombardment.

Reach out and bomb someone.

AT&T commercial: "When the Army needed to kill some Cubans in Grenada they didn't use any of that fancy billiondollar equipment to call the Navy; they used their AT&T calling card. That's right - with AT&T you can kill someone anytime, anywhere.'

The problems the Pentagon is having with its effectiveness is not limited to its ignorance of the childhood walkie-talkie

When President Carter ordered the military to rescue the hostages in Iran, the Joint Chiefs said all four of the services should be included because, as a retired general said, "an operation in which Marine pilots flew Navy helicopters and carried Army troops supported by the Air Force had a nice ring to it.'

Rhyme without reason - the mission failed horribly.

It has finally become obvious to Congress that something is terribly wrong at the Pentagon. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who is chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and Nunn have both supported the military in the past, but are now attacking the buying logic of both the Pentagon and Congress.

Goldwater has said Congress should stop asking "how much," and start asking "what for, why and how well."

But as Nunn points out, "how much" is also important.

Nunn told Senate that the five newest weapons programs Congress has recently passed will eventually cost approximately $180 billion to $200 billion, but this year the payment is only $1.3 billion.

"This is like making a down payment of less than 1 percent on a house for which you know you can't afford making the monthly payments," Nunn said.

If members of Congress managed their personal finances like they manage this nation's, they wouldn't be eating at the Capitol building cafeteria. They would be standing in a soup line.

Never fear, though, Weinberger has said it is necessary to push forward with these projects because we no longer have military superiority over the Soviet Union and we must strive to counter the Soviet threat.

But according to the Oct. 21 issue of Time, many military experts are asking that if Weinberger is correct, shouldn't we be beefing up our conventional ground forces and not maintaining a 600-ship Navy to deter a rival that is virtually landlocked?

War was so simple when my buddy, Clark, and I played with our walkie-talkies. And to think that this Christmas the little Weinbergers are about to get their first set of walkie-talkies and Caspar doesn't care if they're not on the same frequency.

Good luck winning your war games. Your daddy has you as well prepared for war as those uniformed guys he works with in that funny-shaped building called the Pentagon.

WHAT? YOU FEELSICK

AND WANT SOME KELP?

NO. NO ... I WISH TO DEFECT ... A FISH TO DISSECT... DON'T WORRY..!'M NOT TAPING THESE DISCUSSIONS, NO.. LOOK .. I'M ESCAPING FROM THE RUSSIANS!!!

Plea bargain lacks justice

John Walker Jr., the Navy man accused of spying, had his son's sentence reduced by pleading guilty. The father faces "life" in prison; he will be eligible for parole in 10 years. The son faces "25 years"; parole in eight.

This gross travesty of justice serves only to undermine the system, and not to provide fair treatment either to the Walkers or the public. The idea of plea bargaining has been perverted over the years, from a way albeit a questionable one - of both reducing the work load of the courts and bringing justice to the guilty to a way of avoiding a stiff penalty for those with a lawyer able to negotiate an escape hatch.

Plea bargaining in and of itself is not bad. The idea behind it is to avoid costly court time, to cement otherwise weak cases and to ensure that the system is not clogged with tiny, technical legal battles. It is estimated that only 10 percent of cases go to trial, and the system is bogged down even with that small percentage.

But when plea bargaining results in lenient sentences espionage is a capital offense - the justice system is mocked.

The question of crime and punishment is an ethical and social one. Whether or not treason warrants the death penalty or even whether the death penalty is a "right" thing to do in any situation is not the question. Rather, is there sufficient reason in a case to permit the use of plea bargaining, and if so, when?

In most criminal cases, plea bargaining seems the reasonable alternative to a protracted court case. But when serious or violent crimes are committed, what call is there to allow the criminal to plead guilty in exchange for a slap on the wrist? Rapists, murderers, repeat offenders and other "dangerous" criminals should certainly have no plea bargaining rights. Traitors should deserve equally harsh treatment. Some murderers spend less time in jail than tax evaders. And now a family of spies will spend a few years in prison. The nation they sold up the river will spend as much or more time trying to repair the damage. Where's the justice in that?

we'll pass laws! Set up programs!

AWARD GRANTS! WE'LL HOLD HEARINGS

CREATE AGENCIES! OPEN OFFICES!

Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Letters

Stoplight necessary at intersection

"An accident waiting to happen" is the name given by some to the intersection of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue. This intersection has no traffic control, and due to the large number of vehicles and pedestrians which cross it daily, it is in dire

Every day, pedestrians, mostly K-State students going to and from campus, are placed in stiff competition with crossing vehicles. Since the intersection lacks any type of marking to alert drivers along Denison, the danger increases. As one looks at the similar accesses surrounding campus, one can see they all have at least a crosswalk and most have a stoplight.

The crossing of Denison along College Heights, compared to other main accesses to campus, carries a similar amount of pedestrians. It has been estimated this intersection is crossed 3,000 to 4,000 times a day by pedestrians and nearly 11,000 times a day by vehicles.

So why isn't there traffic control at Denison and College Heights? Because both streets involved are public streets, it is the city of Manhattan that must act on the issue. Thus far, it hasn't. The second reason is the overall ignorance of K-State officials toward the problem. Since the majority of the pedestrians using the intersection are K-State students, it is the University that must show sufficient concern to the city in order for legislative action to be taken.

BORDER SERVICE

There are two solutions which could revise this dangerous problem. The first is a shortterm solution, which would not be very expensive, but would also not be very effective. This solution includes putting in a crosswalk at this intersection and reducing the speed limit along Denison to 20 mph. This would slow the traffic along Denison and possibly alleviate accidents, but would not destroy the problem altogether.

The second solution is long term and would involve more money, but would also be very effective - a stoplight along with the crosswalk at this intersection. This would create a sufficient barrier for vehicles.

Fortunately, we have not had a major accident involving a pedestrian at this intersection. However, the longer we wait, the more the odds will turn toward an accident occurring. I challenge the students to put pressure on the administration of K-State to urge the city to act now before someone is seriously injured or killed. The cost of a stoplight is minimal compared to the cost of a life.

Brad Dirks sophomore in business administration

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300

Doctor to speak

In the Oct. 9 issue of "The Christian Century," a U.S. citizen working on a construction project in northern Nicaragua tells of a Contra raid on a small civilian farming cooperative.

The 300 Contra attackers found no Nicaraguan army personnel in the cooperative. Only five of the civilian residents had weapons. Two of them were killed in the fighting, and the others fled. The only government representative present at the time of the attack, an agricultural engineer, was killed on the spot.

Six civilian members of the cooperative were kidnapped. Their bodies were found the next day. All 14 homes in the cooperative were burned. For good measure, the U.S.-backed Contras destroyed the community's two-room school and medical clinic.

This Wednesday, Nov. 13, the K-State campus will have a chance to hear from someone with firsthand knowledge of one of the main targets of Contra terrorism - the Nicaraguan health care system. Dr. Ann Lifflander, now from Washington, D.C., will speak at a rice and beans dinner about her experiences teaching medicine and running an outpatient clinic in Nicaragua from 1983 to July 1985.

The dinner, sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance on Central America, will begin at 6:15 p.m. at St. Isidore's Chapel, 711 Denison. A $2 minimum donation is requested. Proceeds will go for emergency medical aid for victims of the war.

John Exdell associate professor of philosophy

Fall break important for students In fact, exams could not be scheduled until

As the long and sometimes monotonous period from Labor Day to Thanksgiving break draws to a close, I reflect on the first fall break of recent K-State history. In mid-October 1983, the College of Veterinary Medicine initiated a two-day break to give students a chance to recover from the demands and stresses of the professional curriculum.

The break consisted of a four-day weekend for rest and relaxation. The most important component was the faculty's attitude. It was not a time to give students a little extra work.

Wednesday of the following week.

The general consensus of veterinary students is that the break improves attitudes for the remainder of the semester. A small price to pay for this privilege has been to begin classes two days earlier in August.

If a break improved the midterm blues of veterinary students, why wouldn't it help all students? All University students have academic pressures that could be relieved by a fall break.

Ed Kluber graduate in animal science

Upinion

Strategic Defense Initiative makes deterrence possible

Much criticism has recently been leveled at President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative program. The vehemence and frequency of these attacks have forced me from the silent majority.

The main objections to SDI seem to center around three issues: the SDI program is technically impossible, research and development of SDI involves huge sums of money better spent elsewhere and SDI destabilizes nuclear deterrence by attempting to solve what is essentially a diplomatic problem with a technological

SDI is considered by many to be impossible due to current technical limitations. For this reason, opponents of SDI believe that research and development of a working system should be tabled. Despite current limitations, the theoretical possibilities of SDI are sound, and isn't that what research is for - to translate theory into reality? Where would civilization be today if history's scientists and inventors had failed to address the then current "technical impossibilities?" Tabling SDI because of today's technical limitations isn't a very convincing argument.

The next reason opponents give for abandoning SDI is that the program will be very expensive. There is no question that SDI will be costly; what detractors fail to notice is that the benefits afforded by a working missile-defense system are well worth the expense. How valuable is a system which could make nuclear missiles obsolete? How expensive is it to develop and maintain nuclear missiles? If SDI were successfully developed, nuclear missiles would become obsolete and further expenditures on nuclear missiles could be abandoned.

In addition to these benefits, research spurred by SDI would undoubtedly create spinoffs that benefit all of society. One example of this process is the spinoff technology created by the space program.

The final objection to SDI is the theory that development of the program will destabilize the current nuclear-deterrent process. This argument rests on the implied assumption that the current deterrent process is acceptable.

Today's approach to nuclear deterrence is based primarily on a policy of retaliatory action - "if you bomb us, we'll bomb you." Few will conceed that this approach is an acceptable solution to the nuclear-arms problem. First of all, this retaliatory approach presupposes that nuclear antagonists are interested in surviving.

GREGORY BOWMAN Guest

In this respect we don't have to fear the Soviets, but what about others who have access to, or ability to produce, nuclear arms? In today's environment of nuclear proliferation and organized terrorism, the current deterrence program could be fatal for millions of people.

If, on the other hand, SDI were developed and employed, much of this uncertainty could be eliminated. A working missiledefense system would shift nuclear deterrence from retaliation to elimination.

A splinter of the destabilization argument is that SDI will cause a break-down in nuclear negotiations with the Soviet Union. While this may be true, it is not as damaging as some would have us believe. Before anyone gets excited about that statement, let's examine two reasons why this apparent breakdown isn't earth shattering.

First of all, the Soviets currently have a large project underway to develop their own SDI system. The Soviet Union is the only country in the world to have an operational anti-ballistic missile-defense system. The Soviets are also way ahead of the United States in laser technology.

These developments indicate that the Soviet Union has progressed much further than the United States in areas pertaining to strategic defense. Viewed in this light, SDI is not a deliberate attempt to escalate and antagonize; it is merely an attempt to attain strategic parity

Another aspect which moderates the damage of a negotiation breakdown is the Soviet's past history concerning treaties. The Soviet leadership has continually demonstrated its attitude that treaties are to be followed only when convienient.

The purpose of SDI is not to make winable nuclear war a possibility. SDI is designed to add stability to nuclear deterrence, and to provide an effective defense against missiles in the event that other forms of deterrence fail. For the health and safety of this nation, it is imperative that research and development of SDI be actively pursued.

University buildings should be accessible

Imagine enrolling as a freshman at K-State and finding out that many programs and even a couple of majors were not available. Such is the case for students with physical limitations.

Unfortunately, many of the University's programs discriminate against those who are physically handicapped.

The campus is only 50-percent accessible to those confined to wheelchairs. Many of the buildings are completely inaccessable, and some are accessible only on the first floor. Few are completely accessible. K-State's accessibilty is the worst of all Board of Regents schools. The University of Kansas is more than 90 percent accessible.

Because campus buildings do such a good job of keeping out those with physical limitations, and because 100 percent accessibility has been labeled as unfeasible and impossible, the University exercises what it calls "program accessibility." This is an attempt by the administration to move the classroom to the student.

For example, if I were a handicapped individual and needed to take U.S. Politics, which is normally taught in inaccessible Kedzie Hall, I would need to apply through the proper channels to get the class moved to a building that is accessible, such as

MIKE RILEY Collegian Columnist

This program has its drawbacks though Often, the students enrolled in the class or even the instructor are not aware the class has been moved to another building, leaving many in confusion. I have a hard enough time finding my way to class on the first few days of school without my classes being

Two areas of academic study journalism and mass communications, and art - are still inaccessible to handicapped students even though program accessibility is attempted. It is crucial that journalism majors be able to use computers connected with the Collegian which are out of reach in Kedzie. Physically limited students are also blocked from entering the Art Building where entrance is a necessity for using the campus are also inaccessible. Anderson Hall, for instance, is the hallmark of the University, yet its programs are unavailable to the handicapped student wishing to use its services unassisted.

Many nonacademic programs on th

If the status quo of inaccessibilty is continued, the University can expect to lose potential students, not to mention the possibilty of a discrimination suit.

So what can be done about K-State's lack of accesibility? Funding is the key word here. The Legislature is responsible for the funding that makes academic buildings accessible. The right pressure applied to the Legislature through the University administration and the Board of Regents could open up inaccessible academic

For nonacademic buildings, such as Anderson, it is up to other funding sources to open up inaccessible programs. Currently, a Student Senate ad hoc committee is considering recommendations for the $700,000 students might receive from bond

One suggestion has been to make Anderson accessible. The cost has been estimated at $110,000. It could be up to those conscientious student senators to make a decision as to whether or not to open up Anderson to all the students of the University.

We honor any other local pizza coupon with this ad 1 coupon per order

Student Society

PRESENTS: Southwestern Bell (4 Brad Parrott-Topeka Gary Shutt-St.Louis Tuesday, Nov. 12, Union 212 7 p.m.

S. G. A.

All Welcome

Kansas State University

cordially invites you to the Nichols Hall Renewal Celebration in the Atrium

> of Nichols Hall

Saturday morning, November the sixteenth Nineteen hundred and eighty-five at eleven o'clock.

Tours and reception following the ceremony.

PARENTS' WEEKEND

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other is Wings"

Chimes Junior Honorary would like to announce

Parents' Weekend '85

which will be Nov. 15, 16 and 17.

There are special activities planned throughout the entire weekend for you and your parents. Choose from the many things such as football game, musical plays, concerts, food buffets, tours of campus, movies and much more. Look for more details this week in the Chimes' ads in the Collegian.

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

AG PRESS ALCO

BONANZA

BALFOUR CAPITAL FEDERAL SAVINGS CHARLIE BROWNE'S

raduates Bachelor's graduation apparel for sale

Nov. 1-Dec. 14 Includes cap, gown, tassel (and collar for women)

Mail orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height. weight, hat size, degree and $1.50 for postage and handling.

Master, PHD, and faculty rentals will be taken at the supply Dept. Gift Counter Nov. I-Nov. 30. After Nov. 30 a $3.00 late fee will be added.

PHD Masters Rental Prices: $19.50* $21.00° Full Set $11.50° Cap/Gown/Tassel $10.50* $9.00* Hood only

* add 31/2/ sales tax

Non-Personalized

$4.92 (pkg. of 10) includes tax

Personalized

$20.18 (pkg. of 20) includes tax $31.05 (pkg. of 40) includes tax $40.37 (pkg. of 60) includes tax

The Assassins' Game

Pete Kahler, Manhattan, patiently waits outside Calvin Hall to "assassinate" his assigned victim during a game of Killer. Each assassin receives a picture and class schedule of the person they are to eliminate.

The number of persons playing Killer may vary in age, skill and number, up to a maximum of 11 participants. Weapons used to "kill" opponents in the game include water, dart and disc guns and rubber or plastic knives.

As Russ Shortt, senior in marketing, leaves Calvin Hall, Pete Kahler kills his man and earns 20

Shortt and Kahler are playing a modern version of cowboys and Indians. Killer, a game involving suspense, excitement and a bit of courage can be found in many university towns across the nation, including Manhattan.

This type of game is recognized as a "role-playing" game. It is similar to the famous and controversial game of Dungeons and Dragons. Killer is different, however, in the way it is played.

Killer lets the players become physically involved in the game, unlike Dungeons and Dragons, which is similar to a board game.

In Killer, the players are assigned a "victim" to "kill." Every participant is both a victim and a killer. The winner is decided by process of elimination.

The popular live role-playing game in Manhattan,

Killer, is also known as Assassin.
"Killer is No. 1 on the list of live games," said
Kahler, a resident of Manhattan and an active

Kahler started playing Killer after hearing about it from friends. The version of the game called Assassin has been played on universities for years,

"I've played about 14 different games," he said. Since Kahler's involvement in the live games, which started in 1981, he has killed 64 people.

The live role-playing games have become popular through movies based on live role-playing plots. "The 10th Victim" and "Gotcha" are two such movies.

The movie "Gotcha" is about a man who is involved in role-playing games and uses his survival skills when he becomes caught up in an international spy ring, Kahler said.

"Most games usually have two winners — the only survivor and the person with the most points," Kahler said. Points are awarded to a person for each game participant he or she kills, but are taken away when an innocent by

Many types of weapons are used in the live roleplaying games. Most weapons used are purchased in toy departments at discount stores, Kahler said.

Kahler has led seminars based on role-playing games. "They have basically been trick-of-the-trades weapons seminars," Kahler said.

Weapons most often used are dart guns, disc guns, water guns and rubber or plastic knives, Kahler said.

"Squirt guns are the most popular weapon," Kahler said. "A real good assassin is familiar with many different types of weapons," Kahler said.
Some people use their imagination to create their own weapons, Kahler said.

"One guy used a drained egg shell filled with flour to assassinate a person," he said. "Another person was killed by a billfold bomb."

The billfold bomb was made out of a rubberband and a small pouch of flour, Kahler said. The rubberband was twisted so that when the wallet was opened, the rubberband unwound and flour was flung over the victim.

over the victim.

"I booby-trap my car whenever I'm playing," Kahler said. "I run a piece of wire or string from the cigarette lighter to the frame of the car. If somebody tries to assassinate me they will be killed by electrocution."

Restrictions are placed on the location of a "kill," and are listed by the person when he or she enters the game, Kahler said.

"Restrictions include such places as your home address, a girlfriend's (boyfriend's) address and where you work," he said.

Some places are always restricted, he added. "A person cannot enter a restroom of the opposite sex or try to kill someone inside a church."

Dowdy Dowdy, co-owner of The Master Gamer in Laramie Plaza, said the store is active in setting up Dungeons and Dragons, Killer and many other role-playing games.

"There is a $5 entry fee for Killer," Dowdy said.
"The winners of the game (the survivor and the person with the most points) both get a $5 gift certificate from the store. If one person is both the survivor and gets the most points, he or she gets a $10 gift certificate.

"We are very adamant on safety," Dowdy said.

"We do not allow attacks on or from moving

She added that shots to the head cause a person to be disqualified from the game because of the risk of injury.

"If you do anything stupid and get in trouble with the authorities, (police) you are on your own," Dowdy said.

"We also encourage people to be creative — to use things other than guns," Dowdy said.

An unsuspecting Russ Shortt, senior in marketing and a first-time player, emerges from his last class of the day after Kahler waited 28 minutes.

Veteran player Kahler moves into position and scores a quick "kill" on Shortt.

Shortt examines the plastic bullet that eliminated him from the game. Kahler has over 64 "kills" to his credit since he has been playing Killer.

Refinancing committee narrows fund requests

By JANE KRIEGER Collegian Reporter

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee met Monday to discuss which projects should receive part of the $700,000 made available because of refinancing of student bonds.

To be eligible, a request must meet committee guidelines. These guidelines are: the money will not be used to fund existing programs receiving activity fee funds; projects should be long-lasting and have recognizable contributions; projects should be University-wide; money will not be used for projects which are the state's responsibility; and projects should be self-supporting after funding is granted. Charles Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department, is requesting funds to improve the bluelight emergency phones on campus by switching the phones from lines to a radio signal.

Lee Buller, assistant professor of journalism communications, is requesting funds for KSDB-FM to buy a transmitter to utilize the radio tower donated by KAKE-TV, Wichita.

Brice Hobrock, dean of libraries, is requesting funds for a rare book room in Farrell Library

The committee also discussed funding a campus transit system, but tentatively decided the system did not meet the recurring expense guideline.

Funding for fixing the roof of Farrell was tentatively rejected because the building is a state responsibility.

Plans for a patio between Seaton Hall and the Union were tentatively rejected because the committee believe the money could be put to better use.

The committee decided to put any remaining money into a student reserves account.

The committee tabled a request for an endowment from the Debate Squad. There was discussion as to whether the endowment fulfilled the University-wide base requirement.

Senate to vote on bill to hold coliseum funds

By BRENDA KITCHEN Collegian Reporter

"Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum," a bill currently before Student Senate, may be amended to clarify proposed planning steps and allow for steps already taken.

The Student Affairs Committee, which met Monday to discuss the legislation, decided to propose the amendments at the senate meeting on Thursday.

Currently, the bill requests the Board of Regents to withdraw student monetary support for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum until proper planning steps are adopted.

The planning steps are: a master plan of the entire project; a market study; a financial feasibility study; a site selection study; a traffic study; a building program; a funding study; and a design.

The committee will propose to define "market study" as a study in which the correct size of the coliseum is determined. The financial feasibility study will be defined as "pro forma" studies. A pro forma study is a cash-flow study,

The committee also proposed that some of the planning steps called for in the bill could be bypassed if an independent firm concludes they were completed earlier.

The bill is sponsored by Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in premedicine.

A second piece of coliseum legislation, also sponsored by Monto and Tsen, calls for three student senators to be added to the Program Planning Committee. Steve Brown, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and student body president, is the only current student member of the

Veterans Day ceremony

K-State Reserve Officer Training Corps Cadets Rick Sadat and Darren Dillon help lower the flag on top of Anderson Hall during a Veterans Day retreat ceremony Monday night.

Livestock team takes 'royal' 2nd

By SHELLY DICKEN Collegian Reporter

The K-State senior livestock judging team placed second in the American Royal Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Contest in Kansas City, Mo., Saturday.

Chuck Pettijohn, senior in agricultural education, tied for second place in the overall scoring. The tie was broken by the oral reasons score, with Pettijohn receiving third place and a $500 scholarship.

Nineteen teams and 95 individuals were entered in the contest. Oklahoma State University received first place.

Bill Able, coach of the senior livestock judging team and associate director of the International Livestock Program, was happy with the team's performance at the contest.

"Of course, we are never really satisfied with anything but first, but they did a super job," Able said.

Additional K-State team members are Tom Chestnut, senior in agricultural education, Blake Flanders, Barry Queen and Kevin Schultz, seniors in animal sciences and industry.

No one on K-State's team placed in the top 10 of the individual placings except Pettijohn, Able said, but the team members were "pretty even across the board."

The team placed third in the swine judging division of the constest, third in cattle, sixth in sheep and second in oral reasons The senior judging team will travel to Louisville, Ky., Nov. 18, to compete in the North American International Livestock Judging Contest.

The North American contest and the American Royal contest are the two major senior judging team contests in the fall. Able said alliances to lose ground, he said. "They (the alliances) have been propagating this myth that the GWEN system is to fight a protracted nuclear war," Miller said. "My interpretation is that most of the people support the program once you take out those who are committed activists against DoD (Department of Defense) programs."

> Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Continued from Page 1

Miller, who delivers the defense department's position at public hearings, said it has never been national policy to fight a "protracted" war. The idea that nuclear war may last beyond the initial attacks has been around a long

Miller quoted a speech in 1962 by then Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara:

"...We must have machinery for

LAFENE

STUDENT

HEALTH

CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

forces, which is able to survive an attack. We may seek to terminate a war on favorable terms by using our forces as a bargaining weapon - by threatening further attack, McNamara said. Despite Miller's statements, the command and control of our

Barber said, the opposite is true concerning the direction protest has

Peter Shelley, an attorney for the Conservation Law Foundation of New England (CLF), which is planning a suit against the Air Force for violation of Freedom of Information Act requirements, agreed with Barber.

"From what I've seen the people in the Air Force will have to be competent in hypnosis to change the minds of most people in Castine," Shelley said of a town in Maine where a GWEN tower is planned.

Kathleen Clark, of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C., countered Miller's denial of a protracted war policy by quoting Lt.

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

Aggieville

Gen. William Hilsman, director of the Defense Communications

"The key ingredient to the nation's survival then becomes a robust and endurable communications system that can function through protracted nuclear war..." Hilsman said. More recent opposition to GWEN has been characterized by challenges to the system's environmental impact.

No-GWEN Alliances and the CLF have said proposed sites encroach on migratory bird flyways.

The Lane County No-GWEN Alliance in Eugene, Ore., is taking a novel approach to its opposition of GWEN's environmental impacts, said George Gessert, a member of the Eugene group.

The alliance there hopes to delay construction of a relay tower in Eugene by claiming the Air Force must include an assessment of the impact of a nuclear explosion at the site as a supplement to the Generic Environmental Assessment.

A longstanding legend

43 days left

7 Fridays left

7 Saturdays left

Don't miss out on

a tradition!

HOW DO YOU GET HOT, CHEESY, CUSTOM-MADE PIZZA IN 30 MINUTES OR LESS?

Staff/John Sleezer

Call Domino's Pizza. One call from you sets Domino's Pizza in motion. From that moment on, we do everything possible to make sure that your hot, custom-made pizza is delivered to your door in less than 30 minutes.

Our drivers carry less than $10.00.

Tuesday Offer valid

only on Tuesday

Terrific Get a 16" custom-made Domino's Pizza with one topping and four bottles of Coke for only $8.99

> Good at listed locations. One offer per order. Limited delivery area Expires Feb. 15, 1986

Address 16006 DPF-003

Get a 12" custommade Domino's

Special s5.99! Pizza with one top-

© 1985 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

Good at listed locations One offer per order. Limited delivery area.

Expires Feb. 15, 1986 16006 DPF-003

Coke

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS

Manhattan

539-0561

517 North 12th Street

Hours: 11 a.m.-2 a.m.

Mon.-Thurs.

Fri. & Sat.

11 a.m.-4 a.m.

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

SPECIALS FOR STUDENTS!

0% OFF

any meal on our menu when you present your Student I.D. Offer good 7 days a week, 5 p.m.-close.

Come enjoy a sensational meal at the Plum Tree...your home away from home!

Remember ... Everyday is a holiday at your

530 Richards Dr.,

539-5311

Saberhagen wins. Cy Young award

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Bret Saberhagen, who won two games for Kansas City in the Royals' World Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, Monday was named the youngest pitcher in American League history to win the Cy Young Award.

"This is great for me and great for Kansas City," the 21-year-old righthander said at a news conference. Saberhagen, only three years out of high school in southern California, was earlier named the World Series' Most Valuable Player.

In his second year in the major leagues, Saberhagen posted a 20-6 record with an ERA of 2.87. With remarkable control and poise and sharp command of several pitches, he had 158 strikeouts and issued only "An award like this is definitely a team award," he said. "If you don't have 25 guys fighting for you every time you go out there, then you don't have a chance.

Saberhagen's wife, Janeane, gave birth to their first child, Drew William, the day before Saberhagen pitched the Royals' 11-0 victory over St. Louis in the seventh game of the World Series. He admitted with a laugh that he may have trouble topping his storybook season next

"I guess all I can do is try to win 21 games, win three World Series one game at a time.'

games and have twins," he said with

Nodding toward Janeane who sat across the room with Drew William, he added: "But Janeane says 'No." She wants to be able to get out and see the World Series games in person next year.'

Saberhagen admitted that he was surprised at his big margin of victory in voting by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. He was named on 27 of 28 ballots and received 23 first-place votes, gathering 127 points to 88 for runnerup Ron Guidry of the New York

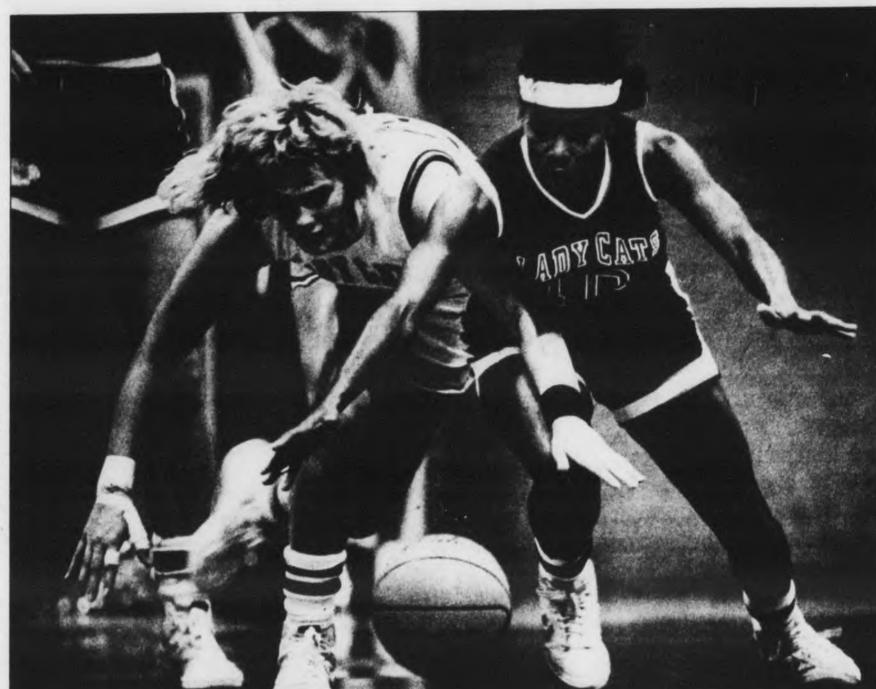

"I was definitely surprised. I thought it would be a lot closer than that," he said.

John Schuerholz, Royals general manager, appeared with Saberhagen at the news conference and admitted, "The success we've had this year is almost hard to comprehend."

Saberhagen is the first Kansas City pitcher to win the award and only the fifth from the American League West. Saberhagen, who turned 21 on April 11, was the fifth youngest pitcher in major league history to win 20 games.

Saberhagen said he knew around the all-star break that he was in line for a special season.

"But I didn't want to get ahead of myself," he said. "I just took it one batter at a time, one inning at a time,

Lady 'Cats team members Sue Leiding (32) and Cheryl Jackson (10) Monday night at the Manhattan High School gymnasium. The White team scramble for a loose ball during the Purple and White basketball game defeated the Purple team, 63-52.

intermission.

'Cats' Welch, Williams could miss next game

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

K-State's football team, which has had trouble scoring points this season, may have an even harder time putting points on the board with their top two quarterbacks slowed by

The Wildcats, now 1-8 on the year following a 35-3 loss to the Oklahoma State Cowboys Saturday in Stillwater, are averaging 9.7 points and 197.3 yards total offense a game.

Quarterback Randy Williams, who is about 70 percent healthy, due to an ankle injury suffered against the University of Kansas on Oct. 19, was forced into action Saturday when John Welch left the game in the second quarter with a pinched nerve in his right shoulder. Williams and Welch have split time this season at quarterback.

"It's tough moving the ball when you lose your quarterback," said K-State Interim Coach Lee Moon after Welch went out in the loss to Williams was seven of 19 passing for 82 yards, but had limited movement.

"Randy hadn't been practicing and he can't move," Moon said. "He was down and out.

Moon said following Monday's practice that Welch is "very doubtful" for Saturday's Parents' Day game against Iowa State University in KSU Stadium. Thus, Williams, despite the injury, likely will be pressed into starting duty Saturday.

If neither can play against Iowa State, the quarterback duties will fall on Todd Elder, who has spent the season at split end but played two games at quarterback for the 'Cats

'We'll bring him (Elder) out of the bullpen," Moon said.

K-State also lost the services of starting tight end John Stonner, who will be out the remaining two games with a knee injury suffered after leaping for a pass in the OSU game.

The linebacker position for K-State also has grown thin. David Wallace broke his wrist against the University of Missouri on Oct. 26 and was lost for the year. His replacement, Dwayne Castille, strained a tendon in his knee Saturday at Stillwater and was on crutches after the game. Castille's status for the last two games remains questionable.

Also injured Saturday was cornerback Tim Jackson. Jackson pulled a hamstring and is questionable for Saturday's game.

Not only is K-State down with injuries, but the team may have a hard time getting excited about the remaining two games - against ISU Saturday and the University of Colorado Nov. 23 in Boulder, Colo.

"Right now, we've got to play to the best of our ability to win our last two games," said tailback Todd Moody.

Interim Coach Moon is 1-6 since taking over for Jim Dickey, who was forced to resign after an 0-2 start. The team is still trying to find answers. Defensive end Kevin Humphrey is one Wildcat player who has no solutions.

"I don't know what our problem is," he said. "It's not something that you can put a finger on. That is probably why Coach Dickey was fired. I think he was the scapegoat."

Thomas tallies 17 in White's 63-52 win

By DAVID SVOBODA Assistant Sports Editor

Carlisa Thomas scored 17 points and Susan Green added 14 as the White team downed the Purple squad 63-52 in the Lady 'Cats' first scrimmage of the year Monday night at Manhattan High School.

Thomas, after a first half in which she scored only six points, reeled off 11 points in the second half as the White team, coached by K-State assistant Margaret Thomas, held off a second-half rally by the Purple squad, coached by Assistant Coach Eddie Vaughn, to post the win.

Head Coach Matilda Mossman, who watched from the sidelines as her assistants directed the two squads, was pleased with the effort by Thomas, a junior forward and one of the Lady 'Cats' four returning

"I thought Carlisa dominated the game at both ends - both offensively and defensively," Mossman said. Mossman was also pleased with the effort shown by Green, who sparked the White squad to an early lead by scoring eight points in the first five minutes of the first quarter. Green, a junior guard, had 10 points in the period, leading the White squad to a 19-13 lead after the first eight minutes.

I thought Susan Green was a key in the White team's effort to establish itself early," Mossman said. "She really set the tempo for the entire first half.'

The White squad blew the game open by scoring 11 unanswered points at the start of the second quarter before Amanda Holley converted on a three-point play for the Purple team to momentarily slow the surge. The White team led at the half, 38-21.

Mossman pointed to the efforts of junior center Sue Leiding, who scored nine first-half points and had seven rebounds in the first half, as the second half. The Purple squad being a key to the White team's early domination

"I thought Sue dominated underneath in the first half," Mossman said of Leiding, who ended the game with 12 points. "That was a real key to the success of the White squad. They dominated the boards on the offensive end in the first half."

The second-half efforts of Holley, a transfer from the University of Arkansas, kept the Purple squad in the contest.

Holley, who was held to five firsthalf points by a tough White defense, scored 14 points in the second half, helping to keep the Purple squad in the contest.

senior forward Sheila Hubert, who scored 18 points, the Purple team cut the White's lead to 12, 47-35, at the Mossman end of three periods. said she was encouraged by the effort shown by the Purple team in our team defense has got to improve Sparked by the play of Holley and a great deal."

Men's team to compete in Topeka

outscored the White team 31-25 after

"I was pleased that the Purple team came back in the second half,"

she said. "The score was a lot more lopsided than I would have expected, but I was fairly pleased with the Mossman pointed to depth and quickness as two of the strengths shown by the Lady 'Cats thus far this

"I thought we showed a lot of depth tonight, and I liked our quickness,' she said. "We do, however, have to slow things down offensively, and effort shown by both teams."

K-State's men's basketball team will hold its second intrasquad scrimmage of the preseason tonight in Topeka beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Washburn University's Lee

Admission to the scrimmage will be one can of food, to be given to the "Let's Help" program. Head Coach Jack Hartman will lead a shooting clinic from 6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the arena.

Drake to drop football program

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Iowa - Drake University will drop its football program next year, then scale back from NCAA Division 1-AA to Division III effective the fall of 1987, President Michael Ferrari announced Monday

Ferrari said he knew his decision would disappoint many supporters of the football program, which this year included Iowa State as one of its victims.

But he said Drake can no longer afford its subsidy to football and that the university should instead focus its athletic attention on basketball and the Drake Relays

"We cannot be all things to all people," Ferrari told a packed news conference.

Ferrari said the school allocated $840,000 to football this year, including $680,000 in scholarships. The operating loss for the football season will be $160,000, he added.

He said he expected the current level of competition would cost the university about $900,000 a year in the foreseeable future.

Coach Chuck Shelton has lobbied vigorously to retain the program, and has said he would not remain as coach if the program was downgraded. Athletic Director Bob Karnes said he told Shelton of Ferrari's decision.

Division III competition will begin in the fall of 1987. The one-year suspension of the program during the transition will allow current players to transfer to other schools and be immediately eligible.

Ferrari said Drake will honor all scholarships for players who wish to

Holieway too young to remember Mildren

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Notes and quotes from Monday's telephonic news briefing with Big Eight football

Any Oklahoma football fan over the age of 25 must have gasped when freshman Jamelle Holieway said he'd never heard of Jack Mildren. How could anybody in the Oklahoma program not know about the great wishbone quarterback of the early 70s? The man who first made the Sooner wishbone great?

Yet, Holieway, a native of Southern California, said he'd never heard of Mildren when told that his 324 yards in total offense against Missouri Saturday had broken the school record Mildren set in 1971.

One thing is certain - Mildren never had the kind of defense to work with that Holieway has now. After seeing his Tigers routed 51-6, Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer is ready to pack the entire front seven away to the National Football

"They just have a great defensive team," he said. "They're so physical and so aggressive, and they've got so much ability. Eventually, the front seven on defense will all be in the NFL. I really think they've got four No. 1 picks on defense. (Noseguard) Tony Casillas might be the best player in the country. (Linebacker) Brian Bosworth is a super player, and (defensive ends) Kevin Murphy and Darrell Reed are great. Their front seven has to be as good as anybody in the country.'

League.

Holieway's artful operation of the wishbone has Sooner fans thinking national championship, if everything breaks right in the bowl picture and the Sooners get past Oklahoma State, Nebraska, SMU and Colorado the rest of the way. Speaking of Colorado, their brand-new wishbone offense has them with a 6-3 record and the object of overtures from at least one bowl committee.

It will be a clash of wishbones Saturday when the Buffs go against the Sooners. McCartney on the difference between his 'bone and Barry Switzer's:

"They're a Cadillac and we're a Volkswagen. Theirs is the finished product, ours is in the experimental stages. They've forgotten more than

Rugger run

K-State rugger Doug Scherich carries a Pittsburg State University rugby team player through the line during Saturday's game at the L. P.

Washburn Recreational Area intramural fields. Scherich scored four tries in the match for 16 points, as K-State defeated Pittsburg, 47-10.

Rugby team wins merit table title

The K-State Rugby Club "A" team captured the Heart of America collegiate merit table championship Saturday by defeating Pittsburg State University's Rugby Club 47-10 at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area intramural fields

The win left K-State with a 3-0 mark in merit table matches. The University of Kansas finished in second place with a 2-1 mark, followed by Pittsburg State at 1-2 and Central Missouri State University at 0-3. The title will allow K-State to participate in the Western Collegiate Championships next semester.

Dave Mullin opened the scoring for K-State against Pittsburg State by scoring on a try to give the 'Cats a 4-0 lead. Pittsburg State captured its only lead of the match at 6-4 on a try and conversion kick

K-State took the lead for good on a try by Doug Scherich, which started a succession of four unanswered tries and conversion kicks. Scherich scored the first three tries and David Todd came up with the fourth, making the score 28-6. A penalty kick by Brian Riedel staked K-State to a 31-6 margin at

The Rugby Club "B" team lost its match 4-3 to the Fort Riley Rugby

OSU tennis team shuts out K-State

Football Club. K-State scored its points on a penalty kick.

K-State's women's tennis team lost all nine matches to Oklahoma State University Saturday in Stillwater, Okla.

The closest K-State came to a win was in No. 1 singles, where Lena Svensson lost a 7-5, 7-6 decision to Carrie-Lynn Cohen. Svennson played the match with a hip injury Sigrid Ivarsson, the 'Cats' No. 2 player, fell to Renata Baranski 6-2, 6-4. No. 3 player Kristy Line lost 6-2, 6-1 to Libbie Brende. Judy Miller, Esther Olson and Lisa Creighton each lost in straight sets.

K-State won only four games in doubles action, losing all three matches. Svensson and Ivarsson, the No. 1 team, were defeated by Robyn Lamb and Mary Rozas 6-1, 6-0. Line and Miller lost 6-0, 6-0, and Olsen and Creighton were downed 6-2, 6-1.

The women's last action of the fall season will be Nov. 21-23 at the I.T.C.A. Regional Tournament in Provo, Utah. K-State's men's team will end their season the same weekend in Lincoln, Neb., competing in the Nebraska Tournament.

Soccer Club loses twice in tourney

K-State Soccer Club's "A" team lost two close games Saturday at the University of Kansas Invitational in Lawrence. K-State was defeated 1-0 by Kansas in the first game and lost 3-2 to Wichita State University, knocking the 'Cats out of the tourney. Mark Samuels and Akram Al-Ani scored the goals

HELP WANTED

Kalispell. MT. 59901 (55-63)

LOST

NOTICES

PERSONAL

Yo Mama (56)

tal (56)

room 4:30-6:30 p.m. (55-56)

AD SALES for Kansas Folklife Festival - Temporary, part-time position to contact local/area busi nesses, sell signature ads, and secure times for festival auction. Further information and applica-tion form available at KSU Conference Office, 1623

Anderson, 532-5575. Deadline November 18, 1985.

5,000 + openings. Complete information, $5 Park Report. Mission Mountain Co. 651 2nd Ave. WN.

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions Round trip air transportation provided. Warm Tov-ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton.

LOST-MEN'S Pulsar watch Great sentimental value. Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168 (52-57)

LOST: YELLOW, London Fog jacket Stateroom Mon

CUSTOM BURGERS! All you can eat! with fries. You pile on the hot and cold toppings at the salad bar

Tuesday November 12 in the K-State Union State-

Sub of the Week

WESTERN

The Best Submarine

Joint in Aggieville

AL'S DELI

South of Baskin Robbins

KKG STEPHANIE Brownell is 20 today. Said she. "I

1122 VATTIER Partygoers. Whoever took the jewelry

GIB—21/2 years and still going strong, a couple like us can't go wrong. I love you! Shelli. (56)

MISS JANA Sue: Sorry it state—but hope you have a

VOLLEYBALL MARY-Now that it's almost over can

PENNER HOPE your birthday is a great one. Happy

O'BUNNY I hope it will be as good as we look. Lace

RICH—WAKE up dummy! She's under your speil.
Do something!! Concerned Friends, SLSR (56)

FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809

North 11th $145, bills paid 539-8401 (49-63)

MALE-DOUBLE wide trailer, own bedroom washeridryer, $125 plus one-third utilities. Cali 537-8580, (52-56)

FEMALE, NON-SMOKING, to share two bedroom

TWO NON-SMOKING males to share with third for one-fourth utilities Call 539-3878 (53-57)

apartment with three others. $110 per month plus we finally get married? Mark (56)

ROOMMATE WANTED

19th Love Chip (56

fun and happy 19th! Love you sweety! Barbara (56)

from the upstairs bedroom, please return. No questions asked. It has no value except senti must say, it's my birthday, so I don't care!" L and L day, November 4. Contact David. 539-1165 (56-58)

14

15

CT, 06897, (203) 834-1742. No tee. (56-68)

SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co's 21 parks-

Llassifieds

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication: noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an er-ror exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

YEP ...

Bloom County

MY GOSH. YOU DID

NOSE JOB AT THE

PAINT AND BODY

JOAN COLLINS

WORK CLINIC

Garfield

Peanuts

FOURTEEN?

THERE'S A BLACK HOLE DEAD AHEAD!

JPM DAV95

38 Wash away

fiction

particle

tance

bone

collog.

1 Suit part

DOWN

worm: var

TWENTY-TWO?

SIXTY-THREE

2 Chip in a chip

3 Italian coin

4 Tokyo, once

6 Region

8 Safe re-

7 Train unit

pository

9 Word with horse or curtain

10 Like Lady

Godiva

the neck

16 Back of

20 Proscribe

5 Muppets

IT. YOU GOT A

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

hasing

THERE'S A GIRL

OUT THERE FOR

GROON

AD015

who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont 537-4246. (711)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve-tope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL

ATTENTION

I BELIEVE SHE'S OUT THERE WAITING FOR ME AND WHEN WE FINALLY MEET, WE'LL REALIZE WE

WERE MEANT FOR

THERE WAS CONFUSION ..

CHOPPED THE END OFF OF

MS. DELECORT'S NOSE AND

50 MUCH., CONFUSION.

THEY ... THEY ALMOST

GAVE ME BOSOM

IMPLANTS.

EACH OTHER

AND FALL DEEPLY

IN LOVE.

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure. (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201 K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

02

BUTCHERS!

COME IN.

LAY DOWN.

SORRY MAAM

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf

Superb, artistic, excellent, quality-oh heck! See for yourself! 45 artists at Cico Park, 9-6, before and after the ISU game.

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts count on Sun-

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

ME NEITHER.

By Berke Breathed

FAINT ...

WOOZY ..

FEEL ?

THEY JUST WENT

WHERE NO MAN HAS

GONE BEFORE

BUT VERY

ATTRACTIVE

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

I THINK MY MATH

BOOK HAS A

CHILD-RESISTANT CAP

Take your parents to a super art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 16, from 9-6 at Cico

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club. A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49

HISTORY OF London trip to England. Winter Intersession, three hours credit. Sign-up deadline ex-tended to November 15. A few places still availa-See Dr Linder, History Department nediately. Eisenhower Hall 205, phone 532-6730. Consult Intersession Schedule in Collegian Monday, November 4 (54-56)

Park - West on Kimball Ave.

ASK ME about R.O.T.C., the view points of a student. For information call Bob, 537-0144. (55-59)

GET HIGH

on skiing!

SKI STEAMBOAT

the Christmas

playground of students. January 5-12, 1986

$301/$273 with own equipment Sign-up Activities Center Union 3rd floor

NEW STORE hours. Wednesday and Friday, 9:00 a m · 1:00 p.m. and Saturdays 9:00 a.m · 5:00 p.m. Open to everyone. People's Grocery, 811 Colorado, 539-4811 (56-59)

UPC Travel

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side 776-3804 (4911) MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from

Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200 (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university

Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776 3804 (4611) NEXT TO campus-Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy One bedroom furnished in complex $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets.

537-1180 (48-57) FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin, 776-9124

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1837 College Heights

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview and

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with lease.

> Call for details 776-3804

SPACIOUS FOUR bedroom, two bath, central heat/ air. Close to campus and Aggieville, $530. Call 776-0203. (54-58)

thirds of gas paid, $250/month. Nice for couple or graduate student. Available December 1st. Call 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (56-59) AVAILABLE JANUARY-One bedroom near campus.

NICE ONE bedroom apartment. Water, trash and two no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70— laundry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets. 537 8389, 537-8494, (55-65) NICE TWO bedroom apartment next to campus for second semester. $380, utilities paid. 776-5265. (56-59)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor-tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

FOR SALE-AUTO 06

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850 Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf) LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado oaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214 (52-61) 1977 280Z-Six cylinder, 4-speed, excellent condition. Must see $3.200 or best offer 539-2899. (52-56)

1977 DATSUN B-210-New paint, new brakes. Must sell. 539-6167. (53-57)

1973 FORD LTD-Powerful 429, runs well, so body damage, $300. Box 9. c/o Collegian. (53-57) 1983-CHEVROLET Cavaller Sport-Hatchback white, sunroof, stereo cassette, front wheel drive $4,100 or best offer. Evenings, 539-6730, (56-60) 1978 Z-28 Camaro: All options, t-tops, chrome wheels. AM-FM cassette, low miles Loaded $3,600 Call 537-0227 (56-60)

FOR SALE-MISC 07

BRAND NEW turntable, like new vacuum cleaner and 8-track tape player 532-2073 (54-56) OFFICE SUPPLIES - Hull's Business Machines, 715

North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55tf) TECHNICS SL5, direct drive, automatic turntable system. Best offer 539-4863 (55-59)

Album & Cassette Specials $599 & $699

Steve Morse

Ouarterflash

Dexy's Midnight Runners

Charlie Daniels

The Family

110 LB AQUARIUM with set-up equipment—fresh or salt. Must sell! $250. Shanan. 537-0323 (55-59)

with every two bags purchased

$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

CHINESE SHAR-PEI puppies. Registered CPSCA. A nice Christmas present. 537-3199. (56-59)

Buy one set and get second set at

Strings and Drumsticks

DOD Guitar Effects Units

Hayes House of Music

BLACK LABRADOR pups. Six weeks old. Excellent hunting stock. $30. Call 537-8367. (56-64)

1975 12 × 60 Schultz Wellington Must see to appreciate $7,500 or best offer 539-2596 evenings (52 1977 ESQUIRE, 14 x 70-Excellent condition, fur-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1984 YAMAHA XT-600. Great condition—Under 3,000 miles. Call 776-4969. (56-58)

FREE

from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270

rossword ACROSS 37 Bewitch

valley 41 Spade of 5 - - Man (video 42 Indian game) 8 Offenses 45 Minute 12 Arthurian 46 Round lady

1 Small

13 Kind of 48 Pro bank acct. 49 Assis 14 Real 15 More 50 Forearm powerful 51 Not now

17 Went by bus 52 Snoop 53 Complaint: 11 Prophet 18 Oolong 19 Turkish officer 20 Faux pas 21 Mata Hari, Avg. solution time: 25 minfor one 22 Chinese dynasty 23 Italian poet 26 Clumsy one 30 Teen follower 31 Equip 32 Christmas list item, often

33 Went by car 35 Specks

Answer to yesterday's puzzle

21 Side show attraction 22 Embrace 23 Beaver

WE CAN'T TURN BACK!
THE GRAVITATIONAL PULL IS TOO GREAT!
ARRERERSH!

structure 24 Past 25 Lepidopterist's 26 Offer

27 Illumined 28 Supple ment 29 Thing. 31 D.C.

denizen 34 "Norma -- " 35 Office reminder

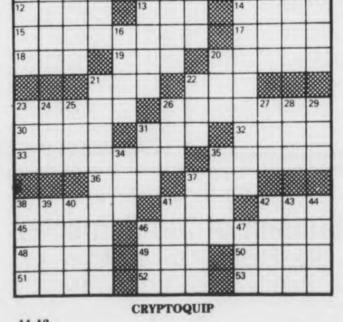

37 Novelist Thomas 38 Role 39 Provo's

40 Noise of surf on shore

41 Recipe direction 42 Eye 43 Actress

Daly 44 King of Norway 46 Plant fluid 47 Gist of 11-12

VXD

OXXFAY BNN DSY

Yesterday's Cyptoquip: THE DELIGHTFUL SAND

AUYBK HPANNABVD SBNI-HBFYU

Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals L

SALESMAN'S FAVORITE MOVIE: "TRUE GRIT."

03

Autograph

Olivia Newton-John

Patti Austin

Wynton Marsalis

FREE MAGNUM HAT

21% Magnum Dog Food-

50% Off

30% Off

Prices from $41.97

223 Poyntz

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES

nished, three bedrooms, two baths, central air, 539-2939 (56-60)

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly. Must sell, $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59)

FOUND

A CASIO watch found on pavement near Jardine parking lot facing Edwards. Call 532-6048 (after 7:00 p.m.) to identify. (55-57)

FREE—BLACK Lab mix and Springer Spaniel. Adult dogs. Good family pets. Call 539-2786. (54-56)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Non-smoking female, own room, close to campus, nice location. Call 776-6660 (56-59)

SERVICES 18

MALE ROOMMATE-One block from campus, indi vidual study desk, $105 plus one-fourth utilities

call 776-0491 (56-60)

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible (31.75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test Confidential Cali 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St. Suite 25, (11f) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equip ment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240 (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166, (13tf) TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-

5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer of typewriter Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337 (51-

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537 9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61) PROFESSIONAL TYPING-Resumes, cover letters

HEE'S ALTERATIONS-Suits, coats, jeans, zippers All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Ag gieville, 776-7959. (54-70) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Compa erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (55-59)

dissertations, reports, 539-2411 (53-57)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service. 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (56-57)

20 SUBLEASE TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

spring semester across from Ahearn $88 plus one-third utilities and cable (Wildcat Apts ) 537 ROOMMATE WANTED to share nicely decorated apartment. $160 month, all bills paid includes lectric, water, trash, cable and laundry facilities 776-1604 (53-57) ROOMMATE WANTED to share three bedroom house Own room, washer/dryer, rent plus utilities 403 South 18th, 537-2055 (53-57) NEED FEMALE roommate to take over lease from January to August. One half block from campus. own room, very nice apartments, great roomies Call Shiela, 537-2261 ext. 411 (8:30 a.m. 4:30 p.m.) or Pam 776-0228 (53-57) ROOMMATE WANTED at 925 Thurston. Three blocks from campus, $135/month plus utilities, 537-9727

Visuals override shaky plot of Los Angeles melodrama

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

In the early '70s, William Friedkin was one of the hottest directors in Hollywood. He won an Academy Award for "The French Connection" and scared American audiences silly with "The Exorcist." But over the next decade, life soured for him as his films became both critical and box office failures.

Film Review

But now he has a new film, "To Live and Die in L.A.," shot on a small budget with a cast of stage actors. And it's no big surprise that this movie is similar in many ways to "The French Connection." But Friedkin has updated the story considerably. Now there's pulsating rock 'n' roll music behind the action and bright oranges and reds in the background - as if L.A. were caught in an eternal sunset.

Instead of the gritty realism of "The French Connection," though, he opts for melodrama. The results look a lot like "Miami Vice." Friedkin even gives us two pretty-boy cops, one who walks like he's the cock-of-the-walk, but unlike "Miami Vice," it's not always clear these cops are the good

And that's what the movie is primarily about - the narrow line that can separate the police from their quarry

In the smog-diffused daylight of L.A., a secret service agent is gunned down after closing in on the operations of a big-time counterfeiter

This leaves his partner, Richard Chance, with an obsession to catch the killer. But this counterfeiter, Eric Masters, isn't just any old counterfeiter. He's a suave artist who considers counterfeiting his greatest work of all. His face is a death mask, sunken eyes and wide cheekbones. He leers at his customers with a sardonic grin, his every movement calculated.

Chance's new partner, John Vukovich, wants to go by the book, but Chance relentlessly pushes until he gets his way which means not only forgetting the letter of the law, but flagrantly breaking it. To get the $30,000 he needs to set up a bust, more money than his department will make available, he plans to rob an underworld boss. But things backfire - to put it mildly.

When the movie sticks to action, "To Live and Die in L.A." is nothing short of brilliant. The robbery by Chance and Vukovich that goes awry is complete with a car chase guaranteed to leave audiences on the edge of their seats

The film doesn't fare nearly as well when Friedkin is developing his characters. He litters the screen with hints and suggestions, but for the most part those hints and suggestions remain obscurities. And when he feels like it, Friedkin even violates the rules he has established

When the movie sticks to action, To Live and Die in L.A.' is nothing short of brilliant.

For instance, in the early going, Masters was the perfect crook, never making a mistake, but later on Friedkin lets him get sloppy. And it's not as if Masters hadn't been in some tough scrapes. Time and time again the movie shows Masters as the master criminal, with an eerie, even demonic passion for perfection. But for the plot to work out like Friedkin wants, Masters has to become a bit of a slipshod amateur near the

But even while the plot gets a bit shaky, Friedkin keeps the barrage of visuals coming. Nearly every moment of the film is saturated with color and music, action exploding all over the screen. This turns the movie into an ultra-hyped melodrama that relishes its own vices - a rather twisted crime drama that, if nothing else, will make its viewers feel they need a long, hot shower after all the seedy goings-on.

Barroom antics subject of humor

Comedian 'cuts up' in local act

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

Bar scene and bedroom humor carried an audience at a local club swiftly through 40 minutes of laughter and applause

Twenty-four-year-old Tommy Blaze was 'always cutting up in class," - the class clown. And people were always telling him he should be a comedian, he said. Blaze tours nationally and said now if a cop asks him, "Who do you think you are, a comedian?," he can say "Yeah."

Three months ago Blaze auditioned for television talent show "Star Search" at the New York club, Catch a Rising Star. He received an offer from the TV show, but was later bumped, he said. However, during the 10-minute routine he captured nine applause breaks, constituting what he termed a "career highlight."

Blaze works out of Florida, although he is originally from New York City. Working the road almost every night of the week demands Blaze's time, but career-wise he said he has "only scratched the surface.

"We're (comedians) always on," Blaze said. "Always observing."

Blaze said he notices everything. If he's going to impersonate women, he watches how they sit, play with their hair, arrange know that you're working," Blaze said. Blaze's secret was safe throughout his performance as he illustrated those oh-so-familiar bar room blues Asking for the attention of the women in

"The secret is to not let the audience

the audience, Blaze, speaking for the male population, told them what women hear at a bar isn't what men might have planned earlier that evening.

Preparing his woman-killer approach for the evening, Blaze poised in front of an imaginary mirror, turning into the part of the romantic poet, tells the silvered glass that he loves it, now and forever.

The suave persona mood even lasts as he spots his fantasy-turned-reality woman in the bar. After half an hour of not letting her know that he's watching her, he makes his Clint Eastwood move. He's Clint as he gets up and he's still Clint as he approaches her. But, before he reaches his destination, he becomes Jerrified. Suddenly the moves and lines of Jerry Lewis overcome the debonair exterior.

University to recognize Lawrence parents

By BECKY WEBER Collegian Reporter

A Lawrence couple has been selected as the all-University honorary parents for the 1985 Parents' Weekend.

Andy and Cynthia Galyardt, parents of Mark Galyardt, senior in industrial engineering, will be awarded a plaque commemorating their selection as honorary parents, during halftime of the K-State-Iowa State University football game Saturday.

The Galyardts will sit in the president's box during the football game and will be the guests of honor at a Chimes banquet Saturday night.

Chimes Junior Honorary coordinates Parents' Weekend and selected the Galyardts from five sets of finalist parents who were chosen from 32 sets. Students nominated parents by writing an essay on their parents' involvement in their community, their support for the University and their encouragement of higher education for their children.

Galyardt nominated his parents when he heard about the contest through his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta.

"I'm the youngest of three kids," Galyardt said. "I have an older sister and older brother who went to K-State. I came to K-State a lot when I was younger for games. We grew up with K-State. I was surprised and really happy when they (his parents) won. I felt that they really deserved it."

The Galyardts have lived in Lawrence for 22 years and have had children attend K-State for the last 11 years. Andy Galyardt graduated from the University in 1954 with a degree in business administration, and Cynthia Galyardt graduated with a degree in journalism in 1955.

"We're a K-State family. Our three children and our daughter-in-law have all attended K-State. I feel we represent K-State," Cynthia Galyardt said.

Through the years, the Galyardts have organized the Lawrence Wildcat Club, which has sponsored events such as social gatherings before and after K-State-University of Kansas games. They, along with other K-State alumni, have shown strong support for K-State even while living in the land of K-State's top rival.

"You would be surprised at how many K-State alumni there are living in Douglas County," Cynthia Galyardt said

Although the club is not as active as it used to be, the Galyardts have been helping recruit Douglas County high school students for K-State. For the past two years, they have had dinner for high school students, which has seemed to be successful, Cynthia Galyardt said.

"Last year, we had twice as many as the year before, and we had the K-State singers come down," she said. "There were about 150 people there. We hope it will be bigger this year."

Nixon

Continued from Page 1

who worked in the same office in the Nixon administration under Watergate conspirator John .Dean, said he has deliberately stayed out of

"I suspect the delay can be attributed to a lot of reasons, but not political considerations," said his deputy, Dick Hauser, who had been one of Nixon's Watergate lawyers. "Releasing the regulations would be no problem. That's just not it." An associate counsel in Fielding's office, John Roberts, said "We don't want even to create the appearance we are involved in this for some sort of political reasons. People on staff here, who were in the Nixon White House, have recused themselves. We have no reason to keep these things from coming out."

The Archives had been prepared in 1983 to begin making public 1.5 million pages of documents - those marked "special files" by the Nixon staff. These include internal memoranda, advice to the president, political and fund-raising memos and legislative problems.

Continued from Page 1

applied because of sanctions.

The Business Day story sent shock waves through the mining industry, which employs about 210,000 foreign blacks. Many of South Africa's own blacks shun dangerous underground mining jobs, making the industry dependent on foreign migrant

The government says 350,000 foreign blacks are legally employed in South Africa, while 1.2 million are illegally employed.

Police reported sporadic antiapartheid rioting around the country but no new deaths in the 15-month-old violence that has left at least 800 dead. Several clashes occurred Sunday and early Monday in Mamelodi, one of Pretoria's black townships not previously involved in unrest.

By The Collegian Staff

People in Kansas interested in professional administration may now take a course in the subject without coming to campus.

A one-hour course dealing with the problems, concerns and needs of the public administrator began Saturday through Telenet, an audioteleconferencing network. The course is coordinated through the Division of Continuing Education and the Department of Political Science.

The course is designed for people in administrative positions within government or school systems, said Mark Daniels, associate professor of political science and director of the master's of public administration who wish to gain additional formal education, he said. However, it is not targeted for managers in the private sector. "We like to give them (public administrators) a taste of what studying public administration is like and if they like it enough, they might come here for our MPA program," Daniels said.

Telenet offers administration class

This course is just one of the programs designed to bring the MPA degree to people all across Kansas, he said. Other actions are to increase consultations to local governments, place MPA students in internships and establish a co-op program with other universities, he said.

The course is to include topics about public administrators in American society, as well as provide information about administrators in other countries.

In the five-week course, Daniels will be joined by Linda Richter, associate professor of political science; Orma Linford, associate professor of political science; and Joseph Hajda, professor of political science, to present instruction on the role and significance of public administrators.

TACO TUESDAY

Have it 3 ways: UNO 2 Tacos + 1 Margarita $2.99 DOS 2 Tacos + Salad Bar $2.99 TRES 3 Tacos $2.75 From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

BOCKERS RAMADA INN

retaliatory South African pressure

Mozambican leader Samora Machel called for international pressure during his recent trip to the United States but said his country would be hurt by expulsions because 60,000 Mozambicans legally work in South Africa.

Memorials

pastor of the Peoples Church of Chicago, at the All Faiths Chapel dedication ceremonies. "We must be able to say to the boys, 'This will never happen again. You died for

A bronze plaque near the entrance something big.'

comprehensive

health

Continued from Page 1

of the lobby is dedicated to K-State students who died in World War II and Korea On Feb. 26, 1969, a war memorial was presented to the Union. The memorial plaque honoring students who died in Vietnam was presented by Arnold Air Society, an honorary society for Air Force ROTC cadets. The plaque hangs on the first floor of the Union next to the checkcashing windows.

Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

associates *outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling *gynecology *contraception Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

YOU

FREE DELIVERY HUNAM Restaurant , (10% off with KSU I D.) 11 a.m.-1 a.m. 1116 Moro 1304 Westloop

The KSU International Awareness Series and Phi Alpha Theta

THE U.S. AND THE SOVIET UNION: A WORKING FRAMEWORK

presents

COL. TERRY HEYNS Professor of Aerospace

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12 UNION 206 3:30 p.m.

TACO TUESDAY 99¢ each 3 for $2.50 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. 5-9 p.m. AND MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime 99¢ all day and night!

The Answer is clear OUNA You are going to drink 90 ¢ Margaritas tonight 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

this weekend

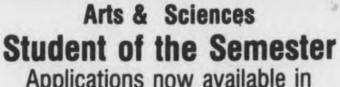

120 Moro

AUntie Mae's Parlor AGGIEVILLE

Memberships available 616 N. 12th 539-9967 Memberships only $10.45 Reciprocates with all Aggie clubs. Get yours today.

Buy a 16" pizza Get a 10" pizza

usettos 539-3830

Applications now available in Dean's Office & SGA Office

Applications Due: Friday,

Nov. 15th 5:00 p.m.

REGISTER FREE FOR

PURCHASE NECESSARY

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS THE DRAWING FOR ONE 20 LB. TURKEY AT EACH MINI MART WILL BE ON NOVEMBER 22. NEED

NOT BE PRESENT TO WIN. REGISTER AS MANY TIMES AS YOU LIKE.

CONVENIENCE

The Friendly Country Store. 3 Miles East on Hiway 24 Open 6 a.m. Till 1 a.m. Daily

Kansas State

Wednesday

November 13, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 57

Leaders dispute purpose of summit meeting

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - To George Shultz, President Reagan's summit meeting with Mikhail Gorbachev is a test of diplomacy. To Caspar Weinberger, it is a potential trap.

Shultz, the secretary of state, has kept a relatively low profile in the months leading up to the summit, working behind the scenes to prepare and counsel the president on negotiating approaches.

Weinberger, the secretary of defense, has by contrast gone into overdrive with his rhetoric, using forum after forum to brand the Soviets as the villains of world affairs and unworthy of trust.

In a speech on Oct. 3, Weinberger flatly accused the Soviets of continuing to strive for a "first strike" nuclear capability over the United States. And on Oct. 22, he made it clear that given a choice between the "Star Wars' program and arms control negotiations, he'd take Star Wars any time.

In the middle, of course, is Reagan. Administration insiders who demand anonymity say the president is philosophically attuned to Weinberger, but respects Shultz's view that a meaningful arms control agreement might be negotiated with the Soviets.

The president has recently echoed some of Weinberger's remarks in a bid to lower public expectations about his first summit. but there is a broad, general feeling within the administration that Shultz and national security advisor Robert McFarlane have risen at Weinberger's expense.

Weinberger will not be traveling to Geneva with the president for the summit. Aides to the secretary say that doesn't trouble him in the least; other officials say it gives Shultz more of a clear field to urge flexibility. Weinberger was concerned enough about the influence of Shultz and others that he canceled a two-week trip in October to the Far East.

To some State and Defense officials interviewed over recent weeks, the differences between Weinberger and Shultz are merely a reflection of the institutional biases of the two bureaucracies they head. To others, though, theirs is a confrontation that is distracting to the president and one that leaves an impression abroad of confusion in the making of American foreign

And it is a dispute that is almost impossible to document publicly. Top leaders of the two departments refuse to discuss the subject on the record and most - with an eye toward pre-summit public relations - maintain even in private there is no dispute between

"I think in the preparation for the summit there has been considerable harmony,' asserts one top civilian at the Pentagon. "There is a good deal of consensus at this point on summit preparations," says a State Department official.

Shultz and Weinberger, however, have been in office too long and fought too many of their battles in public for their respective views on the military, arms control and the Soviet Union to be masked.

"I think stories suggesting personal animosity between these two are unfair," says one Pentagon source. "But they do approach these issues differently and they both have the ear of the president.'

"There's more of a tendency at State to be simplistic: to be interested in agreements,' summarizes another Pentagon official. 'Weinberger sees no value in reaching an agreement unless it is really fortified with safeguards."

The history of the conflicting advice that Reagan has received from his two lieutenants is weighty. Weinberger and Shultz have disagreed on some of the most basic issues that determine foreign policy.

Descent

A student is silhouetted as he descends from the television camera booth during Basketball Media Day Tuesday in Ahearn Field House. Media from across Kansas gathered to interview the men's and women's teams and coaches. The men begin play Nov. 22 at the Silversword Classic in Hawaii, as the women host the Little Apple Classic in Manhattan on the same date.

Panelists analyze arms race

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

Now that the Soviet Union and the United States have the nuclear weapons to turn each other into "radioactive chicken yards," nuclear superiority no longer makes a difference, said Henry Kendall, consultant to the Department of Defense.

Kendall was a panel member Tuesday in a discussion concerning the nuclear arms race. The program, shown in Durland Hall on a big screen television, was broadcast by satellite from Washington, D.C. About 40 people in Durland watched the videoconference.

The event was sponsored by the Union of Concerned Scientists.

The program, "From Trinity to Star Wars," was broadcast on 400 Public Broadcasting System and cable channels. Three panelists answered questions relating to "Star Wars' defense and two other panelists talked about the summit negotiations beginning Nov. 19, between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"We are embarked on a grand enterprise to sweep away the dark shadow of nuclear annihilation," said Kendall, who is also a member of the Union of Concerned Scientists. Panel members agreed that the central issue in the summit would be arms control. The proposed Strategic Defense

See NUCLEAR, Page 12

Publication to provide education for farmers

By BECKY WEBER Collegian Reporter

Today some farmers feel the world is against them - especially lawyers and creditors - but Sam Brownback considers himself their friend.

Brownback, Manhatttan attorney and instructor of agricultural economics, along with two others, is writing a publication on foreclosure, bankruptcy and tax implications which can help educate farmers about the depreciating agriculture

Brownback has written a series of ag-law publications, but this one is different, he said.

Farmers have always been debt dependent, said Brownback. extension agricultural law specialist. But due to a confluence of forces, such as high interest rates, declining prices and less people eating beef, the '80s have been anything but prosperous for the farmer.

"All farmers have been hurt, but the grain, cattle and hog farmers are the hardest hit. The whole situation has just been a whammy on people,' said Brownback.

"I've seen charts where a guy has started out in the '80s with a 50 percent debt and after the confluence of forces drove the market down, his debt grew to more than 100 percent. The farmer lost more than all of his assets."

Brownback said the most misunderstood problem deals with tax implications which have overtaken farmers who have gone broke and wanted to get out honorably.

For example, a farmer who has a $100,000 debt and $40,000 in collateral may decide to settle with his creditors by turning over his land or machinery. The bank takes a loss as well as the farmer. The $60,000 loss is interpreted by the Internal Revenue Service as income to the farmer because that money was just "given" to him. So the IRS may slap the farmer with a $30,000 tax bill for turning over all of his assets,

Brownback said. "In cases like these, many times the farmer will file bankruptcy to avoid taxes," Brownback said. "Some say that up to one-fourth of bankruptcies are filed for tax

Although Brownback has a general law practice, many of his clients are farmers who are in deep financial

Many attorneys will simply not deal with farmers, not only for financial reasons but also because the psychological aspects of working with farmers are hard to deal with, Brownback said.

get very depressed,"

See AGRICULTURE, Page 3

Terrorist bombing kills 4 in Lebanon

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - A suicide bomber crashed a pickup truck loaded with explosives into a monastery where six senior Christian politicians were meeting Tuesday. The bomber, two army guards and a woman were killed and 26 other people were injured, police said.

They said a 21/2-foot-thick stone wall shielded the politicians from the main force of the blast, which gouged out a 20-foot-wide crater. Three bombs exploded overnight in various parts of Moslem west

Beirut, killing four civilians and wounding eight, police reported earlier in the day.

The meeting in the Christian suburb of Aukar in east Beirut was to discuss opposition to a draft Syrian-sponsored armistice agreement reached last month by Lebanon's three strongest militias in an effort to end the 10-year-old

The six politicians gathered at the monastery belong to the Lebanese Front, a Christian political coalition which was excluded from the negotiations. An anonymous caller claiming to speak for the previously unknown "Vanguard of Arab Christians" told a Western news agency in Beirut: "We have staged this bombing and we shall carry out more sacrifices.' All six senior members of the Lebanese Front were injured, but only one, former Defense Minister George Skaff, 55, was hurt seriously, police said.

They said those slightly hurt included former President Camille Chamoun, 85, and his son, Dany, 51, leader of the National Liberal Party Others wounded included bodyguards, passersby and four soldiers, police said.

In the attack on the Christian leaders, the driver of the red and blue Dodge pickup was blown to pieces in the explosion. Police said all they could find was a toe. Officers said the pickup truck carried 660 pounds of explosives.

The bombing occurred at 10:10 a.m. moments after the Chamouns entered the sandstone, brick-roofed St. Georges Monastery. Camille Chamoun, who survived two bomb assassination attempts in 1980, suffered minor facial cuts and his son was wounded in the hand.

Doctor speaks on 'food manipulation'

By BECKY WEBER Collegian Reporter

One out of every five women on campus may suffer from an eating disorder.

Dr. C. Alton Barnhill, director of the Menninger Eating Disorders Program at the Menninger Foundation, spoke to about 60 people in the Issues and Answers preconvocation forum Tuesday evening in the Union Forum Hall.

Barnhill began his address by defining an eating disorder as, "the manipulation of food by an individual to serve some other needs than their nutritional needs." Eating disorders fall into three basic categories: anorexia nervosa, bulimia and atypical eating disorders.

Anorexia nervosa is the most serious of the categories because the mortality rate is the highest. To be diagnosed as an anorexic, the patient must have a fear of being fat, have a disturbance of body image, have lost at least 25 percent of original body weight, refuse to maintain body weight and have no physical illness to account for the weight loss

Those who suffer from bulimia have recurrent episodes of binge eating; consume high caloric foods during these binges; terminate the eating episode by pain, sleep or social interruption; have repeated attempts to lose weight; use laxatives or diuretics to lose weight; be aware that there is an eating problem; and be depressed after the eating binge.

The atypical eating disorder is any eating abnormality that cannot be classified within the other two categories.

Disorders can cause numerous symptoms from irregular heart

To begin treatment program, the individual is placed in a completely controlled environment and the refeeding process begins. The program also involves education training, which provides training in matters such as cooking strategies;

how to cope with stress; nutritional rates to dental problems.

counseling; exercise and fitness; assertiveness training; and relapse prevention. Barnhill said results can be seen within seven to 14 days. After the eating disorder has been controlled, the patient is prescribed a diet.

Inside

Nichols Gymnasium, which was destroyed by fire 17 years ago, will be rededicated Saturday as Nichols Hall. See Page 6.

Today, cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain. Highs mid- to upper 40s before turning colder late afternoon

Sports

The K-State men's basketball team traveled to Topeka Tuesday for a intrasquad scrimmage at Washburn University. See Page 8.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

AIDS patient dies after treatment

GRENOBLE, France - A third AIDS patient undergoing experimental treatment in France with the drug cyclosporine has died, the patient's doctor announced Tuesday.

Dr. Max Micoud identified the patient as a 27-year-old man who had been treated with the drug for six days before his death on

On Monday, doctors in Paris revealed that a 38-year-old male AIDS patient treated with the drug also had died Saturday.

In subsequent interviews, one of the doctors, Philippe Even, said another patient had died after two days of treatment with cyclosporine in very early clinical tests last month, before the treatment was made public at a news conference. But Even said results from the treatment of nine other patients were promising and the program was being expanded to five other French hospitals. He said the number of patients would be increased to about 20. The hospitals cited by Even as the centers for expanded research did not involve the Grenoble hospital with which Micoud is

In a statement issued in Grenoble, Micoud said he decided to try cyclosporine on a terminally ill AIDS patient after hearing of the "spectacular biological results" announced by Even and two colleagues at the Oct. 29 news conference in Paris.

PEOPLE

Man suing estate of Rock Hudson

LOS ANGELES - A man who says he was Rock Hudson's lover in the last years of the actor's life filed a $14 million lawsuit Tuesday. claiming Hudson repeatedly had sex with him while concealing the fact he had AIDS.

"He asked Rock, and Rock denied he had it," attorney Marvin Mitchelson told a news conference as 31-year-old plaintiff Marc Christian sat by silently.

The suit alleges bodily injury, mental suffering and damages for fraud and deceit against executor Wallace Sheft, secretary Mark Miller and an unspecified number of doctors. It seeks $10 million from the estate plus $1 million each from Sheft, Miller and two of the doctors, saying they all conspired to hide the actor's affliction from

Despite album Ringo stays happy

LONDON — Ex-Beatles drummer Ringo Starr, now 45 and a grandfather, says he's never been happier, even though his latest record album was considered too ho-hum for issue in Britain or the

"I've heard the applause...and I don't think I want it now. One day the clapping has to stop," he told Woman magazine in an interview published Tuesday. Woman, one of Britain's leading women's magazines, said the interview was an extract from a new book on the Beatles by Hunter

Davies. The book is to be published next month. Starr's latest album, "Old Wave," came out last year only in Canada. "I was very disappointed. I liked the album," he said.

Kansas farmer makes it to 104th

LYONS, Kan. - A one-time "regular" on "The Tonight Show" turned 104 Tuesday, saying he has had his turn in the spotlight and doesn't regret that it's over.

Farmer Wally Lattimer, who marked his 97th, 98th, 99th and 100th birthdays on the show, says he doesn't miss sharing his homegrown tomatoes and homespun philosophy with host Johnny Carson.
"It was an honor to start with," Lattimer said. "But I just had enough of running out there (to NBC studios in Burbank, Calif.). He's a nice guy, but I can see why he's been divorced so often. I wouldn't want to live with him.

Lattimer said he enjoyed the fame his appearances on "The Tonight Show" and "Hee Haw" brought him.

Lattimer, who's already outlived three of his nine children, was born in 1881 and came to Kansas from Illinois when he was 5.

NATIONAL

Walker gets life sentence in prison

NORFOLK, Va. - Arthur J. Walker, a retired Navy officer convicted of supplying secrets to a Soviet spy ring run by his brother, was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday by a judge who refused to "treat this as a slap-on-the-wrist case.

Walker, a 51-year-old retired Navy lieutenant commander, told U.S. District Judge J. Calvitt Clarke Jr. that he wished to "apologize to all the citizens of this country for what I did."

"I dishonored myself. I devastated my family. Nobody could be any sorrier," he said.

Clarke then sentenced Walker, of Virginia Beach, to the maximum of three life terms and four 10-year terms on seven counts of espionage, with the sentences to run concurrently. Walker, who was also fined $250,000, will be eligible for parole in 10 years.

Walker's wife Rita, the only witness at the sentencing hearing, testified that he became suicidal while he was spying and had an affair with his brother's wife in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

His brother, John A. Walker Jr., 48, a retired Navy chief warrant officer, and John Walker's son, Navy seaman Michael L. Walker, 22, pleaded guilty to espionage Oct. 28. In exchange for his cooperation with authorities, John Walker is to receive a life sentence and his son is to serve 25 years.

Fire partially destroys bookstore

BERKELEY, Calif. - Flames raced through a University of California bookstore early Tuesday, causing $1 million damage to the building and contents, fire officials said.

The fire gutted the south end of the bookstore, which is located in the Martin Luther King Jr. Student Union at the UC campus here. Smoke and water damaged other portions of the building. There were no injuries. The cause of the 3 a.m. blaze was under investigation. Eleven engines and 32 firefighters needed about 11/2 hours to extinguish the fire.

REGIONAL

Committee wants new fence laws

TOPEKA - One study committee recommended Tuesday that state fence laws be updated during the 1986 session, while another endorsed a proposal requiring anyone who wants to drill a water well, even an owner on private property, to apply to the state.

A third legislative panel voted its support of a proposal to require collection of data statewide on incidents of physical violence in public

Stephan makes investments ruling

TOPEKA - State laws and past court decisions would allow university endowment associations to withdraw investments in companies that do business in South Africa, Attorney General Robert T. Stephan said Tuesday.

Stephan, in a non-binding legal opinion, said that although state law does not allow universities' and charitable organizations' investment decisions to be based solely on moral or political grounds, those concerns may be taken into account when investments in South Africa are under consideration.

The opinion was in response to similar questions about investments in the racially segregated nation from Reps. Jessie M. Branson and Betty Jo Charlton, both D-Lawrence, and Rep. Henry Helgerson, D-Wichita, Stephan said.

"The opinion does not require any trustees of public funds to divest," Stephan said. "Instead, it should be interpreted to say that governmental units and charitable corporations are free to examine their investments to determine the prudent economic decision."

The opinion, prepared by Assistant Attorney General Jeffrey S. Southard, said universities and charitable organizations must abide by the "business care" rule in managing investments.

That means the trustees of those organizations must exercise "ordinary business care and prudence, based on the facts available at the time," the opinion said.

PARENTS' WEEKEND '85

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other is Wings" Chimes Junior Honorary is coordinating this weekend for Nov. 15, 16 and 17.

Begin the weekend with the activities on Friday evening, Nov. 15.

- -"Ghostbusters" movie in the Union, 7 & 9:30 p.m.
- -"The Buck Stops Here" play in Nichols, 8 p.m.
- -Eclectic Entertainment in the Catskeller, 8 p.m.
- -Trio Cassat Concert in All Faiths Chapel, 8 p.m.

Start planning your weekend now!

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR CHRISTINE'S BRIDALS

HUNAM'S

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN

KINKO'S KITE'S BAR & GRILL

Ben Franklin,

Add some class to a dreary room or give an impressive gift with one of our wide variety of classic prints.

> We have all sizes and styles of prints by Ira Roberts, Portal, and New York Graphics. Be sure and ask about our free framing! NEW YORK GRAPHICS

Come in and order any one of your favorite New York Graphics prints from the New York Graphic Society.

CENTER MANHATTAN Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Sun. 1-5 p.m.

WESTLOOP

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER is now hosting on campus interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to apply.

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARDS APPLICATIONS are available in Ackert 233 and

TODAY

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS will meet for yearbook pictures at 8:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS will meet for yearbook pictures at 4:35 p.m. in Calvin 102. BLACK STUDENT UNION will meet at 8:30 p.m. in the Farrell Minority Resource Center PI SIGMA EPSILON will meet at 7 p.m. in

UNITED NATIONS COUNCIL will meet at 7

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION will meet for yearbook pictures at 8 p.m. in Calvin

FENIX will have a forum at 2 p.m. in Holton

YOU Can Be An

Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS will take

STUDENTS FOR LIFE will meet at 8 p.m. at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison

PRE-VET CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching 201.

take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in the Union Flint Hills room.

AG ECON CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at Campbell Distributors, 825 Levee Drive.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION will meet at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.

HOME ECONOMICS EDUCATION INTEREST GROUP will meet at 6 p.m. in

RODEO CLUB will have an executive meeting at 5:30 p.m. and a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 230

PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Ackert 116.

comprehensive health associates

ofree pregnancy tests outpatient abortion services *alternatives counseling *gynecology *contraception

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

SUN N CONNECTION Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-10 p.m. TANNING SALON

776-2426

Open 7 days a week Sat. 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

WALK-INS WELCOME APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE

Come see us for the largest selection of new and late model used Cars and Trucks in the Manhattan area.

WE ALSO HAVE

- A Used Budget Lot
- Rental Cars and Trucks
- A Body Shop
- A Parts and Service Center

776-4004 123 S. 2nd FORD · L/M · VW · PORSCHE · AUD 776-4004 123 S. 2nd eles Hours

BUD LIGHT

TODAY is the last day to vote for your candidate in the K-State Union

Acacia—Tim Duxon Alpha Gamma Rho-John Smith Alpha Kappa Lamba—Gary Bamford Delta Sigma Phi-Kent Ely Delta Tau Delta-Chris Fellers Delta Upsilon-Doug Grossenbacher FarmHouse-Tom Stinson Kappa Sigma-Chris Hamann Lambda Chi Alpha-Tim Henson Phi Delta Theta-Tom Partridge

Phi Gamma Delta-Rick Wietharn Phi Kappa Tau-John Olson Phi Kappa Theta-Bill Blasing Pi Kappa Alpha-Kurt Kolbeck Pi Kappa Phi-Bob Nunes Sigma Chi-Kevin Mott Sigma Nu-Dan Allen Sigma Phi Epsilon-Brian Walton Tau Kappa Epsilon-Jeff Morris Triangle-Steve Kohler

Silver coins count as positive votes and pennies and bills count as negative. All proceeds to benefit cystic fibrosis

'Telestudent' program tries to lure prospective students

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

The University is trying to "reach out and touch" students who scored well on the top Pre-scholastic Aptitude Test through Telestudent, a program in which K-State students call prospective students, said Nancy Hause, assistant director of New Student Programs.

Student leaders and personnel from New Student Programs talk to prospective students about the University and the academic programs in which the students are interested.

The first session was Monday night. Two other sessions will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. Thursday and Monday in the Student Financial Assistance office in Fairchild Hall.

When high school students took the PSAT test, they indicated their areas of interest on the form. This fall the University received a list of students who scored high on the test and these students' interests.

K-State students call with the intention of talking with the high school student about the indicated area. If the student is no longer interested in that area, callers refer to a fact book containing information about each college and facts about

Resume Service

1221 Moro • Aggieville

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

(913) 537-7294

each major. If the student isn't available, K-State students will talk with the parent.

"A telephone call is so much better than a letter," said Marilyn Trotter, director of New Student Programs.

High school seniors get a lot of mail and a telephone call is more personal, and the student can ask questions, she said.

'It's a thrill to get a long-distance telephone call, particularly if you've never had a lot of them, and probably high school seniors have not had a lot of long-distance phone calls for them specifically," Trotter said. During the spring New Student Programs will sponsor Telestudent for students who had their ACT scores sent to the University and to those who applied for admission. Because there is some overlap between these calls and the PSAT calls in November, the office crossreferences the spring calls with the

The University doesn't call top prospective ACT students because K-State doesn't get most of the scores until late January or early February. By that time most top students have made their decision on which school to attend, Trotter said. From a random sample of 355 students called in last year's PSAT Telestudent, personnel in New Student Program determined that 11.8 percent were enrolled this fall, compared with 47 percent of 310 students called in last spring's ACT

Telestudent. This is not unusual, Trotter said, because students who take the PSAT are juniors, while those who take the ACT are seniors and are a step ahead.

"What we are doing so far in attraction is working," she said. "We are down only one new student."

Sheila Farrell, junior in medical technology and a caller for the first session Monday, said she liked talking to the students.

After talking with their parents and classmates, Farrell said the students were glad to talk to someone "who's going to listen" and has "a feel" for the University.

"I think it was exciting for the students," said caller Judy Walter, sophomore in journalism and mass communications. "It made the students feel really important to get

$1.00 Deposit - Poses our selection. Special effects poses extra. Limit: One package per subject. $1.00 each additional subject in portrait. Minors must be accompanied by an adult. Satur-textured finish at no extra charge. Satisfaction guaranteed. Last visit Before Christmas!

6 DAYS ONLY

Tues, Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sat., Sun. Nov. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 DAILY 10-8, SUN. 12:30-5

628 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Manhattan, KS 5

Everyone Welcome
BABIES • CHILDREN • ADULTS • FAMILIES

Christmas Background At No Extra Charge PORTRAITS GUARANTEED IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING!

ENCORE

London Fog* takes control of the elements. Rugged good looks outside complement the durable, uncompromising warmth of plush acrylic pile inside that continues right into the hood. Add the drawstring waist, snap-close high neck, deep front pockets, and you've got the newest classic for all kinds of weather Fortrel* polyester and combed cotton shell. From the Outerwear Experts at Londontown Corporation

Agriculture

Continued from Page 1

Brownback said. "I should be able to leave these problems at the office as I do with other clients. But I feel more trauma (with farmers) than with other clients.

"It's terrible to sit across from someone who says he has contemplated suicide because of the situtation. The psychological thing also continues to drive down the economy."

When a farmer comes to Brownback for advice, he asks the farmer what his "druthers" are - does the farmer want to stay or get out of farming completely? After the farmer makes this decision they try to figure out what can be done.

The first thing Brownback does is encourage the borrowers to work closely with the farmer's creditors and find out what the tax implications would be if they were to settle.

"Farmers need legal council. They are generally at odds with lawyers. They need to know their rights." Brownback said.

Brownback said the publication should be finished by mid-December and will be distributed to county agents. The booklet form should be out in February.

"I hope the publication will inform people of the situation. The farmer can't rely on the extension bulletin. This will help educate the farmer, tell him what he can and can't logically and legally do."

As for an answer to the problem, Brownback said he doesn't have one.

"There will be a major restructuring of the agriculture life. Strong commercial farms will get even larger. There will be more commuter farmers who have jobs in town and come home at night to farm their quarter. We'll see more of the specialty farmer who will find his niche in the market. The small commercial farmer is getting thrown out," Brownback said.

In appreciation, the distributors of Stroh's and Old Milwaukee Light would like to show their appreciation to Doug Long, the people, and the tradition of Mel's Tavern by having a

PRE-DEMOLITION WEEKEND PARTY NOV. 15th and 16th.

T-Shirts • Hats • Neons • and more T-Shirts Commemorative and Memorabilia

The BIG GUY from the brewery will be on hand $2.25 Pitchers, 75¢ Old Milwaukee and Old Milwaukee Light cans.

Mon	Tues	Wed	Thur	Fri 15th	Sat 16th
11th	12th	13th	14th	T.G.I.F. Tradition	Iowa State Parents Day
44	43	42	41	40 days left	39 days left lays	days	days	days	7 Fridays left	7 Saturdays left $2.25 Pitchers left	left	left	left	$2.25 Pitchers .75 cans Old Milwaukee	.75 cans Old Milwaukee
18th	19th	20th	21st	T.G.I.F. Tradition	Saturday Specials
37	36	35	34	33 days left	32 days left
lays	days	days	days	6 Fridays left	6 Saturdays left left	left	left	left	$2.25 Pitchers	$2.25 Pitchers
ioit	ioit	ioit	TOIL	.75 cans Old Milwaukee	.75 cans Old Milwaukee

Sunday, November 24,

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

3:00 p.m.

HUNGARIAN

STATE

SYMPHONY

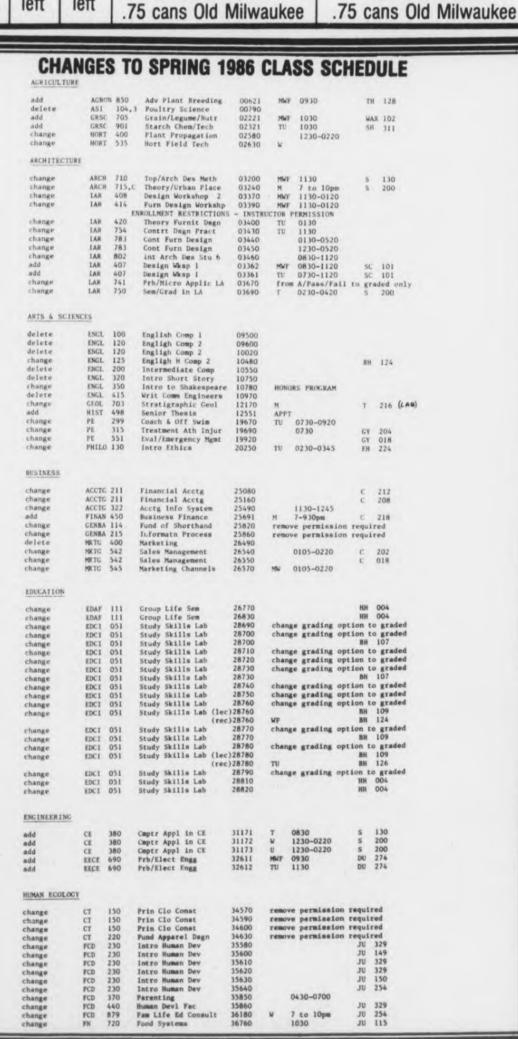

ORCHESTRA

One matinee performance only:

MasterCard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency

Kansas State

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35. academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Nuclear education needed

The Wolf Creek nuclear power plant has been commercially operational for only a few months, but critics have already begun pinpointing potential operating problems.

In an article in the Kansas City Times, Larry Martin, a section chief of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, whose area Creek, Wolf includes acknowledged two worker errors in plant operations which led to automatic shutdowns. The backup mechanisms in the plant worked to specification, and no problems resulted.

Robert Pollard, a former NRC official who now works for the Union of Concerned Scientists, has said these problems could indicate inadequate training of plant employees. Pollard warns that, while automatic back-up safety systems are working now, worker error may prevent this in the future.

Partially because of publicized nuclear energy problems such as these, enrollment in nuclear engineering programs across the country is dropping, and some universities are dropping the program all together. Despite a decline in enrollment, the College of Engineering has recognized the need for continuation of their program and has maintained it.

While employee error of the type that has occurred at Wolf Creek is not apparently at an engineering level, continuation of nuclear engineering training programs is imperative if the energy source is to continue to be viable.

While there are numerous problems with nuclear technology in its present state waste disposal among the leading

- the potential for the energy source is great. Opponents of nuclear energy must recognize this and push for research and development in the field in addition to effective worker training.

The nuclear engineering program on campus serves to aid in training those who may one day work toward making nuclear power safer and less harmful to the environment. Declining in nuclear enrollment engineering programs across the country does not mean a decline in nuclear energy, but a drop in the number of qualified people to research ways to improve the energy source.

A. Scharnhorst, for the editorial board

Editorial

Battling classical conditioning, dog tricks

I can't take it anymore. I've been pushed to my limit. I'm going to take action!

No, it's not because I haven't received any mail - other than a bill from Lafene Student Health Center - in more than a month.

It doesn't have to do with the Union, aerobics, the KSU Police Department, the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum or things people put in their hair.

It doesn't have to do with my friends, fraternity or faculty members.

I'm not taking action because of a national or a campus emergency.

Rather, I'm taking action because I'm sick and tired of hearing about a dog. Not just any dog - Pavlov's dog.

That's right, the dog who became famous for salivating because he wanted to eat, and then began slobbering every time his master rang a bell.

I've been forced to hear about Pavlov's dog in no less than six different classes during school. I've read about Pavlov's experiment in psychology, biology, sociology and English books. Not to mention the countless times the dog has been referred to in magazine and newspaper stories.

Believe it or not, it's not the repetition that bothers me. It's the fact that all Pavlov's dog did was salivate. You know - slobber, drool, slaver, dribble, spit - take your choice.

It's getting to the point where I'm conditioned to become nauseated every time Pavlov's name is mentioned.

I could tolerate reading about a dog who learned how to speak English or use his tail as an eating utensil, but just making a pool of saliva between his paws doesn't even warrant the attenion of another dog.

WAYNE LONG Collegian Columnist

If you haven't heard about Pavlov's classical conditioning experiment for a while, let me refresh your memory. One day, Paylov noticed his dog would begin salivating even in the presence of an empty food dish. Taking interest, he set up a controlled experiment in which a bell rang every time the dog was fed. After repeating this procedure several times, the bell was rung without presenting the food. What did the dog do? You guessed it, he salivated to the delight of his master, and classical conditioning was born.

I guess my dislike for Pavlov actually began in my high school psychology class. My teacher, Phil Scott, decided that I should volunteer for his very own classicalconditioning experiment. He sat me in front of the class and told me to put my hand down on two wires he had attached to a light switch which was wired to an old telephone

The idea was for him to ring a bell, turn on the switch and condition me to the sound of the bell so I would take my hand off the live wires without the presence of a shock.

On the first run, however, he rang the bell, hit the switch and I didn't receive even the slightest shock. I'll never forget his words: "There must be a short somewhere. Turn that crank a little faster," as he proceded to mess with the wires.

"OK now, Long, wet your hand a little bit and let's try it again." We did, and again nothing happened.

Unfortunately, Scott was not the type of man to give up. He untaped the wires and instructed me to hold one wire in each hand. Then he told the other student, who was already working up a good sweat, to turn the crank as fast as he could. Then he rang the bell and hit the switch.

It's an interesting feeling being illuminated in front of a classroom like a neon sign. The few volts that didn't go through my heart were expended making my hair stand straight up and every muscle in my body contract, much to the delight of my

I get the feeling the whole incident could have merited a place in my psychology book if I would have done just one tiny thing different. Instead of jumping straight up off my chair, I should have sat calmly while the volts were running through me and let saliva run from my mouth.

Today I took action against Pavlov and his mangy mutt. I reached up on my shelf and took down my old psychology text. I opened to the two pages devoted to explaining the importance of classical conditioning and took one last look at a picture of Pavlov. Then with two hands, I simultaneously ripped both pages out. I crumpled the paper between my hands, threw it away, and spit in my trash can.

Coliseum beyond reason

buy scoreboards - at a cost of $283,913 - for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, which may never be built. The situation has gone beyond the absurd and has reached into the Twilight Zone. What sort of buffoons are planning this little to-do? How in the world does the administration think it can justify this expense when the coliseum itself hangs so precariously?

The mismanagement of this project apparently knows no bounds. It outrages the senses. High school Junior-Achievement classes could handle it better. And still, the "leaders" plod onward, flying in the face of reason, sanity, even reality. The administration has been aggressively inept.

There have been pleas for moderation, for studies, for reconsideration, reevaluation. Then, increasing demands to stop the insanity, threats to withdraw funding, and still we have scoreboards for a coliseum we do not have.

It's stupid to think no one would notice, more stupid to think no one would care. And inexcusably stupid to think this is some sign

The University has seen fit to there will be a future willingness to reason out all the details. No, indeed, the Fred Bramlage Coliseum is full speed ahead, and damn the torpedos.

Never mind there isn't enough money to build it now, much less what may happen if Student Senate pulls out student monies. Never mind the coliseum was so poorly planned from the beginning that minor details like being able to sell enough seats to make it a money-maker were never considered. No, "students want" the coliseum, and students better believe they're going to get one, even if it's shoved down their throats.

So say hello to the new Fred Bramlage Coliseum. It seems to be here to stay.

It's obvious the administration has a whole bundle of prestige and money and face tied up in the coliseum, and is intractable.

It also seems obvious that no one is going to listen to what anyone has to say, anyway. If the purchase of the scoreboards is any indication, then requests or demands for reevaluation are redundant.

Rich Harris, for the editorial board

Bible says homosexuality wrong

Re: Patty Reinert's editorial, "Gays deserve equal rights," in the Nov. 5

In my opinion, the question isn't whether gays should have constitutional rights or not. The question is - what they're doing. Is it acceptable in the eyes of God? Then, and only after you, me or anyone else has answered that question - "honestly and truthfully," based upon God's word, the Holy Bible, can we say one has a right or one has

How can we as a country base our laws upon the Bible, such as no stealing, no killing, etc., and then when something like this comes up, we want to deviate from what God has proposed and say we can do what we want?

If what gays did in the privacy of their homes were brought out for a public showing on streets, would you still say, let them have their constitutional rights? If it's wrong to be done in public, does it make it right to be done in private?

I guess that you can gather from my letter that I am a firm believer in God and in the Holy Bible. And because of this fact, of course, my view would differ from yours. Because this case seemed open for opinions, I just wanted to express mine.

It's just that as I look around at the world's situation and see morals, values, reverence to God diminishing, it makes me want to know God more and find out the reasons for such actions. Amazingly, as I begin to study his word, I find out that things that are taking place in today's world have already been foretold. That's why I must stand against wrongness, even if it's my mother. Just wanted to give my opinion.

Karen Tryphonas clerk in Computer Systems Office, Division of Cooperative Extension

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations, and to withhold letters from publication.

Movie ad negative toward women

I was totally disgusted and infuriated with the X-rated movie advertisement for the Varsity Theater you published last week. I found the pictures degrading and damaging to the image of women.

It is your job to present the news in a true and fair manner, but advertisements are not news and these pictures are unnecessary. If pictures were necessary, then all movie ads would contain a picture. They do not.

What, then, is the necessity of the picture? Is it the all-powerful dollars you receive? If it is your reasoning that the advertiser insists upon those types of ads, then possibly you value the money of the advertisers more than you do your readership. If so, the dollars of your readers, collected at registration each semester, are not powerful enough to allow them to say, "uphold a true and proper image of us. Tell us the truth, but do not insult or slander us."

As part of a University, it is your responsibility to help educate students, and by so doing, help give them the tools - ideas and thoughts - they will need to function effectively. Presenting a degrading image of women to students is not beneficial to the female student and it will not help the male student, who will be working with and for women, to deal with women in an appropriate manner.

If you insist on printing such ads, I would like to withdraw my money from your periodical and apply it to one which will give me the news and not insult me at the same time. Those who work at the Collegian are mature enough to realize the potential negative impact of these pictures and to practice self censorship.

I urge all students to voice their opinions on this matter by writing or calling 532-6560, the Collegian advertising office.

Joan Cunnick graduate in biology

Housing helps

Much has been said lately about declining enrollment at K-State, but little has been done to halt the decline. True, one must realize nationwide enrollment has dropped in the 18 to 24 age group. At the same time one must take into consideration that there has to be a reason for the decline in enrollment among this age group. I believe students coming to K-State for the first time need to live in a group housing situation, be it the residence hall system or the greek system. The reasoning behind this is simple. Students who do not live in a group housing system generally do not meet people, do not get involved in campus or group activities and eventually, due to loneliness and uninvolvement, become drop-

I lived in the residence hall system for two years and enjoyed the atmosphere I found there. I would be the first to advise any firsttime college student to become part of a group-living system at K-State. K-State has so much to offer to its students if it can only keep them here.

Declining enrollment has an effect on all of us. Because of this, I believe we should all take part in helping to alleviate this problem. Encourage any first-timers you know to live in a group housing system.

Nancy Linder junior in secondary education

Rebel claims Liberian coup

By The Associated Press

A fugitive general claimed Tuesday he had overthrown Liberia's government, but a man identifying himself as head of state Samuel K. Doe said by telephone from the executive mansion that he was still in charge of the West African nation.

The U.S. Embassy spokesperson in Monrovia said that the center of the Liberian capital was calm at mid-afternoon and that Doe loyalists had taken the government radio station back from the rebels.

LAFENE STUDENT

HEALTH

CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS

$1.75

BLENDED DRINKS

Tired of juggling classes? Come to Mae's for a break

He said some soldiers who apparently were rebels were still on the streets.

The London bureau of NBC, said its staff telephoned the executive mansion in Monrovia and interviewed a man who said he was

"The situation here is under control, and I'm still in power," the man said. "I want to appeal to the Liberian people to be calm and all those that came with (rebel leader Thomas) Quiwonkpa to put down their arms and report to the nearest police officer.'

He said loyalist troops had killed "about 15 rebels" who attacked the executive mansion before dawn.

Embassy U.S. The spokesperson, Richard Gilbert, said in a telephone interview with Associated Press Radio in Washington, D.C.: "As far as we know all Americans are safe."

Gen. Quiwonkpa was among the leaders of the bloody 1980 "sergeants' coup" that brought Doe to power, but his former comrade accused him of plotting two years ago and Quiwonkpa fled

BAKERYSCIENCE CLUB BAKE SALE

COME EARLY FOR BEST

SELECTION

PAISIN BREAD FRENCH BREAD LONEY-CRACKED RYE BREAD

SHELLENBERGER 105, 3:30 TILL SUPPLY

In honor of

THANKSGIVING

Ethnic groups affect mayoral race

By The Associated Press

MIAMI - Cuban-Americans went to the polls in heavy numbers Tuesday to pick their own Miami mayor for the first time. Black turnout was also heavy as the city's second-largest bloc sought to protect the only black city commission incumbent. Banker Raul Masvidal, 43, and attorney Xavier Suarez, 37, both Cuban-born, eliminated six-term, Puerto Rican-born incumbent Maurice Ferre and eight other challengers in a Nov. 5 non-partisan primary election that set up Tuesday's runoff vote.

The Dade County Elections

Department had predicted a 60 percent turnout of the city's nearly 115,000 voters, and turnout by late morning was 51.5 percent, said assistant supervisor Sharon Mitchell.

The lone black on the city commission, Miller Dawkins, 60, faced a challenger born in New York of Cuban parents, attorney Victor DeYurre, 32. The other city commission race was between two 40-year-old Cuban-Americans, Rosario Kennedy and incumbent Demetrio Perez Jr., who squabbled over whether anti-Castro sentiments are a valid local campaign issue.

The largest voting bloc in the city is Cuban, nearly 40 percent, followed by blacks, who account for 29.8 of registered voters, and non-Hispanic whites, about 29.5 percent.

The differences on issues between Masvidal and Suarez were subtle. In the primary, Suarez led the 11-way race with 16,224 votes, or 28.9 percent, to Masvidal's 15,893, or 28.3 percent. Suarez won 48 percent of the vote in Hispanic precincts, compared to 21 percent for Masvidal.

Masvidal, a banker who reported his net worth at $4 million, spent at least $200,000 of his own money in the campaign for the $6,000-a-year post.

The Harvard-educated Suarez, who finished second to Ferre in 1983, promised to be a "hands-on," populist mayor.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

WEDNESDAY AT

5 WELL & TROPICAL

BECAUSE:

DRINKS 80c DRAWS, $1.00 WINE

2 FOR 1 ON BAR FOOD MUNCHIES

STATION GARB GIVEAWAYS

GREAT SOUNDS and HOT VIDEOS, too!

1115 MORO 776-0030

We honor any other local pizza coupon PIZZERIA

with this ad 1 coupon per order

Have a Hot Time Tonight! All You Can Eat Fiesta Salad Bar Every Wednesday Night only $3.99 Design your own hearty Fiesta Salad from a large variety of scrumptous toppings, including two kinds of meat. The only one of its kind in Manhattan.

Fri. & Sat. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. If you love Mexican food, head for Raoul's

M-Th 11 a.m. 10 p.m.

Raoul's Mexican Restaurant

1108 Laramie, Aggieville

TAVERN Wednesday $1.75 Pitchers $1.00 Coolers 619 N. Manhattan

is looking for Aggieville's Biggest Turkey. Tell us in 50 words or less why your friend should be Aggieville's Biggest Turkey! The winner will receive Eegee's Thanksgiving Feast. (all you can eat, including ice cream, for two!) Contest closes November 23, 1985 Get Into the Fun of It!

12th & Laramie 537-3999

Open daily to midnight Sat & Sun. 8:30 a.m. for Breakfast

Wildcat 😝 Special

Offer good: Nov. 13 through through Nov. 19, 1985

Free Regular Fries and Medium drink with the purchase of any sandwich

Present coupon when ordering.

3004 Anderson

One special per coupon, please.

421 N. 3rd

All New BreakRitz to go! For 79¢

You get an English muffin, egg, cheese and canadian bacon All in an easy to eat on-the-go sandwich.

Also try our 99¢ Breakfast Special Eggs, side order of meat, toast, coffee or milk. 8 a.m.-11 a.m.

Mon.-Fri. Sat.-Sun. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sunday

537-3335 Mon-Thurs Friday Saturday

8 a.m. - 12:30 a.m. 8 a.m. - 1:30 a.m. 10 a.m. - 1:30 a.m.

10 a.m. - 12:30 a.m. 1st Bank Center Denison & Claflin

Introducing 3 new stylists

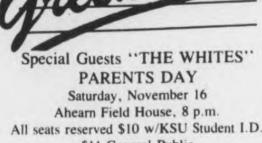

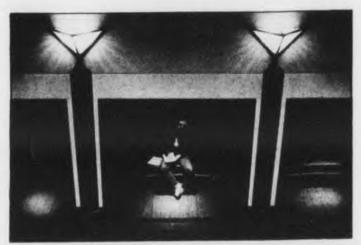

Save 50% with this ad on haircuts & perms. HURRY while offer lasts! EXPIRES DEC. 2, 1985

$11 General Public Tickets on sale today 10 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Union Box Office and S Bar J Clothiers.

Midnight Flames Engulf Nichols Midnight Flames Engulf Midnight Flames Engulf Midnight Flames Engulf Midnight Flames Engulf

High-backed oak benches offer students bucolic respite from the mainstream traffic of the Nichols Hall atrium.

Nichols Gymnasium, gutted by fire nearly 17 years ago, is scheduled for rededication at 11 a.m. Saturday, as Nichols Hall

The 74-year-old building has been the focal point of protest marches, Collegian editorials, Castle Crusade — a campus group dedicated to the preservation of Nichols — and committees set up to study the feasibility of renovation.

Nichols, named after Ernest R. Nichols, president of K-State from 1899 to 1909, was discovered burning at 11:15 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13, 1968.

The previous day, a reportedly heated meeting between students and administrators had taken place. The confrontation, concerning student rights, was cited as the impetus for the arson; however, no one was ever charged in the incident.

The fire left the student-operated radio station, KSDB-FM, Extension Radio and Television — which operated KSAC, the University's AM radio station — women's physical education and the Department of Music without a home.

Following the fire the four lampposts in front of Nichols, given to the University by the Class of 1913, were moved to the pedestrian court north of Anderson Hall.

Nichols' two swimming pools, the only things within the charred walls considered salvageable, were renovated in the summer of 1969. Swimming lessons were taught until the completion of the Natatorium in 1972, at which time Nichols Gymnasium was boarded up.

The issue of what to do with the reinforced concrete walls covered by 2-foot thick pieces of limestone never died. Architecture students performed studies on renovation, and a "Save the Castle" petition was introduced to students in the early Concern about Nichols' future moved in waves, but gained momentum in February, 1976, when Castle Crusade was recognized as a campus organization by the University Activities Board. The organization worked to keep the issue of Nichols preservation and renovation in the headlines.

Dan Gibson, 1976 graduate in architecture and coordinator of Castle Crusade, said that when it was founded, the small group was composed mostly of architecture students.

"A lot of people considered (Nichols) an architectural symbol of an era. The detail, the style, the location — there was a good reason for keeping it. We really put our hearts into this," Gibson said in a recent interview.

"The group tried to publicize the Nichols Gym situation," he said. "We didn't try to push any use for the building. We just worked on raising awareness for it and raising funds for it. We just tried to keep the issue

Interest in Nichols increased again in April 1979, when President Duane Acker announced he would seek funds from the Kansas Legislature to raze the structure to use the space it occupied for other campus buildings.

The announcement touched off a protest, which took place on the south side of Anderson. About 800 student and faculty protestors filled Mid-Campus Drive and a portion of the Fairchild Hall lawn.

Greg Musil, student body president in '79, said there were many reasons for preserving the ivy-covered walls.

"Anybody who looks at it recognizes how unique it is, not only on campus, but in the state. It's a massive and impressive piece of history," Musil said. "Also, the best estimates we could get on short notice said that you could build within the walls for about the same price as it would take to construct an entirely new building. That's getting your cake and eating it too.

"K-State has a long history. But, people won't remember that unless they preserve it," he said.

Funding for the Nichols renovation was granted by the Legislature in 1981 and construction began in the fall of 1983. Although the multi-year Nichols Hall: A tribut

Nichols Hall, originally opened in 1911, has had a stormy past and will be officially rededicated Saturday. The building was gutted by fire in 1968 and was the for appropriation allotted nearly $6.2 million for the project, the final cost of the renovation will be $5.58 million, said Vincent Cool, associate director of planning for University facilities.

The restored building houses the Department of Computer Science, the Department of Speech and a collection of books and monographs from Farrell Library. To some extent, Nichols serves as a home for the computer science department.

"Being stuck in every nook and cranny of Fairchild doesn't do much for appearance," said Virgil Wallentine, head of the computer science department. "The move gave us a professional appearance."

But Nichols has more to offer the department than just a professional look and a place to call its own. Along with the building's internal facelift, the department has gained space for experimental laboratory equipment. Cool termed the facility "pretty close to state of the art." The space has an elevated floor, air conditioning and a Halon fire protection system, he

The fire protection system expels halon gas to replace the oxygen supply and smother flames, Wallentine said. When smoke detectors sense a fire, buzzers give occupants of the laboratory 30 to 40 seconds to evacuate. After that time, gas is released into the room, taking about five seconds to fill it. The gas system is used rather than a water sprinkler system to avoid damaging

The portion of Nichols occupied by the department is also equipped with a line-conditioning system. The system takes out high voltages in power lines to protect the computer equipment in the event of a power surge, he said.

the equipment, he said.

Another safety feature of the hall is a battery back-up system for the mini-computers in the building. This enables the department to shut down the mini-computer system slowly in the event of a power failure.

In addition to ensuring the safety of high-tech equipment, renovation plans allowed for construction of an aesthetically pleasing facility.

The three-story, oak-rich atrium makes use of natural light provided by a sun roof. Through the course of a day, shadows play on the natural colors in the deep and narrow lobby. High-backed oak benches nestled into the east side of the atrium afford a retreat from the bright afternoon

In January, a 10-feet by 48-feet mural is scheduled to be placed on the east wall of the atrium, directly above the entrance to Nichols Theatre.

Jerry Katlin, former director of student alumni programs for the KSU Alumni Association, said the mural would highlight student achievement and play upon colors and lines already found in the building.

To offer students greater experience in the performing arts, Nichols Theatre, which will also be used by students as a performance laboratory, was included in the construction plans. The theater's stage, lighting and audio equipment will be used primarily for rehearsals and productions. It will also be utilized for classes in stage production, said Lew Shelton, associate professor of speech.

"It's very comfortable. The audience will feel close to anything that happens on stage. It will heighten the effects. It will show how good the students here really are," Shelton said of the thrust-configuration stage.

Thrust configuration allows seating on three sides. The stage can also be converted to a theater-in-theround, with seating on all four sides of the stage.

The basement of Nichols is being used by Farrell to house between 4 and 5 miles of adjustable shelving for storage of serials, monographs and documents. Cool said documents, Cool said.

Nichols has come full circle. Its life was extinguished by flames, but the building is once again alive with the sound of people.

A structure that once stood as a symbol of student rights, a symbol of aesthetics and a symbol of the inability of campus administrators to make a decision, now stands as a symbol of what can be accomplished when a decision is followed through.

1910

In June, construction workers laid the Nichols Gymnasium floor as a solid slab of reinforced concrete. The method was considered a building innovation at the time.

1911

University Archive

Following completion of Nichols Gymnasium, members of the junior class were given permission to host a banquet for the senior class. No dancing was permitted. 1950

University Archives

Forced to cling from the rafters in Nichols Gymnasium, proponents of a new sports facility took the opportunity to protest the lack of seating in the structure.

1968

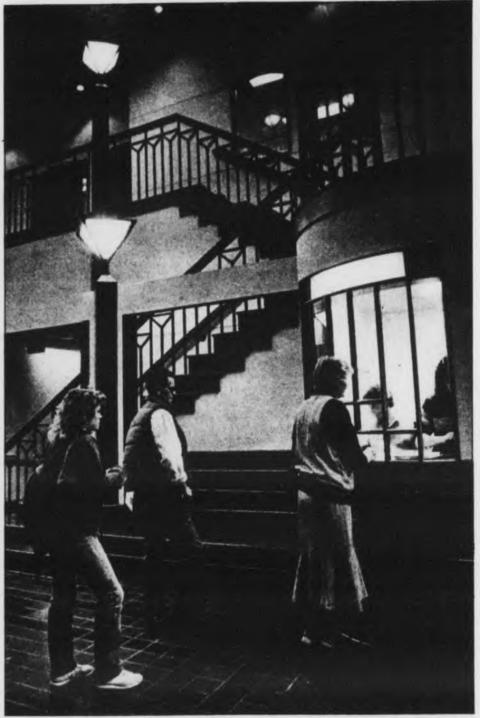

The 57-year-old Nichols Hall went up in flames Dec. 13, 1968, and illuminated the sky for firefighters and onlookers. The cause of the fire was never determined.

e to persistence

:us of campus controversy for several years before the Kansas Legislature granted renovation money in 1981.

The atrium of Nichols Hall offers visitors the opportunity to view the interior of the

Jill Hummels Photos by Andy Nelson

Story by

The basement of Nichols Hall will house between 4 and 5 miles of adjustable shelf space for serials, monographs and documents from Farrell Library.

ROOM PROTECTED MICH OF FIRE REEP DOOR CLOSED

ABOVE: The Nichols Hall Theatre has a three-sided thrust configuration stage which places the audience closer to the stage. LEFT: Fire protection for computer equipment is provided by a halon gas system which releases the gas into a room and smothers the fire without damaging equipment.

1975

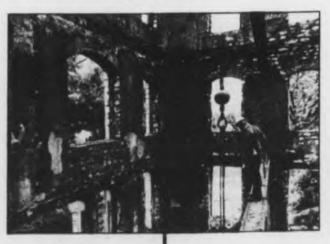

Nichols Gymnasium has stood vacant since 1972, when the two swimming pools, added to the building in 1915, were closed after the opening of the Natatorium.

1979

President Duane Acker addressed a group of protestors outside Anderson Hall who demonstrated against Acker's attempt to have Nichols Gymnasium razed.

1981

A worker assisted in the removal of twisted steel beams and small trees from the interior of Nichols Gymnasium as preparations were made for the renovation.

1985

Nearly 17 years after the interior of Nichols Gymnasium was destroyed, the renovated structure will be officially rededicated in an 11 a.m. ceremony Saturday.

K-State basketball team members Joe Wright and Ty Walker scramble for a loose ball in an intrasquad scrimmage Tuesday in Lee Arena at Washburn University. The White team defeated the Purple team 79-76.

White team's 79-76 victory disturbs K-State's Hartman

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

TOPEKA - K-State Head Coach Jack Hartman was not pleased with what he saw in Tuesday night's 79-76 White team victory over the Purple team in an intrasquad scrimmage at Washburn University's Lee Arena.

In a remarkable turnaround from the Nov. 3 scrimmage in Ahearn Field House, where the White team won 96-61, the same White team was able to pull out just a three-point win.

"Unbelievably poor" was the way
Hartman described the performance of the White team, comprising the eight players Hartman is counting on to form the team's nucleus. On a more positive note, Hartman was pleased with the estimated crowd of 2,500. However, he wished the White team had put on a better show for the Topeka fans. "It was a really great crowd," Hartman said. "That's what irritated me the most. We get them in here and then we punish them with that exhibition of basketball."

The first half began on even terms, with the lead changing hands four times in the first six minutes of play. At the 13:53 mark, the White's Ben Mitchell tipped in a Percy Eddie shot to put the White squad ahead 14-12. The White team went on to build a 47-32 halftime lead, largely on the scoring of Norris Coleman, who tallied 19 first-half points.

However, the second half was another story for the White team, as the Purple squad mounted a comeback that would see them lead the White team on several occasions.

The Purple team took its first lead of the game when freshman guard Ty Walker made both ends of a oneand-one free throw opportunity with 8:36 left in the game, giving the squad a 62-61 lead. From that point, the lead changed hands more six times before the White team took the lead for good with 2:40 left on an alley-oop pass from Joe Wright to Ben Mitchell.

"They pretty well handled us in the Purple-White game in Manhattan," Purple guard Brad Underwood said. "Tonight, we came out with nothing to lose and we played really hard. We really got after them and frustrated them a little bit."

Hartman seemed pleased with the play of the Purple team, made up of projected reserves and junior varsity players.

"I thought Kevin Muff, Brad (Underwood), Derrick Howse and Rodney Heard played well," Hartman said of the Purple members. "Most of the Purple kids played good."

Hartman, though, had few compliments for the White team.

When asked if he thought anyone on the White team played well, Hartman replied, "Not really. It was a team effort.'

Coleman led the White team in scoring with 27 points, 19 of the points coming before intermission. Wright added 22 points, followed by Lynn Smith and Mitchell with 12 points each. Mitchell added 10 rebounds.

The leading scorer for the Purple team was Howse with 20 points. Underwood and Muff each scored 12 points, with Muff adding 10 boards. Heard added 11 points to complete the double-figure scoring.

The White team shot 41 percent from the field, while the Purple squad hit at a 40.7 percent clip.

KC's McRae one of 63 free agents Fixty-six players, the largest agency in 1984.

13 teams.

group before this year, filed for free

As part of new labor contract reached in August, this marks the first year that players do not have to go through a re-entry draft, which limited each free agent's dealings to Such teams as the Kansas City

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Major league baseball's largest group of free agents had the opportunity to negotiate with any team starting Tuesday amid indications that club owners will hold the line on big salaries and long-term contracts.

Eleven players beat the Monday midnight deadline, bringing the total to 63, the biggest number to file since the process began in 1976.

Royals, Texas Rangers, Cleveland Indians, Philadelphia Phillies, Los Angeles Dodgers, Montreal Expos, Chicago Cubs, Houston Astros and even the New York Yankees, to a smaller degree, have claimed they

> The last 11 players to file included Hal McRae, veteran designated California. The others were infielders Dickie Thon of Houston, Tony Perez of Cincinnati, Ivan DeJesus of St. Louis, Indians outfielder Benny Ayala, and pitchers Bruce Kison of Boston, Bart Johnson of the White Sox, Marty Bystrom of the Yankees, Mike Norris and Tommy John of Oakland.

The biggest prize is slugging outfielder Kirk Gibson, who made $685,000 last season and opted for free agency when the Tigers offered him a three-year deal.

Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association, said he is wary about the owners adopting a tougher policy on free agents.

Dick Balderson, Mariners' vice hitter for the world champion president, said he isn't impressed by Royals, and infielder Bobby Grich of the available free agents this year.

'Cats volleyball standout to end career presently have no plans to enter the free agent market. Missing that portion of the season, Changes not in the style of play, but

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

Donna Lee is one of two K-State volleyball players who will be playing her final home match of the season Friday night.

Lee, along with Renee Whitney, is co-captain of the 1985 squad and has led the Wildcats to a 17-10 overall record and a 3-5 mark in the conference.

"It is going to be exciting, scary and weird," Lee said of ending her collegiate career. "I have been thinking about it for a long time. It is scary just because it is ending and weird because it will be the last time I'll be out there playing and it will be the last time people will see me play at K-State.

Lee earned a spot on the team after trying out for Head Coach Scott

"When I graduated from high school, the colleges were having an audition period," she said. "I went to Southern Illinois University and tried out, but I knew I wanted to play for a Big Eight school because I'm majoring in engineering.

Lee came to K-State from a high school program built on a strong volleyball tradition. Lee attended Hickman Mills High School in Kansas City, Mo.

"We went to state three years and won our conference every year. We compiled a record of 73-10. Our coach was pretty strict. She always knew what was going on with us. We always had a good group of girls and we always had the desire to win,"

Since her arrival at K-State, Lee has noticed changes in the program.

1304 Westloop

Aggieville

in the quality of athletic personnel that is added each year.

"Every year when the freshmen come in, they are so much more developed," she said. "Our team, along with the other Big Eight schools, has gotten better. But we are all trying to catch up with (firstplace) Nebraska.

During her junior year with the Wildcats, Lee came upon a bit of misfortune in the heart of the conference season. She strained her back and it was later found she had stress fractures. She ended up missing a large portion of the conference season.

'There had been times before that would be hurt and would still play. Last year, though, I was hurt so bad I couldn't even walk. It was a very frustrating time," Lee said.

HUNAM XPRESS

VISA

1116 Moro

however, did not really hurt her in the statistical department. She led the Wildcats in defensive saves and service ace percentage. Lee ranked second in the Big Eight in both kills per game and defensive digs per

This season, Lee ranks second on the squad in attack percentage, hitting 31 percent. She is leading the team in defensive digs with 288 and has earned 31 service aces during the

"Donna has played well, in the Big Eight matches and all year," Nelson said. "We've asked her to help out on our serve reception and not only is she attacking well, but she is receiving well, too. She is doing everything we've asked of her all year."

By The Associated Press

These are the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press' preseason college basketball poll, with firstplace votes in parentheses, total points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1, 1984-85 record and last year's final ranking:

****
1. Georgia Tech (28)	27-9	1192
2. North Carolina (13)	27-9	1148
3. Michigan (13)	26-4	1141
4. Syracuse	22-9	936
5. Kansas (4)	26-8	921
6. Duke (2)	23-8	911
7. Illinois (1)	26-9	847
8. Georgetown (1)	35-3	824
a. creat Resourt (1)

Georgia Tech ranks No. 1 670 471 459 350 323 292 1. Kentucky 2. Notre Dame (1) 13. Oklahoma 15. Memphis State 16. Ala.-Birmingham 17. N. Carolina State 19. Maryland

> Others receiving votes: Indiana 114, DePaul 107, Washington 106, Iowa 103, UCLA 79, Arkansas 62, Houston 61, Virginia Tech 61, St. John's 58, Pittsburgh 39, Tennessee 33, Georgia 32, Alabama 28, Villanova 25, Pepperdine 15, St. Joseph's 15, Texas-El Paso 15, Arizona 16, Dayton 8, Fresno State 8, Boston College 6, Texas A&M 6. Virginia 6, West Virginia 6, Ohio State 5, Oregon State 5, Arizona State 4, Bradley 4, Loyola, Ill. 3, Northeastern 3, Marquette 2, Lamar 1, Miami, Ohio 1, Old Dominion 1, Oregon 1, Southern Cal I.

LADIES NIGHT $200 Pitchers 50¢ Draws

$100 Coolers Get ready for the HOTTEST DATE in town BLIND DATE

Welcome Alpha Chi Omega Greek Playboys. 539-9064 1120 Moro

> 2nd Annual ()2()

Pledge Class PIG ROAST

will be Parents Day, Nov. 16 4-8 p.m. 508 Sunset $4.00 per plate Everyone welcome! Bring your parents! Questions?

Call 539-9939

FREE DELIVERY 11 a.m. 1 a m

539-8888 or 537-0886

3045 W. Anderson

*Prices good while supply lasts at participating stores only, subject to applicable sales tax. Rebate is cash deduction at time of purchase. © PVI 1985

Open Monday thru Saturday 10 am - 9 pm / Sun. Noon - 6 pm

Manhattan, Kansas Junction City, Kansas

1220 Grant Ave.

Staff/Brad Fanshier

tomatoes to his bacon, lettuce and tomato soup. Both are certified executive food service workers.

Clarke Bernier, left, stirs a pot of peanut butter soup as Jim Kosec adds chefs will be in town until Thursday, giving demonstrations and workshops to

Executive chefs offer food for thought

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

There are no secrets in cooking. according to world class chef Jim Kosec. "The guy that says, 'I've got a secret. You can't do it,' is full of baloney," Kosec told more than 30 students and faculty in restaurant management and dietetics Monday. Kosec and Clarke Bernier, both certified executive chefs, arrived Sunday night and will stay until Thursday giving workshops and demonstrations to promote their sponsor, the L.J. Minor Corp. of Kosec and Bernier are two of the four full-time chefs employed by the corporation to demonstrate the use of food bases - convenience food items used in making soup, gravy and sauce.

Kosec and Bernier conducted workshops on ways to make food look more appealing for staff members at Derby and Kramer food centers Monday and Tuesday. Today they are meeting with nutrition workers from the Union and Manhattan

"We really eat with our eyes instead of our mouths sometimes,"

Kosec said. "It is important to make foods like a bouquet. You see that bouquet on a plate or in a cup of soup. You smell it, and you want to eat it."

Monday, the chefs gave a soupmaking demonstration for students, faculty and members of the Restaurant Management Club. Kosec explained the process while Bernier mixed up lobster bisque; bacon, lettuce and tomato soup; and peanut butter soup.

Kosec said lobster bisque is the "most wanted soup at any restaurant convention." He helped create the recipe for BLT soup. Bernier said peanut butter soup with vegetables is "Peanut butter soup is the only true American soup there is. Clam chowder came from Canada; it didn't come from New England," Kosec said.

Kosec's cooking tips ranged from simmering soups instead of boiling them to adding paprika to lobster soup to give it a more pinkish color if it will be served under fluorescent

Vegetables should be chopped into pieces the size of a little fingernail and then "sweated" or heated until

See CHEFS, Page 12

Commission discusses multi-family dwellings

By The Collegian Staff

A proposed ordinance concerning multi-family housing inspections and permits for operation was discussed at a special meeting of the Manhattan City Commission

Under the proposed ordinance, sorority, fraternity and rooming houses will have to pay a $50 fee for code inspections by the city.

Jerry Petty, city engineer, said the ordinance will only affect structures containing three or more rental

"The ordinance that we proposed today will eventually eliminate the fire department inspections of the fraternities and sororities," Petty

The city will use the same criteria for fire code inspections, in addition to other criteria dealing with sanitary conditions such as drinkable water, he said.

"What they'll see as far as the inspection's concerned is not that much different from what the fire department's done in the past," he

All rentals, including single and duplex housing, as well as sorority and fraternity houses are covered in similar ordinances adopted by other cities, said Dan Woellhof, department head for the Manhattan Code Inspection Office.

Commissioner Dave Fiser said it was "out of the question" to make sororities and fraternities subject to this ordinance, noting they are Commissioner Gene Klingler said sororities and fraternities should be "at the top of the list."

The proposed ordinance is scheduled for first reading at the Dec. 3 commission meeting.

UPC to highlight duo in folk music program

By The Collegian Staff

Blues performed by the duo Smith and Mayer will echo in the Union Catskeller Friday. John Smith and Hans Mayer, of Trempealeau, Wis., are scheduled to play at 8 p.m. as a feature act of Union Program Council's Eclectic Entertainment Committee.

Smith and Mayer's performance, which features use of guitars, a mandolin and a washboard, is a "more traditional coffeehouse act a really good act to see if you've never seen bluegrass, folk or acoustic blues," said Susan Bender, program adviser and graduate in journalism communications.

Bender said the performance would be well worth the $2 admission price, and the show would give the audience a chance to look at some the roots of some of today's popular

"It's their harmonies that really set them apart," Bender said.

Bender noted that one of the strengths of the duo is how they draw the audience into their performance.

"You can't help but be drawn into it," she said. "It (folk music) is where a lot of it (contemporary music) is headed - to find real pleasure in the real thing.'

Wednesday, November 13, 1985

equipment

Take your Spring Break in Vail-the largest single ski complex in Colorado!

MARCH 8-15, 1986

Join us at our information meeting: Wk-state union upc travel

Thursday, December 5, 1985 Union Room 203, 7 P.M.

THEY'RE HERE TO SAVE THE WORLD.

"A roaring, wonderfully funny '10'! Everyone who likes a good, funny movie will like 'Ghostbusters'. Don't miss it." -Gary Franklin, KCBS-TV

Friday, November 15, & Saturday, November 16, 7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75, KSU I.D. Required, Rated PG.

THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI

This powerful film concerns the inmates of a Japanese prison camp in the early days of World War II.

Saturday, November 16, 2 p.m., Little Theatre, & Sunday, November 17, 2 & 7 p.m., Little Theatre. $1.50, KSU I.D. Required, Rated G.

······

Stars Mia Farrow as young woman who ...... becomes involved with a character in a movie who steps out of the screen and into her life.

Come see this colorful, harmonizing duo bring you a unique blend of folk and blues on Friday, November 15, at 8 p.m. in the Catskeller. Tickets are only $2.00 ($1.50 with your Lee Greenwood ticket) and may be purchased at the door. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

Today, 7:30 p.m., Little Theatre, & Tomorrow, 3:30 & 7:30 p.m., Little Theatre. $1.75, KSU I.D. Required, Rated PG.

K-state union

SANTA SUIT RENTALS

( k-state union

Rent a Santa Sult for your Christmas parties from the Activities Center, 3rd Floor K-State Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Monday-Friday, December 2 through December 20. For more Information, call 532-6571.

( k-state union

Regents' lawyer talks about state insurance

By MARGARET MAY Collegian Reporter

Liability insurance, formerly provided by faculty associations, has become a problem for universities, said William Kaufman, attorney for the Board of Regents, at Faculty Senate's Tuesday meeting.

Kaufman said liability insurance became a concern last spring when the insurance company providing coverage for the regents informed their office it would cancel its policy. He said that policy was the same policy available to University employees.

Kaufman attributed the action to changes in the insurance

After the cancellation, he said, the regents "started to work with a number of brokers to try to locate replacement insurance, and it became apparent to us at that time that the insurance was not, and continues to not be, available in the market.

However, Kaufman said, there is some good news in regard to liability insurance.

In 1979, the Kansas Legislature enacted the court claims law which stipulates the state will, under certain circumstances, assume liability for its actions and actions of state employees acting within the scope of their

The law excludes discretionary acts and imposes a $500,000 limitation for any number of claims filed regarding a single occurrence, he said.

Limitations which deny a state defense are: 1) if the state decides that actual malice or fraud is involved in the act; 2) if the act does not happen within the scope of a state employee's job; and 3) if the request for a defense is not "timely" - it must be made to the attorney general within 15 days of the need for representation.

In addressing why the regents are still searching for a policy while a defense is provided by the claims law, Kaufman said the advantage of having traditional liability insurance is that in any court action the attorney for the state has the opportunity to have co-counsel with the insurance company, Kaufman said.

Senate also acted on curriculum changes in the College of Arts and Sciences and approved a funeral leave policy for unclassifuied employees.

Senate also passed a measure outlining a procedure to govern the process by which a department unit could be changed, giving department employees input before changes occur. The policy does not address program discontinuance.

Chiropractors

Speaker says diplomats help countries

By SHERRI HAGER Collegian Reporter

Although the peak of cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States occurred in the 1970s, the two countries still have a working relationship, said Terry Heyns, professor of aerospace studies.

Heyns spoke at a lecture sponsored by Phi Alpha Theta history honorary Tuesday in the Union.

At the working level, diplomats from each country are resolving communication problems between the Soviets and the Americans, Heyns said. These diplomats work together on a daily basis to develop understanding.

"A lot goes on that (at the diplomatic level) we are unaware of, unless we have the time or the interest to look," Heyns said.

Diplomats work together continuously and are concerned with the day-to-day activities of the

MANHATTAN

SHOE REPAIR

RUBBER OVERSHOES

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4

Open Thursdays to 8

Drive-Up Convenience

countries' representatives in practical areas such as travel and health, Heyns said.

A second level of the countries' relationship is in the area of trade. Areas in which the countries share technological discoveries include housing, medications and medical problems, space, alcohol and alcoholism studies, oceanography, Heyns said.

Many surgical instruments used in United States were manufactured in the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union is also developing new technologies for eye operations.

The United States sells products to the Soviet Union, including wheat, soybeans, oil drilling machinery and chemicals. The United States has companies in the Soviet Union. including Pepsico Inc., maker of Pepsi-Cola soft drinks, which has 12 plants in the U.S.S.R., Heyns said.

The Soviet Union sells chemicals such as anhydrous ammonia and

A longstanding legend 42 days left 7 Fridays left

7 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition!

S. G. A.

Kansas State University

cordially invites you to the Nichols Hall Renewal Celebration in the Atrium

of

Nichols Hall

Saturday morning, November the sixteenth Nineteen hundred and eighty-five at eleven o'clock.

Tours and reception following the ceremony.

Alicia and Co.

Announces A New Member To Our Staff of Professionals

C. P. EVANS Formerly of Lords & Ladies

C.P. invites any new or former clients

to call or stop by for an appointment

U.S.D.A. CHOICE SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER

Cajun flavored with Baked Potato All You Can Eat Soup & Salad Bar

Reservations are not necessary. Mr. Steak welcomes reservations for large or small groups on Parents Day.

Open 7 Days A Week

A Perfect Birthday Gift See us for balloons and more.

WE DELIVER Balloon Pautinue

Take A Break From 2 p.m.-5 p.m. At The Ritz

Order a Ritz Old-fashioned milkshake or malt and get a Ritz Jr. Hamburger FREE!

OR

Get a shake or malt for 89¢

Mondays-Fridays

THE

537-3335

8 a.m.-12:30 a.m. Mon-Thurs 8 a.m.-1:30 a.m. Friday Saturday 10 a.m.-1.30 a.m. 10 a.m.-12:30 a.m. Sunday

1st Bank Center Denison & Claflin platinum metals, vodka and furs to the United States. Seafood in U.S. restaurants may also come from the Soviet Union.

A third type of relationship is within the exchange programs of each country.

"Since the late '50s there have been 2,300 Americans who have gone to the Soviet Union to live or do research for a period of three months or more," Heyns said.

Likewise, there have been 2,300 Soviets who have come to live or do research in the United States.

"In the exchange program the lines of communication are kept open, but it is an exchange of elites," Heyns said.

The relationship also extends to tourism. In 1979, 57,000 U.S. citizens visited the Soviet Union and 12,000 Soviets visited the United States, he

The final factor in the relationship is immigration, Heyns said. The highest number of immigrants to the United States was in 1976, when 2,460 Soviets settled in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. An average of 52 Americans emigrate to the Soviet Union per year.

OR NURSE DAY

The Memorial Hospital operating room nurses invite the public to attend an open house of the surgery facilities at Memorial.

Join us for a rare glimpse of the operating rooms, the new $92,000 c-arm, the new electronic tourniquet, laparoscopic instruments, monitors, and much more.

Take a tour of the recovery room, DayStay (one-day surgery) area and central supply.

Refreshments will be served.

Open House Thursday Nov. 14 3:30-7:00 p.m. Memorial Hospital Hosted by OR nurses

NOVEMBER 14

For the Holiday Bride... Lenox® China and Crystal

Begin your life together with Lenox

Unsurpassed for beauty and quality. Lenox China and Crystal are your assurance of a lifetime of elegant dining. All Lenox China and many Lenox Crystal patterns are trimmed in precious gold or gleaming platinum

Poyntz Avenue at Fifth 776-9067

1227 Moro Street 539-1891

7 ASK delegates take part in special training session

By The Collegian Staff

Seven delegates from the K-State chapter of Associated Students of Kansas met Tuesday in Topeka for a training session with lobbyists to learn about the legislative process and to find out how to make the organization heard in the Legislature.

"We learned how to start a letter-writing campaign and the "do's" and "don'ts" of being on the senate floor and just general knowledge about the Legislature and how it works," said Kevin Elmore, senior in computer science and ASK campus director.

A tentative platform, which will be discussed at Student Senate, was also covered. The platform includes increases in student and teacher scholarships, offcampus work study and part- and full-time student salaries.

Student employment in alcoholic beverage situations will also be reviewed. Elmore said ASK has worked on the drinking-age law for three years and said he feels more needs to be accomplished.

"Right now an 18-year-old can serve alcohol at a 21 club, but can't serve beer at a 19-year-old bar and that is not fair, so ASK plans to work on this to better clarify the laws," Elmore said.

The ASK platform will be modified and a list of issues will be ranked in senate.

"This year student participation is going to be vital for ASK, because of the cuts the Legislature is going to make, so we are going to have to make sure the money isn't taken away from the student programs," Elmore said.

Six delegates from Wichita State University's ASK chapter were also in Topeka to learn about the Legislature. ASK

"I feel that ASK is helping K-State by bringing over $1 million dollars into the campus through programs the Legislature funds and we bring more money to the campus than we spend," Elmore said.

Delegates also discussed working with the Board of Regents on a newspaper to be sent to juniors in all Kansas high schools. The newspaper would detail facts on majors offered at schools across the state, how many students get jobs after college and other information prospective college students would like to know.

"It would be informational for high school students to receive this newspaper and could help students decide if they want to go to college or not," Elmore said.

Group gains international acclaim

Choir learns while performing

By J. SCOTT HOLT Collegian Reporter

There's a picture of Kate Jackson on the wall of Rod Walker's office.

"I like to tell the undergrads I used to date her," Walker said. "Some of them believe it."

Walker, director of Choral Studies and Activities and conductor of the University Choir, likes to keep a less than serious mood in the choir but, "It's hard to be humorous when you're doing Brahms," he

The 63-member University Choir is an internationally respected group comprised of a montage of students from every college on campus with all ages represented by equal numbers of men and women. All have one thing in common they're all there because they want to be.

To join the choir a student has to go through an audition that consists of testing the ability to sight read and whether the student has a quality voice.

"Of course, you need a good voice and a basic knowledge of music. To be a music major is not required, although a lot of students seem to think it is. Only 45 percent of the choir are music majors," Walker said. "Auditions are for the entire year and hopefully longer than that because it takes a while to train."

Walker said the students perform all kinds of music, both historical and contemporary, to get a deeper appreciation of what it takes to put music together.

"When the students leave the University we want them to be able to speak with some authority about music," Walker said. A good music ensemble will teach all the standard hard-work concentrations used in every field of study, he said.

"Working with the choir has a lot of parallels with coaching - the execution of fundamentals, the teaching and the patience required to do the job right are all part of conducting. The choir is really easy to work with because the kids are there because they want to be. The esprit d'corps is essential," Walker said.

"We don't lose very many students, because most that join the choir want and no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 × 70— laundry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets. 537

NICE TWO bedroom apartment next to campus to second semester $380 utilities paid 776-5265. (56-59)

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Share nice two bedroom apartment, $150 plus one-

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor-tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours. Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1.850.

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado

1977 DATSUN B-210-New paint, new brakes. Must body damage. $300. Box 9. c/o Collegian (53-57)

1983-CHEVROLET Cavalier Sport-Hatchback.

$4,100 or best offer Evenings, 539-6730 (56-60)

1978 Z-28 Camaro All options 1-tops, chrom

white, sunroof, stereo cassette, front wheel drive, wheels, AM-FM cassette, low miles Loaded $3,600 Call 537-0227, (56-60)

with mag wheals, low mileage, Sharp carl Call 532-5422 or 532-5143 (57-60)

1971 CHEVELLE two-door hard top 350 Runs good. mags, diamond tuft interior Call 776 9940 (57-58)

OFFICE SUPPLIES - Hull's Business Machines 715

TECHNICS SL5, direct drive, automatic turntable

Strings and Drumsticks

Buy one set and get second set at

50% Off

DOD Guitar Effects Units

30% Off

Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

110 LB AQUARIUM with set-up equipment-fresh or

salt. Must sell! $250 Shanan, 537-0323 (55-59) CHINESE SHAR PEI puppies Registered CPSCA A nice Christmas present. 537:3199 (56-59)

BLACK LABRADOR pups Six weeks old. Excellent hunting stock $30 Call 537-8367. (56-64)

FREE MAGNUM HAT

with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-

$9.95/50 pounds

27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds

30% Magnum Puppy

Food-$7.45/25 pounds

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc.

107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

KENMORE WASHER and dryer - Two years old must

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1. (U repair) Also de

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound

Hamburger

The Ritz

One burger per coupon.

MEN'S 28" Free Spirit, red, 10 speed - excellent conlinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH 9701 for information. (57) sell $330 Call 776-7988. (57-59)

223 Poyntz

North 12th. Aggieville, 539-1413 (55tf)

system Best offer 539 4863 (55-59)

Wiemer 913-668-2352/913-668-2214 (52-61)

1973 FORD LTD-Powerful 429 runs well, loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel

8389. 537-8494 (55-65)

half electric 776-3519 (57-61)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

FOR SALE-AUTO

FOR SALE-MISC

Call 1-494-2388. St George (47tf)

expect a high standard of excellence. They're very good and each year it's because of the quality of their performance. This year we were invited to perform in Italy because someone had heard us sing," Walker said. The University Choir travels extensively during the school year. This year the choir is touring western Kansas and in recent years the group has made several trips to

Since the students have to pay for the overseas trips, they always vote on whether to go, Walker said. Although the travel is fun, the primary reason the students are here is to study and sometimes travel gets in the way of school, he said.

They certainly receive recognition among their peers, which Walker feels is the highest praise. The choir is regularly invited to perform at meetings such as the American Choral Directors Association and the Music Educators National Conference conventions. For the last seven years the choir has presented a Christmas program on CBS national radio.

lassifieds

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15. Classifieds are payable in advance unless client

has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an er-

THEY'RE

OFF.

Garfield

WHICH PO YOU WANT, GARFIELD

THE LASAGNA OR THE BANANAS?

WELL ?

BANDAGES

ALL OFF ?

Bloom County

HOW DO

I LOOK ?

GOOD ?

PO I LOOK

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (31-60)

ATTENTION

'600D'

IS A VERY

SUBJECTIVE

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

HANDSOME?

AMIA

5EXUAL

BANANAS?

BREATHTAKING!

MAGNIFICENT

POWERHOUSE ?

WELL, YOU'RE ...

RIVETING.

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today When your winter break counts ... count on Sun-chaset (45-60)

Superb, artistic, excellent, quality-oh heck! See for yourself! 45 artists at Cico Park, 9-6, before and after the ISU game.

NEW STORE hours: Wednesday and Friday, 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. and Saturdays 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Open to everyone. People's Grocery, 811 Colorado.

"RIVETING"!

WE'RE TALKING

PLAY VALUE HERE O

By Berke Breathed

COVER

THE

By Jim Davis

ASK ME about R.O.T.C., the view points of a student. For information call Bob, 537-0144 (55-59)

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-6 Sponsored by Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

ENGLISH GRADUATES! Thinking of Graduate School? Small is beautiful. Graduate Assistant-ships, Spring 1986. Selections begin December 12th English Department, Emporia State Univer-sity, Emporia, Ks. 66801. Write or call 1-316-343-1200, ext. 216. (57-58)

$60 PER hundred paid for processing mail at home! Information, send self-addressed, stamped enve lope. Associates, Box 95, Roselle, New Jersey

7th Annual Christmas Arts Festival Saturday before, during and after the ISU game. Just west of football stadium 1/2 mile on Kimball.

Parents welcome!

K-STATE UNION Program Council Arts Committee nvites all interested artists and crafts people to participate in the annual Arts and Crafts Sale De-cember 5 and 6 in the K-State Union Sign up for table space begins November 25. For more infor-mation, call 532-6571, (57)

FOR RENT-MISC COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

gieville. (28tf) AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side

776-3804 (4911) MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776.

NEXT TO campus - Unexpected vacancy, 1218 Pomeroy. One bedroom furnished in complex, $260 plus deposit plus electric. No children, no pets. 537-1180 (48-57)

> Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview

and 1212 Bluemont-Horizon III

Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with lease.

Call for details 776-3804

FURNISHED APARTMENT 1225 Claffin 776-9124

SPACIOUS FOUR bedroom, two bath, central heat air. Close to campus and Aggieville. $530 Call 776-0203 (54-58)

FOUND

LOST

A CASIO watch found on pavement near Jardine parking lot facing Edwards Call 532-6048 lafter 7 00 p.m.) to identify (55-57)

FOUND BY Nichols Hall - Male kitten, part Siamese Call 776-2385 before 6:00 p.m. (57-59)

HELP WANTED

AD SALES for Kansas Folklife Festival - Temporary part-time position to contact local/area businesses sell signature ads, and secure times for festival auction. Further information and applicaon form available at KSU Conference Office 1623 Anderson 532-5575 Deadline November 18, 1985

SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co s 21 parks-5 000 + openings Complete information $5 Park Report Mission Mountain Co. 651 2nd Ave WN Kalispell MT 59901 (55-63)

JOIN OUR Nanny Network of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions ind trip air transportation provided. Warm, lov ing families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands. Inc. 33 Whipple Rd. Wilton CT. 06897. (203) 834-1742. No fee. (56-68)

GOVERNMENT JOBS -$16,040 $59,230 year Now hiring, Call 805-687-6000, ext. R for current federal list. (57)

LOST-MEN'S Pulsar watch Great sentimental 1979 GRAND Prix SJ, loaded, with all options! Black value Reward! Please call 537-4708 or 776-4168, (52-57)

LOST YELLOW, London Fog jacket. Stateroom, Mon-day, November 4. Contact David. 539 1165, (56-58)

ATO DADDYO Ed -- Thursday night was swell, Friday

the daddy who s #1 Love, your offspring (57) RENEE WHITNEY-Happy Birthday! Have a super day Thought we'd forget didn't you? Love your old roomies. Cindy, Mary, Teresa (57) TO VOLLEYBALL Mary and Mark - May you find happiness in your life together after Volleyball Love Peggy (57)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALES TO share pasement apartment at 809

North 11th $145, bills paid 539-8401 (49-63) FEMALE NON-SMOKING to share two bedroom apartment with three others $110 per month plus one-fourth utilities Call 539-3878 (53-57)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nicely decorated apartment $160 month, all bills paid Includes electric, water, trash, cable and laundry facilities

776-1604 (53-57) ROOMMATE WANTED to share three bedroom house Own room, washer/dryer, rent plus utilities 403 South 18th, 537 2055 (53.57)

NEED FEMALE roommate to take over lease from January to August. One-half block from campus own room, very nice apartments, great roomies! Call Shiela 537-2261 ext. 411 (8 30 a.m. 4 30 p.m.) or Pam 776-0228 (53-57)

ROOMMATE WANTED at 925 Thurston. Three blocks from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 537-9727

MALE ROOMMATE-One block from campus, individual study desk. $105 plus one fourth utilities call 776-0491 (56-60)

ROOMMATE WANTED Non-smoking female, own room close to campus nice location Call 776 6660 (56-59)

NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom, cable TV only $137.50, utilities paid Call

776-7331 (57-59)

LOOKING FOR non-smoking grad student or out of school working male. Clean living habits, be willing to share household tasks equally. Twobedroom house with washeridryer, lurnished.
living room and kitchen. Must have own bedroom.

furniture $175/month plus one half heat/ electricity phone and cable Located three blocks from campus on Harry St. Phone —532 6567 (9.00 a.m. 3.00 p.m.). 539-0824 (7.00-11.00 p.m.). ask for 18

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (31-75).

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S Fourth St. Suite 25 (111)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment 228 Poyntz, 776-4240 (411)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage 776-6166 (1311)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Profes sionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5.00 p.m. (35-65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337 (51

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service Rabbit's bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome 1 494-2388 St George (45-64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61) PROFESSIONAL TYPING - Resumes, cover letters.

dissertations, reports, 539-2411 (53-57) HEE'S ALTERATIONS - Suits, coats, jeans, zippers All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, 776-7959 (54-70) TYPING RESUMES dissertations, reports Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (55-59)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (56:57)

SUBLEASE

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice Available January 1st $270 month plus utilities 539-9500 evenings (55-64)

eanuts

ACROSS

fornia valley

5 Cushion

12 Temple's

13 Enzyme

14 Regrets

15 Loll on 17 - even keel

ex mate

the beach

18 Hindu poet

19 Confuse

21 Operated

22 Recipe

23 Ninny

word

26 Pig pen

28 Negative

wine

33 Cul-de

35 Dancer

Kelly

40 Stitch

41 French

45 High

cheese

43 Hair style

ranking cards

36 Faux pas

38 Fairy queen

ion 31 Dry. as

8 Being

1 Cali-

47 Peaceful form

52 Aquatic

54 Mail

bird

55 Hot time

56 Wicked

noble

house

terist's

1 American

cartoonist

58 Lepidop-

trap

DOWN

57 Italian

for Henri?

51 Air: comb.

2 Water,

to Juan

3 Sudden

4 Garden

bower

rights

6 Tree

5 Inventors'

7 Supposes

8 Wearing away

9 Miscel-

items

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle 53 Indian

10 Zoo

laneous

feeling

16 Macaws

20 Actress

head:

24 Theater

sign

27 Sweet

29 United

32 Destruc

30 Novel

25 Jeweled

brooch

potato

Hagen

23 Monastery

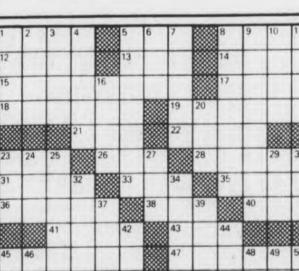

By Charles Schulz

tive favorite insect 11 Feudal 34 Kitchen flunky feature 37 Tear Avg. solution time: 26 min. 39 Bjorn of cap 46 Vintage

42 German granular 49 Wading 11-13 50 Primitive CRYPTOQUIP

GBNQ CBX B M J NOUJNTU BXIUJ GBMTCQ CSL

Today's Cryptoquip clue: B equals O

LNSP." OULLUP: " B 1 Yesterday's Cyptoquip: NOT ALL THE COOKIE CHEF'S BRILLIANT IDEAS ARE HALF-BAKED

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 1977 ESQUIRE. 14 x 70-Excellent condition. fur

dition. Call 776-3519. (57-61)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES Must sell, $100 Call Chris, 539-7518 (50-59)

nished, three bedrooms, two baths, central air, 539-2939 (56-60)

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly. 1984 YAMAHA XT-600. Great condition-Under 3,000

Discussion to focus on recruiting efforts

By The Collegian Staff

"Selling Kansas State" will be the topic of the next Union Program Council's Issues and Ideas program at noon Thursday in the Union Courtyard.

Charles Hein, director of communications, will deliver the lecture for the "Let's Talk About It" series.

Hein will discuss the magnitude of the recruiting efforts of the University, said Susan Catlett, Issues and Ideas Committee

"He will be telling about what the individual colleges did (in the way of recruiting) and how impressive it was, but that it didn't work," she said.

Hein directs University Relations, K-State printing service and K-State photo service. All of these programs provide the public with information about the University.

In another speech, at 6:15 Denison Ave., a medical doctor victims of the war in Nicaragua.

of them for just 50¢/plate.

4-7 p.m.

Best Happy Hours in Town

All you want TONIGHT

who lived for two years in Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, will share her experiences during a rice and beans dinner.

Dr. Ann Lifflander taught medicine and directed an outpatient clinic for the Ministry of Health in Nicaragua. In July, she was among 50 civilians on a boat which was attacked by Contras, U.S.-backed rebels seeking to overthrow the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Lifflander will show slides and discuss the Sandinista health-care system, which is credited with decreasing the infant mortality rate and distributing health care throughout the country since the revolution in 1979.

The dinner is sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance on Central America. Dinner donations of $2 are requested and the money will be used to help finance tonight at St. Isidore's Chapel, 711 emergency medical care for

GOODSON AUTO TRIM Tailor Made Seat Covers

Tanneau Covers Boat Covers You can gobble a muy grande platos full Convertible Tops Vinyl Tops Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery

207 Poyntz

Manhattan, Kansas 66502 Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

alsettos 539-3830

New Film Developing Services Offered at the Info Desk

4" x 6" Glossy for 35mm 24 exposure $6.20 36 exposure $9.30

8" x 12" enlargement from 35mm color negative $3.70

Everyday low prices on Kodak paper still in effect: watch for our upcoming specials.

Nuclear

Continued from Page 1

Initiative, or Star Wars, planned by the United States to destroy incoming Soviet missiles, is something the president could use as a "bargaining chip" at the negotiations, said Leslie Gelb of the New York Times.

Kendall said it is widely known that technology is not currently available to create a defense system such as Star Wars which is now a giant research project.

If it were possible to build Star Wars, the defense system would not be able to block a full-scale Soviet attack. Soviets fear this would encourage a first strike by the United States, because the Star Wars system would be able to block a weakened retaliation force, Kendall said.

'We have often made the mistake of investing our hopes for safety and security in technology when really the answer lies within ourselves," said Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn.

"Nuclear war is still a relatively low probability event which has consequences that would be unimaginable," Gore said, "but the direction we are heading is terrible."

Jonathan Dean, member of the Union of Concerned Scientists, said administrations are often unrealistic in wanting "painless arms control without sacrifices or concessions."

After watching the broadcast in Durland, Paul Lammert, junior in physics, said he came because he was concerned about the issues

"There are still some things that it didn't help me make up my mind about, but overall it was very informative," Lammert said.

Local sponsors of the event were the student chapters of The American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Society of Women Engineers and the KSU Physics

Chefs

Continued from Page 9

their natural juices come out before they are used in soup, Kosec said. Kosec also talked about longneeded change coming to hospital and nursing home food services.

"I've been to nursing homes when they put stuff in a blender that I wouldn't feed to a cat. I've been to hospital kitchens where I couldn't find a measuring spoon," Kosec said. "It's very scary, but we as the public and we as professionals allowed it to

Recently, some hospitals have hired professional chefs for their cafeterias because "only about 60 percent of patients are too sick to enjoy a meal," Kosec said.

Kosec began working in a restaurant after injuring his leg in college football 37 years ago. He eventually worked his way up to certified culinary educator at the National Cooking Institute in Bernier progressed from cooking hamburgers in New Hampshire to being a back-up chef for L.J. Minor's gold medal team at the 1984 Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, West

"Good friends don't let good friends smoke cigarettes."

We'd like to be your Optometric office

· Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.

• All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.

• Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock. · Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

Drs Price, Young and Odle 1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan

537-1118

222 N. 6th 3011 Anderson 539-3226 776-5202

free door side parking

New Store Hours 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Prices effective 11-13 through 11-19 Guy's Potato Chips 7.5 oz. . . . . . . . . . . Totino's Pizza Coke- Diet & Classic, Tab & 7up Old Milwaukee Beer- Regular & Lite Townehouse Vegetables Whole kernel & cream style corn, cut & French green beans and sweet peas. $6.00 a case

WHATTA DEAL!! Sanchos & Burritos 88¢ each. reg. $1.25

Taco Hut's own Sancho with a tasty white flour tortilla, filled with beef, lettuce, cheese, tomato, and sauce burrito filled with refried beans, beef, cheese, and sauce. Both served piping hot! Wed., Nov. 13-Sat., Nov. 16

Thursday

November 14, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 58

Legislation to support solvency

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congress worked on separate measures Wednesday that would temporarily avert a government default and the closing of federal agencies, and thus put off tough budget decisions until after President Reagan returns from the Geneva summit.

Lawmakers were operating under a warning from the White House that the government "would temporarily stop paying its bills" if there is no action by Friday.

The administration also said it would prefer to see long-term solu-

On a 300-121 vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate legislation increasing the government's $1.824 trillion in borrowing authority by $80

This would be enough to keep the government solvent through Dec. 13. The Senate at first indicated it would not act until Thursday, but then on a voice vote Wednesday night the chamber passed a measure that would give the government renewed borrowing authority only until Dec. 6. That bounced the issue back to the House for further action, which would not come until Thursday.

Legislation raising the national debt limit to more than $2 trillion has been stalled by wrangling over rival plans passed by the House and Senate to force a balanced federal budget by the end of the decade.

Those budget plans have been attached as amendments to the debtlimit legislation.

Congressional bargainers have begun a second round of talks aimed at breaking the impasse, but they have concluded they would be unable to complete agreement before midnight deadline.

Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., the assistant Republican leader in the House, said "it was not only unlikely but probably impossible" that the deadline could be met.

Thus, legislators sought to buy themselves time by passing the interim debt measure.

Earlier, the Senate, by voice vote, temporarily put off a separate pressing problem by giving final congressional approval to a stopgap spending bill that would keep money flowing to most government agencies.

The measure, approved by the House on Tuesday, is needed because only two of the 13 regular spending bills for fiscal 1986, which began Oct. 1, have been approved by Congress. Without that authority, government offices would have been forced to begin closing at midnight.

Reagan is expected to sign that bill, which extends through Dec. 12. The federal government is forced to finance operations with deficit financing.

Over the edge

A gray, overcast Wednesday turned even more gloomy for Jeff Stuart, graduate in entomology, as he attempted to park his truck behind Umberger Hall and dropped into the ditch because his brakes malfunctioned.

Travis says pledge to pay $2 million will not be at risk

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor and TIM CARPENTER Editor

Athletic Director Larry Travis said Wednesday the Department of Intercollegiate Athletic's committment to repay a $2 million line of credit from the KSU Foundation for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum is not in jeopardy.

"It's always a problem with that kind of debt hanging over your head, but we're (athletic department) going to take care of our share and will work it out and get it done," Travis

Travis said it is not unusual for an athletic department to not have $2 million available at one time and does not anticipate problems in repaying the Foundation because a long-term payment plan will be set up. Final arrangements have not been made.

But President Duane Acker recently indicated — and Travis reportedly said two months ago - the department may have difficulty generating funds for the coliseum.

Acker said in a recent interview the possibility the athletic department may not be able to repay the $2 million "is clearly one of my worries.

Ticket sales for basketball and football were down in the past season and the TV revenues are not certain in the years to come.

According to statistics compiled by K-State's Sports Information office, the 1984-85 average attendance at basketball games was 7,300 - the lowest in Ahearn Field House

To date, K-State football attendance in 1985 ranks last in the Big Eight Conference, with an average of 25,008. The conference's average attendance is 47,109. Warren Corman, director of facilities for the regents, said in a Sept. 5 campus meeting about the coliseum that Travis said "funding for the coliseum is difficult to come

'They don't have $2 million raised yet and they are feeling vey uneasy,' Corman said about Travis' statement. "They have had a hard time raising money.

Acker said the potential lack of resources in the athletic department would not lead him to suggest that coliseum planning be stopped.

Stressing the importance for all parties involved in the coliseum to see the risks and potential dif-

See COLISEUM, Page 11

Kansas AIDS patients to attend public school

By The Associated Press

from AIDS should be allowed to at- public school children who have tend Kansas public schools in most cases, according to a statewide policy the State Board of Education approved Wednesday.

The board adopted the guidelines on a unanimous voice vote after a brief discussion. The rules call for AIDS victims to be admitted to public schools if the student's doctor, parents, local health officials and school administrators all agree that the move would be in the child's best

The guidelines, which are identical to recommendations issued by the Centers for Diesase Control in Atlanta, were presented to the board last month. The CDC recommendations say that current evidence suggests there is no risk of transmitting AIDS during students' normal school interactions. "In each case, risks and benefits to both the infected child and to others in the setting should be weighed," the recommendations say.

Rod Bieker, an attorney for the State Department of Education, said TOPEKA - Students who suffer there have been no reports of Kansas AIDS. The Kansas Department of Health and Environment has said that 32 Kansans are reported to be victims of the disease that attacks the body's immune system.

During the discussion Wednesday, board member Bill Musick, of Minneapolis, said he was not entirely convinced the rules were needed and asked State Education Commissioner Harold Blackburn whether the board has any guidelines for other diseases, such as leprosy or smallpox.

Blackburn said there are no guidelines on how local school districts should handle other diseases but school administrators from across the state may have wanted the board to take a position on the AIDS issue.

"I believe, although I'm not certain, that the school superintendents want such guidelines," Blackburn

Envoy seeks freedom for 7 hostages

Possibility of breakthrough 'real'

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - A special envoy sent by the archbishop of Canterbury to negotiate the release of American hostages held by Shiite Moslem extremists said Wednesday night he saw a "real opportunity for a breakthrough."

"I see some hope," said the envoy, Terry Waite, who successfully negotiated the release of Britons held in Iran and Libya.

"The fact that I'm here does indicate there's a possibility (of freeing the hostages)," said Waite, who was ringed by Moslem militiamen and airport security officials upon his arrival. "There is a real opportunity for a breakthrough."

Waite, a special adviser to Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, the spiritual head of the Church of England, said after arriving from London that he was "here on humanitarian grounds because I want to see a resolution to this problem...'

Lebanese security guards and militiamen at the airport whisked the burly envoy through a scrambling throng of reporters and television crews.

He was taken through the terminal, ringed by militiamen linking arms, without immigration formalitities. Yelling guards bundled Waite into a sedan. The car sped away with a rifle-toting militiamen hanging out the window and Waite jammed in the back seat between militiamen.

His escorts belonged to an airport "security force" composed militiamen from the big Shiite militia Amal and the mystic Islamic Druse sect's Progressive Socialist Party

Before leaving London, the 46-year-old Waite termed his mission the most dangerous he has undertaken because his earlier efforts involved "an identifiable person or group or government.

Runcie on Tuesday said Waite was "a joint envoy" of his church and Pope John Paul II, "and the pope is corresponding with us." But Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro said Wednesday that while the Holy See hoped Waite succeeded in his mission, he could not be considered a papal envoy.

Waite embarked on his latest mission after making contact with an unidentified intermediary in Beirut over the Americans, who have been missing between five and 10 months, and after receiving a confidential letter from four of the Americans believed held by Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War.

Islamic Jihad, a fundamentalist Shiite group loyal to Iran's revolutionary patriarch, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has claimed responsibility for abducting six Americans. It said Oct. 4 it had killed one of the six, diplomat William Buckley,

The remaining five, who were abducted within the last two years, are: Terry Anderson, Beirut bureau chief for the Associated Press; David Jacobsen, administrator of American University Hospital in Beirut; the Rev. Benjamin Weir, a Presbyterian minister; Thomas Sutherland, dean of the agriculture department at American University; Peter Kilburn, a librarian there; and the Rev. Martin Lawrence Jenco, a Roman Catholic Priest.

Board of Regents to discuss fee refund bond resolution

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

The K-State Student Fee Revenue Refunding Bond Resolution is one of the issues scheduled to be voted on by the Board of Regents Friday in Topeka.

The University Fiscal Affairs Committee is requesting approval of the bond resolution for the K-State Union, the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex and the KSU Stadium Refunding Revenue Bonds.

Details of the resolution are: designation of the Escrow trustee; authorization of the Escrow Trust Agreement; authorization of the deposit of the refunding bond proceeds with the trustee; designation of the bond registrar and paying agent; and authorization of the execution by the regents of a bond purchase of $3,820,000 between the board and Stern Brothers and Company, of Wichita.

If the regents approve the resolution, $700,000 will be freed for student use. A student ad hoc committee has already begun reviewing projects for which the money may be used.

The board will also be voting on recommended increases in on-campus housing rates for the 1986-87 school year.

Changes in rates are: $1,580 for cooperative housing; $2,020 for residence halls; and a 3.2 percent to 3.5 percent increase in rates per month for Jardine Terrace residents.

Approximately 4,100 students would be affected by the changes. Officials of the Housing Council said they do not believe there will be a decrease in occupancy because of the rate increases and anticipate an 83 percent occupancy rate in 1986-87.

The Housing Council, which comprises student representatives from the Association of Residence Halls, family housing and the Student Governing Association, has approved the rate hike request. Housing rate increases are also being requested by the University of Kansas, Pittsburg State University, Emporia State University and Kansas Technical Institute.

K-State's Academic Affairs Committee will also request that the board approve two honorary doctoral degrees to be awarded at the fall 1985 commencement ceremony.

The regents will meet with Gov. John Carlin and members of the Kansas Legislature today.

Inside

Norma Lawrence has been a part of K-State sports for 18 years, working in for Sports Information. See Today, cloudy with a 50 percent chance of rain or thunderstorms. Highs mid- to upper 40s. Tonight, cloudy with a 70 percent chance of rain or thunderstorms.

Sports

Senior volleyball team members Renee Whitney and Donna Lee were named to the All-Big Eight first team. See Page 9.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

U.N. denounces Soviet activities

UNITED NATIONS - The General Assembly demanded Wednesday that the Soviet Union withdraw from Afghanistan, passing a resolution 122-19 with 12 abstentions, the largest margin on the annual issue in its six years.

Pakistan Ambassador Shah Nawaz, who introduced the resolution, said the vote "should strengthen the hand of President Reagan" when he meets with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva next

The Soviet Union sent troops into Afghanistan, its neighbor to the south, in December 1979. They toppled one Marxist government and installed another. An estimated 115,000 Soviet soldiers remain in the Moslem nation.

Peres makes plans to fire Sharon

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Shimon Peres said Wednesday he intended to fire right-wing Cabinet minister Ariel Sharon, who has attacked his peace moves with Jordan. Sharon's dismissal could bring down the fragile coalition government.

Political factions were trying to work out a compromise to preserve the coalition between the prime minister's Labor party and the conservative Likud bloc, to which Sharon belongs.

After a Cabinet meeting that lasted nearly three hours, Sharon said he did not get a dismissal letter from Peres, and ministers were divided on whether the crisis threatening the government had been

Jordan, Syria step toward peace

AMMAN, Jordan - Jordan and Syria took a dramatic step toward ending years of hostility Wednesday, announcing agreement on how to approach peace with Israel and a new program of economic cooperation.

A joint communique issued after two days of meetings between their premiers in Damascus said: "The two sides affirmed their rejection of partial or unilateral solutions and direct negotiations with

It called for a peace conference under U.N. sponsorship "to be attended by all the parties concerned and with the participation of the Soviet Union and the United States." That appeared to drop Jordan's longstanding insistence on participation of all five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council, which also includes France, Britain and China.

NATIONAL

City considers concert age-limit

SAN ANTONIO, Texas - After trying unsuccessfully to tame the lyrics of heavy metal rock music at concerts, the City Council here is considering prohibiting children under 13 from attending rock shows that depict violence and illicit sex.

Mayor Henry Cisneros says a proposed ordinance, the first of its kind in the nation, reflects "common sense," but opponents call it misguided and argue that "parents ought to decide and not the government."

At issue are performances at the Convention Center Arena, owned by San Antonio, the nation's 10th largest city.

The ordinance, which comes up for debate today, would bar anyone vounger than 13 from concerts at which sadistic or masochistic sex, rape, incest, bestiality and exhibitionism are depicted on stage.

Dole expresses farm bill concerns

WASHINGTON — Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole expressed doubts Wednesday whether Congress could produce a farm bill this year, saying the Senate needs to finish its version next week or the proposal could be lost. 'I must say I'm very, very worried now that we could end this session, even if we stayed until New Year's Eve, without a farm bill,"

The Senate could resume debate as early as today on a bill to shape federal agricultural and food program policies for the next

REGIONAL

By The Associated Press

KCI to undergo asbestos removal

KANSAS CITY. Mo. - Removal of asbestos material from terminals at the Kansas City International Airport would cost about $9 million and city officials said the expense would be shared by the city and airport tennants, officials said Wednesday.

A report by a Boston-based consultant, Hygienetics Inc., showed there is 600,000 square-feet of asbestos in KCI's three passenger terminals, work areas, aviation administration building and power

The study said that although the asbestos does not pose an immediate hazard, it should be removed because it could be released into the air during renovation or repairs.

Tate convicted in trooper's murder

COLUMBIA, Mo. - David Tate, an alleged member of a white supremacist organization, was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday in the April shooting death of a Missouri state trooper.

The jury deliberated less than two hours before returning the guilty verdict that could lead to a death sentence. First-degree murder in Missouri carries a mandatory death penalty or a sentence of life in prison with no chance of parole for 50 years.

Wolf Creek rates to increase

TOPEKA - There will be no reopening of the Wolf Creek nuclear power plant rate case but the Kansas Corporation Commission on Wednesday fine tuned its rate order in the case, giving the two majority owners additional increases of about $3 million each to pay for the plant. Under the tentative decision, the commission granted Kansas Gas and Electric Co. of Wichita a $2.92 million booster increase while Kansas City Power & Light Co. received $3.1 million. The utilities each own 47 percent of the $3.05 billion power plant while the Kansas Electric Power Cooperative Inc. of Topeka owns the remaining 6 per-

The two major owners complained the commission order phases the plant out of the rate base too quickly, thus cheating them out of part of their profit margins.

AT&T to refund $6.5 million

TOPEKA - AT&T Communications was granted permission Wednesday by the Kansas Corporation Commission to cut its rates on long distance calls within Kansas by $3.1 million and to refund $6.56 million to its customers over the next four months for overcharges last year and this.

AT&T sought the decreases and refunds in an effort to stay competitive in the burgeoning long-distance telephone market.

PEOPLE

Industrialist sues brother's estate

LOS ANGELES - Industrialist Armand Hammer, whose personal fortune is estimated at $150 million, has filed a $665,000 claim against the estate of his late brother, a relative said.

The claim by the chairman of the Los Angeles-based Occidental Petroleum Corp., if successful, could bankrupt the surviving family of Victor Hammer, who died July 21 at age 83, Victor's daughter, Nancy Hammer Eilan, said Tuesday.

The claim, filed in Florida on Friday, seeks repayment of loans and interest from promissory notes signed by Victor Hammer for expenses dating back to 1976, Eilan's attorney, David A. Goldsmith, told The Daily News of Los Angeles in a telephone interview from

Chinese premier spends day in U.S

HONOLULU — Premier Zhao Ziyang of the People's Republic of China arrived here early Wednesday for a one-day rest and sightseeing stop on his way home from a trip to Latin America. The Chinese Premier had been in Los Angeles Tuesday. He toured a Hollywood movie studio, watched the space film "2010" and was given a canvas director's chair with his name printed in English.

Today's Specials $1.75 Pitchers 50¢ Steins Reserve this Weekend

BLIND DATE

for

Free T.G.I.F. Set 120 Moro

Wildlife Calendar Sale

1986 Remington Wildlife Calendars Lobby Ackert Hall Today & Tomorrow 8:30-5:30

Just $3.00

KSU Student chapter of The Wildlife Society

for some special events and tours!

PARENTS' WEEKEND '85

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other is Wings" Before the game on Saturday, bring your parents to campus

-Engineering Reception & Tours, Durland Hall, 9 a.m.

-Campus Tours, begin at the Union, 9:30 a.m.

-Mini-Classroom Sessions, Union 2nd Floor, 10 a.m.

-Rededication of Nichols Hall & Tours, 11 a.m.

-Pre-game Buffet, Union Bluemont Room, 11 a.m.

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

MINI-MART MR. STEAK

мото-рното RAOUL'S ESCONDIDO ROCKIN' K BAR TACO BELL

Campus Bulletin

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS will take ictures at 5 p.m. at the Lambda Chi Alpha house. STUDENTS FOR LIFE will meet at 8 p.m. at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison

PRE-VET CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching 201.

OMICRON NU will meet for initiations and to take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in the Union Flint Hills Room.

AG ECON CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at Campbell Distributors, 825 Levee Dr.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION will meet at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Ander

HOME ECONOMICS EDUCATION IN-TEREST GROUP will meet at 6 p.m. in Bluemont RODEO CLUB will have an executive meeting at 6:30 p.m. and a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. in

PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Ackert 116 RACQUETBALL CLUB will meet for yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Calvin 102 NATIONAL SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL ENGINEERS will meet and take yearbook pic-tures at 8 p.m. in Durland 152.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE will meet at 6 p.m. outside the Union Big Eight Room. CHRISTIAN STUDENT FELLOWSHIP will PRE-HEALTH STUDENTS will meet at 7 p.m. in Ackert 116. Alpha Epsilon Delta will take year-book pictures following the meeting.

THE NAVIGATORS will meet at 7 p.m. in

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST will meet

ARTS AND SCIENCES PROGRAMMING

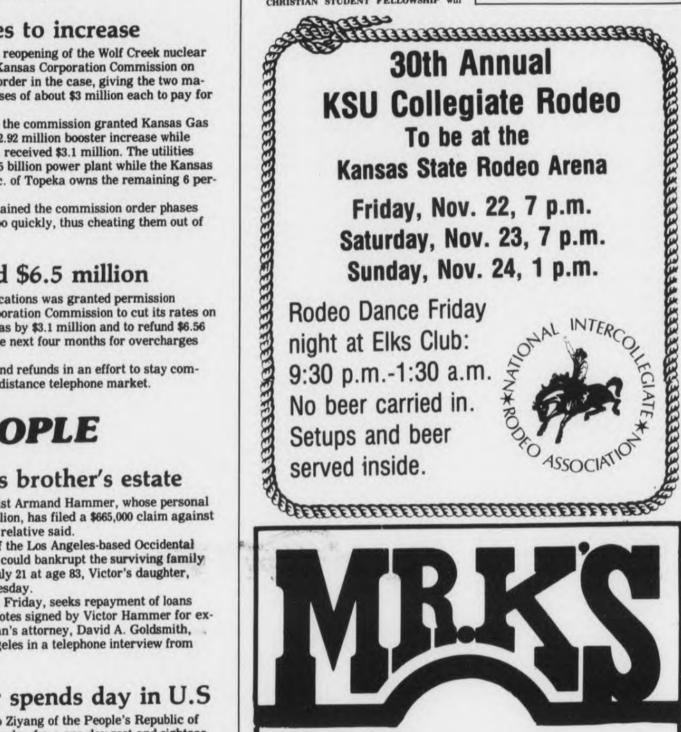

COMMITTEE will meet at 3 p.m. in the dean's of ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212. AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR DESIGNERS will meet and take yearbook pictures at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 115.

Correction

Because of an editor's error in Wednesday's article "Doctor speaks on 'food manipula-

It's cold outside, but our dance floor is HOT Tonight

$1.25 Pitchers Live Band Nov. 22 The Strip

Union 206

Mini Classroom Sessions Parents Weekend '85

Attend one of these sessions with your parents from 10-10:45 a.m. Saturday

"Food and You" by Miles McKee, Animal Science and Industry

"Rambo Style Survival for Students: The Story Behind the Publishing of the Collegian" by Dave Adams, Student Publications, Inc.

Union 213 "Motivation Factors in Our Consuming Society" by R. P. Coleman, Marketing

Union 212

"Economic Impact of Exchange Rates and Land Grant Universities" by Patrick Gormleay, Economics

Special thanks to these sponsors:

PHOTO WORLD SIRLOIN STOCKADE

Union 207

SPORTS FAN-ATTIC TACO HUT

Laser-light message offers new method for signaling subs

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Defense Department, in an experiment with significant implications for warfighting strategy, has successfully transmitted messages via laser light from a high-flying airplane to a submarine cruising at "operational dep-

The experiment, confirmed by Rear Adm. Thomas K. Mattingly and other Navy officials, was conducted more than a year ago off the coast of San Clemente, Calif., under the code name "SLCAIR 84," pronounced Slickair.

A small jet carrying an experimental green-light laser was able to establish contact and transmit messages "error free" to a submerged submarine.

Although precise details are classified, the airplane was flying at altitudes between 20,000 feet and 30,000 feet at the time of the transmissions, one source said. Another source said the term "operational depth" meant the submarine was more than 100 feet below the surface.

The successful test has paved the way for additional research and convinced some officials a more advanced laser system can be constructed using satellites instead of airplanes. Over the next two years, the Navy will take control of the research from the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, or DARPA.

Although Navy officials caution

the service is still years away from building any operational system, the experiment offers one promising avenue for attacking a problem that has long dogged nuclear planners how to communicate reliably with ballistic missile submarines without requiring the sub to rise near the surface and risk disclosing its position.

Moreover, a laser communications system is viewed as having tremendous implications for tactical warfare because it could allow surface ships to protect the whereabouts of U.S. attack submarines, while still directing them toward enemy submarines.

The existence of the DARPA research program involving socalled blue-green lasers has long been public knowledge.

The research has been cited in the past by such concerned lawmakers as Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., and Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who see it as offering an alternative to the ELF (extreme low frequency) submarine communications system now being built in Wisconsin and upper Recently, however, Mattingly provided the first public acknowledgement the research had moved to the point of a successful transmission of data. A former astronaut who now directs space programs within the Space and Naval Warfare Command, Mattingly referred briefly to the test in an article he wrote for "Proceedings" magazine, published by the U.S. Naval Institute.

Bloodmobile surpasses 1985 goal by 109 units

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State Bloodmobile, which was on campus Oct. 22-25, surpassed this year's goal by more than 100

The goal was 1,400 units and 1,509 were received, said Jeanette Roberts, senior in social work and student Bloodmobile chairperson. The event is co-sponsored by Circle K International and the American Student living groups competed in service and donations to the Bloodmobile. Groups received points for donations of blood and hours of service. In the Greek division Phi Gamma Delta won with 202 percent participation. Smith Cooperative House won the small organized living group competition with 161 percent participation and Haymaker Hall won the large organized living group award with 12 percent.

"The Bloodmobile was a tremendous success due to participation of both the students who worked and

UFM programs reach 36 communities

By BOB SCHEIBLER Collegian Reporter

Although many people think University for Man is primarily for the Manhattan community, its programs extend beyond the city

One of the ways UFM reaches into other communities is through the Community Resources Program. The program started in 1979 and reaches 36 Kansas towns with the number expected to reach 40 by Communities throughout the state are taking advantage of UFM's services and the size of the communities ranges from Roxbury with a population of 97 to Kansas City with a population of 159,972.

The activities offered through the Community Resources Programs are similar to those offered by UFM and include tours, workshops, demonstrations, projects and Towns find various funding methods

The classes usually are not hardcore learning, but rather something on the recreational level, said Judy Snodgrass, director of the Community Resources Program.

"Many cities offer hands-on computer classes. Several of the students go on and take continuing education classes for credit," she

The program has enabled the city of Effingham to sponsor tours of surrounding historic areas, Snodgrass said. Kingman has a community chorus and three gourmet clubs.

Costs for the classes are kept to a minimum, Snodgrass said. Registration fees range from 50 cents to $2 and occasionally students must pay for their own materials such as yarn and needles for a crocheting class.

"The purpose of the program is to provide a service for the people. Most small communities don't have any kind of recreation programming other than baseball or softball in the summer, but this gives communities a way to have a yearround program.

Since the program began, 40 communities have participated. Of these 40 original programs, only 36 remain. The reasons for the failure of the programs vary.

"Some of them just petered out, they have just expended all of their resources or the concept just simply didn't work in the community," Snodgrass said.

The financial backing for this program comes from the Community Resources Act signed into law by Gov. John Carlin on April 9, 1979. The legislation provided funding to communities interested in starting a program. Assistance for the program is provided on a technical level such as setting up classes, as well on as the monetary level. The program is administered by the Kansas Department of Economic Development in cooperation with University for Man and the Kansas State Division of Continuing Education.

During the first year of operation, the community will receive 75 percent of the money neccessary to operate the program. In the second and third years of the program, the community receives 50 percent and 25 percent respectively to finance the programs. By the fourth year of operation, the community is expected to obtain its own funding for the program or become financially self-supporting. The communities must also supply matching funds to be eligible for the grant money.

Landon Lecture Series to resume in spring '86

By The Collegian Staff

No lectures in the "Landon Lectures on Public Issues" series have been scheduled for the rest of the semester, the lecture series chairman said Wednesday.

There were three invitations given out, but scheduling seemed to be a big problem, said Charles Reagan, professor of philosophy and chairman of the lecture series.

"One lecturer declined, one lecturer will speak this spring and the other is undecided at this time,"

There isn't an available list of lecturers who will speak next semester, but Reagan said he would like to have at least three lectures.

"Our goal is to have at least two lectures a semester. Last school year we had a total of five lectures,' Reagan said.

Among those speaking during the 1984-85 school year were El Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte, news anchor Leslev Stahl and Rep. Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr. (D-Mass.)

The purpose of the series is to provide a local forum for national leaders to discuss issues of public importance. The first Landon Lecture was given in December, 1966 by Alfred M. Landon, former governor of Kansas.

James A. McCain, who was president of the University at that time, explained the impetus for naming the series after Landon in saying, "The honorable Alfred M. Landon is not only a most distinguished Kansan and enlightened elder statesman, but has been a spokesman of unusual spirit and dedication on current public issues.

Since that time there have been 70 lecturers, including President Ronald Reagan, the Rev. Billy Graham, Shirley Temple Black, William F. Buckley and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley

The 450 Landon lecture patrons help sponsor guest lecturers. Each patron pays $100 a year to help pay for the costs of the lecture series,

BUY 1 PAIR GET 2nd

VISA

In Aggieville

108 Laramie, on the Handi-Corner

All corn tacos 55¢ or 2 fer $1.00 Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

> Fri. 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Sat. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sun. 12-8 p.m.

OF EQUAL VALUE

MENS AND WOMENS BOOTS AND SHOES "BRING A FRIEND"

INCLUDES SHOES ON SALE RACK

GOOD THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY/NOV. 14,15,16

AGGIEVILLE, MANHATTAN HOURS: MON-SAT 10-6 (THURSDAY TILL 8 P.M.)

THURSDAY

NIGHT

TACOS

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off All Imports

> All Day THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

(who) donated blood," Roberts said.

SPECIALS FOR STUDENTS!

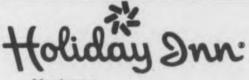

0% OFF

any meal on our menu when you present your Student I.D. Offer good days a week, 5 p.m.-close.

Come enjoy a sensational meal at the Plum Tree...your home away from home!

Remember... Everyday is a holiday at your 530 Richards Dr.

the team with the most points.

MasterCard

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Royal couple 'news' tiring

vading the states and the U.S. media are tripping over themselves to have the first shot of Diana's dress for the day and Charles, poor soul, is playing second fiddle to his wife.

Not one report on the royal couple is complete without a short descriptive paragraph on what Diana is wearing. Whether it be a polo match, a visit to a drug rehabilitation center or a stroll through J. C. Penney's, eyes focus on her dress.

Who really cares if Di has on a "cream suit with a jabot front, a wine blouse - and what appear to be no stockings?"

The fact that Charles was hit in the shoulder by an errant shot in the second half of a polo match could have been legitimate news. Of course, we all wanted to know Di was watching the match wearing blue chiffon.

Charles and Di are creating quite a stir with the press. The U.S. media have crowned them the new heroes - he, a skindiving bachelor and she, a schoolteacher before their royal wedding. They are a romantic novel come true.

When the royal entourage made its visit to Palm Beach, Fla., residents there felt as if the circus had come to town, set up

The British royal show is in- the tent in their backyards and wasn't letting them in.

> Tickets for the royal gala event were $10,000 per couple. For $50,000 you could get your picture taken with the royal couple. Residents felt betrayed when only 60 of the 250 couples invited were locals.

> According to a recent tally in "The Book of Money Lists," Diana has generated some $66.6 million in revenue from magazines, books and tourism. After recent fashion criticism, the royal couple dragged along some 7,000 pounds of luggage on their trip to the United States.

> Americans and British alike love Charles and Di and furiously read each piece of "news" about the couple. Recently, Charles and Diana appeared on TV to dispel myths that Di was dancing the night away with various young men because she and the prince weren't getting along.

> Yes, almost everyone loves the Prince and Princess of Wales, but let's not let the media overstay its welcome. By backing off and letting Charles and Diana enjoy each other and their family, the press would be doing a great service.

> > LeAnne Stowe, for the editorial board

Editorial

Thursday, November 14, 1985 - 4

Intersection needs crosswalk, traffic light

and a second of the second of the second

Put yourself in the following situation. You are approaching an intersection on your way to class. Assuming the cars will stop for you, you enter the intersection, but have to jump back because the cars fail to stop. Finally, you see a break in traffic and you run across the intersection.

the distinction branch is a seed

This example may be a little exaggerated, but to a certain extent this is what students are having to do at the intersection of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue. The reason for this is there are no crosswalks or pedestrian signs at the intersection. The only signs are bicycle crossing signs, but the main users of the intersection are pedestrians and drivers.

One Monday morning from 8 to 8:30, I counted 283 people and 402 cars passing through the intersection. That is one person every 6.4 seconds and one car every 4.5 seconds.

I counted again from 9 to 9:30 a.m. During this half hour, the level dropped off to 265 people and 309 cars - somewhat less, but still an astonishing figure.

I compared this intersection to a marked crosswalk on Laramie Street running through the Manhattan Christian College campus. This street, just like the intersection of College Heights and Denison, is a public street. One morning from 8 to 8:30, I counted only 41 people and 58 cars passing through this crosswalk.

I am not saying they don't need this crosswalk, but the figures of the number of people passing here are drastically less than the intersection at College Heights and Denison.

After talking to campus and city officials about the problem, I discovered they do not realize a problem exists at this intersection.

CHRISTOPHER VERING Guest Columnist

cooperative, but he did not want to confront the problem. Petty told me there are other intersections that warrant a pedestrian crossing and signs more than the College Heights Road and Denison Avenue crossing. When I told him about the number of people who use this intersection, he agreed it is dangerous, but he said other intersections

I first spoke with Sgt. Reese Jackson of the KSU Police Department. He told me if a pedestrian steps off the curb, cars should

I questioned his assertion. So I talked to officials at the Riley County Police Department. An officer there told me that without signs or pedestrian crossings, automobiles are not required to stop for pedestrians.

Looking to verify this, I talked to an official in the Manhattan Traffic Department. He gave me yet another view on the law pertaining to pedestrian rights. He said if there were pedestrian signs anywhere along Denison Avenue, the cars would have to stop for pedestrians - even if it wasn't marked at the intersection. When I asked him his name, he avoided the question by telling me to talk to City Engineer Jerry Petty. The third time I asked for his name, he hung up on me.

I then talked to Petty, who was warrant quicker action.

He said he did not want to give the pedestrian a "sense of security" by installing pedestrian signs and a crosswalk. He also said a marked crosswalk would not stop cars. What is the meaning of crosswalks and pedestrian signs if this is his viewpoint?

The law states cars must stop if there are pedestrians in a pedestrian crossing. It seems city officials are merely avoiding the

It is evident action needs to be taken to improve safety of pedestrians making their way across College Heights Road and Denison Avenue. I propose two solutions.

The first is short term and consists of installing pedestrian signs and crosswalks at the intersection. This would cost about $200 and would be inexpensive compared to the loss of a life which could occur at the intersection. The police could then patrol this area and stop cars speeding and not yielding to pedestrians.

In the future, a solution could be to install a traffic signal which would cost around $55,000. This signal would be comparable to the one on Anderson Avenue south of Nichols Hall. This would be the safest thing to do.

Action needs to be taken by Student Senate. It could pass a resolution requesting President Duane Acker to ask the city to install crosswalks and pedestrian signs at this intersection. Once this was completed, the intersection would be safer for pedestrians.

Next time you are at the intersection of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue, take a minute to observe the situation. Accidents will happen if action is not taken to make the intersection safer.

Editor's note: Christopher Vering is a sophomore in accounting.

Capital punishment cruel

In 1972, the United States Supreme Court declared the death penalty, as then applied in the United States, to be cruel and unusual punishment, in violation of the Eighth Amendment.

In 1976, the Supreme Court overturned that ruling and said that capital punishment was not cruel and unusual punishment. Executions in the United States renewed with the shooting of Gary Gilmore at the Utah State Prison in 1977.

Capital punishment has been, and will continue to be, debated on both moral and legal grounds. Many authorities question the death penalty's utility as a useful deterrent to crime, while others abhor it for religious or moral reasons. Yet supporters of capital punishment believe such severe punishment is necessary to deter criminals and to permit (what they would likely interpret as) revenge.

Opinions concerning capital punishment are quite divergent and reflect strong differences about the constitutionality of the 1976 death penalty decision. The volatile and emotional issue is not be resolved soon.

However, capital punishment could be viewed differently by some people after reading an American Civil Liberties Union report which says at least one innocent person has been convicted of a capital crime for every 20 executions that have been carried out in the United States in the 20th century.

Research by Professors Hugo Adam Bedau of Tufts University and Michael L. Radelet of the University of Florida suggests that 25 people have been executed for crimes they did not commit and 318 have been wrongly convicted of capital offenses in the past 85 years. There are currently 1,600 people on death row in the United States.

The Supreme Court diligently monitors the passing of death sentences with great care, insisting on clearly defined statutes and a trial record of careful consideration of possible mitigating circumstances by judges and juries.

But the incidence of wrongful execution warrants the reversal of the Supreme Court's ruling permiting capital punishment in the United States.

The chance for error in unavoidable. Capital punishment should be abolished.

> Tim Carpenter, editor

Letters

Media should leave South Africa

Watching Dan Rather on the daily 5:30 news this week, I have noticed something a little out of place. It seems to me, South Africa's ban on television cameras and reporters has been drawing a disproportionate amount of network news coverage.

This is not a letter for South Africa. There are those who are much more informed than I on the problems there, and they should be the ones addressing the subject. It is, instead, a criticism of the news. News always has been at the disadvantage, and the past has always called for the reporter to overcome barriers and bring the story home. Not this pitiful cry for a free hand.

What if government officials in South Africa are right? What if the six TV cameras and a dozen still photographers were taken away? Would the actors perform to an empty stage? Ah, the question.

Think of all the other oppressive states with social unrest in recent history. Poland would be a prime example. There the protests did happen, the demands were made and the government made its stand, but the total destructive force was nothing compared to that of 10-year-old blacks in South Africa throwing stones, overturning cars and burning each other — for the love of God. If government officials are right, and if TV cameras are an incentive for crowds to rise to a frenzy, then let them get out and stay

The United States was built on compromise. It was built on the sweat and blood from the backs of strong men and women, not on the fancy of teen§age children showing off for mom and dad. Let the sides in the apartheid battle settle down and come to a truce, if an uneasy truce is all we can expect.

Then let them come to the table and talk and work without the demands of the Western press there. If peace can happen without mass media, so be it.

Derek Orndorff senior in journalism and mass communications Privacy needed

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertain-

ing to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations, and to withhold letters from publication.

homosexuality wrong," in the Nov. 13 Col-All right! Sex in the streets! I say we should bring what gays do in the privacy of their own homes out for "public showing on

Re: Karen Tryphonas' letter, "Bible says the streets!" And then we can bring Tryphonas' private actions out for "public showing on the streets!" And then we'll expose yours and mine and everybody will know what everybody else does in the privacy of their own home whether it's "right" or "wrong." Does it sound like fun to you? Does it sound

"right" to you? Not to me. I think Tryphonas had better put her thinking cap back on. Any type of sexual intercourse is still taboo in public as far as I know. But who knows? Kissing and holding hands in public used to be no-nos too, but now people hardly look twice - unless, of course, the couple is especially into what they're doing or the couple isn't a couple.

In answer to your question - "If it's wrong to be done in public, does it make it right to be done in private?" - what's done in the privacy of someone else's home has no direct bearing on you and is none of your business.

Although you may not approve of their methods, billions of people every day/night have sexual intercourse without directly involving you. And I imagine they'll continue to do so. "Just wanted to give my opinion."

Ruth Heflin graduate in English

Improve athletics, not scoreboard

It is reassuring to see that whenever and wherever K-State has a coliseum there will be a first-class scoreboard ready and that the football stadium scoreboard next year will have color capability.

In the meantime, poor Michigan has a rather old and dated scoreboard for its football team with no color capability. Of course, they have just had their 65th - or is it 66th? - straight sellout crowd of more than 104,000 fans. In the poor days before sellout crowds, when the team wasn't winning regularly, they only had about 65,000 to 85,000.

It should be noted that at Michigan the athletic program is controlled by the faculty Board of Athletics, not by a semiautonomous athletic department. They seem to manage well enough in hiring capable persons to administer their program, secure coaches of ability, have winning teams and avoid violating NCAA rules and getting put

They also have a peculiar policy in regard to choice tickets for football and basketball. Without all-night lines and mass hysteria, they process ticket applications by mail, with choice seats going to students who have purchased tickets regularly from freshman to senior days (you start in the end zone and wind up on the 50-yard line), and then continue the process as alumni.

What counts is the years of loyalty, not the amount of dollars you plunk down for athletics. Since athletic programs make money, the "profits" get plowed back into improvements for the student body's athletic and intramural programs.

Instead of asking students and alumni to pay for financing athletic programs, they are able to solicit funds to improve the educational and research programs of the university. Someone should tell them about how backward they are...they certainly ought to be making sure they aren't upstaged in

> Harold Orbach associate professor of sociology

Jpinion

UPC advertising misleads students

I am writing in reference to the banners in the K-State Union announcing the presentation on eating disorders given by Dr. C. Alton Barnhill of the Menninger Foundation. His presentation was sponsored by the Union Program Council's Issues and Ideas Com-

These banners show an overweight girl diving into an ice-cream sundae. Contrary to what this leads people to believe, gluttony and eating disorders are not the same.

Had the person making the banner bothered to do a little reading or make a simple phone call to Lafene Student Health Center's Mental Health Clinic or to Barnhill, he would have learned there are both psychological and physiological aspects of eating disorders. Much research is being done to learn how to combat these com-

Compulsive eating, binging/purging and denial of food are symptoms of underlying problems; they are not the problem. Willpower, or the lack thereof, has little or nothing to do with eating disorders.

Ignorant publicity like this has led to a gross misconception about eating disorders. They are a very serious problem and should not be treated lightly.

The illustration on the banners was irresponsible and inexcusable.

Valerie Johnson senior in journalism and mass communications

All parents deserve respect, honor

Editor,

Nov. 15 through Nov. 17, K-State will recognize the parents of K-State students during Parents' Weekend. Of all the thousands of parents, only one couple receives the prestigious title of "Parents of the Year." But what exactly does this mean?

Traditionally, it has been a position held by parents - many of them alumni - who've actively participated in functions surrounding K-State. They've given of their time, money and efforts in providing us with some very memorable years. They've shared the very essence of life itself - their love.

I, like many others, submitted an essay as to why my folks should be chosen as the 1985 K-State Parents of the Year. I'm sure I speak for the majority when I say every parent is deserving and therefore, no one really "lost."

Surely I was disappointed to hear my parents, Peg and Dale Sklenar, who reside in Florida, didn't "win" overall, but I was ecstatic to hear they were chosen as Honorary Parents for Goodnow Hall.

Although Andy and Cynthia Galyardt are probably very deserving, this letter is written primarily for those who weren't formally recognized. It's my desire to let all parents know they're greatly appreciated. Moreover, to tell my parents they will forever be not only the best parents in the world, but also the greatest people ever! I love you, mom and

> Virginia Spokes sophomore in physical education

Individual changes must come before world changes

A longstanding legend

41 days left

7 Fridays left

7 Saturdays left

Don't miss out on

a tradition!

In the three years I've spent at K-State, the Collegian editorial page has discussed most of the problems of our times. Readers have been informed about and have given their own opinions concerning gay rights, women's rights, the treatment of international students, mob violence and most recently, the desensitizing effects of violence

The treatment of these and other subjects has been commendable as has been the concern for our society shown by readers who felt strongly enough to write letters no matter what their opinions. Exemplary of this spirit of "doing something about it" are the few but vocal people who demonstrate frequently at local events.

While the feelings and actions of these people are commendable, they and their less vocal brethren would remember that patterns of everyday behavior are equally, if not more, important.

On campus, the concentration of people makes these inconsistancies of human behavior quite visible. From the groups of students discussing human rights in the K-State Union Stateroom, who leave a table buried in trash and dirty dishes behind them, to the hurried student or faculty member who parks in the handicapped space "just for a minute," most of us show an appalling lack of concern for our fellows in practice if not in

If we are ever to make headway on the many human rights problems confronting us, it seems obvious we must first learn to make use every day of the same concern we exhibit on occasions when a particularly heinious action by some group or government comes to our attention.

If we can't be bothered to treat persons in Middle America in the same way we would like to see them treated in South Africa or Latin America, we certainly cannot expect others to effect changes in these or other troubled areas.

The time has come for those of us who wish to see these changes come about to make some changes in our own behavior.

It is going to take all of us to help the world on the road to complete human equality. Until we commit ourselves to helping our fellows in the little ways, the major changes will always be beyond our reach.

Kelly Carson senior in social science

Flexibility in candidates important

Re: Catherine Sayler's column, "Flexibility needed in presidential selection," in the Nov. 5 Collegian:

I would like to expand on a point made by Sayler in her recent column about the Presidential Search Committee's candidate selection. She mentioned a need for diversity in the candidates. I couldn't agree with her

A wide range of types of candidates is essential in order for the Board of Regents to have a true selection. If the regents are faced with making a choice from a group of traditional candidates who are similar in education and administrative background, the

*****

PANCAKE FEED

All you can eat

Catholic Student

Center

711 Denison

Nov. 17, 6-8 p.m.

$2.50

50¢ off w/this coupon

choice has essentially already been made for

On a larger scale, the United States has elected excellent presidents who were previously anything from war heroes to farmers to actors. This illustrates that great leaders have come from many different backgrounds. Different backgrounds bring about fresh ideas.

By giving the regents a diverse group of candidates, the regents will be able to make a true choice, a choice that could give K-State the quality leader it needs.

Fountain Falls

Tropical

Fish Shop

Thursday Special

6-8 p.m.

15% off

Selected freshwater

fish

2007 Ft. Riley Blvd.

Steve Davis sophomore in veterinary medicine

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

Can't Believe It's YOGURT

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

DINNER THEATRE

"The Front Room" at Gregor's

Fri. & Sat. evenings through Nov. 16 Kansas Actors Theatre presents

"Greater Tuna"

Fri.-Sat.: Dinner at 6:30 & Performance at 8:00

$12.50 person Reservations 776-1234

Thursday, November 14th, 1985

Let's Talk About.. SELLING KANSAS STATE

With Charles Hein, Director of Communications

Today at noon in the Union Courtyard

k-state union

November 15, Forum Hall 7:00 and 9:30 p.m. November 16, Forum Hall 7:00 and 9:30 p.m. Rated PG; $1.75; KSU I.D. Required

k-state union

Woody Allen and starring Mia Farrow, this is possibly his best film to date Today in the Little Theatre, 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Rated PG; $1.75;

Directed by

KSU I.D. Required Wk-state union harmonizing duo bringing you a great

November 15th

(tomorrow night)

 8 PM • UNION CATSKE (BRING YOUR LEE GREENWOOD TICKET AND SEE SMITH AND MAYER FOR $1.50)

( k-state union

The Bridge on the River Kwai From the director of "A Passage to India" comes this powerful story about the inmates of a Japanese prison in the early days of World War II. Winner of seven Academy Awards

November 16, Little Theatre 2 p.m. November 17, Little Theatre 2 and 7 p.m. Rated PG; $1.50; KSU I.D. Required

An Unfinished Piece for Player Piano A new comedy from the director of OBLOMOV and SLAVE OF LOVE

November 20, Forum Hall 7:30 p.m. November 21, Little Theatre 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. $1.75; KSU I.D. Required

Santa Suit Rentals Rent a Santa suit for your Christmas parties from the Activities Center, 3rd Floor, K-State Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday-Friday, from December 2 through December 20. For more info call 532-6571. Cost $10

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

KREEM KUP

DELICIOUS ICE CREAM

HOT SANDWICHES

M.-Sat. 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Sun. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m. 17th & Yuma

JUMP FOR JOY TINTED EXTENDED WEAR soft contact lenses are now available along with:

*Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color

- of your eyes) *Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for
- astigmatism) *Bifocal (for reading
- difficulties) *Regular type (for near- and
- far-sightedness) ★Toric (for Astigmatism) ★Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Replacement Lenses & Solutions in Stock

PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH

776-9461 Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt Manhattan, KS

A Professional Association

HUNAM Restourant 1304 Westloop

Chris Kinkaid is reflected in a puddle as she walks past the parking lot at Laramie and 12th streets.

FREE DELIVERY 10% off with KSU I.D.) 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

539-8888 or 537-0886

HUNAM EXPRESS 1116 Moro

Speedwash in Aggieville

> Wash 75° Dry 25°

1118 Moro

OPEN 24 HOURS FREE PARKING

TAP SOME FUN with a keg from Dutch Maid's

Keg-To-Go Price List.

EVERYDAY LOW PRICES.

Keg of William	$27.98
Keg of light	$27.98
Keg of Budweiser	$39.88
Keg of LIGHT	$39.88
Keg of Coots	$39.88
Kan of Cools	$39 88

Plus Deposit Please call 2 days ahead to reserve your keg.
We keep extra kegs of Bud, Bud Light, Coors, Coors Light, and Millers on hand.

2309 NORTH TUTTLE CREEK BLVD.

Faculty suggest ways to up morale

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

Ensuring self-satisfaction and communication are major factors in boosting faculty morale, said four panelists at a department heads' seminar Wednesday. The session was titled "Leadership and Faculty Morale."

Frank "Skip" Saal, associate professor of psychology, emphasized the value of rewards, perceived effort, reward probability, performance and satisfaction in promoting staff morale.

"Effort and satisfaction come closest to being the major weapons in the bag of tricks for leadership and morale," Saal said. "The effort a person expends on the job is a function of two areas - the rewards he sees available within the organization and his perception of the likeliness to win those rewards."

In order for faculty members to seek rewards, however, personal and individual perception is important. First, each person needs to have a sense of mission, said David Cox. head of the Department of Biochemistry.

"Faculty members need vision, a sense of purpose and the knowledge that the department is moving in a direction of its own," he said.

He said devices such as tool kits or pamphlets used to promote morale are not enough - department heads must talk to faculty or they will begin to feel as though they are "nibbling at the margin" of the faculty morale problem.

Interrelationships between faculty members and students is also important in boosting morale, said Stephen White, head of the Department of Geography.

"I get concerned when faculty members start venting their frustrations on the students," he said.

Jane Bowers, head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, said communication is the most important factor in developing leadership and morale within the University's faculty.

"If the faculty feels helpless, morale simply declines," she said.

Nicaragua suffers health care woes

By SARAH KESSINGER Collegian Reporter

As a health employee in Nicaragua, Dr. Anne Lifflander found herself in situations for which she was "totally unprepared."

After facing heavy machine gun fire from Contra revolutionaries and after listening to stories of the killing of unarmed women and children, Lifflander decided the United States population was not getting the true story on what is happening in this small Central American country.

Lifflander spoke and showed slides of her experiences with Nicaragua's health care programs Wednesday evening at the Manhattan Alliance on Central America's Rice and Beans dinner at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Ave.

Lifflander, who now practices medicine in Washington, D.C., worked from September 1983 to July 1985 as an employee of the Ministry of Health run by the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

The "shortages on everything" such as medicines, doctors, clean facilities and space in health facilities are the cause of many of the country's illnesses and deaths, Lifflander said.

The continuous fighting of the right-wing Contras against the Sandinistas has hindered progress in rebuilding the country after its revolution in 1979.

The Sandinistas have made large steps in health care, Lifflander said, although the programs are still young and disorganized. A major new program is a national health society under the Ministry of Health.

Lifflander said there has been work with a national clean-up campaign in which civilians are taught the importance and implementation

House Drinks Draws Memberships only

616 N. 12th 539-9967

ALL HAMBURGERS $795 includes Home-Cut FRIES

(10 to choose from!) PLUS, after 5:30

KC STRIP RIBEYE

includes Baked Potato Home-Cut Fries. or Vegetable

+ PLUS + + + DRINKS!

80c DRAWS $1.00 WINE

1115 MORO 776-0030 RESTAURANT & BAR

Alicia and Co. *Lamaur

537-9825

so Register Today!! membership specials

$1.99 VCR Rental Mon-Thur. only ends 11/22 We Just Doubled Our Showroom Size

Nov. 16 at 5:30

Free Popcorn and 100's of giveaways! Specially priced Ghostbusters

T-Shirts, caps & pins Beverly Hills Cops T-Shirts Blank Tape Specials

TDK - $5.99 SKC-$4.99 Live remote from (While supplies last) KMKF Saturday between 3-6 p.m. 706 N. 11th in Aggieville

YOUR MOVIE STORE

VIDEO EXCHANGE

RANCHISE INFORMATION 515-276-8578

Cap Gown Tassel

$9.(8)*

* add 3 : sales tas

Announcements

$4 92 (pkg of 10) includes ray

$20 IN (pkg of 20) includes tax $31.05 (pkg of 40) includes tax $40.37 (pkg of 60) includes tax

k-state union

Money matters

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-67, met with classified employees Wednesday to discuss their representation in the Kansas Legislature in regard to appropriation of money. The group met with Knopp hoping to gain a greater understanding of why it had been passed over in its call for salary raises.

YOU

Can Be An Air Force Officer 532-6600 KSU-AFROTC

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS Parent's Day

> CORSAGES &

BOUTONNIERES

Order Now

12th and Laramie 10-5:30 M.-Sat.

"RARE BOOKS & RARE PEOPLE"

Ardis Glenn... proprietor, Glenn Books, Kansas City

Monday, Nov. 18 7:30 p.m.

K-State Union Cottonwood Room

Presentation sponsored by: K-State Friends of the Libraries

PARENTS DAY DINE AT

& HP's Bar Serving Lunch & Dinner

Your parents will be delighted by the nostalgia of the 20's.

Dine this weekend at Manhattan's newest dinner club

418 Poyntz in the Wareham Bldg. Reciprocal with major Kansas clubs.

Senate to vote on plan for proposed coliseum

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will vote on a bill calling for the completion of eight proper planning steps for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum at its meeting at 7 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

The bill, Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum, calls for senate to ask the Board of Regents to withdraw student monetary support for the coliseum until proper planning steps are adopted. It outlines eight planning steps to be completed: a master plan, a market study, a financial feasibility study, a site study selection, a traffic study, a building program, a funding study and a design.

The bill is sponsored by Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in premedicine

The senate also will vote on a bill and a resolution for Associated Students of Kansas, sponsored by Kevin Elmore, senior in computer

enefit Auction

Wed. Nov 20

roceeds will go to impete in the Miss

x beaver Stetson hat pair of ladies Tony room at the Holidome

ems too numerous to Everyone invited

starts at 8 p.m.

early for good sea

ssorted Bar light

ama boots

ss Rodeo Kansas to

odeo America Pageant

changes the constitution as amended at the September ASK Legislative Assembly. The changes are in context only. Elmore said at the senate meeting last week.

The resolution, called Prioritization of Associated Students of Kansas Platform, asks for senate approval of these ASK platform priorities: state work-study program, state scholarship program, part-time student aid, merit-based aid, teacher scholarship program, student salaries and student employment in alcohol-related settings.

science, and State and Community

Affairs Committee. The bill, Approval of Revised Associated Students of Kansas Constitution,

Hansen Nutrition Center

- . WEIDER BODY-BUILDING
- PRODUCTS
- ALL MAJOR BRANDS
- OF NATURAL FOODS
- . NATURAL DIET AIDS
- . BOOKS ON NUTRITION

. STOP BY TODAY . 537-4571 3112 Anderson

Mon - Sat. 9:30 a.m. - 6 p.m.

T.N.T.

Thursdays TEQUILA

50¢ TACOS with drinks $1.00 Margaritas 4-6 p.m.

RAMADA INN

Get a large (1 topping) Thin Crust Pizza for $5.99 OR a large (1 topping) Original Crust Pizza for $6.99

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge) Dine-in, Carryout or Delivery—(Add $1 For Delivery)

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any

Godfather's

LET'S PARTY!

$3.00 Cover 50¢ Well drinks 25¢ Draws

- also -

Most physical contest starting at 9:30 p.m. Sponsored by Body by Schliebe.

FALL SPORTSWEAR DESPERATION SALE STARTS TOMORROW!

WARM FALL WEATHER DURING OCTOBER HAS FORCED THIS HUGE DESPERATION SALE

Juniors and Misses

Jones New York

Folio

Esprit

J.H. Collectibles

Prive

A.J. Mitchell

College Town Happy Legs

Size 3-15

20%

Blake

Size 4-20

Country Suburbans Fritzi

Devon

Corbin Hootstein

You Babes D.D. Sloan

ALL FALL SPORTSWEAR MUST BE SOLD TO MAKE WAY FOR GORGEOUS HOLIDAY SELECTIONS

SPECIAL SELECTION

All New Winter Boots from Joyce

NOW $66.98

Reg. $98

4 DAYS ONLY

Thursday

Doors Open 9:30 a.m.

Doors Close 8:30 p.m.

University employees 'lunch and learn'

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

Personnel Services is offering a voluntary program for the comprehensive training of University employees.

The new program, Lunch-and-Learn, began Nov. 5 and is a weekly noon-hour training program for University employees

Participants watch a 15-to-20minute videotape while eating lunch in the conference room of Personnel Services in Anderson Hall, and join in a discussion.

The four topics covered in the ex-enhancement, interpersonal skills development, awareness and personal growth.

Career enhancement covers managerial skills, office skills and career planning. Interpersonal skills development addresses the employee's ability to communicate with others on an individual or group

The University wanted a comprehensive training program for employees in order to provide a learning opportunity for faculty, staff, graduate teaching assistants and other administrators said Joe perimental program are career Younger, personnel officer in Personnel Services.

> "Many people are taking that opportunity for their lunch hour instead of just sitting down and eating. They learn something at the same time, Younger said. "You're actually redeeming your time.

> Awareness topics range from personal interests such as safety tips to studying the methods of Lee Iacocca. chairman of the Chrysler Corp. Personal growth deals with improving self-esteem and personal skills.

> "I just took what I thought people would have a general interest in something that would really fit to anyone in any scale of the hierarchy," Younger said. The tapes are designed for any level students, faculty, staff or top management.

Each month, Younger said he chooses one of the four areas and orders the videotapes on that sub-

Younger is limiting attendance to the first 15 who sign up for each session, but if more personnel want to see a particular tape, he may schedule another session later that month or the following month. Sessions are limited to space available.

grams out of their communities were often individuals who did not need ciency," Kaiser said. "The aging leadership honestly believes because

"Part of it is their own self suffi-

Weekend Party

Stroh's and Old Milwaukee Light

present

The Last Annual Pre-Demolition

Nov. 15th and 16th. Giving Away T-Shirts • Hats • And More T-Shirts Commemorative and Memorabilia Nov 15

T.G.I.F. Tradition 40 days left • 7 Fridays left $2.25 Pitchers 75¢ Old Milwaukee & Old Milwaukee Light cans

Panasonic

Quality Panasonic

19" Color Television

Front Load VHS Cable Ready

Video Recorder with Wireless Remote

19" Remote Control

Cable Ready Color Television

Chromasharp picture tube with 15 channel cable capability

Iowa State Parents Day 39 Days left • 7 Saturdays left $2.25 Pitchers 75¢Old Milwaukee & Old Milwaukee Light cans

Ailwaukee

111 S. 3rd 539-9949

ack of services cut choices for elderly

By JONIE R. TRUED Collegian Reporter

Many older Kansans residing in rural areas are forced to move to nursing homes before they want to or need to, because of a lack of services in their communities. Marvin Kaiser, head of the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work, said research indicates the number of services available to rural residents was not based on need, but was a reflection on the values of aging local leadership. Kaiser said the leaders of rural communities can either "act as brokers" to start service programs in their community or "blocks" to keep services out.

"The first step in providing services to older persons should be to determine what they need," Kaiser said. The second and third steps should be to find out what is available and what they want.

"If services are not available we take away choices," he said. "If the only thing available is a nursing home, then they don't really have a choice.

There is at least one nursing home in every county in Kansas, Kaiser

> Complete Sanyo Home Stereo Component System

Audio/Video Stereo Receiver

eatures 10 AM/FM preset memory

Phone Answering Machine

Voice activated dual cassette system Model KXT-1421

ligh Blas 90 Minute

Audio Cassette Tape

ock up now Model XLII

EACH

SONY

Model STRAV-460

30 Watt/Channel Integrated Amp with 5 Band Equalizer
Quality AM/FM Stereo Tuner
Dual Stereo Cassette Deck

Semi Automatic Turntable

S A Pair Of 8" 2-Way Speakers
Component Cabinet W/Glass Door
Model 240 Sil. System list $499.

SONY

Automatic Turntable

Has a low mass tonearm Model PL)

The 31 possible services identified by Kaiser, Henry Camp and Jacque Gibbons, assistant professors of sociology, anthropology and social work, included meal and homemaker programs, transportation services, medical alert and crisis services.

The highest number of services found in a single Kansas county was 27 and the least was three, Kaiser

"If leaders felt that they didn't need government assistance or other external help then they acted as blocks," he said.

Leaders who kept service pro-they don't know frail elderly and don't know about frail elderly, that all the needs are being met."

assistance themselves.

According to research data, 43 percent of the counties have half of the care services possible for the elder-About 10 percent have less than one-third of the services, and 16 percent have more than two-thirds of the

Typing "Blues"? GET HAPPY! with a

Brother electronic typewriter reg. 299.95 NOW 269.95

OFFICE T SUPPLY (across from Post Office)

511 Leavenworth

776-0495

2nd Annual

Ф20

Pledge Class PIG ROAST

will be Parents Day, Nov. 16 4-8 p.m. 508 Sunset $4.00 per plate Everyone welcome! Bring your parents! Questions? Call 539-9939

This Thursday

 Mountain Oysters from 6-8 p.m. •Free admission for the ladies

●50¢ steins •$2.00 pitchers incention of the

SCOMMY

YOUR CHOICE... 25" Remote Control Modern Or Traditional Style Color Console Features a quartz electronic, 157 channel cable ready tune

SANYO

VCR with Wireless Remote

4 Head VHS Cable Ready. VCR with Wireless Remote

Panasonic

4 Head Stereo Cable Ready VHS VCR W/Wireless Remote

Mini AM/FM Stereo Cassette w/Headphones
Has locking fast forward Model MGR

MANHATTAN 11th & Moro in Aggieville 537-4190

Complete Kenwood Car Stereo System plete system includes an AM/FM digital stereo cassette with autorse And a pair of top quality car stereo speakers. Model KRC 2000 KFC Digital AM/FM Mini AM/FM Stereo Car Stereo Cassette Component System

Programmable 13" Color Television Compact Audio Disc Player

maxellxo . 10: Component Cabinet

Features a pair of glass doors Mode

One touch recording, with 2-way power operation Model RXF-2. Financing available Visa Mastercard & American Express welcomed Quantities may be limited Prices good thru November 16 or while VISA

AM/FM Stereo Cassette

Recorder with Ambience video Cassette Tape

Sports

Football coach to face many challenging jobs

head football coach at K-State will have a tough job ahead of him.

It isn't just the fact that of 105 NCAA Division 1 football teams, K-State has the worst record over the past 30 years.

It isn't just the fact that K-State hasn't won a Big Eight Conference title since 1934 and back then it was the Big Six.

TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

The losing tradition at K-State is only one of the problems facing the new coach who will take over the reigns in the next month. There have been reasons why K-State loses big — certain intangible factors that will be tough for a new coach to deal with.

K-State simply has less resources to work with in recruiting talented football players in comparison to every other school in the Big Eight.

Kansas is the second least populous state of all Big Eight states. This is not the problem. The problem comes when K-State must compete with Wichita State University and, most of all, the University of Kansas for the best recruits in Kansas.

It's kind of like the old western movie where one cowboy says to the other, "This town ain't big enough for the both of us," except with three cowboys instead of two.

This year in particular, KU looks to have a decided edge over K-State in recruiting Kansas' top football

KU has had a better season than K-State for one thing and also beat the 'Cats 38-7. The Jayhawks have a highly regarded head coach, Mike

Add to this that out-of-state schools also take many of Kansas' top football players away and it all adds up to a tough recruiting situation. A top player in a state like Oklahoma or Nebraska also is far more likely to stay in-state.

like Kansas expect to support three

Whoever accepts the position of successful Division 1 football programs?

Look at the states bordering Kansas. Nebraska has one team. Missouri has one team. Colorado and Oklahoma have three teams, but both have a higher population than Kansas. One of Colorado's teams is the Air Force Academy, whose recruiting is done on the national level. The Oklahoma schools - the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University and the University of Tulsa - have used their proximity to the football hotbed in Texas to recruit many top players.

Missouri, a state with twice the population of Kansas, has only one major team - the University of Missouri - but seldom produces a big winner. If Missouri can't turn the trick with one school, how can Kansas with three? It won't be easy.

Now K-State has a chance to start over with the naming of a new coach, whether it be Lee Moon, who took over for Jim Dickey, or an outsider. What this coach should do, when hired, is set a goal to dominate the state of Kansas.

Iowa, similar in population to Kansas, is an example of how this domination can take place. When Hayden Fry was hired to take over the University of Iowa football team eight years ago, the Hawkeyes held a record for most consecutive losing seasons in a row by a major college football team. Iowa State University's football team, then coached by current Ohio State coach Earle Bruce, was significantly better than Iowa's.

What has happened since Fry took over is a domination by Iowa over Iowa State. The Hawkeyes have gone to bowl games in four consecutive seasons, including the Rose Bowl in 1982. This year, Iowa is one of the top teams in the nation and could win the national championship Meanwhile at Iowa State, the Cyclones have floundered near the bottom of the Big Eight Conference standings and haven't gone to a bowl game since the 1978 Hall of Fame Bowl. K-State needs to establish this kind of dominance over KU.

It won't be easy to establish dominance in Kansas, but it can be done. Iowa proves it. K-State needs a coach like Fry who has a proven How can a lightly populated state record and isn't afraid to do some aggressive recruiting.

Big Eight Conference match against the University of Oklahoma earlier
Eight first team.

K-State senior volleyball team member Donna Lee dives for the ball in a this season in Ahearn Field House. Lee was recently named to the All-Big

Conference honors volleyball players

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

K-State volleyball's senior cocaptain duo of Renee Whitney and Donna Lee were honored by the Big Eight Conference Wednesday as first-team All-Big Eight selections.

Whitney and Lee are only the second and third Wildcat volleyball players to be chosen for the honor. The first was Whitney, tabbed for first-team honors last year.

Whitney and Lee are joined on the team by Dianne Berg of the University of Missouri and the University of Nebraska's Annie Adamczak, Karen Dahlgren and Tisha Delaney

Whitney, Dahlgren and Adamczak were unanimous picks by the conference coaches. Dahlgren and Whitney were the only first team repeaters from the 1984 selections.

'I'm real happy for them," Head Coach Scott Nelson said. "This is one of the conferences in the nation that has a large number of quality players. With Donna and Renee being chosen among two of the top six is great."

Conference coaches rank the top eight players and vote on those eight. First-team selections go to the six players with the most votes.

Of all the goals Lee has set in her collegiate career, being named All-

Unicorns 3-0, Hort Club 2-1, Goodnow 5A 2-1,

Bumpers 3-0, U Know Whats 3-0, Slammers 2-1,

Farmhouse Rubies 1-2, Farmhouse Pearls 0-3.

Glenwood Gunners 3-0, The Landers 3-0, Good-now Four 1-2, Mar-Ford 1-2, Farmhouse Browns

League 5: Mucho Rise Rebel Rousers 3-0, Dogs Know 2-1, NSAE 21 2-1,

Vet Freshmen One 3-0, Vet Freshmen Four 2-1,

Power House 3-0, Aces 2-1, Goodnow Two 2-1.

Dinkel's Dozen 2-1. Edwards Hall C 0-3. Goodnow

Liberators 3-0, Palace 3-0, V-Team 2-1, Ter-

Borgurygma 3-0. Wade's Spears 2-1, Jerry's

ET Lab 3-0, Misfits 2-1, Rawhide 2-1, Edwards

League 12: Santa Monica U No Da Kine 3-0, Smith Co-Rec 2-1, Golden Hitters 2-1. None 1-2. Smurthwaite Co-Rec 1-2, Moore

Alpha Omega Servers 3-0, Ball Brakers 3-0, Awesome Six 2-1, Boilermakers 1-2, Moore Six

HE 3-0. The Network 2-1, S.W.A.T. 2-1, Moore

Hall A 1-2, The Spikers 1-2, Moore Three 0-3.

Screaming O's 2-0, Clueless 2-0.

Kids 2-1. Dementia Duo's 1-2, Kappa Sigma 1-2.

minator 1-2. Drop Outs 0-3, Aiche Party Animals

Vet Freshmen Five 2-1, Vet Freshmen Three 1-2,

NSAE 12 1-2. Katz 1-2. Moore Stars 0-3.

DPMA 1-2, Vet Freshmen Two 0-3.

Moore Seven Wildcats 1-2, Sippin' the Suds 1-2,

Lost Causes 0-3.

Digs Pigs 0-3.

League 4: Kilgore

League 8: Back Row

League 9: Roll

League 11: Tandem

League 13: Big Wall

0-3, Magic's Misfits 0-3.

League 14: Santa Cruz

2B 1-2, ASCE 1-2, Rough Drafts 0-3.

Big Eight was at the top of her list. "Earning All-Big Eight has always been a personal goal," Lee said. "I was hoping it would happen this year. I think my play lately has

Renee Whitney, left, was also named first-team All-Big Eight.

really helped. Since I didn't play much of the conference season last year, I had to go out and prove myself all over again.'

In the conference statistical department, Delaney and Whitney are holding down the top two spots in assists, with Delaney holding a slight advantage. All six members are among the top players in hitting percentage. The conference is led by Sharon Kramer who is hitting 41 percent but did not take first-team honors. Kramer is followed by Whitney at 38 percent, Adamczak (35 percent), Dahlgren (35 percent), Berg (32 percent) and Lee hitting 31 percent.

"Both Donna and Renee have consistently played at a high level all year, which is a key to success." Nelson said. "They have demonstrated to other coaches that they can play at a high level. Both have put in a lot of hard work to develop our program and it's nice that others recognize how they develop themselves.

Lee also is excited about Whitney earning All-Big Eight honors.

"I think it's special that we both were named." Lee said. "It is special that we both made it and we are both going out (ending their careers) together.

Lee and Whitney will be playing in their final home match of the season Friday as the Wildcats face Missouri. The match is a critical one for the Wildcats. If they defeat the Tigers they will take po of third place in the conference.

Intramural volleyball INDEPENDENT

Sphinx 3-0, Construction Science 2-1, Pi Kappa Alpha 2-1, Phi Delta Theta Pledges 1-2.

League 3: Front Row The V-Team 3-0, Civil Tongued Devils 3-0, ECM 2-1, Underdogs 1-2, ASCE 0-3, The Outlaws 0-3.

League 4: Wildcats
AVMA '85 2-0. Red Tie Club 3-0. The Team 2-1.

Underdogs 1-2, No Comp 0-3, Spazmaticks 0-3.

Campus View 3-0, DPMA 2-1, Gienwood Gun-ners 2-1, Tau Kappa Epsilon Independent 2-1, Ex-cel 0-3, ROTC Green Machine 0-3. League 6: Six Pack Salsa Nueva 3-0, Blackshirts 2-1, Byte Busters 2-1, White Lightning 2-1, Alpha Gamma Rho In-

League 7: Cobra Manhattan Beach 3-0, Mev's 2-1, Smith House

2-1, BMA 1-2, Wild Childs 1-2. League 8: Spike Latinos 2-0, Hoover Dam 2-1, Newman 1-1, Bed

Pans 1-1, Bros. 8-3.

RESIDENCE HALL

League 2: Uecker Haymaker Three 3-0, Mariatt Two 2-1, Mariatt Five 2-1, Goodnow Five 1-2, Haymaker Seven 1-2, Mariatt One 0-3.

League 3: Gold Medal

REGISTER

FOR

Haymaker Eight 3-0, Haymaker Four 3-0, Goodnow Three 1-2, Goodnow Four 1-2, Putnam

League 4: State Reach Mariatt Three 3-4, Haymaker One 2-1, Moore Five 2-1, Edwards Hall 1-2, Moore Six 0-3, Haymaker Nine 0-3.

League 5: Doheny Marlatt Six 2-0, Haymaker Six 2-1, Haymaker Two 1-1, Goodnow One 1-2, Haymaker Five 0-2. FRATERNITY

League A: Flo!

Beta Theta Pi 3-0, Sigma Alpha Epsilon 3-0,
Sigma Phi Epsilon 2-1, Acacia 1-2, FarmHouse
0-3, Alpha Kappa Lambda 0-3.

League B: Roof Lambda Chi Alpha 2-6, Tau Kappa Epsilon 3-6, 0-3. Delta Tau Delta 0-3.

League C: Serve Kappa Sigma 3-0, Sigma Nu 3-0, Phi Kappa Theta 2-1, Triaugle 1-2, Alpha Gamma Rho 0-3, Phi Gamma Delta 0-3.

League D: Net
Pi Kappa Alpha 3-0, Delta Upsilon 3-0, Phi Delta Theta 2-1, Sigma Chi 1-2, Beta Sigma Psi
0-3, Phi Kappa Tau 0-3.

League 2: Dig Olympia's 3-0, Blitzkriegettes 2-1, Lady Lion's 2-1, Alpha Xi Delta 1-2, Goodnow Six 1-2, Goodnow

Gamma Phi Beta 3-0, Alpha Delta Pi 2-1, Ford Three 2-1, Power Hitters 1-2, Not Yet Vets 0-2, League 4: Mishandle Alpha Chi Omega 3-0, Gamma Phi Beta

Pledges 3-0, Chi Omega 2-1, Gator Haters 1-2, Kappa Alpha Theta 0-3 Sigma Sigma Sigma 0-3. League 5: Out of Bounds
Lady Attackers 3-0, The Spuds 2-1, Ford HGB
2-1, Ford Eight 1-2, Clovia 1-2, Newman 0-3.

League 6: Jump Serve Generics 3-0, West Three 2-1, Goodnow Three

League 7: Face Dig Delta Delta Delta 3-0, The Jetsets 3-0, Delta

Delta Delights 1-2, Kappa Kappa Gamma 1-2,

League 9: Roll Shot Pi Beta Phi 3-0, Sweeties 2-1, Chappers 2-1. West Two 1-2, Boyd Hall 1-2. POWER CO-REC

League 1: Dive ABOJ 3-0, Pink Panthers 2-1, Airomatics 1-2, Snafu 0-3.

League 2: Angle Sand Lot Gang 3-0, Irregulars 2-1, Mev's 1-2, Six

CO-REC

League 1: Tip Six Pack 3-0, NCK All-Stars 3-0, Goodnow Six 2-1, Mistakes 1-2, Goodnow Zero 0-3, Goodnow

NO

PURCHASE

NECESSARY

Rockers 2-1, The Hammer 2-1, Goodnow One

Gooden wins NL Cy Young; Cards Tudor finishes second

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Soft-spoken but hard-throwing Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets became the youngest player ever to win the Cy Young award, receiving unanimous acclaim Wednesday as the best pitcher in the National League last season. Gooden, who turns 21 on Saturday, also became the first pitcher to win Rookie of the Year and Cy Young awards in successive seasons. The right-hander had a record of 24-4 and led the National League in earned run average, strikeouts, complete games and innings pitched. Gooden received 120 points, including all 24 of the first-place votes cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, becoming the seventh pitcher to receive the award unanimously.

John Tudor of St. Louis, 21-8 during the season, was second with 65 points, followed by Orel Hershiser of Los Angeles with 17, Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis with 6, Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles with 4, Tom Browning of Cincinnati with 3 and Jeff Reardon of Montreal with 1.

The other unanimous winners were Sandy Koufax in 1963, '65 and '66; Denny McLain in 1968; Bob Gibson in 1968; Steve Carlton in 1972 and '77; Ron Guidry in 1978, and Rick Sutcliffe in 1984

Votes are cast by two members of the BBWAA from each National League city with a first-place vote counting five points, three for second and one for third.

"I'm honored to have my name listed with the other Cy Young winners," said Gooden. "So much has happened to me in such a short period of time - Rookie of the Year last year and now this. Still, I would gladly trade both of these awards for one World Series ring. That's what I will be shooting for next year."

'So much has happened to me in such a short period of time - Rookie of the Year last year and now this. Still, I would gladly trade both of these awards for one World Series ring. That's what I will be shooting for next year.'

Dwight Gooden

The award came to Gooden three days before his 21st birthday, making him 13 days younger than Valenzuela when the Dodgers' southpaw won his Cy Young Award in 1981. Valenzuela was 10 days past his 21st birthday when he won the award on Nov. 11 of that year.

While consistently downplaying his own accomplishments in relation to those of the team as a whole, Gooden had the kind of season that made him stand out from the rest.

His ERA of 1.53 was a team record, and he led the league with 276 2-3 innings pitched, 268 strikeouts and 16 complete games. He also had eight shutouts, second in the NL to Tudor's Gooden was the first pitcher since Sandy Koufax in 1966 to lead the league in the pitching triple crown categories of victories, ERA and strikeouts. Six pitchers besides Gooden - Koufax, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Dazzy Vance, Lefty Grove and Hal Newhouser - have led the majors in those categories, and all but Newhouser are in the Hall of Fame.

With a 17-9 record in his rookie season of 1984. Gooden has a career record of 41-13.

Gooden had the season's longest winning streak, 14 straight victories from May 30-Aug. 25, breaking the club mark of 10 by Seaver in 1969. He went 31 consecutive innings without allowing a run and put together a string of 49 consecutive innings from Aug. 31-Oct. 2 without allowing an earned run.

On Aug. 25, at the age of 20 years 9 months 9 days, he became the youngest pitcher in modern baseball history to win 20 games. Before Gooden, Bob Feller of the American League's Cleveland Indians won 20 games at age 20 years 10 months 5 days in 1939. The youngest previous NL 20-game winner was Christy Mathewson, who won No. 20 in 1901 at age 21 years 1 month 9 days.

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

539-3830

Parents Day Concert Mens Glee Club Womens Glee Club and The K-State Singers Sat., Nov. 16 McCain Auditorium 7 p.m. Admission $3

Main St. in Ogden 2706 Anderson All Open 24 Hrs.

TIMES AS YOU LIKE Located for Your Convenience 1. 12 3

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

THE DRAWING FOR ONE 20 LB. TURKEY AT EACH

MINI MART WILL BE ON NOVEMBER 22. NEED

NOT BE PRESENT TO WIN. REGISTER AS MANY

GROCERY CONVENIENCE

Secretary first lady of press

By LESLIE STOKES Collegian Reporter

Before 1967, women weren't allowed in the football press box at K-State

And then Norma Lawrence came along.

Lawrence, Sports Information secretary, was the first woman in the K-State football press box and has been with Sports Information for 18 years.

She compiles statistics and is a hostess to the media at the home football and basketball games.

"It's not just being a secretary—typing and answering the phone," Lawrence said. "I enjoy working in the office because we put out brochures, news releases, work with the media and do layout work for the game programs."

While raising a family, a daughter and three sons, Lawrence decided to take the job of secretary at Sports Information. Her youngest sons were 9 and 10 years old when she began to work. Lawrence said her sons were excited about her new job in Sports Information.

"It was a new experience for me," Lawrence said. "It was a little unusual at first because I was the only woman in the office."

Lawrence said she has always enjoyed sports, but is more of a cheerleader than a coach.

"Basketball is my favorite sport because I can understand it better," Lawrence said. "I'm looking forward to the home basketball games this year."

During her 18 years of work, Lawrence has seen many changes in Sports Information.

Women's athletics were intramural sports in the 1960s, Lawrence said. The women's sports programs remained separate from men's athletics until

Staff/Peter Obetz

Norma Lawrence was the first woman in the K-State football press box and has been the Sports Information secretary for 18 years. Lawrence goes they became collegiate in the 1970s.

She said K-State was one of the first universities to put women's athletics on a collegiate level.
Because women's athletics had

According to Lawrence K-State athletes like Gary defensive linebacker for sas City Chiefs, and Lynn quarterback for the Gr been separate from men's, Lawrence said it was hard at first for the athletic department to treat men's and women's athletics the same. "The department didn't have an equal amount of money allocated for women's and men's sports then," Lawrence said.

Lawrence also meets some of the athletes while working in the office.

According to Lawrence, former K-State athletes like Gary Spani, a defensive linebacker for the Kansas City Chiefs, and Lynn Dickey, quarterback for the Green Bay Packers, used to walk into the office to get their records and pictures.

"It makes you more interested in professional games when you know the people who are playing," Lawrence said.

The Sports Information office has really grown, Lawrence said. When women's sports went collegiate, the beyond typing and answering the phone, she compiles statistics and is a hostess to the media at home football and basketball games.

workload doubled as well as the housemother. Lawrence said she workload doubled, as well as the size of the office. Lawrence compiles statistics for nearly all the men's and women's sports such as track, cross country and golf.

"Athletics is a big business now," she said. "When I started work in 1967, there were four people in the department, now there are 10."

Lawrence has also been the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity housemother for nine years.

Lawrence's two younger sons were Fijis when she became housemother. Lawrence said she talked to her sons before she applied for the job and they were eager to have her as their housemother. Her sons graduated from K-State in the early 1980s.

"We all watch football and basketball games together," Lawrence said. "It gives us a lot to talk about."

The men in the house are always willing to lend a hand if extra help is needed in the press box compiling statistics, she said.

Diabetes month declared

By JAMIE McPHETER Collegian Reporter

In recognition of the fact that every one in 20 persons has diabetes, November has been proclaimed National Diabetes Awareness Month by Congress and Gov. John Carlin.

In observance of the proclamations, the American Diabetes Association has scheduled several activities throughout the month, including door-to-door collections for research funds, media campaigns for disease awareness and a diabetes fair, held Saturday in Wichita, said Charles Ludwig, field director for the American Diabetes Association in Salina.

"Diabetes is a disease that affects every part of the body," Ludwig said. "The problem is the body does not produce or properly use irsulin, a hormone that is needed to convert sugar, starches and other foods into energy for daily living."

Ludwig said diabetes is the third leading cause of death by disease and the No. 1 cause of new cases of blindness.

Dr. Daniel Martin, staff physician at Lafene Student Health Center, said the clinic helped at least 70 actual and possible cases of diabetes last year.

Further information on the disease and services available to the University community are available from the health center.

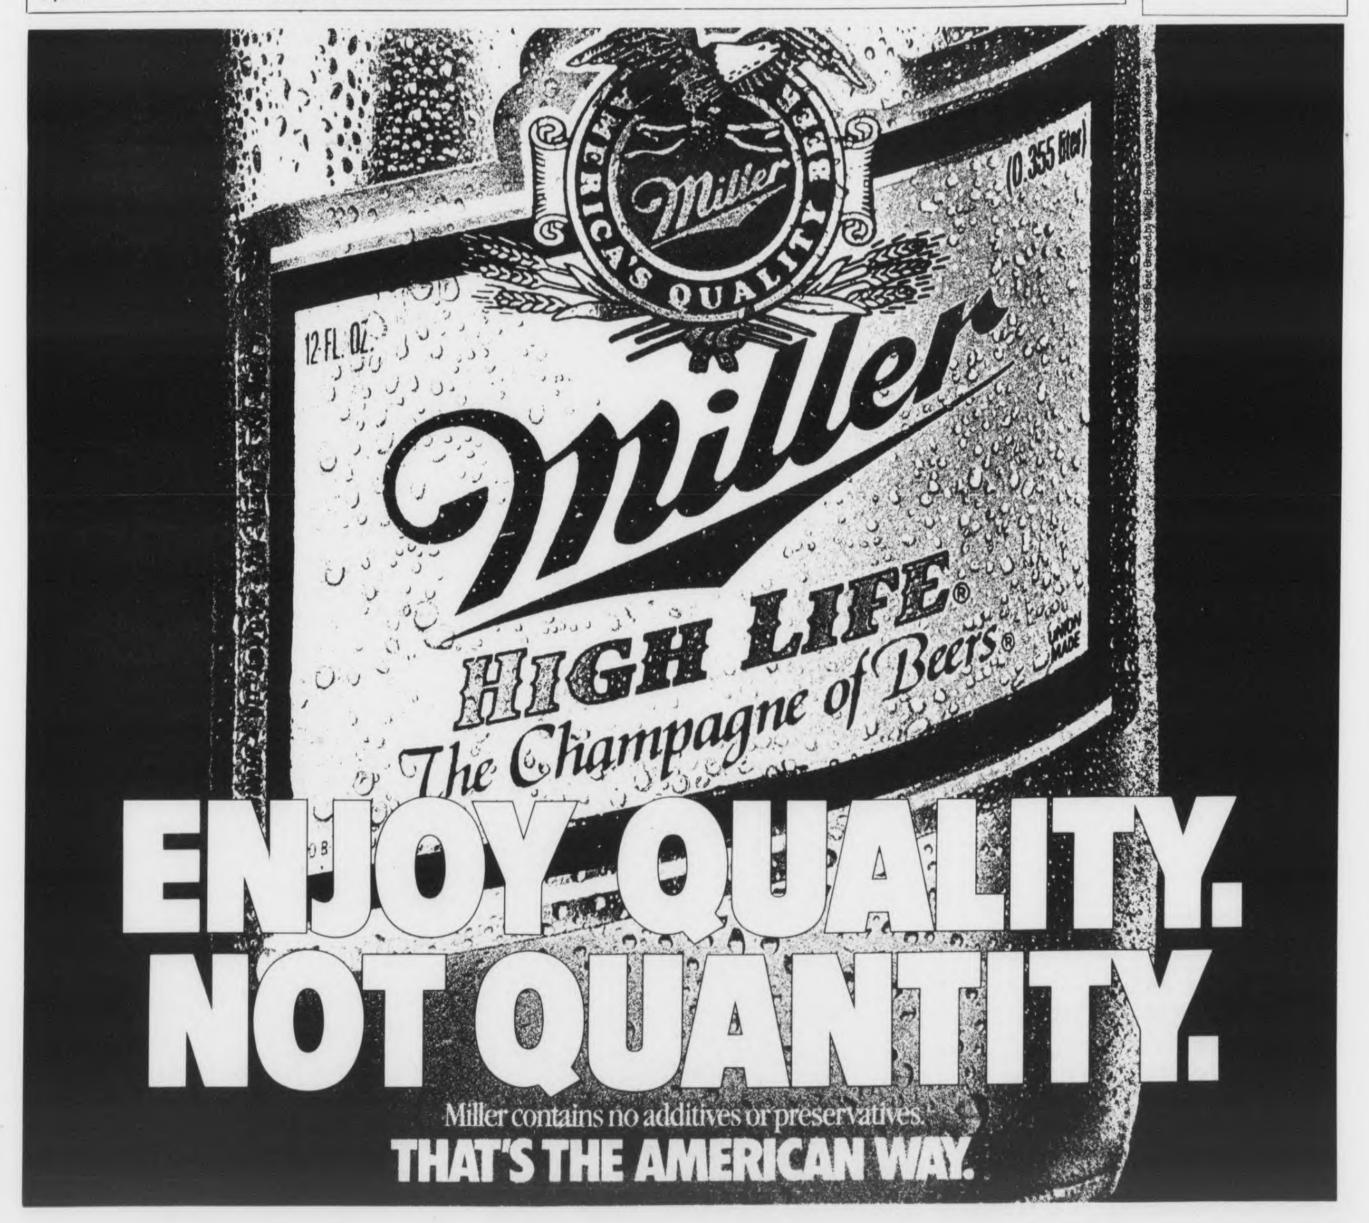

health associates outpatient abortion sealternatives counseli

comprehensive

*outpatient abortion services
*alternatives counseling
*gynecology
*contraception

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

ficulties of funding a project of this size, Acker said the regents have given a mandate to proceed with the project. That mandate will be carried out, he said.

When the University reaches a point when it begins paying coliseum construction costs, a repayment plan will be worked out between the Foundation, regents and the athletic department, said Art Loub, executive vice president of the Founda-

In addition to the athletic department's contribution to the 13,500-seat, $16.1 million coliseum, $7 million will come from students and $7.1 million from the alumni. The alumni committment will also be guaranteed by the Foundation.

The coliseum was originally planned to have 16,000 seats; however, construction bids opened Aug. 20 were more than $3.4 million above the University's estimate of $14.5 million, and 2,500 seats will be eliminated by Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita when they complete the redesign of the struc-

Loub said, and Travis reiterated, that the $2 million provided by the Foundation will come from endowments to the Foundation, but will not endanger scholarship funds.

'Purple Rose' explores role of delusion By GARY JOHNSON

Collegian Reviewer Of all the movies in Woody Allen's career, "The Purple Rose of Cairo" the most enchanting. It's part fantasy and part reality, with none of the cynicism that occasionally mar### red his work after "Annie Hall." Film Review

For a while, particularly in Manhattan," "Interiors," and "Stardust Memories," Allen's characters were primarily talkers, intellectuals questioning their own existence, but in "The Purple Rose of Cairo" there isn't a single character who can be called an intellectual. But this doesn't mean Allen's movie lacks brains. Beneath the film's modest surface is a fascinating examination of self-delusion and the role it plays in our lives.

It's a movie about the border between fantasy and reality and how that border can become obscured when the theater darkens and flickering images fill the screen.

Once again Allen gives Mia Farrow a starring role - this time as a mousy wife, Cecilia, who works as a waitress in a diner. It's the depression era and her lazy husband has been laid off at the factory. To forget her problems, and to avoid having to confront her husband about his laziness, Cecilia goes to the movies. As she sits in the dark theater gazing at the screen, she can avoid her dull existence.

She watches the same movie over and over, night after night, until finally one of the characters, Tom Baxter ("explorer, adventurer"), stops reading his lines, steps down from the screen, and romances her off her feet.

The plot is so simple it's a wonder it hasn't all been done before. But that's part of the joy of this movie its simplicity. In a day when 1979 VW Rabbit-4 door, air conditioning, $1,850.

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado.

1983-CHEVROLET Cavalier Sport-Hatchback,

$4.100 or best offer Evenings, 539-6730, (56-60)

1978 Z-28 Camaro: All options, 1-tops, chrome

1979 GRAND Prix SJ, loaded, with all options! Black with mag wheels, low mileage. Sharp carl Call 532-5422 or 532-5143. (57-60)

1971 CHEVELLE two-door hard top 350. Runs good.

MUST SELL sporty 1972 Datsun 240Z. Low mileage.

OFFICE SUPPLIES - Hull's Business Machines. 715

TECHNICS SL5: direct drive, automatic turntable system. Best offer, 539-4863. (55-59)

Football

Tickets!

Sports Fan-attic has a limited number of ISU tickets for $7

CHINESE SHAR PEI puppies. Registered CPSCA A

BLACK LABRADOR pups. Six weeks old. Excellent

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound

Hamburger

The Ritz

Not good with other specials

One burger per coupon.

KENMORE WASHER and dryer — Two years old, must

MEN'S 28" Free Spirit red. 10 speed - excellent con

Strings and Drumsticks

Buy one set and get

second set at

50% Off

DOD Guitar Effects Units

30% Off

Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

OVATION 6-STRING acoustic guitar with hard plush case. Excellent condition. 539-1243. (58)

776-7983

223 Poyntz

sell. $330. Call 776-7988. (57-59)

dition. Call 776-3519 (57-61)

ng stock $30 Call 537-8367 (56-64)

nice Christmas present 537-3199 (56-59)

North 12th, Aggreville, 539-1413, (55tf)

mags, diamond tuft interior, Call 776-9940 (57-58)

eels, AM-FM cassette, low miles. Loaded.

white, sunroof, stereo cassette, front wheel drive

FOR SALE-AUTO

$3.600, Call 537-0227 (56-60)

great condition, 537-0840 (58)

FOR SALE-MISC

Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (47tf)

loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000

Wiemer. 913-668-2352/913-668-2214. (52-61)

obscurities are constantly be panned off as complexities, it's refreshing to see a filmmaker work with such a simple, charming story. The movie can be viewed as a straight-out romance, and it's successful on those terms. Beneath the literal surface of the film, Allen questions how audiences should approach movies whether as simple escapism or as something more.

The entire cast is excellent, Jeff Daniels as Tom Baxter, Danny Aiello as Cecilia's loutish husband, and Van Johnson and Edward Hermann as characters caught on the movie screen when Tom walks off. But it's Mia Farrow who really shines.

Classifieds

01

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products. and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont. 537-4246. (7tf)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL

CHILI FEED-5:00-8:00 p.m. Sunday, November 17th at the Alpha Tau Omega House, 1632 McCain Lane. Price is $2.50. Proceeds will go to the ALS Founda tion. Tickets may be purchased in the Union Thurs day or Friday, from any member or at the door. (58)

THE DOUGHBOYS

WORST NIGHTMARE

HOW TO impress your parents and show them you ow the location of at least one of the finer things in Manhattan? Bring them to Strecker Gallery, 332

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure. (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita. 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sun

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-6 Sponsored by Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

ASK ME about R.O.T.C., the view points of a student. For information call Bob, 537-0144. (55-59)

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532 5600 or 537-0458. (611)

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

11 Unem

16 Tot up

20 Luggage

ID

22 Soft

ployed

drinks

23 Authentic player

the phone

29 Bad review

30 Bond, e.g.

forms

need dicator

type

24 Border

26 Fellow

27 Call to 35 Turkey

25 Pro

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

ACROSS

1 The two

5 Mexican snack

9 Greek

site

13 Melville

14 Top

15 Fellow

17 Everything

18 Didn't lag

section

36 Sal of

37 Refuse

letter

12 Taj Mahal

captain

student

56 Trans

DOWN

mitted

1 Football

player

3 Ensnare

4 Hurried states

6 Cry of

7 Angora,

8 Rotund

hood pal

9 Child-

5 Pack down

discovery

2 Gawk

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club. A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet Free brochure. 316-264-3742, PO. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

7th Annual Christmas Arts Festival Saturday before, during and after the ISU game. Just west of football stadium 1/2 mile on Kimball.

Parents welcome!

NEW STORE hours: Wednesday and Friday, 9:00 a.m. 1:00 p.m. and Saturdays 9:00 a.m. 5:00 p.m. Open to everyone. People's Grocery, 811 Colorado. 539-4811. (56-59)

ENGLISH GRADUATES! Thinking of Graduate School? Small is beautiful. Graduate Assistant-ships. Spring 1986. Selections begin December 12th. English Department, Emporia State Univer sity, Emporia. Ks. 66801. Write or call 1-316-343. 1200, ext. 216. (57-58)

Superb, artistic, excellent, quality-oh heck! See for yourself! 45 artists at Cico Park, 9-6, before and after the ISU game.

DECEMBER AND May graduates: Consider Peace Corps today. Applications should be mailed in now! Call 532-5714 or come by 108 Waters for more information (58-67)

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side.

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200 (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin, 776-9124 SPACIOUS FOUR bedroom, two bath, central heat, air. Close to campus and Aggieville, $530. Call 776-0203. (54-58)

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview and

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with lease.

Call for details 776-3804

AVAILABLE JANUARY-One bedroom near campus. no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70laundry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets 537-8389, 537-8494. (55-65)

NICE TWO bedroom apartment next to campus for second semester. $380, utilities paid 776-5265 FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester Share nice two bedroom apartment, $150 plus one-half electric, 776-3519, (57-61)

LARGE. ONE bedroom, 314 North 11th. All utilities paid except electricity. Laundry facilities, air con ditioning, dishwasher, new carpeting, $295/month Available immediately 537-1210 or 539-0859 (58

FOR RENT-HOUSES

Prairie Glenn Townhouses. (44-58)

THREE BEDROOM, block to campus, furnished, appliances. Available January 1. Call 539-4604 after 4:00 p.m. (58-62)

CHECK US out! Ours is an excellent housing oppor-tunity. Call 776-4786 during morning office hours.

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased 21% Magnum Dog Food-

$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

STAINED GLASS, assorted sizes and colors. Also grinder tools, and copper foil. Call 1-494-2528, (58-

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 8 1977 ESQUIRE. 14 x 70-Excellent condition, fur ed, three bedrooms, two baths, central air.

539-2939 (56-60) FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly Must sell, $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59) 1984 YAMAHA XT-600. Great condition-Under 3,000 miles. Call 776-4969 (56-58)

FOUND FOUND BY Nichols Hall - Male kitten, part Siamese. Call 776-2385 before 6:00 p.m. (57-59)

HELP WANTED AD SALES for Kansas Folklife Festival - Temporary part-time position to contact local/area busi nesses, sell signature ads, and secure times for festival auction. Further information and application form available at KSU Conference Office, 1623

Anderson, 532-5575. Deadline November 18, 1985

INTERESTED IN the Travel Industry? The nation's largest college tour operator is looking for a responsible campus representative to market the finest spring trips to Ft. Lauderdale or Daytona Beach. Earn free trips, and good commissions while gaining great business experience. For more information call 1-800-323-8091. (58-60)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT. 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (56-68)

SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co.'s. 21 parks-5.000 + openings Complete information, $5 Park Report Mission Mountain Co., 651 2nd Ave. WN. Kalispell, MT 59901 (55-63)

RESTAURANT SERVICE EMPLOYEES

Employees of GODFATHER'S PIZZA, often say a slice of life seems to go with every slice of pizza sold. If you are energetic and able to work a variety of hours/shifts, you could be enjoying the fun and excitement that accompanies our flexible, full time and part time schedules-as well as learning the behind-the-scenes operations of a fast-paced restaurant in a dynamic food service chain and earning good hourly wages. Check out the openings we have available at our 1118 Laramie location.

Applications will be taken Thursday, Nov. 14 from 10 a.m.-Noon and 1-4 p.m. Equal Opportunity Employer m/f OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer year round Europe South America, Australia, Asia, All fields, $900 2.000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS2. Corona Del Mar, CA 92625. (58-GRILL HELP wanted immediately. Experience required. 15-20 hours per week. Apply in person. Mr K's, Aggieville (58tf)

LOST

LOST YELLOW London Fog jacket Stateroom Mon day. November 4. Contact David. 539-1165. (56-58) LOST: BIOCHEM I lab notebook. $20 reward if found Kirk, 539-4022 (58-59)

PERSONAL GEORGE L - I missed one. We both know what that means Please call me soon, (58) CHOPPED LIVER-Welcome to the Over-the-Hill

Gang Happy 25th, enjoy your funtastik day. [iii] (58) TO VOLLEYBALL Mo: Congrats on your personal goal! Best of luck against Missouri. Thanks for all the fun this season. Your friend in Kansas. (58)

TRI DELTA NANCE-Happy 20 to you today! Watch out Aggre cause Stoney's well on her way. For when the clock strikes 8 tonight, room 16 is sure to take flight. Love ya—the Tri Delts. Heidi and Bar

NEIGHBORS J&C-From our apartment to your apartment with The Palace in between. Last Thurs. day night you taught us to party! When is the next lesson? Tonight? C&J (58)

DU BJ-I still love you Do you still love me? Your best friend's girlfriend (58) TO THE soph in PDP with the "answers" in Seaton

Copy Center Come see me Dr L (58-59)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALES TO share basement apartment at 809 North 11th $145, bills paid 539-8401 (49-63)

ROOMMATE WANTED at 925 Thurston. Three blocks m campus. $135/month plus utilities. 537.9727 MALE ROOMMATE - One block from campus, individual study desk, $105 plus one-fourth utilities call 776-0491 (56-60)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Non-smoking female, own room, close to campus, nice location. Call 776 6660 (56-59) NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester-Own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, utilities paid Call 776-7331 (57-59)

LOOKING FOR non-smoking grad student or out of school working male. Clean living habits, be will ing to share household tasks equally. Two-bedroom house with washer/dryer, furnished living room and kitchen. Must have own bedroom furniture. $175/month plus one-half heat. electricity, phone and cable. Located three blocks from campus on Harry St. Phone — 532-6567 (9:00 a m 3 00 p m), 539-0824 (7 00-11 00 p m), ask for

FEMALE TO share nice quiet apartment-Fireplace dishwasher, own room. Call 776-3070, keep trying SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible (31-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S Fourth St. Suite 25 (111) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment 228 Poyntz, 776-4240 (4tf) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166, (13tf)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337 (51-VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537 9205/532-5961 Ask for Dorinda (52-61) HEE'S ALTERATIONS-Suits, coats, jeans, zippers.

All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, 776-7959 (54-70)

TYPING RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. vices 539-6912 or 539-3773 (55-59)

MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word Processing, Term Papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless. 537-3314 (58-59)

20 SUBLEASE

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270 month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

NEED 100 overweight people to try new Herbal

5114. (58-62) TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270 month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

19 Panache 55 Any 10 Mound 21 Dorothy's amount Avg. solution time: 26 min. 37 Plays 39 Shoe aunt 22 Coffee additive 24 "Doggone! 27 "Raven" writer 28 Interstices 31 Frost 32 — carte 33 Spigot 34 Supermarket

38 Inside

40 Choice

word 41 Greek letter

stones

Gardner

43 Loose

47 Actress

48 Impasse

51 Ignited

53 Shortly

drink

52 Rent

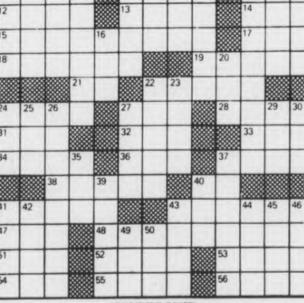

54 Fruit

40 Refinery 41 Festive 42 Eager 43 Mirth 44 Wind in-45 Jacket 46 Spring period 49 Addition 11-14 Answer to yesterday's puzzle 50 Weapon

11-14

IJ KB VUGRI UF XUR VUBTZ OWNER BOUGHT HIS VESSEL: "ON SAIL."

CRYPTOQUIP

IXB JTZ VCGDBG'R CDKUIUJF

Yesterday's Cyptoquip: HOW OUR AVERAGE BOAT

Today's Cryptoquip clue: V equals F

20% off CHRISTMAS CARDS

Expires Nov. 17, 1985 In Aggieville 704 N. Manhattan Ave.

accents & images, inc.

1112 Laramie 537-9024

Just in time for Christmas!

With this ad 10% off any picture hanging on the wall.

Expires 11-30-85

M-Sat. 11 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Posters, Prints Custom Framing

for only

$10.45 (reg. $15.68) with this coupon

Expires November 21, 1985

539-7931

Introducing the new Silver Reed EX-30 Daisy wheel correction typewriter 10-12-15 pitch

ONLY

FREE

with this coupon

Supplies Kit including 1-printwheel 1-correctable ribbon 1-liftoff tape

offer expires Nov. 29

Save Up To

Off Film Developing!

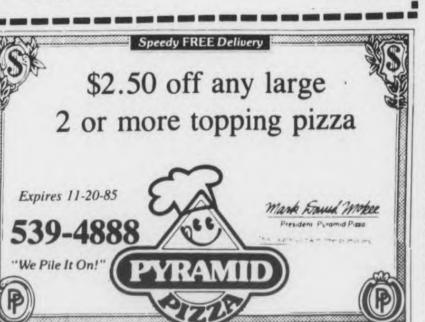

With this coupon, save on developing and printing of one roll of color print film (C-41 process only). Get $3 off 36 exposures, $2 off 24 exposures, or $1 off 12 (or 15 exposures disc). Not valid with any other promotion. Offer limited to one roll per coupon.

Expires 12/31/85

South of Westloop

776-9030

Kentucky Fried Chicken

2 Pieces and Biscuit for only $1.60

Limit 3 boxes per coupon Offer expires 11-22-85

901 N. 3rd

12th & Moro

In Aggieville

3002 Anderson

1015 N. Third

776-4704

12th &

15% OFF ALL BLIZZARDS

with this coupon Good through Dec. 31, 1985

Dairu

Beauty Mart

Has the right shampoo for you!

126 Sarber Lane

(Street between K-Mart & Wal-Mart)

Two one topping 12" Pizzas

for only $10

one coupon per order PIZZERIA

50%

Process and Print with this coupon

From 110, 126, 35mm or Disc Color Print Film 141/2¢ per print (reg. 29¢) and $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98) Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94...NOW $4.97! Limit one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other offers Expires 11-27-85

2700 Anderson Ave. 539-2519

Open Mon. — Sat. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday 12 to 6

Enlargements! With this coupon, receive

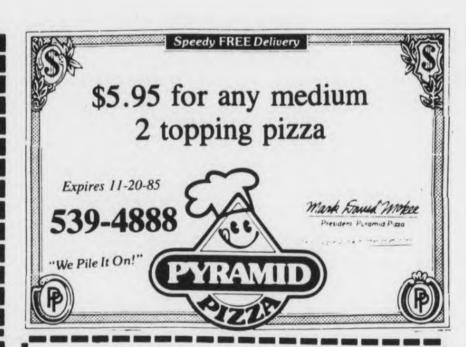

25% off any 5 x 7 or 8 x 10 color enlargement order from your 110, 126, or 135 negative. Not valid with any other enlargement promotion. Expires 12/31/85

oneHour

South of Westloop

776-9030

10% OFF COMPACT DISCS

See our wide selection Sale ends Nov. 16

music and electric

407 Poyntz

Your choice of an omelette

Saturday & Sunday Morning 7 Fantastic omelettes to choose from 8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m.

1 coupon per purchase-Expires 12/1/85 Now open

Open daily Sat. & Sun. at 8:30 a.m. til midnight

GET THAT SEXY NAILS LOOK! 1/2 Price on Nail Tips and Sculptured Nails

210 Humboldt

Expires Nov. 21, 1985

776-5651

25% OFF

All Regularly Priced Items

539-1751

3037 Anderson

of Prints!

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film. C-41 process for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Expires 12/31/85

776-9030

0164 8605 1

Friday

November 15, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 59

Colombian volcano eruption buries 4 towns

By The Associated Press

BOGOTA, Colombia - A volcano that had been rumbling to life for months erupted early Thursday, melting its snowcap and sending down torrents of mud that buried four sleeping towns and may have killed more than 20,000 people.

Blazing volcanic ash cascaded into the Andes valleys. Lava began flowing from the cone Thursday after-

The Langunilla River became a rushing wall of mud that destroyed at least 85 percent of Armero, a coffee-farming town of 50,000 people 30 miles from the Nevado del Ruiz volcano and 105 miles northwest of

"Armero doesn't exist anymore," Red Cross rescue worker Fernando Duque said in an interview from the scene on Todelar radio.

The three other towns, on the mountain river between the volcano and Armero, had a total population of about 20,000.

Caracol radio said the ash fall was so heavy at 1 p.m. Thursday that "it quoted national university geologists as saying the lava flow had begun. They did not say how large the flow was or give its direction.

A Civil Defense spokesman, Maj. Hugo Ardila, told a noon news conference in Bogota that about 10,000 people had been found alive in Armero up to that time.

One of them, Edeliberto Nieto, told IRCN radio: "We heard a frightening noise, and then a blast of wind hit us and we saw fire falling from the sky. It was horrible, so horrible! My looked like it was night time." It wife was killed. My mother was killed. My little girl who would have four years old tomorrow died. One of my sisters was killed and one of my little nephews."

> He said there was so much fiery ash in the street that it "burned my feet."

Ambulances and rescue workers had trouble reaching the town because the avalanche destroyed the highway and five bridges leading to it. Caracol radio said, quoting Civil Defense workers.

"Some of the bodies had been under mud for six hours when we dug them out...and we weren't even able to tell if they were men or women. They were just a mass of gray," Duque said.

There was no late, accurate count on the number of bodies recovered.

"The mass of mud is up to five yards high in some areas. Some people were able to escape and climb over walls that weren't covered by the avalanche and were rescued with the help of ropes and horses," said Paul Ramirez, a reporter for Todelar who was among the first to reach the

"Rescue workers are talking about 20,000 dead," Red Cross director Artemo Franco in an interview with Caracol. "It is an immense

"Eighty-five percent of the town is destroyed, and we estimate there are 15,000 deaths," Gov. Eduardo Alzate of Tolima state, which includes Armero, said on Caracol radio.

Heavy rains began about the time the 15,500-foot mountain erupted, gorging the river with more water, the radio said.

Concordia blaze kills

1 resident

By The Associated Press

woman died Thursday when flames engulfed an office-apartment building in downtown Concordia shortly after midnight, authorities

Fire Chief Phillip Schlup said the woman was identified as Olive Fudge, 90. Schlup said the woman's badly charred body was found on the floor in the living room of her

Nine other people escaped safely from the two-story building, which contained five apartments on the top floor and five businesses, including a real estate agency and a video rental store, on the ground

The fire broke out around 12:20

a.m. and was reported by a passing policeman, who was able to alert

the other residents in the building,

The fire chief said it appeared the laze started in the front section of the ground floor and took firefighters two hours to bring

Although no damage estimated apartment.

floor

said Schlup.

under control.

CONCORDIA - An elderly

Carlin cuts $47 million for regents

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Reacting to the grim financial condition now facing the state, Gov. John Carlin's budget office has slashed the Kansas Board of Regents' request to increase funding by $47.5 million next year.

The regents are being asked to virtually maintain spending at exactly the same level as this year by the governor. In fact, the state's contribution to support of higher education would actually drop $9.4 million under the plan.

If the budget proposal is implemented by the 1986 Legislature, it would mean no new programs or expansion and no salary increases or fringe benefit enhancement for faculty at any of the state's six universities. Tom Rawson, director of planning and budget for the regents, revealed Thursday the new budget allotments prepared by Alden Shields, budget director for the governor. He said the allotment represents a minute budget increase of .04 percent, of just $2.1 million, as compared to the 10.2 percent budget expansion sought by the board. "Except for one small, self-funded program at the University of Kansas Medical Center, there would be no program enhancement systemwide," Rawson said. "There would be no salary increases at all for unclassified faculty. There would be no increase in retirement contributions as we asked; no increase in utilities and no student salary increases."

The regents set policy and administer budgets for Kansas University in Lawrence, the medical center in Kansas City, Kan., Kansas State University in Manhattan, Wichita State University, Pittsburg State University, Emporia State University, Fort Hays State University and the Kansas Technical Institute in

The board had hoped to spend $10.3 million on new programs and expansion of existing programs and had

See REGENTS, Page 12

Concordia fire fighter Lt. Bob Burns carries a fire hose through the rubble of a downtown Concordia office-apartment building, after a Wednesday night blaze that destroyed several buildings in the city 55 miles northwest of Manhattan. The blaze killed a local 90 year-old woman.

Staff/Andy Nelson

was available, Schlup said the front half of the ground floor and the entire upstairs was destroyed.

Senators vote down coliseum planning bill 30-19

By VICKI REYNOLDS Government Editor

MARK MCDERMET Collegian Reporter

Student Senate defeated a bill calling for withdrawal of student monetary support for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum in a rollcall vote, 30-19, at its weekly meeting Thursday

The bill, titled Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum, outlined eight planning steps to be adopted before students would financially support the coliseum.

President Duane Acker said he was "very pleased with the thorough discussion and communication that occurred over the past three meetings.'

Acker also commended senate for the questions and vigorous debate and for providing an opportunity for all to be informed, "not only about the coliseum, but all aspects of the University, including the (KSU) Foundation.

"It confirms the need for continued cepted by the sponsors.

communication and our consideration of adding additional students to the Coliseum Program Committee and to ensure that senate and other groups have an opportunity to review preliminary plans prior to formal consideration of the plans by the program committee," Acker said. "The same would be expected when final plans are submitted by the architect." Five amendments to the bill were discussed at the meeting, four of which were friendly amendments ac-

The first amendment, proposed by They called for a market study to be David Dakin, fifth year senior in architecture and design, called for section one to read that student financial support for the coliseum would be withdrawn unless eight planning steps, acceptable to this Student Senate, were adopted.

The amendment was accepted by the bill's sponsors, Martin Monto, junior in biology, and Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine.

Additional amendments, also accepted by Tsen and Monto, were proposed by Student Affairs Committee.

defined as "a study to determine the need for and size of the coliseum" and a financial feasibility study as a "pro forma study."

Monto and Tsen proposed an amendment calling for the addition of a section setting up a committee consisting of two student senators, two administrators, two alumni and one representative from the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics to oversee the selection of independent

See COLISEUM, Page 12

Diverse activities await parents

Weekend event to amuse, inform

By BOB SCHEIBLER Collegian Reporter

Parents' Day is more than a football

An entire weekend of entertainment and education awaits campus visitors this weekend.

"Parents' Day is actually Saturday, but there is a whole weekend of activities. The reason we have all of these activities is so that parents can see the campus and get a feel for what students are doing at K-State," said Polly Colip, senior in journalism and mass communications and publicity chairperson for Parents' Weekend.

Various activities are being offered this weekend on campus. Anything from an arts exhibit to a walking tour of campus will be available. Parents' Weekend is a project of Chimes Junior Honorary.

"Each year, something new is added to the schedule so that even if parents have been to a Parents' Weekend before there will be something different that they haven't seen before," Colip said.

A musical about President Harry S. Truman, written by Norman Fedder, professor of speech, will be presented in Nichols Theater today and Saturday at 8 p.m. "The Buck Stops Here" is the first theatrical production to be presented in Nichols Theater. Ticket sales for the play were brisk and it is sold out for all perfor-

The Trio Cassat, from the St. Louis Symphony, will appear in All Faiths Chapel at 8 tonight. Tickets for the performance are available for $6 or $9 in the McCain Box Of-

The Union Program Council's Eclectic Entertainment Committee will present Smith and Mayer, a duo that plays music ranging from ballads to rhythm and blues. This concert will be in the Union Catskeller at 8 tonight. Tickets to the performance

The rededication of Nichols Hall, originally planned for Homecoming weekend, will take place this weekend. The ceremony will be at 11 a.m. Saturday in the atrium of Nichols. A reception and tours of the building will follow the ceremony, Colip said.

Mini-classrooms will be offered for parents and students at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Union. The sessions will be conducted by four professors from various curricula, Colip said.

Miles McKee, professor of animal sciences and industry, will present "Food and You" in Union 206. Dave Adams, director of Student Publications, Inc., will

See PARENTS, Page 12

Factions could strike deal over rec complex parking

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

A decision is expected next week on whether to issue a special permit for parking at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Com-

The special permit is a recommendation to George Miller, vice-president of administration and finance, from the Committee on Parking, Traffic and Police Operations. Sharon Shelton, Miller's secretary, said Thursday a decision could be expected sometime next week.

The recommendation was written and submitted by Capt. Charles Beckom, superintendent of the KSU Police Department and exofficio member of the committee.

The proposed permits, at $5 per semester and $10 per calendar year, would be implemented either as soon as the recommendation is approved or sometime next semester, Beckom said.

Currently the recommendation is on Miller's desk waiting for input from Raydon

Robel, director of recreation services, Shelton said. Miller has received a recommendation from John Lambert, director of campus safety, she said.

Robel said Thursday he was not aware that Miller was awaiting comment from him, but said he believed the special permit was a compromise with which he could agree.

"Initially when I found out what the rules were for having a permit out here, I opposed that with a letter to the committee," Robel said. "I believe this is a unique lot and suggested that it be set up as a time zone lot rather than a permit lot.

"The reduction from the $22 permit is basically a compromise, and paying $5 to $10 is much better," he said. "Money did put the improvements out here. Some considerations have been given to the unique situation."

Lambert said he had mixed feelings about what should be done about the lot, but he said it has to be paid for some way.

See PERMITS, Page 10

Inside

Charles Hein, director of University Relations, spoke to students Thursday on "Selling K-State." See

A 90 percent chance of rain today with rain possibly mixed with snow, high 35 to 40. Winds variable 5 to 15 mph. A 40 percent chance of rain or snow today, low around 30.

Sports

K-State kicker Mark Porter has been perfect on field goals this season. See Page 8.

INTERNATIONAL

Marcos agrees to delaying election

MANILA, Philippines - Members of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' party and his political opposition agreed Thursday to postpone a special presidential election proposed by Marcos for next January. A new date was not set.

Leonardo Perez, Marcos' political affairs minister, said representatives of the ruling New Society Movement and the opposition agreed to the postponement in a negotiating session.

Perez said the presidential election, proposed by Marcos for Jan. 17, will probably be held "not later than the first week of February." The National Assembly, controlled by Marcos' party, is to begin debate Monday on the election and when to hold it.

Marcos' opponents had asked that the election be held on March 17 to give them more time to prepare, but Marcos' party said that date was too close to May elections for provincial governors and town and

Sharon makes 'apology' to leader

TEL AVIV, Israel - Ariel Sharon gave Prime Minister Shimon Peres an apology of sorts late Thursday for criticizing his policies, thus ending a crisis that nearly brought down the coalition government, other Cabinet ministers reported.

The prime minister said Wednesday he intended to fire the outspoken Sharon, who is trade and industry minister. Sharon had accused him of conducting secret peace negotiations with Jordan and Palestinians, and following policies that would "cost a great deal of "The affair is over since Sharon addressed all the points raised by the prime minister," Education Minister Yitzhak Navon of Peres' Labor Party said on Israel television. "As far as we're concerned, there is regret or an admission that he either had not meant it or retracted the position he took."

PEOPLE

Actor talks fondly of David Niven

NEW YORK - Actor Robert Wagner says long-time friend David Niven helped him through the first Christmas after the drowning of his wife, actress Natalie Wood.

Though Niven was himself dying of Lou Gehrig's disease, Wagner said, "He wouldn't let me be alone. He cared for me."

Wood died Nov. 29, 1981, at age 43. Recalling that first holiday season, Wagner, 55, told Parade magazine, "It was just, God, unbelievably terrible to be in our house with Christmas coming."

Senator gets freedom after Abscam

NEWARK, N.J. - Former Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. is enjoying his first taste of freedom in nearly two years as he finishes out his Abscam sentence in a halfway house.

The 65-year-old Williams left the federal prison in Allenwood, Pa., on Nov. 4 for Pyramid House in Newark, according to Elwood Smith, community programs administrator for the federal Bureau of Prisons in Philadelphia.

The first senator in 80 years to be sentenced to jail, Williams entered the minimum security prison Jan. 19, 1984, and is due to be released from the halfway house on Jan. 31.

British rock star granted divorce

LONDON - Marianne Faithfull, a British rock star in the 1960s, was granted a divorce Thursday from her second husband, punk guitarist Ian Brierley.

London Divorce Court Judge Andrew Phelan granted Brierley, 34, an uncontested divorce on grounds he and Faithfull, 38, have lived apart for more than two years. They married in 1979.

Faithfull's first marriage, to American art dealer John Dunbar, ended in divorce in 1970 on grounds of her alleged adultery with singer Mick Jagger.

NATIONAL

Guru Rajneesh to make guilty plea

PORTLAND, Ore. - Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh has agreed to plead guilty to federal charges of arranging sham marriages to help his foreign disciples remain in the United States illegally, the U.S. attorney's office said Thursday.

Debbie Lindsey, a secretary in the U.S. attorney's office in Portland, said the 53-year-old guru would plead guilty to all charges in an appearance in federal court at 6 p.m. Lindsey said her office would issue a news release following the hearing before U.S. District Judge Edward Leavy. Rajneesh had pleaded innocent to 32 counts of arranging sham marriages, one count of conspiring to arrange fake marriages and two counts of lying to federal authorities about his intent to remain in Rajneesh, who had vowed to fight the charges, has been free on $500,000 bail since Friday, when he pleaded innocent. A Feb. 18 trial date had been set.

Settlement made with polio victim

MORRISTOWN, N.J. - A mother who contracted polio from her recently vaccinated daughter has settled her lawsuit against a pediatrician and Lederle Laboratories for $350,000.

Linda Adubato, 36, of Califon, claimed she was infected by her daughter Danielle, who received an oral vaccine about a month after her birth in 1981. She claimed she was infected from changing diapers and touching contaminated feces.

Adubato charged Dr. David Knoop and Lederle, a subsidiary of American Cyanimid of Wayne, were negligent because they did not warn her of the risks of oral vaccine or tell her of the non-contagious Lederle claimed it provided Knoop with warning information. He said he gave the vaccine according to federal guidelines.

The defendants cited a 1977 National Academy of Sciences study which said one person contracts the disease for every 6 million oral vaccines given.

REGIONAL

Salina man chosen for board spot

WICHITA, Kan. - The administrator of a Salina hospital has been elected chairman of board of directors of the Kansas Hospital

Clay Edmands, administrator of Asbury Hospital, was picked Wednesday night by the group at a convention of Kansas hospital officials. He succeeds Leon Boor, administrator of Memorial Hospital

The group also named Howard Chase, president of Stormont-Vail Regional Medical Center in Topeka, as chairman elect. About 1,000 people from the state's 146 hospitals are attending sessions Thursday and Friday, association officials said.

Defense pleads against life sentence

COLUMBIA, Mo. - The defense pleaded with jurors Thursday not to assess the death penalty against David Tate, an alleged neo-Nazi convicted of killing a Missouri Highway Patrol trooper during a routine traffic check last spring.

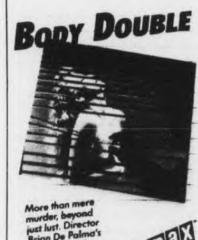

The prosecution, however, told jurors not to be swayed by emotions after the defense presented its impassioned plea and called Tate's teen-age sisters to the witness stand.

The jury of six men and six women that convicted Tate, 23, of Athol, Idaho, of first-degree murder Wednesday in the shooting death of Trooper Jimmie Linegar retired to begin deliberations in the penalty phase of the trial about mid-day Thursday

Jurors have the option of recommending to Boone County Circuit Judge Frank Conley the death penalty or life in prison with no chance of parole. There are 36 men on Missouri's Death Row, but no one has died in the gas chamber since 1965.

C7360 31050

DON'T MISS

MANHATTAN CABLE T.V.

776-9239

CLOSED CLASSES

01550 28170 37360

C1950	28400	37390	08370	31160
02680	28470	37480	C8470	31230
02570	28490	37510	09300	31330
03 980	28520	37520	09340	31540
03990	28530		11010	32380
04000	28690		11330	33360
C4C10	28700		16470	33370
04030	28710		16540	33530
C4040	28720		16550	33540
C4C50	28730		17350	33670
C4C60	28740		17380	33710
C4C70	28750		20340	33820
C4090	28760		22350	34420
C4100	28770		24320	34960
04120	28783		25470	35540
C4130	28790		26030	35960
C4190	28800		26090	35970
04250	28810		26110	36070
C4 290	28820		26120	36880
04 300	28830		26310	37010
04320	28840		26376	37030
C4350	28990		26450	37160
04360	30410		26510	37220
05460	30500		26630	37240

These are sections that have been closed by departments prior to the start of enrollment.

PARENTS' WEEKEND '85

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other is Wings"

Chimes Junior Honorary would like to announce Parents' Weekend '85 which is Nov. 15, 16 and 17

After the football game at 1:30 host your parents to delicious food and fine entertainment, all on campus!

- Parents' Weekend Buffet, Union Ballroom, 5:30-7:00 p.m. - K-State Singers & Glee Club concert in McCain, 7:00 p.m.

- "Ghostbusters" movie in the Union, 7:00 & 9:30 p.m.

- "The Buck Stops Here" play in Nichols, 8:00 p.m. - Lee Greenwood Concert, Ahearn Field House, 8:00 p.m.

HAVE A GREAT WEEKEND at K-State with your Parents!

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

TORTILLA JACKS UNION NATIONAL BANK & TRUST

WALMART

TREASURE CHEST & OASIS

VARNEY'S BOOKSTORE

WENDY'S

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER is now hosting on-campus interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All by Kansas, regional and national emple eligible candidates are urged to apply

K-LAIRES will meet for a pick dance with the Strato Jets from 8 to 10:30 p.m. at Croco Hall, 1520 Croco Road, Topeka. Members will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the south doors of the Union.

DRAKE UNIVERSITY LAW SCHOOL will be available to answer questions from law students from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in Union 202.

GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS will present rock music close-ups with videos at 7:30 p.m. in Union 212 today and Saturday.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISITAN FELLOWSHIP will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

SUNDAY

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS COMMITTEE MEMBERS will meet at 4:30 in City Park, across from the Sigma Chi

K-LAIRES will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Union K,S and U Rooms.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 9 p.m. at the Alpha Tau Omega house. MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP will meet NEWMAN GROUP will have a pancake feed from 6 to 8 p.m. at St. Isidore's Catholic Campus Center, 711 Denison Ave.

DELTA UPSILON LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 7 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon house

MONDAY

ALPHA PHI OMEGA will meet at 7 p.m. in

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARIES will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Cottonwood Room

MORTAR BOARD will meet at 9 p.m. in Justin

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213

FENIX will have a forum at 10 a.m. in Holton

Don't Forget to bring your parents in for our Sancho & Burrito

> Special! 88¢ each Reg. $1.25 Expires Sat., Nov. 16

*********

40 days left 7 Fridays left 7 Saturdays left Don't miss out on

111 3rd St

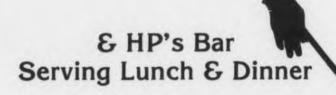

a tradition! 539-9949

We honor any other local pizza coupon

with this ad 1 coupon per order

PIZZERIA Z

PARENTS DAY DINE AT

Your parents will be delighted by the nostalgia of the 20's.

Dine this weekend at Manhattan's newest dinner club

418 Poyntz in the Wareham Bldg. Reciprocal with major Kansas clubs.

Survey Results

Each year Campus Crusade for Christ conducts a number of National Collegiate Opinion Surveys to help us determine the religious thinking of students at KSU. The purpose of the survey is twofold: (1) to help determine and understand current religious thinking on campus, and (2) to share with those who are interested what a personal relationship with Jesus Christ means to us. The students and staff of Campus Crusade for Christ wish to thank those students who have participated in giving their opinion.

Here are some of the results of the survey. They reflect the opinion of 437 students and are part of a study of more than 2,000 students over the past two years. Because of space, only major percentages are given. Class: Frosh 21%, Soph. 21%, Junior 22%,

Senior 17%, Graduate 9%

What they consider the basic problem of man: Self centeredness 23%, Sin 20%, Intolerance 12%, Other 9%, Lack of Education 8%, Economics 7%, War 7%, Nuclear Threat 5%, Racism 5%, Poverty 4% Is nuclear war inevitable: Yes 16.8%, No 53.2%,

Unsure 30% Can mankind solve its own problems: Yes 49.3%, No 40.4%, Unsure 10.3%

On a 1-6 scale, how important is committment in a love relationship?: (6) 65.2%, (5) 25.8%, (4) 7.07%,

(3)2.7%Should the intent of marriage be for life: Yes 91.7%, No 3.8%, Unsure 4.5%

Belief in God: Yes 86.3%, No 5.6%, Unsure 8.1% Interest in experiencing God's love personally:

Yes 75.3%, No 6.4%, Unsure 18.3%

Center responsible for many programs

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

The purpose of Big Lakes Developmental Center, 1500 Hayes Drive, is to develop a wide range of services that strive to stimulate, encourage and support a normalized lifestyle for developmentally disabled individuals.

Maximum independence in the mainstream of society is Big Lakes' ultimate goal, said Janice Pankratz, community relations coordinator at the center.

"We train the developmentally disabled in ways that enable them to lead as best a normal life as possible," Pankratz said.

Big Lakes serves developmentally disabled preschool children and adults in Riley, Geary, Clay and Pottawatomie counties.

"Our clients have physical and/or mental impairments. Many times the development in their systems is just not right, such as in the case of car accident or stroke victims," she said. "However, our programs are not for the severely or profoundly disabled."

Clients entering the center are not required to take IQ tests, Pankratz said. Rather, they are given evaluation tests which determine their training ability. If a person is trainable and his needs are appropriate for the facility, Big Lakes can help him or her.

The center offers children's, adult vocational and adult residential services

Pankratz said the main purpose of the children's services is to prepare developmentally disabled preschool children to enter school by age 5. Early identification and intervention are vital elements in the education of young children, and preschoolers who receive early intervention often show less need for intensive special education in later life. An Individual Program Plan is formulated for each

The center also offers an Infant Development Program, which involves only the parent, child and a professional, such as a physical therapist. Other services provided include speech therapy and psychological services.

Pankratz said infants and children are referred to the center by physicians, preschools, parents, Social and Rehabilitation Services and other community social services.

"We consider preschoolers to be infants to age 5, but we will continue our children's services to age 7 if special education classes within the school system aren't helping," she said. "This continuation is done through a contract with the school district."

THIS COULD BE YOUR LUCKY DAY

An Air Force ROTC scholarship can mean a lot when you need help with college finances. It's just what you need to allow you to concentrate on your studies and end up with a good, solid degree. Check out AFROTC. See what we offer, then show us what you offer in return. It might be our lucky day too.

Call 532-6600 for more information

ROTC

Staff/Jim D

Shane Sutton, a client at Big Lakes Development Center, wraps spools together to be sold to local industries. The clients at Big Lakes undergo job training during their stay at the development center.

Jim Shaver, executive director of Big Lakes, said the center is a special purpose school and therefore "can contract with the school district if it is in the best interest of the Adult vocational services, another major program offered at the center, involves the training and job placement of developmentally disabled adults. Big Lakes offers work training and job readiness training at its two adult training centers in Manhattan and Clay Center.

With the exception of janitorial and lawn care services, job placement is done within the center. The work done by clients is conducted through contracts Big Lakes has with area businesses and manufacturers. For example, a contract with The McCall Pattern Company, 615 McCall Road, requires the sorting and recycling of patterns. Another contract, with the Department of Horticulture involves foliage plant production.

Big Lakes' clients are salaried for their work, Pankratz said. The contracted businesses and manufacturers pay the center for its services, which in turns pays the clients.

Not only does the center provide jobs for the developmentally disabled adults, but it also offers housing. As part of its adult residential services, Big Lakes has group, duplex and apartment living. Pankratz said group homes involve 24-hour supervision, and duplex and apartment living have part-time supervision.

"Each of these living situations have program goals for the clients, such as setting the table properly," she said. "The purpose is to provide them an opportunity to live in a normalized community setting, yet provide them with needed support and assistance."

Apartment living is the most independent living for the developmentally disabled, and Pankratz said "those who move up to this level are usually prepared to go out into the world and make it on their own."

Big Lakes is supported by a county mill levy and state and federal funding. Adults are not charged for services unless they are in the residential program; then they pay for room and board, yet still receive a salary for their vocational services. Clients in the center's children's services are charged, but on a sliding fee scale.

Shaver said Big Lakes was established in Manhattan in January 1973, as a non-profit, community-based agency. It is one of 29 such programs in Kansas, and was developed to provide an alternative to institutions.

ACROSS FROM CICO PARK

MANHATTAN

537-3992

Committee examines enrollment programs

By MIKE ROBBINS Collegian Reporter

The University has formed an ad hoc committee to examine the various types of enrollment programs offered on campus.

The Admissions and Enrollment Committee requested that the committee be formed. The admissions and enrollment committee decided before the semester began that it was time to look at the "whole enrollment picture" again, said Marilyn Trotter, director of new student programs and chair of the ad hoc committee.

The committee met for the first time Aug. 19. The purpose of the committee, Trotter said, is to examine enrollment programs currently offered and to make recommendations to the admissions and enrollment committee about whether the programs should be changed.

Trotter said the primary rationale for the review of enrollment programs is that students' needs are changing.

"Students are more interested in what kind of job they are going to get and how much the job is going to pay," she said. "We need to address this change. Students change from one fall to the next. And unless we are constantly aware of that, what we do can be very outdated very quickly. And then it no longer serves the needs of students."

Nine members, including Trotter, make up the ad hoc commit-

Dave Severson, senior in marketing, is the student representative. Karen Pence, assistant to the dean of College of Human Ecology and Larry Erpelding, associate director of resident instruction in agriculture, are two members of the committee representing colleges.

Don Foster, University student services.

registrar; Richard Elkins, director of the Office of Admissions; Bob Evans, director of student financial assistance; and Cliff Schuette, assistant professor for the Center for Student Development, are the remaining five members.

The committee established criteria on which to make a recommendation before examining the various enrollment programs in August, Trotter said

Some of criteria include designing flexible enrollment programs, redesinging enrollment material and offering a formal enrollment program in early June to handle the large number of new students, Trotter said

When the committee began, it established 25 criteria members believed were important to incorporate with recommedations, Trotter said.

The committee has been meeting throughout the semester, Trotter said. She said a variety of research has been completed by the committee members to uncover which enrollment programs work and which ones do not work.

The committee members called Big Eight Conference institutions as well as other Board of Regents schools to find out information about their enrollment programs.

"It's important to know how similar institutions are recruiting students," Trotter said.

A survey of students was completed earlier this year, Trotter said, to gather students' opinions on current enrollment programs. Trotter said final results of the survey will be complete when the committee makes its recommendation.

She said the recommendation by the ad hoc committee would be completed before Dec. 20. The recommendation will go to the admissions and enrollment committee and then to William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

FINANCING AVAILABLE

Chimes Junior Honorary would like to congratulate this year's selected parents:

Mr. & Mrs. Andy Galyardt from Lawrence

Parents of Mark Galyardt

PARENTS' WEEKEND '85

TEAMS:

10 co-rec members (5 men and 5 women)

$5.00 per team
DEADLINE:
Thurs., Nov. 21

5:00 p.m. Activities will begin at 11:00 p.m. and end at 2:00 a.m.

Activities are cageball, volleyball; scooter races; and wiffleball.
At the conclusion, "Sport Bloopers" film and refreshments.

Awards will be given to the team with the most points.

Editor: Tim Carpenter Managing Editors: Wayne T. Price and A. Scharnhorst Opinions Editor: Patty Reinert Photo/Graphics Editor: Jeff Tuttle Advertising Manager: Rob Drake

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Helms' tactics no surprise

The Reagan administration is currently attempting to negotiate itself out of another hostage

No, this crisis is not taking place in the Middle East, Central America or the Soviet Union.

The circus is taking place in the Capitol building, in Washington, D.C. And its ringleader is Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Following Reagan's nomination of foreign-policy expert Winston Lord to become his emissary to China, Helms decided the timing was right to use the nomination to force changes in foreign policy. And in order to push for those changes, Helms has decided to block Lord's confirmation.

One reason suggested for Helms' tactics is Lord's relationship to former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger during his work toward the normalization of relations with China.

But Helms' tactics should not be surprising to the administration or Congress.

In the past four years, Helms has also managed to delay confirmations of ambassadors to West Germany, El Salvador and

What may be the most encouraging response from the White House came from National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane.

When asked if the administration had a plan to break Helms'

What is most unfortunate is the senator's ability to delay confirmations for the purpose of purging the diplomatic corps of anyone not subscribing to his ultra-conservative philosophy.

Such action from a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should be deemed as irresponsible and unacceptable.

Tom Schultes, for the editorial board

Editorial

Friday, November 15, 1985 — 4

It's time for the folks to 'leave the nest'

My mother and father are truly wonderful people, but I never learned to appreciate them until I received a generic postalette in the mail which said: "We've moved! Send all correspondence, along with $1.99 for postage and handling, to ...

Knowing my father's fine sense of humor. (he still maintains they "found" me in a hamburger patch) I was acutely aware it could have been a clever attempt to throw me off the money trail. But, they had indeed moved and I was excited about exploring a new city (Louisville, Ky.) I also felt a sense

My parents - my sweet, petite Susie and my cool daddy Jim - were leaving the nest. After 20-plus years of successfully raising three children who, luckily, do not pose danger to themselves or society, my parents were forging a new frontier of independence.

And they didn't even ask me first. I struggled with it for a while, and eventually I accepted their decision to destroy the environment of my most cherished childhood memories without resentment.

Did they think it was going to be some picnic out there, beyond the confines of midwestern suburbia? I wasn't convinced they were ready for such a big step.

To ensure they would miss me, I eagerly anticipated sending them care packages of homemade chocolate chip cookies, stationery and stamps. I relished the thought of dialing their number at 7 a.m. on a Saturday LAURIE FAIRBURN greeting cards with forlorn-looking puppies on them, and writing about how lonesome and humdrum life is without them around.

Was I trying to make them feel guilty? Of

It was not long before I realized that no matter who leaves the nest first, parents and children are held by a bond impenetrable by time and distance.

It is not the bond of love, but the bond of subconscious behavior control. It is the desire to lead one's life according to the rules we are taught by our parents. And, when we are no longer preoccupied with our independence, we focus our energies on making sure our parents aren't going hog wild on the world now that we aren't around. Even away, they still influence my actions. Take food as an example. I was 23 years old before I realized I could go down the cereal aisle at the grocery store without parental guidance. I could buy Pop Tarts on my own, Frosted Flakes - all the garbage I though my parents are hundreds of miles desired. But, I never did buy the stuff (well, OK, I did buy the Pop Tarts). I knew mom wouldn't approve.

When my mother draws her lips into a tight, pencil-thin line and frowns, she can strip the flavor from homemade chocolate

Parents live to share cute stories about you with your friends - especially those you are trying most to impress. If you get cocky at home, they use it to their advantage.

Mother occasionally likes to share the story of when, at the tender age of 3, I disappeared while she was running my bath water. She frantically searched the house and was relieved to discover me, broom in hand, sweeping the back porch in the buff. I think she's still trying to get me back for burying my vegatables in the backyard so the squirrels could have them in the winter.

My father is a little more subtle. He gives me the "Do it for your mother" line, as if he's indifferent about the subject at hand. Of course, this is the same man who hates dogs, yet daily takes our little Benjamin for a walk up to the corner market and buys him snacks, like you'd buy your kid an ice cream cone. Obviously what this man says is subject to scrutiny.

ANYONE MAY submit a guest column offering an opinion on a topic of public interest. Columns should be about three double-spaced typewritten pages.

and saying, "Hi! Just called to see how you hold on the confirmation. are!" I glowed at the prospect of purchasing McFarlane said "Not that I can talk about, but we intend to win."

Eating disorders serious

Look at the person sitting next easy to understand how such a to you. If that person is female, has an eating disorder.

of the Menninger Eating Disorders Program at the Menninger Foundation, talked about eating disorders Tuesday on campus. In his lecture, Barnhill defined eating disorders as "the manipulation of food by an individual to serve some other needs than nutritional needs."

Anorexia nervosa is the most serious eating disorder and can be recognized by a 25 percent loss of original body weight. Obsession with weight loss may be symptomatic of more than an individual's psychological problems - it may be a sign of the misplaced values of this society.

Anorectics have a fear of being fat. In American society, it is fear could develop. The media there's a 20 percent chance she are filled with advertising and glamorization of dieting and Dr. C. Alton Barnhill, director fitness. Unfortunately, such dieting does not necessarily preclude a fit and healthy body.

Closely related to anorexia is bulimia, which is characterized by binge eating followed by forcing oneself to throw up or by using laxatives.

The key to overcoming these eating disorders is recognizing a problem and consulting a physician or a psychiatrist. If a student is having trouble coping with pressures of school or society, and as a result has developed eating disorders, it is the responsibility of that person or that person's friends to seek professional

Lillian Zier for the editorial board

'Social bigotry' allows persecution

Re: Karen Tryphonas' letter, "Bible says homosexuality wrong," in the Nov. 13 Col-

Your contention that since homosexual sex is illegal in public it should be illegal in private provokes some thought. On the premise that you're correct, since it is illegal to appear nude in public, anyone caught walking from bathroom to bedroom without apparrel should get three to five. And the next time I spit - since it is illegal in public

 I'd suggest seven to 10 without parole. Karen, please don't associate homosexuality with "stealing, killing, etc." Being gay is as "normal" to many as heterosexuality is to you. No conscious choice is involved in determining one's sexuality, just as you didn't one day decide to be "straight."

I, too, strongly believe in the love and power of God, and also that the Bible was spiritually inspired. Nonetheless, it was written by men. No matter how "inspired" these men may have been, they still hadn't been freed completely of prejudice, just as many "inspired" individuals today.

As you look around our world and see "diminishing morals, values and godly reverence," perhaps you should take a hard look at a permeating social bigotry which has allowed us to consistently persecute Jews, blacks, Christians and, yes, even gays, throughout history.

The God I have come to know and love taught me that he loves all his children, and that our purpose is not to make judgments about one another, but to strive to please him with sincerity and gentleness, embracing our sisters and brothers with understanding and kindness, not with malice.

Many gays I know are just such gentle and kind people. Perhaps rather than lumping them all into one great pile of social degenerates, you should channel your efforts toward getting to know these people perhaps people of a different color, perhaps with a different upbringing, perhaps even with different values than you and I. But people nonetheless.

> Terry Clouse junior in graphic design

Editorial lacking

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300

Re: Rich Harris' editorial, "Coliseum beyond reason," in the Nov. 13 Collegian: Congratulations, Rich. You seem to have written yet another editorial without any research. I imagine the extent of your research was the article pertaining to the scoreboards in the Collegian printed two days earlier, which was also lacking in quality reporting. If you had done your research, you would have found that the "purchase" of the scoreboards is essential in the planning of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, something for which most of us have been pushing. Believe it or not, those scoreboards are heavy and consequently have to be considered in computing the strength of the roof structure of the coliseum. And for those of you who want any semblance of accoustics in the Big Barn, the effect of the scoreboards will have to be considered.

Again, if you would have done your research, you would have discovered the scoreboards have not been purchased. According to Jim Shepard, University architect, the KSU Foundation has put the scoreboards "on order," so to speak. If the coliseum is not built, the Foundation will be able to "cancel" its order and would be refunded the scoreboard money, but would be forced to pay a restocking fee, about

This covers the cost of stopping the production and designing of the scoreboards. Granted, this is a large fee, but I think it is better to pay that fee, at worst, than to take the chance of building a coliseum with a roof that will fall in because it can't hold up the

Hey, I'm against the coliseum just as much as you are, but I think maybe next time you should take some time to research before writing your editorials instead of writing them in five minutes like you usually do.

Damian Gerstner sophomore in architectural engineering

Senate vote ignores issue

University President Duane Acker made promises before Student Senate again Thursday night. Acker said he would insist the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum meet four requirements.

The structure must be multipurpose, high quality, have monetary commitments to build it, and Acker must know construction bids for the project will be within the $14.5 million budget. Senate put the trust back in the administration by voting down, 30-19, the first real backbone legislation proposed this year.

Martin Monto, junior in biology and Lawrence Tsen, senior in pre-medicine, who proposed the Proper Planning of the Proposed Coliseum bill and other supporters of the legislation took verbal abuse from senators and others for their effort.

The purpose of the bill was to deliver a message to the administration and the Board of Regents that students are concerned and believe additional planning studies need to be conducted. Unfortunately, many senators nitpicked at minor elements of the bill instead of looking at its real thrust.

The bill was intended to send a message, if nothing else, to the higher bodies which govern decisions about the proposed 13,500 seat, $16.1 million coliseum that students are dissappointed with the work of coliseum architects and planners.

Some senators appeared taken aback by the presence of several high-ranking campus administrators, and their hard-core lobby tactics to defeat the legislation. After all, it was their reputation that was being tested by the student representatives.

Despite the bill's failure, Monto and Tsen's message remains clear. Their efforts were not in vain. The two raised public consciousness about an important and complex campus issue and should be commended. The mere fact that members of the administration were at the senate meeting is evidence of the importance of the coliseum to the University.

Even though the architecture firm of Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita is currently redesigning the coliseum, and scoreboards have been purchased, the proposed coliseum has a long journey before any groundbreaking ceremony takes place.

> LeAnne Stowe, for the editorial page

Story lacks important information report, not the facts of supposed repression Having attended the talk of the doctor who there, but rather someone - spent two years in Nicaragua, I was appalled at today's news as created by the Collegian under the misleading headline, "Nicaragua suffers health care woes.

The article selectively, systematically omits all the doctor's information about the remarkable accomplishments despite U.S. and CIA-enhanced misery there, in drastically improving health, infant survival and literacy. What is worse is the omission of the entire point of these facts - that the previous brutal regime completely failed at helping, didn't want to help, its people.

But I don't care about one reporter's distortions. I care about the widespread distortion in the media as a whole. We routinely experience a self-censorship, for instance, from a press whole hearing is so constructed as to filter out sustained criticism of, and facts embarrassing to, our

For instance, if President Reagan insults Nicaragua as "repressive," the press may

This is called "balance." It is phony objectivity that serves current policies and keeps us indifferent. It's all just opinions anyway, I hope everyone hears the next Convocation speaker, Ariel Dorfman, whose writings show how information is managed in a country that thinks its news is free as long as people can "say what they want." If he is right, we ought to stop congratulating ourselves on Nicaragua's own president — who disagrees.

the absence here of a blatant, Soviet-style control of the press. We have to ask how special kinds of control as this Collegian example shows — can operate, even best operate, in the United States, and how information is efficiently filtered out at the receiving end of the communication process. We don't even hear the facts of someone we think may be criticizing what our representatives are doing. Donald Hedrick associate professor of English

University official says hard-sell pitch boosts recruitment

By SARAH KESSINGER Collegian Reporter

University Relations has made a strong pitch for the University during the past year in Kansas and neighboring states with good results, said Charles Hein, University director of communications.

Hein spoke to about 25 people at noon Thursday in the Union Courtyard. His talk, "Selling K-State," was part of the Union Program Council's Issues ad Ideas Series

Over the past 12 months, the University has exerted a tremendous effort from the Office of Admissions all the way to the president's office to stimulate enrollment, which is down approximately 500 students this year, Hein said.

"Enrollment problems are not peculiar to Kansas State," he said. 'Every one of the land grant schools has had its share of enrollment decline."

The enrollment of new students is down only one student from last year which means the "hard work" by University Relations to bring in freshmen has paid off, Hein said.

"Where we hurt is in the sophomore and junior classes where several students elected not to return this fall," Hein said.

Hein said University Relations has marketed the school by visiting high schools within Kansas and also in Nebraska, Colorado and Missouri, visiting community colleges, sending out literature on various colleges within the University and advertising by radio and television.

Hein also mentioned the new

FREE Samples! Tastes like ice cream but K-State magazine "Perspectives" which highlights the research being done in various departments.

"If we think we can achieve interest of people, there will be a deeper appreciation for what we do,"

Problems arise from stress from the economic situation and scholastic support, he said. The KSU Foundation is now putting together a drive for $10 million in scholarship funds this fall as a result, he said.

A part of marketing the school has been to "sell the sizzle and not the steak," Hein said, noting the emphasis is often on what programs are and what they do and not on K-State overall. The science departments of the University are strongly emphasized, he said.

Hein said a risk of overexposure of an institution exists because a lot of the material mailed out is thrown

"We have to be aware of what we as news managers can do," he said. "We run the risk at Kansas State of making it too common, thereby causing it to lose respect."

Another selling point, Hein said, is the location of K-State, which should be emphasized as a good place to escape from large city life and concentrate on studying.

"This is a place to get away from white knuckles and honking horns of the larger cities," Hein said. "I think we need to take advantage of what this kind of atmosphere can offer as a place for scholastic concentration, where you can get away and do research."

Charles Hein, director of University Relations, speaks to interested students and faculty at noon Thursday in the Union Courtyard. Hein's presentation,

"Selling K-State," was part of the Union Program Council Issues and Ideas

with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's VOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS

SWEETHEART ROSES

12th and Laramie

$6.00 a dozen

COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

Wildlife Calendar Sale

1986 Remington Wildlife Calendars Lobby Ackert Hall Today is the last day, 8:30-5:30

Just $3.00

KSU Student chapter of The Wildlife Society

Meet Johnny Reno and the Sax Maniacs at the Sound Shop Saturday at 2:00

Johnny Reno and the Sax Maniacs are currently the hottest and most talked about band on the sizzling music scene— based around Austin, Texas.

See Johnny Reno's new "Running for Cover" video on MTV. Pick up their latest release on Rounder Records "Full Blown" at the Sound Shop

Additional theaters to offer filmgoers enhanced selection

By TOM SCHULTES Business Editor

A tradition is coming to an end for Manhattan.

With a scheduled Dec. 13 theater opening, Commonwealth Theaters will no longer have exclusive rights to movie patrons' dollars in the Manhattan area.

On that date, The Litchfield Co. of Easley, S.C., will be opening Seth Child's Cinema, a six-screen theater, at the intersection of Seth Child's and Farm Bureau roads in southwest Manhattan

The new Seth Child's theaters, with a total seating capacity of 1,800, are the first Litchfield theaters in the

Six-plex cinemas expect to attract regional audiences

The nearest theater complex owned by the company is an eight-screen facility in Lawton, Okla., which has been open for about three years. The Litchfield Co. currently owns about 59 theater complexes.

Randall Hiller, general counsel for Litchfield, said Manhattan was chosen after obtaining information regarding the area's population and the number of existing theaters from traveling representatives.

Gene Williams, district manager for the company, said while the theaters are primarily for first-run movies, "we may be making the screen available for other films."

He said possibilities for other than first-run films include special series runs of classical and/or foreign films.

But the Litchfield debut in the Manhattan market is not the only change for movie fans.

Commonwealth Theaters of Kansas City, Mo., is also constructing a new six-screen theater in the Westloop Shopping Center, north of the Dillon's Westloop Supermarket.

Bob Howard, Manhattan manager for Commonwealth, said their new six-plex theater, located behind the former Calhoun's Department Store in the Westloop Shopping Center, would be opening Dec. 6.

Howard said the new facility would have approximately 1,300 to 1,400

Like the new Seth Child's Cinema, the Commonwealth complex will feature first-run movies, but will probably not screen late-night movies. Sharon Ford, manager of Seth Child's Cinema, said no final decision has been made for midnight screenings, but noted none would be X-rated. She also said no other Litchfield theaters show X-rated

Howard said the new Commonwealth theaters will run matinees on weekdays, in addition to weekends.

Williams said the Seth Child's Cinema would offer reduced rates for screenings before 6 p.m., matinees Saturdays and Sundays, as well as during the Christmas season.

Ford said the opening date for the Seth Child's Cinema was in part determined by the release date of 'Rocky IV."

Howard said the opening date for the new Commonwealth complex was due to the release dates of Christmas season movies, but no one film in particular.

Although few argue that competition and new physical facilities will hurt the Manhattan movie scene, the sudden appearance of 12 new theaters has brought mixed responses from theater management. For Commonwealth alone, the new theaters will bring its seating capacity in the Manhattan market to about 3,800.

"It's hard to say," Howard said of the existence of 17 Manhattan theaters and the effect on existing theaters, all of which are owned by Commonwealth.

Howard said no final decisions have been made regarding the future of existing Commonwealth theaters in Manhattan, but the number of screens could have an impact "possibly down the road...we'll kind of play it by ear."

Williams said the presence of 17 off-campus screens in the community may be "more screens than Manhattan needs," but anticipated the impact would not be on the new movie houses, but on the older ones.

Ford said the total number of roons may be large for the city itself, but added the Seth Child's Cinema is looking toward drawing customers from throughout the region, instead of only the city.

But all agreed the increased number of screens would provide better variety and timing for showing first-run movies, by allowing recently released movies to continue running while newer releases can be shown in other theaters.

Staff Illustration by Peter Obetz

Cinemas draw audiences despite VCRs

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

Accompanying the Christmas eason are the openings of two theater complexes featuring six screens a piece, adding up to a grand total of 17 off-campus screens that Manhattan and surrounding areas will be able to choose from. At the same time theaters are going up, so are video cassette recorder sales.

VCRs are found in 20 percent to 25 percent of American homes, said Shelly Murray, manager of Video Exchange, 706 N. 11th. The percen-

VCRs is somewhat behind the national average, holding somewhere between 18 percent and 20 percent, Projected for the year 1990, 75 percent of the households in the United States will own VCRs, Murray said. She said people of all levels of income buy them, because they can be bought on payment plans and because "they're such a convenience." As far as video sales are concerned. "I don't actually see that it's cost (theaters) any customers," said Bob tage of Midwest households owning Howard, city manager for Commonwealth Theaters. "If anything, it enhances the industry as a whole," because it makes people more aware of the movies, he said. Movies travel in a pattern called

The Three Windows of Video, Murray said. The first window is the first showing at the theater. After the theater showing, the movie goes to the video stores, on the average four months after its theatrical release. With most releases, within three to six months after the movie has reached the video stores, it goes to cable, she said.

By GARY JOHNSON

Collegian Reviewer

director Arthur Penn, is a bit of a disappointment. It's part spy story and part personal drama and while the spy story comes close to working,

the story of a father and son learning to respect one another is groggy and

"Target," the newest thriller from

"From the public's standpoint, (the choice of more movies is) better for them." Howard said, because of the variety. "It allows the capability of showing lots of movies."

"They (Commonwealth) have 11 screens to our six, but there will be plenty of room," said Sharon Ford, manager of Seth Child's Cinema.

Ford said she doesn't foresee either the theaters or the video stores going out of business. If the movie theaters went out of business, there would no longer be major productions and, in turn, the video market would go down, she said.

Music acts to wind up festivities

By MARK McDERMET Collegian Reporter

The University is hosting a concert involving three student musical groups as part of Parents' Day festivities at 7 p.m. Saturday in Mc-Cain Auditorium.

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs and K-State Singers, will all perform under the direction of Gerald Polich, associate professor of "This program is an opportunity for parents of the music organizations' members to hear them perform and affords others the same opportunity to listen to a good concert," Polich said.

The program will feature a variety of show tunes, classical and contemporary selections, folk melodies and 50s-style music, Polich said. "It's a showcase of talent having these three music groups performing together all in the same evening," said Bert Frost, president of the Men's Glee Club and senior in marketing.

The Men's Glee Club is composed of more than 60 students consisting mainly of non-music majors, Polich said. The club has accepted an invitation to perform in Boston, New York City and Washington, D.C., from March 6-13. A second invitation to the Intercollegiate Music Council convention, March 14-16, has also been accepted, he said.

The 17 members of K-State Singers combine singing, dancing and instrumental solos in choreographed routines, Polich said. The Singers have been invited to perform at the World's Fair in Vancouver, British Columbia, in May.

The Women's Glee Club consists of 40 non-music major students who perform several on-campus concerts and special events throughout the year.

Tickets are $3 for students and for the general public.

(Friday through Sunday)

"Agnes of God" — Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m.
"To Live and Die in L.A." — Campus; 4:45, 7 and 9:15 p.m.

"American Flyers" - Varsity; 4:50, 7 and 9:10 p.m. "Target" - Westloop; 7 and 9:15 p.m. "Rainbow Brite" - Westloop; 5 p.m.

"That was Then, This is Now" - Westloop; 5, 7 and "Ghostbusters" - Union Forum Hall; 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday

"The Bridge on the River Kwai" - Little Theatre; 2 p.m. Saturday and 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday

MUSIC

Smith and Mayer - Union Catskeller; 8 p.m. Friday Trio Cassatt - All Faiths Chapel; 8 p.m. Friday K-State Singers and Glee Club Concert - McCain

Watercolor Miniatures by Gary Dierking - Union Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday

BFA exhibit - McCain Auditorium; during building preparation is done very close to the time of the show, Larkin said. It is a lot of work at the last minute even

Most of the pieces in Larkin's part

"Graphic design is my major area and my plans are to work in an advertising agency in Kansas City,"

Davies said his plans for the future include work as a designer or as an illustrator, and eventually he would

"My show is divided between graphic pieces and prints. My graphics pieces are strong on illustration. Basically the media are airbrush and mixed media," Davies

Adkins said she thinks things have

"My main interest is illustration and graphics is secondary. When I started in the department they were just trying to get the graphics program off the ground. We are really doing a lot of neat things. Things are a lot more involved than when I started going to school in 1978,' really changed in the art department since she started school in 1978.

like to do freelance editorial illustra-of the show are done with an em-though a lot of the work has been done earlier, she said.

phasis on graphics.

Larkin said.

said.

Adkins said.

Art displays individual talent

By BOB SCHEIBLER Collegian Reporter

The culmination of at least four years of work for six bachelor of fine arts students is currently on exhibit in McCain Auditorium. Works by Joni Adkins, Van Crosby, Bryan Davies, Brenda Larkin, Joe Rohrig and Lana Vsetecka, all seniors in fine arts, will be in place until Nov. 22.

Vsetecka plans to utilize her talent and the skills she has learned at the University in an advertising agency art department, she said. The majority of her part of the show are graphic-related pieces.

"Most of my work deals with design and layout rather than illustration. I prefer design to illustration. We are required to take various courses in the graphic design curriculum and I really enjoyed some of those, such as ceramics and oil painting," Vsetecka said.

The eight pieces in Crosby's part of the show are done in several different media. Crosby said he wanted to show a lot of variety in his show to demonstrate both his skill and his personal style.

"I enjoy drawing very much and that is probably the reason that I got into graphics. My drawings are some of my favorite pieces in the show. Obviously my design and illustration classes were the most beneficial to me for my major," Crosby said.

Rohrig said, "Right now I am working for a photofinisher and I plan to continue to do that for a while. Eventually I would like to go into the graphics field, but right now my plans are undecided.

'The pieces in my part of the show are about half graphic and the rest is illustration. The best classes for me have been the graphic design studios," he said.

Although the show represents at least four years of work, much of the Auditorium; 7 p.m. Saturday Blind Date - Brothers; Friday and Saturday

ART EXHIBITS

Second Floor Showcase; today during building hours
MFA exhibit by Glenda Taylor — Union Art

Film Review

sluggish.

Gene Hackman plays Walter Lloyd, a small-time lumberyard operator in Texas. His son, Chris (Matt Dillon), thinks his father is a stick in the mud - and it looks like he might be right. Walter creeps down the highway as other cars zip past. Chris can't put up with this; he competes at the local race track. But things change when his mother is kidnapped while vacationing in Europe. This sends father and son across the Atlantic in search of clues to her whereabouts. But as soon as their jet lands, things get hairy. Walter almost gets kidnapped with father, son story thanks to a misaimed bullet.

'Target' plot misses hit

Walter hardly reacts to this at all. He doesn't call the police. Instead he steps back into the crowd and disappears. It seems that 20 years ago, Walter was a CIA agent. And now one of the enemies he made then is looking to settle the score.

Chris is stunned when he sees his father shove a car's accelerator to the floor and dodge between oncoming traffic. Something's up but he doesn't know what. And only gradually does Chris learn the true story of his father.

And once he does, father and son join forces in their search for the kidnappers. It's the interaction of father and son that should give this movie its energy, but that's where the movie is weakest.

Matt Dillon is supposed to be an angry, rebellious son, but only the words he speaks show the turmoil within him.

Gene Hackman turns in another solid, workmanlike performance, but it's also a performance that lacks inspiration. He speaks softly and gently but that reserve falls on dead air when Matt Dillon can only prohimself, but narrowly escapes vide the most superficial responses.

Lee Greenwood to sing for Parents' Weekend

By The Collegian Staff

As part of Parents' Weekend, the Union Program Council Special Events Committee is presenting entertainer Lee Greenwood, an award-winning country recording artist, in concert with special guests,

"We chose Lee Greenwood because he appeals to the country and western audience," said Janice Kiser, Union program adviser. "But he also crosses over into the adult contemporary area.' The Whites also perform country and western music. The Whites are a family group consisting of a father and his two daughters.

The concert will be Saturday at 8 p.m. in Ahearn Field House. Tickets are available at the Union box office. Ticket price is $10 for students with

IDs, and $11 for the general public. They will also be available at the

"We have sold about 2,300 (of 3,500) tickets so far. We are only using the south end of the field house so all of the seats are good. This is a new seating arrangement that we are experimenting with," said Julie Stephens, Special Events chairperson and senior in social sciences.

Author writes of urban life history

NEW HAVEN, Conn. - Author Mark Girouard is best known for his book about England's great country mansions, but in his heart, he says he is really a city boy.

So, the best-selling author of "Life In The English Country House" has turned his attention to urban life in the just-published book, "Cities & People: A Social & Architectural History."

Girouard goes about illustrating that in "Cities & People" by picking the grand cities of history — from Constantinople in the 9th and 10th centuries to the Los Angeles of today - and describing them in terms of people, function and buildings.

"Cities & People," published by Yale University Press in New Haven, is a generously illustrated, 397-page book, meant to be displayed on a coffee table.

Youths name heros for almanac

NEW YORK - Comedian-actor Eddie Murphy survived an improved showing by President Ronald Reagan, who in turn outpaced TV star Bill Cosby.

They took the 1, 2, and 3 spots. But the most interesting showing was probably one of two who tied for seventh place.

The results were announced Monday by the almanac editors, who said the No. 7, write-in ranking of the mothers of America was most

It was a survey of the heroes of young America in which 4,000 high school students, chosen by local newspapers in 145 cities, were asked to name their heroes in the World Almanac and Book of Facts' sixth Tying with the moms for seventh was Olympic gymnast Mary Lou Retton. President Reagan moved up to the No. 2 spot from last year's No. 3 rank. The No. 4 spot was shared by singer Prince and Rocky-Rambo actor Sylvester Stallone who was first two years ago. Fifth place went to actor Clint Eastwood. Rock singer Madonna, dancer-actress Debbie Allen and basketball star Michael Jordan tied for sixth.

Rock singers Bruce Springsteen and Eddie Van Halen tied for eighth, while actor Harrison Ford placed ninth.

World Almanac representatives said only the top nine places were

Movie costume designer dies at 81

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. - Helen Rose, a movie costume designer who won two Oscars, died Saturday at age 81.

Rose began creating costumes for nightclubs, speakeasies and stage shows in Chicago during the 1920s. Her Academy Awards were for "The Bad and the Beautiful" in 1952 and "I'll Cry Tomorrow" in 1955. Rose designed costumes for more than 200 films and was nominated for 10 Academy Awards. She opened her own costume business in 1966 and also wrote two books - "Just Make Them Beautiful" and "The Glamorous World of Helen Rose."

Forum discusses Chilean writer's views

By KRISTI YEARGIN Collegian Reporter

Donald Duck can provide an explanation of how "primitive" cultures are seen as against the role of power in "civilized" cultures.

This conclusion and other themes in the thought of Chilean writer and social critic Ariel Dorfman were discussed Thursday evening at a preconvocation forum, "Ariel Dorfman: Poetics and Politics."

Dorfman will present an All-University Convocation on "Tyranny of Censorship" at 10:30 a.m. Monday in McCain Auditorium.

Dorfman analyzes culture in four ways, said Harriet Ottenheimer. associate professor of sociology, anthropology and social work. The first is how people are viewed, as either adults or children, civilized or primitive, advanced or simplistic, she said. There is then a common belief that adults shall take care of children, or the civilized shall take care of the primitive, Ottenheimer

In his book, "How to Read Donald Duck: Imperialist Ideology in the Disney Comic," Dorfman uses the characters and town to explain his analysis of Western culture, said Douglas Benson, associate professor of modern languages.

Duck and his relatives are always on the adult - or civilized side - grasping for money and material possessions, Benson said. The criminals in the comic strip are primitive and child-like and always exploited, he

Each of the Disney comics were once used as cultural ammunition against the revolutionary government in Chile mainly for the idea of the "civilized" exploiting the "primitives" to gain wealth. Eventually, the comics were cennsored.

In another book, "Toward the Liberation of the Latin American Reader," Dorfman expresses con-

Dorfman indicates that Donald cern about the problems of too few readers of good books in Latin America and of censorship, said Bradley Shaw, associate professor of modern languages.

Dorfman mentions two forms of censorship, official or governmental censorship, and self-censorship or "closed minds and mouths," Shaw

Dorfman tried to design his book, 'Widows," as a Danish book about the tyranny in Greece, to be translated into Spanish to evade the Chilean censorship, said Lyman Baker, instructor of English.

Dorfman was born in 1944 in Chile and now lives in the United States.

Pork producers need to go whole hog

By SHELLY DICKEN Collegian Reporter

Kansas pork producers need to raise leaner hogs, said John Phillips, manager of the Livestock Extension Department of George A. Hormel, Inc., Austin, Minn.

"The real issue in the pork industry is fat vs. lean. We (pork producers) have done a good job of taking the fat off, but we have to do a little better," Phillips said.

Phillips was the featured speaker Thursday at K-State Swine Industry

The percent of a person's income being spent on red meat is declining, Phillips said. People are spending more money on poultry.

Poultry is not necessarily cheaper than beef or pork, it is just more convienient and has a "better reputation," Phillips said.

"We have to appeal to the yuppies the young professional people. We have to get a product to them that will suit their lifestyle.

"There is going to have to be a really tough campaign by the pork and beef industries to show products that are really nutritious and change the dietary habits of these people, Phillips said.

Another aspect of production to be examined is the gap between the low price the producer gets paid compared to the high price for which the retailer sells the meat.

Inflation and services provided by the retailer are the two primary reasons for this difference in prices, Phillips said.

"The retailer prices the product, and he's going to make a profit. He has a much better shot at calling the prices than the farmer does,' Phillips said.

Different methods of packaging and cutting by the retailer are being used to make the meat more appealing to the consumer. These additional services add to the price the consumer has to pay to get the improved product, Phillips said.

K-State has conducted a Swine Industry Day annually since 1968. The day is sponsored by the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry, the Agricultural Experiment Station, and Cooperative Extension Services.

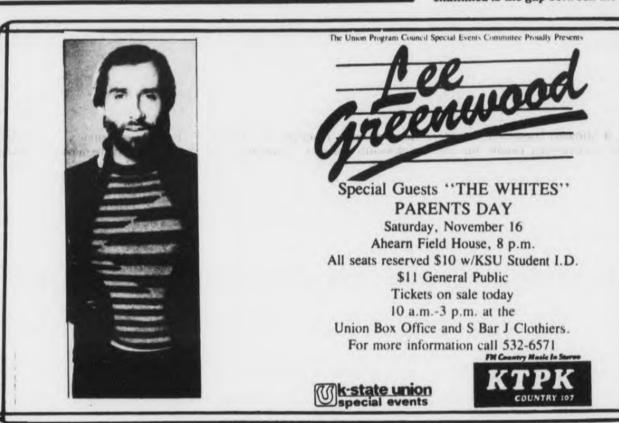

"The purpose of this event is to provide information about what is going on at K-State in extension and research," said Jim Nelssen, assistant professor of animal sciences and industry and chairman of Swine Industry Day.

"We want to provide educational information for the producers to increase their production potential and possibly lower their cost of production," Nelssen said.

Richard and Jan Gustason, pork producers from White City, come to Swine Industry Day to get information to use in their 70-sow operation.

"We have found valuable things here to use at home," Jan Gustason said. "We pick up different ideas and tips to save money.'

FOR THE RIGHT LOOK AT THE RIGHT TIME -

CareerClub

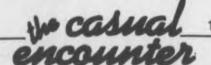

1208 Moro

Aggieville

Superbly tailored shirts for dress or casual in great stripes, plaids or solids. Available in the trim cut counter point style or the original Cambridge Hall Cut from days

1208 Moro

days

TRADITION FOR OVER 30 YEARS

STROH'S AND OLD MILWAUKEE LIGHT

The BIG GUY from the brewery will be on hand

$2.25 PITCHERS

75¢ CANS OLD MILWAUKEE AND OLD MILWAUKEE LIGHT Nov. 16

Nov. 15

A T.G.I.F. TRADITION Only 40 days and 7 Fridays left

	2.25	75¢ CANS OLD MILWAUK
PIII	CHERS	OLD	MILWAUN
Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thur.
18th	19th	20th	21st
37	36	35	34
more	more	more

IOWA STATE PARENTS' DAY Only 39 more days

and 7 Saturdays $2.25 75¢ CANS OLD MILWAUKEE PITCHERS Sat., Nov. 23

Friday, Nov. 22 33 days left 6 Fridays $2.25 Pitchers 75¢ cans Old Mil

32 days off 6 Saturdays $2.25 Pitchers 75¢ cans Old Mil

Sports

Porter fills own shoes as K-State place-kicker

By TONY CARBAJO Collegian Reporter

Some people said the kicking shoes of place-kicker Steve Willis could never be filled again at K-State. Mark Porter, K-State's kicker for 1985, may never fill Willis' shoes and he may never have to. All Porter has done so far in 1985 is make seven of seven field goal attempts.

Willis, a senior last season, owns every K-State career place kicking record on the books. It was his right foot that consistently kicked one field goal after another during his four seasons as a Wildcat.

Enter Mark Porter, a redshirt freshman from Salina's Sacred Heart High School. He said he didn't feel as much pressure stepping into Willis' job at the place kicking helm as he did just winning the job from two other freshman kickers.

"There was pressure following Steve because of all his records, but there was more pressure on myself to win the job than there was from following him," Porter said. "He helped me out last year when I was a redshirt, and I have talked to him a couple of times this year and he is happy for me.'

When a team hands its placekicking chores over to a freshman, there is always cautious optimism. A coach never knows how well the new kid on the block will be able to handle himself until he gets into an actual game situation. Porter had his worries, too.

"Being seven for seven (or not missing any attempts) was an ideal goal I had set," Porter said. "I wanted to be perfect, but I wasn't sure how I would react once I got in the big stadiums.'

Kicking field goals is often considered an art. Place-kickers are notorious for doing unusual things before they try and toe the ball through the uprights. Porter said he just picks out an object behind the goal post and focuses on it.

"I try to pick out a target — like a light bulb in the scoreboard - and concentrate on putting the ball there," he said.

The Wildcats' home field - KSU Stadium - has been known as the toughest stadium in the Big Eight to kick in because of swirling winds. Porter would be the first person to back up that statement and there are others who will agree.

"I talked to Tim Lashar (University of Oklahoma kicker) after the Oklahoma game and he said he thought OU was a hard place to kick at," Porter said. "But he said KSU Stadium was worse. Sometimes you think the wind is at your back, but it is just swirling around."

Although Porter has been successful on all of his field goal tries this season, he has been inconsistent on his extra point attempts. He said after missing one early in the season he was worried about getting the next one over.

"I wasn't kicking through the ball all the way. I had one blocked and one was a bad snap. But the other two I just missed. I need to kick extra points just like I'm kicking a field goal," Porter said.

With the success Porter has been enjoying this season, one drawback comes to mind. He is playing without a scholarship. It is something he does not like to talk about, but the question comes up often.

"I thought I would be on scholarship by this time," Porter said. "Hopefully, it will turn out for the best. If I continue to do my job I should get one.'

But with a projected influx of a new coaching staff coming in next season, Mark may have to prove himself all over again.

"It's something I have thought about. I may have to prove myself all over again, especially if we get a new coach. But I think my stats will speak for themselves." Porter said.

Those statistics include a careerlong 51-yarder last Saturday in Stillwater, Okla., against the Oklahoma State University Cowboys. Porter, who said he hit one from 67 yards in a practice earlier this fall, is confident he can hit the long one against OSU.

"When we got down there (Oklahoma State) and were stopped, Coach Moon asked me if I could make it from there and I said 'yes,' so he sent me in and I hit it," he said.

Porter said he would like to finish out the year without missing a field goal or an extra point. But he is also making some long-range goals, which he feels are not out of his

"I use to kid Steve last year and tell him I was going to break all his records," Porter said. "I know it is a long ways off, but it is something to

Kicker Mark Porter has hit seven out of seven field goals this season, including a career high of 51 yards last weekend against Oklahoma State.

'Cats approaching game against ISU as chance to win

By TOM PERRIN Staff Writer

The last time K-State seemed to have a game with a chance to win, they did; defeating the University of Missouri, 20-17 at Columbia, Mo.

K-State, which enters the game with a 1-8 overall record and a 1-4 Big Eight Conference record, plays Iowa State University on Saturday at 1:30 p.m at KSU Stadium.

Iowa State is looked at as another team that K-State seems to have a chance to defeat. Interim coach Lee Moon hopes that the Wildcats can come through in the same manner as they did against Missouri.

"I think the players feel like they can win," Moon said. "I think a win is real important, something that would mean a lot to the seniors going out in the last home game of their careers.'

On the other side of the ball, Iowa State coach Jim Criner says that the Cyclones, who enter the game with a 3-6 overall record and a 1-4 conference record, need to concentrate on their own performance, not "To be honest, we can't afford to worry about what K-State has or hasn't done," Criner said. "We need to worry about what we have and haven't done. The key is to get some consistency in our offense and give our defense and special teams a chance."

Moon said that K-State and Iowa State have had similar problems this season on offense.

'They're as inconsistent on offense as we are," Moon said.

Iowa State has used a passingoriented offense all year long and isn't expected to change Saturday. The Cyclone offense has been plagued by turnovers and an inability on the part of Cyclones to catch passes consistently.

"It's not only turnovers," Criner said. "We have not caught the ball well. Our receivers dropped 10 passes against Nebraska and completed nine. (Iowa State quarterback Alex) Espinoza was 10 for 27 passing and he should have been 19 for 27 if our receivers could hold on to the Moon said that Espinoza, the Big Eight's second leading passer with 1,356 total yards while completing 131 of 269 attempts, is the key to the Cyclone offense.

'When Espinoza is hot, they're good. When he's not, they've got some serious problems," Moon said.

K-State's offense has been at its best when John Welch has been at quarterback. However, after suffering a pinched nerve in his shoulder in the 35-3 K-State loss at Oklahoma State University on Nov. 9, Welch's status is questionable for Saturday's Welch's backup, Randy Williams can play if needed, but Williams is still not fully recovered from a badly sprained ankle he injured in K-State's 38-7 loss at the University of Kansas on Oct. 19.

"Right now, John is questionable and Randy's ankle is getting better." Moon said. "It's a day-to-day thing."

Moon indicated that if Welch is able to throw properly, he will be the starter against the Cyclones.

Defensively, Moon says that K-State will need to force turnovers and let the Wildcat offense capitalize on Iowa State mistakes.

"We can hope that the defense will create turnovers and the offense will show enough character to get the ball in the end zone," Moon said.

K-State runs an offense that has been almost evenly divided between the run and the pass. The Wildcats have had most of their offensive success in the passing game. However, Criner said that Iowa State will concentrate first on stopping the K-State running game.

"We need to control the run defensively and defend against the pass as well as we can," Criner said.

K-State seniors playing their last game at KSU Stadium include Gerald Alphin, David Ast, Don Cliggett, Charles Crawford, Jack Epps, Pat Hall, Andy Harding, Guy Huggins, Barton Hundley, John Kendrick, Jerry Poole, Renneth Reed, Elmer Schmitz, Tim Stone, Greg Strahm, Dick Warren, Scott Wentzel and James Witherspoon.

Due to injuries, Schmitz, Strahm and Huggins will not play Saturday.

'Cats, MU to play for 3rd place

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

K-State's volleyball team will battle the University of Missouri for third place in the Big Eight in the 'Cats' last home match of the season tonight at 7:30 in Ahearn Field House.

Missouri comes into the contest with a 16-11 overall mark and 4-4 in the Big Eight and is holding down third place. The Wildcats are 17-10 and 3-5 in the conference, good for fourth place.

'The percentages say that if we beat Missouri and it comes down to a tie, we would take over third place due to conference games won," K-State Head Coach Scott Nelson said.

Each team has one conference game remaining after tonight. Missouri has yet to play conference leader University of Nebraska, and K-State will play the University of Kansas.

The 'Cats and Tigers met earlier in the season with MU taking a five-game match from K-State in Columbia.

"It was an intense match and fluctuated back and forth," Nelson said of the last meeting. "Each team would make runs of points at the other. If the match would have gone seven games we would have

Nelson, however, expects tonight's match to be much different than the earlier meeting.

"I look for this match to be more consistent," he said. "The execution of both teams has improved since we first played. I don't see long runs of points being a part of this match.

Missouri comes into the match third in the conference in digs and second in kills per game.

'Missouri is an excellent defensive team and one of the top two teams in kills per game," Nelson said. "Offensively, they are doing a good job of getting the ball to the

See VOLLEYBALL, Page 9

Healthy 'Cats cross country teams to vie for regional championships

By TONY CARBAJO Collegian Reporter

Cross country Head Coach Steve Miller believes the men's and women's teams have a good shot at qualifying for the NCAA nationals.

The women's team is ranked No. 10 in the nation, while the men's team moved into the No. 20 spot, according to this week's NCAA rankings.

Miller said he expects the teams to perform well this weekend when the teams travel to Stillwater, Okla., to, compete in the District Five Championships.

'This is the healthiest we have been all year," Miller said. "I think we are ready. Both teams are coming off their best performance of the year at the Big Eight Championships. The men ran extremely well, and I think the women are coming

To qualify for the NCAA championships, which will be held Nov. 25 in Milwaukee, Wis., the men must finish either first or second in the meet. Miller said that while the men's team is ranked lower than the women's team, the men have a better chance to qualify for the championship.

The men will be challenging fourth-ranked University of Colorado, 10th-ranked Iowa State University and Oklahoma State University. Oklahoma State finished second at the Big Eight meet Nov. 2 in Columbia, Mo.

The women may have a more difficult time advancing to the NCAA championships, he said, because they must place first to get an automatic bid to the national meet.

The women's team will be defending their district title against thirdranked University of Nebraska and fifth-ranked Iowa State. Oklahoma State and Colorado finished fourth and fifth respectively at the Big Eight meet in Columbia and should provide strong competition, Miller

Miller said each runner must con-See HARRIERS, Page 9

YOU

Can Be An Air Force Officer KSU-AFROTC 532-6600

Free hors d'oeuvres & old time rock-n-roll

Monday Comedy Invasion —

Dan Chopin & Jay Vermetti

Show starts at 10:00 539-9727 539-4321 $2.00 tickets

ofree pregnancy tests *outpatient abortion services

*alternatives counseling *gynecology Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

1304 Westloop

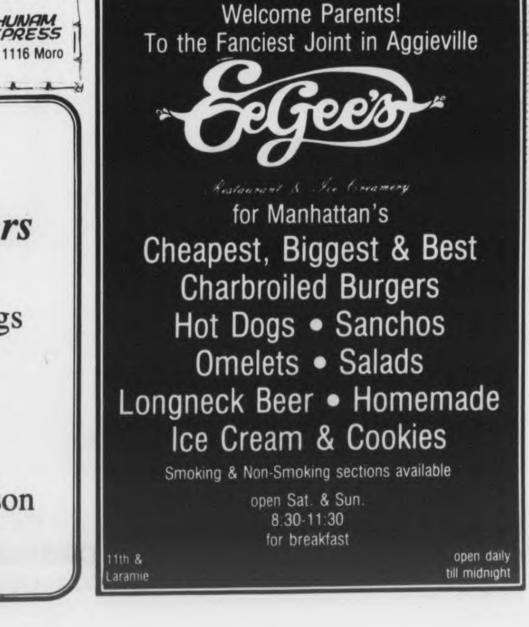

HUNAM Restaurant

FREE DELIVERY 11 a m .- 1 a m

The Men of Pi Kappa Phi would like to congratulate the newly initiated Little Sisters of the Star and Lamp.

Rose Borst Sandy Brinker Wendy Caldwell Emily Day Tammy Dettner Tammy Doty

Stephanie Jennings Jane Jones Larissa Kimura Susan Link Carol Martin Lee Anne Patterson Pam Fenstermacher Kim Stewart Shannon Fuller

Pigskin Picks

TIM CARPENTER Iowa State 35 at K-State 2 Nebraska 35 vs. Kansas 17 Oklahoma 17 vs. Colorado 14 Oklahoma State 32 at Missouri 3 Notre Dame 21 at Penn State 10 Air Force 21 at BYU 17 Georgia 24 vs. Auburn 17 San Francisco 28 vs. K.C. Chiefs 14 Chicago 24 at Dallas 21 Denver 32 vs. San Diego 27

JEFF TUTTLE K-State 31 vs. Iowa State 17 Nebraska 42 vs. Kansas 7 Oklahoma 21 vs. Colorado 14 Oklahoma State 35 at Missouri 3 Penn State 21 vs. Notre Dame 17 Air Force 35 at BYU 31 Georgia 27 vs. Auburn 10 San Francisco 35 vs. K.C. Chiefs Chicago 17 at Dallas 10 Denver 27 vs. San Diego 17

TODD NIGHSWONGER K-State 21 vs. Iowa State 17 Nebraska 38 vs. Kansas 6 Oklahoma 28 vs. Colorado 7 Oklahoma State 42 at Missouri Penn State 24 vs. Notre Dame 21 BYU 31 vs. Air Force 27 Georgia 21 vs. Auburn 20 San Francisco 27 vs. K.C. Chiefs 24 Dallas 24 vs. Chicago 14 Denver 38 vs. San Diego 28

JOHN SLEEZER lowa State 21 at K-State 14 Nebraska 42 vs. Kansas 17 Oklahoma 35 vs. Colorado 21 Oklahoma State 21 at Missouri 14 Air Force 24 at BYU 17

Harriers

Continued from Page 8

tribute to a victory and that the team cannot hope for a performance by one runner to secure victory.

"Each one of the five (women) is key to our team. We can't have anyone fall apart, we're just not deep enough to have any adversity,' Miller said.

Miller said if his Wildcats do not qualify for the national meet, individual runners on the team still have a chance to compete in nationals. The top three runners, not on a qualifying team, automatically qualify for the NCAA Championships. Miller said that Bryan Carroll, Ron Stahl and Jacque Struckhoff have the best chance of qualifying individually.

Miller, said he would prefer to take the whole team - as opposed to taking several individuals - because his teams are ranked in the Top 20.

"I feel the women can win and the men can win," Miller said. "We are shooting for the top-two positions (team finish). I feel Jacque can be in the top three and Bryan in the top

"I just hope the weather is better than it has been. We're catching everybody at the right time. I think we are on a rise."

BENEFIT CONCERT

Blue River Pub

Friday, November 15

8:30 p.m. Crosswind also appearing

November 16

San Francisco 35 vs. K.C. Chiefs 21 Chicago 24 at Dallas 17 Denver 27 vs. San Diego 21

DAVID SVOBODA K-State 17 vs. 16 Iowa State Nebraska 56 vs. Kansas 14 Oklahoma 49 vs. Colorado 17 Oklahoma State 28 at Missouri 17 Penn State 24 vs. Notre Dame 10 Air Force 28 at BYU 24 Georgia 27 vs. Auburn 20 San Francisco 35 vs. K.C. Chiefs 10 Chicago 24 at Dallas 20

ANDY NELSON Iowa State 27 at K-State 7 Nebraska 63 vs. Kansas 20 Oklahoma 42 vs. Colorado 30 Oklahoma State 35 at Missouri 17 Penn State 28 vs. Notre Dame 17 Auburn 21 at Georgia 17 San Francisco 35 vs. K.C. Chiefs 28 Chicago 21 at Dallas 20 Denver 28 vs. San Diego 21

TOM PERRIN K-State 17 vs. Iowa State 13 Nebraska 60 vs. Kansas 7 Oklahoma 31 vs. Colorado 14 Oklahoma State 35 at Missouri 14 Air Force 28 at BYU 21 Georgia 21 vs. Auburn 14 San Francisco 31 vs. K.C. Chiefs 14 Chicago 17 at Dallas 14 Denver 28 vs. San Diego 21

JEFF A. TAYLOR lowa State 10 at K-State 3 Nebraska 42 vs. Kansas 35

Oklahoma State 41 at Missouri 12 Penn State 10 vs. Notre Dame 7 Air Force 21 at BYU 10 Auburn 21 at Georgia 17 San Francisco 24 vs. K.C. Chiefs 10 Chicago 17 at Dallas 10 San Diego 28 at Denver 20

LILLIAN ZIER Nebraska 35 vs. Kansas 17 National 37 vs. Colorado 14
Oklahoma State 32 at Missouri 3
Penn State 21 vs. Notre Dame 10
Air Force 21 at BYU 10 Georgia 24 vs. Auburn 14 San Francisco 28 vs. K.C. Chiefs 14 Chicago 24 at Dallas 21 Denver 32 vs. San Diego 27

CONSENSUS K-State 5-4 Nebraska 9-0 Oklahoma 9-0 Oklahoma State 9-0 Penn State 7-2 Air Force 8-1 Georgia 7-2 San Francisco 9-0 Chicago 8-1 Denver 8-1

(Last week, overall) Jeff A. Taylor 7-3, 53-27 Tim Carpenter 7-3, 54-35 Lilliam Zler 6-4, 52-28 Todd Nighswonger 6-4, 52-37 Tom Perrin 5-5, 55-34 Andy Nelson 5-5, 53-36 was Sue Leiding with 22 points.

Carlisa Thomas added 13 points and eight rebounds. Thomas also had

The Purple squad shot 26 for 44

from the field for 59 percent and hit

16 of 21 free throws for 76 percent.

The White team didn't fare as well from the field, hitting 25 of 54 shots

In rebounding, the White team held the edge with 28 boards to the Purple's 19. The White team commit-

Hubert contributes 22 points to lead Purple team to win

seven assists.

ted 23 turnovers.

By The Collegian Staff

After trailing 31-30 at halftime, the K-State Lady 'Cat Purple team turned it loose in the second half to defeat the White team 68-53 Thursday night in an intrasquad scrimmage at the Bicentennial Center in Salina.

The Purple team outscored the White squad 38-22 in the second half to win going away.

Leading the way for the Purple team was forward Shelia Hubert with 22 points and five rebounds. Other double figure scorers for the Purple team were center Amanda Holley with 15 points, who was seven of eight from the free-throw line and had four blocked shots, and Susan Green with 12 points.

The White team's leading scorer

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

Handcrafted Leather Goods Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4 Open Thursdays to 8

401 Humboldt

KANSAS STATE SAILING CLUB

Drive-Up Convenience

For more information

call 539-5702

Bear-n-Bow

Boutique

K-State Union

9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Thurs., Nov. 21 &

Fri., Nov. 22

$1.50 - $10.00

ANA NA MANA

Customized bows to order. Holiday Ornaments.

Cash & Carry

Sponsored by Retail Floriculture Club

口来以来以农业区全国区

Friday—Saturday—Sunday We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

Volleyball

Continued from Page 8

'They are a scrappy team and run a good offense. Missouri has a lot of characteristics of other teams that we have played.'

The advantage K-State holds over Missouri is that of playing on the Wildcats' home court.

"This is going to be a real tough match," Nelson said. "They are going to be walking in knowing if they win they have third. And we know that if we win we have virtually assured ourselves of third place. The best thing is we're at home. I've seen what our crowd can do against other teams, like Nebraska. Our crowd intimidates the other team.'

Following tonight, the Wildcats will travel to Lawrence to participate in the Kansas Invitational. K-State will open against the University of Tulsa Saturday afternoon.

The Wildcats hold an advantage over the Golden Hurricanes, leading the series 2-0. Saturday night K-State will play its final regular season conference game against Kansas. "The KU match is real important," Nelson said. "It is an intrastate rivalry and also a Big Eight match, which adds more significance. KU is coming off an embarrassing loss at Iowa State, so I think they will be wanting to get back on the winning track." K-State will face either the University of Texas-El Paso or the University of Illinois-Chicago on Sunday.

"This will be a good series of matches for us," Nelson said. "This will be the same setup as the Big Eight tournament, which is why we are doing that (playing in the Kansas tournament). We will be playing three days in a row, which is what we hope happens at the conference tourna-

FOOTBALL

.11.11

K-State will take on the Iowa State University Cyclones at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in KSU Stadium. The Wildcats are 1-8 overall and 1-4 in the Big Eight, while the Cyclones are 3-7 and 1-4. Special attraction: Parents' Day.

CROSS COUNTRY

The men's and women's teams will compete in the NCAA District Five Championships Saturday in Stillwater, Okla. The men's event will begin at 10 a.m. followed by the women at 11 a.m.

VOLLEYBALL

The Wildcats wind up their home schedule against Iowa State University at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House. On Saturday and Sunday, the team will compete in the University of Kansas Invitational in Lawrence. The 'Cats play the University of Tulsa at 2 p.m. Saturday and KU at 7:30 p.m. Sunday's opponent, depending on the outcome of Saturday's matches, will be either the University of Illinois-Chicago or the University of Texas-El Paso.

The Rugby Football Club travels to Pittsburg to play in the Jim Jones Tournament on Saturday. The tournament will involve at least six

SOCCER

The men's team will make a three-game swing south this weekend. The team's first game will be at 7:30 tonight against Wichita State University in Wichita. Saturday, K-State is scheduled to play Oklahoma State University at 2 p.m. in Stillwater, Okla. The Ponca City (Okla.) Gators will be the 'Cats' foe at 2 p.m. Sunday in Ponca City. The women's team also will be in Oklahoma on Saturday to battle Oklahoma State at 3 p.m. in Stillwater.

Dairy Queen Royal Treat Weekly Specials Mon. to Fri. 1 p.m.-5 p.m. THIS WEEK Banana Supreme 99¢

12th and Moro in Aggieville

Regularly $1.45 1015 N. 3rd

Manhattan

Friday and Saturday

Guaranteed a good time

> Bring mom & dad.

Start your weekend right with

BLIND DATE

Free T.G.I.F. set AND Free Sandwich Bar

120 Moro

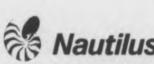

QUESTION: Won't working out in my own home with my own equipment be just as good as working out in a fitness club?

ANSWER: Not necessarily.

The increased use of home-fitness machines may have turned home sweet home into a hazardous-duty station That is true for at least 18,000 people claims a 1984 report from the Consumer Products Safety Com Among these home injuries strains and sprains were the most frequent problems (7,301), followed by bruises (3,292) and cuts (3,111). Most injuries were to the ankles, fingers, and lower back.

ners who don't take time to learn to use their machines properly Nautilus is the only full service fitness club in Manhattan. One of our carefully trained in the equipment works and how it is designed to give you maximum results. We provide you with an individual workout card to record your progress and we assist you in preparing a workout program that will allow you to meet your fitness needs. And the constant presence of our trained staff allows you to ask questions and get the Total Fitness Club 1100 Moro . Aggieville

Manhattan • 776-1654

WELCOME PARENTS!

The students, faculty and alumni of Kansas State University welcome you to this special weekend for you!

> Parents' Weekend is coordinated by Chimes Junior Honorary

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other Is Wings"

A very special thanks to these contributing living groups:

ACACIA ALPHA CHI OMEGA ALPHA DELTA PI ALPHA GAMMA RHO ALPHA TAU OMEGA BETA THETA PI CLOVIA DELTA UPSILON FARMHOUSE GAMMA PHI BETA

GOODNOW HALL KAPPA ALPHA THETA KAPPA DELTA KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA PI BETA PHI SIGMA NU SIGMA PHI EPSILON SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Woman pilots plane after death of spouse

By The Associated Press

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. - A woman who had never flown a plane until her husband collapsed at the controls comes from a family that's good at remaining calm during emergencies, her father said Thursday

After pulling out of a dive and flying for two hours, Ella Faye Wilcoxson crash-landed the twinengine Cessna Skymaster just short of Fayetteville's Drake Field about dusk Wednesday. Her husband, Joe Wilcoxson, 53, was found dead.

Ella Wilcoxson, 45, of Anchorage, Alaska, was in stable condition Thursday at Washington Regional Medical Center, said spokeswoman Chris Krueger

Fayne Curtis, 62, of Gravette monitored his daughter's flight from the airport office.

"I was listening to her. She was calm. She was following directions." Curtis said, sobbing.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered an autopsy for Wilcoxson, but Curtis said he apparently suffered a heart attack or had a seizure after the plane took off from the Bentonville Airport, about 30 miles north of Fayetteville.

"According to her, he died before the crash," said Joe Rhine, deputy county coroner.

ple who thought they would be ticketed in the recreation complex

"Anyone who asked about buying a permit for the rec complex lot was advised that we were not ticketing in that lot until the problem was resolved." Beckom said. "We didn't want to have to go to all the trouble of refunds and paperwork, so we didn't sell any permits especially for park-

Manhattan Creative

Arts Guild presents their 7thannual Christmas Art Festival

ing for them."

Moore Hall joins after-hours program

By JANIS SMISCHNY Collegian Reporter

Because of decreasing occupancy in the residence halls, the Department of Housing has announced that Moore Hall will be used for afterhours housing.

Two or more floors in Moore Hall will be used for participants who attend conferences on campus beginning next fall.

Because the hall is co-ed, doesn't have telephones in the rooms, and has good parking facilities, Moore was chosen for after-hours housing, said Bob Felde, assistant director of housing.

"Participants of some conferences this year are already staying in Haymaker and Ford Halls, but housing decided to consolidate this program into one hall and Moore Hall was the best place," Felde said.

"Some advantages to Moore Hall receiving the program are that it is going to get more revenue and housing won't have to raise rates; also Moore can become a good image for the residence halls," Felde said.

Since 1979, residence halls have lost more than 850 residents, so the housing department had to find revenue somewhere, Felde said.

Reasons Felde gave for losing residents were declining enrollment, freshmen having cars on campus and more greek houses.

However, Alpha Gamma Delta is the only house to be added since the Floors will be used to house visitors is implemented," Sand said.

tions about the decision.

chemical engineering.

we did," Felde said

Moore residents had mixed reac-

"At the moment we're still in shock, but I think it can become something positive for Moore Hall," said Eric Larson, junior in electrical engineering and president of Moore.

have talked to the residents of Moore

Hall before they decided to do this. It still might have happened, but we would have had some input," said

Adam Peterson, sophomore in

Moore Hall because of this situation, but it would happen no matter what

Felde said he doesn't want the hall closed. Because of the declining numbers in occupancy, the program will still let students who want to stay in the hall have that opportunity, he

"Some residents will not stay in

"I just wish that housing would enrollment decline and it is not yet colonized, said Barb Robel, greek affairs adviser.

"If students have mobility they are not going to stay in the halls as long as they once did five years ago," Felde said.

Most of the conference participants will only stay at the hall for no more than two weeks. The types of conferences will range from small teacher conferences, high school speech tournaments, extension and 4-H clubs and agriculture groups.

"Moore Hall will still be a residence hall, but it will be a different place and things will change," said Jim Sand, director of Moore

Sand suggested students could meet with conference participants and talk about their jobs and make their stay at the hall a learning experience for both parties.

Staff in the hall will be in charge of checking conference members in and out, but will still work with the students in the hall as usual, Sand

"The staff duties will change a lit-question-and-answer session Monday night to help residents better understand the situation. tle bit, and they will need to be more flexible next year when the program

Many residents were worried the program would change the community of Moore Hall, but Felde

About 40 residents attended a stressed this would not happen. "I don't mean to say there won't be problems, but I think it will make Moore a better community for everyone," Felde said.

Students were also concerned with safety since there would be strangers in the hall. Felde said all conference members would carry identification cards so residents and staff would know who was allowed in the hall.

"The identification card will be like a meal ticket so staff will know who is supposed to be here and who isn't," Felde said.

"It's going to happen no matter how the residents feel, so I think we should try to work with housing and work on using the participants to help us learn about their jobs and to get contacts we couldn't get if they weren't here staying at Moore Hall," said Doug Oetinger, sophomore in business administration.

Permits

Continued from Page 1

"It was decided long ago that you would have to pay to park there," Lambert said. "There has to be some way to pay for the lot and provide maintenance for it. The funds have to come from somewhere.

Beckom said his office was not aware of any $22 permits sold to peo-******

PANCAKE FEED

All you can eat Catholic Student Center

711 Denison Nov. 17, 6-8 p.m. $2.50

50¢ off w/this coupon

AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

U.S.D.A. CHOICE SIRLOIN

STEAK DINNER Cajun flavored with Baked Potato

All You Can Eat Soup & Salad Bar Reservations are not necessary. Mr. Steak welcomes reservations for large or small groups on

Parents Day.

PLUS In A Related Atmosph

Open 7 Days A Week

GREEN THUMB

Open Monday Thru Safurday 8 to 5 30 Sunday Noon to 5 30

10 gallon set-up $21.98 20 gallon set-up $46.98

Parakeet & Cage Special Price $15.98 save $12.00

Fish 2 for $1.00

Brick Sword Gold Wag Patty Marigold Variatus Sunburst Platty

Feeder Goldfish 5 for $1.00 Prices good through Sun. Nov. 17, 1985

> 1105 Waters 539-4751 Across from Alco

Treat Your Parents ! 50% DISCOUNT on a parfait delight!

Saturday, November 16, 1985

9:00-6:00

*Located at Pottorf Hall in Ci-Co Park

. Formerly Located at St. Paul's Episcopal Church

45 Artists & 45 different mediums

-----COUPON--

Buy a delicious parfait at a regular price and treat your parents or parent to a half-price parfait. (One parfait per parent) Our parfaits include three flavors of frozen yogurt with choice of two toppings.

Go 'Cats! We'll be cheering you on to victory this Saturday!

705 North 11th Nautilus Towers Aggieville Open:

1 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily & Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

I Can't Believe It's

CONCERNED ABOUT WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR PARENTS THIS WEEKEND?

BRING THEM TO SEE SWANNIE!

SWANNIE'S BACK DOOR

We're open a lot later than you think Now Zenith gives you business to go!

Computer power that travels with you. That's what you get with the new Zenith Portable Z-171 PC-a surprising combination of extraordinary hardware muscle, user-features and helpful built-in applications. All within a compact, lightweight framework that folds up for easy carrying. So now you can have all the answers when and where you need them! The Portable Z-171 PC is IBM PC-compatible and offers you up to 640K bytes of RAM. A full-size 25-line by 80-character LCD video display screen, back-in for opumal readability. A standard keyboard. Printer and modem ports. Monochrome and RGB Color Monitor ports. A dual built-in 51/4" floppy disk drive, full-function calculator, monthly calendar, world map/clock, and appointment scheduler with programmable alarm and phone book communications feature. All weighing in at less than 17 pounds. And best of all, it's from Zenith - a name that has represented an American tradition of advanced technology, quality and dependability for over 65 years!

Introducing

the Portable compatibility together with

At last,

When Total Performance is the only option.

For more information on the new Zenith Portable Z-171 PC, visit your local Zenith Data Systems dealer today at:

ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED 3844 KIMBALL AVE. PROFESSIONAL CAR INSTALLATION WEST OF KSU FOOTBALL STADIUM ACROSS FROM CICO PARK OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK FINANCING AVAILABLE MANHATTAN

Reno plays audiences

By BEN PEASE Collegian Reviewer

Manhattan will be treated tonight and Saturday as Johnny Reno and the Sax Maniacs return to Mannequins Ltd. The charismatic band leader and his company of talented musicians entertain, undoubtedly, with showmanship unsurpassed by most bands.

Music Review

A truly audience-oriented group, Reno keeps the dance floor full and listeners on the edge of their seats with exciting and innovative versions of many '50s and '60s dance tunes including "Hide and Seek" and "Pink Champagne." Then, just when the crowd has been worked into a proverbial froth, Reno cools it way down with a version of "Harlem Nocturne," that sends shivers down the spine. It doesn't take long, however, for the place to heat up again as soon as the band kicks into a new dance number.

As fun as Johnny and his sax maniacs are to listen to, they are even more fun to watch. The band members seem to really enjoy themselves on stage, dancing and laughing, and this is transferred to the crowd. The movements of the band complement Reno's zany antics, including his famous bar-walk in which he climbs atop the bar (in this case, a good 10 feet up in the air) and dances around, hammering out a saxophone solo all the while.

All in all, the band's exceptional musical talent, coupled with Reno's energy-rich stage presence, makes for an exciting show no matter what age one is, whether dancing or just watching and listening.

NO.

WHAT 2

Garfield

Peanuts

ASK YOUR DAD IF

HE WANTS ME TO

SHOVEL YOUR WALK.

GARFIELP, THE WORLP FAMOUS TOMATO SOUP PIVER, SCOURS THE MURKY PEPTHS IN SEARCH OF

THE ELUSIVE

TOMATO

PORTNOY

DID YOU HEAR

THE LATEST !

Bloom County

for '50, '80 Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15: Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an er-ror exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch: Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont 537-4246. (711)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve-lope: Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098 (31-60)

THE PROBLEM: Mom and Dad are coming to visit and will be around the whole weekend. They won't go to movies, hate bar-hopping, and outdoor exercise is definitely out with them. The solution: Strecker Gallery, 332 Poyntz, (59)

SHE DU's meet at the Delta Upsilon house for a short meeting Sunday at 7:00 p.m. We will have a VCR party following the meeting. (59)

ATTENTION

WE INTERRUPT THIS

HAVE NOTICED

OBSCURING THE

NOSE OF ONE

SURGICALLY ALTERED

HE SAID WHY SHOULD

HE PAY YOU WHEN HE

CAN DO IT HIMSELF?

55 Lunatic

DOWN

city

1 Mecca

native

2 Great tale

OF THE PRINCIPAL CHARACTERS ...

CLEVERLY

FEATURE TO EXPLAIN THE VARIOUS OBJECTS

WHICH SEVERAL REAPERS

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf)

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure. (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sun-

THE U.S. SENATE HAS

DETERMINED THAT THE GRAPHIC

PEPICTION OF RAPICAL COSMETIC

BODY SURGERY, LIKE OBSCENE

ROCK MUSIC, CAN POLLUTE

AND LEAD TO WIDESPREAD

HEDONISM AND SECULAR HUMANISM. THUS, THE

WE NOW RETURN TO

TO THE HILARIOUS COMIC

ALREADY IN PROGRESS ...

SELF-CENSORSHIP

QUICK! GIMME THAT CAMERA!

BECAUSE IF HE DOES IT

HIMSELF, HE'S LIABLE

TO HAVE A HEART

ATTACK AND NEED

BYPASS SURGERY ...

THE MINDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201 K-State representatives needed (49-

7th Annual Christmas Arts Festival Saturday before, during and after the ISU game. Just west of football stadium 1/2 mile on Kimball.

Parents welcome!

NEW STORE hours: Wednesday and Friday, 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. and Saturdays 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Open to everyone. People's Grocery, 811 Colorado, 539-4811. (56-59)

DECEMBER AND May graduates: Consider Peace Corps today. Applications should be mailed in now! Call 532-5714 or come by 108 Waters for more information. (58-67)

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-6 Sponsored by Manhattan

KANSAS ARMY National Guard -- Ask us how we can help you obtain your college education through the new GI Bill and a $10,000 student loan repay-ment plan. Call Adrian A. (Lash) L'Heureux, 913-537-4108. (59-78)

Creative Arts Guild

FOR RENT-MISC

01

02

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side. 776-3804. (4911)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75)

04

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university. Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-3804. (46tf)

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin. 776-9124. (51.59)

AVAILABLE JANUARY—One bedroom near campus, no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70— laundry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets. 537-8389, 537-8494, (55-65)

NICE TWO bedroom apartment next to campus for second semester $380, utilities paid. 776-5265. (56-59)

TURMPS!

TURMPS AND

antifreeze!

FOR THE FIRST TIME

THE TOMATO GUPPY ARE CAPTURED ON FILM

0

By Charles Schulz

0

WHO WRITES YOUR

COMMERCIALS?

IN HISTORY THE SPAWNING HABITS

OF

By Berke Breathed

NOT

WITH

DONNY

WONTH

OSMOND

By Jim Davis

O CLICK

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester Share nice two bedroom apartment, $150 plus onehalf electric, 776-3519, (57-61)

LARGE, ONE bedroom, 314 North 11th. All utilities paid except electricity. Laundry facilities, air con ditioning, dishwasher, new carpeting, $295/month Available immediately. 537-1210 or 539-0859. (58-

> Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview and

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with

> Call for details 776-3804

AVAILABLE NOW (or): One bedroom apartment and two bedroom house. Large yard, utilities paid, good location. Both are very nice with all the extra comforts. 539-5015 after 4:00 p.m. (59-63)

APARTMENT FOR rent-Free cable, free electricity. close to campus, free November rent. Call 776 8773. (59-60)

FOR RENT-HOUSES THREE BEDROOM, block to campus, furnished, appliances. Available January 1. Call 539-4604 after 4:00 p.m. (58-62)

FOR SALE-AUTO

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214. (52-61) 1983-CHEVROLET Cavalier Sport-Hatchback.

white, sunroof, stereo cassette, front wheel drive $4,100 or best offer. Evenings, 539-6730. (56-60) 1978 Z-28 Camaro: All options, t-tops, chrome wheels, AM-FM cassette, low miles. Loaded. $3,600. Call 537-0227. (56-60)

1979 GRAND Prix SJ, loaded, with all options! Black with mag wheels, low mileage. Sharp car! Call 532-5422 or 532-5143. (57-60)

1976 DATSUN B210, $1,600. Call 539-9202. (59-63)

FOR SALE-MISC 07 OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55ff)

FREE MAGNUM HAT

with every two bags purchased 21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

TECHNICS SL-5, direct drive, automatic turntable system Best offer 539-4863 (55-59) CHINESE SHAR-PEI puppies. Registered CPSCA. A nice Christmas present. 537-3199. (56-59)

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound Hamburger

The Ritz

One burger per coupon.

BLACK LABRADOR pups. Six weeks old. Excellent hunting stock $30 Call 537-8367 (56-64) KENMORE WASHER and dryer -- Two years old, must sell, $330. Call 776-7988. (57-59)

Buy Designer Fragrances at Fabulous Savings, Easily and Conveniently! For Free Sample and Prices Write:

HOUSE OF SHARRONE -BOX 329

LIVINGSTON, NEW JERSEY 07039

MEN'S 28" Free Spirit, red. 10 speed - excellent condition. Call 776-3519 (57-61)

STAINED GLASS, assorted sizes and colors. Also grinder tools, and copper foil. Call 1-494-2528. (58-59) MINOLTA X-570 35mm camera: Tamron 35-70 zoom lens; Tamrac 612 Pro-bag: Smith-Victor Lighting System, 776-1909 (59-64)

19" COLOR TV, $100; Panasonic stereo, $70; Panasonic fan. $15. Call 539-9202. (59-60)

Football Tickets!

Sports Fan-attic has a limited number of ISU tickets for $7

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1, (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information (59)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 1977 ESQUIRE, 14 x 70-Excellent condition, furnished, three bedrooms, two baths, central air, 539-2939. (56-60)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1970 SUZUKI-New transmission, runs perfectly Must sell. $100. Call Chris, 539-7518. (50-59)

FOUND BY Nichols Hall - Male kitten, part Siamese. Call 776-2385 before 6:00 p.m. (57-59)

HELP WANTED 13

AD SALES for Kansas Folklife Festival - Temporary. part-time position to contact local/area busi nesses, sell signature ads, and secure times for festival auction. Further information and applica tion form available at KSU Conference Office, 1623 Anderson, 532-5575, Deadline November 18, 1985. (55-59)

SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co.'s. 21 parks-5,000 + openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report. Mission Mountain Co., 651 2nd Ave. WN. Kalispell, MT. 59901 (55-63)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions Round trip air transportation provided. Warm. loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands. Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton. CT. 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (56-68)

INTERESTED IN the Travel Industry? The nation's largest college tour operator is looking for a responsible campus representative to market the finest spring trips to Ft. Lauderdale or Daytona Beach Earn free trips, and good commissions while gaining great business experience. For more information call 1-800-323-8091. (58-60)

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year round. Europe South America, Australia, Asia, All fields, $900-2.000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar. CA 92625, (58

GRILL HELP wanted immediately. Experience re quired, 15-20 hours per week. Apply in person. Mr K's. Aggieville. (58tf) GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16.040-$59.230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000. ext. R for current federal INTERNSHIP OPEN: Kansas Rural Center, a nonprofit, research, education and advocacy organiza-tion focusing on agricultural, natural resource. and rural issues, is offering a one year full time Internship involving research in "Alternative Agriculture: The Feasibility of Transition from Conven tional Agriculture." Degree, writing, and research skills required, $900/month Send resume and writing sample to M. Fund, Kansas Rural Center, 304 Pratt. Whiting, Ks. 66552 (69-63)

LOST

LOST BIOCHEM I lab notebook. $20 reward if found Kirk. 539-4022. (58-59)

14

NOTICES

SUPER SPUDS! All you can eat! It's a meal in a peel! We pile on the hot toppings then you dress the spud at the salad bar with cold toppings. Parent's Day, Saturday, November 16, 11:00 a.m. 1:00 p.m. in the K-State Union Bluemont Room. (59)

LOST: BIOCHEM I lab notebook $20 reward if found Kirk. 539-4022. (58-59)

16

PERSONAL

TO THE soph in PDP with the "answers" in Seaton

Copy Center Come see me. Dr. L. (58-59) AMADEUS-I'VE never been to lowa, studied in Kite's, gotten lost on sneak, drank orange juice at the powder puff games, slept in the new rec, been to Taco Tico, and ... had a friend like you! Happy Birthday! Love. Jen. (59) KERMIT-HAVE fun with Eric. enjoy the jump! Go ahead and break a leg. Ha. Ha! We love you. Beef and Sandy (59) ELAINE-THANKS for all the moral support this week! Love. J. (59) THE WEATHER is cold, but from what we've been told, the Pi Phi's are hot, so show us what you've got. To Tuttle we go, the actives can't show. Duck season is here, so Pi Phi's grab your gear! - DU

LAMBDA CHI Ted Mc. - Happy Birthday! I hope that you enjoy the shaving B & M (59) KES - HAPPY 19th Roomie! Thanks for being my be stest friend all these years! Have a wonderful Bday weekend! Love. L.R. (59) DRH-HAPPY Anniversary (tomorrow)! This year has been the greatest! Hope there will be many more! Love. SRE (59)

TRACE BON (alias David C. Bonham) URAQT, Tknow you are, but what am 1? Happy 23rd Birthday two days early! The Crazy Redhead. (59) KSUFLAG Corps - This season has been real. this is true, and after this Saturday it will all be through

All season long, you have been swell, so one more time, break a leg, give them h———! Lana and Sue KRISTEN-HAPPY Birthday! Hope you have a great day! -Gordon (59) KSU MARCHING Band-From afternoon rehearsals to early morning bus rides, from baseball playoffs to Halloween parties. Thanks for the "memories. TRI SIGMA Pledges - Even though they discovered sneak. I think it turned out really neat. I wish it vould have lasted a week. Sigma love. Kessler. (59)

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED at 925 Thurston. Three blocks from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 537-9727.

MALE ROOMMATE - One block from campus, indi-vidual study desk. $105 plus one-fourth utilities. call 776-0491 (56-60) ROOMMATE WANTED: Non-smoking female, own room, close to campus, nice location. Call 776-

6660 (56-59) NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester—Own bedroom, cable TV. only $137.50, utilities paid. Call

LOOKING FOR non-smoking grad student or out-of-school working male. Clean living habits, be willing to share household tasks equally. Two-bedroom house with washer/dryer, furnished living room and kitchen. Must have own bedro furniture. $175/month plus one-half heat electricity, phone and cable. Located three blocks from campus on Harry St. Phone—532-6567 (9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.), 539-0824 (7:00-11:00 p.m.), ask for

FEMALE TO share nice quiet apartment-Fireplace, dishwasher, own room. Call 776-3070, keep trying. (58-62)NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share one bedroom apartment across from Mariatt Hall on Claffin. Laundry facilities, $113.08 plus one-half utilities. 776-2415. Keep trying. (59-63)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod-

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (111)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equip ment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (4tf)

WORD PROCESSING by computer professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5542 or 776-8337. (51-VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service, Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type

3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter-

quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61) HEE'S ALTERATIONS - Suits, coats, jeans, zippers.

All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Ag gieville, 776-7959 (54-70) TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Computerized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox. Word Services. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (55-59) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processing. Term

Papers, theses, dissertations. Fast and errorless 537-3314, (58-59)

20

23

SUBLEASE TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks

from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270 month plus utilities 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

WANTED 21 NEED 100 overweight people to try new Herbal weight lose products. Teresa, 776-0713 or 776-5114 (58-62)

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270 month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9.45 a.m., Worship 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Ministers. Ben Duerfeldt. 539-8685, Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church—776-8790 alter 9:00 a.m. (59) CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday

School, 9:45 a.m., Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service: 6:00 p.m.: Prayer Service: Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (59)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ. 2510 Dickens. Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes: 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion; 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship. Andy Miller, campus minister, 539-6581 or 537 0127 (59)

First United Methodist Church 612 Poyntz

8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 11:00 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking-Pastor

ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod). Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services. 8:00 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible classes. 9:30 a.m. Fellowship Sunday, 6:00 p.m. (59)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10.45 a.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips. 537-8478 or the church office. 539-3921 (59)

Sundays 9:30 a.m. Danforth Chapel

St. Francis Episcopal

1402 LeGore 5 p.m. 537-0593 for rides

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd., invites you to worship with them Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Worship, and at 9:00 a.m. for the College Sunday School Class at the Ramada

Inn-lower level (59) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors) (59)

First Baptist Church

American Baptist

2121 Blue Hills Rd. "the Church on the hill" SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:55 a.m. CHURCH SCHOOL 9:45 a.m. NURSERY AVAILABLE

For free transportation within city limits, call Bell Taxi, 537-2080

Call for more information about our young adult fellowship

537-3385 Church Office......539-8691 Pastor . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-6494 Campus Minister ..... 539-3051 Preschool . . . . . . . . . . . . 539-8811

WELCOME STUDENTS-First Presbyterian Church 801 Leavenworth offers you Worship Services 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. each Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Sunday School offers college class, 5:30 p.m. each Tuesday College Outreach Bible Study in the Union Rev. Dr. Philip S. Gittings. III. Senior Minister (59)

WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School 9 45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Uni versity Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Dr. Herb Moser and Dr. John Schlup, teachers. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breisford, Pastor, Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424 (59)

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800 Claffin Road (Claffin and Browning). Students well come! Worship 8:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. Evening Service 6:30 p.m. College age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9:45 a.m. at Mr. Steak. For transportation call 776-5440. (59)

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. this semester "The Gospel of John" with Richard Akins teaching Worship, 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service. 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Wel come students to worship service at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Special class for college-age students at 9:40 a.m. Students needing ride call Kevin Blomquist, 539-2321 or Lisa Gast, 537-2568. Bible study at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays.

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church - 6th and Poyntz, Com munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8:00 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427. (59) everyone Sunday 11:00 a.m. (south on K-177, then one-half mile east on Zeandale Road K-18) for Ce cit Miller, KSU professor emeritus discussing "Time Revisited." Child care and Sunday School offered, also transportation, by phoning 537-1817

rossword

ACROSS 36 Actress

8 Pleased 12 Cheering sound 13 Little laugh

1 Ninny

4 Tiff

14 Hindu hero 15 Culture medium 17 Hoss's brother 18 Atlantic group 19 Beach

shade 21 Prohibit 22 Sacrifice sites 26 Nakasone

29 Genetic stuff 30 Weaken 31 Smell (detect trouble) collog. 33 Actress

32 Mothers Theda 34 Tub 35 Cleaning

40 Addition-41 Feudal tenant 45 Distantly 48 "M'A'S'H" star

Irene

37 School of American

painters

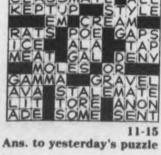

39 The works

50 Computer input 51 Endure 52 Append 53 ERA or RBI

16 Moroccan 54 Bible book Avg. solution time: 29 min, 38 Jeweler's nation aid

20 - carte 23 Immediately. for short - avis

0

3 Former 25 Health Mideast resorts 26 Coffee ruler 4 Witch 27 Parseghian doctor et al. 5 Heathen 28 Walkway

6 "Gotcha!" 29 Hammar 7 Plaids skjold 8 Lee's foe 32 Symbol 9 Youngster of the 10 Dr.'s org. universe 11 Beaver's 33 Light wood work 35 Cam-

Cheryl 45 Blurbs 46 Obese 47 One time

paigned 36 Factories 39 Nautical 42 Bridge coup 43 Egyptian lizard 44 Actress

49 French

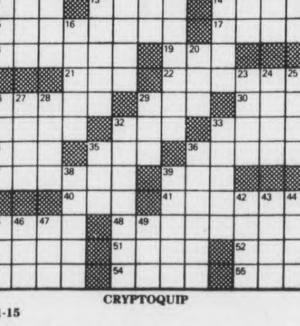

11-15 PWZHD NSKESKLC, KQUWL-LWNNKC WD QWOXHP

TION: TO BE FIRST IN HIS FIELD.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Q equals M

UFZHCKL, FIIOKC NSKKEXNS. Yesterday's Cyptoquip: THE OLD FARMER'S AMBIucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (31-75)

SERVICES

18

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST Fellowship welcomes

Orchestra will perform Regents in McCain Auditorium

By The Collegian Staff

McCain Auditorium Series will present Trio Cassatt Chamber Orchestra at 8 tonight in All Faiths Chapel

The Trio Cassatt was formed in 1980 by violinist Dana Edson, violist Kathleen Mattis and cellist Catherine Lehr, all members of the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Trio Cassatt completed a tour of the East Coast in 1982, performing at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and at the Markin Concert Hall in New York City. A New York Times review said, "The trio plays with unity and cohesion...(and) a palpable vigor." A recent review in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said "the performance was nothing short of perfection.'

The group's name is a reflection of their interest in honoring the arts and women in the arts. Mary Cassatt was a 19th century American Impressionist painter who, in addition to her own work, did much to bring her contemporaries' work into the public eye and to establish American art as a field worthy of critical

Funding for the concert is provided by the Mid-America Arts Alliance, an agency which provides both funding and arts coordination services for a five-state area.

The Trio's program will start with the Trio of Franz Josef Haydn, Op. 53, No. 1. Highlighting the concert will be Beethoven's Trio in G Major. Also included is Trio No. 2 of Paul Hindemith.

Tickets are available at the Mc-Cain Box Office and are $6 for students and $9 for the general

Parents

Continued from Page 1

present "Rambo-Style Survival for Students: The Story behind the Publishing of the Daily Collegian," in Union 213.

A mini-classroom presentation on "Motivation Factors in Our Consuming Society," by R.P. Coleman, professor of marketing, will be in Union 212. Patrick Gormely, associate professor of economics, will present "Economic Impacts of Exchange Rates and Land Grant Universities," in Union 207.

Walking and video tours of campus will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. The tours will originate at the Union.

The football game between the Iowa State University Cyclones and the Wildcats will begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The All-University

Buy, Sell or Trade

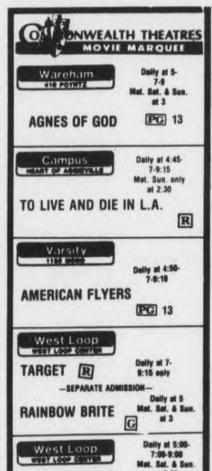

Honorary Parents, Andy and Cynthia Galyardt of Lawrence, will be introduced at halftime of the football game. The Galyardts were nominated by their son Mark Galyardt, senior in industrial engineering.

buffet is $8 for adults and $4 for children under age 12.

Musical entertainment will be plentiful Saturday with the Lee Greenwood concert and a combined concert by the Men's Glee Club, the Women's Glee Club and the K-State Singers. The concert by the glee clubs and the singers will be at 7 p.m. in McCain Auditorium. The Lee Greenwood concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.

"The singers are good ambassadors for K-State and this is a chance for people to see them on campus," Colip said.

THAT WAS THEN

THIS IS NOW

R

CHILI FEED

November 17, 1985 1632 McCain Ln. ATO House 5-8 p.m. $2.50/person

Proceeds go to Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis

Sponsored by Alpha Tau Omega

Continued from Page 1

penciled in $26.98 million for salary and wage increases The regents wanted: $7.2 million to cover utility cost hikes; $5.5 million for medical education and health care program improvements; $3.2 million for academic equipment and computing; $1.4 million for undergraduate instruction; $1.3 million for research and public service; and $1.2 million for library acquisitions and automated catalogu-

The 1985 Legislature approved just a 5.4 percent total budget increase for regents institutions, or $23.6 million. That was about half of the $45.6 million the regents had re-

The new budget allotment rocked the regents office when received Wednesday and Rawson said the nine-member board will discuss it with Shields Friday at its Fiscal Affairs Committee meeting.

"I guess this is bare bones," Rawson said. He did not know if any layoffs or what cutbacks might be required at the state-funded universities under the allotments proposed by Shields.

In 1985, the Legislature approved spending $309.6 million general fund tax dollars on the schools which fall under regent administration. The remainder of the total $465.3 million funding package included $75.7 million from tuition and fees, $72 million generated from hospital revenues and $7 million from federal land grants.

Rawson said the new allotment calls for an actual decrease in general fund spending from the previous year of $9.4 million. The funding cut would be offset by tuition and fee increases of $6.7 million and hospital price increases which are expected to produce an extra $4.9

The only area of the budget where funding is increased is the Other Operating Expense category which would be allowed an average 3 percent increase. It breaks down to a 5 percent increase for library acquisitions and instructional equipment purchases and a 2 percent increase for the purchases of other supplies and equipment.

45 artisians to display work at weekend sale

By The Collegian Staff

A Christmas sale this Saturday will give Manhattan area folk the chance to expose themselves to a variety of artistic mediums.

Forty-five artists and 45 different mediums will be represented from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday at Pottorf Hall in Ci-Co Park. The exhibition is the seventh annual Christmas Art Festival sponsored by the Manhattan Creative Arts Guild.

Artists showing goods from crocheting to cornshuckery, wheat weaving and wooden puzzles will all be there Saturday representing the has showcased nearly 45 artists each year, with works of art available for purchase. The Arts Guild is a nonprofit group of Manhattan artists. Together they represent approximately 118 accumulated years of art show participation.

Other featured art exhibits include metal and wood sculpturing, dough ornaments, cloth dolls, yarn paintings, smocking and wood carving.

various mediums.

For the past six years, the group

REPORTER WANTED

KMAN News needs a reporter. Reliable person with good writing skills desired. Broadcast experience preferred. Person should have a good working knowledge of community and issues. Sports knowledge a "plus". Position will be filled before the end of 1985. EOE employer.

Apply to: Doug Lawrence News Director 2414 Casement Rd. Manhattan, KS 66502

Sunday Night

Pan Fried Chicken and Spaghetti with mashed potatoes, salad bar and veg. just $3.95

RAMADA INN 17th Anderson

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

firms to conduct the eight steps and the distribution of the results to all interested parties.

An amendment proposed by Virgil Wiebe, senior in political science, called for section four to read "These studies should be approved or conducted by independent firms."

Wiebe said he proposed the amendment because he was concerned that some of the studies listed in the bill had already been satisfactorily completed.

"If an independent firm determines these steps have already been taken, there's no reason to do it again," Wiebe said.

Bob Avery, sophomore in electrical engineering, said he was concerned the firms wouldn't actually be "disinterested parties" and would recommend redoing studies in order to get the bid for themselves.

'We must realize these are businessmen, and businessmen are never disinterested," he said.

Brett Bromich, junior in business administration and Student Affairs Committee chairman, supported the amendment, saying it would save senate money if some of the steps need not be done again.

"Just look at what this amendment does," he said. "It saves us some money. Without the amendment, we must do every single study.'

Senate defeated the amendment. After debating the amendments for about an hour, senate moved the question of the main bill, defeating the legislation after about 30 minutes of discussion.

Mark Galyardt, senior in industrial engineering and Finance Committee chairman, opposed the bill, saying senate should look for the "positives" in the coliseum project.

"You can take any project on this campus and look for negatives," he said. "Why not look for the positive aspects of the coliseum rather than the negatives?" Bruce Ney, senior in agricultural journalism, also opposed the legislation, saying it had some problems in workability. "We need to turn out a clean bill," he said. "We need to make our intentions clear.'

Dakin supported the legislation, saving the studies would ensure a quality facility. "As an architecture student, I've learned that the more research you do, the better the design," he said. Senate defeated the bill in a rollcall vote. Senators' votes are as follows: (a Y indicates a yes vote and an N a no vote.)

College of Agriculture: George Heid, N; Steven ohnson, N; Steve Ligon, N; Bruce Ney, N; Kelly Welch, N.

College of Architecture and Design: Tulin Artan, Y; David Dakin, Y; Kent Williams, Y.
College of Arts and Sciences: Lisa Crabtree, N; Kevin Eickmann, N; Dan Fischer, Y; Gretchen Hagen, Y; Mike Riley, N; Sandi Schmidt, N; Lori Shellenberger, Y; Chris Steineger, Y; Lawrence Tsen, Y; Tona Turner, Y; Virgil Wiebe, Y.
College of Business Administration: Brett Bromich, N; Steve Cashman, N; Jim Crutchfield, Y; Debbie Fields, N; Monte Griffin, N; Krista Lindgren, N; Russ Pugh, N; Lori Rock, Y.
College of Education: Lisa Hale, N; Martin Monto, Y; Marcia Muller, N; Becky Yeary, N.
College of Engineering: Bob Avery, N; Eric Ireland, N; Brian Johnson, N; Mark Mathewson, N; Dennis Shields, N; Robert Stuart, Y; Bob Tretter, N, Jeff Vander Laan, N.
Graduate senators: Ben Lange, Y; Marita Peak, Y; Justin Sanders, N; Catherine Sayler, Y.
College of Human Ecology: Lisa Fisher, N; Kerry Jones, Y; Angie Rowland, N.
College of Veterinary Medicine: Bob Larson, N. College of Architecture and Design: Tulin Ar-tan, Y; David Dakin, Y; Kent Williams, Y.

Faculty representative: Caroline Peine, N.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

KENNEDY'S CLAIM

Game Day Buffets

PRIME RIB

Buffet 5-10 p.m.

DRINK SPECIALS Bloody Marys

> & Screwdrivers $1.50

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

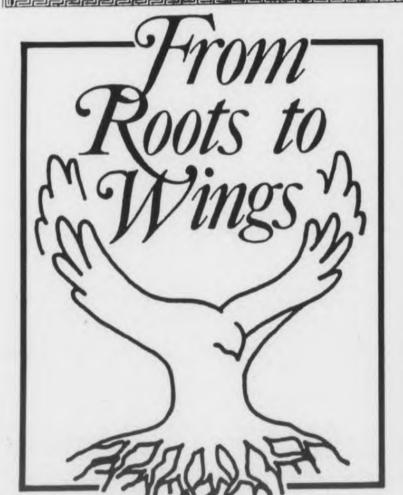

537-8442 Across from the Holidome THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O 30th Annual

KSU Collegiate Rodeo To be at the Kansas State Rodeo Arena

Friday, Nov. 22, 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24, 1 p.m.

Rodeo Dance Friday night at Elks Club: 9:30 p.m.-1:30 a.m. No beer carried in. Setups and beer served inside.

arents'-Weeken

8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Art Display, K-State Union Art Gallery 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., Film, "Ghostbusters," Forum Hall, Union

8:00 p.m., Eclectic Entertainment, Union Catskeller 8:00 p.m., Nichols Theatre, "The Buck Stops Here" 8:00 p.m., Trio Concert, All Faiths Chapel

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16

9:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m., Engineering Reception and Tours, Reception in the Atrium of Durland Hall

Tours of Durland, Scaton, and Ward

9:30 a.m.-Noon. Campus Tours Walking and video tours begin at the Union

9:30 a.m.-11:00 a.m., Arts and Science Scholarship Reception. foyer of McCain Auditorium

10:00 a.m.-10:45 a.m., Mini-Classroom Sessions.

1. "Food and You." Union 206 "Rambo-Style Survival for Students: The story behind the publishing of the daily Collegian." Union 213 3. "Motivation Factors in Our Consuming Society." Union 212

4. "Economic Impacts of Exchange Rates and Land Grant Universities," Union 207

Nichols

11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m., Pre-Game Buffet, Bluemont Room, Umon

1:30 p.m., Football Came KSI'vs. Iowa State University at the football stadium

Halftime, Introduction of the All-University Parents

2:00 p.m., Film, "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Union Little Theatre

5:30 p.m.-7:00 p.m., Parents' Weekend Buffer, Union Ballroom,

7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., "Chostbusters," Union Forum Hall

8:00 p.m., "The Buck Stops Here," Nichols Theatre

8:00 p.m., "Lee Greenwood Concert, Ahearn Field House

8:00 p.m., Singers and Glee Concert, McCain Auditorium SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 17

2:00 p.m., Human Ecology Sholarship Reception, Union Ballroom.

Kansas State

Monday

November 16, 1985

NOV 1 8 1985

Volume 92, Number 60

State budget chief backs funding cuts for regents system

By JILL HUMMELS Staff Writer

Kansas State University

TOPEKA - The financial crunch facing the state's universities won't be as severe as that suffered in fiscal year 1983, State Budget Director Alden Shields said Friday during a presentation to the Board of Regents.

Shields appeared before the regents to detail Gov. John Carlin's proposed budget recommendation for fiscal year 1987 and explain the reasoning behind Carlin's denial of the regents' request to increase spending by $47.4 million.

But despite Shields' calming words, he painted a gloomy financial picture for the seven regents institu-

The regents administer and set policy for the University of Kansas, Wichita State University, Pittsburg State University, Emporia State University, Fort Hays State University, Kansas Technical Institute in

'We will seek to take all rabbits left, but I can assure you there aren't any big ones," he said of possible financial opportunities. "The problem months are in the spring. This could work itself out. But there's no margin for error. We might take certificates of indebtedness.

The budget director's recommendations for cuts are based on anticipated changes in economic indexes for calendar year 1986. Those expected changes include a decrease in personal income; a lower inflation rate - which will decrease the amount of revenue generated through the sales tax; an increase in unemployment; and a slump in creation of new jobs, Shields said.

While the budget recommendation amounts to a .4 percent increase in total general-use funds, it also calls for a spending decrease of $9.4 million in general-use funds for the regents system.

See REGENTS, Page 10

Refunding student debt generates $3.8 million

By TIM CARPENTER Editor

TOPEKA - A unanimous decision Friday by the Board of Regents will permit the University to "advance refund" all outstanding studentsupported debt and free $3.8 million for campus projects.

At the monthly regents meeting K-State officials requested authorization to refinance all existing student debt to take advantage of an Internal Revenue Service regulation.

The regulation, which could be eliminated Jan. 1 if President Reagan's tax proposal is approved, permits the University to pursue a money-saving bonding procedure. George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, said Friday he believes the refunding which could result in studentsupported debt being paid off 6 years early - will free approximately $3.8 million for other uses.

The advance refunding involves $4.2 million in outstanding studentsupported debt from bond issues for Union Annex I and II, KSU Stadium and the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex, Miller said.

Of the $3.8 million made available by the refunding, the regents agreed to apply $2.8 million to the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum. This decision will reduce the amount of money the University must borrow for the coliseum project to about $2 million.

Of the remaining $1 million, $300,000 is to be placed in the Repair and Replacement Fund for the Union, stadium and rec complex and $700,000 will be put in a special account for campus projects.

Student Senate will determine, to a large extent, where the $700,000 in the special fund is used.

Potential uses for the $700,000 are currently under review by the Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Com-

See REFUNDING, Page 10

to a crowd gathered in the atrium of Nichols Hall Saturday during the after a fire destroyed the interior of the building Dec. 13, 1968.

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

President Duane Acker, lower right, speaks from a second floor platform Renewal Celebration for the building. The hall was officially rededicated

Rededication concludes 17-year saga

By J. SCOTT HOLT Collegian Reporter

An "important symbol of issue resolution" was rededicated Saturday - Nichols Hall.

President Duane Acker dedicated Nichols Hall to the heritage of a great University, to the students, to the disciplines and users of Nichols as a symbol of issue resolution.

The rededication ceremony was held in conjunction with Parents' Day. A packed house witnessed the ceremony in Nichols' atrium. Speakers were Norma D. Bunton, retired head of the Department of Speech; Lawrence Jones, chairman of the Board of Regents; Steve Brown, student body president and junior in pre-veterinary medicine; Warren Corman, director of facilites for the regents; Greg Musil, member of Castle Crusade and University alumnus; and Acker

The Men's Glee Club, directed by Gerald Polich, associate professor of music, also performed several

This building is a symbol of excellence," Jones said. "It is also a symbol of the excellence of K-State.'

Musil, who was active in the Castle Crusade movement of the mid-1970s, said generations have admired Nichols Hall.

"The (rededication) would not be here today without student pride and passion over the last few years," Musil said.

Corman attributed the saving of Nichols to efforts of the University swimming coach in 1968.

See NICHOLS, Page 2

Colombia to rebuild rural town

By The Associated Press

ARMERO, Colombia - The local government vowed Sunday to rebuild the Andean farming town of Armero, destroyed when a volcanic eruption set off a gigantic mudslide that buried Armero and killed more than 21,000 people.

'What we don't know is where we will erect the new Armero," said Eduardo Alzate, governor of the Tolima province.

In an interview with RCN radio in Lerida, a nearby town where survivors were receiving aid, Alzate said new locations would have to be discussed with Armero's survivors and the area's farmers, because Armero was an important marketing

Health Minister Rafael Zubiria said Saturday night that Armero would be made into a cemetery, because it was not possible to recover the thousands of bodies.

The town was covered by a 15-footdeep river of mud that swept down the Nevado del Ruiz volcano early Thursday. The volcano eruption melted an ice cap, overflowing a

The Health Ministry said at least 21,559 persons were dead or missing in Armero and other towns in the valley, another 19,185 were homeless

See VOLCANO, Page 5

Stepping Out

K-State All-University Honorary parents Andy and Cynthia Galyardt of Lawrence ham it up during the presentation at Saturday's game.

Weinberger gives Reagan advice

Letter could damage summit

By The Associated Press

GENEVA - Sooner or later, President Reagan's inner-circle arms control dispute was bound to explode in public; it finally did, at the most embarrassing possible moment damaging the united front Reagan hoped to take with him when he sits across the table from Mikhail Gor-

The episode began on the eve of Reagan's trip to Geneva when a letter from Defense Secretary Caspar

Weinberger was leaked, before Reagan himself could even read it. Reagan's spokesperson said he thought Weinberger, or one of his aides, did the leaking.

The leak came as administration moderates seemed to be gaining the upper hand or arms control. The letter amounted to a high-risk appeal from a key Cabinet officer for Reagan to reverse decisions already made.

Administration officials said the letter and the leak would not be damaging to the summit, however. Spokesperson Larry Speakes said: "I'd be willing to put five bucks right here that General Secretary Gorbachev will not say a word about the Weinberger letter. Whether he does or doesn't, the evidence of an American split on arms control policy could hamper Reagan in talks with Gorbachev. While the administration has sought to cover up its differences, the

See LETTER, Page 3

Traffic boards struggle with cases

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

More than 22 percent of all student parking ticket appeals and 27 percent of faculty appeals have been approved by separate appeals boards since the beginning of the fall semester.

Charles Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department, said there are currently three boards working on ticket appeals. Due to a backlog in June of about 700 appeals, there are two student appeals boards.

One board, Beckom said, is still processing old appeals.

Beckom said figures of 48 percent approval of faculty/staff ticket appeals and 33 percent approval of student ticket appeals during 1984 may be misinterpreted.

"Those figures are somewhat misleading," he said. "Some of those appeals are backlogged...six to seven months.'

From January to October 1985, the student appeals board heard 1,615 student ticket appeals. Of those, the board approved 30 percent. There are more than 200 outstanding appeals yet to be heard by the student

During the same time period, the faculty/staff board heard 277 appeals and approved 25 percent.

Beckom said the campus police do not judge the appeals because they don't want to both give the tickets and decide whether the ticket was warranted. "We don't want to be judge and jury; that's why we have the appeals boards," Beckom said. "We try to have an ex-officio member (of campus police) at the appeals board meetings or someone they can contact to answer their questions and get feedback."

During 1984, 6.4 percent of faculty/staff tickets and 3 percent of student tickets were rescinded by the campus police.

Beckom said tickets are rescinded because the data is incorrect or there is an obvious error such as wrong time or parking lot location.

Beckom said the reason there seems to be a lot of appeals is because the boards often let feelings enter their judgment.

See APPEALS, Page 10

Inside

Country singer Lee Greenwood performed in Ahearn Field House Saturday night for Parents' Day. See Page 8.

Cloudy today with a 40 percent for showers chance thunderstorms, high in upper 50s to lower 60s. Wind south 10 to 20 mph.

Sports

The K-State football team lost its ninth game of the season to Iowa State 21-14. See Page 7.

INTERNATIONAL

Preacher against Thatcher decision

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Protestant preacher the Rev. Ian Paisley said in his weekly worship service Sunday that Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher should go "to the devil" for signing a pact with the Irish Republic.

Thatcher, in a London television interview, promised Sunday to carry the accord "resolutely through" despite outrage from militants such as Paisley among the troubled British province's two-thirds Protestant majority.

The Dublin and London governments signed the Anglo-Irish agreement Friday. It grants the Irish government a formal say in the governing of Northern Ireland for the first time since Ireland was partitioned into a republic and a British-ruled northern province in 1921.

The Protestants fear Britain will eventually hand over the province for union with the 95 percent Roman Catholic Republic of Ireland.

"We shall not be enslaved to tyranny, popery," Paisley said. "We are free people and for freedom we shall contend and if need be, lay down our lives."

Paisley and his political associates say they will resign their 15 seats in the British Parliament if the accord is approved, thus forcing elections as a form of referendum on it.

Rajneesh denounces United States

NEW DELHI, India — Guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, whose prosecution on U.S. immigration fraud charges was described by a disciple as "divine play," denounced the United States on Sunday, complained of bad treatment there, and said he was "finished with the whole world."

The 53-year-old guru, in his first news conference since he was arrested Oct. 28 in North Carolina in an immigration scandal, said the world must "put the monster America in its place."

He said that during his 12 days in jail, he was tortured and "treated as a very dangerous criminal." He said that though he pleaded guilty, he was not.

Rajneesh arrived in New Delhi early Sunday with eight aides aboard a private chartered jet from Bahrain, ending a journey that began Friday in Portland, Ore., and took him to Pennsylvania, Ireland and Cyprus.

He said U.S. authorities ignored his physicians' warnings that he had an acute back problem, suffered diabetes and had numerous allergies. He said he was forced to sit all night on a steel bench, denied a special diabetic's diet, not permitted his non-allergenic blanket and deliberately exposed to smoke, perfumes, dirt, dust and cockroaches.

PEOPLE

Entertainer relays show via Hawaii

HONOLULU — Storyteller and broadcast personality Garrison Keillor gave his "A Prairie Home Companion" audience a taste of Hawaii, beaming his radio program live from a concert facility next to Waikiki Beach.

Keillor's program is heard by millions over the American Public Radio network.

To open Saturday's show, Keillor and the band played the familiar Hank Snow song "Hello Love," but with some special lyrics:

"Well look who's comin' across the sand, I believe it's a Hawaiian band.

Hello love."

A number of Hawaiian performers were in the cast Saturday

Senator pursues thief of sable coat

PHILADELPHIA — U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter ran from a theater and flagged down police when someone snatched his wife's $4,000 sable-lined raincoat as they watched a movie.

Specter, R-Pa., and his wife Joan, a Philadelphia city councilwoman, were watching "Agnes of God" at a theater on fashionable Rittenhouse Square Friday night when the Yves St. Laurent coat was stolen from a seat next to Specter, police said.

They were alerted to the theft when a man who had been sitting nearby asked them, "Are you missing anything?" The man said he had seen someone sitting behind them reach over the seat, take the coat and walk out with it draped over his arm.

The witness and Specter rushed out of the theater to try to find the thief, but could not.

NATIONAL

'Sad' intentions not tearful event

CALABASAS, Calif. — This is a sad story.

It's about the "Sad Story Night" promotion at Michael

It's about the "Sad Story Night" promotion at Michael Smith's restaurant — and about the sad results.

Smith, a 43-year-old former producer of horror movies, hoped the gimmick would fill the place with pathos, and a crowd of maybe 200. Well, three contestants showed up Saturday. And the audience wasn't much bigger, even though it included three people hired by Smith to weep on cue.

Talk about sad: Two of the three stories were about dying puppies, and the winner admitted lifting her tale from a library book.

John H. Craig, who sat through the contest at Baby Huey's Eatin' Place, said he hears sadder stories day in and day out. He's a bankruptcy judge.

Unemployed workers making pay

PITTSBURGH — It was a crafts fair with a difference: unemployed workers handy with a crochet hook or a jigsaw setting out their wares and taking in enough money to help pay their bills. "It's been a godsend, this show," Danny Hoover, 37, said as she

"It's been a godsend, this show," Danny Hoover, 37, said as she stood behind a long table covered with stained glass ornaments, windows and lamps.

Hoover's display was one of 75 jammed into a banquet hall at Pittsburgh's Soldiers & Sailors Memorial Hall on Saturay. The fair, which continued Sunday, featured the handiwork of the area's unemployed, who received the space at no cost.

Hoover and her husband Richard, 33, a disabled foundry worker, sold about $200 worth of merchandise in less than six hours. The couple figured the money would help cover their glassmaking expenses and possibly September's rent.

A few tables away, Marie Stankowski put her sales at more than $150. Her husband Edward, an unemployed steelworker, had made dozens of wooden animals, pencil holders and knickknack shelves. "Some people are leery of giveaways like free turkeys or things

"Some people are leery of giveaways like free turkeys or things from the food bank. Sometimes, people are too proud," said Stankowski, 49. "You're less embarrassed to sell your handicrafts or wares."

REGIONAL

Police charge youth in car accident

MISSION — A 14-year-old youth faced traffic charges after a weekend accident left a 14-year-old companion dead, police said. Daniel Earl Villanueva died Friday night when the car he was riding in careened across a lawn at 60 mph and crashed into a tree in a Kansas City suburb, said Mission police Lt. Larry Tolman.

The driver of the car, whose name was not released because of his age, was hospitalized with serious injuries following the crash about 11:20 p.m. Friday.

The driver was charged Saturday with driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

Tolman said the two boys had apparently been riding with two teen-aged girls when the girls got out of the car to find a restroom. The two boys then drove off in the car, which was owned by the family of one of the girls.

Witnesses reported seeing the car weaving and fishtailing as it traveled at a high rate of speed, Tolman said.

Bush cautions about Geneva talks

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Vice President George Bush said Sunday that Americans should not have unrealistic hopes for major agreements this week between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at the Geneva summit.

Bush also said Republicans would benefit from a strong economy if the election were held today.

Bush, on what he described to a political trip to Springfield, was to attend a fundraiser for the Missouri Republican Party Sunday night. On Monday, he was scheduled to travel to the Hickory Hills school in Springfield to meet with school children and then to fly to St. Louis for other Republican meetings.

At a news conference, Bush said hopes may be raised too high for the American-Soviet summit in Geneva. He said, however, it was important just that the two world leaders met each other face-to-face and could discuss issues.

PIZZA PIZZA FREE DELIVERY

We honor any local pizza coupons.
One coupon per order.

K-State Marketing Club Presents

"Career Paths"
Union Big 8 Room
Tonight at 7 p.m.
All Majors Welcome

NOW OPEN COUTON CLUB

PIZZERIA

HP's BAR

Take a step back in time to the 1920's in Manhattan's newest most unique bar and dining facility.

"We put the fun back into dining."
(10% Student dinner discount with ID)
418 Poyntz in the Wareham Bldg.

CLOSED CLASSES

C1550 28170 37360 C7360 C1550 28400 37390 08370	31160
	31230
02680 28470 37480 C8470
62570 28490 37510 C9300	31330
03580 28520 37520 09340	31540
03990 28500 11010	32380
04000 28070 11330	33300
C4C10 2c7c3 16470	33370
C4C30 28710 16540	33530
C4040 28720 16550	33540
C4C50 28730 17350	33670
· C4C60 28740 17360	33710
C4C70 26750 20340	33820
C4090 26750 22350	34420
C4100 28770 24320	34900
C4120 28780 25470	35540
C4150 28790 26C30	35960
C4199 28300 26C90	35970
04250 28810 26110	36070
C4290 28820 26120	36800
04300 28030 26310	37010
04320 28840 26376	37030
C4350 28990 26450	37160
04360 30410 26510	37220
05460 30500 26630	37240

These are sections that have been closed by departments prior to the start of enrollment.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT offers computerized planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARDS APPLICATIONS are available in Ackert 233 and are due Dec. 1

TODAY

ALPHA PHI OMEGA will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

FENIX will have a forum at 10 a.m. in Holton Room 10.

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213.

MORTAR BOARD will meet at 9 p.m. in Justin lobby. FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union Cottonwood Room.

MARKETING CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212. BUSINESS COUNCIL will meet at 4 p.m. in STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS will meet at 6 p.m. in the SGS Office.

PRE-LAW CLUB officers will meet at 7 p.m. in Denison 218 A general meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m.

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 9 p.m. at the Theta Xi house.

and pianos," Corman said. "All the architects got together and decided that the burned-out shell of Nichols was a safety hazard and were going to bulldoze the structure. But the swimming coach wanted to save the pools in the basement until the Corman said there were many problems with rebuilding the structure.

natatorium was finished.'

539-4321

ALPHA ZETA will meet and take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Call 302.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.

ADVERTISING CLUB will take yearbook pictures at 8:15 p.m. in Calvin 102.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE PEARLS AND RUBIES will meet at 8:30 p.m. at the FarmHouse fraternity

ECON CLUB will meet for final elections at 4:30 p m. in Waters 329.

TUESDAY

FREE HEARING TESTS for students will be available from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Leasure 107. GERMAN TABLE will meet at 12:30 p.m. in

ARTS AND SCIENCES AMBASSADORS will meet at 9 p.m. in the basement of Dark Horse.

BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Union 205.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS will take yearbook pictures at 7:15 p.m. in Calvin 102.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapei. COLLEGE REPUBLICANS will meet at 7 p.m.

SPURS will meet at 9 p.m. in 1

SPURS will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

TAU BETA PI will meet and take yearbook pictures at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL will take yearbook pictures at 8.45 p.m. in Calvin 102.

hols of those who were here before and here today," he said.

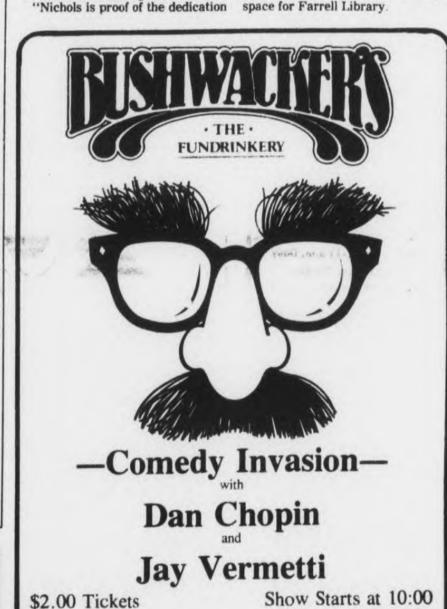

Continued from Page 1

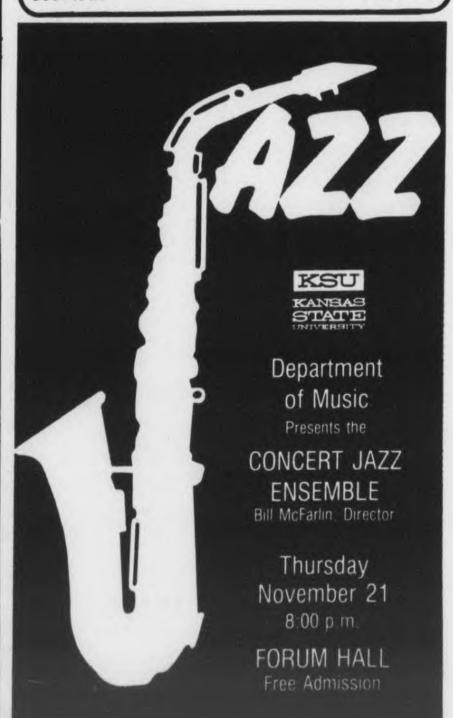

"I can remember melted tubas here today," he said.
Nichols Gymnasium, as the structure was originally named, was built in 1910. It was named after Ernest R.
Nichols, president of Kansas State

Nichols, president of Kansas State Agricultural College from 1899 to 1909. The building was gutted by fire Dec. 13, 1968. Renovation of Nichols began in 1983 after years of conflict concerning its future. Renovation of the structure cost $5.58 million. Nichols now houses the Department of Speech and the Department of Computer Science, as well as storage space for Farrell Library.

539-9727

Reagan downplays arms policy dispute Letter

By The Associated Press

GENEVA - President Reagan, inspecting summit sites Sunday as he prepared to meet his Kremlin counterpart, sought to brush aside evidence of administration discord on arms policy, but the Soviets turned up the heat and described the episode as an attempt "to torpedo the arms control process."

Reagan's spokesperson, Larry Speakes, said, "We are not changing our views one whit" as a result of the leak of the "Weinberger letter."

In the letter, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who was left off the U.S. summit delegation, warned Reagan against agreeing to several arms positions when he meets Tuesday and Wednesday with Mikhail Gorbachev.

The Soviet leader arrives today, but he was well represented, telling reporters the summit will be a "trialby-fire" test of Reagan's commitment to arms control, and denouncing in advance the arms policies Reagan brings with him to the sum-

A key member of the American delegation, insisting on anonymity, said he thought the summit would U.S.-Soviet produce some agreements. He said odds that they would agree to hold periodic summit meetings, were "more than 50 percent." And he said, it was "highly likely" that the summit would produce an agreement for the two superpowers to guard against proliferation of nuclear weapons to other countries.

National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane, part of the administration blitz on the Sunday TV talk shows, said "if we try hard," there might be agreements on cultural exchanges, opening new Soviet and American consular offices and the resumption of air service between the two countries.

McFarlane, on NBC's "Meet the Press," sought to erase the picture of internal discord painted by the Weinberger letter, and said the administration stands as one on the key

Weinberger, an outspoken hardliner who is represented by two subordinates in the U.S. summit delegation, advised the president to oppose any joint commitment to continue observance of the unratified 1979 Salt II treaty and to oppose any interpretation of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) treaty that would restrict testing of the president "Star Wars" defense program.

Speakes told reporters Reagan had no intention of making any decisions about a SALT II extension until the issue can be taken up next month after Reagan hears the views of Weinberger, Secretary of State George Shultz and others.

McFarlane called the letter leak 'unfortunate" and told hundreds of reporters at the International Press Center here that Weinberger feels the same way and "is taking steps to find out how it occurred.'

Administration officials were apparently hoping the Soviets would not take the matter seriously, and Speakes told reporters, "I'd be willing to put five bucks right here that General Secretary Gorbachev will not say a word about the Weinberger letter.

But Soviet official Georgy Arbatov, briefing reporters here Sunday, was quick to discuss the subject,

After working for Aluminum Co. of America, he returned to the University of Pittsburgh as a civil engineering instructor in 1961. He became PU's assistant professor of civil engineering in 1965, head of engineering technology in 1971 and director of engineering technology programs at Indiana State Universi-

Polytechnic University at Pomona

as chairperson of the Department of Engineering Technology and then became associate dean of engineering in 1982 and acting dean of engineering in 1983. He became pro-

YOU

Can Be An

Air Force Officer

532-6600

vost at Wentworth in July 1984.

KSU-AFROTC

In 1981, he went to California State ty, Terre Haute, Ind., in 1974.

University, Pittsburgh.

describing the Weinberger letter as "a direct attempt to torpedo the arms control process" and saying it exposed a struggle between administration moderates and conser-

At a news conference, he said the Soviets would like to believe Reagan is committed to arms control, adding, "In the next two days we will see, in fact this will be a case of trial by fire. We'll see just how serious those words are before the whole

The president, walking from the 18th-century Maison de Saussure where he is staying to a meeting with top advisers, was asked if he thought someone was trying to sabotage the summit by leaking the letter.

"No," the president replied firmly. As to whether he would fire Weinberger, Reagan said, "You want a two-word answer or one?" When a reporter said, "Two," the president replied, "Hell, no."

They drove from there to the grander Villa Fleur d'Eau, where the Americans play host to the Soviet delegation for the first day of the talks.

White House spokesperson Mark Weinberg said the president took a seat in the large, comfortable chair where he will sit for a get-acquainted tete-a-tete with Gorbachev to open the session Tuesday morning, and Nancy Reagan sat down in the chair reserved for the Soviet chieftain.

"Well, you're much prettier than I expected," the president's spokesperson quoted Reagan as say-

Continued from Page 1

Weinberger letter again spotlights Reagan's difficulties in achieving unity among his own aides.

Soviet officials may well wonder now whether there is anyone with enough authority to negotiate on behalf of the administration. And although Reagan dismissed suggestions that the leak was an effort to sabotage the summit (after a top aide said precisely that), a senior official acknowledged that the letter "is something that can be exploited" by the Soviets.

Weinberger said Reagan, in Geneva, should not agree to an extention of compliance with the SALT II treaty; should not agree to an interpretation of the Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty that inhibits "Star Wars" testing, and should not sign a joint communique on arms goals with Gorbachev.

Weinberger, an opponent of the kind of arms control strategy that some others in the administration favor, was pushed off the official summit delegation, and some observers believe there may have been an element of retaliation in the motive of whoever leaked the letter.

The letter, and the leak, clearly were an effort to block the kind of compromise that some other ad-

DRAFT BEERS

<sup>8</sup>2<sup>25</sup> PITCHERS

85¢ BOTTLED DOMESTIC BEER

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR

AROUND THE WORLD

BEER CLUB?

1213 MORO, AGGIEVILLE

visers hoped would take shape here, and to do it before the issue ever got

The Soviets were quick to take ad-

Georgy Arbatov, a chief Kremlin adviser on American affairs, said of the Weinberger letter, "If it is true what he is saying, it is a direct attempt to torpedo the arms control

At a press conference Sunday, Ar-batov said the letter confirms Soviet suspicions that the administration is 'trying to disrupt the whole struc-

Robert C. McFarlane, the President's national security adviser, said

Sunday that the leak of the letter shouldn't be damaging, but said it will be investigated to see how it occurred. But he also said that Weinberger was only carrying out to the negotiating table.

ture" of arms control.

process."

JUMP FOR JOY TINTED EXTENDED WEAR

soft contact lenses are now available along with:

- *Tinted Daily Wear (To accent or change the color of your eyes)
- *Extended Wear Clear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism)
- *Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- *Regular type (for near- and far-sightedness)
- ★Toric (for Astigmatism) ★Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Replacement Lenses

& Solutions in Stock PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK

DR. BRIAN J. HORSCH Practice of Optometry

Local 776-9461 Toll free 1-800-432-0036 (KS) Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt

Board appoints new KTI president

ington, Pa., said the school's goal of 2,000 students by the year 2000 may

"We've got to go out and develop a very positive image, build strong ties to the community and develop liaison committees to carry the message,"

As provost of Wentworth College,

Tilmans acted as vice president for academic affairs and acting president in the president's absence. He was also responsible for the institute's facilities and curriculum.

Tilmans received his bachelor's degree in 1958 and his master's degree in 1960, both from the University of Pittsburgh, and his doctorate in 1968 from Carnegie-Mellon

*gynecology

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

*free pregnancy tests

*outpatient abortion services

*alternatives counseling

be unrealistic.

comprehensive

By TIM CARPENTER Editor

The Board of Regents concluded its search for a president for Kansas Technical Institute in Salina by voting unanimously Thursday to hire Anthony Tilmans, current provost at Wentworth College of Technology in Boston.

At the regents meeting Friday, Tilmans told the nine-member board he is "very excited" about the prospect of becoming KTI's president Jan. 1 and said he believes KTI "has a tremendous future.'

Tilmans, 50, said his primary goal is to improve the image of the Salina school and enhance the institute's recruitment efforts to bring enrollment to "1,000 or 1,200 in a few years." Seven hundred students are currently enrolled at the school.

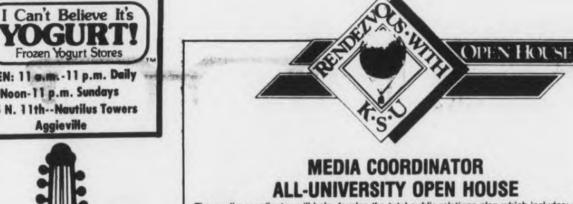

Tilmans, a native of New Kens-

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!! I Can't Believe It's

OPEN: 11 mm. -11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers

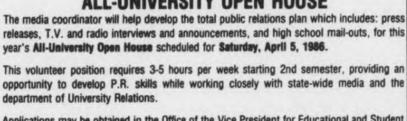

THE HUNGARIAN STATE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

One matinee performance only: Sunday, November 24, 3:00 p.m.

Tickets and information: (913) 532-6428 Kansas State University. Manhattan, Kansas 66506 MasterCard/Visa accepted.

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment

Applications may be obtained in the Office of the Vice President for Educational and Student Services, Rm. 122, Anderson Hall. Questions may be directed to Dave Krug, Student Coordinator at 532-6237 or 537-7498.

APPLICATION DUE FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22 In ANDERSON 122.

BEGIN YOUR FUTURE AS AN OFFICER.

Many college courses prepare you for a job in management. Sooner or later. But successfully completing Army ROTC will place you in a management job right after graduation.

It's definitely not a trainee job. You could be accountable for millions of dollars worth of equipment. And responsible for many of the Army's top technicians.

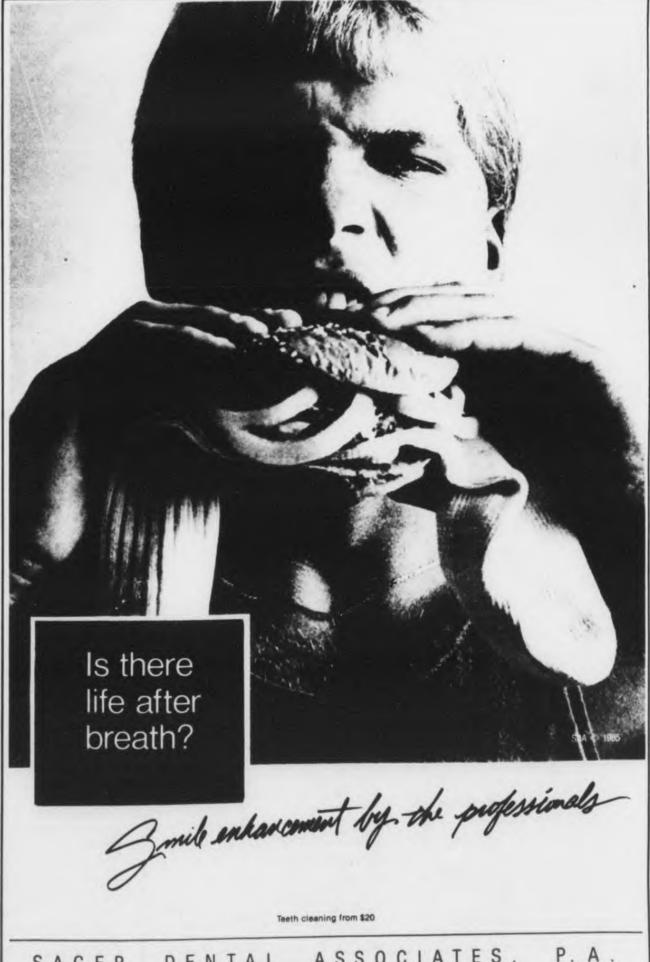

You might find yourself supervising a staff of computer programmers in Heidelberg. Missile tech-nicians in Korea. Or satellite trackers in Samoa.

To qualify, you take a few hours of ROTC classes weekly, along with the subjects in your major. You'll receive financial assistance $100a month, up to $1000 year - in your last two years. And you might even qualify for a scholarship.

For more information on what could be the most important planning decision you'll ever make, see your Professor of Military Science. Or write to: Army ROTC, P.O. Box 9000, Department G-D, Clifton, New Jersey 07015.

For more information, call MAJ Krimmer, Army ROTC, 532-6754.

DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A. SAGER 514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-8823

Summit to offer exchange

Tuesday marks the beginning of what President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed a "mission for peace."

In his first meeting with a Soviet leader, the president said he would propose "the broadest people-to-people exchanges in the history of American-Soviet relations."

But individuals seeing the summit as a substantial move regarding Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative may be disappointed by those pre-summit remarks.

In his Thursday night television address, Reagan held out little hope for progress on arms control and reduced the importance of any "short-term agreements" during the two-day summit.

The summit's focus has been shifted toward cultural exchanges, which were suspended in 1979 following the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

With the hype regarding "Star Wars," the premature discounting of disarmament talks may result in any tangible action being anticlimactic, but still useful.

'I am convinced that American-Soviet relations need a fresh start...," Reagan said after arriving in Geneva.

While the world may not see historic resolutions coming from the meetings, at this point any dialogue is worth initiating - and continuing.

Tom Schultes, for the editoral board

Appeals need justification

trouble for themselves and other students than the benefits they may receive.

As of June, the Student Traffic Appeals Board had more than 700 traffic appeals backlogged. In an attempt to update the appeals, a second board was created to deal with traffic appeals.

The number of parking tickets appealed by students is preposterous. No doubt many students escape paying parking fines by appealing tickets with one excuse or another. After all, an excuse can be found for any mistake someone makes; just ask professors about students who skip class.

Those who park in restricted zones must be prepared to pay for their tickets, no matter the ex-

Other statistics which come to

Students who disobey campus light are the number of parking rules are creating more faculty/staff appeals approved as compared to the number of > misleading because student appeals cover six to seven months of tickets, said Charles Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department. However, fewer student appeals may be approved because fewer student appeals

> Also, faculty members tend to present their cases more clearly and support their reasons for appealing more effectively. If students would act with a sense of responsibility when appealing, the rate of approval would increase.

> > for the editorial board

student appeals approved. Faculty/staff receive 48 percent approval and students receive 33 percent approval. These figures may be deserve it.

Lillian Zier,

Religion key to problems

won't work. There is a fundamental reason why Ireland will be to come: religion.

There is no reason to fear a self-run Irish state within the United Kingdom because "the Irish are too ignorant to govern themselves." That is a stereotype long discredited, but the tradition of annihilating one's comrades over matters of faith lingers.

Knowledge of the situation in Northern Ireland is scant. Many people, listening to nightly news with half an ear, believe Britain joined. is there as an invader. This misconception leads to bloody,

Tim Carpenter PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jeff Tuttle

MANAGING EDITORS

CHIEF COPY EDITOR

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR

Todd Nighswonger ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

A. Scharnborst

COPY EDITORS

Patty Reinert

Lillian Zier

Jeri Heidrick SPORTS EDITOR

FEATURES EDITOR

Becky Wiley BUSINESS EDITOR

REVIEWERS

Ben Pease

COLUMNISTS

Rich Harris

Tom Perrin

STAFF WRITERS

LeAnne Stowe

Gary Johnson Lisa Boothe

Tim Fitzgerald

GOVERNMENT EDITOR

Vicki Reynolds AGRICULTURE EDITOR

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

CAMPUS EDITORS

Kansas State

The decision to allow Ireland a tragic feuds. The truth of the say in the affairs of Northern matter is the British want only to Ireland is well intentioned, but keep Catholics and Protestants from killing each other.

There can not be a united unable to govern itself for years Ireland until religious differences are put to rest, and the odds against that are huge. It is a noble experiment, but doomed. A united Ireland holds immense potential for the United Kingdom. But until religion becomes a less volatile issue, a united Ireland spells economic and social disaster.

It is important to resolve issues that divide, rather than devising new plans to unite what cannot be

> Rich Harris, for the editorial board

> > Monday

GRAPHIC ARTISTS

EDITORIAL BOARD

Lillian Zier

Tom Schultes Rich Harris

Laurie Fairburn LeAnne Stowe

Mark McDermet

Pattie Shipper Bob Scheibler

ADVERTISING MANAGER

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Lori Wong CO-OP ADVERTISING MANAGER

ADVERTISING GRAPHIC ARTISTS

NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

Connie Nelson
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER

ADVERTISING DIRECTOR

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Darren McChesney Trish Malone

Trish Malone Eric McClust

Brett Lamb

Laura Acevedo
Becky Boyd
STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
Andy Nelson Jim Di
John Sleezer Peter (

Zionism prevents freedom of Palestinians

Several letters concerning Palestinian issues have been printed recently, and judging from the contents of some letters, there is general ignorance regarding Palestine and its people, especially the relationship between Palestine and Israel. A short history of this relationship will hopefully enlighten writers and readers alike and help to ensure future letters will at least reflect more informed opinions regarding this issue.

It is almost impossible to condense a tragedy of a whole people into a few paragraphs. It was in 1897 that the first attempts at creating a Zionist state within Palestine were made. Prior to this time, many European Jews had migrated and settled in Palestine and were welcomed by the Palestinians due to their strong reverence for "hospitality" which largely stems from Islamic influences upon their culture. After settling in Palestine, those Jews who professed Zionistic beliefs began to move to establish their own state by force within Palestine and to evict all non-Jews.

Zionism should not be confused with Judaism for it is not a religion, but rather it is a racist ideology that proclaims the superiority of Zionists over all other human beings on the earth. Jews and Moslems have been living peacefully side by side for thousands of years. In fact, Jews have enjoyed rights within Islamic states and throughout history.

The two groups have experienced an ample amount of literary and cultural exchange. Many Jewish scholars have translated Islamic philosophy from Arabic into Hebrew and several Moslem scholars have translated ancient Greek philosophy from Hebrew into Arabic. This communication has had mutual effects upon the art and social status of both.

Jews have been living in societies in peace, and throughout history there has never been a massacre of Jews by Moslems within an Islamic society. When the Zionists with their racist ideology became powerful, the ALIREZA RAHIMI massacre of Moslems began and peace was shattered. With the destruction of Zionism, peace can be restored and Jews and Moslems can once again share the same

Guest Columnist

In 1946, Zionists killed thousands of Palestinians and evicted many more from their lands. By 1947, with the assistance of the British government and the United Nations, Zionist forces had succeeded in breaking down and destroying the nation of Palestine and renaming it Israel.

As Palestinians were facing forced eviction from their homes, Jews from all over the world began to pour into Palestine (Israel). By 1951, their numbers in "occupied" Palestine reached 1,337,000. During these years, the Palestinians were massacred or forced to leave their homes and possessions behind to seek refuge wherever they could find it. They were forced out of a country where their ancestors lived for thousands of years. Their families were separated and scattered from one another or in many cases simply buried next to each other. This is a brief account of the tragedy of the Palestinian people and the birth of a synthetic country - Israel.

The existence of Israel poses a direct threat to Palestine. The history of infringment upon Palestinian rights by the very creation of Israel will always stand as evidence that there can never be a lasting peace within this land. There will always be a contradiction between the two since Israel is the result of the forced occupation of Palestine.

The only solution for the Palestinians is to return to their homeland and to revive the identity of occupied Palestine. It is the right of Palestinians to struggle to recover their homeland and their children's future which has been taken away by the Zionists.

The question here is not whether Palestinians have the right to exist. This is like asking whether or not human beings should breathe. The answer is obvious even to those who continue to deny the existence of Palestine as a nation. The question we must answer is how can the identity of occupied Palestine be revived and who is responsible for reviving it?

Some insist it is the responsibility of the Arab states. This is a false assumption because the leaders of these states are mere puppets of the superpowers and cannot act independently. Because the existence of Israel is advantageous to the superpowers, both politically and economically, and serves their interests, these Arab kings or rulers cannot effectively participate in this vital

Many Palestinians have been killed by these leaders whose governments are encouraged by the superpowers to maintain a relationship with Israel. As an example, King Hussein of Jordan had thousands of Palestinians massacred in September of 1970, and his relationship with Israel is very well known.

The first step toward the revival of Palestine is to distinguish between Judaism. which is a respectable religion, and Zionism, which is nothing more than a racist doctrine. The next step is to struggle against Zionism and try to banish it not only from the Middle East but from every other part of the world. The problems of Palestine are not limited to that region. Rather, they are problems of the rest of the world as well.

All peace loving Jews, Moslems and Christians must care enough to come together and fight Zionism. People who truly love peace should recognize those elements that disturb it and concentrate their efforts to destroy them. Zionism is the enemy of any people who wish to live in freedom and peace. It is the enemy of mankind.

Editor's note: Alireza Rahimi is a graduate in economics. His request to have his picture withheld for religious and political reasons has been granted.

CHARLES, IF 40U WANT MORE ATTENTION FROM THE PRESS ... JUST SAY SO.

Letters

Film to examine life in South African 'homelands'

The latest development in South Africa has come as a big surprise to the rest of the peace loving people of the world who had been closely following the South African struggle and unrest. The South African government has put an immediate ban on the news media, thus blocking the whole world from following the events in that country.

This has also affected many people being educated about apartheid. The false accusations that the media cause the riots are farfetched and unrealistic to anyone who has been following the developments under apartheid. What the Botha government hopes to achieve is to create a news blackout, so people in democratic countries who have to influence their congressional representatives on the positions they take on divestment and sanctions, will not be able to influence their representatives because they won't know what is going on in South Africa. The representatives depend very much on the media because most of the reporting is im-

The Botha government seems to have won on this one, but that does not end the unrest in South Africa. By the time the world starts to see the true side of the suffering, the death figures will be very high and the Botha government will still be pointing to the cameras as the cause of unrest. It is not the problem; apartheid is.

The African Student Union will be showing a film that has been the hard work of another dedicated journalist. "The Last Grave in Dimabaza" was made over a period of two years and was smuggled out of South Africa for the free world. It is a rare film that clearly shows the life in the homelands with apartheid at its best.

The film also provides an opportunity to hear the side of the government and how they plan to keep the system in power. It shows the advantages of apartheid to the white government and its disadvantages to the majority - 23 million blacks who are there as nothing more than labor tools

The film will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, in the Union Little Theatre. Admis-

Davison Munodawafa junior in health and secretary of African Student Union

Apartheid, not media, cause of South African riots

Re: Derek Orndorff's letter, "Media should leave South Africa," in the Nov. 14 Collegian:

Orndorff contended TV cameras are an incentive for people to rise against oppression and slavery in South Africa. Humiliation and suffering are the reasons a revolution will occur when people are fed up. The American, French, Russian, Indian, and most recently, Iranian revolutions would have occurred whether or not CBS chose to cover the crossing of the Delaware or the nuts in the em-

The black mob kills a black policeman who receives higher pay from the whites to keep the status quo. This mob does not keep the pot warm until the networks arrive. Such an outburst of violence is the result of frustration and animalistic treatment they have received from the whites since the turn of the century

Orndorff's contention that "teenage children" were showing off in front of their parents on TV is funny considering the majority of black households in South Africa are not fortunate enough to have electricity. Not that the nation can not afford to - South Africa spends one-sixth as much money on a black student as a white student. A black earns one-third as much for doing the same work a white does. Blacks have no rights, no nationality.

It is funny to see some people advocating the formation of slaveowner-slaves grievance committee to solve the problems of South Africa - especially when the owner is not forced to give up a thing. South African whites perceive that giving blacks their rights will reduce their own.

His invocation of "for the love of God" in his letter touched me, and I am sure it would touch the 3.5 million white Christians in South Africa. The antislavery people in Kansas, in their war against the pro-slavery people, received guns in boxes from Boston marked "bibles." It makes me proud that the people of Kansas interpreted the Bible the right way and fought injustice when they did. Cheer up folks! If the 23 million blacks in South Africa could get a copy of his letter we could share with them our laughter. I am still proud of K-State, even though Orndorff is a senior in journalism and mass communica-

> Sammy Kayara junior in electrical engineering

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 620) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kednie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6566; display advertising, 533-6569; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66562. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66568.

Slattery seeks positive action

By LEANNE STOWE Staff Writer

Children living below poverty standards are a silent tragedy in America, said Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., Friday.

Slattery's address, sponsored by the Women's Resource Center for the Friday Focus on Women lecture series, was titled "A Report from Washington."

The silent tragedy in America is that more children under age 15 are living below poverty than senior citizens, Slattery told an audience of about 30

"Nearly 30 percent of the population under 15 are under the poverty line," he said. "This is 25 to 30 percent that cannot vote on legislation that affects them."

He said 100 percent of the future of

By The Collegian Staff

tor of the K-State Printing Service, died Friday from heart disease.

George R. Eaton, 64, former direc-

Eaton joined the faculty in December 1955, as assistant professor of journalism and director of Printing Services. Eaton retired in June 1983 after 27 years of service to the University. While on staff, Eaton witnessed the development of the printing service from gross earnings of $180,000 in 1955, to $1.2 million in "The future draws a stark contrast: $400 billion of the budget goes to people over 55 through medicare, social security, housing...Look at the other end of life," Slattery said.

"Less than 5 percent of the budget is targeted toward the young. In various programs, aid to them adds up to $40 billion," he said. "We can't just walk away. We cannot ignore

Slattery spoke briefly about the Federal Pay Practices Act, an Affirmative Action bill, and the Civil Rights Restoration Act before turning the meeting to a question-andanswer session.

Slattery said he was surprised that even though the FPPA passed with 259 votes, there were 162 votes against it. He said the bill will provide for the federal civil service

Former staff member dies of illness

Eaton graduated from South

Dakota State College in 1947 with a bachelor's degree in the five-year printing and rural journalism cur-

Eaton served in the U.S. Army from 1943-47, and again from 1951-52. He attained the rank of captain and was stationed at Fort Riley for several months. Eaton was in the Army Reserves and National Guard

Eaton is survived by his wife, Marjorie, and three sons, David, Paul

from 1952-62

system to check federal agencies to see if they are in compliance with federal civil service laws.

Because the summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet Premier Mikhail Gorbachev begins Tuesday, the decision on the Affirmitive Action legislation will be delayed, Slattery said.

The Civil Rights Restoration Act raises the abortion question and reverses the Grove decision, which states agencies do not receive federal aid if not in compliance with civil rights laws, Slattery said. He said he expects a decision on the act before the first of the year.

Although some members of the audience did not agree, Slattery said he believes child support should be regulated by state governments and not involve the federal government.

"The federal government can help

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the First Christian Church, 115 N. Fifth St. Interment will follow at Valley View Memorial

Eaton was a member of Sigma

Delta Chi journalism fraternity, past president of both the Stagg Hill Golf Club and the Flint Hills Stamp Club.

He was also a former troop chairman for Boy Scouts, a member of the Masonic Lodge and ISIS Shrine Temple, and a deacon for the First Chris-

Susan Bender, Union Program Council adviser and graduate student in journalism and mass communications. The performance was sponsored by the UPC Eclectic Entertain-

Get Personal

in Collegian Classifieds

ment Committee.

REGISTER

1102 Laramie Main St. in Ogder 2706 Anderson All Open 24 Hrs.

Rep. Jim Slattery

by enforcing child support payments through the IRS (Internal Revenue Service)," Slattery said. "But as far as setting child support payments, I don't think the federal government should get involved.'

American Heart Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Mae's Parlor Watch for

Schnapps-o-meter!

The colder it gets, the cheaper our Country Store. 3 Miles East on Hiway 24 Open 6 a.m. Till 1 a.m. Dails

NO

PURCHASE

NECESSARY

Mae's

Schnapps get.

Guitar duo plays 'personal' music Smith and Mayer's music can best imperfections - "like dirty be described as "high energy acoustic mountain folk blues," said

By ERIN EICHER Collegian Reporter

Smith and Mayer's music is "not really pretty, but really personal," said duo member John Smith, after performing for a crowd of about 60 in the K-State Union Catskeller Friday.

Smith and Hans Mayer met four years ago in La Crosse, Wis., and have been playing at colleges across the country ever since.

Both play acoustic guitar and sing. Mayer also plays the mandolin, and Smith plays harmonica. Much of the music they perform is original, written about personal experiences.

Smith wrote one of the pieces they performed, "Song of the Rail," about the train sounds that helped him get to sleep when he was a boy lying in bed at home in Iowa.

"Willows in the Wind" is about

Only a Chiropractor can tell you if chiropractic will help.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractor

537-8305 1500 Poyntz Avenue

underwear on the floor," Smith said. "We usually make it through, and we're better for it." "Early," another song in the performance, was written about a small town because "all little towns should have a nice song written about them. Unfortunately, they don't.'

Smith and Mayer don't read music, instead they play everything by ear. Mayer started playing guitar in sixth grade but quit after six lessons because he didn't want to learn classical music. He taught himself to play the mandolin a few years ago.

Dairy Queen Royal Treat Weekly Specials Mon. to Fri. 1 p.m.-5 p.m. THIS WEEK

12th and Moro

Old-fashioned Sodas 99¢ Reg. $1.45 1015 N. 3rd in Aggieville

CONVENIENCE GROCERY New Film Developing Services Offered at the Info Desk

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

THE DRAWING FOR ONE 20 LB. TURKEY AT EACH

MINI MART WILL BE ON NOVEMBER 22. NEED NOT BE PRESENT TO WIN. REGISTER AS MANY TIMES AS YOU LIKE.

Located for Your Convenience

C. 12

4" x 6" Glossy for 35mm 24 exposure $6.20 36 exposure $9.30 8" x 12" enlargement from 35mm color negative $3.70

Everyday low prices on Kodak paper still in effect: watch for our upcoming specials.

From 110, 126, 35mm or Disc Color Print Film.

14½¢ per print (reg. 29¢) & $1.49 dev. chg. (reg. $2.98) Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94

Now $4.73 Manhattan 2700 Anderson Ave

(Next To Westloop-The Old Kentucky Fried Chicken) 539-2519 OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK! MON-SAT. 8 AM to 9 PM SUNDAYS 12 PM to 6 PM

All New BreakRitz to go! For 79¢

You get an English muffin, egg, cheese and canadian bacon All in an easy to eat on-the-go sandwich.

Also try our 99¢ Breakfast Special Eggs, side order of meat, toast, coffee or milk. 8 a.m.-11 a.m.

Mon.-Fri. Sat.-Sun. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

> 537-3335 Mon-Thurs

8 a.m. - 12:30 a.m. Friday 8 a.m. - 1:30 a.m. Saturday 10 a.m. - 1:30 a.m. Sunday

10 a.m. - 12:30 a.m. 1st Bank Center Denison & Claflin and at least 2,453 were seriously injured.

Continued from Page 1

Volcano

Ambassador Charles Gillespie, who toured the disaster area Saturday, said few people stranded by the mud flow remained to be rescued.

The dead include about 8,000 children, said Jaime Benitez Tobon, director of the National Family Welfare Institute.

Rescue workers on the scene said they have recovered only about 800

Scores of helicopters, including 12 U.S. Air Force helicopters, buzzed over the sea of mud covering most of the Armero Valley, looking for sur-

A 12-year-old girl trapped with just her head above the mud and a pool of water died Saturday despite intense rescue efforts, according to a radio

The International Red Cross said in Geneva that the Red Cross branch in the Armero district was virtually wiped out by the disaster, with 71 of the 82 members killed. It quoted one Colombian Red Cross helper as saying, "Only those who could run uphill fast got out."

The mudslide raced down the slopes of the volcano, joined the Lagunilla River and swept over the town at a river bend. Apparently a natural dam on the river gave way when heat from the volcano melted the ice cap and unleashed the huge flow of mud.

The 3-mile-high volcano rumbled again at 4 p.m. Saturday, and the national government announced over national radio that a new eruption had set off another avalanche. However, the government corrected its warning 30 minutes later and said no avalanche had occurred.

This Week's Special

BBQ Beef & Chips

Sub Quik Deli

1816 Claflin 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Good through Nov. 24, 1985

Coke Special 3 liter $1.69

Pepsi Special 6 pack bottles (no return)

$2.39 SHOP QUIK STORES

A Special Congratulations to the 1984 Playboys! 1st-John Olson

Phi Kappa Tau 2nd—Steve Kohler

Triangle 3rd—Brian Walton

Sigma Phi Epsilon Most Involved Sorority

Alpha Chi Omega would like to thank the following for making Greek Playboy contest a success:

Alpha Delta Pi

Brother's Dennis Cook Greg Pestinger Tom Hawk Photography Max Strunk Mike Ward Kevin Ladd K-State Union KSU Students Ballard's Acacia Alpha Gamma Rho Alpha Kappa Lambda Delta Sigma Phi Delta Tau Delta Delta Upsilon Farmhouse Kappa Sigma Lamda Chi Alpha

Phi Delta Theta

Bud Light

Phi Kappa Tau Phi Kappa Theta Pi Kappa Alpha Pi Kappa Phi Sigma Chi Sigma Nu Sigma Phi Epsilon Tau Kappa Epsilon Triangle Alpha Delta Pi Alpha Xi Delta Chi Omega Delta Delta Delta Gamma Phi Beta Kappa Alpha Theta Kappa Delta Kappa Kappa Gamma Pi Beta Phi Sigma Sigma Sigma

FFA elects student as president

By RACHEL VINING Contributing Writer

Rick Malir, junior in agricultural economics, was elected national president of the Future Farmers of America Saturday in Kansas City,

At the National FFA Convention, Malir went through three days of interviews and competed against candidates from 30 other states. Six officers are nominated by a committee and then elected to lead the nearly half-million member organization.

Malir's duties start immediately, with national FFA staff members and other national officers training sessions. During orientation they will meet with U.S. Department of Education and national agribusiness leaders to discuss goals and trends in vocational agriculture education.

"Now I'll be dropping out of school for the next two semesters to fulfill these duties. In January we start experience tours, where we each go to a certain state and tour it for a week. This helps us learn about people, FFA projects and agricultural practices we may not be familiar with," Malir said.

During his year as a national officer, Malir will literally live out of a suitcase. He will come back to K-State to drop or take incompletes in this semester's classes and then go to the National FFA Center in Alexandria, Va.

"I'll go to FFA meetings and programs in 30 to 35 states next year. In addition, we (the six officers) will travel to Hong Kong and Japan to learn about their agriculture production, business and processing," Malir said.

As a national officer, Malir will also help direct vocational agriculture in high schools and work with employers looking for people trained in agriculture.

"There are a lot of challenges and opportunities in agriculture and I want to continue to work on the image of agriculture - not the production-oriented agriculture, but the other aspects of the food chain. We want to prepare students for careers as ag engineers, lawyers and scientists.'

Malir is the second K-State student to be elected National FFA president in three years. Ron Wineinger, senior in agricultural economics, was president in 1983-84. After Malir installs a new president during the 1986 national convention, he plans to continue studies at K-State and earn a master's degree in business administration. He wants to work with an agricultural business firm or as a legal assistant in agricultural government/politics.

"Choral Bits and Pieces" - All Faiths Chapel; 8 p.m. Tuesday

Manhattan Chamber Orchestra - All Faiths Chapel; 8 p.m. Wednesday

Student Recital Series - All Faiths Chapel; 11:30 a.m. Thursday Concert Jazz Ensemble - Forum Hall; 8 p.m. Thursday

ART EXHIBITS

MFA Exhibition by Glenda Taylor - Union Art Gallery; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Artwork by local grade school children - Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours

> FILMS AMonday through Thursday)

"Agnes of God" - Wareham; 5, 7 and 9 p.m. "To Live and Die in L.A." - Campus; 4:45, 7 and

"American Flyers" — Varsity; 4:50, 7 and 9:10 p.m.
"Target" — Westloop; 7 and 9:15 p.m.
"That was Then, This is Now" — Westloop; 5, 7 and "An Unfinished Piece For Player Piano" - Little Theatre; 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 3:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Committees seek new members

UPC has positions available

By JANET MATTHIAS Collegian Reporter

Several committees of the Union Program Council are seeking new members for the spring semester.

Julie Stephens, chairperson of the Special Events Committee and junior in modern languages, said her committee needs several people who have technical experience with sound and lights to assist with con-

"We are loosing three 'veterans' to graduation and need to find replacements for them," Stephens

The Special Events committee organizes concerts such as Saturday's Lee Greenwood concert, Stephens said.

The committee members are also responsible for planning "Late Night with the K-State Union." This event, which takes place in the spring, is designed to attract people to the Union with comedians, movies and

A 10 (5 W

Kaleidoscope, one of the two film committees, is looking for three to four new members because several members are graduating, said Marilyn Woodward, adviser of Kaleidoscope.

"Kaleidoscope handles the Wednesday and Thursday movies; films of high quality, but of lesser recognition," Woodward said. "The other film committee, Feature Films, handles the more well-known films.

In addition to the Wednesday and Thursday evening movies, Kaleidoscope also organizes eight matinees and four midnight shows during a semester.

Woodward said committee members are responsible for selecting films, as well as taking tickets four times a semester and doing the promotions for three to four films a

Linda Moeder, chairperson of the Issues and Ideas Committee and senior in accounting, said several new members are needed for that committee to avoid "burn out" of the current eight members.

The Issues and Ideas Committee solicits speakers to talk on subjects in which students are interested but may have little access to, Moeder

Each member is responsible for organizing a lecture in the "Let's Talk About It" series. These lectures are presented on alternating Thursdays in the Union Courtyard.

The members also generate and decide on topics and speakers for the "Major Speaker Series" and the "Evening Lecture Series." In addition to attending weekly meetings, committee members help produce promotional materials for upcoming speakers.

Applications for all of the committees can be obtained in the Union Activities Center. Interviews will begin early next semester. Applications will be accepted until that time.

THESES. WE DELIVER.

By The Collegian Staff

Tom Brokaw, anchor of the NBC

"Nightly News," will deliver a lec-ture at 9:30 a.m. March 24 in McCain Auditorium as part of the "Landon

Lectures on Public Issues" series, said Charles Reagan, chairman of Reagan said he hoped there would be other Landon lectures between now and March, but as yet there are no formal commitments from other speakers who have been sent invita-

There have been speakers from

CBS, Reagan said, so the committee choosing the lecturers wanted so-media person here," Reagan said.

Brokaw is like most journalists.

They cover many events during their way to the top and interview national

'We periodically like to have a meone from a different network.

the Landon lecture series, Sunday.

You've survived months of labor pains And, you've produced a beautiful, healthy thesis. Now, breathe easy and let kinko's reproduce your brain-child with speed, efficiency and plenty of TLC.

Brokaw chosen to give leaders. They have a high visability

Brokaw wants to be back in his anchor chair for the "Nightly News"

after his speech in McCain that morning, Reagan said. He said this is the reason the speech will be earlier than usual, with a breakfast before the lecture instead of the usual luncheon

"He probably won't announce a

Brokaw began his journalism speech topic until a week or less career in 1962 at KMTV in Omaha,

Neb., worked three years as an NBC

White House correspondent, and anchored NBC's "The Today Show" for five years before becoming the an-

The lecture series honors Kansas' elder statesman, former Gov. Alfred

M. Landon of Topeka and 1936

before the speech," he said.

chor of "Nightly News."

presidential nominee.

with the public."

afterward.

spring Landon lecture

50% Cotton Copies Free collation with this ad

1110 Laramie

537-7340

Copies · Reductions · Enlargements Passport Photos · Binding · And much more!

Brazilians learn about U.S. wheat

By GISELE McMINIMY Collegian Reporter

Four members of the Brazilian Wheat Board are visiting farms and wheat institutions in Kansas to learn more about the United States' grain marketing system.

The Brazilian Wheat Board, made up of representatives from private industries and government sectors, makes all the wheat purchases for Brazil, said Becky Vining, communications director of the Kansas Wheat Commission.

"Last year Brazil purchased about 115 million bushels of U.S. wheat, making it the third leading purchaser of U.S. wheat," Vining said.

Considering all the wheat the Brazilian Wheat Board bought last year, about 60 percent came from the United States, Vining said.

Their visit is important to Kansas because most of the 115 million bushels bought by the board last year was hard red winter wheat, the most common variety grown in Kansas, Vining said.

The representatives of the board should be able to better understand how to purchase U.S. wheat after their visit, Vining said. "If they can actually see Kansas wheat production and marketing, they can become more educated buyers of U.S. wheat," Vining said. Vining said the board members will be visiting a wheat farm near Monument during their visit.

We try to get visitors to wheat farms so they can better understand what processes our wheat goes through," Vining said. "We want to show them a farm and the practices used in such things as production and Vining stressed the commission is not teaching them how to grow "We're helping them learn how to buy our wheat," Vining said.

"Since our wheat is more expensive, we have to point out all the advantages of our wheat," Vining said.

Board representatives visited the Kansas City Board of Trade in Missouri and a bakery in Kansas City, Kan., Friday. They visited two grain elevators in Brewster, Kan., this weekend and are in Manhattan Monday and Tuesday for a two-day marketing seminar at the International Grains Program at K-State, Vining said.

Saturday, November 23 at 9 a.m.

The race is 5 kilometers with a 1 mile fun run following immediately after. They will both start on Moro Street in Aggieville and take you around the KSU campus and through the challenging streets of Manhattan.

Events Schedule

7:30-9:30 a.m.-Registration and securing of race packets. 9:00 a.m.-5k begins 9:35-1 mile fun run begins

10:15-Presentation of awards Minimum Donation for Entry: 5k-$7 if postmarked by 11-30-85

$8 if postmarked after 11-20-85

$25 for team division (Five runners per team.) 1 mile -$5 if postmarked by 11-20-85 $6 if postmarked after 11-20-85 and day of race

Make checks payable to Students against Multiple Sclerosis. Please mail to: P.O. Box 152, Manhattan, KS 66502

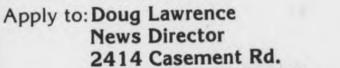

Any questions concerning the race can be directed to: Dave Wagner, 1015 Denison, Manhattan, KS 66502 - 913-537-1847

ENTRY FORM

NAME(PRINT) ADDRESS. BIRTHDATE CIRCLE AGE DIVISION: -17 18-30 31-45 46+ TEAM NAME: . 1 mile RACE: 5Km CIRCLE SEX: SHIRT SIZE:

Upon entry of this race, I hereby waive any and all rights and claims for damages I may have against the sponsors, Students Against Multiple Sclerosis and any individual associated with this event. I also understand that none of the above are responsible for any losses that may result and that I am in good enough health to participate in this event.

(Parent/Guardian Signature if a Minor) (Entry forms can also be picked up in the Union, Nov. 18, 19, 20)

REPORTER WANTED

KMAN News needs a reporter. Reliable person with good writing skills desired.

Broadcast experience preferred. Person should have a good working knowledge of community and issues. Sports knowledge a "plus". Position will be filled before the end of 1985. EOE employer.

Manhattan, KS 66502

Take A Break From 2 p.m.-5 p.m. At The Ritz

Order a Ritz Old-fashioned milkshake or malt and get a Ritz Jr. Hamburger FREE! OR

Get a shake or malt for 89¢

Mondays-Fridays

537-3335

8 a.m.-12:30 a.m. Mon-Thurs 8 a.m.-1:30 a.m. Friday 10 a.m.-1.30 a.m. Saturday

Denison & Claflin

10 a.m.-12:30 a.m. 1st Bank Center

Women harriers place 2nd in meet, earn NCAA berth

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

The two hours must have seemed like two days for K-State's women's cross country team Saturday at the muddy NCAA District Five Championships in Stillwater, Okla.

Two hours is how long Head Coach Steve Miller and the women's team had to wait before the announcement came that the 'Cats had earned a berth in next Monday's NCAA Championships in Milwaukee.

K-State's men's team finished fourth in the 10,000-meter race - the same as in 1984 - but did not qualify for nationals.

The women's team found itself in third place after unofficial results were tabulated following the race. The first results had Iowa State University in first place with 42 points, followed by the University of Nebraska in third with 63 points and K-State fourth, one point behind the Cornhuskers.

With the district title going to Iowa State, the Cyclones were assured of a spot in the national meet. The second place team might earn an at-large berth, which would have sent NU to nationals.

When the results were rechecked, however, a runner from Wichita State University finished one spot ahead of Nancy Hoffman, K-State's No. 5 runner. But because WSU did not have a complete team at the meet, the WSU runner's score could not be counted in the team scoring. Thus, the 'Cats were awarded another point, tying Nebraska for se-"At first, we thought we had been beat by one point and that was so disappointing. I would rather have been beat by 20 (points)," Miller said. "When we thought we tied Nebraska, we started perking up.

"But we realized that Nebraska had beaten us three times previously, and if one team was chosen to attend nationals, it would probably be

The turn of events became more strange when, as K-State prepared to leave, it was learned the University of Kansas, which also didn't field a complete team, had a runner who placed in front of Hoffman. K-State was awarded another point, moving the 'Cats into second place, one point ahead of Nebraska.

But the suspense was not over yet. K-State still had to wait to find out if an at-large invitation would be extended to the 'Cats. One at-large berth would come from either the District Five or District Four meet. The University of Michigan was the other team vying for the bid and because K-State had defeated Michigan in head-to-head competition, the berth went to the 'Cats.

"It was complete jubilation," Miller said of the team's reaction after the long-awaited announcement. "I'm so proud of the women. They defeated the third-ranked team (Nebraska) in the nation, and that puts us in a position to really do something special at the national

As she has done all year, Jacque Struckhoff paced the women in the 5,000-meter event with a third-place finish overall in 17 minutes, 34.2 seconds. The big surprise came from Alysun Deckert, who placed sixth in 17:42.3 after having a bad outing at the Big Eight Conference Championships two weeks ago.

"Alysun came through with a great performance," Miller said. "She was the outstanding performer for us. After placing 17th in the conference and to come back and place sixth in the district meet was just

Anne Stadler finished in 18th place, followed by Lisa Wakem in 24th and Hoffman in 33rd.

Oklahoma State University's Christine McMiken won the women's individual title, helping the Cowboys to a fifth-place finish. The University of Colorado placed fourth.

The men's team did not do as well as expected, Miller said.

"Our biggest problem was inconsistency, and when you're not consistent, it comes back to haunt you."

The top runner for the men was junior Ron Stahl, who finished 11th in 31:29.29 and has been coming on strong of late. Next was Bryon Lopez in 12th place in 31:43.4, followed by Jim Knudsen in 24th, Bryan Carroll in 26th and Mike Rogers in 29th.

Yobes Ondeiki's first-place finish sparked Iowa State to the men's title. Colorado was second, Oklahoma State third and Nebraska fifth.

Senior co-captain Donna Lee spikes the ball during Friday's volleyball match against the Missouri Tigers in Ahearn Field House. The Wildcats defeated the for the Wildcats

Tigers 15-10, 15-12, 15-10. The victory over the Tigers is the first in five years

Third-place finish reality for Wildcats

By CLAUDIA SANGSTER Collegian Reporter

K-State's volleyball team ended the weekend of competition reaching two goals set when the season began: to win 20 games and to finish third in the conference. The latter goal was reached Friday night as the Wildcats defeated the University of Missouri Tigers in three straight games 15-10, 15-12 and 15-10. The victory was the first over the Tigers since 1979 and the first under Head Coach Scott Nelson. "We knew coming into this match that we were looking directly in the face of our short- and long-term goals," Nelson said following the game. "This was a must win. Had we lost we would have faced Nebraska in an early round of the Big Eight tournament.'

The Wildcats were led by several players in the match. Mary Kinsey led the team in hitting with 23 kills, followed by Donna Lee with 15.

Helen Bundy connected on two solo blocks and four assists. Kinsey added one solo and three assists.

"Mary Kinsey played a solid game offensively and defensively," Nelson said. "Another individual I felt had a good match was Helen Bundy. It's great to see her coming around and contributing with the kind of great hitting and blocking she showed in the match.'

Perhaps the most spectacular performance came from senior cocaptain Renee Whitney. Earlier in the week it was found she was suffering from a kidney infection and spent the first part of the week in the hospital. Whitney managed to practice 15 minutes with the team Thursday, the first time she had practiced

MU and recorded 40 assists, eight digs and was successful on four of five kill attempts for an attacking percentage of 60 percent.

"Renee Whitney was inspiring to us (the coaches) just because of her mental toughness," Nelson said. "For her to come in from being sick and run our offense and hit like she did is just outstanding.'

While the win over Missouri was a first for Nelson, two other firsts occurred over the weekend.

"This is the first time in five years that we've beaten Missouri; this is the first time we have finished third and this is the first time that we have been in control of our own destiny," he said. "This is not a team of stars, but when everyone plays well together, we are successful."

The second part of the Wildcats' goals - a 20 win season - was reach-

Whitney returned to action against ed Saturday in the Kansas Invitational in Lawrence.

> K-State opened against the University of Tulsa and took the match 15-13, 4-15, 15-12 and 15-8.

The 20th win for the Wildcats occurred in the final conference match of the regular season as K-State defeated the University of Kansas 16-14, 15-9 and 15-3 before a crowd of 2,000 in the featured match Saturday night. The victory over the Jayhawks moved the 'Cats' conference record

In a Sunday match, K-State defeated the University of Illinois-Chicago 15-3, 15-9, 14-16, 15-11 to improve the season mark to 21-10, the first 20-win season for Nelson.

The Wildcats will take their No. 3 seed into the Big Eight Conference tournament Friday through Sunday at Penn Valley Community College in Kansas City, Mo.

'Cats' 21-14 loss to Cyclones frustrating for Moon, players

By TOM PERRIN

Staff Writer It was a game K-State had a chance to win nearly all the way to

This seemed to make Saturday's 21-14 loss to Iowa State University all the more frustrating for K-State

Coach Lee Moon. "I felt like we had an opportunity to win the game from the beginning," Moon said. "I thought we knew what we were doing offen-

A disconsolate Moon told reporters he was at a loss at what to tell his players in the post-game meeting with the team. "I'll let you (reporters) talk to them," Moon said. "I told them I didn't know what else could be said. I thought they played hard. They did day." what needed to be done. It just didn't work. The result wasn't what we wanted.'

K-State players, indeed, echoed Moon's sentiments.

"I don't know what went on," said K-State linebacker Scott White, who led the Wildcat defense with 12 tackles. "It seems like we get the worst luck here. We played hard to-

The Wildcats played Iowa State on even terms throughout, going into halftime with a 7-7 tie and scoring on the first play of the fourth quarter to tie the score at 14.

"It (loss) was tougher because we were in it all the way," K-State split end Gerald Alphin said. "That hasn't been the case in previous weeks. It's been lopsided. When you know you can beat the guy and you don't, it's pretty disappointing."

When asked if it was tougher to lose in a close game, Wildcat strong safety Barton Hundley said, "In a way, because you're so close, yet so far. But they played tough and that's all you can ask from a team. We could just go ahead and write off the season, but I think everybody's got an understanding. We've got one game left (next week at the University of Colorado) and we'd better play

The 14-14 tie appeared as if it would hold up until Cyclone quarterback Alex Espinoza hit split end Hughes Suffren with a 67-yard touchdown pass on a third down and 11 situation to win the game with 1:24 left.

Moon described the game-winning pass play as a "pick" play, where the tight end blocks the free safety - in this case Hundley - to free the split end, Suffren. "The tight end picked off Hundley, that's why it (the play) was so wide open," Moon said.

When asked if he thought the play was an illegal manuever by Iowa State, Moon said, "They do it all the time. It's not illegal if you can get away with it. You just run a route into an area and screen a guy off and let the guy break underneath.

Hundley complimented Iowa State's play selection on the gamewinning pass.

"It was just a great play they had called," Hundley said. "If we weren't in the defense we were in, it wouldn't have worked.'

On two occasions, K-State seemed to have good opportunities to mount scoring drives, but Wildcat mistakes gave the football back to Iowa State.

The first opportunity, with 7:58 left in the fourth quarter and the score tied, came after K-State took over possession on the Wildcat 42-yard line after a Cyclone punt. Tailback Todd Moody, K-State's leading rusher with 93 yards, gained seven yards on a run but was hit by Iowa State defensive end Jim Luebbers and fumbled. Iowa State recovered.

"You're sitting there knowing you have a chance to win the game right there, first and ten on your own 40," Moon said. "Then you gain six or seven yards and fumble.

The other K-State opportunity was squelched when Alphin, normally the Wildcats' most reliable receiver, dropped a short sideline pass from quarterback Randy Williams with 5:10 left in the game on a fourth-andone situation on the ISU 48.

"I thought it was a pretty good play. The sun just got in his eyes and he dropped the ball," Williams said. "But that can happen to anybody. Gerald usually catches them."

Alphin said the sun bothered him on the play, but he couldn't use the sun as an excuse.

"I saw the ball, but I didn't get a true picture of the ball. I had caught one on that sideline right before that one," Alphin said. "The sun was in my eyes, but I don't use that as an excuse. I should have caught the ball. I had both hands on it."

Iowa State began the scoring in the first quarter on a 25-yard touchdown pass from Espinoza to Suffren.

K-State tied the score at 7-7 with 14:01 left in the second quarter on a 70-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Welch to Alphin. Welch reinjured his shoulder later in the second quarter and was forced to sit out the remainder of the game.

Cyclone running back Andrew Jackson, the game's leading rusher with 146 yards on 32 attempts, put Iowa State ahead 14-7 on a 7-yard touchdown run with 2:58 left in the third quarter.

K-State came right back with an eight play, 80-yard drive, culminating in a five-yard touchdown pass from Williams to Moody to tie the score at 14.

- Suffren 25 pass from Espinoza (Frank kick) K-State — Alphin 70 pass from Welch (Porter

Iowa State — Jackson 7 run (Frank kick) K-State — Moody 5 pass from Williams (Porter Iowa State Suffren 67 pass from Espinoza

44-125 48-113 252 19-33-0 6-14-1 turn yards 26 10-39.3 8-44.3

tushing — K-State, Moody 18-93, Wilson 16-66, ndrick 1-0, Welch 2-minus 10, Williams 7-minus 24. Iowa State, Jackson 32-141, Thomas 5-7, Poprilo 2-1, Espinoza 9-minus 36.

Passing — K-State, Welch 2-6-0-77, Williams 4-8-1-52. Iowa State, Espinoza 19-33-0-252.

Receiving — K-State, Alphin 3-102, Moody 2-12, December 1, 19-32-1-25.

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Wodka 5-31, Ross 2-27, Thomas 2-14.

Staff/John Sleese

Iowa State split end Hughes Suffren strides toward the goal line as K-State pass in the first quarter of Saturday's game. Iowa State defeated K-State strong safety Barton Hundley attempts the tackle on a 25-yard touchdown

By The Collegian Staff

A public hearing regarding a rezoning request, the proposed Housing Element of the Land Use Plan and high-density residential developments will be among topics discussed at the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board meeting at 7 tonight.

In a request by Steve Ballard, representing Ballard's Sporting Goods, 1218 Moro St., the board will discuss the rezoning of land at 601 S. Fifth St. from Heavy Industrial District to a Service-Commercial

The building at the site is used as a warehouse, but the rezoning, if granted, would allow part of the structure to be rented for parties and anniversary celebrations.

In other action, the board will discuss methods for encouraging Planned Unit Developments for higher-density uses, and criteria for residential PUDs.

The discussion is the result of recommendations in the Land Use Plan for neighborhoods east of cam-

In other land-use issues, the board will review amendments to the Housing Element of the Land Use Plan for neighborhoods located south of Poyntz Avenue and east of Fort Riley Boulevard. The plan was first presented in its present form at the board's Nov. 4 meeting.

The most controversial aspect of the plan is the presence of a highdensity residential district to be located southwest of the downtown business district.

All planning board meetings, which are open to the public, are held in the Commission Meeting Room of the Manhattan Administrative Building, 11th Street and Poyntz

Publisher asks faculty for scholarly materials

By ROBERT CLASEN Collegian Reporter

Representatives from the University Press of Kansas were on campus Friday to encourage University faculty to use it for their publica-

"Any university that aspires to greatness has as one of its basic goals the origination and dissemination of the highest quality of scholarship," said Fred Woodward, director of University Press of Kansas, to a group of faculty in Farrell Library

"Scholarly publishers, like the University Press of Kansas, exist to disseminate much of this scholarship," Woodward said.

The University Press of Kansas was established and accepted into the Association of American University Presses in 1946, and since has published more than 300 titles, nearly half of which are still in print.

"K-State joined the consortium in 1967 when the press was officially reorganized by the Kansas Board of Regents," Woodward said.

Since that time several books published by the University Press of Kansas have been written by K-State faculty or staff.

One book, "The Land of Post Rock Its Origins, History, and People," is one of the press' all-time best sellers and was co-written by Grace Muilenburg, a former associate editor for the agricultural experi-

Several faculty members are currently working on books for University Press of Kansas.

Homer Socolofsky, professor of history and co-editor of the press' American Presidency Series, is working on a volume for the series on the presidency of Benjamin Har-

K-State, in association with the other five regents' institutions, operates and supports the University Press of Kansas for the purpose of publishing scholarly and regional books on a non-profit basis, Woodward said.

Four faculty members from each of the regents institutions were selected to serve on the press' 24-member editorial committee.

Burton Kaufman, professor of history, and Clenton Owensby, professor of agronomy, are the principal members. Leland Warren, associate professor of English, and Mark Lapping, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, are the alternate members from K-State.

University Provost Owen Koeppe sits on the Board of Trustees, which governs the press.

Woodward said it is the mission of scholarly publishing in general to print "serious and esoteric" nonfiction that one would otherwise not see print. He said he defines the mission of the University Press of Kansas "as extending the reach and reputation of the six regents universities in Kan-

Singer/songwriter Lee Greenwood greets fans while singing his latest Parents' Day performance at Ahearn Field House. Moments before, a woman release, "I Don't Mind the Thorns If You're the Rose," Saturday during the in the audience gave Greenwood a rose, which he accepted with a kiss.

FREE DELIVERY (10% off with KSU I.D.) 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Country entertainer 'charms' audience

By RUSTIN HAMILTON Agriculture Editor

As Lee Greenwood's raspy voice finished the last few notes of his hit song, "I.O.U.," a girl whispered to the man sitting beside her, "He's such a romantic, isn't he.'

Lee Greenwood, a romantic? Surely not. Just because he sings to the audience, in the audience, with a rose in hand, doesn't qualify him as a romantic - does it?

Greenwood, MCA country music recording artist and headliner of Saturday's Parents' Day concert, is indeed a romantic. One needs only to listen to his records to discover this but his live performance confirms

Singing every note to studio perfection despite the typically poor acoustics in Ahearn Field House, Greenwood dazzled the crowd of around 3,000 for over an hour and a half after the equally talented perforLee Greenwood sings at Parents' Day mance by The Whites. The Whites, a bluegrass-based threesome who thrive on the efforts of close three-part harmony and their "definitely country" sound, consists of siblings Sharon and Cheryl and father Buck.

As the warm-up band for Greenwood, The Whites sang their hits "You Put the Blue In Me," "Hanging Around," "Pins And Needles," and their current hit single "If It Ain't Love.

"We believe very strongly in the style of music we play," Cheryl said. 'We would like to think we influence others who play our type of music. We all influence each other, really.

Contrary to the conservative mountain music performance of The Whites, Greenwood's band, "The Trick Band," presented themselves on-stage in true rock 'n' roll fashion. As the 42-year-old Greenwood took the stage, he immediately began belting out the up-tempo song 'Streamlining," the title cut from his latest album. He then swung into his first hit of the evening, "Somebody's Gonna Love You," and from then on the crowd was his.

It wasn't long, however, before Greenwood moved into the songs which made him famous - the slow ballads. After accepting a rose from a fan in the audience, Greenwood final chorus, the fans were on their broke into his latest hit, "I Don't feet giving the kind of ovation nor Mind the Thorns If You're the Rose."

Known for singing in the midst of the audience, Greenwood didn't let the ladies down as he sang his song to a few of the ecstatic women in the center aisle. Throughout the show, Greenwood

1304 Westloop

sang, danced, played the saxophone and flirted with the audience.

"You've got to have it together as a performer or your career will have no momentum," Greenwood said. "I enjoy being on stage.

The cooperation displayed between Greenwood and the band was evident, especially during the singing of his "best known recordings" the iingles for Coors® beer ("Coors to You'') and McDonald's*

("McDonald's and You"). Greenwood ended the concert with county music's 1985 song of the year, "God Bless the USA!"

By the time Greenwood hit the mally reserved for a World Series National Anthem.

When an American flag unfolded in the background, Greenwood proved he not only epitomized the word "romantic," but the word "patriotic" seemed to fit as well.

1116 Moro

A longstanding legend 38 days left 6 Fridays left 6 Saturdays left Don't miss out on a tradition!

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR HEELS WHILE YOU WAIT

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4 Open 'til 8 Thursdays Drive-Up Convenience

401 Humboldt

Every Monday ON ANY PIZZA

Isettos 539-3830

The Flint Hills Water Ski Club

will be inviting nominations for office elections

Tuesday, Nov. 19, 8:30 p.m. Bluemont 112 New members welcome

The Pirates of Penzance by William S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan

*Monday, November 18 - General Audition

*Tuesday, November 19 — General Audition

Wednesday, November 20 — Callback Audition *Come to only one of these.

7:00 p.m. — McCain Auditorium

Actors, Singers, Dancers Needed: Approximately 30 men and 11 women

Please prepare two contrasting songs: one ballad or aria and one up-tempo song.

(Those who come without prepared songs will be asked to sing "America the Beautiful")

Please come dressed to move!

Performances Feb. 27, 28, Mar 1, 1986 in McCain Auditorium Further Audition information may be found on McCain and Nichols Hall bulletin boards.

.........

Introducing Vista's Delicious Served in a medium 16 oz. malt glass M & M Peanut M & M Plain 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd Oreo Lifesaver Peppermint Buttertinger Heath Bar Mr. Goodbar Reese's Pieces T VISTA

Specialist offers tips to cut energy bills

By ERIC RHODENBAUGH Collegian Reporter

With the coming of winter and subsequent increases in energy consumption, apartment dwellers may want to take a few simple steps to curb their utility bills, without sacrificing comfort.

Doug Walter, extension specialist in residential energy for engineering extension programs, said turning the thermostat down overnight and when the apartment is not in use can result in significant savings in utility costs.

"I would recommend a setback of five to 10 degrees below what the normal temperature is when occupants are present," Walter said. "You can take up to 15 percent off your utility bill with a 10 degree overnight setback and take up to 20 percent off with additional setback periods" of four hours or more, he said.

Stacy Kohlmeier, customer adviser for the KPL Gas Service Co., said occupants should try to keep the thermostat at 68 degrees degrees if the lower setting is uncomfortable.

Walter said occupants can keep

Winter adjustments can help savings warm during overnight setback periods by dressing warmly, adding blankets, or using an electric

"Electric blankets are a very small user of electricity and a good way to stay comfortable while cutting costs," Walter said. "An average electric blanket will cost between fifty cents and one dollar a month to operate."

If the apartment is drafty, Walter recommends using some form of plastic covering for the inside of the windows and weather stripping for doors.

"Plastic covers are inexpensive and very effective at stopping air leakage through a window," Walter said.

There are two basic types of indoor plastic window covers. The shrinkwrap type involves blow-drying the plastic once it is taped in place. The other type is simply taped to the wall in front of the window as tautly as

Walter said weather stripping is the only way to seal outside doors, but occupants should check with the landlord before applying the weather stripping because it is permanent.

The cost of weather stripping an entire door, including the threshold, will be between $8 and $10 "for high quality, permanent weather stripping," Walter said.

A new type of caulking material, called peel-off caulk, might prove useful to apartment tenants. Caulking is used to seal spaces between the window and the frame, or between the frame and the wall.

"The unique aspect of this type of caulking material is that it's clear when it sets up, and it can be peeled off," Walter said. "You can use this type of material without worrying about how it looks when you leave. If an apartment has large, south-facing windows, occupants can open the drapes during the day and make use of passive solar heating.

"Solar heat gained by opening the drapes can be very significant in an apartment," Walter said.

A large part of the energy costs in an apartment with many occupants goes to the water heater, Walter

Walter recommended installing a low-flow shower head, which costs between $6 and $8, to cut down hot water usage.

Kohlmeier said occupants should check the thermostat on the water heater. A setting of 120 degrees is "The first thing we do in an energy audit is turn down the water heater,' said Kohlmeier. "A lot of times they (the residents) have them way too high and it costs them a lot of money.

Kohlmeier and Walter both recommend habit changes, such as shutting off the television, stereo and lights, closing doors and watching appliance usage.

KPL will provide prospective tenants with the average amount, taken annually, for utility bills of a particular apartment. Home energy audits also are available upon request from the utility company.

Convocation speaker to address censorship

By KAREN MEIS Collegian Reporter

Ariel Dorfman, author of 15 books of essays, poetry and fiction, will speak on "The Tyranny of Censorship" at 10:30 today in McCain Auditorium

Dorfman's speech is part of the Kansas State University Convocation Series.

Dorfman, a native of Chile, has taught and held fellowships at the University of California at Berkeley, the Smithsonian Institute, the Institute for Policy Studies, the Sorbonne in Paris, the University of Amsterdam, the University of Chile and Duke University in Durham, N.C.

Dorfman is a frequent contributing writer to the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, the Nation, Village Voice and leading newspapers in Europe and Latin America. Dorfman also presents monthly commentaries on "All Things Considered," a news program on National Public Radio.

Dorfman's writing has been translated into 20 languages and he has won critical acclaim in Chile, America and overseas. His speech follows a preconvocation forum held Thursday evening involving four faculty members to discuss the importance and the significance of Dorfman's contribution to the analysis of culture.

Harriet Ottenheimer, associate professor of sociology, anthropology and social work, said Dorfman believes people are viewed as either adults or children, civilized or primitive, advanced or simplistic University faculty, students, staff and the general public are invited to attend Dorfman's presentation.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publica-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an er

I HMMM.

Bloom County

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry. ANNOUNCEMENTS

WE AGAIN INTERRUPT

THERE WILL NO LONGER

CHARACTER'S RECENT

TO CONCEAL THE RESULTS

BE ANY EFFORT

OF THE PRINCIPAL

NOSE JOB WITH VARIOUS CAREFULLY

PLACED OBJECTS

THIS FEATURE TO ANNOUNCE

THAT, STARTING IMMEDIATELY,

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (7tf)

$10-$360 WEEKLY/up mailing circulars! No quotas!
Sincerely interested rush self-addressed enve-Success, PO Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098 (31-60)

MARY ALICE Lair, Vice Chairman, Republican Party, State of Kansas will speak Tuesday, November 19, 7:00 p.m., Union 206. Pictures following. (60) THE COMPLEX, one step beyond comedy Christ mas parties to go. 539-5768 (60-64)

GET OFF! GET OFF!

THIS COMIC WILL NO LONGER

SUCCUMB TO THE DEMANDS OF

THE PARENTAL-ACTION GROUPS

VIEWING THIS INCREASINGLY

COMMON FORM OF SHOCKING

LIFE ... IS NOT ALWAYS PRETTY

WHICH SEEK TO PROTECT

AMERICA'S YOUTH FROM

PERSONAL EXPRESSION

NOW RETURN 10

THE UNCENSORED PAWEL

ALREADY IN PROGRESS ...

ATTENTION

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61f) THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro chure. (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652. Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27.61)

02

WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vali from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts ... count on Sun chase! (45-60)

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, PO Box 3652, Wi chita, 67201. K.State representatives needed (49)

DECEMBER AND May graduates: Consider Peace Corps today. Applications should be mailed in now! Call 532-5714 or come by 108 Waters for more information (58-67)

JOHMMA

WHEW!

THANK YOU!

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

KANSAS ARMY National Guard-Ask us how we can help you obtain your college education through the new GI Bill and a $10,000 student loan repayment plan. Call Adrian A. (Lash) L'Heureux, 913 537-4108 (59-78)

K STATE Union Program Council Arts Committee in vite all interested artists and crafts people to par ticipate in the annual Arts and Crafts sale December 5 and 6 in the K-State Union. Sign up for table space begins November 25. For more information call 532-6571, (60)

COME DRIVE with us! Complete class requirement in one day on November 23. You'll be driving in two to three weeks. Little Apple Driving School. 539-2715 (anytime). (60-64)

FOR RENT-MISC

COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Ag-

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side 776-3804. (49tf)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200 (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

8389, 537-8494 (55-65)

04 FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776-

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin, 776-9124

AVAILABLE JANUARY-One bedroom near campus. no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70dry hook-up, campus one mile, no pets, 537

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester Share nice two bedroom apartment, $150 plus one-half electric, 776-3519 (57-61)

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview and

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with lease.

Call for details 776-3804

AVAILABLE NOW (or): One bedroom apartment and two bedroom house. Large yard, utilities paid, good location. Both are very nice with all the extra comforts. 539-5015 after 4:00 p.m. (59-63)

from campus, $195. Available January 1 Call 537-

TWO BEDROOM basement apartment Available January 1, Call 776-5806 or 532-5883, (60-64)

eanuts

Garfield

YOUR WEIGHT

HELLO, I'M RX-2, YOUR TALKING SCALE. IF YOU STEP ON ME, I'LL TELL YOU

AT THE END I SAID, THIS REPORT WAS WRITTEN ON RECYCLED PAPER .. NO TREES WERE DESTROYED TO MAKE THIS REPORT acres?

5 Guarantors

4 Insist

6 "('ry

River

settle ment

shoes

11 South

fox 17 Libyan

9 Grandson

Nokomis

African

measure

Geddes 8 Wooden

56 Pig's digs? 10 Work units

JPM PAVPS

indicator

42 Corrects

45 Popeve's

52 Being

54 ( ity in

55 Maple

genus

57 Decade

DOWN

1 Zemitti

2 Large cat assent

49 Beach dune

New York

By Charles Schulz

APARTMENT FOR rent - Free cable, free electricity. close to campus, free November rent, Call 776 8773 (59-60) NICE ONE bedroom furnished apartment one block

FEMALE ROOMMATE. $125, one-half block from campus Available November 1985 Call 913 877 3288 collect (60 75)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

THREE BEDROOM, block to campus, furnished, appliances. Available January 1. Call 539-4604 after 4.00 p.m. (58.62).

rossword

ACROSS 41 Dashboard 3 Green 1 Mimicked 5 Small demon

8 Home of the Mets 12 Undiluted 51 Astringent 7 Await 13 Society page word 53 Barbara

14 Makes public 15 A Biblical people

16 Levee supports 18 "Kubla Khan" city 20 Nod

21 Pianist Peter 23 One - time Avg. solution time: 26 min, 40 Anglo-24 Chicago Cubs player 28 Portico 31 Personality

32 Cornered 34 Color 35 Jargon 37 Navigation hazards 39 "111 -

You in My Dreams

11-16 Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

dash 27 Cheer fully 29 " - Miss Brooks' 30 Loser in 33 June 6. 1944

19 Obligation

22 Mountain

nymph

24 Dry, as wine

25 Turkish

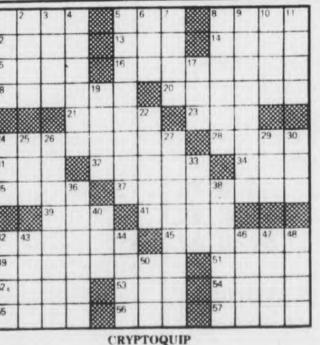

26 Balder

officer

36 Soft 38 Watery Saxon letter 42 On the

OCCUR 43 Not fem. 44 Brothers and sisters 46 Lily plant 47 Arizona city 48 Wife of

Cuchulainn 50 Lease

11-18

I VRLIFGC QGCGWCTBG WJK

FRNC VITOO

NLNDGWCN TK DITBJCG Yesterday's Cyptoquip: GAUNT SHEPHERD, EMBARRASSED AT MAKING A BLUNDER, LOOKED SHEEPISH.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: W equals C

QIGJQGQ

THREE BEDROOM, two bath, family room, gas fire place, privacy fence back yard, partially furnished walk to campus, up to four people. Call Bill, day 1 296-2263, evening 1-685-3418 (60-65)

FOR SALE-AUTO LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado. loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214 (52-61)

1983-CHEVROLET Cavaller Sport-Hatchback white, sunroof, stereo cassette, front wheel drive $4,100 or best offer Evenings, 539-6730 (56-60) 1978 Z-28 Camaro: All options, 1 tops, chrome wheels. AM-FM cassette, low miles. Loaded. $3,600 Call 537 0227. (56.60)

1979 GRAND Prix SJ. loaded, with all options! Black with mag wheels, low mileage. Sharp carl Call 532 5422 or 532-5143 (57-60)

1976 DATSUN B210, $1,600, Call 539-9202 (59-63) IS IT true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S. nent? Get the facts today! Call 1-312 742 1142 ext 3286-A (60) 1976 BUICK Skyhawk — Good condition, 5 speed, as is for $1,000 or best offer Call 539-4743 (60.62)

FOR SALE-MISC

OFFICE SUPPLIES - Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville 539 1413 (55tf) Clip and Save

> 1/4 Pound Hamburger

The Ritz

One burger per coupon.

BLACK LABRADOR pups. Six weeks old. Excellent hunting stock, $30. Call 537,8367, (56.64). FREE MAGNUM HAT

with every two bags purchased

21. Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

107 Pierre Street, Manhattan MEN'S 28" Free Spirit, red. 10 speed - excellent condition Call 776 3519 (57 61)

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc.

Strings and Drumsticks Buy one set and get second set at

50% Off DOD Guitar Effects Units

> 30% Off Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music 223 Poyntz

MINOLTA X-570 35mm camera, Tamron 35 70 zoom lens, Tamrac 612 Pro-bag. Smith Victor Lighting System 776 1909 (59.64)

Sub of the Week SPICEY

The best submarine joint in Aggieville AL'S DELI

South of Baskin Robbins

19" COLOR TV, $100, Panasonic stereo, $70, Panasonic fan, $15 Call 539-9202 (59-60)

IBM-PC 256K—color monitor, Internal 1200B mo-dem; Okidata 92 printer; Lotus 1-2-3 $4,500 or best offer Call 913-265-4663 after 7:00 p.m. (60-75)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES

1977 ESQUIRE, 14 x 70-Excellent condition, fur-539-2939 (56-60)

FOUND—GIRL'S Osceola High 1984 class ring, at 4th and Houston, Manhattan, 1,494,2770 to iden-

HELP WANTED SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co s 21 parks-5,000 + openings. Complete information, $5 Park Report. Mission Mountain Co., 651 2nd Ave. WN

Kalispell MT 59901 (55-63) JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions. Round trip air transportation provided Warm Toyng families prescreened by us for you to choose rom. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd. Wilton CT. 06897, (203) 834-1742. No fee (56-68)

INTERESTED IN the Travel Industry? The nation's largest college tour operator is looking for a re-sponsible campus representative to market the finest spring trips to Fr Lauderdale or Daytona Beach Earn free trips and good commissions white gaining great business experience. For more information call 1-900-323-8091 (58-80)

OVERSEAS JOBS - Summer year round Europe South America, Australia Asia All fields $900. 2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC PO Box 52 KS2. Corona Del Mar. CA 92625, ISB

GRILL MELP wanted immediately. Experience required, 15-20 hours per week. Apply in beisign, M. K s. Aggieville (5811) INTERNSHIP OPEN: Kansas Rural Center, a nurprofit, research, education and advocacy organiza. tion focusing on agricultural natural resource and rural issues, is offering a one year full time in ternship involving research in Alternative Agriculture. The Feasibility of Transition from Conven skills required. $900/mc ing sample to M. Fund, Kansas Rurai Center, 204 Pratt. Whiting Ks 66552 (59-67)

MANHATTAN EMERGENCY Sheller, Inc. seeks a weekend relief staff Responsibilities includ guest intakes enforcement of house rules, mea-supervision and house clean up. Write 831 Leavenworth or call 537-3113 for application (60-

NOW HIRING -Part time to full-time seamstress Must be willing to work in store Apply in perso Monday of Tuesday at Brass Buckle (60.61)

PART-TIME administrative position in a non-profit student-operated campus resource center Graduate in journalism or counseling preferred. Full job description available at U-LearN. Holfon Hall 02. Resume and letter of application should be ad dressed to Dr Susan Scott Angle Counseling Cen ter, Holton 103. Kansas State University, Manhat tan, Ks. 66506. Application deadline is Novembo

14 LOST GREEN NOTEBOOK in Durland 152 Thursday, Reward offered. Call 537-7498 after 4:00 p.m. or leave message in Seaton 240, (60) NOTICES TOSTADOS! TOSTADOS! All you can eat! Build you own with faco meat and refried beans. Top em with shiedded lettuce chopped tomatoes grated cheese sour gream, green phions, taco and salsa sauce Tuesday, November 19 in the K State Union

MALE ROOMMATE - One block from campus Individual study desk. $105 plus one-fourth utilities. call 776 0491 (56-60) FEMALE TO share nice quiet apartment-Fireplace. dishwasher own room Call 776 3070 keep trying (58 62)

ROOMMATE WANTED

capped accessible (31.75)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share one bedroom apartment across from Mariatt Half or Claffin Laundry facilities, $113.08 plus one half utilities. 776 2415. Keep trying (59 63)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share large house within walking distance to campus. With have ow bedroom, utilities paid, washer/dryer available Call Coris, 539-6628 (60-64)

18 SERVICES MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor 539-2070 Handi

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free prog-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537 9180, 103. S Fourth St. Suite 25 (111) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment 228 Poyntz, 776 4240 (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage 776-6166 (13tf)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage Profes signally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5 00 p.m. (35-65) LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter Call Bertha at 532 5542 or 776 8337 (51-

VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at J&L Bug Service. Rabbit s. bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1.494.2388 St. George. (45.64)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS - Suits, coats, jeans, zippers. All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Ag-gieville, 776 7959, (54-70) TYPING RESUMES, dissertations, reports Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Services. 539 6912 or 539 3773. (60-65)

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment Two blocks

NEED 100 overweight people to try new Herbal weight lose products. Teresa, 776-0713 or 776 5114 (58-62)

from campus, nice Available January 1st $270 month plus utilities 539-9500 evenings. (55-84)

SUBLEASE

Regents

Continued from Page 1

The regents are seeking a 10.2 percent increase - $47.4 million - in total general-use funds, which would amount to a total budget of $512.7 million for fiscal year 1987

Policy recommendations from the budget director's office indicate there should be no increases in unclassified salaries, student wages, utilities or faculty retirement program payments. The recommendations also state there should be no increase in classified salaries, although merit-step pay increases are included in that particular recommendation.

Shields said the budget cut decision is a question of trying to get the "best fit of the programs with the money available." Because of the budget crunch the state must maximize its resources, he said.

"We have programs we have to maintain which have no marginal choices. We have a prison system that is growing at a rate of 30 inmates per month."

Shields also said millions of dollars in federal funding are at stake if the state's mental health institutions are not maintained or upgraded to meet federal staffing regulations.

"Somehow we are going to get this budget fixed, and then we'll come back to figuring what an appropriate level of funding (for the regents institutions) is. There is just no money now," he said.

In reaction to Shields' presentation, Regent Wendell Lady of Overland Park said the budget cuts could lead to reductions or elimination of some programs.

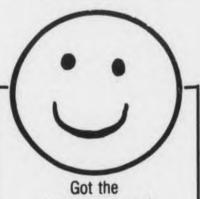

"Schools must live through the lack of funding," he said, indicating the budget problem could harm higher education programs throughout the state. "Money is going to have to come from somewhere.

During a budget appeal hearing Friday afternoon Regents Chairman Lawrence Jones of Wichita suggested the sale of the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City to generate revenue.

Under the budget recommendation, the $9.4 million spending decrease would be offset by taking revenue generated by the medical center. Instead of re-investing the money into the medical center it would be used by the entire regents system. This shuffling of funds helps account for the proposed .4 percent increase in total general-use funds.

Jones said he believes the fund shuffling is wrong and funds generated by hospital fees need to be "plowed back into the facility" to maintain a quality facility

"It would be a disaster to our medical education program, but as a businessman you have to consider it," Jones said of the possible sale of the medical center. "Before you bleed a successful operation until it is no longer successful, maybe we should sell while it's still valuable.

Typing "Blues"? GET HAPPY! with a

Brother electronic typewriter reg. 299.95 NOW 269.95

(across from Post Office)

We will entertain you at SKATE PLAZA Let's face the facts. "AGGIEVILLE IS DEAD ON TUESDAY AND THURSDAY NIGHTS!"

'Don't just sit home and sulk. Try a change of pace and come roller skating!" Seriously, folks, it's a real trip!

Every Tuesday & Thursday is STUDENT NIGHT. Adm. for students $2.

HRS: 7:30-9:30 with KSU I.D. For private parties phone 776-6175 or 776-7272 Manager Jon Hoogendoorn the center as a business proposition.'

The medical center is doing well in the "tough," competitive environment in Kansas City, Jones said. But he added the ex-appropriation of funds from the medical center would in effect be "killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

It's important we not lose respect for

Stanley Koplik, executive director for the regents, who also attended the budget appeal hearing, requested the $9.4 million cut in state general funds be restored so the regents could allocate a pay increase to faculty members in the next fiscal year. Without faculty pay raises, quality problems could arise in the coming years, he said.

Jones said the budget cuts are part of a disturbing trend exhibited by lawmakers to move away from financing the state's higher education programs. He asserted that the economic growth and stability of the state are at risk.

Refunding

Continued from Page 1

mittee. Guidelines set by the committee dictate the money cannot be used for programs receiving activity fee funds or for projects that are the state's responsibility. The programs must be University-wide and selfsupporting.

Funding for the KSU Police Department, KSDB-FM, Farrell Library and the Debate Squad are some of the projects which have been proposed; however, Miller said senate's decision regarding the $700,000 must be made in cooperation with William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services. and President Duane Acker. Acker maintains veto power over all senate legislation.

The regents - with the assistance of University officials - will make a formal bond purchase agreement with Stern Brothers and Co. of Wichita to initiate the refunding deviates significantly from earlier proposals to finance existing and future student debt. Initially, plans called for the issuance of $7 million in student bonds to cover nearly 45 percent of the cost of the $16.1 million coliseum. Because the University has collected $2.2 million from students, the bond issuance to finance the student's contribution to the coliseum would have been cut to $4.8 million.

Repayment of the $4.8 million coliseum bond issuance and the resulting $2 million in interest expense would have been completed in 1996. But the new plan will reduce the amount of money the University borrows for the coliseum and shorten the repayment period.

Under provisions of the new plan, $2.8 million of the total $3.8 million to be saved by refunding student debt will be contributed to the coliseum

Miller said by combining the $2.8 million with the $2.2 million in student fees already collected, the University will reduce borrowing for the coliseum to $2 million - $2.8 The regents-approved plan million less than previously anticipated.

"RARE BOOKS & RARE PEOPLE"

Ardis Glenn... proprietor, Glenn Books, Kansas City

Monday, Nov. 18 7:30 p.m.

Cottonwood Room

Budweiser

KING OF BEERS

Presentation sponsored by:

K-State Friends of the Libraries

Come, Watch, Cheer and Drink a Beer as Body by Schliebe, Budweiser and KMKF 101+ presents

Manhattan's Most Physical Contest at Bushwacker's Nov. 19

Come cheer on 12 of Manhattan's most physically fit people as they struggle for the $500 first place prize.

PREFERRED CARD HOLDERS This Week's Special

Monday-Thursday . . . . . . . . . any movie 99¢

Friday-Saturday Rent 1 tape at $2.00 and get the 2nd tape from the Children&Familly or Classic Selection...for just PREFERRED CARD HOLDERS

PRE-VIEW

Advance Movie Rentals

99 Movies.....$95.69. ....$.96 ea. $65.07....$1.30 ea. Movies.... $36.36.. Movies....

**Plus Tax***

MAGNAVOX VCR RENTALS

Daily Rate......$4.78 Weekly Rate . . . . $13.40 Monthly Rate....$36.36

***Plus Tax*** deposit for preferred card holders

10 am-9 pm

Village Plaza Shopping Center In the New South Addition

537-1115

In Aggieville

TAPE RENTALS

Everyday Low Price

$2.75 per tape

Preferred Card Holders

$2.00 per tape

Appeals

Continued from Page 1

"Appeal boards are unlike courts; they let their sentiment and their own personal feelings enter into their decision-making process," Beckom

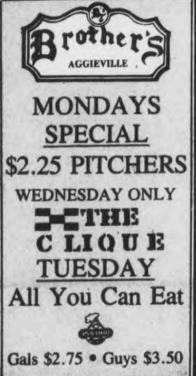

Walter Cash, assistant professor of anatomy and physiology and member of the faculty/staff appeals board, said cases are weighed on an individual basis, but the high percentage of faculty/staff appeals approved for 1984 could be because the faculty write more effective appeals.

"If it appears the appeal is legitimate, we approve it," Cash said. "It could just be that we are older and more mellow.'

Susan Sommers, sophomore in ap-

Happy B-Day BENJ

parel design and member of the student appeals board, gave several reasons fewer students appeals are approved.

"Students hear you can get an appeal approved by a certain excuse and they use it to try to get their ticket appealed," Sommers said. "Often students use the excuse 'ignorance due to the fact I'm a freshman."

She said the method of appeal is important also.

'Some students are really rude and we get nasty comments from people. If their appeals were written better and they had a better case, there would be more (approved) appeals," she said.

Sommers said the difference in student parking and faculty parking spaces could be the reason for the difference in the number of tickets. In 1984, 3,300 faculty/staff permits and 8,357 student permits, including residence hall permits, were sold. For faculty/staff parking only, there were more than 1,400 spaces during 1984. Additionally, there were 1,968 student and faculty/staff parking spaces.

Student-only parking on campus during 1984 totaled 542 parking spaces, not including residence hall parking. Of the 2,738 parking spaces for residence hall lots, 60 percent of these are for Jardine Terrace and Edwards Hall.

FREE SPEECH

SIX PERSUASIVE SPEECHES ON KSU ISSUES —

Selected from Public Speaking Class 321

'KSU Campus Lighting is Inadequate' by Peter Obetz

'Student Senate Should Give McCain Auditorium $50,000 Endowment to Help Reduce Cost of Student Tickets"

'KSU Campus Should be more Accessible to the Handicapped' by Sherry Smith

'Date Rape at KSU''

by Jenny Langton 'KSU Coliseum Should Undergo Prescribed Studies Before Student Funding"

by Keith Mehner

'Denison and College Heights Intersection Needs a Crosswalk' by Mike Claflin Tuesday, November 19, 1985 Nichols Hall Theatre

12:00-1:00 p.m. These speeches are free - the public is invited

Tuesday

November 19, 1985

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 61

British envoy to meet again with U.S.-hostage holders

By The Associated Press

LONDON - The Archbishop of Canterbury's special envoy left for Lebanon Monday night to meet again with kidnappers of Americans whose release he is trying to arrange. He conferred with U.S. officials in London.

"I think there are certain things that I can now say (to the kidnappers) which I hope will take the conversations forward and help us in this long and difficult process of negotiation," Terry Waite told reporters at London's Heathrow Airport.

He left with obvious urgency less than 24 hours after arriving from Beirut. He went there last week after four of six missing Americans wrote an appeal for help to Archbishop Robert Runcie, spiritual head of the Anglican church. He left on a Paris-bound flight and was to fly on to the Lebanese capital today.

Waite spent the morning with U.S. officials who came to London for the meeting, and conferred separately later with British

He made a long report to the archbishop Sunday night at Lambeth Palace, Runcie's London residence.

The envoy would not identify the U.S. officials or give details of the talks.

"Loose words can cost lives and I don't want any more lives to be lost in this unhappy drama," he said. "All I will say is that today we had extremely useful and helpful conversations."

Waite said he remained "optimistic" and would stay in Beirut "as long as necessary," but would not predict when the hostages might be released.

"The point is that when you have momentum you must keep it going," he said. "I think there's a good chance we're going to go forward again.

He urged the captives' families to keep their hopes up: "While we've got this momentum and while we're in talking that's a good sign.'

Waite had said Sunday that he would return to Beirut later.

Superpowers dispute 'Star Wars,' promise efforts to end arms race

By The Associated Press

GENEVA - Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev joined President Reagan in this chilly seat of neutrality Monday, and on the eve of their summit the superpower chiefs squared off on "Star Wars," the anti-missile program that lies at the heart of lagging efforts to forge a new arms agreement.

American and Soviet officials were sharpening their proposals for today's first session between the 74-year-old Reagan and Gorbachev - a man 20 years his junior and still relatively untested in international affairs.

Both leaders pledged fidelity to efforts to end the superpower arms race, but discussed sharply divergent views on how to achieve the goal.

Gorbachev said he came to discuss "primarily the question of what can be done to stop the unprecedented arms race which has unfolded in the world (and) to prevent it from spreading into new spheres."

It was an unmistakable reference to Reagan's program to develop a defensive space shield that could bring down nuclear missiles before they reach their targets.

Reagan, questioned about the Soviet leader's statement, told reporters, "We both must have the same intentions. If he feels as strongly that way as I do, then we'll end the arms race.'

But he remained determined to search for a space-based defense, best known as Star Wars despite his dislike for the term, saying, "Just wait'll he hears my pro-

Reagan's national security adviser, Robert C. McFarlane, also defended the Star Wars research program, telling reporters "the Soviet Union has driven us to this" by building up its own offensive nuclear arsenal and conducting a defensive research program of its own.

The Soviet Union, he said, "could not reasonably expect any country to stand by idly and watch" while Moscow pursued a program of their own.

In a new development Monday, a Soviet official traced a possible Kremlin proposal to break the impasse on space weapons by establishing a joint scientific panel for superpower intellectuals to consider "Star Wars" issues together. The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he did not know whether Gorbachev might actually raise such a proposal to Reagan. But the source said

See SUMMIT, Page 5

Staff/Andy Nelso

Censorship speaker

Monday in the Union Director's Conference Room before his All- sorship" during his address in McCain Auditorium. See story on page 3.

Author Ariel Dorfman ponders a reporter's question at a press conference University Convocation speech. Dorfman spoke on the "Tyranny of Cen-

Ad hoc group reviews proposals for $700,000

By JANE KRIEGER Collegian Reporter

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee met Monday to discuss requests from seven groups soliciting funds generated from the refinancing of $4.2 million in existing student debt. The refinancing frees $3.8 million for University projects. Of that amount, $700,000 has been set aside for Student Senate to allocate.

The committee granted tentative hearings to Jana Hesser, chairperson of fund raising for KSU Child Care Cooperative; Charles Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry; Jim Burns, sophomore in general and president of Students for Handicapped Concerns; Richard Diehl, director of McCain Auditorium; and Jeff Bushey, junior in business administration and member of the KSU Crew Team. The committee discussed seven funding requests. To be considered Police official for funding, a request must meet guidelines set by the committee at its seeks funding first meeting.

The guidelines are: money will not groups which currently receive student activity funds; the project should be long-lasting and have recognizable contributions to K-State; the project should be University-wide and broad-based; money will not be used for projects which are the state's responsibility; and the project should be selfsupporting after the first year and not have the potential to become a financial burden.

Hesser is requesting $86,000 for the Child Care Cooperative to buy equipment and renovate building L in Jardine Terrace, where the care center is located. Currently the co-op, which has 75 percent student usage, has a $19,000 loan from the KSU Foundation. Hesser has requested three more loans from the foundation, ranging from $20,000 to $22,000, totaling $86,000. If the co-op received funding it could pay off its loan from the foundation one year earlier than estimated.

The grain science department is requesting $17,096 to purchase a new oven. Students are now baking with an oven built in 1911. The grain

See $700,000, Page 10

be used to fund existing programs or for equipment

By SHERRI HAGER Collegian Reporter

The KSU Police Department has submitted an $18,000 request to the Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee to change the existing emergency telephones to radio

Switching to radio signals will decrease the expenses of the present system without altering quality or effectiveness, said Capt. Charles Beckom, superintendent of the campus police.

He said one of the advantages of the radio signals is that the new system would be supplemented with battery power. The current system is not backed up with a battery, Beckom said, so when a blackout occurs the telephone company must repair the lines.

The request has met the criteria set up by the committee - money cannot be used for existing programs already receiving activity fee funds or for projects which are the state's responsibility.

See LIGHTS, Page 5

Manhattan center of wheat promotion

5 entities aid sales of Kansas grain

By RANAE YOUNG Collegian Reporter

Manhattan is becoming more recognized as a center for wheat promotion, said Jim Bair, marketing specialist for the Kansas Wheat Commission.

Manhattan has long been recognized by foreign markets as a center for wheat promotion, he said. Only recently have people in Kansas and the nation begun to see the wide variety of wheat industry facilities in Manhattan.

The Kansas Wheat Commission, the Department of Grain Sciences and Industry - which offers the only bachelor's degrees in feed science and milling in the free world the U.S. Grain Marketing Research Laboratory, the Wheat Quality Council and the American Institute of Baking are all located within five miles of each other.

The Kansas Wheat Commission was developed in 1957 by the Legislature upon the request of wheat farmers, who realized they needed a representative to help promote their product in foreign markets, he said.

The Wheat Commission moved to Manhattan in the summer of 1984 because other industries already located here promoted the importance of wheat, Bair said.

"Our only mission is to increase the marketing of wheat," he said.

An example of this occurred in 1982, when a wheat scab problem (a disease often toxic to animals when consumed) appeared. The Soviets found out about the wheat scab and said they would not buy any more wheat.

The commission spent its own money to bring their experts here to inspect the wheat and elevators, he said. They found out the problem was not as severe as their reports had indicated. "The Soviets bought 100 million bushels more in 1983, than they would have, had not we done what we did," Bair said.

Another facility of the wheat industry is the U.S. Grain Marketing Research Laboratory which deals primarily with the biological, chemical and engineering aspects of wheat.

In 1968 the Department of Agriculture started building the laboratory and by 1971 all aspects concerning wheat quality were brought together under one roof, said William McGaughey, director of the Biological Research Unit.

"Manhattan was considered the best place to build the lab. Not only is Kansas a major wheat producer, but it is becoming known for its excellence in research on wheat," he said.

"We are the only lab of this type in the country dealing with the quality of hard red winter wheat," he said.

Also involved in the control of wheat quali-See WHEAT, Page 10

1984 farm profits surpass those in '83, officials say

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Farm income during 1984 is estimated at $5.9 billion by the Economic Research Service of the federal Department of Agriculture, which represents a 10 percent increase over the previous year, a report said Monday.

The Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said the income estimates were based on cash receipts from farm marketing in the state last year.

The reporting service noted that livestock and related product sales increased 14 percent from a record low in 1983, but remained 4 percent below record levels established in 1979.

Revenue from crops jumped 5 percent in 1964 over the totals in 1963, producing $2.3 billion. The total still fell 9 percent below the 1979 levels.

Cattle marketing in 1984 generated $3.08 billion and accounted for 52 percent of all receipts. Wheat was the second biggest revenue producer, bringing in $1.4 billion or 24 percent of the state total.

Adding government payments of $573.9 million to the crop and livestock figures brings the total cash receipts to $6.5 billion, the highest level ever.

The reporting service pointed out that while gross farm income increased 9 percent to an average of $94,025 per farm, production expenses climbed 2 percent to reach record levels of $6.1 billion.

The biggest expense was in livestockrelated purchases which totaled $1.3

Inside

K-State students traveled to Columbia, Mo., to rappel the cliffs of Missouri. See Page 6.

Weather

Cloudy and much colder today with a 50 percent chance of rain possibly changing to snow, afternoon highs falling to low 30s. Wind north to northwest 15 to 25 mph.

Sports

Gerald Alphin is the second leading receiver in the Big Eight Conference. See Page 8.

INTERNATIONAL

Peres urges better Soviet relations

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Shimon Peres urged Moscow on Monday to restore relations with Israel, but he was quoted as telling a Parliament committee that free emigration of Jews from the Soviet Union is more important.

Journalists who were briefed by members said Peres also told the Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee the government would allow the Soviet Union a role in Middle East peace negotiations if it permitted Jews to emigrate.

Peres earlier had excluded the Soviet Union and China, two of the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council, from a role in the Middle East peace talks unless they resume diplomatic relations with Israel. Jordan wants the involvement of all permanent members - the two communist powers, the United States, France and Britain.

Helicopter crash kills U.S. soldier

NAPLES, Italy - A helicopter crashed onto the deck of the USS Iwo Jima, killing a sailor and injuring five crewmen, a U.S. military spokesman said Monday.

The Iwo Jima is a helicopter carrier ship, and the CH-46 helicopter was delivering supplies when it crashed into a Huey Cobra gunship parked on the deck, said Lt. Gregory Hartung, public affairs officer for Commander Fleet Air Mediterranean.

He said the accident occurred at 6:16 p.m. Sunday while the Iwo Jima was about 50 miles off the coast of Sicily on a routine operation of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Identities of the victims were being withheld pending notification of their relatives, Hartung said.

He said the one person killed was a member of the Iwo Jima crew and four of those injured were aboard the helicopter, which had taken off from the USS San Diego.

Pope to visit 14 cities in India

VATICAN CITY - Pope John Paul II will visit 14 cities in India during a 10-day trip to the predominantly Hindu country in February, the Vatican announced Monday

The Feb. 1-10 trip will be John Paul's 29th foreign tour. The Vatican said the pope will arrive in New Delhi, the capital, and then go on to Ranchi and Shillong. He will spend Feb. 4 and 5 in Calcutta and then travel to Madras and Mangalore.

John Paul is scheduled to spend Feb. 6 and 7 in Goa, the former Portuguese colony that is a center of Roman Catholicism in India. He then travels to Trichur, Cochin, Kottayam, Trivandrum, Vasai and Poona before ending his journey in Bombay.

About 82 percent of India's 750 million people are Hindus. About 1.5 percent, or 12.5 million, are Roman Catholics.

REGIONAL

Senate confirms Burgess for post

WASHINGTON - The United States Senate on Monday confirmed Benjamin Burgess as the new U.S. attorney for Kansas, filling a vacancy created about 18 months ago when James Marquez resigned to accept a position with the federal Department of Transportation.

Walt Riker, a spokesman for Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the Senate approved of Burgess' nomination on a voice vote Monday afternoon. Burgess has served as the acting U.S. attorney for Kansas since Marquez's resignation.

President Reagan recommended on Oct. 23 that the Senate approve Burgess's nomination, a move that began confirmation procedings in the Senate Judiciary Committee. Burgess also had received recommendations from both Dole and Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., Riker said.

Although Burgess did not appear before any Senate confirmation panels, he was required to complete a questionaire covering his financial, biographical and legal background, Riker said.

Burgess, a native of Salina and a graduate of Washburn Law School, served as Reno County attorney before becoming an assistant U.S. attorney in the Wichita office.

Burgess could not be reached for comment Friday evening.

Hyatt engineers offer resignations

ST. LOUIS — The structural engineers who designed the Hyatt Regency Hotel's skywalks, which collapsed in 1981 and killed 114 people, have offered to resign from the St. Louis firm that employed them, one of the engineers said Monday.

Jack D. Gillum said he and Daniel Duncan, who are employed by GCE International Inc., submitted the resignation offers Friday after Missouri Administrative Hearing Commissioner James Deutsch recommended that disciplinary action be taken against them.

Duncan could not be reached for comment. Gillum said he and Duncan offered the resignations in person to Mike Barrett, chairman of the board for GCE. The company's board of directors will decide whether to accept the resignations, Gillum

NATIONAL

Contraceptive legal battle begins

BALTIMORE - The first major legal battle over the nation's most widely used intrauterine contraceptive device began Monday, with an attorney telling jurors that G.D. Searle & Co. rushed the Copper 7 to market on the basis of a "fatally flawed" study.

The 17 plaintiffs, women from all parts of the country, blame the device for pelvic inflammations, sterility and other gynecological problems. They are seeking unspecified damages

In an emotional opening to the federal court trial, eight of the women were introduced from their front row seats as their attorney explained the medical problems he said they suffered from using the IUD. Several wept after they sat down.

Immigration to demote agents

WASHINGTON - The No. 2 official of the Immigration and Naturalization Service moved Monday to demote and suspend without pay two Border Patrol agents involved in the premature return of a would-be Soviet defector to his ship.

Associate Commissioner Thomas C. Ferguson proposed the discipline for two unidentified agents in the New Orleans, La., area sector and also proposed a letter of reprimand for a supervisor there.

Under Civil Service rules, those proposed for punishment will have 10 days to respond. Alan C. Nelson, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, would make the final decision. Any disciplinary action which Nelson might take could then be appealed after 30 days to the Merit Systems Protection Board.

Hurricane Kate forces evacuations

MIAMI - People flocked out of the vulnerable Florida Keys on Monday and Gov. Bob Graham declared a state of emergency in South Florida as Hurricane Kate churned across tiny Bahamian

Boaters gathering to escape winter in the North were told to head for safe inland harbors, and residents of mobile homes and beachfront condominiums were urged to find more-secure shelter.

At 4 p.m. CST, Kate's highest sustained winds of 100 mph were centered near latitude 22.0 north and longitude 76.0 west, in the southeastern Bahamas and about 375 miles southeast of Miami, in what local weather veterans call "Hurricane Alley."

Homeless woman murders 2

NEW YORK - A homeless woman who claimed to be a partner of the Deak-Perera currency exchange walked into its headquarters Monday and opened fire, killing a receptionist and the company's 80-year-old chairman, police said.

The shooting occurred at about 11:30 a.m. at the 21st-floor Lower Manhattan offices of the company, the nation's largest non-bank dealer in currency and precious metals now involved in bankruptcy

Lois Lang, 44, walked up to receptionist Frances Lauder, 58, and shot twice, police Capt. William Quigley said. One bullet hit the wall, and the other went through Lauder's head.

PEOPLE

Princess Anne begins African tour

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania - Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, arrived here Monday at the start of a threeweek tour of four African countries.

The princess, who is president of the Save the Children Fund, will visit projects run by the private British relief agency in Tanzania, Zambia, Mozambique and Sudan.

After her arrival, Princess Anne paid a courtesy call on newly appointed Prime Minister Joseph Warioba, then drove past hundreds of school children and others waving British flags to Karimjee Hall. The building dates from British rule and is the seat of Tanzania's parliament.

The 34-year-old princess also attended a private reception at the residence of the British high commissioner, John Sankey. On Monday evening, she was scheduled to attend a dinner with President Ali

Later, the princess was scheduled to attend the official opening of the new Songea-Makambako highway in the southern part of Tanzania. The project was partly funded by Britain.

CBS critic joins New York Times

NEW YORK - Peter Boyer, a media critic for the CBS Morning News since February, has resigned to join The New York Times, spokesmen for both organizations said Monday.

Boyer will start work at the Times in two weeks, CBS spokesman Jim Noonan said. A Times spokesman, Elliot Sanger, declined to describe Boyer's new job, saying only that he would be a reporter. Boyer, 33, previously was Los Angeles Times bureau chief in Atlanta and worked for The Associated Press in Los Angeles.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT of fers computerized planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARDS APPLICATIONS are available in Ackert 233 and are due Dec. 1.

FREE HEARING TESTS for students will be available from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Leasure 107.

GERMAN TABLE will meet at 12:30 p.m. in

ARTS AND SCIENCES AMBASSADORS will meet at 9 p.m. in the basement of Dark Horse. BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Union 2 AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL

ENGINEERS will take yearbook pictures at 7:15 p.m., in Calvin 102.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 206. SPURS will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

TAU BETA PI will meet and take yearbook pic-tures at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL will take

FRENCH TABLE will meet at 11:30 a.m. in

PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB will meet

INDUSTRIAL/ORGANIZATIONAL

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB will meet and take

PI SIGMA EPSILON will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight room

AFRICAN STUDENT UNION will meet to see a film at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

SCIENCE EDUCATION STUDENT ASSOCIA-

BLOCK AND BRIDLE officers will meet at 7 p.m. in Umberger Williams Auditorium. A general meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m.

POULTRY SCIENCE CLUB will meet at 7 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

FENIX will have a forum at 2 p.m. in Holton

Foreclosure threat spurs MCC show, fund-raising efforts

By MARK MCDERMET Collegian Reporter

Manhattan Christian College is sponsoring a benefit concert Wednesday to help raise $1.6 million by Dec. 6 in order to fight foreclosure by the Christian Church Extension Foundation of Denver. The concert, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the Westview Community Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd., has been organized as part of a fundraising campaign to pay off all debts to the foundation, said David Smale, director of public relations at MCC.

Performing at the concert will be Ruby Ann Poulson, mezzo-soprano; Edward Wolfe, pianist; Glenda Secrest, lyric-coloratura; and Jon Secrest, tenor. Selections will be from music theatre, art and sacred songs, opera and romantic piano literature, Smale said.

Poulson has a bachelor's degree in music from the University of Idaho, and a master's degree in music from the University of Northern Colorado. He currently teaches music history; theory; MCC's vocal ensemble, "New Creation"; and the instrumental ensemble, "Sound of Life."

Wolfe, who teaches music theory, working on a doctorate in musical tickets up on arrival.

Glenda Secrest has a bachelor's degree in music and a master's degree in vocal performance from Arizona State University, teaches private vocal lessons at MCC and is assistant director of "The Inspiration Ringers.'

Jon Secrest conducts MCC's vocal music group, "The Celebration Singers," and teaches voice and church music courses. He is currently working toward a master's degree in vocal performance at K-State.

MCC has currently raised approximately $265,000 toward retiring the debt to CCEF Smale said the school also has 'substantial pledges," with most funds coming from individuals rather than churches. "I am optimistic we will reach our goal," Smale said, adding he expects even more funds as a result of "Miracle Sunday," Nov. 24, when special offerings will be collected across the country. Tickets for the concert are available at the MCC Development Office for a minimum donation of $25. K-State students with a valid ID will be admitted for a $5 donation. No tickets will be sold at the door, piano and MCC's English handbell but interested persons may call the choir, "The Inspiration Ringers," is school in advance and pick the

Expensive keyboard stolen from laboratory

By The Collegian Staff

A computer keyboard, with an estimated value of $500, was stolen from Call Hall over the weekend, according to Charles Beckom, captain of the KSU Police Department. The theft was discovered Monday morning.

The keyboard was taken from a nutrition laboratory in the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry. The lab was locked at the time of the burglary and there was no evidence of a break-in, police

No evidence has been discovered as to the exact time of the theft. Campus police are investigating the possibility of the use of a key to enter the lab.

Authorities at Call Hall were unavailable for comment Monday.

The make of the stolen keyboard is Zenith and the serial number is unknown, according to the report.

Mary Alice Lair Vice Chair Republican Party

State of Kansas

Will speak to College Republicans 7 p.m. Union Room 206 Yearbook Pictures after the meeting

present

All You Can Eat

Brother's, Tuesday, Nov. 19 Guys $3.50 Gals $2.75

539-4888

SCRATCHGARD," the super-tough gold-tone case finish that wards off scratches. Trust Seiko Quartz to design timeless classics that endure in the greatest of style.

> GERALD'S JEWELERS

> > 419 Poyntz 776-7600

SEIKO

By SUSAN D. BAIRD Collegian Reporter

Artistic and media censorship, made possible by a people's fear, conformity and ignorance of the past, is found in the United States as well as in nations under authoritarian control, a Chilean writer said Monday

"Censorship is possible because of fear. Often people think the only way to survive and not be crushed is to conform," said exiled Ariel Dorfman, native of Chile and author of "The Empire's Old Clothes."

Dorfman spoke on "Tyranny of Censorship" as part of the All-University Convocation series of lectures in McCain Auditorium.

If people don't pay attention to the past, they are betraying the dead and condemning a country's future, he

"When you erase the past, you are erasing the future," Dorfman said. This fear, conformity and ignorance of the past is a natural state

"preserved by tradition and kept in the language," Dorfman said. The media in the United States is full of black holes in America's consciousness, he said. These holes of affairs in the United States that is reside in large fears and small prejudices of the public. American writers feel the written word can't take part in the quest for a social identity, Dorfman said. They envy the significance of Latin American writers because of the influence they have over the people. Although the U.S. government doesn't directly intervene in the media, there is censorship, Dorfman

Corporate control of publishing houses, attack on freedom-ofinformation rights, and exclusion of certain people as subject material are examples of overt control of the media, he said.

It's not enough for the media to de- time."

fend the right of communication, Dorfman said.

"I think it's essential to denounce and break down these overt forms of censorship," he said. "Censorship of the word is backed up by a censorship of the body" in Chile through such torture methods as cutting out the tongue, extraction of teeth, incarceration in a concentration camp and electrocution, Dorfman said.

In addition to these, censorship exists at the production level because of low production capabilities in poor countries, he said. Literacy is also censored.

During the last 10 years, resistance to the government in Chile has been growing, Dorfman said. At first opposition newspapers were openly prohibited.

The Chilean government tolerated the newspapers if they stayed within certain bounds. As long as the population was overcome with fear, the newspapers were not important, he said.

When the resistance became public, the censorship became public. When the papers ran stories of violence in the streets, the government said left-wing radicals caused the violence, Dorfman said.

Newspapers published pictures showing that the military caused the violence, he said. Then the government passed a law banning all pictures from publication. Because of public pressure the government allowed newspapers to begin publishing pictures again.

Dorfman said this censorship was a "real service to posterity. He (the Chilean President) gave us the gift of a voyage of his own fears."

The general idea was to control the image if you couldn't control reality, Dorfman said.

"If you control the eye, the ears and mind will follow," he said. "You can fool all of the people all of the

Teachers use equity theories in class

By JANET MATTHIAS Collegian Reporter

Educating elementary school students in the areas of their talents despite stereotypes of sex or ethnicity is the goal of the College of Education's program concerning sex equity in the classroom.

Based on a series of monographs produced by members of a committee on Sex Equity in Teacher Education, University faculty members have been utilizing sex equity theories in their classrooms this fall, said Nancy Smith, associate professor of curriculum and instuction, and project director of the committee.

"My students have been very receptive," said Larry Enochs, assistant professor of curriculum and instuction, who has used these theories in his course, Science in the Elementary Schools. "Since most elementary teachers are women, they have had the experience of being filtered out of opportunities only because of their sex. We are trying to teach teachers how to avoid the same thing in their classrooms."

"Women represent a resource which we can no longer ignore," Enochs said.

Equity in elementary teacher education programs is the focus of a federally funded study conducted by several faculty members of the education college.

"We are not reducing content; we are just approaching it in a different manner, with more emphasis on encouraging students to do what they are good at, and not what stereotypes say they should do," Smith said.

"Our long-range goal is to prepare all children to be better students - girls who are good in math and science, boys who are good in reading," she said.

The College of Education has the responsibility of producing effective teachers, and a truly effective teacher is equitable, Smith said.

"An equitable teacher is one who makes instructional decisions based upon an understanding of each learner's needs and abilities, not on stereotypes related to students' sex, ethnic background...," Smith states in the preface to the material the committee will submit to the government as part of the yearlong study. "An equitable teacher creates a learning environment that not only facilitates optimum learning for each student, but promotes self-esteem and respect for human diversity."

The members of the committee developed 11 monographs scholarly papers on a single topic to demonstrate a systematic approach to the integration of sex equity in an elementary pre-service teacher education program. The monographs are addressed to professors who teach methodology courses in social studies, reading, language arts, math, science, media, educational sociology and educational psychology, to be used in their curricula.

"There is plenty of material available about sex equity," Smith

Plant growth to curtail African famine

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Newly analyzed satellite photographs of famine-torn regions of Africa show substantial increases in vegetation during the last year - a sign that the drought may be easing, a researcher says.

"Things are better in many places," said James Tucker of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland. "It probably means that the natural conditions underlying the drought are somewhat better in many areas," he said.

The satellite images show substantial increases in vegetation in many scattered areas in the Sahel - the semi-arid area lying along the southern border of the Sahara desert, Tucker said in an interview.

The images were made in August and September of 1984, and again in August and September of this year. The vegetation consists largely of grass, which is not edible but which will support livestock, Tucker said.

"These areas are almost exclusively pastoral." he said. "Things are based on animals being the converter of energy for human uses, either through milk or meat, because people can't eat grass."

Increased vegetation growth does not necessarily mean more rain has fallen, Tucker said. But, it does suggest that the rain occurred at times that are best for nurturing plant growth.

'If all the rain comes at one time, that's not good," said Tucker, because the rain will run off before plant seedlings can use it. "The total amount of rainfall is only one part of

Have story or photo ideas?

CALL 532-6556

E DELIVER.

You've survived months of labor pains. And, you've produced a beautiful, healthy thesis. Now, breathe easy and let kinko's

50% Cotton Copies

at 7¢

Free collation

with this ad

Passport Photos · Binding · And much more!

reproduce your brain-child with speed,

efficiency and plenty of TLC

the story. There may have been less rain, but it was more useful."

Tucker said the satellite photographs provide information that is difficult to get otherwise because there are no ground-based weather stations or because political unrest makes travel to remote areas impossible. In addition, Tucker said, ground observers usually have detailed knowledge of only small areas, and the observers' judgments of vegetation changes are subjective. The satellite observations are precise and can be obtained quickly, he said.

The low cost of the satellite photographs, compiled from multiple images made by NOAA-9, operated by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, is also a factor, he said.

It costs about $150 a day to monitor the entire Sahel, a region stretching across the African continent from Senegal in the west, across Mauritania, Mali, Bourkina-Fasso, Niger, Chad, Sudan and into Ethiopia and Somalia in the east.

Shooting of Greek boy sparks riots in 3 cities

By The Associated Press

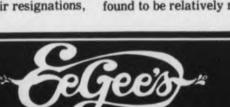

ATHENS, Greece - Police shot and killed a 15-year-old boy who hurled fire bombs at a police bus Monday and rioters rampaged through the streets of three Greek cities in response. Thirty-eight people, including 20 policemen, were reported injured in Athens alone.

Students and self-proclaimed anarchists threw fire bombs at banks and stores in Athens, Salonica and Xanthi. The interior minister and his deputy submitted their resignations, but Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou ordered them to stay on.

Police called it the worst rioting in years in the capital, and said at least 70 people were arrested. It presented Papandreou with the worst domestic problem since his Socialist government came to power in October 1981.

Papandreou described the killing as "appalling," and ordered an inquiry so "appropriate exemplary sanctions may be imposed not only against the instigator but also against any persons who might be found to be relatively responsible."

Today's Special

Cheesy Bacon Burger

1/3 lb., 90% lean burger on a sesame seed bun covered with cheddar cheese and bacon. Includes waffle fries and medium drink.

12th & Laramie

537-3999

Open daily

til midnight

1110 Laramie

537-7340

General Auditions

The Pirates of Penzance by William S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan

*Monday, November 18 — General Audition

*Tuesday, November 19 — General Audition

Wednesday, November 20 — Callback Audition *Come to only one of these.

7:00 p.m. — McCain Auditorium

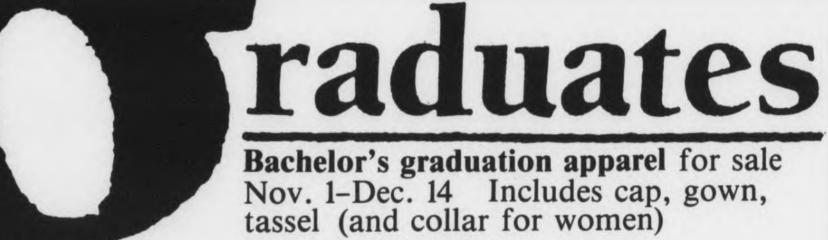

Actors, Singers, Dancers Needed: Approximately 30 men and 11 women

Please prepare two contrasting songs: one ballad or aria and one up-tempo song. (Those who come without prepared songs will be asked to sing "America the Beautiful")

Please come dressed to move!

Performances Feb. 27, 28, Mar 1, 1986 in McCain Auditorium

.........

Price $13.97 including tax.

Mail orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height, weight, hat size, degree and $1.50 for postage and handling.

Master, PHD, and faculty rentals will be taken at the supply Dept. Gift Counter Nov. 1-Nov. 30. After Nov. 30 a $3.00 late fee will be added.

> Masters $19.50°

$10.50*

Rental Prices: Full Set Cap/Gown/Tassel Hood only

* add 31/2/ sales tax

Announcements

Non-Personalized

$4.92 (pkg. of 10) includes tax

Personalized

$20.18 (pkg. of 20) includes tax $31.05 (pkg. of 40) includes tax $40.37 (pkg. of 60) includes tax

PHD

$21.00°

$11.50* $9.50*

Editorial Board: Tim Carpenter, Patty Reinert, A. Scharnhorst, Wayne T. Price, Lillian Zier, Andy Nelson, Tom Schultes, LeAnne Stowe

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20 semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Quality education needed

Since the release of the findings of the National Commission on Excellence in Education in April 1983, there seems to be a neverending stream of reports concerning the quality of education in the United States.

One of the most recent tests, conducted by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, indicates a severe lack of history knowledge in high-school

For example, two-thirds of the 200 students tested could not place the Civil War in the correct half-century. Fifty percent could not identify the Supreme Court decision in Brown vs. the Topeka Board of Education. Fifty percent also failed to recognize the names of Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin; 75 percent did not know the significance of Walt Whitman, E.E. Cummings, Henry David Thoreau or Carl Sandburg.

One reason cited for the lack of awareness was the revisions in curriculums over the past two decades, with the focus of history education turning toward making the past relevant to the present. Diane Ravitch, adjunct professor of history and education at Columbia University Teachers College, who helped originate the "Foundations of Literacy" study said. "If students don't really know about the most important, seminal events in U.S. history, how can they know what's worth saving?'

Nationally, education systems have introduced programs for teachers regarding their view of history, increasing the instructor's understanding of the subject and how to use creative resources, such as letters, novels and poetry from from the period being studied.

But while it may be popular to blame educational institutions for this lack of knowledge, there are, or at least should be, other educational forces to affect the learning process — most notably, the home environment.

For the Manhattan community, this process may be enhanced by the Education Fair scheduled from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. It should be of prime importance to the students' guardians that efforts are being made to enhance the positive aspects of an education and its applicability toward the future.

The proper, positive attitude for education must be instilled in the student from more than a teacher's lecture if the educational process in the United States is to be not only adequate but also successful.

> Tom Schultes, for the editorial board

Editorial

Tuesday, November 19, 1985 — 4

Laser technology for 'Star Wars' lacking

"I know of no group of scientists which believes it to be possible to build a leak-proof shield against nuclear missiles," former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, said on Nov. 12.

"Star Wars" is unworkable as a leak-proof defense against ICBMs. It is not purely defensive; it probably would rely on nucleardriven weapons in space - and it would escalate the arms race. For these reasons and many more, hundreds of America's scientists and engineers are opposed to the Strategic Defense Initiative.

More than 70 K-State faculty members have joined faculty across the country in signing a pledge not to solicit or accept Star Wars money for research. We hope that by taking this pledge, we can dramatize our conviction that this is a misguided and dangerous program.

We would like you to be persuaded, not by the strength of our convictions, but by a rational discussion of their factual basis

A purely defensive Star Wars shield ridding the world of nuclear weapons is a compelling vision. No wonder it has struck a responsive chord with many Americans. However, reliance on defensive technology in warfare has often led to tragic debacles.

In the Middle Ages, massive castles were thought to be the key to impregnable defenses. However, new technologies of war gunpowder and cannons - soon made these defenses worthless. Following World War I, the French built an elaborate defensive system on their eastern frontier - the Maginot Line. In 1940, Hitler's mechanized Panzer divisions outflanked it in a matter of

In the early 70s, the United States built the $5.7 billion Safeguard ABM system to protect some of our ICBMs in North Dakota. As scientists learned more about the electromagnetic pulse associated with these nuclear-tipped ABMs, it became clear that the system would destroy its own radars and disable communications and computers across the nation. The United States wisely abandoned the system even though it was permitted under the 1972 ABM treaty. The Soviets continue to maintain their system around Moscow which easily can be over-

ALVIN COMPAAN Guest

Columnist

whelmed by a multiple ICBM strike from the United States.

A Star Wars defense will suffer a similar fate. Offensive technology undoubtedly will outflank or overwhelm the defense again. The SDI plan exploits the overabundant optimism that we Americans tend to have in technological solutions to political problems. However, the proposed types of directedbeam weapons have enough inherent flaws to convince knowledgeable experts of their unworkability and unmanageable complexity.

As a laser physicist, I draw your attention to some of the many problems related just to the laser technology in this program.

Most cartoons and movies portray laser beams as thin rays of death-dealing power which never spread. However, divergence is always present, dictated by the laws of optics. A visible laser beam one centimeter in diameter will spread to about 500 meters in diameter after traveling 1,000 kilometers. One million watts of power would dissipate, then, to a harmless five watts per square centimeter. Next time you see a TV news clip of a laser zapping a missile, demand to see this publicity stunt performed at the required working distance of 500 to 1,000 kilometers.

Lasers are notoriously inefficient. Only about 1 percent of the input power emerges as coherent radiation. This is a serious liability for a space-based system

Because of the necessarily delicate mirrors and the requirement of perfect mirror alignment, lasers will not easily endure the harsh space environment.

Laser light is strongly reflected from metals. Therefore, a short, high-powered laser pulse does relatively little damage. Because of this problem, an intense research effort has been mounted for a number of years to try to develop X-ray lasers. Indirect references imply that such lasers recently have been tested successfully by the United States in underground nuclear explosions. In fact, the desire for further development is probably a major reason for the United States refusal to agree to a comprehensive test ban treaty.

Experts have argued that such a nuclear-pumped X-ray laser is the only directed beam device that would be cost-effective to boost into space. Nuclear energy is relatively cheap compared to the chemical or electrical energy needed to power conventional lasers. Thus, defense against nuclear-tipped ICBMs will likely rely on more nuclear-driven X-ray lasers have their own inherent flaws. The atmosphere absorbs X-rays, so they could not be used for destroying missiles during the boost phase when the missile still has the protection of the earth's atmosphere. Even SDI managers admit that boost-phase interception lies at the heart of successful Star Wars defense.

Space-based defense is likely to create a much less stable weapons balance than at present. Our best military planners have failed to find an invulnerable basing scheme for the MX missile. What more vulnerable basing scheme could be found for defense than naked battle stations in orbit over the Soviet Union? Blinding the sensitive optics in these stations would be a trivial pursuit for high-powered Soviet ground-based lasers.

Our nation's security would be much further enhanced by strengthening existing agreements, negotiating a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty and maintaining research in improved surveillance techni-

We hope President Reagan and his advisers will awaken to the distorted vision of Star Wars, recognize its dangers and resolve to exploit it to maximum advantage as a bargaining chip at the summit. It is only through a commitment to diplomacy that we can hope to achieve a lasting solution to the arms race.

Editor's note: Alvin Compaan is a professor of physics.

Unity necessary for Israel

without two of its top government officials, Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Minister of Industry and Commerce Ariel Sharon, throwing accusations at each other.

In Israel's latest election, neither party was able to gain enough votes to take control of the government. Therefore, the national unity Cabinet was born. After a spat between Peres and Sharon last week, it is questionable whether or not that unity actually exists.

What started as a battle of high principle about Sharon's conduct as a cabinet minister degenerated into little more than a political confrontation pitting Peres and his supporters against Sharon and his supporters.

Among Sharon's major allegations against Peres were charges that the prime minister was planning secret peace negotiations with Jordan and the Palestine Liberation Organization and planned to bring Syria into the negotiating process as well.

Sharon also alleged that Peres' "obsequious policy" was en-

Israel has enough problems dangering Israel's peace with Egypt. Sharon said Peres was dismissing legitimate criticism with unparalleled "cynicism."

Peres threatened to fire Sharon unless he would apologize for his derogatory remarks, an action that would shatter the national unity Cabinet.

Sharon wrote an apology on Nov. 13, but Peres didn't think it was good enough and said he would still dismiss Sharon unless Sharon could come up with a nicer apology. What followed was a negotiating session on Nov. 14 to see if the two men could patch their differences.

After 12 hours of negotiation, Peres accepted a revised version of Sharon's apology which included added clarifications.

So now things are supposedly back to normal in the Israeli Cabinet and Peres and Sharon are "unified" again in the national unity Cabinet.

If peace is ever to come to the unstable Mideast, a stable and unified Israel is of utmost importance.

> Tom Perrin, for the editorial board

Letters

Maturity necessary for acceptance of adult movies

I was compelled earlier this semester to write when a complaint was offered toward an ad for an X-rated movie, but decided against it. After reading another such letter on Nov. 14, however, I must speak my piece.

I don't understand the reasoning behind the arguments of these women. Somehow they have come up with the idea that because a woman appears in an ad or movie like this, the reputation of all women the world over is shot to pieces. Does the fact that Sylvester Stallone appeared in "Rambo" mean all men are violent, macho-type guys? Not quite. Both are ridiculous assumptions.

What people like Joan Cunnick do not seem to understand is that this adult movie, like any other, is a service offered to the public because it is in demand and they have an equal right to advertise. Also, the people involved in these movies are involved voluntarily and their actions have no bearing whatsoever on our own reputations. The only people who might be thought less of are those appearing in the movies.

Cunnick stated in her letter that the Collegian staff is "mature enough to realize the potential negative impact of these pictures and to practice self-censorship." On the contrary, the Collegian, as any other paper, is working on the assumption that we are all mature enough to see that everyone has different likes and dislikes and that we must accept the existence of things we do not like or that offend us.

If the ad offends you, don't look at it. If the movie offends you, don't go to it. It's your choice. Everybody has a choice. Just don't try to make it for others. Mike Schwabauer

freshman in architecture and design Ticket cost high

I enjoyed - and fully endorse - Matt Hinkin's suggestions regarding McCain Auditorium needing Student Senate support. While on this subject, here's another idea from a new faculty member. Can't McCain have reduced rates for school children, say age 15 or below?

Except at amusement parks - and Mc-Cain is definitely not one - seldom are children charged full rates. Most McCain shows are family oriented and many universities do offer lower rates for children. It would increase attendance and also help enhance cultural awareness for our little

Eugene Furtado assistant professor of finance

AND HOW LONG WERE YOU KIDNAPPED AND DRUGGED BY THE CIA BEFORE YOU COULD MAKE IT BACK TO FREEDOM?

Homosexuality view not Christian

Editor,

It is disheartening to know that some people continually refuse to acknowledge that ALL people are human beings and deserve to be treated as such.

It seems particularly sad when encouragement for discrimination and prejudice comes from people who preach or profess to accept a philosophy of love, Christianity Instead of thinking about what the Bible is interpreted to say, perhaps these people should think about what the God of their religiion might say. From my knowledge of the Bible, it was not homosexuals that he would speak out against. It is similar to the temple Christ cleared out. It was the people who professed to follow God the most and whose actions followed him the least that provoked Christ to anger.

I also think it is important for people to understand where their bias originates. One of the primary excuses utilized by people who promote prejudice and discrimination against homosexuals is that it is not "natural."

The why of its unnaturalness usually considers heterosexual sex as natural because of heterosexuals' ability to procreate. This results in an argument that heterosexual sex is "normal" and homosexual sex is not.

The logical extension of this argument is that any sex that is not for the purpose of procreation is not "normal." With logic like this, we could end up back in the dark ages.

I believe we need to separate out the intent behind our actions in order to understand the consequences of our actions. Wanting a "moral" world and trying to obtain it by encouraging prejudice seems contradictory to

The real issue is what we think of human beings and how we then treat each other in everyday life.

Pat Tetreault graduate in psychology

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Reporter

A University editing policy may be censorship, according to a K-State University policy requires materials for off-campus distribution created by offices or departments without in-house design and editorial staffs to be approved through the University Relations office. Diane Urban, student attorney, said this policy might promote cen-

Recruitment literature, Office of Admissions material and Farrell Library publications are examples of work handled by University Relations, said Rhonda Keith, assistant publications editor for University Relations. The policy defines an offcampus audience as "other than students, faculty and staff."

Urban said the policy could be considered censorship, depending on the agency in question and the extent of the editing by University Relations.

Keith said University Relations might try to soften publications somewhat, adding that although University Relations is a part of the public relations arm of the University, in general University Relations does not edit publications to remove negative reflections on the Universi-

Keith said there had been complaints about changes in editorial statements, but the majority of problems were with delays caused by the volume of material handled. Keith would not specify offices or departments that had complained about editorial changes. State policy requires the use of state-run printing services - the K-State Printing Service, or, if that is not available, the state printer - if state money is used for the publication. The University Relations policy affects all printing for offices and departments which do not have their own staffs. Delays in the University Relations editing office have held up printing of recruitment brochures by as much as a month, said Barbara Dawes, associate director of undergraduate admissions. Student recruitment starts the first of October, but the brochures weren't ready until the end of October. Dawes said this meant increased postage costs for the admissions office, because late brochures were mailed to students who had already been contacted in person. Brochures normally are distributed when recruiters visit high schools and individuals. However, Dawes said in general she is satisfied with University Relations' approval process.

Keith said editorial policy is a matter of judgment, adding that some publications need a great deal of editing for style, policy and content.

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but with one-fifth the fat!!

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS Longstem Red Roses $1.25 each

12th and Laramie 10-5:30 M.-Sat.

Hanging on for lights

Timm Reiher, sophomore in electrical engineering, Jerry Connet, senior in feed science and Steve Bowden, junior in management, use Monday's warm weather to hang Christmas lights on the Sigma Chi fraternity house at 1224 Fremont St.

Lights

Continued from Page 1

The programs also must be University-wide and become selfsupporting. In addition, the program must be long lasting and make a recognizable contribution to the University.

Beckom submitted the request earlier this semester. The committee will hear the request this semester.

'We will have the ability to eliminate $300 a month in (telephone) line rental from the telephone companies," Beckom said.

There will also be savings on equipment rental.

The metal boxes which hold the phones are no longer available from the telephone company and phones without dials are also hard to get,

Beckom said. The switch to radio signals will allow the phones to continue to work similiar to the existing telephone lines. The only difference will be in

The minute the handset is picked up it will activate the receiver in the *free pregnancy tests

*contraception

alternatives counseling *gynecology

outpatient abortion services

comprehensive

associates

dispatchers' room and a dispatcher will respond to the call.

"One of the problems we have in our office is that technology grows each year and there is little money to keep up with that growth. We've reached a point where we have to look very seriously at what our dispatchers are handling," Beckom

There are now 30-40 telephone lines coming into the dispatchers' office which handle calls ranging from minor repair calls in the evenings to those transfered from President Duane Acker's house when he is

The change should allow for expansion of services. With the money the department will be saving, they want to purchase additional phones.

In places where the department would like additional phones, the cost would increase using the present system because there are not telephone lines readily available, he

There are 13 emergency phones on campus with all but one outside along sidewalks or in parking lots. One emergency phone is located in the upstairs interior of West

TACO

TUESDAY

Summit

Continued from Page 1

that in Gorbachev's pre-summit preparations on Star Wars, "the role of scientists was very important."

Official Soviet arguements, however, weren't presented Monday at the international press center in Geneva, where thousands of journalists have gathered to cover the first superpower summit in six vears.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman walked out of a news briefing there after being interrupted by a recent Soviet emigre who sought to challenge the Kremlin's human rights policies.

Irina Grivnina, who raised a similar protest on Sunday, stood up as the crowded news conference was about to start and accused the Soviet Union of massive human rights violations.

Kremlin spokesman Vladimir Lomeiko asked the woman several times to be quiet, but when she continued to talk for several minutes to journalists surrounding her, Lomeiko picked up his papers and left the room, saying the journalists seemed more interested in talking to Grivnina than to hearing him.

He later resumed his briefing in another room with only a fraction of the reporters present.

Rulings on rezonings postponed

By The Collegian Staff

A request to rezone the site of a warehouse in southeast Manhattan to allow party usage was once again tabled Monday night by the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board.

The request, by Steve Ballard of Ballard's Sporting Goods, 1218 Moro St., would have rezoned the site at 601 S. Fifth St. to allow private occasions such as wedding receptions and anniversary celebrations to be held in the building.

The board decided to table Ballard's request, but also agreed to pursue action that would allow Ballard to rent out the building with its present zoning as a conditional

The rezoning's next public hearing will be Dec. 16.

In other voting action, an amendment was approved to the final development plan of the First Bank Center at Claflin Road and Denison Avenue. The action will allow a canopy to be placed over two gas pump islands at the Shop Quik convenience store at 1816 Claffin Road.

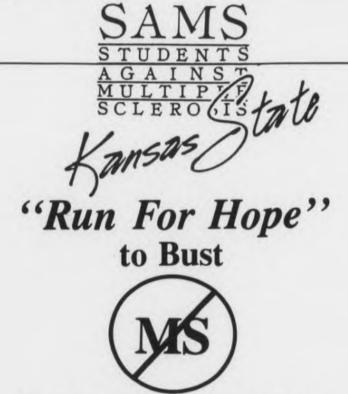

In non-voting action, the board heard a presentation by Chief City Planner Larry Hulse that would remove a proposed high-density residential district as a part of the Housing Element for the Land Use Plan. The district, located southwest of the downtown business district, will be changed to the recently adopted R-M, or medium-density housing

The neighborhood affected by the new Land Use Plan is located south of Poyntz Avenue and east of Fort Riley Boulevard.

The plan will now be presented to the Manhattan City Commission for review and recommendations, although the board must grant final aproval.

In other action, Hulse presented several drawings showing how highdensity dwellings could be designed to blend in with more traditional housing units, when scale, height and compatibility of design are taken into consideration.

He said the main purpose of the presentation was to prepare the board for future rezoning hearings concerning neighborhoods east of campus, and to advise developers to be aware of the type environment (they) are placing units in."

Saturday, November 23 at 9 a.m.

The race is 5 kilometers with a 1 mile fun run following immediately after. They will both start on Moro Street in Aggieville and take you around the KSU campus and through the challenging streets of Manhattan.

Events Schedule

7:30-9:30 a.m.-Registration and securing of race packets.

9:00 a.m.-5k begins 9:35-1 mile fun run begins 10:15-Presentation of awards

Minimum Donation for Entry:

5k-$7 if postmarked by 11-30-85 $8 if postmarked after 11-20-85

$25 for team division (Five runners per team.)

1 mile -$5 if postmarked by 11-20-85

$6 if postmarked after 11-20-85 and day of race Make checks payable to Students against Multiple Sclerosis.

Please mail to: P.O. Box 152, Manhattan, KS 66502

Any questions concerning the race can be directed to:

Dave Wagner, 1015 Denison, Manhattan, KS 66502 - 913-537-1847

ENTRY FORM

NAME(PRINT) ADDRESS. BIRTHDATE CIRCLE AGE DIVISION: -17 18-30 31-45 46+

TEAM NAME: RACE: 1 mile 5Km CIRCLE SEX: M F SHIRT SIZE:

Upon entry of this race, I hereby waive any and all rights and claims for damages I may have against the sponsors, Students Against Multiple Sclerosis and any individual associated with this event. I also understand that none of the above are responsible for any losses that may result and that I am in good enough health to participate in this event.

(Parent/Guardian Signature if a Minor) (Entry forms can also be picked up in the Union, Nov. 18, 19, 20)

COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

RAPPELLING

Adventure on the rocks

Saturday, October 26, 1985.

Trusting 10 fingers and 10 toes to hold onto the face of a cliff takes a lot of nerve and determination; exactly what rock climbing requires.

Twenty-two K-State students went to Columbia, Mo., to learn how to rock climb and rappel in conjunction with a trip co-sponsored by the Union Program Council Outdoor Recreation Committee and The Pathfinder, 1111 Moro St. They soon learned that sometimes the ultimatum was "lunge or plunge." In other words, reach for that next handhold or fall.

The leaders of the trip were Clay Camblin, junior in wildlife biology and member of the UPC Outdoor Recreation Committee, and Alan Sink, salesman and trip organizer at The Pathfinder.

Sink has climbed for 10 years and climbed in Europe this summer. He said climbing is a sport a person does for himself.

"You are not on a team and there are no winners or losers," Sink said. "The mountain doesn't care if you make it or not, it is your own personal goals that you can set for yourself. You challenge yourself, not another person.'

Camblin has been climbing for four years. He first started when he went on an ORC climbing trip that Sink taught, he said.

"From there on it evolved into something I wanted to do. I enjoy being in the outdoors and I get a special feeling when I climb because I get to compete with myself, it is a lot like cross country (running)," Camblin said.

The first place the students climbed was Capen Park in Columbia. Harnessses made of webbing, which encircle the climber's waist and legs. and Swiss seats, self-made harnesses made from rope or webbing, were attached to the rope used while climbing and rappelling.

A practice rappel was done by backing down a small slope to get the idea of how to control the rate of speed of a rappel by exerting friction

"You have no concept of how it is going to feel leaning all of your weight on the rope and how fast you will go down, before that first step,' said Susan McComas, senior in electrical engineering, who went on the Safety is a key word in climbing and rappelling because there is always the danger of falling. In addition to harnesses and Swiss seats, safety precautions also came in human form.

A person called a belayer stands at the bottom of the cliff as a safety precaution to the climber. The belayer hooks into the rope and uses friction to keep the climber from falling if help is needed.

"At first, some of the moves you use while climbing are scary. But once you slip and the belayer catches you, you aren't scared anymore because you know that if you fall, the belayer will catch you," McComas Different phrases are used to communicate with the belayer. When starting his ascent, the climber says 'on belay" and the belayer replies "belay's on." Then the climber says "climbing," and the belayer says "climb on" or "have a good time" or any other smart-aleck quip. The climber is then ready to begin his journey up the cliff.

When the climber is at the top and ready to come down, there is more terminology to learn. After he says "on rappel," the belayer says "belay is on," and the rappeller may pro-

If the rappeller hits a rock and it tumbles down before him, he yells route. 'rock' to warn the people below There are more terms such as "falling" if the climber is, and "up rope" if he needs less slack in the rope to make him feel comfortable.

As the group learned to climb, they helped each other as much as possible by telling the climber where good hand and footholds were and giving against the rappeller's hip with the encouragement when needed. If someone made a good move, Sink nicknamed the climber "Rambo" or "Mrs. Rambo" until someone else made a daring move. The group camped at Finger Lake State Park, just north of Columbia, after their first day of climbing.

Sunday, October 27, 1985. After a "nutritious" breakfast of doughnuts and pop, the rappellers broke camp, planning to leave for home after the climb. They went to Wilton Bluffs, south of Columbia, for the second day of climbing.

There were more places to climb at these cliffs, so the group split up. One group went with Sink to a climb named 4th Class Gully, and after climbing there, they walked over to rappel down a 135-foot cliff. The phrase of the day was "It doesn't hurt if you fall, until you reach the bottom." Nobody is sure who said it first, but it fit the day perfectly. The other group went with Camblin to climb the Maplewood Crack and after climbing up, they rappelled down and tried the same climb again.

"You have to start with the attitude 'I can do this,' and each time you get to a spot where you can't go anywhere, you just have to keep looking for somewhere to go," Mc-Comas said. "If you get discouraged, you just tell yourself 'other people have made it up so I can too."

A handhold may not be there the second time you climb, Camblin said.

"Someone who climbed before you might have broken it off," he said. "You just have to figure out another lunch and headed home while a few die-hards stayed and climbed until dusk. When finally everyone had to leave, it was not easy. Most of the group had gotten used to wearing the harnesses, having their muscles ache and not having a shower for two

Clay Camblin, junior in wildlife biology, points out a hold to Jennifer Braker, senior in elementary education, on the first day of the trip to Columbia, Mo.

Trent McCown, sophomore in wildlife biology, descends Maplewood Crack after a successful climb during the UPC Outdoor Recreation Committee's rappelling trip to Columbia, Mo.

Jennifer Braker, senior in elementary education, looks for her next hold as she ascends a cliff south of Columbia.

Story by Margaret May Photos by John Thelander

Vickie Reynolds, freshman in psychology, relaxes on top of the the cliff before making the 135 foot descent, the finale of the weekend trip.

By RICH HARRIS Collegian Reporter

A University editing policy may be censorship, according to a K-State official.

University policy requires materials for off-campus distribution created by offices or departments without in-house design and editorial staffs to be approved through the University Relations office. Diane Urban, student attorney, said this policy might promote censorship.

Recruitment literature, Office of Admissions material and Farrell Library publications are examples of work handled by University Relations, said Rhonda Keith, assistant publications editor for University Relations. The policy defines an offcampus audience as "other than students, faculty and staff."

Urban said the policy could be considered censorship, depending on the agency in question and the extent of the editing by University Relations.

Keith said University Relations might try to soften publications somewhat, adding that although University Relations is a part of the public relations arm of the University, in general University Relations does not edit publications to remove negative reflections on the Universi-

Keith said there had been complaints about changes in editorial statements, but the majority of problems were with delays caused by the volume of material handled. Keith would not specify offices or departments that had complained about editorial changes.

State policy requires the use of state-run printing services - the K-State Printing Service, or, if that is not available, the state printer - if state money is used for the publication. The University Relations policy affects all printing for offices and departments which do not have their own staffs.

Delays in the University Relations editing office have held up printing of recruitment brochures by as much as a month, said Barbara Dawes, associate director of undergraduate admissions.

Student recruitment starts the first of October, but the brochures weren't ready until the end of October. Dawes said this meant increased postage costs for the admissions office, because late brochures were mailed to students who had already been contacted in person. Brochures normally are distributed when recruiters visit high schools and individuals.

However, Dawes said in general she is satisfied with University Relations' approval process. Keith said editorial policy is a matter of judgment, adding that some publications need a great deal of editing for style, policy and content.

FREE Samples!

Tastes like ice cream but

with one-fifth the fat!!

YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays 705 N. 11th--Nautilus Towers Aggieville

AGGIEVILLE

FLOWERS

Longstem

Red

Roses

$1.25 each

12th and Laramie

10-5:30 M.-Sat

Can't Believe It's

Hanging on for lights

in feed science and Steve Bowden, junior in management, use Monday's at 1224 Fremont St.

Timm Reiher, sophomore in electrical engineering, Jerry Connet, senior warm weather to hang Christmas lights on the Sigma Chi fraternity house

Summit

Continued from Page 1

that in Gorbachev's pre-summit preparations on Star Wars, "the role of scientists was very important."

Official Soviet arguements, however, weren't presented Monday at the international press center in Geneva, where thousands of journalists have gathered to cover the first superpower summit in six years.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman walked out of a news briefing there after being interrupted by a recent Soviet emigre who sought to challenge the Kremlin's human rights policies.

Irina Grivnina, who raised a similar protest on Sunday, stood up as the crowded news conference was about to start and accused the Soviet Union of massive human rights violations.

Kremlin spokesman Vladimir Lomeiko asked the woman several times to be quiet, but when she continued to talk for several minutes to journalists surrounding her, Lomeiko picked up his papers and left the room, saying the journalists seemed more interested in talking to Grivnina than to hearing him.

He later resumed his briefing in another room with only a fraction of the reporters present.

Rulings on rezonings postponed

By The Collegian Staff

A request to rezone the site of a warehouse in southeast Manhattan to allow party usage was once again tabled Monday night by the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board.

The request, by Steve Ballard of Ballard's Sporting Goods, 1218 Moro St., would have rezoned the site at 601 S. Fifth St. to allow private occasions such as wedding receptions and anniversary celebrations to be held in the building

The board decided to table Ballard's request, but also agreed to pursue action that would allow Ballard to rent out the building with its present zoning as a conditional

The rezoning's next public hearing will be Dec. 16.

In other voting action, an amendment was approved to the final development plan of the First Bank Center at Claflin Road and Denison Avenue. The action will allow a canopy to be placed over two gas pump islands at the Shop Quik convenience store at 1816 Claflin Road.

In non-voting action, the board heard a presentation by Chief City Planner Larry Hulse that would remove a proposed high-density residential district as a part of the Housing Element for the Land Use Plan. The district, located southwest of the downtown business district, will be changed to the recently adopted R-M, or medium-density

The neighborhood affected by the new Land Use Plan is located south of Poyntz Avenue and east of Fort Riley Boulevard.

The plan will now be presented to the Manhattan City Commission for review and recommendations, although the board must grant final aproval.

In other action, Hulse presented several drawings showing how highdensity dwellings could be designed to blend in with more traditional housing units, when scale, height and compatibility of design are taken into consideration.

He said the main purpose of the presentation was to prepare the board for future rezoning hearings concerning neighborhoods east of campus, and to advise developers to be aware of the type environment (they) are placing units in."

Continued from Page 1

The programs also must be University-wide and become selfsupporting. In addition, the program must be long lasting and make a recognizable contribution to the University.

Beckom submitted the request earlier this semester. The committee will hear the request this semester.

"We will have the ability to eliminate $300 a month in (telephone) line rental from the telephone companies," Beckom said. There will also be savings on equipment rental. The metal boxes which hold the phones are no longer available from the telephone company and phones would increase using the present without dials are also hard to get,

Beckom said. The switch to radio signals will allow the phones to continue to work similiar to the existing telephone lines. The only difference will be in

The minute the handset is picked up it will activate the receiver in the *free pregnancy tests

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

*alternatives counseling *gynecology

outpatient abortion services

associates

dispatchers' room and a dispatcher will respond to the call.

"One of the problems we have in our office is that technology grows each year and there is little money to keep up with that growth. We've reached a point where we have to look very seriously at what our dispatchers are handling," Beckom said.

There are now 30-40 telephone lines coming into the dispatchers' office which handle calls ranging from minor repair calls in the evenings to those transfered from President Duane Acker's house when he is

The change should allow for expansion of services. With the money the department will be saving, they want to purchase additional phones.

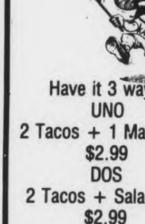

In places where the department would like additional phones, the cost system because there are not telephone lines readily available, he

There are 13 emergency phones on campus with all but one outside along sidewalks or in parking lots. One emergency phone is located in the upstairs interior of West Stadium.

TACO TUESDAY

From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Pitchers $2.00

TAVERN

Tuesday

619 N. Manhattan

Have it 3 ways: 2 Tacos + 1 Margarita 2 Tacos + Salad Bar $2.99 TRES 3 Tacos $2.75

RAMADA INN

COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

SAMS STUDENTS GAINS "Run For Hope" to Bust

Saturday, November 23 at 9 a.m.

The race is 5 kilometers with a 1 mile fun run following immediately after. They will both start on Moro Street in Aggieville and take you around the KSU campus and through the challenging streets of Manhattan.

Events Schedule

7:30-9:30 a.m.-Registration and securing of race packets. 9:00 a.m. - 5k begins 9:35-1 mile fun run begins

10:15-Presentation of awards Minimum Donation for Entry:

5k-$7 if postmarked by 11-30-85 $8 if postmarked after 11-20-85 $25 for team division (Five runners per team.)

1 mile -$5 if postmarked by 11-20-85 $6 if postmarked after 11-20-85 and day of race

Make checks payable to Students against Multiple Sclerosis. Please mail to: P.O. Box 152, Manhattan, KS 66502 Any questions concerning the race can be directed to:

Dave Wagner, 1015 Denison, Manhattan, KS 66502 - 913-537-1847

ENTRY FORM

NAME(PRINT). ADDRESS. BIRTHDATE CIRCLE AGE DIVISION: -17 18-30 31-45 46+ TEAM NAME:

RACE: 5Km 1 mile CIRCLE SEX: M F SHIRT SIZE: S XL.

Upon entry of this race, I hereby waive any and all rights and claims for damages I may have against the sponsors, Students Against Multiple Sclerosis and any individual associated with this event. I also understand that none of the above are responsible for any losses that may result and that I am in good enough health to participate in this event.

(Parent/Guardian Signature if a Minor) (Entry forms can also be picked up in the Union, Nov. 18, 19, 20)

Potter utilizes unusual techniques

Artist insists functionality basic in craft

By LINDA SCHMIDT Arts and Entertainment Editor

Earthenware and porcelain items created by potter Glenda Taylor are on exhibition in the Union Art Gallery from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday Taylor, graduate in fine arts and art instructor at Barton County Community College in Great Bend, uses a variety of clay techniques, including sall glazing and raku, when making her pieces

Salt-glazing is a traditionally German technique involving said and other sodium products, Taylor said. The sail products are placed in the tolk and fired with the pieces. The resulting texture is similar to that of an orange pool, she enid. A honeycolored vase, piece No. i in the Union display, was fired with much a tochnique.

A Japanese technique, roku, makes use of quick firing, low temperature firing and post-firing. After the initial two firings, the vessel is retrieved from the kills and put into a trash can be sunday container holding. combustible material such as sawdust or newspapers, Taylor said This method changes the color of the glade, making the clay darker or producing, a coppermetallic effect.

Taylor said she has a good foundation in the traditional forms of pottery, yet she still likes to do personal things. Some potters go too far in use describe or the other. she said

Everything on display was thrown from a wheel, she said allowings some pieces, such as the planters, are two proces glued. together, Taylor and "I wanted to make larger harms," she said, and planters semand in he g natural thing. Taylor sand she chose earthenware as it is porous and beder for plants.

Porcelain is also popular with Taylor She employs it to avoryday froms, in-cluding bowls and reaports, because porcelain is dense and more durable, she said. This is because It is bred at such a high temperature Focusing on "Initis conditional pottery forms, Taylor adds but personally by the designs and decoralisms on the pieces. This way each piece is special, sho tald, and it doesn't appear as it fley, were mass produced.

"The user needs to be aware it a a wellmade object," Taylor sant, it is also unportant the technique doesn't get in the way, she said, to when you pick up a piece it has a function the handle hts a tabouta Davier, graduate in fine arts, is displayed in the Union Art miles from a month 5 p.m. until Friday.

O OFF

Each prece possesses of that "I'm

After receiving her bachelor's degree in Lindsborg, Taylor studied coramics at Emporta State University whose received her master a degree.

meters her current position in Great the studied for three years under art wall over Angelo Garzio at K-State, where he received her master of fine arts

She continues to exhibit across the state, and has shown her work in St. Louis, and San Angele, Texas.

Reupholster your couch with C&C Upholstery

and get 20% off any material you pick. Work done by appt. only.

Gall 539-5942

士XX生XX生XX生

Customized bows to order. Holiday Ornaments.

Cash & Carry

Sponsored by Retail Floriculture Club

D和文字的表示。

Center response board details users' concerns, suggests improvements

By JOHN WALKER JR. Collegian Reporter

The staff of the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex is open to suggestions.

Students or other rec complex users may submit suggestions via a box in the first-floor lobby. The recreation staff posts replies on a response board also in the first-floor lobby.

The idea of the response board is to supply a public place for responses to complex users' concerns. Implemented in the fall of 1984, it applies only to the rec complex.

"We had quite a few suggestions in here about improving the parking lot, and that, I think, did help us in lobbying for a nice paved parking lot," said Joyce Halverson, assistant director of recreational services.

The parking lot was expanded from 49 paved slots to 155 this year.

Before the board was made, Raydon H. Robel, director of Recreational Services, read students' suggestions and directed those pertaining to intramurals to members of the rec complex staff for comment. Suggestions made by more casual rec complex users were directed to Halverson, and she came up with the idea of a response board.

The other options considered by the staff were to ask for phone numbers to call in reply or to send post cards with a response to those submitting suggestions. Staff members chose the response board because it was more economical. They did not have to pay postage or take up staff time making phone calls, Halverson said.

The response board also reaches a larger population, said Halverson, who picks up the suggestions from the box almost every day. "On the average, we get four suggestions a week, so in a month's time, I might have as many as 25 suggestions," she said.

An example is a request for a rest and relaxation area in the locker room after going to the sauna. In response to this request, Halverson said she did not believe it was feasible to spend additional dollars to remodel space in the locker rooms and would recommend using the lounge on the second

"By and large, most of the responses are written by me," Halverson said.

A request the complex staff acted upon is the campus phone installed in summer 1984. The phone is in the main lobby.

The budget for maintaining and upgrading the facility is $330,000 a year. The majority of the budget comes from student fees, Robel

Search begins for grave site of U.S. airmen in Vietnam

By The Associated Press

HANOI, Vietnam - Village children lined the road Monday and watched a gumchewing U.S. soldier drive a tractor to the excavation site at Yen Thuong village on the outskirts of Hanoi, where remains of U.S. airmen may be buried.

In an unprecedented joint search, American and Vietnamese military men are to begin digging today for remains of the airmen, who the Vietnamese say bombed their cities 13 years ago.

Workers tore down a brick kitchen building so Sgt. Michael Dixon and his 712-ton tractor could enter the village.

Hundreds of children gathered as Dixon, wearing a baseball cap and Hawaiian print shirt, jockeyed the tractor to the village from Hanoi's Noi Bai International Airport.

Dixon, from Oak Hill, W. Va., is attached to the 84th Engineering Battalion at Schofield, Honolulu.

Air Force Capt. Virginia Pribyla, spokeswoman for the U.S. team, said U.S. experts would use metal detectors to determine where and how far to dig. After the workers with hand shovels will probe for what the Vietnamese say may be the wreckage of a B-52 and the remains of four crew members, she said.

The 13-member U.S. military team includes explosives experts and specialists in locating and recovering human remains. Helping them will be 10 Vietnamese soldiers and civilians experienced in excavation work. The operation is expected to take 10 to "The significance of this first joint excavation is obvious and we are encouraged by the increased willingness of the Vietnamese to cooperate" in the search for remains, Pribyla said.

Hanoi has pledged to account within two years for the 1,797 Americans still listed as missing in action in Vietnam.

U.S. officials have no independent confirmation of the crash, but long-time inhabitants of Yen Thuong said the B-52 was downed by missiles while on a bombing raid on the night of Dec. 20, 1972. Vietnamese officials said that two crew members parachuted out, were captured and later returned to the United States, and that four I tractor clears the upper layer of earth, other crewmen probably died in the crash.

NOW OPEN

HP's BAR Take a step back in time to the 1920's in Manhattan's newest most unique bar and dining facility. "We put the fun back into dining. (10% Student ainner discount with (D) 418 Poyntz in

the Wareham Bldg

3 for $2 50 11-30 a.m - 2 p.m 5-9 pm

MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime 99¢ all day and night!

1115 MORO = 776-0030

A longstanding legend 37 days left 6 Fridays lett 6 Saturdays left Don't miss out on

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

a tradition!

532-6544 Your Medical Facility

TONIGHT'S BEER SPECIALS $2.00 PITCHERS TONIGHT ALL YOU CAN EAT PYRAMID PIZZA

5-8 p.m. Gals $2.75 Guys $3.50

WEDNESDAY ONE NIGHT ONLY THE CLIQUE

539-9064 1120 Moro

Tuesday

IMPORT BEER

NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of

Mae's Favorite Beers rom Across the Sea

AUDITIE Mae's Parlor

Bear-n-Bow

Boutique

k State Union

hurs Nov. 21 &

Fr., Nov. 22

$1.50 - $10.00

Memberships only $10.45 Reciprocates with all Aggie clubs. Get yours today.

CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF 30th Annual KSU Collegiate Rodeo To be at the

Kansas State Weber Arena

Friday, Nov. 22, 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24, 1 p.m.

Rodeo Dance Friday night at Elks Club: 9:30 p.m.-1:30 a.m. No beer carried in. Setups and beer

Compton Graduate Fellowships for Black Americans At Vanderbilt University

If you would like to earn a Ph.D. in preparation for college teaching, a Compton Fellowship for Black Americans at Vanderbilt University may help you achieve your goal.

Each Fellowship pays full tuition and fees, plus an annual tax-exempt stipend of at least $8500 for up to four years. For further information, call or write:

Mrs. Judy Warren The Graduate School Box 326 Peabody Station Vanderbilt University Nashville, Tennessee 37203

(615) 322-3936

Dropped pass overshadows strong performance by Alphin

Staff/John Sleen

Senior wide receiver Gerald Alphin watches the ball slip past the hand of Iowa State's cornerback Terrence Anthony on a K-State 70-yard, second-quarter touchdown catch during Saturday's 21-14 Cyclone victory over the Wildcats in KSU Stadium.

6-11 Bonser signs to play for Wildcats

By TODD NIGHSWONGER Sports Editor

Just because Howard Bonser didn't play varsity basketball until his sophomore year, it didn't stop college coaches from knocking down his door to sign the 6-foot-11-inch Manhattan High School senior.

One of those coaches was K-State's Jack Hartman, who signed the 220-pound center-forward late Monday afternoon to a letter-of-intent — just one day before the end of the NCAA early signing period for high

McGee

tabbed

NL MVP

By The Associated Press

champion Willie McGee, the flashy center fielder of the National League champion St.

Louis Cardinals, was named the NL's Most Valuable Player

by the Baseball Writers

Association of America on

McGee received 14 first place votes from a 24-writer panel, two from each league city, and finished with 280 points.

nati Reds, who led the league with 125 runs batted in, finished second with six firsts and 220 points. Pedro Guerrero of the NL West champion Los Angeles Dodgers was third with three firsts and 208 points and pitcher Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, who won the Cy Young Award last week, finished fourth with one

Tommy Herr, John Tudor

and Jack Clark, all of St.

Louis, were included in the first and 162 points.

top-10 vote getters.

Dave Parker of the Cincin-

Monday

NEW YORK - Batting

school seniors. He is the first high school player signed by K-State.

Bonser said Monday evening that he chose K-State because of "a good coach and it's (Ahearn Field House) a really fun place to play."

"I thought I would just like to play here and it's a good place to go to school," said Bonser, who also had expressed an interest to play basketball close to home.

Bonser picked the 'Cats over the Universities of Kansas, Colorado, Texas and Colorado State University. He will begin playing at K-State in the 1986-87 season

"They (K-State) told me they needed a 6-10 or 6-11 swingman that could play center and forward," Bonser said. "I'm used to playing both positions."

Bonser said he decided to choose a college during the early signing date (which began Nov. 13) to avoid coaches calling every night.

"Our high school team is going to be one of the top in the state, so I wanted to to be able to concentrate on my high school year. I didn't want any distractions," he said. Despite it being only his second season of organized basketball, Bonser earned first-team all-league honors and was tabbed as an honorable mention All-Class 6A as a junior last season.

Bonser averaged 12 points and 7.8 rebounds a game while shooting 55 percent from the floor last season. He led the team in blocked shots (78) and steals (32). Manhattan finished 10-10 on the year and placed third in the I-70 League. Bonser has been picked as a preseason honorable mention All-America selection.

KC Chiefs' owner says changes not planned

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — While declining to give embattled Head Coach John Mackovic a vote of confidence, Owner Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs said Monday no changes would be made in his struggling National Football League team before the end of the season.

The Chiefs broke training camp this season confident of making their first playoff appearance in 14 years. But a 31-3 loss to San Francisco Sunday dropped their record to 3-8 and stretched their losing streak to a club-record seven in a row.

The Chiefs are 17-26 under Mackovic, who was hired off the Dallas Cowboy staff in 1983 to replace the fired Marv Levy. There has been speculation for several weeks that Mackovic's job was in peril.

"In light of the Chiefs' losing streak, I am aware that there is speculation regarding our coaching situation on both a national and local level," Hunt said in a statement released through the team's public relations office.

"We as an organization are deeply disappointed with our record and the team's performance over the last seven-game period. That disappointment is shared by coaches, players and management in equal portions. There is great emotion that goes into the preparation and conduct of a season and we, like the fans, are very deflated at our current status.

"The Chiefs are struggling at the moment and I'm sure John Mackovic, his assistants and the 45-man squad want to do everything possible to turn things around in the remaining five games. We are working in that direction as a total organization."

The Chiefs have played poorly in virtually every phase of the game since the onset of their losing skid. Their running game and special teams rank at the bottom of the league and the productive passing attack which netted more than 4,000 yards in 1983 has been almost non-existent.

When Mackovic replaced Levy after the 1982 season, he began tearing down his predecessor's runoriented foundation to install a passoriented offense. His team posted a 6-10 record in 1983 and won its last three games in 1984 to finish 8-8.

The Chiefs opened the season by beating New Orleans, Seattle and the Los Angeles Raiders in three of its first four games this year. But in successive weeks, the Chiefs have lost to the Raiders, San Diego, the Los Angeles Rams, Denver, Houston, Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

Soccer teams win matches

The K-State Soccer Club edged the Ponca City Gators 5-0 behind three goals from midfielder Clinton McKenzie Sunday in Ponca City, Okla.

K-State's women's team also was victorious, edging Oklahoma State University 2-1 Saturday in Stillwater, Okla. By DAVID SVOBODA Assistant Sports Editor

Gerald Alphin caught three passes against Iowa State University last Saturday for 102 total yards and one touchdown. As sterling as Alphin's performance may have been, however, the senior receiver may be better remembered when all is said and done for a pass he didn't catch in the 21-14 loss to the Cyclones.

With just over five minutes remaining in the contest and the score tied at 14, K-State faced a fourth down-and-one situation at the Iowa State 48-yard line.

After a discussion with his assistant coaches, Interim Coach Lee Moon decided to take a gamble of sorts on the play and throw the ball on fourth down. The intended target was to be Alphin. The result was not what Moon and Alphin had hoped it would be.

"I thought it was a good call," Moon said of his selection of the play, which called for Alphin to run a short sideline route to the near side of the field just past the first-down marker. "They were in an all-out blitz and if we catch the ball and the defensive back misses the tackle, it's a touchdown.

"The sun may have been in Gerald's eyes — I don't know. But one play shouldn't have made the difference in the ball game."

Alphin said the sun was a factor, but failed to use it as an excuse.

"When the play was called in the huddle, I knew I was going to be looking directly into the sun," he said. "But I had caught a pass on that side of the field just a couple of plays earlier, and I knew what I would be facing.

"The sun really wasn't that great a factor. I saw the ball, but I didn't make the right choice as to how I wanted to catch it. You can catch the ball on that type of play with your hands turned up or turned to the ground. If you choose to turn your hands down, you don't have a chance to catch the ball on a deflection. I turned my hands down and didn't make the play."

Alphin said that he wasn't thinking about running with the ball before it

"My responsibility was to catch the ball and get us enough yardage for the first down," Alphin said. "I don't know if I could have beaten the defender to the end zone if I had made the catch, but he would have had to work hard to bring me down. I wasn't thinking about running. I just dropped the ball."

The dropped pass overshadowed a fine day for the Big Eight Conference's second-leading receiver. Alphin's three catches lifted his season total to 33, and his 102 yards in receptions brought his total to 520 yards on the year.

Alphin's 70-yard touchdown catch just one minute into the second quarter pulled the 'Cats into a tie at 7-7

Alphin said the touchdown play came on an audible — a play in which the quarterback changes his original play selection, or a specific player's assignment on that play, at the line of scrimmage.

"John Welch (K-State quarterback) called an audible as we came to the line that called for me to run a fly pattern past the defenders," he said. "I was double covered, but I was able to make the catch. After I made the catch, my biggest concern was staying in bounds."

Alphin's other big reception against the Cyclones came in a drive late in the third quarter resulting in a Wildcat touchdown that tied the game.

Randy Williams, who had replaced the injured Welch at quarterback in the second quarter, found Alphin all alone at the Iowa State 47-yard line. Alphin broke a tackle and was finally brought down at the Cyclones' 37-yard line. Five plays later K-State was in the end zone and had tied the game at 14.

And yet it is the play he didn't make that Alphin may be remembered for. Williams said that was unfortunate.

"He (Alphin) is a human being — just like you and me. He dropped the ball — that's all there is to it. One play doesn't make a game, and Gerald is a fine receiver," Williams said. "It's just unfortunate that people will probably remember the drop rather than the big plays."

Alumnus Jones named as business manager

By The Collegian Staff

A 35-year-old alumnus has been named the Department of Intercollegiate Athletic's business manager, replacing Conrad Colbert.

The new business manager is Michael Jones, who will begin his duties at K-State in mid-December.

Jones received his bachelor's

Jones received his bachelor's degree in accounting in 1972 and his master's degree in business administration in December 1977. While working toward his master's degree, Jones was a basic marketing instructor.

Jones returns to K-State after serving since January 1964 as an adjunct instructor of finance at Washburn University in Topeka. He attended the university's law school during that time.

Jones is a Certified Public Accountant (since 1981) and is a member of the American Bar Association and the Kansas and American Institutes of Certified Public Accountants.

Previously, Jones was an assistant director of internal control for Dillon Companies Inc., a revenue analyst for the Kansas Department of Revenue, and a senior corporation income tax auditor for the State of Kansas.

Colbert, the business manager for the athletic department since 1976, left the University at the end of September to become the athletic director at Pan American University in Edinburgh, Texas.

Bears only looking to next victory

By The Associated Press

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Having clinched their second straight National Conference Central Division title, the undefeated Chicago Bears now are aiming for the home-field advantage throughout the National Football League playoffs.

Regardless of what other teams do, the Bears, 11-0, can achieve that goal with three more victories.

"Our next goal is Atlanta and 12-and-0," Coach Mike Ditka said Monday, ignoring all questions about the possibility of the Bears' finishing 16-0 during the regular season. "Nobody's beaten us at home and we'd like to keep that intact."

Reminded that nobody has beaten the Bears at all, Ditka said, "It is always more important to win at home and have the fans behind you." He still was trying to explain Sunday's stunning 44-0 victory over the Cowboys at Dallas.

"I thought we could control Dallas if we didn't turn the ball over," said Ditka. "They did and we didn't." Praising the Bears' defense as usual, he said, "Our defense took it away from them. With our defense, it's going to be hard for teams to do things against us.

"Remember, Dallas had the No. 2 offense in the league and we held them to 160 yards (actually 171). That's pretty good football. There's no question about it, our defense is much better than it was last year."

Ditka will get an argument about that from Buddy Ryan, his defensive coordinator, who earlier said this year's defense is "not quite as good" as the 1984 defense, which was No. 1 in the National Football League. "We've missed two all-pro people," said Ryan, referring to end Al Harris and safety Todd Bell, who are holdouts this year.

The Bears intercepted four passes Sunday and took the league lead in that department with 28.

The Bears have held opponents to 10 points or less in eight games this season — including the last six.

All of which has taken the pressure off the offense and the quarterback situation

No. 1 quarterback Jim McMahon sat out Sunday's game with an injured shoulder and backup Steve jured shoulder and backup Steve Fuller directed the team capably. "If Jim is ready, he'll play," Ditka said of Sunday's game against the said of Sunday's game against the Atlanta Falcons. "He has earned that right. If not, Fuller will start. We'll assess the situation day by day."

Buy a 16" pizza
Get a 10" pizza
FREE

Falsettos
539-3830

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION COORDINATOR OF FINANCES

Duties include:

presiding over SGA Finance Committee

2. faciliting the allocation of the student activity fee serving as a liaison for Finance Committee to student senate, to groups requesting funds, to the student body, and to the administration reviewing all budgetary transactions of the student acitivity fee

Applications are available in the Student Government Services Office in the K-State Union and are due November 26, 5 p.m.

Call the SGS Office (532-6541) with any questions.

SGA

Colombian army keeps peace in devasted city

By The Associated Press

BOGOTA, Colombia - Soldiers patrolled the town of Armero with orders to shoot looters who roamed the sea of mud, stepping on the injured in their haste to rob the dead, officials said Monday.

Five more survivors were found, including a 7-year-old boy, according to rescue workers interviewed by the Colombian radio chain RCN.

Colombia's health minister said two cases of typhoid fever cases had been reported in the Andes valley farming town destroyed by a last week's volcanic eruption. He said the area would be fumigated to kill flies that carry the disease but the operation would not interfere with rescue operations.

Officials say about 25,000 people were killed when the Nevado del Ruiz volcano erupted last Wednesday, melting part of its snowcap and sending a 15-foot-high wall of mud down the Langunilla River that buried Armero.

Juan Otalora, a firemen working with a rescue team told RCN radio Monday: "We located a little boy buried in the mud who was barely alive."

Victor Ricardo, president of the government emergency committee, told Caracol radio he had reports of looting in the devastated area. He said Col. Rafael Horacio Ruiz was appointed mayor of Armero and its outlying districts and told to restore

Achille Lauro hijackers found guilty

Weapons possession sends 4 to jail

By The Associated Press

GENOA, Italy - Four Palestinians accused of hijacking the Achille Lauro cruise ship were convicted with a fifth man Monday on charges of illegal possession of arms and explosives.

Three of the defendants said in written statements read in court that aides to PLO official Mohammed Abbas delivered the weapons used in the hijacking. Abbas has denied this.

The court ordered prison terms ranging from four to nine years for the five men convicted Monday. They face trial at a later date on charges of kidnapping and of murdering an American passenger aboard the Italian cruise liner during the Oct. 7-9 ordeal.

The United States has accused Abbas of masterminding the hi-

A panel of three judges convicted the five men after hearing testimony in the morning. There was no jury. The judges deliberated for two hours and 20 minutes before announcing the verdicts.

Dozens of heavily armed police in bulletproof vests patrolled the Palace of Justice and nearby streets during the trial, and everyone entering the courtroom was subjected to searches by metal detectors and bomb-sniffing dogs.

The five defendants, in handcuffs and blue jeans, were brought into the gymnasium-sized courtroom and divided among three metalbarred cages.

They greeted their sentences with an outburst of pro-Palestinian chants.

"We will defend with our blood and soul our country," they chanted in Arabic while waving victory signs through the bars of their cages. The stiffest sentence of nine years plus a fine of 3 million lire (about $1,700) was given to Mohammed Issa Abbas, identified previously as Mohammed Kalaf. who was arrested in Genoa carrying false passports before the Italian ship began its Mediterranean cruise

Abbas said in court that he was a distant cousin of Mohammed Abbas, leader of the Palestine Liberation Front, a faction of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Prosecutor Luigi Carli asked for sentences ranging from 41/2 to 9 years. The charges carried a maximum of 12 years imprisonment.

The lightest sentence of four years was given to Ahmed Marrouf al-Assadi. Investigators said al-Assadi cooperated with them, and several witnesses have described him as being kind to the hostages.

Classifieds

religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

537-4246 (7tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Color awareness, products. and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont,

hasing

IT NEVER FAILS, I

ALWAYS WAIT TIL

THE LAST MINUTE TO DO A BOOK REPORT.

Bloom County

THE MANAGEMENT

OF THEIR

BUSINESS

OF THIS FEATURE

WOULD LIKE TO SOLICIT

THE OPINIONS OF YOU.

SUBJECT OF SUPPEN IS IT ANY

Garfield

HOW AM I

Peanuts

WOULD YOU LIKE

CHRISTMAS WREATH?

TO BUY A

THE VIEWERS. ON A

AND UNEXPECTED IMPORTANCE... OPUS'

VOD.

NOSE.

mas parties to go, 539-5768. (60-64)

ATTENTION

Reality

LET'S SEE ... I NEED

TO READ ABOUT A

GREAT PHILOSOPHER, BUT I WANT IT TO BE FAIRLY SIMPLE.

BETWEEN NOW AND 7:15 P.M.

1-800-555-6001 IF YOU

PREFER THE NEW, IMPROVED NOSE, 1-800-555-6002 IF YOU

PREFER THE OLD, "CLASSIC" NOSE OR 1-800-555-6003 IF

YOU THINK TV EVANGELIST PAT

ROBERTSON, WITH OR WITHOUT A

NOSE, SHOULD TEAM UP WITH

BHAGWAN SHREE RAJNEESH

AND FORM A REPUBLICAN

IT'S NOT EVEN

THANKS6IVING YET!

2 Record

3 Love god

4 American

Indian

5 Curses

6 Part of

g.e.d.

7 Armed conflict

dance

*DREAM TICKET *

TONIGHT, PLEASE DIAL:

THE ORIGINAL Freeway Singles Club. Free bro-chure, (316)-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State Representatives needed. (27-61)

SOMETHING PRETTY

ON MY OWN LEVEL.

WHEN YOU REACH OUR SWITCHBOARD

YOUR WOTE WILL BE INSTANTLY REGISTERED.. AT WHICH TIME

IMMEDIATELY SAY, "SORRY, YOUR

CALL CAN NOT BE COMPLETED ...

MRS GRABOWSKI HERE WILL

WHICH FOOLS THE PHONE CO.

YES

BY THE TIME CHRISTMAS

COMES, ALL THE NEEDLES

WILL BE FALLING OFF.

INTO NOT CHARGING US

FOR THE CALL

YOU KNOW THOSE TWO POUNDS

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (6tf) WINTER BREAK skiing at Steamboat Springs and Vail from $75, or sunning at South Padre Island and Daytona Beach from $99! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a Sunchase Representative today! When your winter break counts . . . count on Sun-

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

SOMETHING LIKE THIS.

TOMORROW

WE'LL

RELEASE

THE RESULTS.

THEY ARE

REINFORCEMENTS

By Berke Breathed

WHY DO I HAVE

THE FEELING

AND "HONKER

AESTHETICS

MAKE AN

EXPLOSIVE

COMBINATION ?

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

DON'T HANG IT NEAR

THE TURKEY

THAT DEMOCRACY

NEW FROM California-Freeway Singles Club, A new and unique way for K-State singles to meet. Free brochure, 316-264-3742, P.O. Box 3652, Wichita, 67201. K-State representatives needed. (49-

DECEMBER AND May graduates: Consider Peace Corps today. Applications should be mailed in now! Call 532-5714 or come by 108 Waters for more information. (58-67) KANSAS ARMY National Guard - Ask us how we can help you obtain your college education through the new GI Bill and a $10,000 student loan repay-ment plan. Call Adrian A. (Lash) L'Heureux, 913-537-4108. (59-78)

COME DRIVE with us! Complete class requirement in one day on November 23. You'll be driving in two to three weeks. Little Apple Driving School, 539-2715 (anytime). (60-64)

PECANS! PECANS! K.S.U. Horticulture Club Pecan Sale, November 21 and 22—9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., 1st floor Union; 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Waters 41A. 1 lb. pieces, $4.00; 1 lb. shelled halves, $4.50; 5 lb. cracked, $6.50 (61-64)

FOR RENT-MISC

03 COSTUMES-FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggleville. (28tf)

AMHERST SELF Storage, Manhattan's west side 776-3804. (49tf)

MARIE'S RENTAL costumes for all occasions from Statue of Liberty to Santa suits. Choose early, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. (51-75)

FOR RENT-APTS

FIFTY UNITS available for second semester. One and two bedroom apartments near the university Furnished and unfurnished. All price ranges. 776

FURNISHED APARTMENT, 1225 Claffin. 776-9124. AVAILABLE JANUARY-One bedroom near campus

no pets. Also available now, very nice 14 x 70hook-up, campus one mile, no pets. 537-8389, 537-8494, (55-65) FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester

Share nice two bedroom apartment, $150 plus one half electric. 776-3519. (57-61) AVAILABLE NOW (or): One bedroom apartment and two bedroom house. Large yard, utilities paid good location. Both are very nice with all the extra comforts. 539-5015 after 4:00 p.m. (59-63)

NICE ONE bedroom furnished apartment one block from campus, $195. Available January 1. Call 537-1826. (60-64)

Now Leasing 1026 Osage-Parkview

1212 Bluemont-Horizon III Brand new two bedroom apartments. Ask aout receiving free VCR, microwave or $250 cash with

> Call for details 776-3804

FEMALE ROOMMATE, $125, one-half block from campus. Available November 1985. Call 913-877-3288 collect. (60-75)

TWO BEDROOM basement apartment. Available January 1. Call 776-5806 or 532-5883. (60-64)

NON-SMOKING MALE for spring semester. Own bedroom, $160 plus one-third utilities, one-half block off campus. Old roommate wil pay first two hs of rent. Call David, 776-3415. (61-64)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

THREE BEDROOM, block to campus, furnished, appliances. Available January 1. Call 539-4604 after 4:00 p.m. (58-62)

THREE BEDROOM, two bath, family room, gas fireplace, privacy fence back yard, partially furnished walk to campus, up to four people. Call Bill, day 1-296-2263; evening, 1-685-3418. (60-65)

ZVCUKY

FOR SALE-AUTO

LATE 1984 black and silver dual Chevy Silverado, loaded, A-1 condition, 454 auto, 35,000 miles. Joel Wiemer, 913-668-2352/913-668-2214. (52-61) 1976 DATSUN B210, $1,600. Call 539-9202. (59-63)

1976 BUICK Skyhawk-Good condition, 5-speed, as is for $1,000 or best offer. Call 539-4743. (60-62) 1980 VOLKSWAGON Rabbit, 4-speed, excellent gas mileage, sunroof. Good condition, diesel. Call 532-3861, 532-3569. (61-65)

FOR SALE-MISC OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55tf)

FREE MAGNUM HAT with every two bags purchased

21% Magnum Dog Food-$9.95/50 pounds 27% Magnum Hi-Protein

Dog Food-11.95/50 pounds 30% Magnum Puppy Food-$7.45/25 pounds

Manhattan Milling Co. Inc. 107 Pierre Street, Manhattan

BLACK LABRADOR pups, Six weeks old, Excellent hunting stock, $30. Call 537-8367, (56-64)

Sub of the Week SPICEY

The best submarine joint in Aggieville

AL'S DELI

South of Baskin Robbins

MEN'S 28" Free Spirit, red, 10 speed - excellent condition. Call 776-3519. (57-61)

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound Hamburger

69¢

The Ritz

One burger per coupon. MINOLTA X-570 35mm camera; Tamron 35-70 zoom lens, Tamrac 612 Pro-bag; Smith-Victor Lighting System, 776-1909. (59-64) Strings and Drumsticks

second set at

Buy one set and get

50% Off DOD Guitar Effects Units

30% Off Prices from $41.97

Hayes House of Music

223 Poyntz

IBM-PC 256K—color monitor, Internal 1200B mo-dem; Okidata 92 printer; Lotus 1-2-3. $4,500 or best offer. Call 913-265-4663 after 7:00 p.m. (60-75)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 8 1965 BARON-10 x 50, two bedroom, living room dining area, kitchen, bathroom. Furnished, partly remodeled, $3,500. Rocky Ford. 776-9250 evenings or (316) 223-3008 during Thanksgiving week. (61-65)

FOUND 10 FOUND-GIRL'S Osceola High 1984 class ring, at

4th and Houston, Manhattan. 1-494-2770 to identify. (60-64) FOUND: BASKETBALL, west campus. Call 539-5084 after 5:00 p.m. and identify (61-63) KEY FOUND in women's locker room in Field House.

Call 539-9436 after 1:00 p.m. to identify (61-63)

HELP WANTED SUMMER JOBS! National Park Co.'s. 21 parks-

5,000 + openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report. Mission Mountain Co., 651 2nd Ave. WN, Kalispell, MT. 59901. (55-63)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 250 placed by us. You should enjoy creative childcare, be willing to relocate East for a 9-12 month commitment for great salary, benefits and working conditions.
Round trip air transportation provided. Warm, loving families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, Inc., 33 Whipple Rd., Wilton, CT, 08897, (203) 834-1742. No fee. (56-68)

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year round. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625. (58GRILL HELP wanted immediately. Experience re quired, 15-20 hours per week. Apply in person, Mr K's, Aggieville. (58tf)

INTERNSHIP OPEN: Kansas Rural Center, a nonprofit, research, education and advocacy organiza-tion focusing on agricultural, natural resource, and rural issues, is offering a one year full time In-ternship involving research in "Alternative Agriculture: The Feasibility of Transition from Conven-tional Agriculture." Degree, writing, and research skills required, $900/month. Send resume and writing sample to: M. Fund, Kansas Rural Center, 304 Pratt, Whiting, Ks. 66552. (59-63)

MANHATTAN EMERGENCY Shelter, Inc. seeks a weekend relief staff. Responsibilities include guest intakes, enforcement of house rules, meal supervision and house clean up. Write 831 Leavenworth or call 537-3113 for application. (60-

NOW HIRING-Part-time to full-time seamstress. Must be willing to work in store. Apply in person Monday or Tuesday at Brass Buckle. (60-61)

PART-TIME administrative position in a non-profit, student-operated campus resource center. Graduate in journalism or counseling preferred. Full job description available at U-LearN, Holton Hall 02. Resume and letter of application should be ad-dressed to Dr. Susan Scott Angle, Counseling Center, Holton 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Ks. 66506. Application deadline is Novembe 26, 1985. (60-63)

NOTICES TOSTADOS! TOSTADOS! All you can eat! Build your own with taco meat and refried beans. Top 'em with shredded lettuce, chopped tomatoes, grated cheese, sour cream, green onions, taco and salsa sauce. Tuesday, November 19, in the K-State Union Stateroom. (60-61) 16

PERSONAL

TO TOM in B-3 lot who took me to gas station: Thank you tubs for helping me out! Damsel in Distress. (Hope your car is running!). (61)

DAVID, I know we are having our ups and downs; but we have before and survived—thanks to your love and faith. It's my turn-I love you. (61)

JACQUE S .- Congratulations on your fine performance at Stillwater! -SDK (61)

MLH-TO the best friend ever. The time is near for TNS to reappear. Party Animal, moons, balloons and TV shows (LMAD) are your specialty. We have had great times in the past, and the future will be even better. Happy 22nd B-Day! Alter. (61) GAMMA PHI's-Tuesdays don't have to be dull and normal; we'll be over at six, ready to mingle and mix, for fun that's not too formal. Your dinner date-Kappa's. (61)

LINDA-HAVE a happy 22nd. We'll party later. Love.

MATT H .: Saturday was it. Can you believe it - I miss you already. Thanks for helping make my first three years of band such fun ones. Best of luck in all the future holds. Signed, "Your love." (61)

17

BECKY-THANKS for a great year. What more can I say Love, Bryce (61)

ANDY SCHRAG: I hope you have a Super Birthday! I miss you! Love, Becky. (61)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE TO share nice quiet apartment-Fireplace. dishwasher, own room. Call 776-3070, keep trying. (58-62)NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share one bedroom apartment across from Marlatt Hall on Claffin. Laundry facilities, $113.08 plus one-half utilities. 776-2415. Keep trying. (59-63) NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share large house within walking distance to campus. Will have own bedroom, utilities paid, washer/dryer available Call Chris, 539-6628 (60-64) NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share apartment with three females. $112.50 plus one-fourth utilities.

539-4803. (61-64) FEMALE FOR spring semester, $116/month plus one-third utilities. Close to campus and Aggieville 539-1852 (61-63)

NON-SMOKING male for spring semester—own bedroom, cable TV, only $137.50, no utilities. Call

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Close to campus. Call Laura, 776-1597. (61-64)

SERVICES MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (31-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f) WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (13tf)

TYPING/WORD Processing/disk storage. Professionally written resumes, cover letters, etc. 539-5007 after 5:00 p.m. (35-65) VW REPAIRS and bug restoration. See the expert at

J&L Bug Service. Rabbit's, bugs, ghia's and type 3's welcome. 1-494-2388 St. George. (45-64) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-Zenith computer, letter quality printer. Very reasonable rates. Phone 537-9205/532-5961. Ask for Dorinda. (52-61)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS-Suits, coats, jeans, zippers All types of alterations, 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, 776-7959. (54-70)

TYPING: RESUMES, dissertations, reports. Comput erized letter quality printing. Nikki Cox, Word Ser vices. 539-6912 or 539-3773. (60-65) PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (61-62)

SUBLEASE

TWO-BEDROOM upstairs apartment. Two blocks from campus, nice. Available January 1st. $270 month plus utilities. 539-9500 evenings. (55-64)

20

21 WANTED NEED 100 overweight people to try new Herbal weight lose products. Teresa, 776-0713 or 776-5114. (58-62)

Program grades 1-12 for winter semester. Excel-lent opportunity to get experience in education, leadership, and community work. Call Tom Reb at 532-6984 or 776-6566. (61-65) AMBITIOUS CAREER-minded persons that would like to earn extra cash for college, leadership training, and more paid education. If so, call Bob, 537-

NEEDED: SITE coordinators for Friendship Tutoring

rossword 39 Tokyo,

ACROSS 1 Asterisk 5 Morning moisture

12 Rich fabric 13 Macaw 14 Opera highlight animal 16 Old Line State 18 Green Mountain

15 Footless

State 20 Brass for one 21 Paid

notices 22 Anger 23 Pine Tree

State 26 Treasure State

30 Pienie pest 31 River in France

32 British business initials 33 Equality

State 36 Gem State 38 Conclude

40 Close, to Keats 8 Pagan god 43 Sunshine State 47 Old Dominion 49 Humor

once

50 British 8 Classical queen 51 Skill 9 Soviet 52 Sight in Sicily 53 Gaze

Croat

10 Japanese 11 Titled askance 54 Stinger 55 Reckless DOWN 1 Serb or woman 17 Tall tale 19 Poem atom

22 Charged Avg. solution time: 26 min.

27 Neighbor of Miss. 28 Extreme degree 29 Fuss

31 Bacon eggs 34 Scant aborigine 35 Crucifix initials

36 Witness box words 37 Kind of window

39 Gladden 40 Grandparental 41 Broadway musical

43 Discharge 44 Tiny bit 45 Actor Ameche et al. 46 Biblical name

crook

bird

NDTU; NU NWY W ZLHH NDLMU Yesterday's Cryptoquip: A GOURMET DETECTIVE CAN GRILL MOST DREADED SUSPECTS IN PRIVATE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals G

MUKY NCM

